WITH THE APOCRYPHA

THE Old Testament, the New Testament, and the fourteen books of the Apocrypha are here made available in one volume in the American translation.

The Smith-Goodspeed translation of the Bible was first published in 1931. In the succeeding time, it has become generally accepted for its scholarship and much loved for the simplicity and directness of its language—"the clearest window through which Americans may look into the minds of those who wrote the Hebrew and Greek originals," says The Christian Century.

"This publication means a real advance in American scholarship. All Americans are indebted to the patient and accurate scholarship in this important version."—Journal of Bible and Religion.

"The work is in pure, beautiful, clear, often incisive English, and it is delightful to read."—Christian Evangelist.

"The aim is to give us the meaning of the original texts as understood by their original readers and yet clothe this meaning in worthy English. Altogether it is a treasure to the reader and especially to the student of the Bible."—Presbyterian Banner.

THE rapid advance of learning in recent years in the fields of history, archaeology, and language has thrown new light upon every part of the Bible. At the same time our changing English speech has carried us farther and farther from the sixteenth-century diction in which all our standard versions of it are clothed.

Yet the great messages of the Old and New Testaments were never more necessary than in our present confused and hurried life. We have, therefore, sought to produce a new translation of them, based upon the assured results of modern study, and put in the familiar language of today. We do this in the hope that, through its use, the literary appreciation, the historical understanding, and the religious influence of the Bible may be furthered in our generation.

It has been truly said that no one can have the complete Bible, as a source book for the cultural study of art, literature, history, and religion, without the Apocrypha. From the earliest Christian times down to the age of the King James Version, they belonged to the Bible; and, while modern critical judgments and religious attitudes deny them a position of equality with the Old and New Testament scriptures, historically and culturally they are still an integral part of the Bible. A new translation of the Apocrypha, the first ever made of them throughout from the most ancient languages in which they are preserved, is accordingly included in this edition.

Dr. Smith and I felt that in introducing the American translation to the public we could not do better than to repeat some sentences from the noble Preface of the King James Version of 1611, which was the third Authorized Version, and the sixth revision of the English Bible:

"We are so farre off from condemning any of their labours that traueiled before vs in this kinde, either in this land or beyond sea . . . that we acknowledge them to have beene raised vp of God, . . . and that they deserue to be had of vs and of posteritie in everlasting remembrance. . . . Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that breake the yce and give the onset vpon that which helpeth forward to the saving of soules. Now what can bee more auailable thereto, than to deliuer Gods booke vnto Gods people in a tongue which they vnderstand? . . .

"So, if we building vpon their foundation that went before vs, and being holpen by their labours, doe endeavour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike vs; they, we perswade ourselues, if they were aliuie, would thanke vs.

"For is the kingdome of God become words or syllables? Why should wee be in bondage to them if we may be free. . . .?"

PREFACE

WHY should anyone make a new English translation of the Old Testament? With the Authorized Version of King James and the British and American revisions, to say nothing of unofficial renderings, have we not enough? This question may quite fairly be asked. The only possible basis for a satisfactory answer must be either in a better knowledge of Hebrew than was possible at the time when the earlier translations were made, or in a fuller appreciation of fundamental textual problems, or in a clearer recognition of poetic structures, or in such a change in our own language as would render the language of the older translations more or less unintelligible to the average man of our day. As a matter of fact, our answer is to be found in all of these areas.

The most urgent demand for a new translation comes from the field of Hebrew scholarship. The control of the Hebrew vocabulary and syntax available to the scholar of today is vastly greater than that at the command of the translators of the Authorized Version or of its revisers. This is due partly to the greater degree of scientific methodology now practiced in the study of language in general and of Hebrew in particular, and partly to the contributions made to our knowledge of Hebrew by the decipherment of the hieroglyphic and cuneiform writings. The first requirement of a translation is that it should reproduce as fully and accurately as possible the meaning of the original documents. To this end the translators should know the language of the original as well as it can be known.

Modern studies of textual problems reinforce the need for a new rendering. These have brought out more and more clearly the uncertain state of the Hebrew text and have perfected the technique of critical method. The science of textual criticism has made great progress in recent years, and no translation of the Old Testament can afford to ignore its results. Our guiding principle has been that the official Massoretic text must be adhered to as long as it made satisfactory sense. We have not tried to create a new text; but rather to translate the received text wherever translation was possible. Where departure from this text was imperative we have sought a substitute for it along generally approved lines, depending primarily upon the collateral versions, having recourse to scientific conjecture only when the versions failed to afford adequate help. If the number of such passages seems to him unduly large, he should bear in mind certain facts. The oldest known Hebrew manuscript of the Old Testament dates from the ninth century A.D. This means that at least eighteen centuries elapsed between the earliest Hebrew written documents and our oldest manuscript; and that between the latest Hebrew document now found in the Old Testament and our oldest manuscript there was a lapse of approximately eleven centuries. Moreover, the original Hebrew text included only the consonants. The vowels were not added until about the seventh century A.D.<sup>1</sup>

Naturally many more errors are found in the vocalic part of the text than in the much older consonantal element. A vowel change naturally involves a very much slighter correction than is involved in a change of consonants. Anyone who has had experience in handling ancient manuscripts will be surprised, not that there are so many corrupt passages, but rather that under the circumstances there are so few. We trust that our attitude in this fundamentally important matter will commend itself to careful and cautious scholars.

The last half-century has developed a great interest in the stylistic qualities of Hebrew poetry. Much of the text that had long passed for prose is now recognized as really poetic in both form and spirit. This adds to the necessity for a new translation. Poetry should not be printed as prose. The present translation brings into clear light many of the hidden beauties of Hebrew poetry. The text is printed in poetic lines as clearly indicated by the parallelism of the structure. In cases where the elegiac measure is employed in Hebrew, the text indicates it by a deep indentation of the second or short line. Where the content and the form both point to the presence of strophes the text has been printed in stanzas. Where such structure is not clearly shown the poetic lines are left to follow one another without a break.

The English of King James's day is not wholly natural or clear to the average man at the present time. In common everyday speech "thou," "thee," and "thy" are no longer used; they have been retained here when they occur in language addressed to God, since they convey a more reverent feeling than the blunt "you." The endings "est" for the second person and "eth" for the third person singular of verbs are now archaic. The same holds true of "ye" for "you," "waxen" for "waxed," and "lade" for "load." The use of "vinegar" in the sense of a wine or liquor for drinking has long since ceased to be recognized. "To ear" in the sense of "to plow" or "to till" is obsolete; so are "marish" for "marsh," "scrabble" for "scratch," "in the audience of" for "in the hearing of," "all to" for "altogether," and many others like them. Time has wrought changes in the usage of words. The translators of the King James Version were casting no aspersion upon the character of womankind in general when they said, "Who can find a virtuous woman?" The word "virtuous" for them had its old force brought over from the Latin virtus. But today, when applied to woman, the word will almost inevitably be taken in a more specialized sense, and so be misunderstood. The same charge lies against "virtuously." The word "prevent" once meant "to anticipate," but is now used in the sense of "to hinder"; consequently its old usage in passages like Psalms 119:147 f. puzzles modern readers. Facts like these make the reading of the Bible a scholarly rather than a religious exercise, and clearly point toward the need of a new translation.

The translator to do his best work must be in sympathy with his subject matter and be able to put himself into mental and spiritual contact with its authors. From this side of his work the demand made upon him is a very heavy one. On the other hand, a translation should read well. It should be in a vocabulary and style appropriate to the thought which it is designed to express. If the original be dignified, impressive, and eloquent, those qualities must not be lacking in the translation; if it be trivial, commonplace, and prosaic, the translation must take on the same character. The content of the Old Testament is, with little exception, upon a high literary plane. The language of the translation, therefore, cannot be allowed to fall to the level of the street. In this translation the foregoing principles have been kept constantly in mind. It tries to be American in the sense that the writings of Lincoln, Roosevelt, and Wilson are American. This does not imply any limitation of our mother-tongue, but if anything an enrichment of it. Least of all does it mean that the translation is for Americans only; it aims at being easily understood wherever English is spoken. In general we have been loyal to the Hebrew in its use of symbolic and figurative language; occasionally where such figures would not be clear to the reader, we have translated the figure into more familiar terms.

One detail of the translation which requires explanation is the treatment of the divine name. As nearly as we can now tell, the Hebrews called their Deity by the name Yahweh, and in a shorter form, Yah, used in relatively few cases. In course of time they came to regard this name as too sacred for utterance. They therefore substituted for it the Hebrew word for "Lord." When vowels were added to the text, the consonants of "Yahweh" were given the vowels of "Lord." Somewhere in the fourteenth century A.D. Christian scholars, not understanding this usage, took the vowels and consonants exactly as they were written and produced the artificial name "Jehovah" which has persisted ever since. In this translation we have followed the orthodox Jewish tradition and substituted "the Lord" for the name "Yahweh" and the phrase "the Lord God" for the phrase "the Lord Yahweh." In all cases where "Lord" or "God" represents an original "Yahweh" small capitals are employed. Anyone, therefore, who desires to retain the flavor of the original text has but to read "Yahweh" wherever he sees LORD or GOD.

The translators and the University Press have sought to give this work the appearance of a modern book. This purpose has determined the make-up of the page and has led to the addition of headings for paragraphs, and to the insertion of some half-titles. It has also kept the verse numbers out of the text and relegated them to the margin, so that the reading of the text may not be interrupted.

The work of translation has been shared by four men: Professor Alex. R. Gordon, of the United Theological College and McGill University, Montreal; Professor Theophile J. Meeck, of the University of Toronto; Professor Leroy Waterman, of the University of Michigan; and the Editor. Each of them carries the primary responsibility for his own work. The Editor has left his fellow-workers free to express themselves as they would, and has aimed at uniformity only in the most essential matters. If it be felt that each translator has his own style, this should not be regarded as a defect, for each document in the Old Testament has a style of its own, and the extent to which such stylistic characteristics are ignored by translators is a measure of their failure. Each book ought to speak its own message in its own way, even in a translation.

The Editor wishes to express his appreciation of the self-sacrificing labor of his fellow-translators, of their conscientious devotion to the work and of their prompt responsiveness to his few suggestions. Only by such faithful and hearty co-operation could our common task have attained any measure of success.

We are well aware that in undertaking the task of presenting the Old Testament to the modern world in its own speech we have undertaken the impossible. No translation can preserve intact the full content and the symmetrical beauty of the original; in the transition from the old language to the new, much must be lost by the way. We can but hope that we have not fallen too far short of the summit of perfection; and that our work may at least serve as a stepping-stone toward those greater translations which time will surely bring.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

FOR the revision of the translation of the Old Testament we are indebted to Professor Theophile J. Meek of the University of Toronto. In the first edition Professor Meek translated the Pentateuch and contributed to the translation of the Historical Books, the Poetical Books, and the Books of the Prophets. He knows the whole translation as only a participant can, and with the co-operation of Professor Leroy Waterman of the University of Michigan, also one of the original translators, he has applied his special knowledge of the problems of this translation and his wide familiarity with the Hebrew language, literature, and institutions to the work of revision. In it he has followed two principal lines: on the one hand he has established a greater degree of uniformity of style and expression in the versions of the four translators; and on the other, he has used the results of the most recent investigations in the interpretation of doubtful passages. Hebrew scholarship is moving fast, and even the few years that have elapsed since the first edition was issued in 1931 have seen contributions to the subject that neither translator nor publisher can ignore. We are under special obligation to Professor Meek for undertaking so exacting a task at a time when he was already actively engaged in other important work.

THE BOOK OF GENESIS

THE STORY OF CREATION.

1:1-2:3

- 1 WHEN God began to create
2 the heavens and the earth,
3 the earth was a desolate waste, with darkness covering the abyss and a tempestuous wind raging over the surface of the waters.
4 Then God said,
"Let there be light!"
5 And there was light; and God saw that the light was good. God then separated the light from the darkness.
6 God called the light day, and the darkness night. Evening came, and morning, the first day.
7 Then God said,
"Let there be a firmament in the middle of the waters to divide the waters in two!"
8 And so it was. God made the firmament, dividing the waters that were below the firmament from those that were above it; and God called the firmament sky. Evening came, and morning, the second day.
9 Then God said,
"Let the waters below the sky be gathered into one place so that the dry land may appear!"
10 And so it was. God called the dry land earth, and the gathered waters seas. God saw that it was good.
11 Then God said,
"Let the earth produce vegetation, seed-bearing plants and the various kinds of fruit-trees that bear fruit containing their seed!" 12 And so it was. The earth brought forth vegetation, the various kinds of seed-bearing plants and the various kinds of trees that bear fruit containing their seed. God saw that it was good.
13 Evening came, and morning, the third day.
14 Then God said,
"Let there be luminaries in the firmament of the sky to separate day from night; let them serve for signs, for fixed 15 times, and for days and years; and let them serve as luminaries in the firmament of the sky to shed light on the earth!"

And so it was. God made the two 16 great luminaries, the greater luminary to rule the day and the smaller one to rule the night—and the stars also. God 17 set them in the firmament of the sky to shed light on the earth, to rule by day 18 and by night, and to separate the light from the darkness. God saw that it was good. Evening came, and morning, the 19 fourth day.

Then God said, 20

"Let the waters teem with shoals of living creatures, and let birds fly over the earth across the firmament of the sky!"

And so it was. God created the great 21 sea-monsters and all the various kinds of living, gliding creatures with which the waters teem, and all the various kinds of winged birds. God saw that it was good, and God blessed them, say- 22
ing,

"Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the waters in the seas; and let the birds multiply on the earth!"

Evening came, and morning, the 23 fifth day.

Then God said, 24

"Let the earth bring forth the various kinds of living creatures, the various kinds of domestic animals, reptiles, and wild beasts of the earth!"

And so it was. God made the various 25 kinds of wild beasts of the earth, the various kinds of domestic animals, and all the various kinds of land reptiles;
and God saw that it was good.

Then God said, 26

"Let us make man in our image, after our likeness, and let him have dominion over the fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the domestic animals, the wild beasts, and all the land reptiles!"

So God created man in his own im- 27 age; in the image of God he created him; he created both male and female.
Then God blessed them, and God said 28
to them,

"Be fruitful, multiply, fill the earth, and subdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the domestic animals, and all the living things that crawl on the earth!"

29 Further, God said,

"See, I give you all the seed-bearing plants that are found all over the earth, and all the trees which have seed-bearing fruit; it shall be yours to eat. To all the wild beasts of the earth, to all the birds of the air, and to all the land reptiles, in which there is a living spirit, I give all the green plants for food."

31 And so it was. God saw that all that he had made was very good. Evening came, and morning, the sixth day.

2 Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all their host. On the seventh day God brought his work to an end on which he had been engaged, desisting on the seventh day from all his work in which he had been engaged. So God blessed the seventh day, and consecrated it, because on it he had desisted from all his work, in doing which God had brought about creation.

THE CREATION AND FALL OF MAN, 2:4—3:24

4 The following are the origins of the heavens and the earth in their creation.

At the time when the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, there were as yet no field shrubs on the earth, and no field plants had as yet sprung up; for the LORD God had sent no rain on the earth, and there was no man to till the soil—although a flood used to rise from the earth and water all the surface of the ground. Then the LORD God molded man out of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, so that man became a living being. Then the LORD God planted a garden in Eden, to the east, and put there the man whom he had molded. Out of the ground the LORD God made all sorts of trees grow that were pleasant to the sight and good for food, as well as the tree of life in the middle of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

10 There was a river flowing out of Eden to water the garden, and leaving there it divided into four branches; the name of the first being Pishon (the one which encircles all the land of Havilah, where there is gold—the gold of that land is 12 fine—and bdellium and onyx stone); the name of the second river, Gihon 13 (the one which encircles all the land of Cush); the name of the third river, the 14 Tigris (the one which flows east of Ashur); and the name of the fourth river, the Euphrates.

The LORD God took the man and 15 put him in the garden of Eden to till it and look after it; and the LORD God 16 laid this command upon the man:

"From every tree in the garden you are free to eat; but from the tree of the 17 knowledge of good and evil you must not eat; for the day that you eat of it you shall certainly die."

Then the LORD God said, 18
"It is not good for the man to be alone; I must make a helper for him who is like him."

So the LORD God molded out of the 19 ground all the wild beasts and all the birds of the air, and brought them to the man to see what he would call them; whatever the man should call each living creature, that was to be its name. So the man gave names to all the 20 domestic animals, the birds of the air, and all the wild beasts; but for man himself no helper was found who was like him. Then the LORD God had a 21 trance fall upon the man; and when he had gone to sleep, he took one of his ribs, closing up its place with flesh. The 22 rib which he took from the man the LORD God built up into a woman, and brought her to the man, whereupon 23 the man said,

"This at last is bone of my bone,

And flesh of my flesh;

She shall be called woman,

For from man was she taken."

(That is why a man leaves his father 24 and mother, and clings to his wife, so that they form one flesh.)

Both of them were naked, the man 25 and his wife, but they felt no shame.

Now the serpent was the most clever 3 of all the wild beasts that the LORD God had made.

"And so God has said that you are not to eat from any tree of the garden?" he said to the woman.

"From the fruit of the trees of the 2 garden we may eat," the woman said to the serpent; "it is only concerning the 3 fruit of the tree which is in the middle of the garden that God has said, 'You

- may not eat any of it, nor touch it, lest you die.' "
- 4 But the serpent said to the woman,
5 "You would not die at all; for God knows that the very day you eat of it, your eyes will be opened, and you will be like gods who know good from evil."
- 6 So when the woman realized that the tree was good for food and attractive to the eye, and further, that the tree was desirable for its gift of wisdom, she took some of its fruit, and ate it; she also gave some to her husband with her, and 7 he ate. Then the eyes of both of them were opened, and they realized that they were naked; so they sewed fig-leaves together, and made themselves
8 girdles. But when they heard the sound of the LORD God taking a walk in the garden for the breezes of the day, the man and his wife hid themselves from the LORD God among the trees of the 9 garden. The LORD God called to the man.
"Where are you?" he said to him.
10 "I heard the sound of thee in the garden," he replied, "and I was afraid, because I was naked; so I hid myself."
11 "Who told you that you were naked?" he said. "Have you eaten from the tree from which I commanded you not to eat?"
12 The man said,
"The woman whom thou didst set at my side, it was she who gave me fruit from the tree; so I ate it."
13 Then the LORD God said to the woman,
"What ever have you done?"
The woman said,
"It was the serpent that misled me, and so I ate it." 14 So the LORD God said to the serpent,
"Because you have done this, The most cursed of all animals shall you be,
And of all wild beasts.
On your belly you shall crawl, and eat dust,
As long as you live.
15 I will put enmity between you and the woman,
And between your posterity and hers; They shall attack you in the head, And you shall attack them in the heel."
16 To the woman he said,

"I will make your pain at child-birth very great;
In pain shall you bear children; And yet you shall be devoted to your husband, While he shall rule over you."
And to the man he said, 17
"Because you followed your wife's suggestions, and ate from the tree from which I commanded you not to eat, Cursed shall be the ground through you,
In suffering shall you gain your living from it as long as you live; Thorns and thistles shall it produce for 18 you,
So that you will have to eat wild plants. By the sweat of your brow shall you 19 earn your living,
Until you return to the ground, Since it was from it that you were taken;
For dust you are,
And to dust you must return."

The man called his wife's name Eve 20 [mother], because she was the mother of all living beings.

The LORD God made skin tunics for 21 the man and his wife, and clothed them.

Then the LORD God said, 22
"See, the man has become like one of us, in knowing good from evil; and now, suppose he were to reach out his hand and take the fruit of the tree of life also, and eating it, live forever!"

So the LORD God expelled him from 23 the garden of Eden, to till the ground from which he had been taken; he 24 drove the man out, and stationed the cherubim east of the garden of Eden, with the flaming, whirling sword to guard the way to the tree of life.

THE EARLY DESCENDANTS OF ADAM, 4:1—5:32

The man had intercourse with his 4 wife Eve; so she conceived and bore Cain. Then she said,

"I have won back my husband; the LORD is with me!"

Later she bore his brother, Abel. 2 Abel was a shepherd, while Cain was a tiller of the soil.

In the course of time Cain brought 3 some produce of the soil as an offering to the LORD, while Abel on his part 4 brought some firstlings from his flock, that is, some fat pieces from them. The LORD took notice of Abel and his offering; but of Cain and his offering he took no notice. So Cain became very angry and downcast. Then the LORD said to Cain,

7 "Why are you angry, and why are you downcast? If you have been doing right, should you not be happy? But if you have not, sin will be lurking at the door. And yet he is devoted to you, while you rule over him."

8 Then Cain said to his brother Abel, "Let us go off into the country."

When they were out in the country, Cain attacked his brother Abel, and murdered him.

9 Then the LORD said to Cain, "Where is your brother Abel?" "I do not know," he said. "Am I my brother's keeper?"

10 Whereupon he said, "What have you done? Hark, your brother's blood is crying to me from the 11 ground! And now, cursed shall you be in banishment from the soil which has opened its mouth to receive your brother's blood from your hand. 12 Though you were to till the soil, never again would it yield you its full produce; a vagrant and vagabond shall you be on the earth."

13 Cain said to the LORD, 14 "My punishment is too great to bear. Seeing that thou hast today driven me off the soil, I must remain hidden from thee; I must be a vagrant and a vagabond in the earth, and then anyone who comes across me will kill me."

15 So the LORD said to him, "In that case, sevenfold vengeance shall be taken on anyone who kills Cain."

Then the LORD prescribed a mark for Cain, to prevent anyone who chanced upon him from hurting him.

16 So Cain left the presence of the LORD, and settled in the land of Nod, east of Eden.

17 Cain had intercourse with his wife; so she conceived and bore Enoch. Then he became the builder of a city, and named the city after his son, Enoch.

18 To Enoch was born Irad; and Irad was the father of Mehujael. Mehujael was the father of Methushael, and Methu-

19 shael of Lamech. Lamech married two wives, the name of one being Adah, and 20 the name of the other Zillah. Adah bore Jabal, who was the ancestor of those who live in tents as shepherds; his brother's name was Jubal, who was 21 the ancestor of all who play the lyre and pipe. Zillah in turn bore Tubal-cain, 22 the forger of bronze and iron utensils; and the sister of Tubal-cain was Namah.

Lamech said to his wives, 23 "Adah and Zillah, hear my voice, You wives of Lamech, give ear to my words:

I kill a man for wounding me, And a boy for striking me.

If Cain is to be avenged sevenfold, 24 Then Lamech seventy and sevenfold!"

Adam again had intercourse with his 25 wife, who bore a son, and called his name Seth, saying,

"God has given me another child in place of Abel; since Cain slew him."

Seth in turn had a son born to him, 26 and called his name Enosh. It was then that men began to call upon the name of the LORD.

The following is the list of Adam's 5 descendants.

When God created man, it was in the likeness of God that he made him; both 2 male and female he created; he blessed them, and at the time of their creation he called them man.

After living one hundred and thirty 3 years Adam had a child born to him in his own likeness, resembling himself, and he called his name Seth. Adam 4 lived eight hundred years after the birth of Seth, and was the father of other sons and daughters. Thus Adam 5 lived altogether nine hundred and thirty years; and then he died.

After living one hundred and five 6 years Seth became the father of Enosh; Seth lived eight hundred and seven 7 years after the birth of Enosh, and was the father of other sons and daughters. Thus Seth lived altogether nine hun- 8 dred and twelve years; and then he died.

After living ninety years Enosh be- 9 came the father of Kenan; Enosh lived 10 eight hundred and fifteen years after the birth of Kenan, and was the father of other sons and daughters. Thus 11 Enosh lived altogether nine hundred and five years; and then he died.

After living seventy years Kenan be- 12 came the father of Mahalalel; Kenan 13 lived eight hundred and forty years after the birth of Mahalalel, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

14 Thus Kenan lived altogether nine hundred and ten years; and then he died.

15 After living sixty-five years, Mahalalel became the father of Jared; Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years after the birth of Jared, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

17 Thus Mahalalel lived altogether eight hundred and ninety-five years; and then he died.

18 After living one hundred and sixty-two years Jared became the father of Enoch; Jared lived eight hundred years after the birth of Enoch, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

20 Thus Jared lived altogether nine hundred and sixty-two years; and then he died.

21 After living sixty-five years Enoch became the father of Methuselah; Enoch walked with God for three hundred years after the birth of Methuselah, and was the father of other sons and daughters. Thus Enoch lived altogether three hundred and sixty-five years. Enoch walked with God, and then he disappeared; for God took him away.

25 After living one hundred and eighty-seven years Methuselah became the father of Lamech; Methuselah lived seven hundred and eighty-two years after the birth of Lamech, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

27 Thus Methuselah lived altogether nine hundred and sixty-nine years; and then he died.

28 After living one hundred and eighty-two years Lamech had a son born to him, and called his name Noah, saying, "This is the one, after our work and the labor of our hands, to bring us consolation from the very soil which the LORD cursed."

30 Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years after the birth of Noah, and was the father of other sons and daughters. Thus Lamech lived altogether seven hundred and seventy-seven years; and then he died.

32 After Noah had become five hundred years old, he became the father of Shem, Ham, and Japheth.

THE ORIGIN OF THE GIANTS,

6 Presently when men began to grow numerous over the earth, and had daughters born to them, the sons of the gods noticed that the daughters of men were attractive; so they married those whom they liked best. Then the LORD said,

"My spirit must not remain in man forever, inasmuch as he is flesh. Accordingly, his lifetime shall be one hundred and twenty years."

In those days, as well as afterward, there were giants on the earth, who were born to the sons of the gods whenever they had intercourse with the daughters of men; these were the heroes who were men of note in days of old.

THE STORY OF THE FLOOD,

6:5-9:17

When the LORD saw that the wickedness of man on the earth was great, and that the whole bent of his thinking was never anything but evil, the LORD regretted that he had ever made man on the earth, and he was grieved to the heart. So the LORD said,

"I will blot the men that I have created off the face of the ground, both men and animals, reptiles, and birds of the air; for I regret that I ever made them."

Noah, however, had found favor with the LORD.

The following are the descendants of Noah. Noah alone among his contemporaries was a pious and exceedingly good man; Noah walked with God. Noah had three sons born to him, Shem, Ham, and Japheth. Now in God's sight, the earth was corrupt; the earth was full of wrong-doing; God saw that the earth was corrupt; for every mortal on the earth had corrupted his life. So God said to Noah,

"I have resolved on the extermination of all mortals; for the earth is full of wrong-doing through them; I am going to exterminate them from the earth. Make yourself an ark of olean-der wood; make the ark with cabins, and smear it with bitumen inside and out. This is how you are to make it: the length of the ark is to be three hundred cubits, its breadth fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits; you are to make a roof for the ark, finishing it off on top to the width of a cubit; and the doorway of the ark you are to put in its side; you are to make it with lower, sec-

17 ond, and third decks. I on my part am about to bring a flood upon the earth, to destroy every mortal from under the heavens, who has the breath of life in him; everything that is on the earth shall perish. But with you I will make a covenant; you shall enter the ark, accompanied by your sons, your wife, and your sons' wives. Also, of all living creatures, of all animals, you must have two of every kind enter the ark, to keep them alive with you; they are to be a male and a female. Of the various kinds of birds, the various kinds of animals, and all the various kinds of reptiles, two of every kind are to join you, that you may keep them alive. Take also some of every kind of edible food, and store it by you, to be food for yourself and them."

22 Noah did so; he did just as God had commanded him.

7 The LORD said to Noah,

"Enter the ark, with all your household; for you alone of the present age have I found righteous. Of all clean animals, you are to take seven pairs, a male with its mate; but of the animals that are not clean a pair, a male with its mate; likewise, of the birds of the air seven pairs, a male and a female—to keep their kind alive all over the earth. For in seven days' time I am going to make it rain for forty days and nights on the earth, to blot off the face of the earth every living thing that I have made."

5 Noah did just as God had commanded him.

6 Noah was six hundred years old when the flood came on the earth.

7 Noah, with his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives, went into the ark to escape the waters of the flood. Of the clean animals and of those that were not clean, of the birds, and of all the reptiles, a pair of each, a male and a female, joined Noah in the ark, as God had commanded Noah. Then, at the end of the seven days the waters of the flood came on the earth.

11 In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, on the seventeenth day of the second month, on that very day the fountains of the great abyss were all broken open, and the windows of the heavens were opened. (The rain fell on the earth for forty days and nights.) That same day Noah, with Shem, Ham, and Japheth, Noah's sons, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons accompanying them, went into the ark, together with all the various kinds of wild beasts, all the various kinds of domestic animals, all the various kinds of land reptiles, and all the various kinds of birds, everything with feathers and wings; of all creatures in which there was the breath of life, a pair of each joined Noah in the ark. Those that entered were a male and a female of every kind of animal, as God had commanded him. Then the LORD shut him in.

The flood continued for forty days upon the earth. The waters mounted, and lifted the ark so that it rose above the earth. The waters rose and increased greatly on the earth, so that the ark floated on the surface of the waters. The waters rose higher and higher on the earth, until the highest mountains everywhere under the heavens were all covered. Fifteen cubits above them the waters rose, so that the mountains were covered. Every creature that moved on the earth perished, including birds, domestic animals, wild beasts, all the land reptiles, and all mankind. Of all that was on the land, everything in whose nostrils was the breath of life died; every living thing was blotted off the face of the earth, both men and animals and reptiles and birds; they were blotted off the earth, so that Noah alone was left, and those that were with him in the ark. The waters rose on the earth for one hundred and fifty days.

Then God remembered Noah, and all the wild and domestic animals that were with him in the ark; so God made a wind blow over the earth, and the waters subsided. Likewise, the fountains of the abyss and the windows of the heavens were closed. The rain from the heavens ceased, and the waters abated steadily from the earth. At the end of one hundred and fifty days the waters subsided, so that on the seventeenth day of the seventh month the ark grounded on the mountains of Ararat. The waters subsided steadily until the tenth month; and on the first day of the tenth month the tops of the mountains became visible.

At the end of forty days Noah opened the window that he had made in the ark, and released a raven, which went flying back and forth until the 8 waters had dried off the earth. Then he released a dove, to see whether the waters had subsided from the surface of the land; but the dove could find no resting-place for the sole of her foot, so she came back to him into the ark; for there was water all over the earth. He put out his hand, and catching her, 10 drew her into the ark with him. After waiting another seven days, he again released the dove from the ark; in the evening the dove came back to him, and there, in her beak, was a freshly picked olive leaf! So Noah knew that the waters had subsided off the earth. 12 After waiting another seven days, he released the dove, but she never came back to him. By the first day of the first month of the six hundred and first year of Noah's life the waters had dried off the earth. So Noah removed the covering of the ark and found that the surface of the ground was quite dry. 14 By the twenty-seventh day of the second month the earth was dry.

15 Then God said to Noah, 16 "Come out of the ark, your wife, your sons, and your sons' wives accompanying you; bring out with you every animal of every sort that is with you, birds, quadrupeds, and all land reptiles, that they may breed freely on the earth, and be fruitful and multiply on the earth."

18 So Noah came out, his sons, his wife, and his sons' wives accompanying him. 19 Every animal, every reptile, and every bird, everything that moves on the earth came out of the ark by their species.

20 Then Noah built an altar to the LORD, and taking some clean animals and birds of every kind, he offered them as burnt-offerings on the altar. 21 When the LORD smelled the soothing odor, the LORD said to himself, "I will never again curse the soil because of man, though the bent of man's mind may be evil from his very youth; nor will I ever again destroy all life, as 22 I have just done. As long as the earth endures, seedtime and harvest, cold and heat, summer and winter, day and night, shall never cease."

9 God blessed Noah and his sons, and said to them, 2 "Be fruitful, multiply, and fill the earth. The fear and dread of you shall be on every wild beast of the earth and on every bird of the air; as in the case of all the reptiles on the ground and all the fish of the sea, they have been delivered into your power. Everything that moves, that is alive, is to be food for you; as I once gave you the green plants, I now give you everything. Only, you must never eat flesh with the life (that is, the blood) in it. For your own life-blood, however, I will require an account; I will hold every animal accountable for it, and I will hold men accountable for one another's lives; whoever sheds the blood of man, by man shall his blood be shed; for God made man in his own image. As for you then, be fruitful, and multiply; be prolific in the earth and multiply in it."

God then said to Noah and to his sons with him,

"As for me, I do hereby establish my covenant with you and your descendants after you, and with every living creature that is with you, the birds, the domestic animals, and all the wild beasts with you, as many of them as came out of the ark; I establish my covenant with you, that never again shall all flesh be destroyed by the waters of a flood, and never again shall there be a flood to ravage the earth."

Further, God said,

"This shall be the symbol of the covenant which I am making between myself and you and every living creature that is with you, to endless generations: I put my rainbow in the clouds, and it shall be a symbol of the covenant between myself and the world. Whenever I bring clouds over the earth, the rainbow will appear in the clouds, and then I will remember my covenant, which obtains between myself and you and every living creature of every sort, and the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all flesh. When the rainbow appears in the clouds, I will see it, and remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of every sort that is on the earth."

God said to Noah,

"This shall be the symbol of the covenant which I am making between myself and all flesh that is on the earth."

THE CURSE OF CANAAN,

9:18-29

- 18 The sons of Noah who came out of the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth; and Ham was the father of Canaan.
- 19 These three were the sons of Noah, and from them sprang the whole world.
- 20 Now Noah was the first farmer to plant
- 21 a vineyard. Having drunk some of the wine, he became intoxicated, and lay
- 22 uncovered in his tent. When Ham, the father of Canaan, saw his father lying naked, he told his two brothers outside;
- 23 whereupon Shem and Japheth took a robe, which they put on their shoulders, and walking backward, they covered up their father's nakedness, their faces being turned away so that they could not
- 24 see their father's nakedness. When Noah awoke from his wine, and learned what his youngest son had done to him,
- 25 he said,
"Cursed be Canaan!
The meanest of slaves shall he be to his brothers."
- 26 Also he said,
"Blessed of the LORD my God may Shem be;
And let Canaan be his slave!
- 27 May God expand Japheth, and dwell in the tents of Shem;
But let Canaan be his slave!"
- 28 Noah lived three hundred and fifty
- 29 years after the flood; thus Noah lived altogether nine hundred and fifty years, and then he died.

THE TABLE OF NATIONS,

10:1-32

- 10 The following are the descendants of Noah's sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth, who were born to them after the flood.
- 2 The descendants of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal,
- 3 Meshech, and Tiras. The descendants of Gomer were Ashkenaz, Riphath, and
- 4 Togarmah. The descendants of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and Rodanim. It was from these that the coast-lands of the nations were populated, country by country, each with its respective language, according to the various clans, nation by nation.
- 6 The descendants of Ham were Cush, Egypt, Put, and Canaan. The descendants of Cush were Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabteca. The descendants of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan. Cush was the father of Nimrod, who was the first person on the earth to be a despot. He was a mighty hunter in the sight of the LORD; hence the saying, "As mighty a hunter in the sight of the LORD as Nimrod." The nucleus of his kingdom was Babylon, Erech, and Accad, all of them in the land of Shinar; from that region he pushed out into Assyria, and built Nineveh, Rehoboth-ir, Calah, and Resen, the large city lying between Nineveh and Calah. Egypt was the father of Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim, Naphtuhim, Pathrusim, Casluhim, and Caphtorim, from whom the Philistines sprang. Canaan was the father of Sidon, his first-born, and then of Heth—also the Jebusites, the Amorites, the Girgashites, the Hivites, the Arkites, the Sinites, the Arvadites, the Zemarites, and the Hamathites. Later the Canaanite clans scattered, until the territory of the Canaanites extended from Sidon in the direction of Gerar, as far as Gaza, and in the direction of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, as far as Lasha. These were the descendants of Ham, by clans and languages, country by country, nation by nation.

Children were also born to Shem, the ancestor of all the Hebrews, and the older brother of Japheth. The sons of Shem were Elam, Assyria, Arpachshad, Lud, and Aram. The sons of Aram were Uz, Hul, Gether, and Mash. Arpachshad was the father of Shelah, and Shelah of Eber. To Eber were born two sons, the name of the one being Peleg [division] (for in his time the world was divided), and the name of his brother Joktan. Joktan was the father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, Obal, Abimael, Sheba, Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab—all these were sons of Joktan, and the region inhabited by them extended from Mesha in the direction of Sephar, to the mountains of the East. These were the descendants of Shem, by clans and languages, country by country, nation by nation.

These were the clans descended from Noah, arranged according to their descendants by nationalities; and from these the nations of the earth were populated after the flood.

THE TOWER OF BABEL, 11:1-9

11 Now the whole earth used only one
2 language, with few words. On the occasion of a migration from the east, men discovered a plain in the land of Shinar, 3 and settled there. Then they said to one another,

"Come, let us make bricks, burning them well."

4 So they used bricks for stone, and bitumen for mortar. Then they said,

"Come, let us build ourselves a city with a tower whose top shall reach the heavens (thus making a name for ourselves), so that we may not be scattered all over the earth."

5 Then the LORD came down to look at the city and tower which human be-6 ings had built. The LORD said,

"They are just one people, and they all have the same language. If this is what they can do as a beginning, then nothing that they resolve to do will be 7 impossible for them. Come, let us go down, and there make such a babble of their language that they will not understand one another's speech."

8 Thus the LORD dispersed them from there all over the earth, so that they 9 had to stop building the city. That was why its name was called Babel, because it was there that the LORD made a babble of the language of the whole earth, and it was from there that the LORD dispersed them all over the earth.

THE DESCENDANTS OF
SHEM, 11:10-26

10 The following are the descendants of Shem.

When Shem was one hundred years old, he became the father of Arpach-11 shad, two years after the flood. Shem lived five hundred years after the birth of Arpachshad, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

12 After living thirty-five years Arpach-13 shad became the father of Shelah. Arpachshad lived four hundred and three years after the birth of Shelah, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

14 After living thirty years Shelah be-15 came the father of Eber. Shelah lived four hundred and three years after the birth of Eber, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

16 After living thirty-four years Eber became the father of Peleg. Eber lived 17 four hundred and thirty years after the birth of Peleg, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

After living thirty years Peleg be- 18 came the father of Reu. Peleg lived two 19 hundred and nine years after the birth of Reu, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

After living thirty-two years Reu be- 20 came the father of Serug. Reu lived 21 two hundred and seven years after the birth of Serug, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

After living thirty years Serug be- 22 came the father of Nahor. Serug lived 23 two hundred years after the birth of Nahor, and was the father of other sons
and daughters.

After living twenty-nine years Nahor 24 became the father of Terah. Nahor 25 lived one hundred and nineteen years after the birth of Terah, and was the father of other sons and daughters.

After living seventy years Terah be- 26 came the father of Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

THE DESCENDANTS OF TERAH, 11:27-32

The following are the descendants of 27
Terah.

Terah was the father of Abram, Nahor, and Haran, and Haran of Lot.
Haran died during the lifetime of his 28
father Terah in the land of his birth, the Chaldean city of Ur. Abram and 29
Nahor both married, the name of Abram's wife being Sarai, and that of Nahor's Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah and Jiscah.
Sarai was barren; she had no children. 30

Terah took his son Abram, his grand- 31 son Lot, the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law Sarai, the wife of his son Abram, and emigrated with them from the Chaldean city of Ur, to go to the land of Canaan. But when they reached Haran, they settled there. The 32 life time of Terah was two hundred and five years; then Terah died in Haran.

THE STORY OF ABRAHAM,
12:1-25:18

The LORD said to Abram, 19
"Leave your land, your relatives, and your father's home, for the land that I

- 2 will show you; and I will make a great nation of you; I will bless you, and make your name so great that it will be used for blessings. I will bless those who bless you, and anyone who curses you I will curse; through you shall all the families of the earth invoke blessings on one another."
- 4 So Abram departed, as the LORD had told him, and Lot went with him. Abram was seventy-five years old when he left Haran. Abram took his wife Sarai and his nephew Lot, with all the property that they had accumulated, and the persons that they had acquired in Haran, and they started out for the land of Canaan; and to the land of Canaan they came.
- 6 Abram traveled through the land as far as the sanctuary of Shechem at the terebinth of Moreh, the Canaanites being then in the land. Then the LORD appeared to Abram, and said, "To your descendants I am going to give this land."
- 8 So he built an altar there to the LORD, who had appeared to him. From there he moved on to the hills east of Bethel, and pitched his tent, with Bethel on the west and Ai on the east. There he built an altar to the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD. Then Abram set out, continuing on his way to the Negeb.
- 10 Now there came a famine in the land; and because the famine was so severe in the land, Abram went down to Egypt to reside there. When he was on the point of entering Egypt, he said to his wife Sarai,
- 12 "See now, I know that you are such a beautiful woman that when the Egyptians see you, they will say, 'This is his wife,' and then they will kill me in order to keep you. Please say that you are my sister, so that I may be well treated for your sake, and my life spared through you."
- 14 When Abram arrived in Egypt, the Egyptians saw that the woman was very beautiful. Pharaoh's courtiers also saw her, and praised her so highly to Pharaoh that the woman was taken into Pharaoh's household. Abram, too, was well treated for her sake, and was the recipient of sheep, cattle, he-asses, male and female slaves, she-asses, and camels.
- 17 The LORD, however, struck Pharaoh and his household with severe diseases because of Abram's wife, Sarai. So Pharaoh summoned Abram, and said,

"What a way for you to treat me! Why did you not tell me that she was your wife? Why did you say, 'She is my sister,' and let me marry her? Well, there is your wife; take her and be-gone!"

Then Pharaoh ordered an escort for him, to see him off, with his wife and all that belonged to him.

So Abram went up from Egypt to the Negeb, accompanied by his wife and all that belonged to him, and Lot. Abram was now very rich in cattle, silver, and gold. From the Negeb he journeyed by stages as far as Bethel, to the place where his tent had previously been, between Bethel and Ai, to the site of the altar which he had previously erected there, and where he had called upon the name of the LORD.

Lot, who accompanied Abram, also had flocks and herds, as well as tents. The land could not support them both; for their possessions were so great that they could not live together. Trouble arose accordingly between the herdsmen of Abram's stock and those of Lot's. (The Canaanites and Perizzites were living in the land at that time.)

"There simply must be no quarrel between you and me," Abram said to Lot, "nor between your herdsmen and mine; for we are kinsmen. The whole land is open to you, is it not? Please part from me then. If you go to the left, I will go to the right; or if you go to the right, I will go to the left."

Then Lot looked out, and saw that the whole basin of the Jordan was well watered everywhere (this was before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah) like the LORD'S own garden, like the land of Egypt in the vicinity of Zoar. So Lot chose the whole Jordan basin. Lot set off eastward, and thus they parted from each other. Abram settled in the land of Canaan, while Lot settled in the cities of the basin, extending his tents as far as Sodom. (Now the men of Sodom were wicked, being great sinners against the LORD.)

After Lot had parted from him, the LORD said to Abram,

"Raise your eyes now, and look out from the place where you are, north, south, east, and west; for all the land that you see, I am going to give to you 16 and your descendants for all time. I am going to make your descendants like the dust of the earth, so that it will be as possible to count the dust of the 17 earth as to count your descendants. Go and travel the length and breadth of the land; for I am giving it to you."

18 So Abram moved his tent, and went to live beside the terebinth of Mamre at Hebron, where he built an altar to the LORD.

14 It was in the time of Amraphel, king of Shinar, Arioch, king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer, 2 king of Goim, that war was made by them with Bera, king of Sodom, Birsha, king of Gomorrah, Shinab, king of Ad-mah, Shemeber, king of Zeboiim, and 3 the king of Bela (that is, Zoar), all of whom had gathered in alliance at the valley of Siddim (that is, the Salt Sea).
 4 For twelve years they had been subject to Chedorlaomer, but in the thirteenth 5 year they revolted. So in the fourteenth year there came Chedorlaomer and his confederate kings. They crushed the Rephaim at Ashteroth and Karnaim, then the Zuzim at Ham,
 the Emim at Shaveh and Kirjathaim, 6 and the Horites in the highlands of Seir, penetrating as far as Elparan, 7 which is close to the desert. Retracing their steps, they reached En-mishpat (that is, Kadesh), and ravaged all the country of the Amalekites, and likewise that of the Amorites who were living at 8 Hazazon-tamar. Thereupon the king of Sodom marched forth, along with the king of Gomorrah, the king of Ad-mah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar). They drew up in battle array against them in the val-9 ley of Siddim, against Chedorlaomer, king of Elam, Tidal, king of Goim, Amraphel, king of Shinar, and Arioch, king of Ellasar—four kings against 10 the five. The valley of Siddim was so full of bitumen wells that on the flight of the kings of Sodom and Go-11 norrah some fell into them, but the survivors fled to the hills. The victors captured all the goods and provisions of Sodom and Gomorrah, and then made 12 off. They also carried off Lot, the nephew of Abram, and his goods, since he was living in Sodom.

13 A fugitive came and told Abram, the Hebrew, who was living beside the terebinth of Mamre, the Amorite, a kinsman of Eshcol and Aner, who were allies of Abram. When Abram heard that 14 his kinsman had been taken prisoner, he called out his retainers, his household slaves, to the number of three hundred and eighteen, and went in pursuit as far as Dan. With his slaves he fell 15 upon them at night, and defeated them.

 After pursuing them as far as Hobah, which is north of Damascus, he recov- 16
 ered all the goods; he also recovered his kinsman Lot and his goods, together with the women and the rest of the people.

On his return from the defeat of 17
 Chedorlaomer and his confederate kings, the king of Sodom came out to the valley of Shaveh (that is, the king's valley) to meet him, while Melchizedek, 18 king of Salem, brought out bread and wine, and, as priest of God Most High, blessed him, saying, 19

"Blessed be Abram by God Most High,
 The creator of the heavens and the earth!

And blessed be God Most High, 20 Who delivered your foes into your power!"

Thereupon he gave him a portion of everything.

The king of Sodom said to Abram, 21
 "Give me the people, but keep the goods yourself."

But Abram said to the king of So- 22
 dom,

"I have sworn by uplifted hand to the LORD, God Most High, the creator of the heavens and the earth, that I 23 would not take anything that belongs to you, not even so much as a thread or a sandal-lace, lest you should say, 'It 24 was I who made Abram rich.' Apart from what my servants have eaten, let the men who accompanied me, Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre, take their share."

After these events the word of the 15
 LORD came to Abram in a vision,

"Do not be afraid, Abram; I am your shield; your reward shall be very great."

But Abram said, 2

"O Lord GOD, what canst thou give me, seeing that I am childless, and that my heir is a Damascene, Eliezer?"

"Since you have given me no poster- 3 ity, my household slave will be my heir," said Abram.

- 4 But there came to him this message from the LORD,
 "No such person is to be your heir, but one born of your own body is to be your heir."
- 5 Then he took him outside, and said, "Now look at the sky, and count the stars if you can." "So shall be your descendants," he said to him.
- 6 And he trusted the LORD, who counted it to his credit, and said to him,
 "I am the LORD, who brought you out of the Chaldean city of Ur to give you possession of this land."
- 8 But he said,
 "O Lord GOD, how am I to know that I shall possess it?"
- 9 So he said to him,
 "Procure a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old she-goat, a three-year-old he-goat, a dove, and a young pigeon."
- 10 Procuring all these, he cut them in two—but not the birds—and placed the 11 pieces opposite each other. The birds of prey swooped down on the carcasses, 12 but Abram drove them off. Then, as the sun was going down, a trance fell on Abram; indeed a great and awful 13 gloom fell upon him. Then the LORD said to Abram,
 "Know of a surety that your descendants shall be immigrants in a land not their own, where they shall be slaves, and be oppressed for four hundred years; but I will in turn bring judgment upon the nation that made slaves of them, after which they shall escape with great wealth. (As for yourself, you shall join your fathers in peace, and be buried at a ripe old age.)
 16 It will only be in the fourth generation, however, that they will return here; for the guilt of the Amorites is not yet complete."
- 17 When the sun had set and it was quite dark, there appeared a smoking fire-pot and a blazing torch that passed 18 between the pieces. That day the LORD made a covenant with Abram, saying,
 "To your descendants I give this land, from the River of Egypt as far as the Great River, the river Euphrates—19 that of the Kenites, Kenizzites, Kadmonites, Hittites, Perizzites, Rephaim, 20 Amorites, Canaanites, Girgashites, and Jebusites."

Abram's wife Sarai had borne him no 16 children, but she had an Egyptian maid whose name was Hagar. So Sarai said 2 to Abram,

"Seeing now that the LORD has prevented me from having children, suppose you marry my maid; I might perhaps build up a family through her."

Abram agreed to the suggestion of 3 Sarai; so Abram's wife Sarai took Hagar, her Egyptian maid (it was after Abram had been living in the land of Canaan for ten years), and gave her in marriage to her husband Abram. He 4 had intercourse with Hagar, and she conceived. When she found that she had conceived, she looked with disdain upon her mistress. So Sarai said to 5 Abram,

"May the wrong done me fall on you! It was I who put my maid in your arms, but when she found that she had conceived, she looked with disdain upon me. May the LORD judge between you and me!"

"Your maid is in your power," 6 Abram said to Sarai; "do what you like with her."

Then Sarai treated her so cruelly that she ran away from her. But the 7 angel of the LORD came upon her beside a spring in the desert (the spring on the road to Shur), and said,

"Hagar, maid of Sarai, where have you come from, and where are you going?"

"I am running away from my mistress Sarai," she said.

The angel of the LORD said to her, 9 "Return to your mistress, and submit to her authority."

Further, the angel of the LORD said 10 to her,

"I will make your descendants so numerous that they will be too many to count."

The angel of the LORD also said to 11 her,

"You are with child, and are going to bear a son; you are to call his name Ishmael [God heard], because the LORD has heard of your ill-treatment. He shall be a wild-ass of a man, with his 12 hand against everyone, and everyone's hand against him; he shall live on the outskirts of all his kindred."

So she named the LORD who spoke 13 to her El-roi [a God who can be seen].

"For," said she, "I have actually seen God, and am still alive after seeing him."

14 That was how the spring came to be called Beer-lahai-roi [the spring where one saw (God) and still lived]; it is between Kadesh and Bered.

15 So Hagar bore a son to Abram, and Abram gave the name of Ishmael to his son, whom Hagar bore. Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to him.

17 When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD appeared to Abram, and said to him,

"I am God Almighty; conduct yourself before me so as to be blameless, and then I will establish my covenant between you and me, and will make you grow more and more numerous."

3 Thereupon Abram fell on his face; and God said to him,

4 "This is my covenant with you: you shall be the ancestor of a company of nations. Accordingly, your name shall no longer be called Abram, but your name shall be Abraham; for I am making you the ancestor of a company of nations. I will make you more and more prolific, and will make nations of you, and kings shall spring from you. I am establishing my covenant between myself and you and your descendants after you throughout their generations as a perpetual covenant, to be God to you and your descendants.

8 I will give you and your descendants after you the land in which you are now only an immigrant, the whole of the land of Canaan, as a possession for all time, and I will be their God."

9 Further, God said to Abraham,

"You on your part must keep my covenant, and likewise your descendants after you throughout their generations. The covenant between myself and you and your descendants after you which you are to keep is this: everyone of your males must be circumcised; you are to be circumcised in your foreskin, and this shall be the symbol of the covenant between you and me.

12 At the age of eight days, every male among you, from generation to generation, must be circumcised, as well as the slaves born in the house or purchased from any foreigner who is not of your race—slaves, whether born in your house or purchased by you, are to be circumcised. Thus shall my covenant stand imprinted on your flesh as a perpetual covenant. If there is an uncircumcised male, one who has not been circumcised in the foreskin, that person must be cut off from his people, in that he has broken my covenant."

God also said to Abraham,

15 "As for your wife Sarai, you are not to call her Sarai, but Sarah. I will bless her, and furthermore, I will give you a son by her; I will bless her, so that she shall become the mother of nations, with kings of peoples coming from her."

Then Abraham fell on his face and laughed, saying to himself,

"Can he who is one hundred years old become a father, or can Sarah at the age of ninety bear a child?"

So Abraham said to God,

"May Ishmael live in thy favor!"

But God said,

19 "No, it is a fact; your wife Sarah is to bear you a son, and you are to call his name Isaac [laughter]; I will establish my covenant with him as a perpetual covenant for his descendants after him. With reference to Ishmael, I have heard you, and will indeed bless him; I will make him prolific, and will make him grow more and more numerous; he shall be the ancestor of twelve princes; I will make a great nation of him. I will likewise establish my covenant with Isaac, whom Sarah shall bear to you at this time next year."

Having finished speaking with him, God left Abraham.

Then Abraham took his son Ishmael and all the slaves born in his house and all those purchased by him—every male in Abraham's household—and circumcised them in the foreskin that very same day, as God had commanded him. Abraham himself was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised in the foreskin, while his son Ishmael was thirteen when he was circumcised. That very day was Abraham circumcised, as well as his son Ishmael; and all the men of his household, the slaves born in the house and those purchased from foreigners, were circumcised with him.

The LORD appeared to him at the terebinth of Mamre, as he was sitting at the doorway of his tent in the heat of the day. Raising his eyes, he saw three men standing near him. On seeing them, he ran from the door of his tent to meet them, and bowing to the earth, 3 said,

"O sirs, if perchance I find favor with you, please do not pass by without 4 stopping with your servant. Let a little water be brought to wash your feet, and stretch yourselves out under the tree, 5 while I fetch a bit of food that you may refresh yourselves. Afterward you may proceed on your way, since you will then have paid your servant a visit."

"Do as you propose," they said. 6 So Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah, and said,

"Quick, three seahs of the best flour! Knead it, and make it into cakes."

7 Abraham then ran to the herd, and picked out a bullock, tender and plump, which he gave to a servant, who quickly prepared it. Then, taking curds and milk and the bullock that he had prepared, he set them before them, and as he waited on them under the tree, they ate.

9 "Where is your wife Sarah?" they said to him.

"Inside the tent there," said he.

10 Then he said,

"I will come back to you at the time for life to appear, when your wife Sarah shall have a son."

11 Now Sarah was behind the door of the tent listening. Since both Abraham and Sarah were old, being well advanced in life, and woman's periods had 12 ceased with Sarah, Sarah laughed to herself, saying,

"Now that I am worn out and my husband old, can there be marriage pleasure for me?"

13 The LORD said to Abraham,

"Why is it that Sarah laughs, saying, 'Can I really bear a child when I am so old?' Is anything too wonderful for the LORD? I will come back to you at the appointed time, at the time for life to appear, and Sarah shall have a son."

15 Because she was afraid, Sarah denied it, saying,

"I did not laugh."

"No, but you did laugh," he said.

16 Setting out from there, the men directed their steps toward Sodom, while Abraham went with them to see them 17 off. Then the LORD thought,

"Shall I hide what I am about to do 18 from Abraham, seeing that Abraham is bound to become a great and powerful nation, and through him all the nations of the earth will invoke blessings on one another? No, I will make it known to 15 him, in order that he may give instructions to his sons and his family after him to keep to the way of the LORD by doing what is good and right, so that the LORD may fulfil for Abraham what he promised him."

So the LORD said, 20 "Because the outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and their sin very grave, I must go down and see 21 whether or not their conduct entirely answers to the outcry against them that has reached me; I would know."

So the men departed from there, and 22 went off to Sodom, while the LORD remained standing before Abraham. Abraham then went up to him, and 23 said,

"Wilt thou really sweep away good along with bad? Suppose there are fifty 24 good men in the city, wilt thou really sweep it away, and not spare the place for the sake of the fifty good men that are in it? Far be it from thee to do such 25 a thing as this, to make the good perish with the bad, so that good and bad fare alike! Far be it from thee! Shall not the judge of the whole earth himself act justly?"

So the LORD said, 26 "If I find in Sodom fifty good men, within the city, I will spare the whole place for their sake."

Abraham rejoined, 27 "Here I am venturing to speak to the LORD, and I mere dust and ashes! Suppose there are five short of the fifty good men; wouldst thou destroy the whole city by reason of the five?"

"I will not destroy it, if I find forty-five there," he replied.

Once more he said to him, 29 "Suppose only forty are to be found there?"

"I will not do it for the sake of the forty," he replied.

Then he said, 30 "Pray, let not my Lord be angry if I should say: suppose only thirty are to be found there?"

"I will not do it, if I find thirty there," he said.

"Here I am venturing to speak to the 31 LORD; suppose only twenty are to be found there?" he said.

"I will not destroy it for the sake of the twenty," he said.

12 Then he said,

"Pray, let not my Lord be angry if I should speak just once more; suppose only ten are to be found there?"

"I will not destroy it for the sake of the ten," he said.

13 As soon as he finished speaking to Abraham, the LORD went away, while Abraham returned home.

14 The two angels arrived at Sodom in the evening while Lot was sitting at the gate of Sodom. When Lot saw them, he rose to greet them, bowing his face to the ground, and saying,

"If you please, sirs, come over to your servant's house to pass the night and wash your feet; in the morning you may rise early, and go on your way."

But they said,

"No, we will pass the night in the open."

15 He pressed them so strongly, however, that they went over to his home and entered his house, where he prepared a feast for them, and baked unleavened cakes for them to eat. Before they lay down, the townsmen, the men of Sodom, from the youngest to the oldest, all the people to the last man, 16 surrounded the house, and shouted to Lot,

"Where are the men who came to your house tonight? Bring them out to us that we may have intercourse with them."

17 Then Lot went out to the doorway to them, and shutting the door after him, 18 said,

"Please, my friends, do not be so depraved. See, I have two daughters who have never had intercourse with a man; let me bring them out to you to do what you like with them; only do nothing to these men, inasmuch as they have come under the shelter of my roof."

19 But they said,

"Get out of the way!"

"This fellow came in as an immigrant," they said, "and now he would make himself a judge! Here, we will treat you worse than them!"

20 Then they pressed hard against the man, Lot, and tried to reach the door to break it in; but the men reached out their hands, and pulling Lot into the house with them, shut the door; while those who were at the entrance to the house, from the least to the greatest, they struck with blindness, so that they searched in vain for the entrance. Then 21 the men said to Lot,

"If there is anyone else belonging to you here, sons-in-law, sons, daughters, or anyone at all that belongs to you in the city, take them out of the place; for 22 we are about to destroy this place, because the outcry against it that has come to the LORD is so great that the LORD has sent us to destroy it."

23 So Lot went out, and said to his sons-in-law who had married his daughters,

"Leave this place at once; for the LORD is about to destroy the city."

But his sons-in-law thought that he was jesting.

24 When dawn appeared, the angels urged Lot on, saying,

"Bestir yourself; take away your wife and the two daughters that are at hand, lest you be swept away in the punishment of the city."

25 When he hesitated, the men, because of the LORD'S pity on him, seized his hand and those of his wife and two daughters, and bringing him out, they left him outside the city. After they 26 had brought them outside, they said,

"Fly for your life; do not look behind you, nor stop anywhere in the valley; fly to the hills, lest you be swept away."

Lot said to them,

27 "O no, sirs! Your servant has indeed found favor with you, and great is the kindness that you have done me in saving my life, but I cannot possibly fly to the hills, lest the disaster overtake me and I perish. Here is this town 28 near enough to fly to, and quite small; pray, let me fly there (is it not small?) to save my life."

The LORD said to him,

29 "See, I grant you this request as well, in that I will not overthrow the town of which you speak. Hurry and fly 30 there; for I can do nothing until you reach there."

31 Thus the name of the town came to be called Zoar [small].

32 Just as the sun rose over the earth and Lot entered Zoar, the LORD rained sulphur and fire from the sky on Sodom and Gomorrah, devastating those cities 33 and all the valley, with all the inhabitants of the cities and the vegetation on 26 the land. And Lot's wife had looked back, and had become a pillar of salt.

27 Next morning when Abraham went early to the place where he had stood before the LORD, he gazed toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and all the region of the valley, and saw smoke from the land rising like smoke from a kiln.

28 Thus it was that God remembered Abraham when he destroyed the cities of the valley, by sending Lot away from the catastrophe when he devastated the cities where Lot lived.

30 Accompanied by his two daughters, Lot left Zoar to go up and live in the hills; for he was afraid to live in Zoar; and he lived in a cave with his two daughters. The older one said to the younger,

"Since our father is old, and there is no one in the land to marry us, as is customary for all the earth, come, let us make our father drunk with wine, and then lie with him, and so preserve our race through our father."

33 So that night they made their father drunk with wine, and the older one went in and lay with her father, but he was unaware of her lying down or getting up. Next morning the older said to the younger,

"I lay with my father last night; let us make him drunk with wine again tonight, and then you go in and lie with him, so that we may preserve our race through our father."

35 So that night too they made their father drunk with wine, and the younger went and lay with him, but he was unaware of her lying down or getting up. Thus the two daughters of Lot were with child by their father. The older bore a son, and called his name Moab (he is the ancestor of the present-day Moabites). The younger also bore a son, and called his name Ben-ammi (he is the ancestor of the present-day Ammonites).

20 From there Abraham set out for the region of the Negeb, and settling between Kadesh and Shur, he established himself as an immigrant at Gerar. Since Abraham had said of his wife Sarah, "She is my sister," Abimelech, king of Gerar, had sent and taken Sarah; but God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him,

"You are going to die because of the woman whom you have taken, since she is married."

Now Abimelech had not approached her, so he said,

"O Lord, wilt thou slay one who is clearly innocent? Did he not himself say to me, 'She is my sister,' while she herself said, 'He is my brother'? In purity of heart and innocence of hand have I done this."

Then God said to him in the dream,

"I do indeed know that it was in purity of heart that you did this; and furthermore, it was I who kept you from sinning against me. That is why I did not let you touch her. Now then, restore the man's wife, and so save your life; for he is a prophet, and will intercede for you. But if you do not restore her, be assured that you and all who belong to you shall die."

So next morning Abimelech rose early, and summoning all his slaves, he recounted all these words to them, so that the men were much terrified. Abimelech then summoned Abraham, and said to him,

"What have you done to us? What harm have I done to you that you should bring such a great sin on me and my kingdom? You have done to me things that should not be done."

"What ever possessed you to do this?" Abimelech said to Abraham.

Abraham said,

"I simply thought that, since there was no reverence for God in this place, I should be slain for the sake of my wife. Besides, she really was my sister when I married her, being the daughter of my father, but not of my mother. Accordingly, when God sent me wandering from my father's home, I said to her, 'This is the kindness that you must do me: at every place to which we come, say of me, "He is my brother."'"

Thereupon Abimelech took sheep, 14 oxen, and male and female slaves, and gave them to Abraham, and restored his wife Sarah to him.

"My country is at your disposal," 15 said Abimelech; "settle wherever you like."

To Sarah he said,

"See, I have given your brother a thousand shekels of silver; it shall compensate you for all that has befallen you, and you yourself shall be completely exonerated."

17 Then Abraham prayed to God, and God cured Abimelech, as well as his wife and female slaves, so that they could bear children; for the LORD had completely closed the wombs of all in Abimelech's household on account of Sarah, Abraham's wife.

18 The LORD dealt with Sarah, as he had said; the LORD did to Sarah as he had promised. Sarah conceived, and at the time that God had indicated she bore Abraham a son in his old age. 19 Abraham gave the name of Isaac to his son that had been born to him, whom Sarah bore him; and as God had commanded him, Abraham circumcised his son Isaac when he was eight days old, 20 Abraham himself being one hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him.

21 "God has made me a laughing-stock; everyone that hears of it will laugh at me," Sarah said. "Who ever would have ventured to tell Abraham," she added, "that Sarah would be giving suck to children? And yet I have borne him a son in his old age!"

22 So the child grew and was weaned; and on the day that Isaac was weaned Sarah held a great feast. But Sarah noticed the son of Hagar, the Egyptian, whom she had borne to Abraham, playing with her son Isaac; so she said to Abraham,

"Get rid of this slave-girl and her son; for this slave-girl's son must not share the inheritance with my son Isaac."

23 The proposal, however, was very displeasing to Abraham, for his son's sake; but God said to Abraham,

24 "Do not be distressed for the boy and your slave; follow Sarah's bidding in all that she tells you; for it is through Isaac that you are to have descendants bearing your name. As for the slave-girl's son, I will make a nation of him too, because he is your child."

25 So next morning Abraham rose early, and taking some bread and a skin of water, he gave them to Hagar, along with her son, and putting them on her shoulder, he sent her away. So she departed, and wandered about in the desert of Beersheba. Then the water in the skin became exhausted, and throwing the child under one of the bushes, she went and sat down about a bowshot away; "For," said she, "I cannot bear to see the child die!" So she sat down some way off, and lifted up her voice in weeping.

26 God, however, heard the boy's cry, and the angel of God called from the heavens to Hagar, and said to her,

"What is the matter with you, Hagar? Fear not; for God has heard the boy's cry, even here where he is. Come, pick up the boy, and hold fast to him; for I am going to make a great nation of him."

27 Then God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water, whereupon she went and filled the skin with water, and gave the boy a drink. So God was with the boy, and he grew up. He lived in the desert, and became expert with the bow. He settled in the desert of Paran, and his mother got a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

28 It was at that time that Abimelech and the general of his army, Phicol, said to Abraham,

"God is with you in all that you do; swear by God to me here, then, that you will never be false to me, nor to my children, nor to my descendants, but that you will treat me and the land in which you have settled as an immigrant as kindly as I have treated you."

29 "I swear it," said Abraham.

30 So Abraham took some sheep and oxen, which he gave to Abimelech, and the two of them made a covenant. Hence that place came to be called Beersheba [well of the oath], because it was there that the two took the oath.

31 Abraham kept making complaints to Abimelech about a well which the slaves of Abimelech had seized; but Abimelech said,

"I do not know who did this. Neither have you informed me of it, nor have I heard of it, until today."

32 Then Abraham set seven ewe lambs apart by themselves, whereupon Abimelech said to Abraham,

"What is the significance of these seven ewe lambs which you have set apart?"

33 "You will accept the seven ewe lambs from my hand," he said, "to serve as witness for me that I dug this well."

32 So they made a covenant at Beersheba. Then Abimelech and the general of his army, Phicol, proceeded to return to the land of the Philistines, while Abraham planted a tamarisk at Beersheba, and there called upon the name of the LORD, the eternal God.

34 Abraham resided for a long time in the land of the Philistines.

22 Some time after this God put Abraham to the test.

"Abraham!" he said to him.

"Here am I," he said.

2 "Take your son," he said, "your only son, whom you love, Isaac, and go to the land of Moriah, and there offer him as a burnt-offering on one of the hills which I shall designate to you."

3 So next morning Abraham rose early, and harnessing his ass, he took two of his servants with him and his son Isaac, and having cut wood for the burnt-offering, he started off for the sanctuary which God had designated to him. On the third day, when Abraham raised his eyes, he saw the sanctuary in the distance. So Abraham said to his servants,

"Stay here with the ass, while I and the boy go yonder to perform our devotions, after which we shall return to you."

6 So Abraham took the wood for the burnt-offering and put it on the back of his son Isaac, while he carried in his own hand the fire and the knife. So the two of them went off together.

7 "Father!" said Isaac to his father Abraham.

"Yes, my son," he responded.

"Here are the fire and the wood," he said, "but where is the sheep for a burnt-offering?"

8 "God will provide himself with the sheep for a burnt-offering, my son," said Abraham.

Thereupon the two of them proceeded on their way together.

9 When they arrived at the sanctuary which God had designated to him, Abraham built the altar there, arranged the wood, and binding his son Isaac, laid him on the altar on top of the wood.

10 But as Abraham put out his hand to grasp the knife to slay his son, the angel of the LORD called to him from the heavens,

"Abraham, Abraham!"

"Here am I," he replied.

"Do not lay hands on the boy," he said, "do nothing of the sort to him; for I know now that you revere God, in that you have not withheld your son, your only son, from me."

When Abraham raised his eyes, he saw behind him a ram caught in the brushwood by its horns! So Abraham went and took the ram, and offered it up as a burnt-offering in place of his son. Then Abraham called the name of that sanctuary Yahweh-jireh, which is today interpreted as "At the hill of the LORD provision is made."

A second time the angel of the LORD called to Abraham from the heavens,

"I swear by myself"—it is the LORD—"that since you have done this, and have not withheld your son, your only son, I will indeed bless you, and will surely make your descendants as numerous as the stars of the sky, or the sands that are on the seashore, so that your descendants shall take possession of the cities of their enemies, and through your descendants all the nations of the earth shall invoke blessings on one another—just because you heeded my injunction."

Abraham then returned to his servants, and together they started off for Beersheba; and in Beersheba Abraham made his home.

Some time after this word came to Abraham as follows: "Milcah, too, has borne children to your brother Nahor: Uz, the first-born, Bus, his brother, Kemuel (the ancestor of the Arameans), Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel"—which Bethuel became the father of Rebekah. These eight did Milcah bear to Nahor, Abraham's brother. Moreover, his consort, whose name was Reumah, also bore Tebah, Gaham, Tahash, and Maacah.

The length of Sarah's life was one hundred and twenty-seven years. Sarah died at Kirjath-arba (that is, Hebron), in the land of Canaan, and Abraham proceeded to wail and weep for Sarah. Rising from the side of his dead, Abraham said to the Hittites,

"Since I am an immigrant and a serf under you, give me some property with you as a burial-ground, that I may inter my dead."

The Hittites answered Abraham,

"Listen, sir; you are a mighty prince among us; bury your dead in the choicest of our sepulchres; none of us will deny you his sepulchre for the burial of your dead."

7 Abraham rose, and bowing to the 8 Hittites, the natives of the land, he said to them,

"If your consent to the burial of my dead is assured, listen to me; approach Ephron, the son of Zohar, on my behalf, that he may give me the cave of Machpelah which belongs to him, on the edge of his field. Let him sell it to me in your presence for its full value, as a burial-ground of my own."

10 Now Ephron was sitting among the Hittites. So Ephron, the Hittite, answered Abraham in the hearing of the Hittites, namely all those accustomed to enter the gates of his city,

11 "Not at all, sir; listen to me; I make you a present of the field; I make you a present of the cave as well; in the presence of my fellow-countrymen I present it to you; bury your dead in it."

12 Bowing to the natives of the land,
13 Abraham said to Ephron in the hearing of the natives of the land,

"If really you are so obliging, please listen to me; I offer you money for the field; accept it from me, that I may bury my dead there."

14 Ephron answered Abraham,

15 "Sir, listen to me; a piece of land worth four hundred shekels of silver—what is that between us? Bury your dead in it."

16 So Abraham accepted Ephron's terms, and Abraham paid over to Ephron the sum: which he had named in the hearing of the Hittites, four hundred shekels of silver of commercial standard.

17 Thus the field of Ephron at Machpelah, which faces Mamre, the field together with the cave in it and all the trees that were in the field, throughout its whole area, was conveyed in the presence of the Hittites, namely all those accustomed to enter the gates of his city, to Abraham as his property.
19 Following that Abraham buried his wife Sarah in the cave in the field of Machpelah, facing Mamre (that is, Hebron), in the land of Canaan. Thus the field with the cave that was in it passed from the possession of the Hittites to that of Abraham for use as a burial-ground.

Now that Abraham was old and well advanced in life, having been blessed by the LORD in all things, Abraham said to the oldest slave of his household, who had charge of everything that belonged to him,

"Put your hand under my thigh, while I make you swear by the LORD, the God of the heavens and the earth, that you will not marry my son to a daughter of the Canaanites, among whom I am living, but that you will go to my own land and kindred to get a wife for my son Isaac."

The slave said to him,

"Suppose the woman is unwilling to follow me to this land; am I to take your son back to the land that you left?"

Abraham said to him,

"See to it that you do not take my son back there! It was the LORD, the God of the heavens, who took me from my father's home and the land of my birth, who spoke to me and made me this promise, 'It is to your descendants that I am going to give this land'—it is he who will send his angel ahead of you, so that you shall get a wife for my son there. But if the woman should be unwilling to follow you, then you will be absolved from this oath to me; only you must never take my son back there."

So the slave put his hand under the thigh of his master, Abraham, and swore to him to this effect.

The slave took ten of his master's camels, and set out on his journey, taking with him all kinds of valuables from his master; he started off, and eventually arrived at Aram-naharaim, the city of Nahor. Toward evening, at the time that the women came out to draw water, he made the camels kneel by the well outside the city.

"O LORD, the God of my master Abraham," he said, "pray give me success today, and so be gracious to my master Abraham. Here I am taking my stand beside the spring, as the daughters of the townsmen come out to draw water. Let the girl, then, whom I say, 'Will you please let down your pitcher for me to drink?' and who says, 'Drink, and let me water your camels as well'—let her be the one whom thou hast allotted to thy servant Isaac. By this I shall be assured that thou wilt really be gracious to my master."

- 15 Before he had finished speaking, out came Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Milcah, the wife of Abraham's brother Nahor, with her pitcher on her shoulder. The girl was very beautiful, a virgin with whom no man had ever had intercourse. She went down to the spring to fill her pitcher, and when she came up, the slave ran to her and said,

"Will you please let me drink a little water from your pitcher?"

- 18 "Drink, sir," she said; and quickly lowering the pitcher to her hand, she gave him a drink. When she had finished giving him a drink, she said,

"For your camels, too, I will draw water, until they finish drinking."

- 20 So she quickly emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran back to the well to draw more water. Thus she drew water for all his camels, while the man gazed after her, eager to learn whether the LORD had brought his errand to a successful issue or not. Accordingly, as soon as the camels finished drinking, the man took a gold ring weighing half a shekel, and put it in her nose, as well as two gold bracelets weighing ten shekels on her wrists. Then he said,

"Whose daughter are you? Pray tell me. Is there room in your father's house for us to spend the night?"

- 24 "I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Milcah, whom she bore to Nahor," she replied. "We have plenty of both straw and fodder," she added, "and there is also room to spend the night."

- 26 Thereupon the man bowed in homage to the LORD, and said,

"Blessed be the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who has not failed to be gracious and true to my master. I am on the right road; the LORD has led me to the home of my master's kinsfolk."

- 28 Then the girl ran, and gave an account of these things to her mother's household. Now Rebekah had a brother, whose name was Laban. So Laban ran out to the man at the spring, when he saw the ring and the bracelets on his sister's wrists and heard his sister Rebekah saying, "This is what the man said to me." When he reached the man, there he was, standing beside the camels near the spring.

"Come in, you blessed of the LORD," he said. "Why do you stand outside, when I have the house ready, as well as a place for the camels?"

So he brought the man into the house, and unharnessed the camels. He brought straw and fodder for the camels, and water for him and the men that were with him to wash their feet. Food was then set before him to eat, but he said,

"I will not eat until I have told my story."

"Say on," he said.

So he said,

"I am Abraham's slave. The LORD has richly blessed my master, so that he is a great man; he has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, male and female slaves, camels and asses. Now Sarah, my master's wife, after she was quite old, bore a son to my master, and to him he is leaving everything that belongs to him. My master made me take this oath: 'You must not marry my son to any daughter of the Canaanites in whose land I am living; but you must go to my father's home and my own kindred to get a wife for my son.' I said to my master, 'Suppose the woman will not follow me?' He said to me, 'The LORD, in whose favor I have lived, will send his angel along with you, and will bring your errand to a successful issue, so that you shall get a wife for my son from my own kindred and my father's home. Then you shall be absolved from the oath to me; when you come to my kindred, if they refuse you, you shall be absolved from the oath to me.' So today when I came to the spring, I said, 'O LORD, God of my master Abraham, if thou wouldst really bring success to this errand in which I am engaged, grant that, as I stand beside the spring, the girl who comes out to draw water, and to whom I say, "Will you please give me a little water to drink out of your pitcher?" and who says to me, "Not only drink yourself, but let me draw water for your camels as well"—let that woman be the one whom the LORD has allotted to my master's son.' Before I could finish my meditations, out came Rebekah, with her pitcher on her shoulder, and went down to the spring to draw water. So I said to her.

'Will you please give me a drink?'
 46 whereupon she quickly lowered her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, 'Drink, and let me water your camels as well.' So I drank, and she gave the 47 camels a drink too. Then I asked her, 'Whose daughter are you?' and she said, 'The daughter of Bethuel, the son of Nahor, whom Milcah bore to him.' Then I put the ring in her nose, and the 48 bracelets on her wrists; and I bowed in homage to the LORD, blessing the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who had led me by the right road to get the daughter of my master's kinsman
 49 for his son. Now then, tell me whether you are ready to treat my master kindly and honorably or not, so that I may turn one way or the other."

50 Laban and Bethuel answered,
 "This is the LORD'S doing; we dare not answer you adversely or favorably.
 51 Here is Rebekah for you; take her and go; let her become the wife of your master's son, as the LORD has signified."
 52 As soon as the slave of Abraham heard their words, he bowed to the 53 earth before the LORD. The slave then brought out articles of silver and gold, and clothing, which he gave to Rebekah; he also gave costly presents to 54 her brother and mother. Then he and the men that were with him had something to eat and drink, and retired for the night.

When they rose next morning, he said,

"Let me go to my master."

55 But her brother and mother said,
 "Let the girl stay with us a while longer, or at least ten days, after which she may go."

56 "Do not hinder me," he said to them; "since the LORD has brought my errand to such a successful issue, let me go that I may return to my master."

57 "We will call the girl, and consult her wishes," they said.

58 So they called Rebekah, and said to her,

"Will you go with this man?"

"I will," said she.

59 So they let their sister Rebekah go, and her nurse, and Abraham's slave and his men. They blessed Rebekah, saying to her,

"May you, our sister, become a thousand myriads!

And may your descendants conquer the cities of their foes!"

Then Rebekah started off with her 61 maids, and riding on the camels, they followed the man. Thus the slave took Rebekah and departed.

Now Isaac had moved from the 62 neighborhood of Beer-lahai-roi, and was living in the land of the Negebe. One 63 evening Isaac went out to stroll in the fields, and raising his eyes, he saw camels coming. Rebekah too raised 64 her eyes, and seeing Isaac, she dismounted from her camel, saying to the 65 slave,

"Who is the man yonder that is walking through the field toward us?"

"He is my master," said the slave.

Then she took her veil, and covered herself.

The slave told Isaac all that he had 66 done; so Isaac brought her into his tent. 67 He married Rebekah and she became his wife; and in loving her, Isaac found consolation for the death of his mother.

Abraham married another wife whose 25 name was Keturah, who bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. Jokshan was the father of 3 Sheba and Dedan. The descendants of Dedan were the Ashurim, the Letushim, and the Leummim, while the 4 descendants of Midian were Ephah, Epher, Hanock, Abida, and Eldaah. All these were Keturah's children. To Isaac 5 Abraham gave everything that he had, while to the children that Abraham had 6 by consorts, while he was still alive, Abraham gave presents, and sent them away eastward to the land of Kedar, so that they might not interfere with his son Isaac.

This was the total length of Abra- 7 ham's life—one hundred and seventy-five years. So Abraham came to his death, dying at a ripe old age, an old man, satisfied with life; and he was gathered to his fathers. His sons, Isaac 9 and Ishmael, buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron, the son of Zohar, the Hittite, which faces Mamre, the field which Abraham had 10 bought from the Hittites. There Abraham was buried, along with his wife Sarah. After the death of Abraham, 11 God blessed his son Isaac, who made his home close to Beer-lahai-roi.

The following are the descendants of 12 Ishmael, the son of Abraham, whom Hagar, the Egyptian, Sarah's maid, bore to Abraham; the following are the 13 names of the sons of Ishmael, named in the order of their birth: Nebaioth, Ishmael's first-born, Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah. These were the sons of Ishmael; these were their names as arranged by villages and encampments—twelve princes arranged by peoples.

This was the length of Ishmael's life—one hundred and thirty-seven years. So he came to his death; he died, and was gathered to his fathers. He inhabited the region from Havilah as far as Shur, which is on the border of Egypt, in the vicinity of Ashur, having settled on the outskirts of all his kindred.

THE STORY OF JACOB,

25:19—37:1

The following are the descendants of Isaac, the son of Abraham. Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac was forty years old when he married Rebekah, the daughter of Bethuel, the Aramean of Paddan-aram, and the sister of Laban, the Aramean. Isaac besought the LORD on behalf of his wife, because she was barren; so the LORD yielded to his entreaty, and his wife Rebekah conceived. While in her womb, the children jostled each other, so that she said,

"If it is to be thus, on whose side am I to be?"

So she went off to consult the LORD, and the LORD said to her,

"Two nations are in your womb, And the two peoples have been hostile ever since conception in you; The one people shall master the other, And the older shall serve the younger."

When the time of her delivery came, there were indeed twins in her womb. The first one was born red, his whole body like a hairy garment; so his name was called Esau [hairy(?)]. Then his brother was born, with his hand gripping Esau's heel; so his name was called Jacob [heel-gripper]. Isaac was sixty years old when she bore them.

The boys grew up. Esau became a skilful hunter, a man of the open country, while Jacob became a man of peaceful pursuits, making his home in tents. Isaac favored Esau, because he was fond of game, while Rebekah favored Jacob.

Once when Jacob was making a stew, Esau came in from the fields famishing; whereupon Esau said to Jacob,

"Let me have a swallow of that red stuff there; for I am famishing."

(That was how his name came to be called Edom [red].)

"First sell me your birthright," said Jacob.

So Esau said,

"Here I am at the point of death; so of what use is a birthright to me?"

"First give me your oath," said Jacob.

So he gave him his oath, and sold his birthright to Jacob. Jacob then gave Esau bread and stewed lentils. He ate and drank; then rose and went away. Thus lightly did Esau value his birthright.

A famine occurred in the land—a different one from the first famine which occurred in the time of Abraham—so Isaac went to Gerar, to Abimelech, king of the Philistines. The LORD then appeared to him, and said,

"Do not go down to Egypt; settle in the land that I shall designate to you. If you establish yourself as an immigrant in this land, I will be with you, and bless you; for to you and your descendants I am going to give this whole country, and so fulfil the oath which I made to your father Abraham. I will make your descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky, and I will give your descendants this whole country, so that all the nations of the earth will invoke blessings on one another through your descendants—just because Abraham heeded my instructions and kept my charge, my commands, statutes, and laws."

So Isaac settled at Gerar. When the men of the place asked him about his wife, he said,

"She is my sister."

For he was afraid to say, "She is my wife," lest the men of the place should slay him for the sake of Rebekah, because she was good-looking.

When he had been there a long time, Abimelech, king of the Philistines, looked out of his window, and saw Isaac fondling his wife Rebekah. So Abimelech summoned Isaac, and said,

"So she really is your wife; then why did you say, 'She is my sister'?"

"I said so, that I might not lose my life through her," Isaac said to him.

10 "What a way to treat us!" said Abimelech. "One of my people might easily have lain with your wife, and then you would have brought guilt on us."

11 So Abimelech warned all his people, "Anyone laying hands on this man or his wife shall be put to death."

12 Isaac sowed a crop in that land, and he obtained that year one hundred

13 measures of barley. The LORD blessed him, so that the man grew rich, and kept on growing richer and richer, until

14 he became very rich indeed; he had flocks of sheep and herds of cattle, and so many work-animals that the Philistines vented their spite on him. All

15 the wells which his father's slaves had dug in the time of his father Abraham, the Philistines stopped up and filled

16 with dirt. Accordingly, when Abimelech said to Isaac, "Leave our midst; for you

17 are much too powerful for us," Isaac left there, and camping in the valley of 18 Gerar, he settled there. Isaac then reopened the wells which had been dug in the time of his father Abraham, but which the Philistines had stopped up

19 after Abraham's death; and he gave them the same names as his father had

20 given them. But when Isaac's slaves dug in the valley, and found a well of running water, the shepherds of Gerar

21 got into a dispute with Isaac's shepherds, saying, "The water is ours." Hence the name of the well came to be

22 called Esek [trouble], because they got into trouble with him. Then they dug

23 another well, but they got into a dispute over that too; so its name came to be called Sitnah [hostility]. Moving

24 from there, he dug another well, and there was no dispute over this; so he called its name Rehoboth [room], saying, "At last the LORD has made room

25 for us, so that we shall become numerous in the land."

From there he went up to Beersheba; and that very night the LORD appeared to him, saying,

"I am the God of your father Abraham; do not be afraid; for I am with you. I will bless you and make your descendants numerous, for the sake of my servant Abraham."

So Isaac built an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD. He pitched his tent there, and there also his slaves dug a well.

Then Abimelech came to him from 26 Gerar, with Ahuzzath, one of his ministers, and Phicol, the general of his army. Isaac said to them,

27 "Why have you come to me, seeing that you hate me, and drove me from your midst?"

They said,

28 "We see very clearly that the LORD is with you, so we make this proposal: 'Let there be an oath between us—between ourselves and you; let us reach an agreement with you that you will do us no harm, since we did not hurt you, but only did you good, and let you go amicably.' You are indeed the blessed of the LORD."

Thereupon he made a feast for them, 30 at which they ate and drank. Rising

31 early next morning, they took oath with each other, and then Isaac let

32 them go, and they departed from him on friendly terms. It was that same day

33 that Isaac's slaves came and told him about the well that they had dug; "We have found water," they told him. So

34 he called it Shibah [oath]. That is why the name of the city is Beersheba [the well of the oath] to this day.

When Esau was forty years old, he 34 married Judith, the daughter of Beeri, the Hittite, and Basemath, the daughter of Elon, the Hittite; and they were a source of distress to Isaac and Rebekah.

One day, when Isaac had become old 27 and his eyes so dim that he could not see, he called his older son Esau.

"My son!" he said to him.

"Here I am," he replied.

He said,

2 "Here I am an old man, not knowing what day I may die. Get your weapons,

3 then, your quiver and bow, and go out into the fields, and hunt some game for me. Then make me a tasty dish, such

4 as I like, and bring it to me to eat, that I may give you my blessing before I die."

Now Rebekah was listening when 5 Isaac spoke to his son Esau; so when Esau went off to the fields to hunt game for his father, Rebekah said to her son

7 "I have just heard your father say to your brother Esau, 'Bring me some game, and make me a tasty dish to eat, that I may bless you before the LORD before I die.' Now then, my son, obey me in the charge that I give you. Go to the flock and get two fat kids for me there, that I may make them into a tasty dish for your father, such as he likes. Then you shall take it to your father to eat, that he may bless you before he dies."

11 But Jacob said to his mother Rebekah,

"Ah, but my brother Esau is a hairy man, while I am smooth. Suppose my father were to feel me? I should look like an impious person to him, and bring a curse on myself, and not a blessing."

13 "Let any curse for you, my son, fall on me!" his mother replied. "Only obey me, and go and get them for me."

14 So he went and got them, and brought them to his mother. His mother then made a tasty dish, such as his father liked; and taking the best clothes of her older son Esau, which she had in the house, Rebekah dressed her younger son Jacob in them; she put the skins of the kids on his hands and on the smooth parts of his neck, and committed the tasty dish and bread which she had made into the hands of her son Jacob. Then he went in to his father, and said,

"Father!"

15 "Yes," he said. "Who are you, my son?"

19 Jacob said to his father,

"I am Esau, your first-born; I have done as you told me; now sit up and eat once more of my game, that you may give me your blessing."

20 But Isaac said to his son, "How ever did you come to find it so quickly, my son?"

"Because the LORD your God brought it in my path," he said.

21 Isaac then said to Jacob,

"Come up close that I may feel you, my son, to see whether you really are my son Esau or not."

22 So Jacob went up to his father Isaac, who felt him, and said,

"The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are those of Esau."

23 Hence he did not detect him, because his hands were hairy, like those of his brother Esau; so he blessed him.

"Are you really my son Esau?" he said.

"I am," he replied.

So he said,

24 "Bring me some of your game to eat, my son, that I may give you my blessing."

So he brought it to him, and he ate; he also brought him wine, and he drank. Then his father Isaac said to him,

"Come here and kiss me, my son."

So he went up and kissed him; and when he smelt his clothes, he blessed him, saying,

"Ah, my son's smell is like that of a field that the LORD has blessed. May God give you of the heavens' dew, Of earth's fatness, with plenty of grain and wine!

Nations shall serve you, And peoples bow down to you.

Be master of your brothers, And let your mother's sons bow down to you!

Cursed be they who curse you, And blessed be they who bless you!"

No sooner had Isaac finished blessing Jacob, indeed Jacob had just left the presence of his father Isaac, when his brother Esau came in from his hunt. He too made a tasty dish, and brought it to his father.

"Let my father sit up," he said to his father, "and eat some of his son's game, that you may give me your blessing."

"Who are you?" his father Isaac said to him.

"I am your son," he said, "your first-born, Esau."

Thereupon Isaac was very greatly agitated, and said,

"Who was it then who got some game and brought it to me? I ate heartily of it before you came, and blessed him, so that he is indeed blessed."

On hearing his father's words, Esau cried loud and bitterly, and said to his father,

"Bless me also, my father!"

But he said,

"Your brother came under false colors, and stole your blessing."

"Is it because he is named Jacob that he has twice now got the better of me?" he said. "He stole my birthright, and now he has stolen my blessing!" "Have you not kept a blessing for me?" he added.

137 But Isaac in reply said to Esau, "Since I have made him master over you, and have made all his brothers his slaves, and have provided grain and wine for his sustenance, what then is there that I can do for you, my son?"

138 Esau said to his father,
 "Have you only one blessing, my father? Bless me too, my father."

Whereupon Esau lifted up his voice 139 in weeping. So his father Isaac complied, and said to him,

"Away from the fat of the earth shall your dwelling be,

Away from the dew of the heavens on high.

40 By your sword you shall live,
 And your brother you shall serve;
 But when you become restive,
 You shall break his yoke off your neck."

41 So Esau had a grudge against Jacob because of the blessing which his father had bestowed on him.

"It will soon be time to mourn for my father," Esau said to himself, "and then I will slay my brother Jacob."

42 But Rebekah was informed of the designs of her older son Esau, so she sent for her younger son Jacob, and said to
 him,

"Here is your brother Esau threatening to take revenge on you by murder-

43 ing you! Now, my son, listen to me;
 flee at once to my brother Laban at 44 Haran, and stay awhile with him, until

45 your brother's anger subsides—until your brother's wrath against you relents, and he forgets what you have done to him; then I will send and fetch you from there. Why should I be bereft of both of you on the same day?"

46 So Rebekah said to Isaac,
 "I am tired to death of the Hittite women. If Jacob marries a Hittite woman like these, one of the natives of the land, what good will life be to me?"

48 So Isaac called Jacob, and blessing him, gave him this charge:

"You must not marry any Canaanite 2 woman; go at once to Paddan-aram, to the home of Bethuel, your mother's father, and procure a wife there from the daughters of Laban, your mother's

3 brother. May God Almighty bless you, and make you prolific, and so numerous that you become a company of peoples!

4 May he bestow the blessing vouchsafed to Abraham on you, and likewise on your descendants after you, that you may take possession of the land in which you are now only an immigrant, which God gave to Abraham."

So Isaac sent Jacob away, and he 5 went to Paddan-aram, to Laban, the son of Bethuel, the Aramean, the brother of Rebekah, the mother of Jacob and Esau.

When Esau discovered that Isaac had 6 blessed Jacob, and had sent him off to Paddan-aram to get a wife there, and on blessing him, had charged him not to marry any Canaanite woman, and that 7 Jacob had obeyed his father and mother and had gone to Paddan-aram,
 Esau realized that his father Isaac dis-8 liked Canaanite women, so he went to 9 Ishmael, and married Mahalath, the daughter of Abraham's son Ishmael, the sister of Nebaioth, in addition to the wives that he had.

Leaving Beersheba, Jacob set out for 10 Haran. Reaching a certain sanctuary, 11 he spent the night there; for the sun had set. He took one of the stones of the sanctuary, and using it for a pillow, he lay down in that sanctuary. He had 12 a dream in which he saw a ladder set up on the earth, with its top reaching the sky, and angels of God were ascending and descending on it. Then the LORD 13 stood over him, and said,

"I am the LORD, the God of your father Abraham and of Isaac. The land on which you are lying, I am going to give to you and your descendants.
 Your descendants shall be like the dust 14 on the ground; you shall spread to the west, to the east, to the north, and to the south, so that all races of the earth will invoke blessings on one another through you and your descendants. I 15 will be with you, and guard you wherever you go, and bring you back to this land; for I will never forsake you, until I have done what I have promised you."

When Jacob woke from his sleep, he 16 said,

"The LORD must surely be in this place—and I did not know it!"

He was awe-struck, and said, 17

"What an awesome place this is!
 This can be nothing other than the house of God, and that the gate of the sky."

Accordingly, he called the name of 19 that sanctuary Bethel [house of God],

whereas the earlier name of the city had been Luz.

- 18 So when Jacob rose in the morning, he took the stone which he had used as a pillow, and setting it up as a sacred pillar, he poured oil on its top. Jacob then made this vow:

"If God will go with me, and watch over me on this journey that I am making, and give me food to eat and clothes to wear, so that I come home safely to my father's house, then the LORD shall be my God, and this stone which I have set up as a sacred pillar shall be God's house, and I will give to thee a portion of everything that thou givest me."

- 29 Jacob then continued his journey, and came to the land of the Kedemites. 2 Looking around, he saw a well in the open, with three flocks of sheep lying beside it; for it was from this well that the flocks were watered, but the stone over the mouth of the well was so large that it was only after all the shepherds had collected there that they could roll the stone off the mouth of the well, and water the sheep, after which they would replace the stone over the mouth of the well.

- 4 "My friends, where do you come from?" Jacob said to them.

"We come from Haran," they said.

- 5 "Do you know Laban, the son of Nahor?" he said to them.

"We do," said they.

- 6 "Is he well?" he said to them.

"He is," they said, "and here is his daughter Rachel coming with his sheep!"

- 7 "Why," said he, "the day has still long to run! It is not yet time for the live stock to be gathered in; water the sheep, and go on pasturing them."

- 8 But they said,

"We cannot until all the shepherds assemble, and roll the stone off the mouth of the well so that we can water the sheep."

- 9 While he was still talking with them, Rachel arrived with her father's flock; 10 for she was a shepherdess. As soon as Jacob saw Rachel, the daughter of Laban, his mother's brother, with the flock of Laban, his mother's brother, Jacob went up, and rolling the stone off the mouth of the well, watered the flock 11 of Laban, his mother's brother. Then Jacob kissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice in weeping.

- 12 When Jacob told Rachel that he was a relative of her father and the son of Rebekah, she ran and told her father. As soon as Laban heard about Jacob, 1 his sister's son, he ran to meet him, embraced him, kissed him, and brought him home. Jacob then told Laban his whole story, whereupon Laban said to him,

"You are my very own flesh and blood!"

So he stayed with him for a whole month.

Then Laban said to Jacob,

"Should you, just because you are a relative of mine, work for me for nothing? Let me know what your wages should be."

Now Laban had two daughters, the name of the older being Leah, and that of the younger Rachel; Leah had weak eyes, while Rachel was beautiful and lovely. Jacob had fallen in love with Rachel, so he said,

"I will work seven years for you in return for Rachel, your younger daughter."

Whereupon Laban said, "It is better for me to give her to you than to anyone else; stay with me."

So Jacob worked seven years for Rachel, and they seemed to him but a few days, because he loved her. Then Jacob said to Laban,

"Give me my wife; for my time is up, and I want to marry her."

So Laban gathered all the men of the place, and held a feast; but in the course of the evening he took his daughter Leah and brought her to Jacob, who married her. Laban gave his slave Zilpah to his daughter Leah as her maid.

Next morning, however, Jacob discovered that it was Leah! So he said to Laban,

"What a way for you to treat me! Did I not work with you for Rachel? Why then have you cheated me?"

"It is not customary in our country to marry the younger daughter before the older," Laban said. "Finish the week's festivities for this one, and then I will give you the other also, in return for another seven years' service with me."

Jacob did so; he finished her week's festivities, and then Laban gave him his daughter Rachel in marriage; and to his daughter Rachel he gave his slave

10 Bilhah as her maid. So he married Rachel also, and besides, he loved Rachel more than Leah. Thus he had to work with Laban another seven years.

When the LORD saw that Leah was 11 slighted, he made her pregnant, while 12 Rachel remained barren. So Leah conceived and bore a son, whom she named Reuben [behold a son]; "For," said she, the LORD has taken note of my distress; now my husband will love me."

13 Again she conceived and bore a son; so she said,

"Because the LORD heard that I was slighted, he has given me this one also."

Hence she called his name Simeon [hearing].

14 Again she conceived and bore a son; "This time," she said, "my husband will surely become attached to me, seeing that I have borne him three sons."

That was how he came to be called Levi [attachment].

15 Once more she conceived and bore a son, whereupon she said,

"Now do I praise the LORD!"

That was why she called his name Judah [praise].

Then she stopped bearing children.

16 When Rachel realized that she was not bearing children to Jacob, she became jealous of her sister, and said to Jacob,

"Give me children, or else I die!"

17 Jacob blazed with anger against Rachel, and said,

"Can I take the place of God, who has kept you from having children?"

18 Then she said,

"Here is my slave Bilhah; have intercourse with her, that she may bear children for my knees, and that I too may build up a family through her."

19 So she gave him her maid Bilhah in marriage, and Jacob had intercourse 20 with her. Bilhah conceived and bore

21 Jacob a son, whereupon Rachel said, "God brought judgment upon me, but now he has heeded my cry and given me a son."

That was why she called his name Dan [he brought judgment].

22 Again Rachel's maid, Bilhah, conceived and bore Jacob a second son. Then Rachel said,

23 "It was a clever trick that I played my sister, and I succeeded too!"

So she called his name Naphtali [trick].

When Leah discovered that she had 9 stopped bearing children, she took her maid Zilpah and gave her to Jacob in marriage. Zilpah, Leah's maid, bore 10 Jacob a son, whereupon Leah said,

"How lucky!"

So she called his name Gad [luck].

Zilpah, Leah's maid, bore Jacob another son. So Leah said,

"How fortunate I am; for women will certainly call me fortunate!"

So she called his name Asher [fortune].

At the time of the wheat-harvest 14 Reuben went out into the fields, where he found some mandrakes which he brought home to his mother Leah.

"Please give me some of your son's mandrakes," Rachel said to Leah.

But she said to her,

"Is the fact that you took away my husband such a trifle that you should want to take my son's mandrakes as well?"

"Well then," said Rachel, "he may lie with you tonight in exchange for your son's mandrakes."

So when Jacob came home from the 16 fields in the evening, Leah went out to meet him, and said,

"You must come home with me; for I have hired you with my son's mandrakes."

So he lay with her that night.

God gave heed to Leah, so that she 17 conceived and bore a fifth son to Jacob, whereupon Leah said,

"God has given me my reward for giving my maid to my husband."

So she called his name Issachar [reward].

Again Leah conceived and bore a 19 sixth son to Jacob. Then Leah said,

"God has made me a magnificent present; my husband will surely stay with me now; for I have borne him six sons."

So she called his name Zebulun [abode].

She afterward bore a daughter, 21 whom she named Dinah.

God also remembered Rachel; God 22 gave heed to her, and made her pregnant, so that she conceived and bore 23 a son, whereupon she said,

"God has taken away my reproach"

So she called his name Joseph [may 24 he add], saying,

- "May the LORD give me another son!"
- 25 It was after Rachel had given birth to Joseph that Jacob said to Laban, "Let me go, that I may depart for my own home and country. Give me my wives and children, for whom I have worked for you, that I may go; for you know how well I have worked for you."
- 27 But Laban said to him, "If I may have your permission to say so, I have learned from the omens of you." "Name me your wage," he added, "and I will pay it."
- 29 But he said to him, "You know yourself how I have worked for you, and what your stock has become under my care; for it was little that you had before I came, whereas now it has expanded into a great deal, since the LORD blessed you upon my arrival. But when am I to make provision for my own household?"
- 31 "What should I give you?" he said. "Give me nothing of the sort," said Jacob. "I will go on pasturing and tending your flock, if you will do this for me: go through all the flock today, and remove from it every speckled and spotted sheep, every one of the lambs that is black, and any of the goats that is spotted and speckled; such shall be my pay. At some future time, whenever you may come, my honesty toward you will answer for me in the matter of my hire; if there is any one among the goats that is not speckled and spotted, or among the lambs that is not black, it came into my possession by theft."
- 34 "Good," said Laban, "let it be as you say."
- 35 So that day he removed the striped and spotted he-goats, all the speckled and spotted she-goats, every one with white on it, and all of the lambs that were black; and handing them over to his sons he put a distance of three days' journey between himself and Jacob, while Jacob remained in charge of the rest of Laban's flock.
- 37 Then Jacob procured some fresh boughs of poplar, almond, and plane, and peeled white stripes in them, thus laying bare the white on the boughs.
- 38 He then placed the boughs which he had peeled in front of the sheep in the troughs, that is, the water-troughs, where the sheep came to drink. Since they bred when they came to drink, the sheep bred among the boughs, and so had lambs that were striped, speckled, and spotted. Jacob set the lambs apart, and so added the best sheep in Laban's flock to those that were striped and all black. He put his own flock off by themselves, and did not add them to Laban's flock. Whenever the harder ewes were breeding, Jacob used to put the boughs in the troughs in front of the flock so that they might breed among the boughs, but not in the case of the weaker ones. Thus the weaker ones fell to Laban, and the harder to Jacob. The man, accordingly, grew richer and richer, and had large flocks, as well as male and female slaves, camels and asses.

Now Jacob heard Laban's sons saying, "Jacob has taken all that our father had; it is out of what our father had that he has acquired all this wealth." Jacob saw too that the attitude of Laban toward him was not what it used to be; so the LORD said to Jacob,

"Return to the land of your fathers and to your relatives; I will be with you."

So Jacob sent for Rachel and Leah to come to his flock in the fields, and said to them,

"I see that your father's attitude toward me is not what it used to be. However, the God of my father is with me. You know yourselves that I have worked for your father to the best of my ability, whereas your father has cheated me, and has changed my wages ten times. But God has not allowed him to do me any harm. Whenever he said, 'The speckled animals are to be your wage,' then all the sheep had speckled lambs; and whenever he said, 'The striped animals are to be your wage,' all the sheep had striped lambs. Thus God has taken away your father's stock, and given it to me.

"Once when the sheep were breeding, I had a dream, and raising my eyes, I saw that the rams that were leaping on the goats were striped, speckled, and mottled. Then the angel of God said to me in the dream, 'Jacob!' 'Here I am,' said I. Whereupon he said, 'Raise your eyes, and look; all the rams that are leaping on the goats are striped, speckled, and mottled—for I have seen all that Laban has been doing to you.

13 I am the God who appeared to you at Bethel, where you anointed a sacred pillar and made a vow to me. Come then, leave this land, and return to the land of your birth."

14 In response Rachel and Leah said to him,

"Is there any share or heritage left to us in our father's house? Are we not considered foreigners by him? For he sold us, and has enjoyed the usufruct of our dowry as well. All the property which God has taken from our father really belongs to us and our children; so do just what God has told you to do."

17 So Jacob proceeded to mount his sons and wives on camels, and drove off all his stock, all the live stock which he had acquired, his accumulated stock, which he had acquired in Paddan-aram, to go home to his father Isaac in the land of Canaan.

19 When Laban was away shearing his sheep, Rachel stole the household gods that belonged to her father; and Jacob outwitted Laban, the Aramean, by not telling him that he was going to flee. 20 So he fled, with all that belonged to him; starting forth, he crossed the River, and set his face toward the highlands of Gilead.

22 Three days later Laban was told that Jacob had fled; so he took his fellow-tribesmen with him, and pursued him for seven days, overtaking him in the highlands of Gilead. But God had come to Laban, the Aramean, in a dream one night, and had said to him, "Take care to say nothing to Jacob, either good or bad." So when Laban came up with Jacob, Jacob having pitched his tent on Mount Mizpeh, and Laban having encamped with his fellow-tribesmen on Mount Gilead, Laban said to Jacob,

"What do you mean by outwitting me, and carrying off my daughters like prisoners of war? Why did you flee in secret without telling me, and rob me? I would have sent you off with mirth and songs, with tambourine and lyre. 28 You did not even allow me to kiss my grandsons and daughters goodbye! 29 How foolishly you have acted! I had it in my power to do you harm, but the God of your father said to me the other night, 'Take care to say nothing to Jacob, either good or bad.' So now you are off, because of course you longed for your father's home! But why did you steal my gods?"

In reply Jacob said to Laban, 31

"I was afraid; for I thought that you would take your daughters from me by force. The one in whose possession you find your gods shall not live; in the presence of our tribesmen identify whatever is yours among my belongings, and take it."

(But Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them.)

So Laban went into the tent of Jacob, the tent of Leah, and that of the two maids, but found nothing. Leaving Leah's tent, he went into Rachel's. Now Rachel had taken the household gods, and putting them in the camel's saddle, had sat down on them. So when Laban had felt all over the tent without finding anything, she said to her father, 35

"Let not my lord be angry that I cannot rise in your presence; for the ailment common to women is on me."

So he searched thoroughly, but did not find the household gods.

Then Jacob grew angry, and took Laban to task; Jacob spoke up, and said to Laban,

"What is my offense; what is my misdeed, that you should have come raging after me, and have felt all through my goods? Whatever goods you have found belonging to your house, set out here in the sight of my tribesmen and yours, that they may decide the issue between us two. For the past twenty years I have been with you; your ewes and she-goats have never miscarried; and I have never eaten the rams of your flock. I never reported to you the animals torn by wild beasts—I bore the loss myself. You held me responsible for anything stolen by day or night. It was my lot to have the heat wear me out in the day-time, and the cold at night, and to lose my sleep. For 41 twenty years now I have been a member of your household; I worked fourteen years for you for your two daughters, and six years for your sheep. Ten times you changed my wages; and if the God of my father, the God of Abraham and the Awe of Isaac, had not been on my side, you would now have sent me away empty-handed. God saw my suffering and the fruits of my toil, and he has just recently set it right."

43 In reply Laban said to Jacob, "The girls are my daughters, the children are my grandchildren, the flocks are my flocks—indeed everything that you see is mine; but what can I do now about these daughters of mine, or the children that they have 44 borne? Come then, let us make a covenant, you and me, and let the LORD be witness between us."

45 So Jacob took a stone and set it up as a sacred pillar.

46 Jacob said to his men, "Gather stones."

So they procured stones, and made a cairn. Then they had a meal there 47 beside the cairn. Laban called it Jegar-sahadutha [Aramaic for "cairn of witness"], while Jacob called it Galeed [Hebrew for "cairn of witness"].

48 "This cairn," said Laban, "is a witness between you and me today."

That was how it came to be named 49 Galeed. Of the sacred pillar he said, "May the LORD keep watch between you and me when we are out of one another's sight. If you ill-treat my daughters, or marry other wives beside my daughters, although there may be no man to watch us, remember that God is witness between you and me."

51 Further, Laban said to Jacob, "See, this cairn and the sacred pillar which I have erected stand between 52 you and me. This cairn is a witness, and the sacred pillar a witness that I will not pass this cairn to harm you, and that you will not pass this cairn 53 and sacred pillar to harm me. May the God of Abraham and the God of Nahor (the gods of their ancestors) be judge between us!"

54 So Jacob swore to it by the Awe of his father Isaac. Jacob then offered a sacrifice on the hill, and invited his relatives to partake of the meal. They did so, and then spent the night on the hill.

55 Next morning Laban rose early, and after kissing his grandchildren and his daughters, and giving them his blessing, he left and went home, while Jacob 52 resumed his journey. Then the angels 2 of God encountered him; and as soon as he saw them, Jacob said, "This is God's camp," and so called the name of that place Mahanaim [camps].

3 Jacob sent messengers ahead of him to his brother Esau in the land of Seir, the country of Edom, commanding 4 them as follows:

"Thus shall you speak to my lord Esau: 'Thus says your servant Jacob: 'I have been residing with Laban, and having stayed right up to now, I have 5 oxen, asses, flocks, male and female slaves; so I am sending to tell my lord in the hope of finding favor with you.'"

The messengers returned to Jacob, 6 saying,

"We came to your brother Esau as he was on his way to meet you, accompanied by four hundred men."

Very much terrified and distressed, 7 Jacob divided the people that were with him into two companies, as well as the flocks, herds, and camels. "If 8 Esau comes on one company and destroys it," he thought, "then the remaining company can escape."

Then Jacob said, 9 "O LORD, God of my father Abraham and my father Isaac, who didst say to me, 'Return to your country and your kindred, and I will make you prosperous,' I do not deserve all the 10 acts of kindness and fidelity that thou hast shown thy servant; for with nothing but my staff I crossed the Jordan here, but now I have become two companies. Save me, I beseech thee, from 11 the power of my brother Esau; for I am afraid that he will come and slay me, as well as the mothers and children. But 12 thou didst say, 'I will be sure to make you prosperous, and I will make your descendants like the sands of the sea, which are too numerous to count.'"

So Jacob stayed there that night. 13

From what he had at hand he selected a present for his brother Esau: two 14 hundred she-goats and twenty he-goats, two hundred ewes and twenty rams, thirty milch camels with their 15 colts, forty cows and ten bulls, twenty she-asses and ten he-asses. Putting 16 them in charge of his slaves, with each drove by itself, he said to his slaves,

"Proceed ahead of me, and leave a space between one drove and another."

To the leader he gave this order: 17

"When my brother Esau meets you, and asks you, 'To whom do you belong; where are you going; and to whom do these animals belong that you are driving?' say, 'To your servant Jacob; they 18

are a present, sent to my lord Esau, while he himself is just behind us." "

19 He gave the same orders to the second, and the third, and to all the others who were driving the droves, saying,

"Give this same message to Esau, 20 when you meet him. Also be sure to say 'Your servant Jacob is just behind us.' "

"For," thought he, "I may appease him with the present that precedes me, and then when he does see me, he may perhaps receive me kindly."

21 So the present went on ahead of him, while he himself spent that night in the camp.

22 That same night he rose, and taking his two wives, his two female slaves, and his eleven children, he sent them

23 across the ford of the Jabbok. He took them, and sent them across the stream, and sent everything that belonged to 24 him across. Jacob himself was left behind all alone. Then a man wrestled

25 with him until daybreak, and when he found that he could not master him, he touched the socket of his thigh, so that the socket of Jacob's thigh was dislocated as he wrestled

26 with him. Then he said,

"Let me go; for the dawn is breaking."

But he replied,

"I will not let you go, unless you bless me."

27 "What is your name?" he said to him.

"Jacob," he replied.

28 Then he said,

"Your name shall no longer be Jacob, but Israel [wrestler with God], because you have wrestled with God and man, and have been the victor."

29 "Please tell me your name," requested Jacob.

"Why is it that you ask for my name?" he replied; nevertheless he blessed him there.

30 So Jacob called the name of that place Peniel [face of God]; "For," said he, "I have seen God face to face, and yet my life has been spared."

31 The sun rose on him just as he passed Penuel, limping because of his thigh.

32 That is why to this day the Israelites do not eat the hip muscle which is on the socket of the thigh; for the socket of Jacob's thigh was touched on the hip muscle.

Raising his eyes, Jacob saw Esau 33 coming, accompanied by four hundred men; so he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two maids, and 2 put the maids with their children in front, then Leah with her children, and finally Rachel and Joseph in the rear, while he himself went on ahead of 3 them, bowing seven times to the earth until he reached his brother. Then 4 Esau ran to meet him, and embracing him, fell on his neck, and kissed him, so that they wept. When he raised his 5 eyes, he saw the women and children, and said,

"What relation are these to you?"

"The children whom God has graciously bestowed on your servant," he replied.

Whereupon the maids came up with 6 their children and bowed; and likewise 7 Leah with her children came up and bowed; and then Joseph and Rachel came up and bowed.

"What do you mean by all this company that I met?" he said.

"To win my lord's favor," he replied.

"I have plenty, my brother," said 9 Esau; "keep what you have."

But Jacob said,

10 "Not at all; if perchance I find favor with you, accept my present from me, since it is like seeing the face of God for me to see your face, in that you have received me favorably. Please accept 11 my gift of greeting that has been brought to you; for God has been good to me, and I have all I need."

Thus he urged him until he took it, whereupon he said,

12 "Let us set out on our way; I will go alongside you."

But he replied,

13 "My lord can see for himself that the children are frail, and that the sheep and cattle giving suck are a care to me; if they were to be over-driven a single day, the whole flock would die. Pray 14 let my lord go on ahead of his servant, and I will proceed leisurely, at the pace of the stock that I am driving, and at the pace of the children, until I join my lord at Seir."

"At least," said Esau, "let me leave 15 with you some of the troops accompanying me."

"How can I thank my lord?" he said.

So Esau started back that day on his 16 way to Seir, while Jacob set out for Suc- 17

coth, where he built a house for himself, and constructed sheds for his cattle. That was how the place came to be named Succoth [sheds].

18 In the course of his journey from Paddan-aram, Jacob arrived safely at the city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, and camped in front of 19 the city. For one hundred kesitas he bought the piece of ground on which he had pitched his tent from the sons of 20 Hamor, the father of Shechem. There he erected an altar, which he called Elohe-Israel [El, the God of Israel].

34 Now Dinah, the daughter that Leah had borne to Jacob, went out to visit
2 the women of the district. When Shechem, the son of Hamor, the Hivvite, the prince of the district, saw her, he seized her, and lay with her, and ravished her. He had a passionate longing
3 for Dinah, the daughter of Jacob; he loved the girl, and spoke endearingly to 4 her. So Shechem said to his father Hamor,

"Get this girl for me in marriage."

5 Jacob heard that his daughter Dinah had been violated, but since his sons were out in the country with the stock, Jacob took no action until their return.

6 Hamor, the father of Shechem, went 7 to Jacob to speak with him. The sons of Jacob had come in from the country as soon as they heard the news, and the men were distressed and very angry that such a shameless act had been committed in Israel as the violation of Jacob's daughter—which thing ought 8 not to be done. But Hamor said to them,

"My son Shechem has set his heart on your daughter; pray give her to him 9 in marriage. Intermarry with us, giving us your daughters in marriage, and 10 marrying ours. If you will make your home with us, the land will be at your disposal; settle down, engage in trade, and acquire property in it."

11 Shechem said to her father and brothers,

"If I may find favor with you, I will pay anything that you demand of me.
12 Ask me ever so much in the way of marriage-price and presents, and I will pay you just what you demand of me; only give me the girl in marriage."

13 But the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and his father Hamor craftily, and refused, because he had violated their sister Dinah; and they said to 14 them,

"We cannot do such a thing as to give our sister to a man that is uncircumcised; for that would be a disgrace to us. Only on this condition will we 15 accede to your requests, that you become like us, every male among you becoming circumcised. Then we will give 16 you our daughters in marriage, and marry yours; we will make our home with you, and become a single people. If you will not agree to our proposal to 17 become circumcised, we will take our daughters and go away."

The proposal was agreeable to Ha- 18 mor, and to Shechem, the son of Hamor.

The young man made no delay in 19 carrying the matter through; for he was in love with Jacob's daughter, and he himself was the most important of his father's family.

So Hamor and his son Shechem came 20 to their city gate, and said to their fellow-citizens,

"These men are well disposed to- 21 ward us; let them make their home in the land, and engage in trade in it, since the land is quite spacious enough for them; let us marry their daughters, and give them our daughters in marriage. It is only on this condition, how- 22 ever, that the men will agree to make their home with us, and form a single people: that all the males among us become circumcised as they are. Will not 23 their live stock and possessions and all their cattle be to our advantage? If we will but agree to their proposal, they will make their home with us."

All those accustomed to go out 24 through the gates of his city agreed with Hamor and his son Shechem, and all the males were circumcised, namely, all those accustomed to go out through the gates of his city.

On the third day, when they were 25 sore, the two sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's brothers, each took his sword, and advancing boldly against the city, they slew every male. Hamor 26 and his son Shechem they put to the sword, and taking Dinah from the house of Shechem, they made off. Coming 27 upon the slain, the sons of Jacob sacked the city that had violated their sister, taking its flocks, herds, and asses, what 28 was in the city and in the fields; all its 29 wealth, and all its women and children they captured, and took as spoil everything that was in the houses.

30 Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, "You have brought trouble on me by bringing me into bad odor with the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites and Perizzites. My numbers are small, and if they combine against me and attack me, I shall be destroyed, both I and my family."

31 But they replied, "Could our sister be treated like a harlot?"

32 Then God said to Jacob, "Rise, go up to Bethel to live, and construct an altar there to the God who appeared to you when you fled from your brother Esau."

2 So Jacob said to his household and all who were with him,

"Get rid of the foreign gods that are in your midst, purify yourselves, and change your garments. Then we shall set out and go up to Bethel, where I am to construct an altar to the God who answered me at the time of my distress, and has accompanied me wherever I have gone."

4 So they handed over to Jacob all the foreign gods that they had, as well as rings that were in their ears, and Jacob buried them at the foot of the terebinth near Shechem. Then they set out, and so great was the terror of God on the cities around them that they did not pursue the sons of Jacob. So Jacob and all the people that were with him reached Luz (that is, Bethel), which is in the land of Canaan, and there he built an altar, calling the sanctuary El-Bethel, because it was there that God had revealed himself to him when he fled from his brother.

8 When Deborah, Rebekah's nurse, died, she was buried below Bethel, at the foot of the oak; so it came to be named the Oak of Weeping.

9 On his journey from Paddan-aram, God again appeared to Jacob, and blessed him. God said to him,

10 "Your name has been Jacob; you shall no longer be called Jacob, but Israel is to be your name."

So he came to be named Israel.

11 Further, God said to him,

"I am God Almighty; be fruitful and multiply; a nation, or rather a company of nations shall come from you, and kings shall spring from you. The land which I gave to Abraham and Isaac, I will give to you, and to your descendants after you I will give it."

God then left him at the place where he spoke with him, whereupon Jacob erected a sacred pillar at the place where he spoke with him, a pillar of stone, poured a libation on it, and anointed it with oil. So Jacob called the name of the place where God spoke with him Bethel.

They then set out from Bethel, and while it was still some little distance to the vicinity of Ephrath, Rachel gave birth to a child, with terrible labor. In the midst of her labor, the midwife said to her,

"Do not be afraid; for here is another son for you."

Just as her spirit left her (for she died), she called his name Benoni, but his father called him Benjamin. Thus Rachel died, and was buried on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem). At her grave Jacob set up a sacred pillar; it remains to this day as the Pillar of Rachel's Grave.

Israel then moved on, and pitched his tent on the further side of Migdaleder. It was while Israel was living in that land that Reuben went and lay with Bilhah, his father's consort; and Israel heard of it.

The sons of Jacob were twelve in number: the sons of Leah: Reuben, Jacob's first-born, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun; the sons of Rachel: Joseph and Benjamin; the sons of Bilhah, Rachel's maid: Dan and Naphtali; and the sons of Zilpah, Leah's maid: Gad and Asher. These were the sons of Jacob that were born to him in Paddan-aram.

Then Jacob joined his father Isaac at Mamre or Kirjath-arba (that is, Hebron), where Abraham and Isaac had settled as immigrants. The length of Isaac's life was one hundred and eighty years; then Isaac came to his death; he died and was gathered to his fathers, an old man, satisfied with life; and his sons, Esau and Jacob, buried him.

The following are the descendants of Esau (that is, Edom). Esau married Canaanite women: Adah, the daughter of Elon, the Hittite, Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the son of Zibeon, the Hivvite, and Basemath, the daugh- ter of Ishmael, the sister of Nebaioth.

- 4 Adah bore Eliphaz to Esau, Basemath
5 bore Reuel, and Oholibamah bore Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. These were the sons of Esau that were born to him in the land of Canaan.
- 6 Then Esau took his wives, his sons, his daughters, all the members of his household, his flocks, all his cattle, and all the property that he had acquired in the land of Canaan, and went away to another land out of the way of his 7 brother Jacob; for their possessions were too great for them to live together, and the land in which they were living as immigrants could not support them 8 because of their live stock. So Esau made his home in the highlands of Seir (Esau being Edom).
- 9 The following are the descendants of Esau, the ancestor of Edom in the high-10 lands of Seir; the following are the names of the sons of Esau: Eliphaz, the son of Esau's wife Adah, and Reuel, 11 the son of Esau's wife Basemath. The sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, 12 Zepho, Gatam, and Kenaz; while Tim-na was a consort of Esau's son Eliphaz, and bore Amalek to Eliphaz. These were the descendants of Esau's wife Adah.
- 13 The following are the sons of Reuel:
Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Miz-zah. These were the descendants of Esau's wife Basemath.
- 14 The following are the sons of Esau's wife Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the son of Zibeon: she bore Jeush, Jalam, and Korah to Esau.
- 15 The following are the chieftains of the Esauites. The sons of Eliphaz, the first-born of Esau: the chieftains of 16 Teman, Omar, Zepho, Kenaz, Korah, Gatam, and Amalek. These were the chieftains of Eliphaz in the land of Edom, the same being the descendants of Adah.
- 17 The following are the sons of Esau's
son Reuel: the chieftains of Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the chieftains of Reuel in the land of Edom, the same being the descendants of Esau's wife Basemath.
- 18 The following are the sons of Esau's wife Oholibamah: the chieftains of Jeush, Jalam, and Korah. These were the chieftains of Esau's wife Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah.

These were the sons of Esau (that is, 19 Edom), and these their chieftains.

The following are the sons of Seir, the 20
Horite, the inhabitants of the land: Lo-tan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, 21 Ezer, and Dishan. These were the chieftains of the Horites, the descendants of Seir in the land of Edom. The 22 sons of Lotan were Hori and Hemam, while Lotan's sister was Timna. The 23 following are the sons of Shobal: Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, Shepho, and Onam. The following are the sons of Zibeon: Aiah and Anah (he is the 24 Anah who found the hot springs in the desert while he was pasturing the asses of his father Zibeon). The follow- 25 ing are the sons of Anah: Dishon and Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah.
The following are the sons of Dishon: 26
Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran.
The following are the sons of Ezer: Bil- 27 han, Zaavan, and Akan. The following 28 are the sons of Dishan: Uz and Aran.

The following are the chieftains of 29
the Horites: the chieftains of Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, Dishon, Ezer, 30 and Dishan. These were the chieftains of the Horites in the land of Seir, chieftain by chieftain.

The following are the kings who 31 reigned in the land of Edom before the Israelites had a king. Bela, the son of 32 Beor, reigned in Edom, the name of his capital being Dinhabah. After the 33 death of Bela, Jobab, the son of Zerah of Bozrah, succeeded to the throne.
After the death of Jobab, Husham from 34 the land of the Temanites succeeded to the throne. After the death of Husham, 35 Hadad, the son of Bedad, who defeated the Midianites in the country of Moab, succeeded to the throne, the name of his capital being Avith. After the death 36 of Hadad, Samlah of Masrekah succeeded to the throne. After the death 37 of Samlah, Shaul of Rehoboth-nahar succeeded to the throne. After the 38 death of Shaul, Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor, succeeded to the throne. After 39 the death of Baal-hanan, the son of Achbor, Hadar succeeded to the throne, the name of his capital being Peor, and his wife's name Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the son of Me-zahab.

The following are the names of the 40 chieftains of Esau, arranged according to their clans and arranged of residence, in the order of their names; the chieftains

- 41 of Timna, Alvah, Jetheth, Oholibamah, 42 Elah, Pinon, Kenaz, Teman, Mibzar, 43 Magdiel, and Iram. These were the chieftains of Edom (that is Esau, the ancestor of Edom), arranged according to their places of residence in the regions that they held.
- 37 Jacob, however, made his home in the land where his father had lived as an immigrant, the land of Canaan.

THE STORY OF JOSEPH,

37:2—48:22

- 2 The following are the descendants of Jacob.
- At the age of seventeen Joseph used to accompany his brothers in looking after the flocks, being a mere lad alongside the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph brought a bad report of them to their father.
- 3 Now Israel loved Joseph more than any of his other sons, because he was the son of his old age; so he made a long 4 cloak for him. When his brothers saw that their father loved him more than any of his brothers, they hated him, and could not say a good word about
 him.
- 5 Joseph had a dream, which he told to his brothers, so that they hated him all 6 the more. He said to them,
 "Listen to this dream that I have 7 had. While we were binding sheaves in the field, my sheaf rose up and remained standing, while your sheaves gathered round it, and made obeisance to my sheaf!"
- 8 His brothers said to him,
 "Are you indeed to be king over us;
 would you actually rule us?"
 So they hated him all the more for his dreams and for his words.
- 9 Then he had another dream which he recounted to his brothers.
 "I have just had another dream," he said, "and the sun, moon, and eleven stars made obeisance to me!"
- 10 When he recounted it to his father and his brothers, his father reproved him, saying to him,
 "What is this dream that you have had? Am I actually to come with your mother and your brothers, and make obeisance to the earth to you?"
- 11 But while his brothers became jealous of him, his father kept the matter in mind.

After his brothers had gone off to 12 pasture their father's flocks at Shechem, Israel said to Joseph, 13

"Are not your brothers pasturing the flocks at Shechem? Come, let me send you to them."

"I am ready," he replied.

So he said to him, 14

"Go and see how your brothers are,
 and the flocks; and bring me back word."

So he despatched him from the valley of Hebron; and he arrived at Shechem.
 But a man found him wandering about 15
 the country; so the man asked him,

"What are you looking for?"

"I am looking for my brothers," he 16 said; "do tell me where they are pasturing the flocks."

The man said, 17

"They have moved from here; for I heard them say, 'Let us go to Dothan.'"

So Joseph followed his brothers, and found them at Dothan. But they saw 18 him in the distance, and before he could reach them, they plotted against him to kill him.

"There comes the dreamer yonder!" 19
 they said to one another. "Come now, 20 let us kill him, and throw him into one of the pits. We can say that a wild beast devoured him. Then we shall see what his dreams will come to."

But when Reuben heard this, he tried 21 to save him from their hands; so he said,

"Let us not take his life."

"Do not shed any blood," Reuben 22 said to them; "throw him into the pit here in the wilderness, but do not lay hands on him" (his idea being to save him from their hands, and restore him to his father).

As soon as Joseph reached his broth- 23 ers, they stripped him of his cloak (the long cloak that he was wearing), and 24 seizing him, they threw him into the pit. The pit, however, was empty, with no water in it.

Then they sat down to eat a meal; 25
 but raising their eyes, they saw a caravan of Ishmaelites coming from Gilead, with their camels carrying gum, balm,
 and laudanum, which they were engaged in taking down to Egypt. There- 26 upon Judah said to his brothers,

"What is the good of killing our brother and covering up his blood?"

- 27 Come, let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and not lay hands on him; for after all he is our brother, our own flesh."
- 28 His brothers agreed. Some Midianite traders passed by, so pulling Joseph up, they lifted him out of the pit. They sold Joseph to the Ishmaelites for twenty shekels of silver; and they took him to Egypt.
- 29 So when Reuben went back to the pit, there was no Joseph in the pit.
- 30 Then he tore his clothes, and returning to his brothers, said,
"The boy is gone! And I, how can I go home?"
- 31 Then they took Joseph's cloak, and killing a goat, they dipped the cloak in the blood. So they soiled the long cloak, and then they brought it to their father, saying,
"We found this; see whether it is your son's cloak or not."
- 32 Examining it, he said,
"It is my son's cloak! Some wild beast has devoured him; Joseph must be torn to pieces."
- 33 Then Jacob tore his clothes, and girded himself with sackcloth, and mourned for his son for a long time. His sons and daughters all tried to console him, but he would not be consoled.
- 34 "No," he said, "I will go down mourning to Sheol to my son."
Thus did his father weep for him.
- 35 Meanwhile the Midianites had sold him in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, his head steward.
- 36 It was at that time that Judah separated from his family, and joined an Adullamite whose name was Hirah.
- 2 There Judah saw the daughter of a Canaanite whose name was Shua. Marrying her, he had intercourse with her, and she conceived and bore a son, whom he named Er. Again she conceived and bore a son, whom she named Onan. She bore still another son whom she named Shelah. It was at Chezib that she bore him.
- 6 For Er, his first-born, Judah chose a wife whose name was Tamar; but Er, Judah's first-born, was so displeasing to the LORD that the LORD killed him.
- 8 Then Judah said to Onan,
"Marry your brother's widow; do the duty of a brother-in-law to her, and rear a family for your brother."
- 9 But Onan, knowing that the family would not be his, wasted his semen on the ground whenever he had intercourse with his brother's widow, so as not to give his brother a family. What 10 he did was so displeasing to the LORD that he killed him too. So Judah said to 11 his daughter-in-law Tamar,

"Remain a widow in your father's house until my son Shelah grows up."
"Lest," thought he, "he too should perish like his brothers."

So Tamar went away, and lived in her father's house.

In the course of time Judah's wife, 12 the daughter of Shua, died. After completing the mourning ceremonies, Judah went up to Timnah with his friend Hirah, the Adullamite, to look after the shearing of his sheep; and news of it 13 was brought to Tamar, "Your father-in-law is going up to Timnah to shear his sheep." So she took off her widow's 14 dress, and covered herself with a veil; and thus veiled, she sat down at the gateway of Enaim, which was on the road to Timnah; for she realized that although Shelah had grown up she would not be given to him in marriage. When Judah saw her, he took her for 15 a harlot, because she had veiled her face. So he stepped over to her at the 16 roadside, and said,

"Here, let me have intercourse with you" (for he did not know that she was his daughter-in-law).

"What will you give me," she said, "for having intercourse with me?"

"I will send you a kid from the 17 flock," he said.

"Will you give me a pledge until you send it?" she asked.

"What pledge shall I give you?" he 18 said.

"Your signet-ring," she said, "your cord for it, and the staff that is in your hand."

So he gave them to her, and then had intercourse with her, and she conceived by him. Then she rose and went away, 19 and taking off her veil, she put on her widow's dress.

When Judah sent the kid by his 20 friend, the Adullamite, to recover the pledge from the woman, he could not find her. So he asked the men of the 21 place,

"Where is the temple-prostitute who was by the roadside at Enaim?"

"No temple-prostitute has been here," they said.

22 He then went back to Judah, and said,

"I could not find her, and further, the men of the place say, 'No temple-prostitute has been here.'"

23 So Judah said,

"Let her keep the things, lest we incur a scandal; anyway I sent the kid, but you could not find her."

24 It was some three months later that Judah was told, "Tamar, your daughter-in-law, has played the harlot, and further, she is with child as a result of the harlotry."

"Bring her out, and let her be burned," said Judah.

25 But as she was being brought out, she sent word to her father-in-law,

"By the man to whom these things belong, I am with child." "Please note whose they are," she said, "this signet-ring and cord and staff."

26 Judah acknowledged them, and said, "She is more in the right than I, inasmuch as I did not marry her to my son Shelah."

But never again did he have intercourse with her.

27 When the time of her delivery came, 28 there were twins in her womb! In the course of her delivery one put out his hand, whereupon the midwife took a scarlet thread and tied it on his hand, saying,

"This one should be born first."

29 But just as he drew back his hand, his brother was born.

"How you have forged your way through!" she said.

So he was named Perez [a forging through].

30 Afterward his brother was born, who had the scarlet thread on his hand; so he was named Zerah [scarlet].

31 When Joseph was taken down to Egypt, Potiphar, an Egyptian, an officer of Pharaoh, his head steward, bought him from the Ishmaelites who 2 had taken him down there. The LORD was with Joseph, so that he became a prosperous man. He lived in the house 3 of his master, the Egyptian; and his master noticed that the LORD was with him and that the LORD made everything prosper with him that he undertook; so Joseph found favor with him, and was made his personal attendant; then he made him superintendent of his household, and put him in charge of all his property. From the time that he 5 made him superintendent of his household and all his property, the LORD blessed the house of the Egyptian for Joseph's sake, the LORD'S blessing resting on everything that belonged to him, both indoors and outdoors. So he left 6 everything that he had to Joseph's charge, and having him, gave no concern to anything, except the food that he ate.

Now Joseph was so handsome and 7 good-looking that some time later the wife of his master took a fancy to Joseph, and said,

"Lie with me."

But he refused, saying to his master's wife,

"Having me, my master is giving no concern to anything in the house, but has committed all his property to my charge; there is no one in this house 9 greater than I; he has kept nothing from me except yourself, and that because you are his wife. How then can I commit this great crime, and sin against God?"

Though she spoke to Joseph day after 10 day, he would not listen to her solicitations to lie with her, or be with her. One day, however, when he went into 11 the house to do his work, none of the household servants being anywhere in the house, she caught hold of his coat, 12 saying,

"Lie with me."

But he fled, leaving the coat in her hands, and went outdoors. When she 13 saw that he had fled outdoors, leaving his coat in her hands, she called her 14 household servants, and said to them,

"See how he has brought this Hebrew fellow into our house to violate us! He came into my room to lie with me, but I screamed; and as soon as he heard me 15 scream and call, he fled, leaving his coat beside me, and went outdoors."

So she left the coat beside her until 16 his master came home, and then told 17 him this same story,

"The Hebrew slave whom you brought into our house came into my room to violate me, but as soon as I 18 screamed and called, he fled outdoors, leaving his coat beside me."

When Joseph's master heard the 19 statements of his wife who said to him, "This is the way your slave treated me," his anger blazed, and Joseph's 20 master took him and threw him into the prison where state prisoners were confined. So he lay there in prison.

21 The LORD, however, was with Joseph and was kind to him, and got 22 him into the good graces of the jailer, so that the jailer put Joseph in charge of all the prisoners who were in the jail, and he looked after everything that was 23 done there. The jailer exercised no oversight over anything in his charge, because the LORD was with him, and the LORD made whatever he undertook prosper.

40 Some time after these events the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt offended their lord, the king of 2 Egypt, so that Pharaoh became angry with his two officers, the chief butler 3 and the chief baker, and put them in custody in the head steward's house, in the prison where Joseph was confined. 4 The head steward intrusted Joseph with them, and he waited on them. After they had been in custody some 5 time, they both had dreams on the same night, each having a dream of different meaning—the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt who were confined in 6 the prison. When Joseph came to them in the morning, he saw that they were 7 worried, so he asked Pharaoh's officers who were in custody with him in his master's house,

"Why do you look so gloomy today?"

8 "We have had dreams," they replied, "and there is no one to interpret them."

Joseph said to them,

"Does not dream interpretation belong to God? Pray recount them to me."

9 So the chief butler recounted his dream to Joseph.

"In my dream," he said to him,

10 "there was a vine in front of me, and on the vine were three branches. As soon as it budded, its blossoms shot up, its 11 clusters ripened into grapes. With Pharaoh's cup in my hand, I took the grapes, and squeezing them into Pharaoh's cup, I placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand."

12 Joseph said to him,

"This is its interpretation: the three 13 branches represent three days; within three days Pharaoh shall summon you, and restore you to your position, so that you shall place Pharaoh's cup in his hand as you used to do when you were his butler; so, if you will be good enough 14 to keep me in mind when prosperity comes to you, do me the kindness of mentioning me to Pharaoh, and so liberate me from this house; for I was 15 really kidnapped from the land of the Hebrews, and further, I have done nothing here that I should be put into a dungeon."

When the chief baker found that the 16 interpretation was favorable, he said to Joseph,

"I too had a dream; in mine there were three open-work baskets on my head, and in the top basket was some of 17 every kind of baked food for Pharaoh, but the birds were eating it out of the basket on my head."

Joseph answered,

18 "This is its interpretation: the three baskets represent three days; within 19 three days Pharaoh shall summon you, and hang you on a tree, and the birds shall eat the flesh off you."

On the third day, which was Pharaoh's birthday, he held a feast for all his officials; and among his officials he summoned the chief butler and the chief baker. The chief butler he restored to 21 his duties, so that he again placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand; but the chief 22 baker he hanged, as Joseph had told them in his interpretation. The chief 23 butler, however, did not keep Joseph in mind, but forgot him.

Two whole years later Pharaoh 4 dreamed that he was standing beside the Nile, when seven beautiful, fat cows 2 came up out of the Nile, and browsed in the sedge. After them seven other 3 cows came up out of the Nile, ugly and thin, and stood beside the other cows on the bank of the Nile. Then the thin, 4 ugly cows ate up the seven beautiful, fat cows, whereupon Pharaoh awoke. When he fell asleep again, he had a second 5 dream: there were seven ears of grain growing on a single stalk, fine and plump, and after them there sprouted 6 seven other ears, thin and blasted by the east wind. Then the thin ears swallowed 7 up the seven fine, full ears, whereupon Pharaoh awoke, only to find it a dream!

Next morning he was so perturbed 8 that he sent for all the magicians and wise men of Egypt. To them Pharaoh recounted his dreams, but no one could 9 interpret them for Pharaoh. Then the chief butler said to Pharaoh,

10 "I would today recall my offense, how Pharaoh became angry with his servants, and put them in custody in the house of the head steward, myself and the chief baker. On the same night we had dreams, he and I, each of us having a dream of different meaning. 11 With us there was a Hebrew youth, a slave belonging to the head steward, and when we recounted our dreams to him, he interpreted them for us, giving each the proper interpretation of his dream. And it fell out just as he had indicated in the interpretation; I was restored to my position, while the other was hanged."

12 Thereupon Pharaoh sent for Joseph, and he was brought hurriedly from the dungeon. When he had shaved and changed his clothes, he came into Pharaoh's presence.

13 "I have had a dream," Pharaoh said to Joseph, "but there is no one to interpret it. However, I have heard it said of you that you know how to interpret dreams."

14 "Apart from God can Pharaoh be given a favorable response?" Joseph answered Pharaoh.

15 Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "I dreamed that I was standing on the bank of the Nile, when seven fat and beautiful cows came up out of the Nile, and browsed in the sedge. After them came up seven other cows, thin and very ugly and lean—I have never seen such poor cows in all the land of Egypt. Then the lean, ugly cows ate up the first seven fat cows; they passed right into them, but no one would have known that they had done so—they looked just as bad as before. Then I awoke."

16 "In another dream I saw seven ears of grain growing on a single stalk, full and plump, and after them there sprouted seven other ears, withered, thin, and blasted by the east wind. Then the thin ears swallowed up the seven plump ears. I told this to the magicians, but there was no one to explain it to me."

17 Joseph said to Pharaoh, "Pharaoh's dream is simple; God would reveal to Pharaoh what he is about to do. The seven fat cows represent seven years, and the seven plump ears represent seven years—it is a single dream. The seven lean and ugly cows 27 that came up after them represent seven years, and so do the seven empty ears blasted by the east wind; there are to be seven years of famine. It is as I 28 told Pharaoh, God would show Pharaoh what he is about to do. Seven years of 29 great plenty are coming throughout all the land of Egypt, but following them 30 there will be seven years of famine, so that the plenty will all be forgotten in the land of Egypt; the famine will devastate the land, and the plenty will be 31 come quite unknown in the land because of that famine which is to follow; for it will be very severe. The fact that 32 the dream was sent twice to Pharaoh in two forms means that the matter is absolutely settled by God, and that God will soon bring it about. Now, then, 33 let Pharaoh find a shrewd and prudent man, and put him in control of the land of Egypt. Let Pharaoh proceed to ap- 34 point officials over the land to forearm the land of Egypt during the seven years of plenty; let them collect all the 35 food of these good years that are coming, and under the authority of Pharaoh store up grain for food in the cities, and hold it there. The food shall serve as a 36 reserve for the land against the seven years of famine that are to befall the land of Egypt, so that the land may not perish from the famine."

The proposal commended itself to 37 Pharaoh and all his courtiers, and Pharaoh 38 said to his courtiers,

"Can we find a man with the spirit of God in him like this one?"

So Pharaoh said to Joseph, 39

"Since God has made all this known to you, there is no one so shrewd and prudent as you; you shall be in charge 40 of my palace, and all my people shall be obedient to your commands; it is only in the matter of the throne itself that I shall be your superior."

Thereupon Pharaoh said to Joseph, 41 "I hereby put you in charge of the whole land of Egypt."

And taking the signet ring from his 42 finger, Pharaoh put it on Joseph's finger; he dressed him in linen robes, put a gold chain round his neck, and 43 had him ride in the second of his chariots, with people shouting "Bow down!" before him, thus putting him in charge of the whole land of Egypt.

44 "Although I continue as Pharaoh," said Pharaoh to Joseph, "yet without your consent shall no one stir hand or foot in all the land of Egypt."

45 Then Pharaoh called Joseph's name Zaphenath-paneah, and married him to Asenath, the daughter of Potiphra, priest of On; and Joseph's fame spread throughout the land of Egypt.

46 Joseph was thirty years old when he entered the service of Pharaoh, king of Egypt.

After leaving the presence of Pharaoh, Joseph made a tour through the whole land of Egypt. During the seven years of plenty the land produced abundant crops; so he collected all the food of the seven years when there was plenty in the land of Egypt, and thus stored food in the cities, storing in each city the food from the fields around it.

49 Joseph stored up grain like the sands of the sea, in great quantities, until he ceased to keep account of it; for it was past measuring.

50 Before the years of famine came, two sons were born to Joseph by Asenath, the daughter of Potiphra, priest of On.

51 Joseph called the name of the first-born Manasseh [forgetfulness]; "For," said he, "God has made me forget all about my hardships and my father's home."

52 The name of the second he called Ephraim [fruitfulness]; "For God has made me fruitful in the land of my misfortune."

53 When the seven years of plenty that had prevailed in the land of Egypt came to an end, the seven years of famine set in, as Joseph had said.

There was famine in all lands, but throughout all the land of Egypt there was food.

55 When all the land of Egypt became famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for food; so Pharaoh announced to all Egypt,

"Go to Joseph, and do what he tells you."

56 The famine spread all over the land, so Joseph threw open all that he had locked up, and sold grain to the Egyptians, since the famine was severe in the land of Egypt. People from all lands came to Joseph in Egypt to buy grain; for the famine was severe all over the earth.

42 When Jacob learned that there was grain in Egypt, he said to his sons,

"Why do you stare at one another?" "I have just heard," he said, "that there is grain in Egypt; go down there, and buy some for us there, that we may live and not die."

So ten of Joseph's brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt, since Jacob would not let Joseph's brother Benjamin go with his other brothers; "Lest," thought he, "harm should befall him." Thus the Israelites came with the rest to buy grain; for the famine was in the land of Canaan.

Now Joseph was the vizier of the land; it was he who sold the grain to all the people of the land. So Joseph's brothers came and prostrated themselves before him, with their faces to the ground. When Joseph saw his brothers, he recognized them, but he treated them as if he were a stranger, and spoke harshly to them.

"Where have you come from?" he said to them.

"From the land of Canaan to buy food," they said.

Joseph recognized his brothers, but they did not recognize him. Remembering the dreams that he had had about them, Joseph said to them,

"You are spies; you have come to find out the condition of the land!"

"No, my lord," they said to him, "your servants have come to buy food. We are all sons of one man; we are honest men; your servants are not spies."

"Not so," he said to them; "but you have come to find out the condition of the land."

But they said,

"Your servants are brothers, twelve in all; we are sons of a certain man in the land of Canaan; the youngest is at present with our father, while the other is no more."

But Joseph said to them,

"It is as I told you; you are spies. By this you shall be put to the proof: as Pharaoh lives, you shall not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here. Send one of your number to fetch your brother, while the rest of you remain in custody. Thus shall your statements be put to the proof as to whether you are truthful or not. As Pharaoh lives, you are spies!"

So he bundled them off to prison for three days, but on the third day Joseph said to them,

19 "Since I am one who fears God, you may save your lives, if you do this: if you are honest men, let one of you brothers remain confined in your prison and then the rest of you, go and take grain home to your starving households; but you must bring me your youngest brother. Thus shall your words be verified, and you shall not die."

21 They proceeded to do so, saying to one another,

"Unfortunately, we were to blame about our brother, upon whose distress, when he pleaded with us for mercy, we gazed unmoved; that is why this distress has come to us."

22 Then Reuben spoke up and said to them,

'Did I not say to you, 'Do not sin against the lad'? But you paid no attention; so now comes a reckoning for his blood!'

23 They did not know that Joseph heard them; for the intermediary was between 24 them. He turned from them, and wept. On coming back to them, he spoke to 25 them, took Simeon from them, and imprisoned him in their presence. Joseph then ordered their receptacles to be filled with grain, the money of each of 26 them to be replaced in his sack, and provisions to be given them for the 27 journey. This was done for them. Then they loaded their asses with their grain, and departed.

28 At the camping-place for the night one of them opened his sack to give his ass some fodder, and there he saw his money in the mouth of his sack!

29 "My money has been put back! It is right here inside my sack!" he said to his brothers.

Thereupon their hearts sank, and they turned to one another in fear, saying,

"What is this that God has done to us?"

30 On reaching their father Jacob in the land of Canaan, they told him all that had befallen them:

31 "The man, the lord of the land, talked harshly to us, making us out to

32 be spies of the land. But we said to him, 'We are honest men; we are not

33 spies. We are brothers on our father's side, twelve in all; one is no more, and the youngest is at present with our father in the land of Canaan.' Then the man, the lord of the land, said to us, 'By this I shall find out whether you are honest men: leave one of your brothers with me, and taking something for your famishing households, be off; and then bring me your youngest brother. Thus shall I know that you are not spies, but honest men. I will restore your brother to you, and you will be free to trade in the land.'

When they came to empty their sacks, there was the money-pocket of each in his sack! On seeing their money-packets, both they and their father were dismayed, and their father Jacob said to them,

"It is I that you bereave. Joseph is no more, Simeon is no more, and now you would take Benjamin! It is on me that all this falls."

Reuben said to his father,

"You may kill my two sons if I do not bring him home to you! Put him in my charge, and I will bring him back to you."

But he said,

"My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is dead, and he alone is left. If harm were to befall him on the journey that you make, you would bring my gray hairs down to Sheol in sorrow."

The famine continued severe in the land, so when they had finished eating all the grain which they had brought from Egypt, their father said to them,

"Go again, and buy us a little food."

But Judah said to him,

"The man strictly warned us: 'You cannot have audience with me unless your brother is with you.' If you are ready to let our brother go with us, we will go down and buy food for you; but if you are not ready to let him go, we cannot go down; for the man said to us, 'You cannot have audience with me unless your brother is with you.'

"Why did you bring this trouble on me," said Israel, "by telling the man that you had another brother?"

They said,

"The man persisted in asking about ourselves and our family—'Is your father still living? Have you another brother?' We only gave him the information demanded by these questions of his. How could we possibly know that he would say, 'Bring your brother down?'"

- 8 "Let the lad go with me," said Judah to his father Israel; "but we must go at once, if we would save our lives and not die, both we, you, and our dependents.
- 9 I will be surety for him; you may hold me responsible for him. If I do not bring him back to you and set him before you, you may blame me for it all
- 10 my life; in fact if we had not wasted so much time, we could have made a second trip by now."
- 11 Then their father Israel said to them, "If it must be so, then do this: take some of the country's best in your receptacles, and take it down to the man as a present—a little balm, a little honey, gum, laudanum, pistachio nuts, and
- 12 almonds. Also take double the money with you, and so take back with you the money that was replaced in the mouths of your sacks—perhaps there was a mis-
- 13 take. Take your brother too, and go,
- 14 return to the man. May God Almighty grant you such kindness with the man that he will release your other brother for you, as well as Benjamin. As for me, as I am bereaved, I am bereaved.
- 15 So the men took this present, and taking double the money with them, as well as Benjamin, they started off, went down to Egypt, and stood in the presence of Joseph. When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to his house-
- 16 steward,
- "Take the men home, kill an animal, and get it ready; for the men are to dine with me at noon."
- 17 The man did as Joseph said, and
- 18 brought the men to Joseph's house. On being brought to Joseph's house, the men became frightened, saying,
- "It is because of the money which re-
- 19 appeared in our sacks the first time that we are being brought in, so that he may devise some pretext against us, and falling upon us, take us into slavery, together with our asses."
- 20 So they went up to Joseph's house-
- 21 steward, and spoke to him at the doorway of the house.
- 22 "If you please sir," they said, "we came down the first time specially to
- 23 buy food, but when we reached the camping-place for the night, and opened our sacks, there was each man's money in the mouth of his sack—our money in full. Accordingly we have
- 24 brought it back with us, and we have brought other money down with us to buy food. We do not know who put our money in our sacks."

"Be at ease," he said, "do not be 23 afraid! It must have been your God, the God of your fathers, who put treasure in your sacks for you. I received your money."

Then he brought Simeon out to them.

After bringing the men into Joseph's 24 house, the man gave them water to wash their feet, and he gave them fodder for their asses. Then they set out 25 the present in anticipation of Joseph's arrival at noon; for they had heard that they were to dine there. When Joseph 26 came home, they brought him the present that they had carried into the house, and bowed to the ground before him. He asked after their health. 27

"Is your father well," he said, "the old man of whom you spoke? Is he still living?"

"Your servant, our father, is well; he 28 is still living," they said, bowing in homage to him.

Raising his eyes, he saw his brother 29 Benjamin, the son of his own mother, and said,

"Is this your youngest brother, of whom you told me?"

"May God be gracious to you, my son!" he said.

Thereupon Joseph hastily sought a 30 place to weep; for his heart was deeply stirred at sight of his brother; he retired to his room, and wept there. Then 31 he bathed his face, and came out, and controlling himself, said,

"Serve the meal."

The meal was served, separately for 32 him, for them, and for the Egyptians that were dining with him; for the Egyptians could not eat with the Hebrews, because that would be abhorrent to the Egyptians. They were seated 33 in his presence in order of age, from the oldest to the youngest, so that the men stared at one another in amazement. Portions were carried from his own ta- 34 ble to them, but Benjamin's portion was five times as much as any other's. So they feasted, and drank with him.

He then gave orders to his house- 44 steward,

"Fill the men's sacks as full as they will hold with food, and put each man's money in the mouth of his sack; in the 2 mouth of the sack belonging to the youngest put my cup, the silver cup, along with his money for the grain."

He followed the instructions which Joseph gave.

3 With the dawn of morning the men with their asses were sent on their way.

4 Although they had left the city, they had not gone far, when Joseph said to his house-steward,

"Run at once after the men, and when you overtake them, say to them, 'Why have you returned evil for good? Why have you stolen my silver cup? Is not this the one from which my lord drinks, which in fact he uses for divination? It is a wicked thing that you have done.'"

6 So he overtook them, and addressed 7 these words to them, but they said to him,

"Why should my lord speak like this?

Your servants would never think of doing such a thing! Why, we even brought you back from the land of Canaan the money that we found in the mouths of our sacks. How then could we steal silver or gold from your master's house? That one of your servants in whose possession it is found shall die, and the rest of us will become slaves to my lord."

10 "Although it may indeed be just as you say," he said, "yet the one in whose possession it is found shall become my slave, but the rest of you shall be held blameless."

11 Then each of them quickly lowered his sack to the ground, and opened it, 12 and search being made, beginning with the oldest and ending with the youngest, the cup was found in Benjamin's sack. Thereupon they tore their clothes, and each having reloaded his ass, they returned to the city.

14 Judah and his brothers arrived at the house of Joseph, while he was still there, so they flung themselves on the ground before him.

15 "What is this that you have done?" Joseph said to them. "Did you not know that a man like me would be sure to use divination?"

16 Judah said,

"What can we say to my lord? What can we urge? How can we prove our innocence? God has discovered the crime of your servants; here we are, the slaves of my lord, both we and he in whose possession the cup has been found."

"I could not think of doing such a 17 thing," he said; "only the man in whose possession the cup has been found shall be my slave; the rest of you are free to go back to your father."

Then Judah went up to him, and 18 said,

"If you please, my lord, let your servant speak a word in the ear of my lord, and your anger not blaze against your servant; for you are the equal of Pharaoh himself. My lord asked his servants, 'Have you a father or a brother?' 19 And we said to my lord, 'We have an aged father, and a young brother, the child of his old age; his brother is dead, so that he alone is left of his mother's children, and his father loves him.' Then you said to your servants, 'Bring 21 him down to me that I may see him.' But we told my lord, 'The boy cannot 22 leave his father; his father would die if he were to leave him.' Whereupon you 23 said to your servants, 'Unless your youngest brother comes down with you, you cannot have audience with me again.'

"When we went back to your serv- 24 ant, my father, we reported to him the words of my lord. Then our father said, 25 'Go again and buy a little food for us.' But we said, 'We cannot go down; if our 26 youngest brother accompanies us, we can go down; for we shall not be allowed to have audience with the man unless our youngest brother is with us.' Then 27 your servant, my father, said to us, 'You know that my wife bore me only two children; then one of them left me, 28 and I think he must surely have been torn to pieces; for I have never seen him since. If then you take this one from 29 me too, and harm befall him, you will bring down my gray hairs to Sheol in trouble.'

"And now, when I rejoin your serv- 30 ant, my father, and the boy not with us, his life is so bound up with the boy's that he will die when he sees that there 31 is no boy, and your servants will bring down the gray hairs of your servant, our father, to Sheol in sorrow; for your 32 servant went surety for the boy to my father, saying, 'If I do not bring him back to you, let my father blame me for it all my life.' Now then, pray let your 33 servant remain in the boy's place as my lord's slave, but let the boy go back 34 with his brothers; for how can I go back to my father unless the boy is with me, and witness the agony that would come to my father?"

45 Joseph could no longer control himself before all his attendants, so he cried out,

"Have everyone withdraw from me."

So there was no one with Joseph when he made himself known to his 2 brothers; but he wept so loudly that the Egyptians heard it, and Pharaoh's 3 household heard it. Joseph said to his brothers,

"I am Joseph. Is my father still living?"

But his brothers could not answer him, because they were so dismayed at 4 being in his presence. So Joseph said to his brothers,

"Come nearer to me."

When they came nearer, he said,

"I am your brother Joseph whom 5 you sold into Egypt. Now do not be distressed nor angry with yourselves that you sold me here; for it was to save 6 life that God sent me ahead of you; for it is two years now that the famine has prevailed in the land, but there are still five years in which there will be no 7 plowing or reaping. God sent me ahead of you to insure you a remnant in the earth, and to be the means of a 8 remarkable escape for you. So then it was not you, but God who sent me here, and made me a father to Pharaoh, lord of all his house, and ruler over all the 9 land of Egypt. Hurry back to my father and say to him, 'Thus speaks your son Joseph: "Since God has made me lord of all Egypt, come down to me 10 without delay. You shall live in the land of Goshen, and be near me, you, your sons, your grandsons, your flocks,
your herds, and all that belong to you;
11 and there I will provide for you, lest you, your household, and all that belong to you come to want; for there are still five years of famine to come.'"

12 You can see for yourselves and my brother Benjamin for himself that it is 13 I who speak to you. You must tell my father all about my splendor in Egypt, and all that you have seen; hurry and bring my father here."

14 Then he fell on the neck of his brother Benjamin and wept, while Benjamin 15 wept on his neck. He kissed all his brothers, and wept on their shoulders, after which his brothers talked with

him.

When the news was received at Pha- 16
araoh's palace that Joseph's brothers had arrived, Pharaoh was delighted, as were also his courtiers. Pharaoh said to 17
Joseph,

"Say to your brothers, 'Do this: load your animals, go back to the land of Canaan, and taking your father and 18 your households, come to me, and I will give you the best of the land of Egypt,
so that you shall eat the fat of the land.
Also, carry out this order: take wagons 19 from the land of Egypt for your little ones and your wives; convey your father in them, and come back. Never 20 mind your goods; for the best of the whole land of Egypt will be yours.'"

The sons of Israel did so. Joseph 21 gave them wagons in accord with the command of Pharaoh, and he also gave them provisions for the journey. To 22 each of them he gave a festal garment, but to Benjamin he gave three hundred shekels of silver and five festal garments. To his father he sent likewise 23 ten asses loaded with the best products of Egypt, and ten she-asses loaded with grain, bread, and provisions for his father on the journey. Then he sent his 24 brothers away; and as they left, he said
to them,

"Do not get too excited on the way."

So they went up from Egypt, and 25 came to the land of Canaan, to their father Jacob.

"Joseph is still living, and he is ruler 26 over all the land of Egypt," they told
him.

But he was so stunned that he would not believe them. However, when they 27 told him all that Joseph had said to them, and he saw the wagons that Joseph had sent to convey him, their father Jacob recovered.

"Enough!" said Israel; "my son Jo- 28
seph is still living; I will go and see him before I die."

So Israel set out with all that be- 46 longed to him. On reaching Beersheba, he offered sacrifices to the God of his father Isaac. In a vision by night God 2 spoke to Israel.

"Jacob! Jacob!" he said.

"Here I am," he said.

"I am El, the God of your father," 3
he said; "do not be afraid to go down to Egypt; for there I will make you a great nation. I will myself go down to Egypt with you—yes, and I will bring you up again, when Joseph's hand shall close your eyes."

Then Jacob set out from Beersheba; and the sons of Israel conveyed their father Jacob, with their little ones and their wives, in the wagons which Pharaoh had sent to convey him. Taking their live stock and the property which they had acquired in the land of Canaan, Jacob and all his family migrated to Egypt; his sons and his grandsons accompanied him, as well as his daughters and his grand-daughters; he brought all his family with him into Egypt.

The following are the names of the Israelites, Jacob and his children, who migrated to Egypt: Reuben, Jacob's first-born, and the sons of Reuben, Hanoch, Pally, Hezron, and Carmi; the sons of Simeon, Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman; the sons of Levi, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari; the sons of Judah, Er, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah, of whom Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan, and the sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul; the sons of Issachar, Tola, Puvvah, Job, and Shimron; the sons of Zebulun, Sered, Elon, and Jahelel (these were the sons which Leah bore to Jacob in Paddan-aram, together with his daughter Dinah, the total number of his sons and daughters being thirty-three); the sons of Gad, Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, Ezbon, Eri, Arodi, and Arel; the sons of Asher, Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, and Beriah, with their sister Serah, and the sons of Beriah, Heber and Malchiel (these were the sons of Zilpah, whom Laban gave to his daughter Leah; these she bore to Jacob—sixteen persons); the sons of Jacob's wife Rachel, Joseph and Benjamin, and to Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, whom Asenath, the daughter of Potiphara, priest of On, bore to him; the sons of Benjamin, Bela, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, Ehi, Rosh, Muppm, Huppm, and Ard (these were the sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob—a total of fourteen persons); the son of Dan, Hushim; the sons of Naphtali, Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and Shillem (these were the sons of Bilhah, whom Laban gave to his daughter Rachel; these she bore to Jacob—a total of seven persons). The total number of persons belonging to Jacob who came to Egypt, his direct descendants, excluding the wives of his sons, was sixty-six; but the sons of Joseph that were born to him in Egypt were two, the total number of persons belonging to Jacob's household who migrated to Egypt being seventy.

Israel sent Judah ahead of him to Joseph in Goshen, to appear before him. On their arrival in the land of Goshen Joseph hitched the horses to his chariot, and went up to meet his father Israel in Goshen. When he presented himself to him, he fell on his neck, weeping again and again on his neck.

"Now at last I may die," Israel said to Joseph, "after having seen from your very self that you are still alive."

Then Joseph said to his brothers and his father's household,

"I will go and tell Pharaoh, and say to him, 'My brothers and my father's household who used to live in the land of Canaan have come to me. Since the men are shepherds, having to do with live stock, they have brought their flocks and herds and everything that they own.' Accordingly, when Pharaoh summons you, and says to you, 'What is your occupation?' you must say, 'Your servants have been concerned with live stock from our youth until now, both we and our fathers'—in order that you may settle in the land of Goshen; for shepherds are all abhorrent to the Egyptians."

So Joseph came and told Pharaoh.

"My father and brothers," he said, "together with their flocks and herds and everything that they own, have come from the land of Canaan, and are now in the land of Goshen."

Taking five of the ablest of his brothers, he presented them to Pharaoh.

"What is your occupation?" Pharaoh said to his brothers.

"Your servants are shepherds," they said to Pharaoh, "both we and our fathers." "We have come to settle as immigrants in the land," they said to Pharaoh; "for there is no pasture for the flocks belonging to your servants, because the famine is so severe in the land of Canaan. Pray let your servants settle, then, in the land of Goshen."

- 5 Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Now that your father and brothers 6 have joined you, the land of Egypt is at your disposal; settle your father and brothers in the best part of the land; let them settle in the land of Goshen, and if you know of any competent men among them, put them in charge of my own live stock."
- 7 Then Joseph brought his father Jacob and presented him to Pharaoh, and Jacob paid his respects to Pharaoh.
- 8 "How old are you?" Pharaoh said to Jacob.
- 9 "The length of my life as an immigrant has been one hundred and thirty years," Jacob said to Pharaoh; "few and hard have been the years of my life; they have not equaled the number of years that my fathers lived in their lifetime as immigrants."
- 10 After paying his respects to Pharaoh, Jacob withdrew from the presence of Pharaoh.
- 11 So Joseph settled his father and brothers, giving them property in the land of Egypt in the very best part of the land, in the land of Rameses, as 12 Pharaoh had commanded. Joseph provided his father and brothers and all his father's household with food sufficient for the needs of the dependents.
- 13 There was now no food anywhere in the land; for the famine was very severe, so that the lands of Egypt and Canaan were languishing because of the 14 famine. Joseph had gathered up all the money that was to be found in the lands of Egypt and Canaan in payment for the grain which was bought, and had brought the money to Pharaoh's palace.
15 So when the money was exhausted in the lands of Egypt and Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph, saying, "Give us food; why should we die right under your eyes, just because our money is gone?"
- 16 "Give me your live stock," said Joseph; "I will give you food in exchange for your live stock, if your money is gone."
- 17 So they brought their live stock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them food in exchange for horses, sheep, cattle, and asses; thus he supported them with food that year in exchange for all their live stock.
- 18 When that year was over, they came to him the next year, and said to him,

"We would hide nothing from my lord; but our money is gone, and our live stock has come into the possession of my lord; there is nothing left for my lord except our persons and our lands. Why should we perish before your very eyes, both we and our land? Buy us and our land in exchange for food, and we and our land shall become feudatory to Pharaoh; but give us seed that we may live and not die, and the land not become a waste."

So Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for everyone of the Egyptians sold his field, because the famine was so severe on them. Thus the land became Pharaoh's, and the people themselves he transferred to the towns from one end of Egypt's domain to the other. It was only the priests' land that he did not buy; for the priests had a subvention from Pharaoh, and lived off the subvention which Pharaoh gave them; that was why they did not have to sell their land.

"Observe," said Joseph to the people, "that I have today bought you and your land for Pharaoh. Here is seed for you to sow the land; a fifth of the crop you shall give to Pharaoh, and four fifths shall go to yourselves as seed for the fields, and as food for yourselves and your households, and as food for your little ones."

"You have saved our lives," they said, "we would thank my lord; and we will become slaves to Pharaoh."

So Joseph made it a statute for the land in Egypt, which continues to this day, that a fifth of the produce should go to Pharaoh, the land of the priests alone being exempt from Pharaoh's claims.

So the Israelites settled in the land of Egypt, in the land of Goshen, where they acquired property, were prolific, and became very numerous.

Jacob lived in the land of Egypt for seventeen years, so that the length of Jacob's life was one hundred and forty-seven years.

When the time approached for Israel to die, he summoned his son Joseph, and said to him,

"If I have found favor with you, pray put your hand under my thigh and swear that you will deal kindly and faithfully by me; please do not bury me in Egypt, but let me sleep with my fathers; take me out of Egypt, and bury me in their burial-place."

"I will do as you say," he said.

11 "Give me your oath," he said.

So he gave him his oath, whereupon Israel settled back on the head of his bed.

12 Some time after this word was brought to Joseph,

"Your father is ill."

So he took his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, with him, and came to 2 see Jacob. Then Jacob was told.

"Your son Joseph has just come to see you."

Collecting his strength, Israel sat up in bed.

13 "God Almighty appeared to me at Luz in the land of Canaan, and blessed me," Jacob said to Joseph; "he said to me, 'I will make you prolific and numerous, I will make you a company of peoples, and I will give this land to your descendants as a possession for all time.'

14 I do therefore adopt your two sons that were born to you in the land of Egypt before I joined you in Egypt; Ephraim and Manasseh shall be as much mine as Reuben and Simeon. But the children that were born to you after them are to be counted to you; upon receiving their heritage they shall be called by the names of their brothers. It was when I was coming from Paddan that Rachel to my sorrow died in the land of Canaan, some little distance from the vicinity of Ephrath, and I buried her there on the road to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem)."

15 When Israel saw Joseph's sons, he said,

"Who are these?"

Joseph said to his father,

"They are my sons, whom God has given me here."

"Bring them to me," he said, "that I may bless them."

(Now Israel's eyes were so dim with age that he could not see.)

So Joseph brought them up to him, and he kissed them, and embraced them.

"I never expected to see even you," Israel said to Joseph, "and here God let me see your children as well!"

Then Joseph removed them from his knees, and bowed on his face to the ground.

Joseph took the two of them, Ephra-

He blessed Joseph, saying, 15

"May the God in whose favor my fathers, Abraham and Isaac, lived, the God who has been my shepherd all my life long until this day, the angel who has delivered me from all harm—may he bless the lads, so that my name may be carried on through them, together with the names of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac; may they grow into multitudes in the earth."

When Joseph saw that his father was putting his right hand on the head of Ephraim, it distressed him; so he seized his father's hand in order to remove it from the head of Ephraim to that of Manasseh.

"Not so, my father," Joseph said to his father; "for this one is the first-born; put your right hand on his head."

But his father refused, saying, 19 "I know, my son, I know; he too shall become a people, and he too shall be great, but his younger brother shall be greater than he, and his descendants shall become a multitude of nations."

So he blessed them that day, saying, 20 "The Israelites will invoke blessings on one another through you, saying, 'May God make you like Ephraim and Manasseh!'"—thus putting Ephraim before Manasseh.

Then Israel said to Joseph, 21

"I am about to die, but God will be with you, and will bring you back to the land of your fathers. As the one above your brothers, I hereby give you Shechem, which I captured from the Amorites with my sword and bow."

THE BLESSING OF JACOB,

49:1-28

Then Jacob summoned his sons, and 49 said,

"Come together that I may tell you what is to befall you in days to come: Gather round and listen, you sons of 2

Jacob;

Listen to Israel, your father.

- 3 Reuben, you are my first-born,
My strength and the first issue of my manly vigor;
Excessively proud and excessively fierce,
- 4 Turbulent as water—you shall no longer excel;
For you went up to your father's bed;
So I degraded him who went up to my couch.
- 5 Simeon and Levi are brothers;
Ruthless weapons are their daggers.
- 6 I will never enter their circle;
I will never join in their assembly;
For in their anger they slay men,
And in their normal mood they hamstring oxen.
- 7 Cursed be their anger, for it is fierce,
And their wrath, for it is cruel!
I will disperse them throughout Jacob,
And scatter them throughout Israel.
- 8 Your brothers shall praise you, O Judah;
With your hand on the necks of your foes,
Your father's sons shall bow down to
you.
- 9 A lion's whelp is Judah;
On prey you have grown up, my son.
He crouches, he couches like a lion,
Like an old lion; who dare disturb him?
- 10 The scepter shall never depart from Judah,
Nor the staff from between his feet,
Until his ruler comes,
To whom the peoples shall be obedient.
- 11 He tethers his ass to the vine,
And his ass's colt to the choicest vine;
He washes his garments in wine,
And his robes in the blood of grapes;
- 12 His eyes are darker than wine,
And his teeth whiter than milk.
- 13 Zebulun shall dwell by the seashore;
He shall be a haven for ships,
With his flank at Sidon.
- 14 Issachar is a sturdy ass,
Lounging among the ravines;
- 15 He saw that settled life was good,
And that the land was pleasant;
So he offered his shoulder to bear burdens,
And became a gang-slave.

Dan shall judge his people, 1
As any other of the tribes of Israel.
May Dan be a serpent by the roadside, 1
A viper beside the path,
That bites the horse's hoofs,
So that its rider tumbles backward.

For succor from thee, O LORD, I wait! 1

As for Gad, raiders shall raid him, 1
But he shall raid their rear.

As for Asher, his food shall be rich, 1
And he shall yield royal dainties.

Naphtali is a free-ranging deer, 1
That bears beautiful fawns.

Joseph is a young bull, 1
A young bull at a spring,
A wild-ass at Shur.
Shooting at him in enmity,
The archers fiercely assailed him;
But their bow was broken by the Eternal,

And their arms and hands trembled,
At the might of the Mighty One of Jacob,

At the name of the Shepherd, the Rock
of Israel,

At your father's God, who helps you,
And God Almighty, who blesses you
With the blessings of the heavens
above,

The blessings of the abyss couching below;

The blessings of breast and of womb,
The blessings of fatherhood, yea of man and child;

The blessings of the ancient mountains,

The dainties of the eternal hills—
May these rest on the head of Joseph,
And on the brow of him who was cursed by his brothers!

Benjamin is a ravenous wolf;
Devouring prey in the morning,
And dividing spoil at evening."

All these constituted the twelve tribes of Israel, and this was what their father said to them. He blessed them, bestowing on each the blessing suited to
him.

THE DEATH AND BURIAL OF JACOB, AND THE DEATH OF
JOSEPH, 49:29—50:26

19 He then gave them a charge.

"I am about to be gathered to my fathers," he said to them; "bury me with my fathers in the cave which is in the field of Ephron, the Hittite, the cave in the field of Machpelah, which faces Mamre, in the land of Canaan, which along with the field Abraham bought from Ephron, the Hittite, for use as a burial-ground of his own. It was there that Abraham and his wife Sarah were buried; it was there that Isaac and his wife Rebekah were buried; and it was there that I buried Leah—the field with the cave in it having been purchased from the Hittites."

After Jacob had finished giving his instructions to his sons, he drew his feet up into the bed, breathed his last, and was gathered to his fathers.

Joseph fell on his father's face, weeping over him, and kissing him. He then ordered the physicians among his slaves to embalm his father. So the physicians embalmed Israel, spending forty days at it; for that is the time that it takes to embalm. There was weeping for him in Egypt for seventy days.

After the days of weeping for him were over, Joseph said to Pharaoh's household,

"If perchance I find favor with you, please tell Pharaoh this: 'My father exacted an oath of me, saying, "Here am I at the point of death; you must bury me in the sepulcher that I dug for myself in the land of Canaan." Now then, let me go up and bury my father. I will surely return.'"

Whereupon Pharaoh said, "Go up and bury your father, as he made you swear."

So Joseph went up to bury his father, and with him went all of Pharaoh's courtiers, the elders of his household, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, as well as all of Joseph's own household, his brothers, and his father's household, leaving only their children and their flocks and herds in the land of Goshen.

Both chariotry and cavalry went up with him, so that there was a very large caravan.

Arriving at Goren-Atad, which is beyond the Jordan, they held a very great and sorrowful lamentation there; and Joseph observed a seven-day period of mourning for his father. When the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning at Goren-Atad, they said,

"This is a sorrowful mourning that the Egyptians are observing."

That is how its name came to be called Abel-Mizraim [mourning of the Egyptians], which is beyond the Jordan.

Jacob's sons did with him just as he had commanded them; his sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave in the field of Machpelah, which faces Mamre, which field Abraham had bought for use as a burial-ground of his own from Ephron, the Hittite. After burying his father, Joseph returned to Egypt with his brothers and all who had gone up with him to bury his father.

Realizing that their father was dead, Joseph's brothers said,

"Suppose Joseph should take an aversion to us, and pay us back for all the harm that we did him!"

So they sent a message to Joseph, saying,

"Before his death your father gave this command: 'Thus shall you say to Joseph: "Pray forgive the crime and sin of your brothers in doing you harm." So now, please forgive the crime of the servants of your father's God.'"

Joseph wept when they spoke to him, so that his brothers went and fell down before him, saying,

"Here we are, your slaves!"

But Joseph said to them,

"Do not be afraid; for can I take God's place? You meant to do me harm, but God accounted it good, in order to do as he has done today: save the lives of many people. So now, do not be afraid; I myself will provide for you and your dependents."

Thus he reassured them, speaking kindly to them.

So Joseph and his father's household lived in Egypt. Joseph lived one hundred and ten years, living to see the third generation of Ephraim's children; the sons, too, of Machir, the son of Manasseh, were born on the knees of Joseph.

24 Then Joseph said to his brothers, "I am about to die; but God will be sure to take note of you, and take you up out of this land to the land which he promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

Joseph then made the sons of Israel z swear,

"When God does indeed take note of you, you must take my bones up with you from here."

So Joseph died at the age of one hundred and ten years; and he was embalmed, and placed in a coffin in Egypt.

THE BOOK OF EXODUS

THE OPPRESSION OF THE HEBREWS IN EGYPT,

1:1-22

1 THE following are the names of the sons of Israel who came to Egypt in the company of Jacob,
2 each with his household: Reu-
3 ben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issa-4 char, Zebulun, and Benjamin, Dan and 5 Naphtali, Gad and Asher. The total number of persons that were direct descendants of Jacob was seventy, Joseph 6 being already in Egypt. Then Joseph died, and likewise all his brothers and 7 all that generation; but the Israelites were fruitful and prolific; they increased in numbers, and grew greater and greater, so that the land was filled with them.

8 Then a new king rose over Egypt, 9 who had no knowledge of Joseph; he said to his people,

"See, the Israelite people have become too numerous and too strong for us; 10 come, let us take precautions against them lest they become so numerous that in the case of a war they should join forces with our enemies and fight against us, and so escape from the land."

1 Accordingly, gang-foremen were put in charge of them, to oppress them with their heavy labor; and they built Pithom and Raamses as store-cities for 2 Pharaoh. But the more they oppressed them, the more they multiplied and expanded, so that they became apprehensive about the Israelites.

3 The Egyptians reduced the Israelites to rigorous slavery; they made life bitter for them in hard work with mortar and bricks, and in all kinds of work in the fields, all the work that they exacted of them being rigorous.

4 Then the king of Egypt spoke to the midwives attending the Hebrew women, of whom the name of one was Shiph-rah and that of the other Puah.

5 "When you act as midwives for the Hebrew women," he said, "you are to look at the genitals; if it is a boy, you must kill him, but if it is a girl, she may live."

But the midwives stood in awe of 17
God, and so did not do as the king of Egypt told them, but let the male children live. So the king of Egypt sum- 18
moned the midwives, and said to them,
"Why have you done this: let the male children live?"

The midwives said to Pharaoh, 19
"Because the Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women; but are animals, in that they are delivered before the midwife reaches them!"

So God was good to the midwives; 20 the people multiplied and grew very numerous, and because the midwives 21 stood in awe of God, they established families for them.

So Pharaoh commanded all his peo- 22
ple,

"Every boy that is born to the Hebrews, you must throw into the Nile, but you are to let all the girls live."

THE RISE OF THE DELIVERER, MOSES, 2:1—7:13

Now a man belonging to the house of 2
Levi went and married a daughter of Levi. The woman conceived and bore a 2 son, and seeing that he was robust, she hid him for three months. When she 3 could no longer hide him, she procured an ark of papyrus reeds for him, and daubing it with bitumen and pitch, she put the child in it, and placed it among the reeds beside the bank of the Nile.
His sister posted herself some distance 4 away to see what would happen to him.

Presently Pharaoh's daughter came 5 down to bathe at the Nile, while her maids walked on the bank of the Nile.
Then she saw the ark among the reeds and sent her maid to get it. On opening 6 it, she saw the child, and it was a boy crying! She took pity on him, and said,

"This is one of the Hebrews' children."

- 7 Thereupon his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter,
 "Shall I go and summon a nurse for you from the Hebrew women, to nurse the child for you?"
- 8 "Go," said Pharaoh's daughter to her.
- 9 So the girl went and called the child's mother, to whom Pharaoh's daughter said,
 "Take this child away and nurse it for me, and I will pay the wages due you."
- 10 So the woman took the child and nursed him; and when the child grew up, she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her son. She called his name Moses [drawn out]; "For," said she, "I drew him out of the water."
- 11 It was in those days that Moses, now grown up, went out to visit his fellow-countrymen and noted their heavy labor. He saw an Egyptian kill a Hebrew, one of his own countrymen; so, looking this way and that, and seeing that there was no one in sight, he killed the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.
- 12 Another day, when he went out, there were two Hebrews fighting! So he said to him that was in the wrong,
 "Why do you strike your companion?"
- 13 He replied,
 "Who made you ruler and judge over us? Are you thinking of murdering me as you did the Egyptian?"
- 14 Then was Moses afraid. "The incident must surely be known," he thought.
- 15 When Pharaoh heard about the matter, he tried to kill Moses, but Moses fled from Pharaoh and went to the land of Midian, and sat down beside a well.
- 16 Now the priest of Midian had seven daughters, who came to draw water, and fill the troughs to water their father's flock, but some shepherds came and drove them off. So Moses went to their rescue and watered their flock.
- 17 When they came home to their father Reuel, he said,
 "How did you come to get home so soon today?"
- 18 They said,
 "An Egyptian protected us against the shepherds; he even drew water for us, and watered the flock."
- 19 "Then where is he?" he said to his daughters. "Why did you leave the man behind? Invite him to have a meal."

When Moses agreed to live with the man, he gave Moses his daughter Zipporah in marriage; and she bore a son, whom he named Gershom [immigrant]; "For," said he, "I am an immigrant in a foreign land."

In the course of this long time the king of Egypt died. The Israelites, groaning under their bondage, cried for help, and their cry because of their bondage came up to God. God heard their moaning, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; God saw the plight of Israel, and took cognizance of it.

While Moses was tending the flock of his father-in-law, Jethro, the priest of Midian, he led the flock to the western side of the desert, and came to the mountain of God, Horeb. Then the angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire, rising out of a bush. He looked, and there was the bush burning with fire without being consumed! So Moses said,

"I will turn aside and see this great sight, why the bush is not burned up."

When the LORD saw that he had turned aside to look at it, God called to him out of the bush.

"Moses, Moses!" he said.

"Here I am!" said he.

"Do not come near here," he said; "take your sandals off your feet; for the place on which you are standing is holy ground." "I am the God of your father," he said, "the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

Then Moses hid his face; for he was afraid to look at God.

"I have indeed seen the plight of my people who are in Egypt," the LORD said, "and I have heard their cry under their oppressors; for I know their sorrows, and I have come down to rescue them from the Egyptians and bring them up out of that land to a land, fine and large, to a land flowing with milk and honey, to the country of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites. Now the cry of the Israelites has reached me, and I have also seen how the Egyptians are oppressing them; so come now, let me send you to Pharaoh, that you may bring my people, the Israelites, out of Egypt."

11 But Moses said to God,
"Who am I, to go to Pharaoh and bring the Israelites out of Egypt?"

12 "I will be with you," he said; "and this shall be the sign for you that I have sent you. When you bring the people out of Egypt, you shall serve God at this mountain."

13 "But," said Moses to God, "in case I go to the Israelites and say to them, 'The God of your fathers has sent me to you,' and they say to me, 'What is his name?' what am I to say to them?"

14 "I am who I am," God said to Moses. Then he said, "Thus you shall say to the Israelites: 'I am' has sent me to you."

15 God said further to Moses,
"Thus you shall say to the Israelites: 'Yahweh [the LORD], the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, has sent me to you.' This has always been my name, and this shall remain my title throughout the ages. Go and assemble the elders of Israel, and say to them, 'The LORD, the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, has appeared to me, saying, 'I have given careful heed to you and your treatment in Egypt, and I have resolved to bring you up out of your tribulation in Egypt to the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites, to a land flowing with milk and honey.' They will heed your appeal, and then you and the elders of Israel shall come to the king of Egypt and say to him, 'The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, has paid us a visit; so now, let us make a three days' journey into the desert to offer sacrifices to the LORD our God.' I know, however, that the king of Egypt will not let you go without the use of force; so I will stretch out my hand and smite Egypt with all the marvels that I shall perform in it; after that he will let you go. And I will bring this people into such favor with the Egyptians that you shall not go away empty-handed when you do leave; each woman must ask her neighbor and the guest in her home for articles of silver and gold, and for clothing, which you are to put on your sons and daughters. Thus shall you despoil the Egyptians."

"But suppose they will not believe me," answered Moses, "nor heed my plea, but say, 'The LORD did not appear to you.'"

The LORD said to him,
"What have you in your hand?"

"A staff," he said.
"Throw it on the ground," said he.

He threw it on the ground, and it became a snake. Moses ran away from it, but the LORD said to Moses,

"Stretch out your hand and lay hold of its tail"—stretching out his hand, he seized it, and it became a staff in his hand—"in order that they may be convinced that the LORD, the God of their fathers, did appear to you, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

The LORD said further to him,
"Put your hand into your bosom."

He put his hand into his bosom, and when he took it out, there was his hand leprous, as white as snow!

"Put your hand back into your bosom," he said.

He put his hand back into his bosom, and when he took it out of his bosom, there it was, like the rest of his body again.

"If they will not believe you, nor accept the evidence of the first sign, they may acknowledge the evidence of the second. If they will not be convinced by even these two signs, nor heed your plea, you are to take some water from the Nile and pour it on the dry ground; and the water that you take from the Nile shall become blood on the dry ground."

But Moses said to the LORD,

"Pray, O Lord, I have been no speaker, neither in the past nor recently, nor since thou hast spoken to thy servant; but I am slow of speech and slow of tongue."

The LORD said to him,

"Who gives man a mouth, or makes him dumb, or deaf, or lame, or blind? Is it not I, the LORD? Now go; I will help you to speak, and will instruct you what to say."

But he said,

"Pray, O Lord, commission whom thou wilt."

Then the anger of the LORD blazed against Moses, and he said,

"Is there not your brother Aaron, the Levite? I know that he is a ready speaker, and further, he is just coming out to meet you, and will be overjoyed 15 at seeing you. You must speak to him, and put the words in his mouth; I will help both you and him to speak, and I 16 will instruct you both what to do. He shall speak for you to the people; he shall serve as a mouthpiece for you, and you shall act the part of God to 17 him. You must take this staff in your hand, with which to perform the signs."

18 Then Moses went off, and returning to his father-in-law Jethro, said to him,
 "Pray let me go back to my relatives in Egypt, to see whether they are still living."

"Go in peace," said Jethro to Moses.
 19 The LORD said to Moses in Midian,
 "Go, return to Egypt; for all the men who sought your life are dead."

20 So Moses took his wife and sons, and mounted them on an ass, to return to the land of Egypt; Moses also took the staff of God in his hand.

21 The LORD said to Moses,

"When you return to Egypt, see that you perform before Pharaoh all the portents which I have put in your power;
 but I will make him obstinate, so that 22 he will not let the people go. Then you are to say to Pharaoh, 'Thus says the 23 LORD: "Israel is my first-born son; so I said to you, 'Let my son go, that he may serve me'; but you refused to let him go; accordingly I am going to slay your first-born son.'"

24 At a camping-place in the course of the journey the LORD encountered 25 him, and tried to kill him. So Zipporah took a flint, and cutting off her son's foreskin, she touched his person with it,
 saying,

"You are my bridegroom in blood."

26 Then he let him alone.
 At that time a person when circumcised was spoken of as a bridegroom in blood.

27 The LORD said to Aaron,
 "Go into the desert to meet Moses."

So he went; and he met him at the mountain of God and kissed him.

28 Then Moses told Aaron all the words with which the LORD had commissioned him and all the signs with which 29 he had charged him. So Moses and Aaron went and assembled all the eld-30 ers of the Israelites, and Aaron spoke all the words that the LORD had spoken to Moses, and performed the signs in the 31 sight of the people, so that the people believed. When they heard that the LORD had taken note of the Israelites and had marked their plight, they bowed their heads in homage.

Following this, Moses and Aaron 5
 came and said to Pharaoh,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Let my people go, that they may hold a feast for me in the desert.'"

But Pharaoh said,

"Who is the LORD that I should heed his plea to let Israel go? I have no knowledge of the LORD, and besides, I will not let Israel go."

They said,

"The God of the Hebrews has paid us a visit; pray let us make a three days' journey into the desert to offer sacrifices to the LORD our God, lest he strike us with pestilence or sword."

"Moses and Aaron," said the king of 4 Egypt to them, "why would you draw the people from their work? Mind your own business."

"The people of the land are lazy as it is," said Pharaoh, "and yet you would relieve them of their burdens!"

So that same day Pharaoh commanded the taskmasters in charge of the people and their foremen,

"You must no longer provide the people with straw for making bricks as previously; let them go and gather straw for themselves. But you must re-1 quire of them the same quantity of bricks that they have been making in the past, without diminishing it at all;
 for they are lazy; that is why they are crying, 'Let us go and offer sacrifices to our God.' Let heavier work be loaded on the men, that they may give their attention to it and not to lying words."

So the taskmasters and foremen of 1
 the people departed, and said to the
 people,

"Thus says Pharaoh: 'I am not going to provide you with straw; go and get straw for yourselves wherever you can find it; but there is to be no reduction in your output.'"

So the people scattered all over the 1 land of Egypt in search of stubble for straw, while the taskmasters urged them on, saying,

"Complete your daily quota of work, as when the straw was provided for
 you."

The Israelite foremen were beaten, and Pharaoh's taskmasters took them to task, saying,

"Why have you not completed your prescribed amount of brick-making as usual, today just as previously?"

15 Then the Israelite foreman came and appealed to Pharaoh,

16 "Why do you treat your servants thus? There is no straw provided for your servants, and yet we are told to make bricks, and your servants get beaten, whereas the fault lies with you."

17 But he said,

"You are lazy, lazy; that is why you say, 'Let us go and offer sacrifices to the 18 LORD.' Be off now to your work; straw shall not be provided for you, but you must deliver the set quantity of bricks."

19 Then the Israelite foreman saw that they were in an evil plight in having to say, "You must make no reduction in your daily quota of bricks."

20 On leaving the presence of Pharaoh they met Moses and Aaron, who were 21 waiting for them, and said to them,

"May the LORD turn his attention to you, and punish you for giving us an unsavory reputation with Pharaoh and his courtiers, by putting a sword into their hands to slay us!"

22 Then Moses turned again to the LORD, and said,

23 "O Lord, why hast thou brought evil on this people? Why didst thou ever send me? Ever since I came to Pharaoh to speak in thy name, he has ill-treated this people; and thou hast done nothing to deliver thy people!"

6 The LORD said to Moses,

"Now you shall see what I will do to Pharaoh; compelled by a mighty power he will not only let them go, but will drive them out of his land."

2 God spoke to Moses, saying to him,

3 "I am the LORD; I appeared to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob as God Almighty, but did not make myself known to them by my name Yahweh

4 [the LORD]. I also established my covenant with them, to give them the land of Canaan, the land in which they settled as immigrants. And it is I too, who have heard the groaning of the Israelites whom the Egyptians have enslaved, and I remember my covenant.

5 Accordingly, say to the Israelites, 'I am the LORD; I will free you from the burdens of the Egyptians, and will deliver you from their bondage, and will rescue you by an outstretched arm and by mighty acts of judgment; I will take 7 you as my own people, and I will be your God, and you shall know that it is I, the LORD your God, who shall free you from the burdens of the Egyptians. I will bring you to the land which I 8 swore with uplifted hand to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and I will give it to you as your very own, I, the LORD."

Moses told this to the Israelites, but 9 they would not listen to Moses because of their impatience and hard service. Then the LORD said to Moses,

10 "Go in and speak to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, about letting the Israelites leave his land."

But Moses protested to the LORD, 12 "Seeing that the Israelites have not listened to me, how will Pharaoh ever listen to me, poor speaker that I am?"

The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, 13 and gave them a commission to the Israelites and to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to bring the Israelites out of the land of Egypt.

The following were the heads of their 14 clans: the sons of Reuben, Israel's first-born, Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi, these being the families of Reuben; the sons of Simeon, Jemuel, Jamin, 15 Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman, these being the families of Simeon.

The following are the names of the 16 sons of Levi in their genealogical order: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari (the length of Levi's life being one hundred and thirty-seven years); the sons of 17 Gershon, arranged by families, Libni and Shimei; the sons of Kohath, Amram, Ishar, Hebron, and Uzziel (the length of Kohath's life being one hundred and thirty-three years); the sons 19 of Merari, Mahli and Mushi. These were the families of the Levites in their genealogical order.

Now Amram married his father's sister 20 Jochebed, who bore him Aaron and Moses (the length of Amram's life being one hundred and thirty-seven years). The sons of Izhar were Korah, Nepheg, 21 and Zichri; and the sons of Uzziel, 22 Mishael, Elzaphan, and Sithri. Aaron 23 married Elisheba, the daughter of Amminadab and sister of Nahshon, who 24 bore him, Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. The sons of Korah were Assir, Elkanah, and Abiasaph; these were the families of the Korahites. Aaron's son, Eleazar, married one of the daughters of Putiel, who bore him Phinehas. These were the heads of the Levitical clans, arranged by families.

26 Such were the Aaron and Moses, to whom the LORD said,
"Bring the Israelites out of the land of Egypt with their hosts."

27 It was they who spoke to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, about bringing the Israelites out of Egypt; it was that Moses and Aaron.

28 The day that the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, the LORD said to Moses,
"I am the LORD; tell Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all that I am telling you."

30 But Moses protested to the LORD,
"Seeing that I am a poor speaker, how will Pharaoh ever listen to me?"

7 The LORD said to Moses,
"See, I make you a god to Pharaoh, and your brother Aaron shall serve as your spokesman. You must tell him all that I command you, and then your brother Aaron shall tell it to Pharaoh, to the end that he may let the Israelites leave his land. But I will make Pharaoh obstinate; then I will perform many signs and portents in the land of Egypt, and if Pharaoh will not listen to you, I will lay my hand on Egypt and will bring my hosts, my people, the Israelites, out of the land of Egypt by my mighty acts of judgment. Then shall the Egyptians know that I am the LORD, when I stretch out my hand against Egypt and bring the Israelites from their midst."

6 Moses and Aaron did so; they did just as the LORD commanded them.

7 Moses was eighty years old, and Aaron eighty-three, when they spoke to Pharaoh.

8 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron,
9 "If Pharaoh says to you, 'Produce a portent,' you shall say to Aaron, 'Take your staff and throw it down in front of Pharaoh,' and it will become a reptile."

10 So Moses and Aaron obtained audience with Pharaoh and did just as the LORD had commanded them; Aaron threw his staff down in front of Pharaoh and his courtiers, and it became a reptile. Then Pharaoh on his part summoned the sages and sorcerers, and they too, the magicians of Egypt, did the same with their secret arts; each threw down his staff, and they became reptiles; but Aaron's staff swallowed up theirs. Pharaoh, however, remained obstinate and would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said.

THE PLAGUES ON EGYPT,

7:14—12:28

The LORD said to Moses,
"Pharaoh is stubborn; he refuses to let the people go. Go to Pharaoh in the morning, just as he is leaving the water; take your stand on the banks of the Nile so as to meet him, and take in your hand the staff that was turned into a snake. You shall say to him, 'The LORD, the God of the Hebrews, sent me to you to say, "Let my people go, that they may serve me in the desert." Since you have not as yet obeyed, thus says the LORD, "By this you shall know that I am the LORD—I am going to strike the water in the Nile with the staff that is in my hand, and it will turn into blood, so that the fish in the Nile shall die and the Nile itself shall become foul, and the Egyptians shall search in vain for water to drink out of the Nile."'"

The LORD said to Moses,
"Say to Aaron, 'Take your staff, and stretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over its rivers, streams, ponds, and all its reservoirs, that they may become blood, so that there may be blood all through the land of Egypt, in both pails and stone jars.'"

Moses and Aaron did so, just as the LORD commanded; he raised the staff and struck the water in the Nile in the sight of Pharaoh and his courtiers, and all the water in the Nile turned into blood, while the fish in the Nile died, and the Nile itself became so foul that the Egyptians could not drink the water from the Nile; there was blood all through the land of Egypt. But the magicians of Egypt did the same with their secret arts, so that Pharaoh remained obstinate and would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said. Pharaoh turned and went home, with no concern even for this. The Egyptians had to dig all around the Nile for water to drink; for they could not drink the water of the Nile itself.

25 When seven days had passed after
B the LORD had struck the Nile, the LORD said to Moses,

"Obtain audience with Pharaoh, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD:

"Let my people go, that they may serve me. If you refuse to let them go, I will smite all your country with frogs;

3 the Nile shall swarm with frogs, and they shall come up and enter your palace, your bedroom, your bed, the houses of your courtiers and your people, your ovens, and your kneading-

4 bowls; the frogs shall climb up on you, your people, and all your courtiers.'"

5 The LORD said to Moses,

"Say to Aaron, 'Stretch your hand with your staff over the rivers, the streams, and ponds, and make frogs come up on the land of Egypt.'"

6 So Aaron stretched his hand over the waters of Egypt, and frogs came up and 7 covered the land of Egypt. But the magicians did the same with their secret arts, making frogs come up on the land of Egypt.

8 Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and Aaron, and said,

"Beseech the LORD to take the frogs away from me and my people, and then I will let the people go, to sacrifice to the LORD."

9 So Moses said to Pharaoh,

"Make clear to me when I am to make supplication for you, your courtiers, and your people, that the frogs be removed from you and your houses, and be left only in the Nile."

10 "Tomorrow," he replied.

So he said,

"It shall be as you say, that you may know that there is no one like the 11 LORD, our God. The frogs shall leave you, your houses, your courtiers, and your people, being left only in the Nile."

12 Moses and Aaron then left the presence of Pharaoh; and Moses cried to the LORD in regard to the promise about the frogs that he had made to

13 Pharaoh, and the LORD did as Moses had promised; the frogs perished from the houses, the courtyards, and the 14 fields; they were gathered into one heap after another, so that the land had a 15 bad smell. But when Pharaoh saw that relief had come, he became stubborn and would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said.

The LORD then said to Moses, 16

"Say to Aaron, 'Stretch out your staff, and strike the dust of the ground, that it may become mosquitoes all through the land of Egypt.'"

They did so; Aaron stretched out his hand with his staff, and struck the dust of the ground, and mosquitoes infested man and beast; all the dust of the ground became mosquitoes all through the land of Egypt.

The magicians similarly tried to pro-

18 duce mosquitoes with their secret arts, but they could not. The mosquitoes infested man and beast; so the magicians 19

said to Pharaoh,

"This is the finger of God!"

But Pharaoh was obstinate, and would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said.

Then the LORD said to Moses, 20

"Rise early in the morning and present yourself before Pharaoh, just as he leaves the water, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "Let my people go, that they may serve me; for if you will

21 not let my people go, I will send swarms of gnats on you, your courtiers, your people and into your houses, so that the houses of the Egyptians shall teem with gnats, as well as the ground on which they stand. At that time, however, I

22 will set apart the land of Goshen in which my people are living, so that there shall be no gnats there, in order that you may know that I, the LORD, am in the land; thus will I make a distinction between my people and your

23 people. Tomorrow shall this sign occur.'"

The LORD did so; masses of gnats 24

entered the palace of Pharaoh, the houses of his courtiers, and all the land of Egypt, the land being ruined by reason of the gnats.

Then Pharaoh summoned Moses and 25

Aaron, and said,

"Go, sacrifice to your God in the land."

But Moses said, 26

"It would not be proper to do so; for we would have to offer to the LORD our God sacrifices abhorrent to the Egyptians; if we were to offer sacrifices abhorrent to the Egyptians before their very eyes, would they not stone us? We would make a three days' journey 27 into the desert to offer sacrifices to the LORD our God, as he tells us."

28 So Pharaoh said,

"I will let you go, that you may offer sacrifices to the LORD your God in the desert; only you must not go very far away; make supplication on my behalf."

29 Moses said,

"I now leave your presence, but I will make supplication to the LORD that the gnats leave Pharaoh, his courtiers, and his people tomorrow; only Pharaoh must not again play false, by not letting the people go, to offer sacrifices to the LORD."

30 So Moses left the presence of Pharaoh and made supplication to the

31 LORD, whereupon the LORD did as

Moses promised; he removed the gnats from Pharaoh, his courtiers, and his 32 people, not one being left. But this time also Pharaoh became stubborn and would not let the people go.

9 Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Obtain audience with Pharaoh, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of the Hebrews: "Let my people

2 go, that they may serve me." For if you refuse to let them go and continue

3 to detain them, the hand of the LORD will fall on your live stock in the fields,

4 on horses, asses, camels, herds, and flocks, with a very severe pest. But the LORD will make a distinction between the live stock of Israel and that of Egypt, so that nothing shall die of all that belongs to the Israelites."

5 Then the LORD fixed a time for it, saying,

"Tomorrow the LORD will do this in the land."

6 And next day the LORD did it; the live stock of the Egyptians all died, but of the live stock of the Israelites not one

7 died. Pharaoh sent and found that not so much as a single one of the live stock of Israel had died. But Pharaoh remained stubborn and would not let the 8 people go. Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

"Take two handfuls of soot from a kiln, and let Moses toss it up to the sky

9 in the sight of Pharaoh; it shall become fine dust all over the land of Egypt, and produce sores that break into pustules on man and beast all through the land of Egypt."

So they took some soot from a kiln, 10 as they stood in front of Pharaoh, Moses tossed it up to the sky, and it produced sores that break into pustules on man and beast. The magicians could 11 not appear before Moses because of the sores; for the sores attacked the magicians, as well as all the Egyptians. But 12 the LORD made Pharaoh obstinate, so that he would not listen to them, just as the LORD had said to Moses. 13

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Rise early in the morning and present yourself before Pharaoh, and say to him, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of the Hebrews: "Let my people go, that they may serve me; for this time I 14 am going to send all my plagues on you, your courtiers, and your people, in order that you may know that there is no one like me in all the earth. For by 15 now I could have stretched out my hand and struck you and your people with pestilence, so that you would have been effaced from the earth; but this is 16 why I have spared you: to show you my power, and to have my fame recounted throughout all the earth.

Since you continue still to make a toy 17 of my people by not letting them go, about this time tomorrow I am going to 18 send down a very heavy fall of hail, such as there has never been in Egypt from the day that it was founded until now. Send therefore, and bring your 19 live stock and everything that belongs to you in the fields, to a place of safety; for the hail shall fall on every man and beast that is found in the fields and is not brought indoors, and they shall die." "

Then those of Pharaoh's courtiers 20 who stood in awe of the word of the LORD made their slaves and live stock hurry indoors, while those that disre-

21 garded the word of the LORD left their slaves and live stock out in the fields.

The LORD said to Moses, 22

"Stretch your hand up to the sky, that hail may fall all through the land of Egypt on man and beast, and on all vegetation in the fields throughout the land of Egypt."

So Moses stretched his staff up to the 23 sky, and the LORD sent thunder and hail, and fire descended on the earth; the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt, and there was hail with fire 24 darting in the midst of the hail, very severe, such as there had never been in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. The hail struck down everything in the fields all through the land of Egypt, both man and beast; the hail struck down all the vegetation in the fields, and shattered every tree in the fields, only in the land of Goshen, where the Israelites were, there was no hail.

Then Pharaoh sent for Moses and Aaron and said to them,

"I have sinned this time; the LORD is in the right, while I and my people are in the wrong. Make supplication to the LORD; for there has been enough of God's thunder and hail; so I will let you go, you need not stay any longer."

Moses said to him,

"As soon as I leave the city I will spread out my hands to the LORD; the thunder shall cease, and there shall be no more hail, in order that you may know that the earth belongs to the LORD. But as for you and your courtiers, I know that you do not yet stand in awe of the LORD God."

The flax and barley were ruined, for the barley was in ear, and the flax in bud; but the wheat and spelt were not ruined, for they were still under ground.

When Moses had retired from the presence of Pharaoh outside the city, he spread out his hands to the LORD, and the thunder and hail ceased, and rain was no longer poured on the earth.

When Pharaoh saw that the rain, hail, and thunder had ceased, he sinned again and became stubborn, both he and his courtiers. Pharaoh became obstinate, and would not let the Israelites go, just as the LORD had declared through Moses.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Obtain audience with Pharaoh; for I have made him and his courtiers stubborn, that I may perform these signs of mine among them, and that you may tell your sons and grandsons how I made a toy of the Egyptians and what signs I performed among them; so that you may know that I am the LORD."

So Moses and Aaron obtained audience with Pharaoh, and said to him,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of the Hebrews: 'How long are you going to refuse to submit to me? Let my people go, that they may serve me; for if you refuse to let my people go, then tomorrow I will bring locusts on your country; they shall cover the surface of the earth, so that the earth will not be visible; they shall eat up the residue that escaped, that was left to you from the hail; they shall eat up all the trees that you have growing out of the fields; and your palaces, the houses of your courtiers, and the houses of all the Egyptians shall be filled with them, as neither your fathers nor grandfathers have ever seen from the time that they appeared on the earth to this day.'"

Then he turned, and left the presence of Pharaoh.

Thereupon Pharaoh's courtiers said to him,

"How long is this fellow going to endanger us? Let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God. Are you not yet aware that Egypt is ruined?"

So Moses and Aaron were brought back to Pharaoh, and he said to them,

"Go and serve the LORD your God. But which ones are to go?"

Moses said,

"We would go with our young and our old, with our sons and our daughters; we would go with our flocks and our herds; for it is the LORD'S feast that we have to celebrate."

"May the LORD be with you," he said to them, "just as soon as I let you and your dependents go! See, you have some evil purpose in mind. Not so, but you that are warriors, go and serve the LORD; for that is what you want."

Whereupon they were driven out of Pharaoh's presence.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for locusts, that they may come up on the land of Egypt, and eat up all the vegetation of the land, all that the hail has left."

So Moses stretched out his staff over the land of Egypt, and the LORD directed an east wind on the land all that day and night. As morning came, the east wind brought the locusts, and the locusts came up all over the land of Egypt, and settled down on the whole country of Egypt, a great mass of them; never previous to them had there been so many locusts, nor would there ever be after them; they covered the surface of the whole land, so that the land was dark; they ate up all the vegetation of the land, and all the fruit on the trees that the hail had left, so that nothing green was left on tree or shrub in the fields all through the land of Egypt.

16 Then Pharaoh hurriedly summoned Moses and Aaron, and said,

17 "I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you; pray then, forgive my sin just this once, and make supplication to the LORD your God, that he at least remove from me this deadly thing."

18 When Moses had left the presence of Pharaoh, he made supplication to the LORD, and the LORD changed the wind into a very strong west wind, which caught up the locusts and blew them into the Red Sea, not a single locust being left in all the territory of Egypt. Nevertheless, the LORD made Pharaoh obstinate, so that he would not let the Israelites go.

21 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand to the sky, that darkness may fall on the land of Egypt, and people grope in darkness."

22 So Moses stretched out his hand to the sky, and there was thick darkness all through the land of Egypt for three days; people could not see one another, nor could anyone leave his place for three days, although the Israelites all had light in their places of abode.

24 Then Pharaoh summoned Moses, and said,

"Go and serve the LORD; it is only your flocks and herds that are to be detained; your dependents may go with you."

25 But Moses said,

"It is you then that would have to provide us with sacrifices and burnt-offerings to make to the LORD our God; so our live stock must also go with us; not a hoof can be left behind; for we will have to take some of them to use in the service of the LORD our God, and we do not know what we shall have to use in the service of the LORD until we arrive there."

27 But the LORD made Pharaoh obstinate, so that he would not agree to let them go.

28 "Leave my presence," Pharaoh said to him; "beware; never visit me again; for the day that you visit me you die."

29 "Just as you say," said Moses; "never again will I come to see you."

11 Then the LORD said to Moses, "One more plague will I bring on Pharaoh and on Egypt; after that he will let you go from here; indeed when he does let you go, he will absolutely drive you out of here. So announce to the people that each man is to ask his neighbor, and each woman her neighbor, for articles of silver and gold."

Now the LORD put the people in favor with the Egyptians; besides, the man Moses came to be very greatly esteemed in the land of Egypt by Pharaoh's courtiers and by the people.

So Moses said,

"Thus says the LORD: 'At midnight I am going to go forth among the Egyptians, when all the first-born in the land of Egypt shall die, from Pharaoh's first-born who is to sit on his throne to the first-born of the slave-girl who sits behind the mill, as well as the first-born of the live stock; all through the land of Egypt there shall be loud wailing, such as there never has been and never will be again.' But against none of the Israelites, either man or beast, shall even a dog bark, in order that you may know that the LORD does make a distinction between Egypt and Israel. Then shall all these courtiers of yours come down to me and make obeisance to me, saying, 'Depart, you and all the people that are in your train.' Only after that will I leave."

Thereupon he left the presence of Pharaoh in hot anger.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Pharaoh does not listen to you, in order that my portents may be multiplied in the land of Egypt."

So Moses and Aaron performed all these portents before Pharaoh; but the LORD made Pharaoh stubborn, so that he would not let the Israelites leave his land.

Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt,

"This month shall be the first of the months for you; it shall be the first month of the year for you,' announce to the whole community of Israel; 'on the tenth day of this month they must provide for themselves one sheep each for their several families, a sheep for each household; if any household is too small for a sheep, it shall provide one along with its neighbor who is nearest to its own household in the number of persons, charging each for the proportionate amount of the sheep that it ate.

5 Your sheep must be a perfect male, a year old; you may take one of the 6 lambs or goats. You must keep it until the fourteenth day of this same month, and then the whole assembly of the community of Israel must slaughter it
7 at twilight, and taking some of the blood, they must apply it to the two door-posts and the lintels for the sake of 8 the houses in which they eat it. That same night they must eat the flesh, eating it roasted, along with unleavened
9 cakes and bitter herbs; do not eat any of it raw, nor cooked in any way with water, but roasted, its head along with its legs
10 and entrails; and you must not leave any of it over until morning; any that might be left over until morning you
11 must burn up. This is how you are to eat it: with your loins girded, your sandals on your feet, and your staff in your hand; you must eat it in trepidation, since it is a passover to the LORD.
12 This very night I will pass through the land of Egypt, striking down all the first-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beast, and executing judgment on all the gods of Egypt, I, the LORD.
13 The blood will serve as a sign for you on the houses where you live; and when I see the blood, I will pass by you, so that no deadly plague will fall on you when 14 I smite the land of Egypt. This day shall be a memorial for you; so you must keep it as a feast to the LORD; throughout your generations you must keep it
15 as a perpetual ordinance. For seven days you must eat unleavened cakes; on the very first day you must clear your houses of leaven; for if anyone eats leavened bread from the first day to the seventh, that person shall be cut
16 off from Israel. On the first day you must hold a religious assembly, and on the seventh day a religious assembly; no work at all is to be done on these days; only what every person has to have to eat, that alone may be prepared 17 by you. You must observe this command; for it was on this very day that I brought your hosts out of the land of Egypt; so you must observe this day throughout your generations as a perpetual ordinance. On the evening of 18 the fourteenth day of the first month you must eat unleavened cakes, and so on until the evening of the twenty-first 19 day of the month; for the seven days no leaven must be found in your houses;

for if anyone eats anything leavened, that person shall be cut off from the community of Israel, whether he is a proselyte or a native of the land; you 20 must not eat anything leavened; in all your places of abode you are to eat unleavened cakes.' "

Then Moses summoned all the elders 21 of Israel, and said to them,

"Go and provide yourselves with sheep, family by family, and kill it as a passover-sacrifice. Then you must take 22 a bunch of hyssop, and dipping it in the blood that is in the basin, smear the lintel and the two door-posts with the blood in the basin, and none of you is to go outside his house until morning, in 23 that the LORD will be passing through to strike down the Egyptians, and when he sees the blood on the lintel and the two door-posts, the LORD will pass by that door, and not let the destroyer enter your houses to strike you down. You must observe this as a rite pre-24 scribed for you and your descendants forever. And when you enter the land
25 which the LORD shall give you, as he promised, you must observe this service. When your children say to you,
26 'What do you mean by this service?' you shall say, 'It is the passover-sacri-
27 fice to the LORD, who passed by the houses of the Israelites in Egypt when he struck down the Egyptians, but spared our houses.' "

Then the people bowed their heads in reverence. The Israelites went and did 28 so; they did just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron.

THE EXODUS FROM EGYPT,

12:29—15:21

At midnight the LORD struck down
29 all the first-born in the land of Egypt, from Pharaoh's first-born who was to sit on his throne to the first-born of the captive in the dungeon, as well as all the first-born of the live stock. Then 30 Pharaoh rose in the night, he and all his courtiers and all the Egyptians, and there arose a loud cry in Egypt; for there was not a house where there was not someone dead. So he summoned 31 Moses and Aaron in the night, and said,

"Withdraw at once from my people, both you and the Israelites, and go, serve the LORD as you suggested. Take 32 both your flocks and herds as you suggested, and be gone; also ask a blessing on me."

33 The Egyptians became urgent with the people in their hurry to get them out of the land; "For," said they, "we shall all be dead." So the people snatched up their dough before it was leavened, their kneading-bowls being wrapped up in their cloaks upon their shoulders.

35 The Israelites followed the instructions of Moses; they asked the Egyptians for articles of silver and gold and for clothing, and the LORD had put the people in such favor with the Egyptians that they granted them their requests, and thus they despoiled the Egyptians.

37 So the Israelites set out from Rameses for Succoth, about six hundred thousand men on foot, besides the dependents; a great crowd went up with them, as well as very much live stock, both flocks and herds. With the dough that they brought out of Egypt they baked unleavened cakes; for it was not leavened, because they had been driven out of Egypt and could not wait, nor had they prepared any provisions for themselves.

40 The length of time that the Israelites lived in Egypt was four hundred and thirty years; and at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, on that very day all the hosts of the LORD left the land of Egypt. Since that was a night of vigil on the part of the LORD to bring them out of the land of Egypt, this night must be one of vigil for the LORD on the part of all the Israelites throughout their generations.

43 Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

"This is the regulation for the pass-over: no foreigner may eat of it, but any slave of a man that has been purchased may eat of it when you have circumcised him; no serf or hired laborer may eat of it. It must be eaten in one house; you may not take any of the flesh outside the house; nor may you break a bone in it. The whole community of Israel must offer it. If a proselyte is residing with you and would offer a passover-sacrifice to the LORD, every male member of his family must be circumcised; then he may draw near to offer it; he shall count as a native of the land; but no uncircumcised person shall eat of it, the same law holding for the native born and the proselyte who resides among you."

Thus did all the Israelites; they did so just as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron. And that very day the LORD brought the Israelites out of the land of Egypt with their hosts.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Consecrate to me every first-born, everything that first opens the womb among the Israelites, both man and beast, since it is mine."

Moses said to the people,

"Commemorate this day, in which you came out of Egypt, out of a state of slavery; for it was by a strong hand that the LORD brought you out from there; so no leavened bread must be eaten. Today you are about to leave, on the new moon of Abib. And when the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Hivvites, and Jebusites, which he swore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, you must hold this service on this new moon; for seven days you shall eat unleavened cakes, and on the seventh day there shall be a feast to the LORD; unleavened cakes shall be eaten throughout the seven days; nothing leavened must be seen in your possession, nor any leaven anywhere in your territory. And you must tell your son on that day, 'It is because of what the LORD did for me when I left Egypt.' It shall serve you as a sign on your hand and a memorial on your forehead, in order that instruction about the LORD may be in your mouth, how the LORD with a strong hand brought you out of Egypt. So you must observe this institution at its proper time from year to year.

"When the LORD brings you into the land of the Canaanites, as he swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you, you must make over to the LORD whatever first opens the womb, and all the firstlings of the live stock that you have, that are males, shall go to the LORD. Every firstling ass, however, you may redeem with a sheep, but if you do not redeem it, you must break its neck; and every first-born son of yours you must redeem. And if in time to come your son asks you, 'What does this mean?' you must say to him, 'By a strong hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of a state of slavery; and 15 when Pharaoh put obstacles in the way of letting us go, the LORD slew every first-born in the land of Egypt, the first-born of both man and beast; that is why I sacrifice to the LORD all the males that first open the womb, but every first-born of my sons I redeem. It shall serve as a sign on your hand, and as a mark on your forehead, that the LORD by a strong hand brought us out of Egypt."

7 Now when Pharaoh let the people go, God did not lead them in the direction of the land of the Philistines, although that was near at hand. "Lest," thought God, "the people be filled with regret when they experience war, and return to Egypt." So God turned the people in the direction of the desert and the Red Sea. And the Israelites went up armed out of the land of Egypt. Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, for he had made the Israelites take a solemn oath, saying, "God will be sure to take note of you, and then you must take my bones up from here with you."

8 Setting out from Succoth, they camped at Etham on the edge of the desert. The LORD used to go in front of them, in a column of cloud by day to guide them along the road, and in a column of fire by night to give them light, in order that they might travel by day and night; the column of cloud by day and the column of fire by night never moved from the head of the people.

9 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Tell the Israelites to turn back and camp in front of Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, in front of Baal-zephon; you must camp opposite it, beside the sea. Pharaoh will say of the Israelites, 'They are wandering aimlessly in the land; the desert has shut them in.' Then I will make Pharaoh obstinate, so that he will pursue them, and thus I will gain honor through Pharaoh and all his army, and the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD."

They did so.

10 When the news was brought to the king of Egypt that the people had fled, Pharaoh and his courtiers changed their minds about the people.

"What ever have we done," they said, "to let Israel leave our service?"

11 So he hitched the horses to his chariot, and took his people with him; he took six hundred chariots, picked from all the chariots of Egypt, with charioteers in charge of them all. The LORD made Pharaoh, king of Egypt, obstinate, so that he pursued the Israelites, as they were going triumphantly out; the Egyptians pursued them, all of Pharaoh's horses and chariots, his cavalry and infantry, and overtook them, camping by the sea, near Pi-hahiroth, in front of Baal-zephon. As Pharaoh drew near, the Israelites raised their eyes, and there were the Egyptians setting out in pursuit of them! The Israelites were terribly afraid, and cried to the LORD. And they said to Moses,

"Was it because there were no graves in Egypt that you have taken us away to die in the desert? What a way to treat us, bringing us out of Egypt! Isn't this what we told you in Egypt would happen, when we said, 'Leave us alone and let us serve the Egyptians; for it is better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in the desert.'"

But Moses said to the people,

"Do not be afraid; stand by and see how the LORD is going to save you today; for although you see the Egyptians today, you shall never see them again. The LORD will fight for you, while you have only to keep still."

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Why do you cry to me? Tell the Israelites to set forth; and then raise your staff and stretch out your hand over the sea, and thus divide it in two, so that the Israelites may proceed on dry ground right into the sea. Then I will make the Egyptians obstinate, so that they will go in after them, and thus I will gain honor through Pharaoh and all his infantry, chariotry, and cavalry, so that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD, when I have gained honor through Pharaoh, his chariotry, and cavalry."

Then the angel of God who was accustomed to go in front of the army of Israel left his position and went behind them; the column of cloud also left its position in front of them and took its place behind them, and came between the army of Egypt and that of Israel, so that the cloud was there with its darkness, and the night passed by without the one coming near the other all night.

Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the LORD moved the sea away by means of a strong east wind all night, and turned the sea into dry land. The waters were divided, so that the Israelites proceeded on dry ground right into the sea, the waters forming a wall for them to right and left of them. Pursuing them, the Egyptians followed them right into the sea, all of Pharaoh's horses, his chariotry and cavalry. At the morning watch the LORD lowered himself toward the Egyptian army in the column of fire and cloud, and threw the Egyptian army into a panic. He clogged their chariot-wheels, and caused them to proceed with such difficulty that the Egyptians said,

"Let us flee from the Israelites; for the LORD is fighting for them against the Egyptians."

26 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the water may flow back upon the Egyptians, upon their chariotry and cavalry."

27 So Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and as morning broke, the sea returned to its steady flow; and as the Egyptians fled before it, the LORD shook the Egyptians right into the sea.

28 The water returned, and covered the chariotry and cavalry belonging to the whole army of Pharaoh that had followed them into the sea, not so much as one being left. But the Israelites had walked through the middle of the sea on dry ground, the water forming a wall for them to right and left of them.

30 Thus did the LORD save Israel that day from the power of the Egyptians. So Israel saw the Egyptians lying dead on the seashore; and when Israel saw the mighty act which the LORD had performed against the Egyptians, the people stood in awe of the LORD and trusted the LORD and his servant Moses.

15 Then Moses and the Israelites sang this song to the LORD; they said, "I will sing to the LORD, for he has completely triumphed;

The horse and its rider he has hurled into the sea.

2 The LORD is my strength and song, for he saved me;

He is my God whom I shall praise, my father's God whom I shall extol.

The LORD is a warrior, the LORD is his name.

Pharaoh's chariots and his army he cast into the sea,

And the best of his charioteers were engulfed in the Red Sea;

The floods covered them, they sank into the depths like a stone.

It was thy right hand, O LORD, glorious in power,

It was thy right hand, O LORD, that shattered the foe.

By the greatness of thy majesty thou didst overthrow thine adversaries;

Thou didst let loose thy wrath, it consumed them like stubble.

By the blast of thy nostrils the waters were piled up;

The streams stood up like a heap, the floods were congealed in the heart of the sea.

The foe said, 'I will pursue them, I will overtake them,

I will divide the spoil, I will work my will on them;

I will unsheath my sword, my hand shall conquer them.'

Thou didst blow with thy breath, the sea covered them;

They sank like lead in the mighty waters.

Who is there like thee among the gods, O LORD?

Who is there like thee, so glorious in holiness,

So awe-inspiring in renown, such a wonder worker?

Thou didst stretch out thy right hand, the earth swallowed them.

In thy goodness thou didst lead the people whom thou didst redeem;

In thy strength thou didst guide them to thy holy abode.

When the nations heard of it, they trembled,

Agony seized the inhabitants of Philistia;

Then were the chieftains of Edom dismayed;

The lords of Moab—trembling seized them;

All the inhabitants of Canaan melted away,

Terror and dread fell upon them;

Because of the greatness of thine arm they became as dumb as a stone,

Until thy people, O LORD, passed over;

Until the people whom thou didst acquire passed over.

7 Thou hast brought them and planted them in the highlands of thine own,

The place of thine abode which thou, O LORD, hast made,

The sanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands have established.

8 The LORD shall reign for ever and ever!"

9 For the horses of Pharaoh, with his chariotry and cavalry, entered the sea, and the LORD made the waters of the sea flow back on them, while the Israelites had walked through the middle of the sea on dry ground.

10 Then the prophetess Miriam, the sister of Aaron, took a tambourine in her hand, and all the women went out after her with tambourines and dancing, while Miriam responded to them in song,

"Sing to the LORD, for he has completely triumphed;

The horse and its rider he has hurled into the sea."

THE JOURNEY FROM THE RED SEA TO SINAI,

15:22—18:27

2 Then Moses had Israel set out from the Red Sea, and they proceeded to the desert of Shur; they journeyed for three days in the desert without finding water. Then they reached Marah, but they could not drink the water at Marah because it was bitter. That was how it came to be named Marah [bitterness]. So the people grumbled against Moses, saying,

"What are we to drink?"

3 So he cried to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a tree, which he threw into the water, so that the water became sweet.

It was there that he made a statute and ordinance for them, and put them to the test.

4 "If you will but heed the injunction of the LORD your God," he said, "and do what is right in his eyes, and pay attention to his commands, and observe all his statutes, I will inflict none of the diseases on you which I inflicted on the Egyptians; for I, the LORD, make you immune to them."

Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm-trees; and they camped there beside the water.

Setting out from Elim, the whole Israelite community came to the desert of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departure from the land of Egypt.

Then the whole Israelite community grumbled against Moses and Aaron in the desert.

"O that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, when we sat by pots of flesh and had plenty of food to eat," the Israelites said to them; "for you have brought us into this desert, to make this whole crowd die of famine."

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"I am going to rain food out of the sky for you, but the people are to go out and gather only a day's ration each day, in order that I may test them to see whether they will follow my instructions or not. On every sixth day, however, when they measure what they bring home, it shall be twice as much as what they gather from day to day."

So Moses and Aaron said to all the Israelites,

"At evening you shall know that it was the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt; and in the morning you shall see the glory of the LORD, since he has heard your grumbling against the LORD, for what are we that you should grumble against us?"

"This shall be," said Moses, "when the LORD gives you flesh to eat in the evening, and plenty of bread to satisfy you in the morning, since the LORD has heard the grumbling that you have muttered against him; for what are we? Your grumbling has really not been against us, but against the LORD."

Then Moses said to Aaron,

"Say to the whole Israelite community, 'Present yourselves before the LORD; for he has heard your grumbling.'"

When Aaron said this to the whole Israelite community, they looked toward the desert, whereupon the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"I have heard the grumbling of the Israelites; say to them, 'At twilight you shall have flesh to eat, and in the morning plenty of bread to satisfy you; and thus shall you know that I am the LORD your God.' "

- 13 So it came about at evening that quails came up and covered the camp, and in the morning there was a fall of dew around the camp; when the fall of dew evaporated, there, on the surface of the desert, was a fine scaly substance, as fine as hoar-frost on the ground!
- 15 When the Israelites saw it, they said to one another,
"What is it?"—for they did not know what it was.

Then Moses said to them,

- "That is the bread which the LORD is giving you to eat. This is the command which the LORD has given: 'Each of you gather as much of it as he can use, an omer apiece, according to the number of your members, each taking it for those in his tent.' "

- 17 The Israelites did so; they gathered it, some a large amount, some a small amount; but when they measured it with an omer, he who had gathered much did not have too much, and he who had gathered little did not have too little, each having gathered only as much as he could use.

- 19 Then Moses said to them,
"No one is to leave any of it over until morning."

- 20 But they did not obey Moses; certain ones left some of it over until morning, and it bred maggots and became foul. So Moses became angry with them.

- 21 Morning after morning they gathered it, each as much as he could use; and 22 when the sun grew hot, it melted. On the sixth day they gathered twice as much food, two omers apiece; and when the leaders of the community all came 23 and told Moses, he said to them,

"That is what the LORD meant; tomorrow is to be a day of complete rest, a sabbath sacred to the LORD; bake what you need to bake, and boil what you need to boil, and all that is left over put aside as a reserve until tomorrow morning."

- 24 So they put it aside until next morning, as Moses had commanded them, and it did not become foul, nor did maggots appear in it. Then Moses said to them,

"Eat this today; for today is a sabbath to the LORD; you will not find any in the fields today. It is only for six 21 days that you are to gather it; on the seventh day, which is a sabbath, there will be none."

On the seventh day, however, some 2 of the people did go out to gather it, but they found none. Then the LORD 21 said to Moses,

"How long are you going to refuse to keep my commands and instructions? Mark this: since the LORD has given 21 you the sabbath, he will accordingly give you enough food on the sixth day for two days; stay everyone of you in his place; let no one leave his home on the seventh day."

So the people rested on the seventh 31 day.

The Israelites called it manna; it was 3 as white as coriander seed, and its taste was like that of wafers made with honey.

"This is the command," said Moses, 3 "which the LORD has given: 'Keep an omerful of it for your descendants, that they may see the food with which I fed you in the desert when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.' "

So Moses said to Aaron, 3

"Take a jar and put an omerful of manna in it, and deposit it before the LORD, to be kept for your descendants 41 ants."

As the LORD had commanded 3 Moses, Aaron deposited it in front of the decrees for safe keeping.

For forty years the Israelites ate 3 manna, until they reached an inhabited land; they ate manna until they reached the outskirts of the land of Canaan.

(Now an omer is the tenth of an 1 ephah.)

From the desert of Sin the whole Israelite community traveled by stages, in accord with the command of the LORD, and camped at Rephidim. As there was no water for the people to drink, the people found fault with Moses.

"Give us water to drink," they said.

"Why do you find fault with me?" Moses said to them. "Why do you put the LORD to the test?"

The people became so thirsty for water there that they grumbled against Moses, and said,

"Why have you brought us up out of Egypt to have us and our children and live stock die of thirst?"

So Moses cried to the LORD,

"What am I to do with this people? They are almost ready to stone me."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Pass on ahead of the people, taking with you some of the elders of Israel; take the staff in your hand with which you struck the Nile, and go on. I will station myself there before you on the rock at Horeb, and when you strike the rock, water will gush out of it, so that the people may drink."

Moses did so, in sight of the elders of Israel.

So he called the name of the place Massah [testing], as well as Meribah [finding fault], because of the fault-finding of the Israelites, and their testing of the LORD by saying, "Is the LORD in our midst, or not?"

Then came Amalek, and fought with Israel at Rephidim. So Moses said to Joshua,

"Pick out some men for us, and hurry out to fight with Amalek, while I will take my stand on the top of the hill, with the staff of God in my hand."

Joshua did as Moses told him, and went out to fight against Amalek, while Moses, Aaron, and Hur ascended to the top of the hill. Whenever Moses held up his hand, Israel prevailed; and whenever he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed. When Moses' hands became tired, they took a stone and put it under him to sit on, while Aaron and Hur held his hands up, the one on one side, and the other on the other side. Thus it was that his hands were kept stationary until sunset, so that Joshua put Amalek and his people to the sword.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Write this as a memorandum in a book, and recite it to Joshua; for I will blot out the very memory of Amalek from under the heavens."

Then Moses built an altar, and called its name Yahweh-nissi [the LORD is my standard].

"Because a hand has been raised against the throne of the LORD," he said, "the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation."

Now Jethro, the priest of Midian, the father-in-law of Moses, heard of all that God had done for Moses and his people

Israel, how the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt. Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, had taken Moses' wife, Zipporah, after her dismissal, along with her two sons, of whom the name of the one Gershom [immigrant] ("For," said he, "I am an immigrant in a foreign land"), and the name of the other was Eliezer [My God is a help] ("For the God of my father has been my help, in delivering me from the sword of Pharaoh"). Then Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, came with his sons and his wife to Moses, to the place in the desert where he was camped, namely, the mountain of God. When Moses was told, "Here is your father-in-law Jethro coming to see you, accompanied by your wife and her two sons," Moses went out to meet his father-in-law; he bowed before him, and kissed him, and when they had asked after each other's health, they entered the tent. Moses then told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship that they had encountered on the journey, and how the LORD had delivered them. Jethro rejoiced over all the goodness which the LORD had shown Israel, in delivering them from the power of the Egyptians.

"Blessed be the LORD," said Jethro, "who delivered you from the power of the Egyptians and the power of Pharaoh, who delivered the people from under the power of the Egyptians. Now I know that the LORD is greater than all other gods, in that his power prevailed over them."

So Jethro, the father-in-law of Moses, procured a burnt-offering and sacrifices for God, whereupon Aaron came with all the elders of Israel to participate with Moses' father-in-law in the meal before God.

Next day Moses held court for the people, and the people stood about Moses from morning until evening. When Moses' father-in-law saw all that he had to do for the people, he said,

"What ever is this that you are doing for the people? Why do you hold court all alone, with the people all standing about you from morning until evening?"

"Because the people come to me to inquire of God," said Moses to his father-in-law. "Whenever they have a dispute, they come to me, that I may decide between one man and another, and let them know the statutes of God and his decisions."

- 17 "You are not doing right," said
18 Moses' father-in-law to him. "You will wear yourself out, both you and the people here with you; for the task is too heavy for you; you cannot do it alone.
19 Now listen to me; let me advise you, that God may be with you: You be the people's advocate with God, and bring
20 the cases to God; instruct them in the statutes and decisions, and let them know the procedure that they are to follow
21 low and what they are to do; but do you yourself select out of all the people some capable, God-fearing, honest men, with an aversion to improper gain, and set them over them as captains of divisions of a thousand, of a hundred, of 22 fifty, and of ten; let them act as judges for the people on all ordinary occasions; all important cases they shall bring to you, but all ordinary cases they shall judge themselves. Thus it will be lighter
23 burden for you, since they will share the burden with you. If you do this—and God so commands you—you will be able to endure it, and also, this whole people can then have their cases settled near home."
24 Moses agreed with the suggestion of his father-in-law, and did all that he
25 said; Moses chose capable men out of all Israel, and set them as chieftains over the people, as captains of divisions of a thousand, of a hundred, of fifty,
26 and of ten; they acted as judges for the people on all ordinary occasions; the difficult cases they brought to Moses, but all ordinary cases they judged 27 themselves. Then Moses saw his father-in-law off, and he betook himself to his own land.

THE SOJOURN AT SINAI,

19:1—40:38

- 19 On the third new moon after leaving the land of Egypt, on that very day the Israelites entered the desert of Sinai.
2 Setting out from Rephidim, they entered the desert of Sinai, and camped in the desert; Israel camped there in front
3 of the mountain, while Moses went up to God. Then the LORD called to him from the mountain, saying,
"Thus shall you say to the house of Jacob, and tell the Israelites: 'You have seen for yourselves what I did to the Egyptians, and how I bore you on eagles' wings, and brought you to myself. Now then, if you will but heed my injunctions, and keep my covenant, you shall be my very own out of all the peoples (for all the earth is mine), and you shall be a kingdom of priests to me, and a holy nation.' These are the words that you are to speak to the Israelites."

So Moses came and summoned the elders of the people, and set before them all these words which the LORD had commanded him. Then the people all answered together,

"Whatever the LORD says we will do."

And Moses reported the words of the people to the LORD.

The LORD said to Moses,

"See, I am coming to you in a thick cloud, in order that the people may hear me speaking with you, and may then always trust you too."

When Moses reported the words of the people to the LORD, the LORD said to Moses,

"Go to the people, and have them go through a period of consecration today and tomorrow; let them wash their clothes, and be ready by the day after tomorrow; for on the day after tomorrow the LORD is going to descend on Mount Sinai in sight of all the people. You must mark off the mountain all around, saying, 'Take care not to ascend the mountain, nor even to touch the edge of it; whoever touches the mountain must be put to death, having no hand touch him, but being stoned or shot; whether it is man or beast, he shall not be allowed to live. When a long blast is blown on the ram's horn, they may come up to the mountain.'"

So Moses descended from the mountain to the people; he consecrated the people, and they washed their clothes.

"Be ready by the day after tomorrow," he said to the people; "approach no woman."

On the third day, when morning came, there was thunder and lightning, with a heavy cloud over the mountain, and a very loud trumpet-blast, so that all the people that were in the camp trembled. Then Moses brought the people out of the camp to meet God, and they took their stand at the foot of 8 the mountain. Mount Sinai was completely enveloped in smoke, because the LORD had descended upon it in fire; its smoke ascended like the smoke from a kiln, so that the people all trembled violently. As the blast of the trumpet grew louder and louder, Moses spoke, and God answered him with a thunderous voice. The LORD descended upon Mount Sinai, to the top of the mountain; the LORD then summoned Moses to the top of the mountain, and when Moses went up, the LORD said to Moses,

"Go down and warn the people not to break through to the LORD to see him, or else many of them will fall. The priests, also, whose place it is to approach the LORD, are to sanctify themselves, lest the LORD break loose upon them."

3 Moses said to the LORD, "The people may not ascend Mount Sinai; for thou thyself didst charge us, saying, 'Mark off the mountain, and make it taboo.'"

4 The LORD said to him, "Go down, and then come up again, accompanied by Aaron; but the priests and the people are not to break through to come up to the LORD, lest he break loose upon them."

5 So Moses went down to the people, and told them.

D God spoke all these words, saying, 2 "Since I, the LORD, am your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery, you must have no other gods beside me.

4 "You must not carve an image for yourself in the shape of anything that is in the heavens above, or that is on the earth below, or that is in the waters under the earth; you must not pay homage to them, nor serve them; for I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, punishing children for the sins of their fathers, to the third or fourth generation of those who hate me, but showing kindness to the thousandth generation of those who love me and keep my commands.

7 "You must not invoke the name of the LORD your God to evil intent; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless who invokes his name to evil intent.

10 "Remember to keep the sabbath day holy. Six days you are to labor and do all your work, but on the seventh day, a sabbath to the LORD your God, you must not do any work at all, neither you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male or female slave, nor your cattle, nor the alien in your employ residing in your community; for in six days the LORD made the heavens, the earth, and the sea, together with all that is in them, but rested on the seventh day; that is how the LORD came to bless the seventh day and to hallow it.

"Honor your father and mother, that you may live long in the land that the LORD your God is giving you.

"You must not commit murder. 13

"You must not commit adultery. 14

"You must not steal. 15

"You must not bring a false charge against your fellow.

"You must not covet your neighbor's home; you must not covet your neighbor's wife, nor his male or female slave, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything at all that is your neighbor's."

As the people all perceived the thunder and lightning, the blast of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking, the people became afraid, and fell back, standing off at a distance.

"If you yourself will speak to us," they said to Moses, "we will listen; but do not let God speak to us, lest we die."

"Fear not," said Moses to the people, "for it is only to test you that God has come, and in order that the fear of him may be present with you so that you may not sin."

The people, however, stood off at a distance, while Moses approached the dense darkness where God was.

Then the LORD said to Moses, 22

"Thus shall you say to the Israelites: 'You have seen for yourselves that I have talked with you out of the heavens. Gods of silver, and gods of gold you must not make for yourselves. You must construct an altar of earth for me, and sacrifice on it your burnt-offerings, your thank-offerings, your sheep, and your oxen; at every sanctuary where I record my name, I will come to you and bless you. If, however, you construct an altar of stones for me, you must not build it of dressed stones; for if you were to use your tools on it, you would pollute it. Further, you must never ascend my altar on steps, so that your nakedness may not be exposed on it.'

- 21 "The following are the ordinances which you are to lay before them:
- 2 "When you buy a Hebrew slave, he is to work for you for six years, but in the seventh year he is to go free without paying anything. If he came in single, he shall go out single; if he was married, his wife shall go out with him. If his master gives him a wife, and she bears him sons or daughters, the wife with her children shall belong to her master, while he shall go out alone. But if the slave declares, "I am fond of my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go free," his master shall bring him up to God; he shall bring him up to the door or the door-post, and his master shall pierce his ear with an awl; he shall then be his slave permanently.
- 7 "If a man sells his daughter as a slave, she shall not go free as the male slaves do. If she is displeasing to her master, who acquired her for himself, he shall let her be redeemed; he shall have no right to sell her to a foreign people, since he has treated her unfairly. If he acquires her for his son, he must treat her like a daughter. If he marries another, he must not diminish her food, nor her clothes, nor her conjugal rights; if he does not observe these three duties to her, she shall go free without any money payment whatsoever.
- 12 "Whoever strikes another, so that he dies, must be put to death; if, however, he did not lie in wait for him, but God let him fall into his hands, I will designate a place for you to which he may flee. If a man wilfully plans to murder another treacherously, even from my altar you must take him, that he may be put to death.
- 15 "Whoever strikes his father or mother must be put to death.
- 16 "Whoever kidnaps a man, and sells him, or if he is found in his possession, must be put to death.
- 17 "Whoever reviles his father or mother must be put to death.
- 18 "If men get into a quarrel, and one strikes the other with a stone or with his fist, so that he does not die, but is laid up in bed, if he gets up again, and can go out walking on his staff, the one who struck him shall be let off, except that he must pay for his loss of time, and have him thoroughly restored to health.

"If a man strikes his male or female slave with a stick, so that he dies under his hand, he must be avenged. If, however, he survives a day or two, he is not to be avenged; for he is his own property.

"If men get into a fight, and hurt a pregnant woman so that she has a miscarriage, without further harm, he must pay such fine as the woman's husband imposes on him, and so pay for the miscarriage; but if there is further harm, you must give life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, burn for burn, wound for wound, lash for lash.

"If a man strikes the eye of his male or female slave, and destroys it, he must let him go free in compensation for his eye; if he knocks out the tooth of his male or female slave, he must let him go free in compensation for his tooth.

"If an ox gores a man or woman to death, the ox must be stoned to death, but its flesh is not to be eaten; the owner of the ox is blameless. If, however, the ox has been in the habit of goring, and its owner has been warned, but still does not keep it in, and it kills a man or a woman, the ox must be stoned, and its owner must also be put to death. If only a fine is imposed on him, he must pay in redemption of his life whatever amount is imposed on him. Whether it is a free man or a free woman that it gores, he is to be dealt with in accordance with this same ordinance. If the ox gores a male or a female slave, he must pay their master thirty shekels of silver, and the ox must be stoned.

"If a man opens a cistern, or if a man digs a cistern and does not cover it, and an ox or an ass falls into it, the owner of the cistern must make restitution by reimbursing its owner with money, but the carcass is to be his.

"If a man's ox hurt another's ox, so that it dies, they shall sell the live ox and divide its price between them, and the dead animal as well. Or, if the ox is known to have been in the habit of goring, and its owner has not been keeping it in, he must make restitution with an ox for the ox, but the dead animal is to be his.

"If a man steals an ox or a sheep, and kills it or sells it, he must pay an indemnity of five oxen for the ox, and four sheep for the sheep; he must surely make restitution; if he has nothing, he must be sold to pay for what he stole. If the stolen animal is found alive in his possession, whether it is an ox, an ass, or a sheep, he must make two-fold restitution.

"If the thief is caught in the act of breaking in, and is struck a fatal blow, there is no guilt of blood in his case; if the sun has risen on him, then there is guilt of blood.

"If a man in burning over a field or vineyard lets the fire spread so that it burns in another man's field, he must make restitution with the very best of his own field or vineyard. If fire breaks out and catches in a thorn-hedge, so that the shocks of grain or the standing grain or the field itself is consumed, he who lit the fire must make restitution.

"If a man gives money or other articles to another to keep, and it is stolen from the latter's house, if the thief is found, he must make two-fold restitution; if the thief is not found, the owner of the house must be brought into the presence of God to determine whether he himself has not laid hands on the other's property.

"In every case of dispute, whether it concerns ox, or ass, or sheep, or clothing, or any article at all that has disappeared, concerning which claim is made, "This is it," the case of both parties shall come before God; he whom God convicts must make two-fold restitution to the other.

"If a man gives an ass, or an ox, or a sheep, or any kind of animal to another to keep, and it dies, or is injured, or is taken as booty when no one was looking, there must be an oath by the LORD between the two of them as to whether one did not lay hands on the other's property; the owner must then accept it, and no restitution shall be made. But if it is really stolen from him, he must make restitution to its owner. If it is torn in pieces, let him bring it as evidence; he need not make good what has been torn.

"If a man borrows an animal from another, and it is injured or dies, its owner not being employed with it, he must make restitution; if the owner is employed with it, he need not make restitution; if it was hired, the owner is to receive the price of its hire.

"If a man seduces a virgin who is not betrothed, and lies with her, he must pay the marriage-price for her, and marry her; if her father absolutely refuses to give her to him, he must pay money equivalent to the marriage-price of virgins.

"You must not let a sorceress live. 18
"Whoever lies with an animal must 19 be put to death.

"He who sacrifices to any god except the LORD alone must be destroyed.

"You must not ill-treat a resident alien, nor oppress him; for you were once resident aliens yourselves in the land of Egypt. You must not wrong any widow or orphan. If you ever wrong them and they cry aloud to me, I will be sure to hear their cry, and my anger will blaze, and I will slay you with the sword; thus shall your own wives become widows and your children orphans.

"If you lend money to my people, 25 to any poor person among you, you must not behave like a creditor toward him; you must not charge him any interest. If you ever take another's cloak in pledge, you must return it to him by sunset; for that is his only covering; it 27 is his cloak for his body. What else could he sleep in? And if he should cry to me, I would respond; for I am kind.

"You must not revile God, nor 28 curse a ruler of your people.

"You must not be dilatory with 29 your offering, whether much or little. You must give me the first-born of your sons; you must do the same with your 30 oxen and your sheep; for seven days it may remain with its dam; on the eighth day you must give it to me.

"Since you are men sacred to me, 31 you must not eat flesh that has been torn in the field; you must throw it to the dogs.

"You must not give false, hearsay 23 evidence; do not join hands with a wicked person by being a malicious witness. You must not follow the majority by doing wrong, nor give evidence in a suit so as to pervert justice, by turning aside with the majority. Neither must you favor a poor man in 3 his case.

"If you chance upon your enemy's 4 ox or ass going astray, you must be sure to take it home to him.

"If you see the ass of one who hates 5

- you lying prostrate under its load, you must refrain from deserting him; you must be sure to help him get it up.
- 6 "You must not pervert the justice due your poor in his case. Avoid false charges; do not have innocent and guiltless persons put to death, nor acquit the wicked. You must never take a bribe; for a bribe blinds the open-eyed, and subverts even a just case.
- 9 "You must not oppress a resident alien, since you know the feelings of an alien, for you were once aliens yourselves in the land of Egypt.
- 10 "For six years you may sow your land and gather in its crops, but during the seventh year you must leave it alone and let it lie fallow, so that the poor of your people may eat of it, and what they leave the wild beasts may eat. You must do the same with your vineyards and olive groves.
- 12 "Six days you are to do your work, but on the seventh day you must desist, in order that your ox and ass may rest, and that your slave and the resident alien may refresh themselves.
- 13 "Give heed to all that I have told you; never mention the names of alien gods; do not let them be heard on your lips.
- 14 "Three times a year you are to hold a feast for me. You must keep the feast of unleavened cakes, eating unleavened cakes for seven days, as I commanded you, at the appointed time, the new moon of Abib (for it was then that you came out of Egypt); none may visit me empty-handed. There is also the harvest feast, that of the first-fruits of your labor, of what you sowed in the field; and the feast of ingathering at the end of the year, when you gather in the fruit of your labor from the field. Three times a year all your males must visit the Lord GOD.
- 18 "You must not offer the blood of a sacrifice to me with leavened bread.
"The fat of my feast must not be left over night until morning.
- 19 "The very first of the first-fruits of your soil you must bring to the house of the Lord your God.
"You must not boil a kid in its mother's milk.
- 20 "See, I am sending an angel before you, to guard you on the way, and to bring you to the place that I have prepared. Pay attention to him and heed his injunctions; do not oppose him, because he will not pardon your offense; for I will manifest myself in him. But if you do heed his injunctions, and do just what I say, I will be an enemy to your enemies, and an adversary to your adversaries. When my angel goes before you, and brings you to the Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hivvites, and Jebusites, and I exterminate them, you must not pay homage to their gods, nor serve them, nor make anything like them; but you must be sure to overthrow them, and smash their sacred pillars. You must serve the LORD your God, and then I will bless your food and water, and I will free you from disease; there shall be none in your land who miscarries or is barren; I will bring to completion the full number of your days. I will send my terror before you, and will throw all the peoples to whom you come into a panic; I will make all your enemies turn their backs to you; I will send leprosy ahead of you to drive the Hivvites, Canaanites, and Hittites out of your way; I will not drive them out of your way in a single year, lest the land become desolate, and the wild beasts become too numerous for you; I will drive them out of your way little by little, until you grow in numbers and can take full possession of the land. I will make your domain the region from the Red Sea as far as the sea of the Philistines, and from the desert as far as the Euphrates; for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your power, and drive them out of your way. You must make no covenant with them, nor with their gods; they must not remain in your land lest they make you sin against me; for if you were to serve their gods, it would endanger you."

"Come up to the LORD," he said to Moses, "you, and Aaron, Nadab, Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, and worship at a distance; Moses alone is to come near the LORD; the others are not to come near, nor are the people to go up with him."

Then Moses came, and recounted to the people all the regulations of the LORD and all the ordinances; and the people all answered with one voice.

"All the regulations that the LORD has given we will observe."

So Moses wrote down all the regulations of the LORD, and rising early next morning, he built an altar at the foot of the mountain, along with twelve sacred pillars, one for each of the twelve tribes of Israel. Then he sent the young men of the Israelites to offer burnt-offerings and to sacrifice oxen as thank-offerings to the LORD, while Moses himself took half of the blood, and put it in basins, dashing the other half on the altar. He then took the book of the covenant, and read it in the hearing of the people, who said,

"All that the LORD has directed we will obediently do."

Then Moses took the blood and dashed it on the people, saying,

"Behold the blood of the covenant which the LORD has made with you on the basis of all these regulations."

Moses then went up, with Aaron, Nadab, Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, and they saw the God of Israel, with something like a sapphire pavement under his feet, as clear as the sky itself. And God did not lay hands on the leaders of the Israelites, but they beheld God, and ate and drank.

The LORD said to Moses,

"Ascend the mountain to me, and be present there, that I may give you the stone tablets, with the instructions and commands that I have written on them for their instruction."

So Moses, with his attendant Joshua, rose; and Moses ascended the mountain of God, saying to the elders,

"Wait here for us until we come back to you. Aaron and Hur are here with you; whoever has a dispute may bring it to them."

So Moses ascended the mountain, while the cloud covered the mountain, and the glory of the LORD rested on Mount Sinai; for six days the cloud covered it, but on the seventh day he called to Moses from the midst of the cloud. The glory of the LORD looked to the Israelites like a consuming fire on the top of the mountain. Moses penetrated the cloud, and ascended the mountain; Moses remained on the mountain for forty days and nights.

The LORD said to Moses,

"Tell the Israelites to procure a contribution for me; get the contribution for me from everyone whose heart makes him willing. And this is the contribution that you are to procure from them: gold, silver, and bronze, violet, purple, and scarlet material, fine linen, goats' hair, tanned rams' skins, porpoise skins, acacia wood, oil for the lamps, spices for the anointing oil and the fragrant incense, onyx stones, and set stones for the sacred apron and pouch.

"They must also make me a sanctuary, that I may dwell among them; you must make it exactly as I have shown you, after the plan for the dwelling and all its fittings.

"They must also make an ark of acacia wood, two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide, and a cubit and a half high; you must overlay it with pure gold, overlaying it both inside and outside, and run a molding of gold around it. You must cast four rings of gold for it, and fasten them on its four feet, with two rings on one side of it and two rings on the other side of it; then you must make poles of acacia wood, overlaying them with gold, and put the poles through the rings on the sides of the ark, with which to carry the ark; the poles are to remain in the rings of the ark, never to be removed from it. Inside the ark you must place the decrees which I give you. You must also make a propitiatory of pure gold, two and a half cubits long, and a cubit and a half wide; and make two cherubim of gold at the two ends of the propitiatory, making them of beaten work, making one cherub at one end and the other cherub at the other end, and making the cherubim of one piece with the propitiatory at its two ends; and the cherubim are to have their wings spread out on high, overshadowing the propitiatory with their wings and facing each other, with the faces of the cherubim directed toward the propitiatory. You must place the propitiatory on top of the ark, and inside the ark you must place the decrees that I give you. I will meet you there; from the place above the propitiatory, between the two cherubim on the ark of the decrees, I will communicate to you all the commands that I have to give you for the Israelites.

"You must also make a table of acacia wood, two cubits long, a cubit wide, and a cubit and a half high; you must overlay it with pure gold, and run a molding of gold around it; you must make a rail around it a handbreadth wide, and run a molding of gold around 26 its rail; you must make four rings of gold for it, and fasten the rings on the 27 four corners of its four feet; the rings are to lie close to the rail as holders for 28 the poles for carrying the table. You must make the poles of acacia wood, 29 overlaying them with gold, that the table may be carried with them. You 30 must also make its plates, its cups, its flacons, and its bowls for pouring libations, 31 making them of pure gold. You must always have Presence-bread set out on the table before me.

 31 "You must also make a lampstand of pure gold; the base and shaft of the lampstand are to be made of beaten work,
 32 its cups, each with its calyx and petals, to be of one piece with it; six branches are to extend from its sides,
 33 three branches of the lampstand from the one side of it, and three branches of the lampstand from the other side of it;
 34 there are to be three cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with calyx and petals, on one branch, three cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with calyx and petals, on another branch,
 35 and so for the six branches extending from the lampstand; and on the lampstand itself there are to be four cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with
 36 its calyx and petals; there is to be a calyx of one piece with it under two branches, another calyx of one piece with it under two branches, and another calyx of one piece with it under two branches, for the six branches extending 37 from the lampstand; their calyxes and branches are to be of one piece with it, the whole of it forming a single piece of beaten work of pure gold. You must then make the seven lamps for it; and its lamps are to be put up so as to shed 38 light on the space in front of it. Its snuffers and snuffdishes are to be of pure gold. A talent of pure gold is to be used to make it, with all these fittings.
 39 And see that you make them after the model for them that was shown you on the mountain.
 40 "The dwelling itself you must make out of ten curtains, making them of fine twisted linen, violet, purple, and scarlet material, with cherubim, the 2 work of artists; the length of each curtain is to be twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits, all the curtains to have the same measurements. Five of the curtains are to be joined to one another, and the other five curtains joined to one another; and on the edge of the outermost curtain in the one set you are to make loops of violet, and you are to make the same on the edge of the outermost curtain in the other set, making fifty loops on the one curtain, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain in the other set, the loops to be opposite each other. You must then make fifty gold clasps, and join the curtains to one another with the clasps, so that the dwelling may be a unit.

"Further, you must make curtains of goats' hair for a tent over the dwelling, making eleven curtains in all, the length of each curtain to be thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits, the eleven curtains to have the same measurements. You must join five of the curtains by themselves, and the other six curtains by themselves, doubling the sixth curtain to hang in front of the tent. Then you must make fifty loops on the edge of the outermost curtain in the one set, and fifty loops on the edge of that in the other set, and you must also make fifty bronze clasps, and put the clasps into the loops, thus joining the tent together so that it becomes a unit. The overhanging part that is left over in the tent curtains, the half curtain that is left over, is to hang over the rear of the dwelling, while the cubit left over on each side in the length of the tent curtains is to hang over each side of the dwelling to cover it. Also, you must make a covering for the tent of tanned rams' skins, and above that a covering of porpoise skins.

"You must make the frames for the dwelling of durable acacia wood, ten cubits to be the length of the frames, and a cubit and a half the width of each frame; each frame is to have two arms, joined to each other by cross rungs; you are to do the same with all the frames for the dwelling. You must make the frames for the dwelling as follows: twenty frames for the side toward the Negeb to the south, making forty silver pedestals as bases for the twenty frames, two pedestals as bases for one frame with its two arms, and two pedestals as bases for another frame with its two arms; twenty frames for the second side of the dwelling, the northern side, with their forty silver pedestals, two pedestals as bases for one frame, and two pedestals as bases for another frame; and you must make six frames for the rear of the dwelling to the west, as well as two frames for the corners of the dwelling at the rear; they are to be double at the bottom, and likewise double at the top of it, up to the first ring, and so with both of them; they are to form the two corners; thus there shall be eight frames, with their sixteen silver pedestals, two pedestals as bases for one frame, and two pedestals as bases for another frame. You must also make bars of acacia wood, five for the frames on the one side of the dwelling, and five bars for the frames on the other side of the dwelling, and five bars for the frames on the side of the dwelling at the rear to the west; the middle bar in the center of the frames is to run through from end to end. You must overlay the frames with gold, and make the rings on them of gold as holders for the bars, and also overlay the bars with gold. So you must erect the dwelling after the plan for it that was shown you on the mountain.

"You must also make a veil of violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, and it is to be made with cherubim, the work of artists; you must fasten it on four columns of acacia wood overlaid with gold, with their hooks of gold, standing on four silver pedestals; you must hang the veil from the clasps, and you must bring the ark of the decrees in there, inside the veil, so that the veil shall divide the sacred place from the most sacred place for you. You must put the propitiatory on the ark of the decrees in the most sacred place, and place the table outside the veil, and the lampstand opposite the table at the south side of the dwelling, placing the table at the north side. You must also make a screen for the doorway of the tent of violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, in variegated work; and for the screen you must make five columns of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold; their hooks are to be gold, and you must cast five bronze pedestals for them.

"You must make the altar of acacia wood, five cubits long, and five cubits wide; the altar is to be square, and its height three cubits; you must make the horns for it on its four corners, its horns to be of one piece with it; and you must overlay it with bronze. You must make its ash-pans, its shovels, its basins, its forks, and its firepans, making all its utensils of bronze. You must make a bronze grating of network for it, and on the net you must make four bronze rings at its four corners; you must then place it under the ledge around the altar, that the net may reach half-way up the altar. You must also make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with bronze; its poles are to be put through the rings, with the poles resting on the two sides of the altar when it is carried. You are to make it hollow, with boards; it is to be made just as it was shown you on the mountain.

"Then you must make the court of the dwelling; for the southern side toward the Negeb there are to be hangings for the court of fine twisted linen, extending one hundred cubits along the one side, with twenty columns for them, and twenty bronze pedestals for these, the hooks of the columns and their bands to be silver. Similarly, for the north side there are to be hangings, extending to a length of one hundred cubits, and twenty columns for them, with twenty bronze pedestals for these, the hooks of the columns and their bands to be silver. For the west side, the width of the court, there are to be hangings extending for fifty cubits, ten columns for them, and ten pedestals for these; and the width of the court at the front, the east side, is to be fifty cubits, with hangings on the one wing for fifteen cubits, three columns for them, and three pedestals for these, and hangings on the other wing for fifteen cubits, three columns for them, and three pedestals for these; while the gate of the court is to have a screen measuring twenty cubits, of violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, in variegated work, with four columns for it, and four pedestals for these. All the columns around the court are to be bound with silver, their hooks also to be silver, but their pedestals bronze. The length of the court is to be one hundred cubits, the width fifty cubits, and the height five cubits, hung with fine twisted linen. All the utensils of the dwelling, used in all its service, as well as all its pegs, and all the pegs for the court are to be bronze.

20 "You must order the Israelites to provide you with pure oil from crushed olives for the lights, so that there may 21 always be a lamp to lift in place; in the tent of meeting, outside the veil which screens the decrees, Aaron and his sons are to keep it supplied from evening until morning before the LORD; it is to be a perpetual statute with the Israelites throughout their generations.

28 "From among the Israelites have your brother Aaron, accompanied by his sons, present himself to you to serve as priest to me, Aaron and his sons, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. You must make sacred vestments for your brother Aaron to his honor and
3 adornment; you must tell all the skillful persons, whom I have endowed with skill, to make vestments for Aaron, to consecrate him to serve as priest to me.
4 The following are the vestments that they must make: a pouch, an apron, a robe, a tunic in checkered work, a turban, and a sash. They must make the sacred vestments for your brother Aaron and his sons, that he may serve 5 as priest to me; and they must use gold, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine linen.

6 "They must make the apron of gold, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and 7 fine twisted linen, in skilled work; it must have two shoulder-straps joined to it at the two ends, and thus be
8 joined. The skillfully made girdle on it must be made like it, of one piece with it, of gold, violet, purple, and scarlet 9 material, and fine twisted linen. You must then procure two onyx stones, and engrave on them the names of the Isra-
10 elites, six of their names on the one stone, and the remaining six on the other stone, in the order of their origin;
11 with seal engravings, the work of a jeweler, you must engrave the two stones with the various names of the Israelites, setting them in filigree work of gold;
12 and you must fasten the two stones on the shoulder-straps of the apron, as memorial stones for the Israelites, and so Aaron shall carry their names on his shoulders in the presence of the LORD as a memorial.

13 "You must also make filigree objects
14 of gold, and two chains of pure gold, making them of twisted material, of cordage-work, and you must fasten the corded chains to the filigree objects.

"Further, you must make an oracle pouch in skilled work; you must make it in the same way as the apron, making it of gold, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen; it is to be square, and folded double, a span long, and a span wide; and you must insert in it a setting of stones, four rows of stones, the first row to be a row of carnelian, topaz, and emerald, the second row a ruby, a sapphire, and a crystal, the third row a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst, and the fourth row a chrysolite, an onyx, and a jasper; they are to be inclosed with gold in their settings. The stones, corresponding to the names of the Israelites, are to be twelve in number, as their names are, each to be engraved like a seal with its proper name for the twelve tribes. On the pouch you must make chains of twisted material, of cordage-work of pure gold; you must then make two rings of gold on the pouch, fastening the two rings at the two ends of the pouch; you must fasten the two gold cords to the two rings at the ends of the pouch, while the other two ends of the two cords you must fasten to the two filigree objects, fastening them to the shoulder-straps of the apron on the front of it. You must make two rings of gold, and attach them to the two ends of the pouch, on its inner edge next to the apron. You must then make two rings of gold, and fasten them to the shoulder-straps in front of the apron, underneath, close to the place where it is joined, above the skillfully made girdle; and the pouch is to be tied by its rings to the rings of the apron with a violet cord, so as to lie on the skillfully made girdle, so that the pouch may not swing loose from the apron. Aaron shall carry the names of the Israelites on the oracle pouch over his heart whenever he enters the sacred place, as a memorial before the LORD always. You must put the Urim and Thummim in the oracle pouch, that they may lie over Aaron's heart whenever he enters the presence of the LORD, that Aaron may always carry the oracle of the Israelites over his heart in the presence of the LORD.

"You must make the robe belonging to the apron entirely of violet material; and it must have an opening at the top, in the middle of it; its opening is to have a binding of woven work around it; it is to have an opening like that of a corselet, so that it may not be torn. On its skirts you must make pomegranates of violet, purple, and scarlet material, all around its skirts, with gold bells among them all around, a gold bell alternating with a pomegranate all around the skirts of the robe. Aaron must wear it in ministering, that the tinkling of it may be heard when he enters the sacred place in the presence of the LORD, and when he leaves it, and then he will not die.

"You must also make a diadem of pure gold, and with seal engravings you must engrave on it, 'Sacred to the LORD'; you must attach it to a violet cord, and it is to rest on the turban; at the front of the turban shall it be; it is to rest on Aaron's forehead, so that Aaron himself shall bear any guilt connected with the sacred offerings which the Israelites may ever make as their sacred gifts; it must always be on his forehead to win acceptance for them before the LORD.

"You must weave the tunic of fine linen; and make a turban of fine linen, and a sash in variegated work.

"For Aaron's sons, too, you must make tunics; you must make sashes for them, and you must also make caps for them, to their honor and adornment. You must dress your brother Aaron in these, and his sons along with him, anointing them, installing them, and consecrating them to serve as priests to me. You must also make linen breeches for them, to cover their bare flesh, reaching from the loins to the thighs; and Aaron and his sons must wear them whenever they enter the tent of meeting, or approach the altar to minister in the sacred place, lest they incur guilt, and so die; it is to be a perpetual statute for him and for his descendants after him.

"The following is what you must do with them in consecrating them to serve as priests to me: take a young bullock, two perfect rams, unleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers smeared with oil, making them of fine wheat flour; you must put them in a basket, and present them in the basket, along with the bullock and the two rams. Then you must have Aaron and his sons come up to the doorway of the tent of meeting, and wash them with water; and taking the vestments, you must dress Aaron in the tunic, the robe belonging to the apron, the apron itself, and the pouch, and gird him with the skilfully made girdle; you must set the turban on his head, and place the sacred crown on the turban; you must then take the anointing oil, and pouring it on his head, anoint him. You must also have his sons come up, and then dress them in tunics, gird them with sashes, namely Aaron and his sons, and fasten caps on them; they are to have the priesthood by a perpetual statute. Thus shall you instal Aaron and his sons.

"You must then bring the bullock to the front of the tent of meeting; Aaron and his sons must lay their hands on the head of the bullock, and then you must slaughter the bullock before the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting; you must take some of the bullock's blood, and put it on the horns of the altar with your finger, pouring out all the rest of the blood at the base of the altar; you must take all the fat covering the entrails, the lobe on the liver, and the two kidneys with the fat that is on them, and burn them on the altar; but the flesh of the bullock, with its hide and offal, you must burn up outside the camp; it is a sin-offering. You must then take one of the rams; Aaron and his sons must lay their hands on the head of the ram, and then you must slaughter the ram, and taking its blood, dash it all around the altar; you must cut the ram into pieces, and washing its entrails and legs, put them with its other pieces and its head, and then burn the whole ram on the altar; it is a burnt-offering to the LORD, a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD. You must then take the other ram; Aaron and his sons must lay their hands on the head of the ram, and then you must slaughter the ram, and taking some of its blood, put it on the tip of Aaron's ear, on the tips of his sons' right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the great toes of their right feet, dashing the rest of the blood all around the altar; you must then take some of the blood that is on the altar and some of the anointing oil, and sprinkle it on Aaron and his vestments, as well as on his sons and the vestments of his sons with him, so that he and his vestments may be consecrated, as well as his sons and the vestments of his sons

22 with him. You must also take the fat from the ram, the fat tail, the fat covering the entrails, the lobe of the liver, the two kidneys with the fat that is on them, and the right thigh (for it is an installation ram), together with a loaf of bread, a cake made with oil, and a wafer from the basket of unleavened cakes which lies before the LORD; you must lay all this in the hands of Aaron and his sons, and present them as a

23 wave-offering before the LORD; then you must take them from their hands, and burn them on the altar for burnt-offerings, as a soothing odor to the LORD; it is a sacrifice to the LORD.

24 You must take the breast of Aaron's installation ram, and wave it as a wave-offering before the LORD, after which it is to become your share. You must consecrate the waved breast of the ram used for the installation of Aaron and his sons, which was waved, and the 25 thigh which was contributed; it must go to Aaron and his sons as their perpetual due from the Israelites; for it is a contribution; it is a contribution from the Israelites out of their thanksgiving sacrifices, their contribution to the LORD.

26 "The sacred vestments of Aaron shall pass to his sons after him, that they may be anointed and installed in them;

27 for seven days shall that one of his sons who is to be priest in his place wear them when he enters the tent of meeting to minister in the sacred place.

28 "Taking the installation ram, you must boil its flesh at a sacred place, and then Aaron and his sons must eat the flesh of the ram and the bread in the basket at the doorway of the tent of

29 meeting; they may eat these things for whose installation and consecration atonement was made by them, but no layman may eat them; for they are

30 sacred. If any of the flesh used in the installation, or any of the bread is left over until morning, you must burn up what is left; it is not to be eaten, because it is sacred.

31 "This, then, is what you must do with Aaron and his sons, just as I have commanded you. You must spend seven days installing them; each day you must offer a bullock as a sin-offering to make atonement; you must make a sin-offering on the altar when you make atonement for it, and then anoint it to make it sacred; you must spend seven days making atonement for the altar in order to make it sacred; the altar will then be completely taboo, so that everyone touching the altar will become taboo.

"This is what you are to offer on the altar: two yearling lambs regularly each day, offering one lamb in the morning, and the other lamb at twilight, and with the former lamb a tenth of an ephah of fine meal mixed with a fourth of a hin of oil from crushed olives, and a libation of a fourth of a hin of wine; and the other lamb you must offer at twilight as a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD, accompanying it with the same cereal-offering and libation as the offering in the morning—a regular burnt-offering to be made by you throughout your generations at the doorway of the tent of meeting before the LORD, where I will meet you to speak to you there.

"I will meet the Israelites there, and it shall be consecrated by my glory; I will consecrate the tent of meeting and the altar, and I will also consecrate Aaron and his sons to serve as priests to me; I will dwell in the midst of the Israelites, and will be their God; they shall know that I, the LORD, am their God, who brought them out of the land of Egypt that I might dwell in the midst of them, I, the LORD their God.

"You must also make an altar for burning incense, making it of acacia wood; it is to be square, a cubit long and a cubit wide, while its height is to be two cubits, with its horns of one piece with it; you must overlay it with pure gold, its top, its sides all around, and its horns; and you must run a gold molding around it. You must make two gold rings for it underneath its molding, on its two sides, making them on the two opposite sides of it, as holders for the poles by which to carry it. You must make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold. You must then place it in front of the veil which screens the ark of the decrees, in front of the propitiatory that lies over the decrees, where I will meet you. On it

1 Aaron must burn spices as incense, burning it from morning to morning when he trims the lamps; also when Aaron puts up the lamps at twilight, he must burn it, as a regular incense-offering before the LORD throughout your generations. You must not offer improper incense on it, nor burnt-offerings, nor cereal-offerings, nor pour libations on it. Once a year Aaron must make atonement on its horns; with the blood of the sin-offering of atonement he must make atonement on it once a year throughout your generations, since it is most sacred to the LORD."

1 The LORD said to Moses,
2 "When you take a census of the Israelites, each of them must pay a ransom for himself to the LORD at the time that they are numbered, that no plague may fall on them when they are numbered. And this is what every one must pay as he joins those already numbered, a half-shekel, in terms of the sacred shekel, the shekel of twenty gerahs, a half-shekel as a contribution to the LORD; every one from twenty years old and upward, as he joins those already numbered, must make this contribution to the LORD; the rich are not to give more, nor the poor less than a half-shekel in making the contribution to the LORD to make atonement for yourselves. On taking the atonement money from the Israelites you must use it for the service of the tent of meeting, that it may be for the Israelites a memorial before the LORD to make atonement for yourselves."

7 The LORD said to Moses,
8 "You must make a bronze laver with a bronze base for washing, and place it between the tent of meeting and the altar, putting water in it, so that Aaron and his sons may wash their hands and feet from it; whenever they enter the tent of meeting, they must wash themselves with water, that they die not; or whenever they approach the altar to minister, by burning a sacrifice to the LORD. So they must wash their hands and feet, that they die not, and it is to be a perpetual statute for them, for him and his descendants throughout their generations."

9 The LORD said to Moses,
10 "Procure the finest spices, five hundred shekels of pure myrrh, half that amount of fragrant cinnamon, namely two hundred and fifty shekels, two hundred and fifty shekels of fragrant calamus, five hundred shekels of cassia, in terms of the sacred shekel, and a hin of olive oil; you must then make it into a sacred anointing oil, a compound made according to the art of the compounder of oils; it is to be a sacred anointing oil, and with it you must anoint the tent of meeting, the ark of the decrees, the table and all its fittings, the lampstand and its fittings, the incense altar, the altar for burnt-offerings and all its fittings, the laver and its base, and thus make them sacred, so that they become completely taboo, with everyone touching them becoming taboo. You must also anoint Aaron and his sons, consecrating them to serve as priests to me. You must then say to the Israelites, "This is to be a sacred anointing oil for me throughout your generations; it is not to be used for anointing the body of an ordinary person, nor are you to make anything like it in composition for yourselves; being sacred, it is taboo to you. Whoever compounds anything like it, or puts any of it on a layman, shall be cut off from his people."

The LORD said to Moses,
"Procure spices, stacte, onycha, galbanum, spices, and pure frank-incense, the same amount of each, and make it into incense, a compound made by the compounder's art, clarified, pure and sacred. You must pulverize some of it very fine, and place some of it in front of the decrees in the tent of meeting, where I will meet you; it is to be completely taboo to you. The incense which you are to make according to its formula, you must never make for yourselves; you must regard it as sacred to the LORD; whoever makes anything like it just to smell shall be cut off from his people."

The LORD said to Moses,
"See, I have specifically chosen Bezalel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, belonging to the tribe of Judah, filling him with the spirit of God, in skill, intelligence, and knowledge in every craft, to devise ingenious things in working with gold, silver, and bronze, and in the cutting of stones to be set, and in wood carving, that he may work at every craft. However, along with him I have also appointed Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach, belonging to the tribe of Dan-and I have endowed all those of skilful mind with skill to make all that I have 7 commanded you, the tent of meeting, the ark of the decrees, and the propitiatory on it, all the fittings of the tent, the table and its fittings, the lampstand of 8 pure gold and its fittings, the incense altar, the altar for burnt-offerings and

 9 all its fittings, the laver and its base, the woven vestments, the sacred vestments for Aaron, the priest, and the vestments for his sons, to serve as priests,
 10 the anointing oil, and the incense made of spices for the sacred place; they shall make them just as I have commanded you."

12 The LORD said to Moses,
 13 "Say to the Israelites, 'You must be sure to keep my sabbaths; for that will be a sign between me and you throughout your generations, so that it may be known that I, the LORD, am consecrating you. So you must keep the sabbath;
 14 for it is to be sacred to you; anyone desecrating it must be put to death; if there is anyone who does work on it, that person is to be cut off from his people. For six days work may be done,
 15 but on the seventh day there is to be the sabbath of complete rest, sacred to the LORD; anyone who does work on the sabbath day must be put to death. So the Israelites must keep the sabbath,
 16 observing the sabbath throughout their generations as a perpetual covenant; it is a sign between me and the Israelites forever; for in six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, but on the seventh day he rested and refreshed himself.'"

18 As soon as he had finished talking with Moses on Mount Sinai, he gave him the two tablets of the decrees, the stone tablets, inscribed by God's own finger.

32 When the people saw that Moses was long in coming down from the mountain, the people gathered about Aaron, and said to him,

"Come, make us a god to go ahead of us; for this is the way it is with Moses, the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt—we do not know what has become of him."

2 So Aaron said to them,

"Tear off the gold rings which are in the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters, and bring them to me."

So all the people tore off the gold rings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aaron, who took the material from them, and pouring it into a mold, made it into a molten bull, whereupon they said,

"Here is your god, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt!"

On seeing this, Aaron built an altar in front of it, and Aaron made proclamation,

"Tomorrow a feast shall be held to the LORD."

So next day the people rose early, and offered burnt-offerings, and presented thank-offerings; the people sat down to eat and drink, after which they rose to make merry.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Go down at once; for your people whom you brought up out of the land of Egypt have acted perniciously; in that they have been quick to swerve from the path that I appointed them, by making themselves a molten bull, doing homage to it, sacrificing to it, and saying, 'This is your god, O Israel, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt!'"

Further, the LORD said to Moses,

"I have watched this people, and it is indeed a stiff-necked people. Now then, let me alone, that my anger may blaze against them, and that I may consume them; and then I will make a great nation of you."

But Moses tried to mollify the LORD his God.

"O LORD," he said, "why does thy anger blaze against thy own people whom thou didst bring out of the land of Egypt by great power and a strong hand? Why should the Egyptians say, 'It was at a bad time that he brought them out, slaying them in the highlands and obliterating them from the face of the earth?' Turn from thy fierce anger, and change thy mind about doing evil to thy people. Remember concerning Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, that thou didst swear by thyself to them, saying to them, 'I will make your descendants as numerous as the stars in the sky, and all this land that I have spoken of, I will give to your descendants to have as their own forever.'"

So the LORD changed his mind about the evil that he said he would do to his people.

Moses then turned and descended from the mountain, with the two tablets of the decrees in his hand, tablets written on both their sides, being written on one side and on the other. The tablets were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, engraved upon the tablets.

When Joshua heard the sound of the people shouting, he said to Moses,

"There is the sound of war in the camp."

But he said,

"It is not the sound of the cry of might, nor is it the sound of the cry of defeat; it is the sound of singing that I hear."

As soon as he came near the camp, he saw the bull and the dancing, whereupon Moses' anger blazed, and he flung the tablets from his hands, and broke them at the foot of the mountain; then he took the bull which they had made, and burned it up, and grinding it to powder, he scattered it on the surface of the water, and made the Israelites drink it. Then Moses said to Aaron,

"What did this people do to you, that you have let them incur such great guilt?"

Aaron said,

"Let not my lord's anger blaze; you know yourself how bad the people are. They said to me, 'Make us a god to go ahead of us; for this is the way it is with Moses, the man who brought us up out of the land of Egypt—we do not know what has become of him.' So I said to them, 'Whoever has any gold, let them tear it off'; and when they gave it to me, I threw it into the fire, and out came this bull!"

When Moses saw that the people had become unruly (for Aaron had let them get unruly, to be a derision among their assailants), Moses stood at the gate of the camp, and said,

"To me, whoever is for the LORD!"

Whereupon all the Levites gathered to him. Then he said to them,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Let each fasten his sword on his hip, and go back and forth from gate to gate in the camp, slaying each his kinsman, his friend, and his neighbor.'"

The Levites followed Moses' instructions, so that about three thousand of the people fell that day.

Then Moses said, 29

"You have installed yourselves today as priests to the LORD, each at the cost of his son and his kinsman, that he may bestow a blessing on you today."

Next day Moses said to the people, 30

"You have committed a great sin; so now I will go up to the LORD; perhaps I may make atonement for your sin."

So Moses returned to the LORD, and 31

said, "Alas, this people has committed a great sin, in that they have made a god of gold for themselves. But now, if thou 32 wilt forgive their sin, . . . ; but if not, pray blot me out of thy book which thou hast written."

But the LORD said to Moses, 33

"Whoever sins against me, him only I blot out of my book. Now go, lead the 34 people where I told you; see, my angel shall go ahead of you; but on the day that I do punish, I will punish them for their sin."

So the LORD smote the people for 35 having had the bull made which Aaron made.

Then the LORD said to Moses, 33

"Depart, you and the people that you have brought up out of the land of Egypt, go up from here to the land which I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, when I said, 'To your descendants I will give it' (I will send 2 an angel ahead of you, and I will drive out the Canaanites, Amorites, Hittites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites), to 3 a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up with you myself, lest I destroy you on the way; for you are a stiff-necked people."

When the people heard this bad 4 news, they mourned, and none of them wore his ornaments.

Then the LORD said to Moses, 5

"Say to the Israelites, 'You are such a stiff-necked people that if I were to go up with you for a single moment, I would destroy you; take off your ornaments then, that I may know what to do to you.'"

So the Israelites stripped off their 6 Mount Horeb ornaments.

Now Moses used to take the tent and 7 pitch it outside the camp, at a distance from the camp. It was called the tent of meeting. If there was anyone who wanted to consult the LORD, he would go out to the tent of meeting which was outside the camp. Whenever Moses went out to the tent, the people would all rise and stand, each at the doorway of his tent, and gaze after Moses until he entered the tent; and as soon as Moses entered the tent, the column of cloud would descend, and stand at the doorway of the tent while he conversed with Moses; and whenever the people saw the column of cloud standing at the doorway of the tent, the people would all rise, and make obeisance, each at the doorway of his tent. The LORD used to speak to Moses face to face, as one man would speak to another; and then he would return to the camp; but his attendant, Joshua, the son of Nun, as servant was not accustomed to leave the tent.

12 Moses said to the LORD,
 "See, thou sayest to me, 'Lead this people up,' but thou hast not let me know whom thou wilt send with me. Yet thou hast said, 'I know you by name, and you have found favor with me too.'
 13 Now then, if I have really found favor with thee, pray let me know thy ways, and so know thee, that I may continue to find favor with thee. Consider, too, that this nation is thy own people."
 14 "I will go along myself," he said, "and lead you."
 15 He said to him,
 "If thou art not to go along thyself, do not make us go up from here. For how then could it be known that I and thy people have found favor with thee? Is it not by thy going with us, so that we may be distinguished, I and thy people, from all other people that are on the face of the ground?"

17 So the LORD said to Moses,
 "This request also, which you have just made, I will carry out; for you have found favor with me, and I know you by name."
 18 Then he said,
 "Show me thy glory."
 19 But he said,
 "I will make all my goodness pass before your view, and will proclaim the name of the LORD before you, and how I am gracious to those to whom I am gracious, and compassionate with those with whom I am compassionate." "But you may not see my face," he said; "for man cannot see me, and live."

However, the LORD said,
 "Here is a place by me; station yourself on the rock; and when my glory passes by, I will put you in a cleft of the rock, and cover you with my hand until I pass by; then I will take away my hand, so that you may see my back, while my face shall not be seen."

The LORD said to Moses,
 "Cut two stone tablets like the former ones, and I will write on the tablets the words that were on the former tablets which you broke. Be ready by morning, and in the morning ascend Mount Sinai, and present yourself there to me on the top of the mountain. No one is to ascend with you, nor is anyone to be seen anywhere on the mountain, nor must the flocks and herds graze in front of that mountain."

So Moses cut two stone tablets like the former ones, and rising early next morning, he ascended Mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, taking the two stone tablets in his hand. Then the LORD descended in a cloud, and took up a position with him there, while he called upon the name of the LORD. The LORD passed in front of him, proclaiming,

"The LORD, the LORD, a God compassionate and gracious, slow to anger, abounding in kindness and fidelity, showing kindness to the thousandth generation, forgiving iniquity, transgression, and sin, without leaving it unpunished however, but avenging the iniquity of fathers upon their children and grandchildren down to the third or even the fourth generation."

Then Moses quickly bowed his head to the ground, and made obeisance.

"If I have really found favor with thee, O Lord," he said, "pray let the Lord go with us; for this is a stiff-necked people; but do thou pardon our iniquity and our sin, and make us thy very own."

So he said,
 "I hereby make a covenant: before all your people I will perform such wonders as have never occurred anywhere on the earth nor in any nation, so that all the people among whom you are living shall see that it is an awful deed that I, the LORD, am going to do along with you. Mark what I command you today. I am going to drive the Amorites, Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites:

Hivvites, and Jebusites out of your way; so you must take care not to make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land which you are about to enter, lest they become a snare among you; but you must tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, and cut down their sacred poles (for you must not pay homage to any other god, because the LORD, being jealous by nature, is a jealous God), lest in making a covenant with the inhabitants of the land you run wantonly after their gods, sacrificing to their gods, and whenever anyone invites you, partaking of his sacrifice, and you marry your sons to their daughters, which daughters will run wantonly after their gods, and make your sons run wantonly after their gods.

"You must not make any molten gods for yourself.

"You must keep the feast of unleavened cakes, eating unleavened cakes for seven days, as I commanded you, at the appointed time, the new moon of Abib; for it was on the new moon of Abib that you came out of Egypt.

"Whatever first opens the womb belongs to me, in the case of all your live stock that are male, the firstlings of oxen and sheep; a firstling ass, however, you may redeem with a sheep, but if you do not redeem it, you must break its neck; any first-born son of yours you may redeem.

"None may visit me empty-handed.

"Six days you are to labor, but on the seventh day you must rest, resting at ploughing-time and at harvest.

"You must observe the feast of weeks, that of the first-fruits of the wheat harvest, and also the feast of ingathering at the turn of the year; three times a year must all your males visit the Lord GOD, the God of Israel. For I will drive nations out of your way, and enlarge your territory; and no one shall covet your land when you go up to visit the LORD your God three times a year.

"You must not offer the blood of a sacrifice to me with leavened bread.

"The sacrifice of the passover feast must not be left over night until morning.

"The very first of the first-fruits of your land you must bring to the house of the LORD your God.

"You must not boil a kid in its mother's milk."

Then the LORD said to Moses, 27

"Write down these words; for it is on the basis of these words that I have made a covenant with you and Israel."

So he remained there with the LORD 28 for forty days and nights, without eating bread or drinking water; and he wrote on the tablets the terms of the covenant, the decalogue.

When Moses descended from Mount 29 Sinai (the two tablets of the decrees being in Moses' hand as he descended from the mountain), Moses himself did not know that the skin of his face was in a glow after conversing with God; but Aaron and the Israelites all saw 30 that the skin of Moses' face was in a glow, and they were afraid to approach him. But Moses called to them, and 31 then Aaron and all the leaders of the community rejoined him, and Moses talked to them. After that all the Is- 32 raelites came up, and he enjoined on them all the things about which the LORD had conversed with him on Mount Sinai. When Moses had finished 33 conversing with them, he put a veil on his face; but whenever Moses entered the 34 presence of the LORD to converse with him, he used to remove the veil until he came out again; and whenever he came out, he would tell the Israelites what he had been commanded, and the Israel- 35 ites would see that the skin of Moses' face was in a glow, so Moses would replace the veil on his face until he came again to converse with him.

Then Moses assembled the whole Is- 36 raelite community, and said to them,

"These are the things which the LORD has commanded to be done. For 2 six days work may be done, but the seventh day you are to keep sacred as a sabbath of complete rest to the LORD; whoever does any work on it must be put to death; you must not even light a 3 fire in any of your dwellings on the sabbath day."

Further, Moses said to the whole 4 Israelite community,

"This is the command that the LORD 5 has given: 'Procure from your company a contribution for the LORD; everyone whose heart is willing is to bring it, the LORD's contribution, gold, silver, and bronze, violet, purple, and 6 scarlet material, fine linen, goats' hair, 7 tanned rams' skins, porpoise skins, acacia wood, oil for the lights, spices for the anointing oil and the fragrant incense, onyx stones, and set stones for the sacred apron and pouch. Also every skilful person among you is to come, and make all that the LORD has commanded, the dwelling with its tent, its covering, its clasps, its frames, its bars, its columns, and its pedestals, the ark with its poles, the propitiatory, and the veil for the screen, the table with its poles and all its fittings, and the presence-bread, the lampstand for the lights with its fittings, its lamps, and the oil for the lights, the incense altar with its poles, the anointing oil, the fragrant incense, and the screen for the doorway to the dwelling, the altar for burnt-offerings with its bronze grating, its poles, and all its fittings, the laver with its base, the hangings for the court, with its columns and pedestals, and the screen for the gate of the court, the pegs for the dwelling, the pegs for the court and their ropes, the woven vestments for ministering in the sacred place, the sacred vestments for Aaron, the priest, and his sons' vestments, when they serve as priests."

20 The whole assembly of Israelites then left the presence of Moses; and everyone who had confidence in his ability, and everyone whose mind made him willing came, bringing the contributions for the LORD, for the construction of the tent of meeting, for all its service, and for the sacred vestments. 22 They came, both men and women, all whose hearts were willing, bringing brooches, earrings, signet-rings, necklaces, and all sorts of gold objects—everyone who could make an offering of gold to the LORD. Everyone who possessed violet, purple, or scarlet material, fine linen, goats' hair, tanned rams' skins, or porpoise skins, brought them. 24 Everyone who could make a contribution of silver or bronze brought it as a contribution to the LORD; and everyone who possessed acacia wood, suitable for any of the construction work, brought it. All the skilled women spun with their own hands, and brought the material that was spun, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine linen; and all the women who had confidence in their ability spun the goats' hair. The rulers brought the onyx stones, and the set stones for the sacred apron and pouch, the spices, and the oil for the lights, for the anointing oil, and for the fragrant incense. The Israelites brought voluntary offerings to the LORD, every man and woman what his heart prompted him to bring for all the work which the LORD through Moses had commanded to be done.

Then Moses said to the Israelites, "See, the LORD has specifically chosen Bezalel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, belonging to the tribe of Judah, filling him with the spirit of God, in skill, intelligence, and knowledge in every craft, to devise ingenious things in working with gold, silver, and bronze, and in the cutting of stones to be set, and in wood carving, that he may work at every craft; and he has given him ability to instruct others. Both him and Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach, belonging to the tribe of Dan, he has endowed with skill to do all kinds of work, that of the engraver, the artisan, the worker in violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine linen, and the weaver, makers of all kinds of work, and devisers of ingenious things. Bezalel and Oholiab are to do the work, along with every skilled person whom the LORD has endowed with skill and intelligence to know how to carry out all the work of construction on the sanctuary, just as the LORD has commanded."

So Moses summoned Bezalel and Oholiab, and every skilled person whom the LORD had endowed with skill, everyone who felt that he had the ability to undertake the work, to carry it out. Under the supervision of Moses they received all the contributions which the Israelites had brought for the work of construction on the sanctuary, to carry it out, while they still continued to bring him voluntary offerings from morning to morning; so much so that all the craftsmen who were carrying out the construction of the sanctuary left every man the work that he was doing, and said to Moses,

"The people are bringing much more than is necessary for the work of construction that the LORD gave command to carry out."

So Moses issued a command which was proclaimed throughout the camp,

"Neither man nor woman must make anything more for the contribution to the sanctuary."

7 Thus the people were stopped from bringing any more, since the material in hand was sufficient to carry out all the work; indeed there was too much.

8 All the skilled persons among those engaged in the work made the dwelling out of ten curtains, making them of fine twisted linen, and violet, purple, and scarlet material, with cherubim, the work of artists. The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits, all the curtains having the same measurements. They joined five of the curtains to one another, and the other five curtains they joined to one another; and on the edge of the outermost curtain in the one set they made loops of violet, and they made the same on the edge of the outermost curtain in the other set, making fifty loops on the one curtain, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain in the other set, the loops being opposite each other. Then they made fifty gold clasps, and joined the curtains to one another with the clasps, so that the dwelling was a unit.

Further, they made curtains of goats' hair, for a tent over the dwelling, making eleven of these curtains, the length of each curtain being thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits, the eleven curtains having the same measurements. They joined five of the curtains by themselves, and the other six by themselves; and they made fifty loops on the edge of the outermost curtain in the one set, and fifty loops on the edge of that in the other set; and they made fifty bronze clasps to join the tent together to become a unit. They also made a covering for the tent itself of tanned rams' skins, and above that a covering of porpoise skins.

Then they made the frames for the dwelling of durable acacia wood, ten cubits being the length of the frames, and a cubit and a half the width of each frame; each frame had two arms, joined to each other by cross rungs; they did the same with all the frames for the dwelling. They made the frames for the dwelling: twenty frames for the side toward the Negeb to the south, making forty silver pedestals as bases for the twenty frames, two pedestals as bases for one frame with its two arms, and two pedestals as bases for another frame with its two arms; for the second side of the dwelling, the northern side, they made twenty frames, with their 26 forty silver pedestals, two pedestals as bases for one frame, and two pedestals as bases for another frame; and for the 27 rear of the dwelling to the west they made six frames, and they also made 28 two frames for the corners of the dwelling at the rear; they were double at the 29 bottom, and likewise double at the top of it, up to the first ring; they did the same with both of them for the two corners; thus there were eight frames, 30 and their silver pedestals were sixteen in number, two pedestals as bases for each frame. They also made bars of 31 acacia wood, five for the frames on the one side of the dwelling, and five bars 32 for the frames on the other side of the dwelling, and five bars for the frames of the dwelling at the rear to the west; and 33 they made the middle bar in the center of the frames run through from end to end. They overlaid the frames with 34 gold, and they made the rings on them of gold as holders for the bars, and also overlaid the bars with gold.

They also made a veil of violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, making it with cherubim, the work of artists. They made four columns of acacia wood for it, and overlaid them with gold, with their hooks of gold; and they cast four silver pedestals for them. They also made a screen for 37 the doorway of the tent of violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, in variegated work, as well as five columns for it, with their hooks; they overlaid their capitals and 38 bands with gold, and their five pedestals were bronze.

Bezalel made the ark of acacia wood, 37 two and a half cubits long, a cubit and a half wide, and a cubit and a half high; he overlaid it with pure gold inside and 2 outside, and ran a gold molding around it. He cast four gold rings for it on its 3 four corners, two rings on one side of it, and two rings on the other side of it. He 4 also made poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold; and he put the 5 poles through the rings on the sides of the ark, to carry the ark. He made a 6 propitiatory of pure gold, two and a half cubits long, and a cubit and a half wide. He made two cherubim of gold, 7

- 8 making them of beaten work, at the two ends of the propitiatory, one cherub at one end and the other cherub at the other end; he made the cherubim of one piece with the propitiatory at
- 9 the two ends of it; and the cherubim had their wings spread out on high, overshadowing the propitiatory with their wings and facing each other, with the faces of the cherubim directed toward the propitiatory.
- 10 Then he made the table of acacia wood, two cubits long, a cubit wide,
- 11 and a cubit and a half high; he overlaid it with pure gold, and ran a gold molding around it; he made a rail around it a handbreadth wide, and ran a gold
- 12 molding around its rail; he cast four gold rings for it, and fastened the rings
- 13 on the four corners of its four feet, with the rings lying close to the rail as holders for the poles for carrying the table.
- 14 He made the poles for carrying the table of acacia wood, overlaying them
- 15 with gold; and he made the dishes that were to be used on the table of pure gold, its plates, its cups, its flagons, and its bowls for pouring libations.
- 16 He also made the lampstand of pure gold, making the lampstand itself and its base and shaft of beaten work, with its cups, each with calyx and petals, of
- 17 one piece with it; there were six branches extending from its sides, three branches of the lampstand from the one side of it, and three branches of the lampstand from the other side of it;
- 18 there were three cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with calyx and petals, on one branch, three cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with calyx and petals, on another branch, and so for the six branches extending from the lampstand; there were four cups, shaped like almond-blossoms, each with its calyx and petals,
- 19 on the lampstand itself; and there was a calyx of one piece with it under two branches, another calyx of one piece with it under two branches, and another calyx of one piece with it under two branches, for the six branches extending from it; their calyxes and branches were of one piece with it, the whole of it forming a single piece of
- 20 beaten work of pure gold. He then made the seven lamps for it, with its snuffers and snuffdishes, of pure gold, using a talent of gold to make it and all its fittings.

He made the incense altar of acacia wood, square, a cubit long and a cubit wide, while its height was two cubits, with its horns of one piece with it; he overlaid it with pure gold, its top, its sides all around, and its horns; and he ran a gold molding around it. He made two gold rings for it underneath its molding, on its two sides, on the two opposite sides of it, as holders for the poles, with which to carry it. He made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold. By the compounding of art he made the anointing oil sacred, and the incense of fragrant spices pure.

He made the altar for burnt-offerings of acacia wood, square, five cubits long, and five cubits wide, while its height was three cubits; he made the horns for it on its four corners, with its horns of one piece with it; and he overlaid it with bronze. He made all the utensils for the altar, the ash-pans, the shovels, the basins, the forks, and the firepans, making all its utensils of bronze. He made a bronze grating of network for the altar, underneath the ledge around it, reaching half-way up it. He cast four rings for the four corners of the bronze grating as holders for the poles. He made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with bronze; and he put the poles through the rings on the sides of the altar with which to carry it, making it hollow, with boards.

He made the laver of bronze, and its base of bronze, out of the mirrors of the serving-women who served at the door of the tent of meeting.

He then made the court; for the southern side toward the Negeb there were hangings for the court of fine twisted linen, extending for one hundred cubits, with twenty columns for them, and twenty bronze pedestals for these, the hooks of the columns and their bands being of silver; so for the north side, extending for one hundred cubits, with twenty columns for them, and twenty bronze pedestals for these, the hooks of the columns and their bands being of silver; for the west side there were hangings, extending for fifty cubits, ten columns for them, and ten pedestals for these, the hooks of the columns and their bands being of silver; and so for the front, the east side, ex-

4 tending for fifty cubits, with hangings on the one wing for fifteen cubits, three columns for them, and three pedestals 5 for these, and so for the other wing; on each side of the gate of the court there were hangings extending for fifteen cubits, with three columns for them, and 6 three pedestals for these. All the hangings around the court were of fine 7 twisted linen; the pedestals for the columns were of bronze; the hooks on the columns and their bands of silver; the plating on the capitals of silver; and all the columns of the court were bound 8 with silver. The screen for the gate of the court was variegated work, in violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen, twenty cubits long, and five cubits high in its breadth, corresponding to the hangings of the 9 court; there were four columns for it, and four bronze pedestals for these; their hooks were silver, and the plating on their capitals and bands silver; 10 while all the pegs for the dwelling and the court around it were bronze.

11 The following are the reckonings for the dwelling, the dwelling of the decrees which were made by command of Moses as the work of the Levites under the supervision of Ithamar, the son of 12 Aaron, the priest. (It was Bezalel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, belonging to the tribe of Judah, who made all that 13 the LORD commanded Moses; and associated with him was Oholiab, the son of Ahisamach, belonging to the tribe of Dan, an engraver, an artisan, and a worker in violet, purple, and 14 scarlet material, and fine linen.) The total amount of gold that was used for the work in the complete construction of the sanctuary, the gold from the contributions, was twenty-nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, 15 in terms of the sacred shekel, while the silver from those of the community that were numbered amounted to one hundred talents, and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, 16 in terms of the sacred shekel, a beka per head (that is, a half-shekel, in terms of the sacred shekel), for all that joined those already numbered, from twenty years old and upward, namely, six hundred and three thousand five hundred 17 and fifty persons; the hundred talents of silver were used for casting the pedestals of the sanctuary and the pedes-

18 tals for the veil, the hundred talents for the hundred pedestals, a talent per pedestal;
 and out of the thousand seven 19 hundred and seventy-five shekels the hooks for the columns were made, the capitals overlaid, and their bands made.
 The bronze from the contributions 20 amounted to seventy talents, and two thousand four hundred shekels, with 21 which the pedestals for the doorway of the tent of meeting were made, the bronze altar with its bronze grating, all the fittings of the altar, the pedestals 22 around the court, the pedestals for the gate of the court, all the pegs for the dwelling, and all the pegs for the court around it.

23 From the violet, purple, and scarlet material were made the woven vestments for ministering in the sanctuary, as well as the sacred vestments for 24 Aaron, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

25 The apron was made of gold, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine
 twisted linen; the gold was beaten into 26 thin plates, and then cut into wires, to be worked into the violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine linen, the work of artists. Shoulder-straps were 27 made for it, joined to it, being joined to it at its two ends; and the skilfully 28 made girdle on it was of one piece with it, and like it worked in gold, violet,
 purple, and scarlet material, and fine
 twisted linen, as the LORD had 29 commanded Moses. The onyx stones were made, set in filigree work of gold, engraved with seal engravings, with the various names of the Israelites; and 30 they were fastened on the shoulder-straps of the apron, as memorial stones for the Israelites, as the LORD had 31 commanded Moses.

32 Then the pouch was made, the work of artists, like that of the apron, in gold, violet, purple, and scarlet material, and fine twisted linen; the pouch 33 was square, being made double, a span long, and a span wide, folded double;
 and on it were set four rows of stones, 34 the first row a row of carnelian, topaz, and emerald, the second row a ruby, a 35 sapphire, and a crystal, the third row a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst, and the fourth row a chrysolite, a 36 onyx, and a jasper; they were inclosed in gold filigree in their settings. The 37 stones, corresponding to the names of the Israelites, were twelve in number, as their names are, each engraved like a seal with its proper name for the twelve tribes. On the pouch were made chains of twisted material, of cordage work of pure gold. Then two gold filigree objects and two gold rings were made; the two rings were fastened to the two ends of the pouch, and the two gold cords were fastened to the two rings at the ends of the pouch, while the other two ends of the two cords were fastened to the two filigree objects, being fastened to the shoulder-straps of the apron, on the front of it. Two gold rings were made, and attached to the two ends of the pouch, on its inner edge next to the apron. Two gold rings were then made, and fastened to the two shoulder-straps in the front of the apron, underneath, close to the place where it was joined, above the skilfully made girdle; and the pouch was tied by its rings to the rings of the apron with a violet cord, so as to lie on the skilfully made girdle, so that the pouch might not swing loose from the apron, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The robe belonging to the apron was woven entirely of violet material, with an opening in the middle of the robe like that of a corselet, with a binding around the opening in it, so that it might not be torn. On the skirts of the robe pomegranates were made of violet, purple, scarlet, and twisted material; bells of pure gold were also made, and the bells were placed among the pomegranates all around the skirts of the robe, a bell alternating with a pomegranate all around the skirts of the robe, for use in ministering, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The tunics were woven of fine linen for Aaron and his sons, the turban of fine linen, the ornamental caps of fine linen, the linen breeches of fine twisted linen, and the sashes of fine twisted linen and violet, purple, and scarlet material in variegated work, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The diadem, the sacred crown, was made of pure gold, and with seal engravings there was engraved on it the inscription, "Sacred to the LORD"; and a violet cord was attached to it, to fasten it to the top of the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

So all the work on the dwelling of the tent of meeting was finished, and the Israelites did just as the LORD had commanded Moses. They brought the dwelling to Moses, the tent and all its fittings, its clasps, its frames, its bars, its columns, and its pedestals, the covering of tanned rams' skins, the covering of porpoise skins, the veil for the screen, the ark of the decrees with its poles and the propitiatory, the table with all its dishes and the Presence-bread, the lampstand of pure gold with its lamps (the lamps all fitted out) and all its fittings and the oil for the lights, the gold altar, the anointing oil, the fragrant incense, the screen for the doorway of the tent, the bronze altar with its bronze grating, its poles, and all its fittings, the laver with its base, the hangings for the court with its columns and pedestals, the screen for the gate of the court with its ropes and pegs, all the utensils for the service of the dwelling of the tent of meeting, the woven vestments for ministering in the sacred place, the sacred vestments for Aaron, the priest, and his sons' vestments, when serving as priests. The Israelites carried out all the work, just as the LORD had commanded Moses; and when Moses saw that they had carried out all the work, having done just as the LORD commanded, Moses blessed them.

Then the LORD said to Moses, "On the first day of the first month you must erect the dwelling of the tent of meeting; you must put the ark of the decrees in it, screening the ark with the veil; you must bring the table in, and get it ready; you must bring the lampstand in, and put up its lamps. You must place the gold incense altar in front of the ark of the decrees, and put up the screen for the doorway of the dwelling. You must place the altar for burnt-offerings in front of the doorway of the dwelling of the tent of meeting, and place the laver between the tent of meeting and the altar, and put water in it. You must set up the court all around, and put up the screen for the gate of the court. You must take the anointing oil, and anoint the dwelling and everything in it, thereby consecrating it and all its fittings, so that it becomes sacred; you must anoint the altar for burnt-offerings and all its fittings, thus consecrating the altar, so that the altar becomes most sacred; and you must anoint the laver and its base, and thus consecrate it. You must then bring Aaron and his sons up to the doorway of the tent of meeting, and wash them with water, and then put the sacred vestments on Aaron; you must anoint him, and so consecrate him to serve as priest to me. You must also bring his sons up, put tunics on them, and anoint them as you did their father, to serve as priests to me; and their anointing shall qualify them as a perpetual priesthood throughout their generations."

Moses did so; he did just as the LORD had commanded him. On the first day of the first month, in the second year, the dwelling was erected; Moses erected the dwelling, putting up its pedestals, setting up its frames, inserting its bars, and erecting its columns. He spread the tent over the dwelling, and put the covering for the tent on top of it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. Taking the decrees, he put them inside the ark, placed the poles on the ark, and put the propitiatory on top of the ark; then he brought the ark into the dwelling, and set up the veil for the screen, thus screening the ark of the decrees, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He put the table in the tent of meeting, on the northern side of the dwelling, outside the veil, and set out the proper supply of bread on it before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He placed the lampstand in the tent of meeting, opposite the table, on the southern side of the dwelling, and he put up the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He placed the gold altar in the tent of meeting in front of the veil, and burned incense of fragrant spices on it, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He set up the screen for the doorway of the dwelling, and placed the altar for burnt-offerings at the doorway of the dwelling in the tent of meeting, offering on it the burnt-offerings and the cereal-offerings, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He placed the laver between the tent of meeting and the altar, and put water in it for washing. It was from it that Moses and Aaron and his sons used to wash their hands and feet, washing whenever they entered the tent of meeting, or approached the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He erected the court around the dwelling and the altar, and set up the screen for the gate of the court. So Moses finished the work.

Then the cloud covered the tent of meeting, and the glory of the LORD filled the dwelling; Moses could not enter the tent of meeting because the cloud hung over it and the glory of the LORD filled the dwelling. Whenever the cloud was lifted from the dwelling, the Israelites always used to set out on their journey, but if the cloud was not lifted, they would not set out until the day that it was lifted; for the cloud of the LORD hung over the dwelling by day, while there was fire in it by night, in sight of all the house of Israel throughout all their journeys.

THE BOOK OF LEVITICUS

LAWS RELATING TO SACRIFICE, 1:1—7:38

- 1 THE LORD called Moses, and from the tent of meeting said to him,
- 2 "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'When any of you would present one of your domestic animals as an offering to the LORD, you must present one of your herd or flock as
- 3 your offering. If his offering is to be a burnt-offering from his herd, he must offer a perfect male, offering it at the doorway of the tent of meeting so as to make him acceptable before the LORD.
- 4 He must lay his hand on the head of the burnt-offering victim, that it may be
- 5 accepted as atonement for him. He must slaughter the bullock before the LORD, whereupon Aaron's sons, the priests, shall present the blood, dashing the blood all around the altar that is at
- 6 the doorway of the tent of meeting. He must then flay the burnt-offering vic-
- 7 tim and cut it into pieces, whereupon the sons of Aaron, the priest, shall put fire on the altar, arrange wood on the
- 8 fire, and then Aaron's sons, the priests, shall arrange the pieces, with the head and suet, on the wood which is on the
- 9 fire on the altar, while its entrails and legs are to be washed with water. The priest shall then burn the whole of it on the altar as a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD.
- 10 "If his offering is to come from the flock, one of the sheep or the goats as a burnt-offering, he must offer a perfect
- 11 male. He must slaughter it before the LORD on the north side of the altar, whereupon Aaron's sons, the priests, shall dash its blood all around the altar.
- 12 He must then cut it into pieces, whereupon the priest shall arrange them, with its head and suet, on the wood
- 13 which is on the fire on the altar, while the entrails and legs are to be washed with water. The priest shall then offer the whole, burning it on the altar as a burnt-offering, that is, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD.

"If his offering to the LORD is to be a burnt-offering from the birds, he must present a turtle-dove or a young pigeon as his offering. The priest shall bring it to the altar, and knocking off its head, burn it on the altar, while its blood is to be drained off on the side of the altar. He shall then remove its crop with its feathers and throw it into the ash-pit at the east side of the altar. He shall split it open with his hands, without completely dividing it, whereupon the priest shall burn it on the altar on the wood which is on the fire; it is to be a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD.

"When any person would present a cereal-offering to the LORD, his offering must be fine flour. He must pour oil on it, put frankincense on it, and bring it to Aaron's sons, the priests, whereupon the priest shall take from it his handful of the fine flour and oil, with all its frankincense, and offer it as its memorial sacrifice on the altar, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, while the remainder of the cereal-offering is to go to Aaron and his sons as being the most sacred part of the LORD'S sacrifices.

"When you would present a cereal-offering baked in the oven, it must be unleavened cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, or unleavened wafers smeared with oil. If your offering is to be a cereal-offering prepared on a griddle, it must consist of unleavened fine flour mixed with oil; you must break it in pieces, and pour oil on it, as a cereal-offering. If your offering is to be a cereal-offering prepared in a pan, it must be made of fine flour mixed with oil. You must bring the cereal-offering that is made in any of these ways to the LORD; it shall be presented to the priest, who shall bring it to the altar. The priest shall take some of the cereal-offering as its memorial sacrifice, and burn it on the altar as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, while the remainder of the cereal-offering is to go to Aaron and his sons as being the most sacred part of the LORD'S sacrifices. No cereal-offering which you present to the LORD may be made with leaven; for you must never offer any leaven or honey at all as a sacrifice to the LORD. You may present them to the LORD as an offering of first-fruits, but they must never be offered up on the altar as a soothing odor. You must season every cereal-offering of yours with salt; you must not omit the salt of the covenant of your God from your cereal-offering; you must offer salt with all your offerings.

"If you would present a cereal-offering of first-fruits to the LORD, you must present young ears of grain roasted with fire, crushed new grain, as your cereal-offering of first-fruits. You must add oil to it, and put frankincense on it, as a cereal-offering. As its memorial sacrifice the priest shall burn some of its crushed grain and oil, with all its frankincense, as a sacrifice to the LORD.

"If his offering is to be a thanksgiving sacrifice, if he is to offer one of his herd, whether male or female, he must offer before the LORD one that is perfect. He must lay his hand on the head of his offering, and slaughter it at the doorway of the tent of meeting, whereupon Aaron's sons, the priests, shall dash the blood all around the altar. He must present part of the thanksgiving sacrifice as a sacrifice to the LORD, the fat covering the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, the two kidneys with the fat that is on them near the loins, and the lobe on the liver which is to be removed with the kidneys. Aaron's sons shall burn it on the altar for burnt-offerings, on the wood which is on the fire, as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD.

"If his offering is to be one of his flock as a thanksgiving sacrifice, whether male or female, he must offer one that is perfect. If it is a lamb that he is to present as his offering, he must present it before the LORD, lay his hand on the head of his offering, and slaughter it in front of the tent of meeting, whereupon Aaron's sons shall dash its blood all around the altar. He must present part of the thanksgiving sacrifice as a sacrifice to the LORD, the fat of the entrails, the entire fat tail which is to be removed close to the backbone, the fat covering the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, the two kidneys with 10 the fat that is on them near the loins, and the lobe on the liver which is to be removed with the kidneys. The priest 11 shall burn it on the altar as food, a sacrifice to the LORD.

"If his offering is to be a goat, he 12 must present it before the LORD, lay 13 his hand on its head, and slaughter it in front of the tent of meeting, whereupon Aaron's sons shall dash its blood all around the altar. He must offer part of 14 it as a sacrifice to the LORD, the fat covering the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, the two kidneys with 15 the fat that is on them near the loins, and the lobe on the liver which is to be removed with the kidneys. The priest 16 shall burn them on the altar as food, as a sacrifice, a soothing odor, all the fat going to the LORD. It is to be a per- 17 petual statute throughout your generations in all your places of abode that you are never to eat any fat or blood."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the Israelites, 'When any 2 person sins inadvertently in the case of any of the things which the LORD has forbidden to be done, and does one of them, if it is the anointed priest who 3 sins, thus bringing guilt on the people, he must offer to the LORD for the sin that he has committed a perfect young bullock as a sin-offering. He must bring 4 the bullock to the doorway of the tent of meeting into the presence of the LORD, lay his hand on the head of the bullock, and slaughter the bullock before the LORD; whereupon the anointed 5 priest shall take some of the blood of the bullock, and bringing it into the tent of meeting, the priest shall dip his 6 finger in the blood, and sprinkle some of the blood seven times before the LORD in front of the veil of the sanctuary. The priest must also put some 7 of the blood on the horns of the altar for fragrant incense, which is before the LORD in the tent of meeting, while all the rest of the bullock's blood he must pour out at the base of the altar for burnt-offerings, which is at the door- 8 way of the tent of meeting. He must remove all the fat from the bullock of the sin-offering, the fat covering the entrails, all the fat that is on the entrails, the two kidneys with the fat that is on 9 them near the loins, and the lobe on the liver which is to be removed with the kidneys, just as these were removed from the ox used in the thanksgiving sacrifice; and the priest shall burn them on the altar for burnt-offerings. The hide of the bullock and all its flesh, with its head, legs, entrails, and offal, that is, all the rest of the bullock, must be carried out to a clean place outside the camp at the ash-dump, and burned up on a wood-fire, being burned at the ash-dump.

13 "If the whole community of Israel makes a mistake which escapes the notice of the community, and does any of the things which the LORD has forbidden, and so incurs guilt, when the sin which they committed is discovered, the community must offer a young bullock as a sin-offering. They must bring it to the front of the tent of meeting, whereupon the elders of the community shall lay their hands on the head of the bullock in the presence of the LORD, and then the bullock shall be slaughtered before the LORD. The anointed priest shall bring some of the blood of the bullock to the tent of meeting and the priest shall dip his finger in the blood, and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD in front of the veil. He must also put some of the blood on the horns of the altar which is before the LORD in the tent of meeting, while all the rest of the blood he must pour out at the base of the altar for burnt-offerings, which is at the doorway of the tent of meeting. He must remove all the fat from it, and burn it on the altar. Thus shall he do with the bullock, treating it just as he treated the bullock of the sin-offering, and thus the priest shall make atonement for them, and they shall be forgiven. The bullock itself must be carried outside the camp, and burned as the first bullock was burned. It is to be a sin-offering for the community.

22 "When a ruler sins and inadvertently does any one of all the things which the LORD his God has forbidden, he shall incur guilt, provided that the sin which he has committed has been made known to him. So he must bring a perfect male goat as his offering. He must lay his hand on the head of the goat, and slaughter it at the place where the burnt-offering victims are slaughtered before the LORD; it is to be a sin-offering. The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar for burnt-offerings, while the rest of the blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar for burnt-offerings, and burn all the fat on the altar, as in the case of the fat of the thanksgiving sacrifice. Thus shall the priest make atonement for him for his sin, and he shall be forgiven.

"If any of the common people sins inadvertently by doing any of the things which the LORD has forbidden, he shall incur guilt, provided that the sin which he has committed has been made known to him. So he must bring a perfect female goat as his offering for the sin which he has committed. He must lay his hand on the head of the sin-offering victim, and slaughter the sin-offering victim at the place where the burnt-offering victims are slaughtered, whereupon the priest shall take some of the blood with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar for burnt-offerings, while all the rest of the blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar, and removing all the fat as the fat was removed from the thanksgiving sacrifice, the priest shall burn it on the altar as a soothing odor to the LORD. Thus shall the priest make atonement for him, and he shall be forgiven.

"If it is a lamb that he would bring as his offering for sin, he must bring a perfect female. He must lay his hand on the head of the sin-offering victim, and slaughter it as a sin-offering at the place where the burnt-offering victims are slaughtered, whereupon the priest shall take some of the blood of the sin-offering with his finger, and put it on the horns of the altar for burnt-offerings, while all the rest of the blood he shall pour out at the base of the altar, and removing all the fat as the fat was removed from the lamb in the thanksgiving sacrifice, the priest shall burn it on the altar used for sacrifices to the LORD. Thus shall the priest make atonement for him for the sin that he committed, and he shall be forgiven.

"If any person sins by not giving information when as a witness, either as one who has seen it or knows of it, he hears the oath of adjuration, he must answer for his iniquity. Or, if any person touches any unclean thing, either the carcass of an unclean wild animal, or that of an unclean domestic animal, or that of an unclean reptile, without being aware of it, when he does come to know of it, he shall incur guilt; or if he touches any human uncleanness of whatsoever sort the uncleanness may be, without being aware of it, when he does come to know of it, he shall incur guilt. Or, if any person utters a rash oath, either to do evil or to do good, however rash the person has been in his oath, and he is unaware of its import, when he does come to know it, he shall incur guilt in any of these cases. When he does incur guilt in any one of these cases, he must confess the sin that he has committed, and bring to the LORD as his guilt-offering for the sin that he has committed a female animal from the flock, a lamb or a goat, as a sin-offering, and the priest shall make atonement for him for his sin.

"If he cannot afford a lamb, the person who has sinned must bring as his guilt-offering to the LORD two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, the one as a sin-offering, the other as a burnt-offering. He must bring them to the priest, who shall offer the one for the sin-offering first. He shall crush its head near its neck, without dividing it into two, and sprinkle some of the blood of the sin-offering on the side of the altar, while the rest of the blood shall be drained out at the base of the altar; it is a sin-offering. Then he shall offer the other as a burnt-offering as prescribed. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him for the sin that he committed, and he shall be forgiven.

"If he cannot afford two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, he who sinned may bring as his offering a tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a sin-offering, without pouring any oil on it or putting any frankincense on it, because it is a sin-offering. He must bring it to the priest, and the priest shall remove his handful from it as the memorial sacrifice, and burn it on the altar used for sacrifices to the LORD; it is a sin-offering. Thus the priest shall make atonement for him for the sin which he committed in any one of these ways, and he shall be forgiven. The rest shall go to the priest, as in the case of the cereal-offering."

The LORD said to Moses, 14

"If any person commits fraud, sinning inadvertently in the matter of sacred gifts to the LORD, he must bring as his guilt-offering to the LORD a perfect ram from the flock of the proper value in silver shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel; he must also make good the sacred gift concerning which he sinned, adding a fifth to it, and giving it to the priest, and the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the guilt-offering, and he shall be forgiven.

"If any person sins by doing any one of all the things which the LORD has forbidden, even though he is unaware of it, he is guilty, and must answer for his iniquity. He must bring a perfect ram from the flock of the proper value to the priest as a guilt-offering, and the priest shall make atonement for him for the mistake which he made inadvertently, without being aware of it, and he shall be forgiven. It is a guilt-offering, since he is assuredly guilty before the LORD."

The LORD said to Moses, 6

"If any person sins by committing fraud against the LORD, and cheating his neighbor in the matter of some deposit or pledge, or by robbing or defrauding his neighbor, or by lying about it and swearing falsely, when he has found something that was lost, sinning in any one of all the things that men may do, then, if he sins, and feels guilty, and would restore what he took by robbery, or what he got by fraud, or what was deposited with him, or the lost article that he found, or anything about which he swore falsely, he must make restitution in full, and add a fifth to it, giving it to the one to whom it belongs on the day of his guilt-offering; and he must bring his guilt-offering to the LORD, to the priest, a perfect ram from the flock of the proper value as a guilt-offering. The priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD, and he shall be forgiven for whatsoever he may have done to incur guilt."

The LORD said to Moses, 8

"Give Aaron and his sons this command: 'This is the law for the burnt-offering: the burnt-offering must remain on the hearth upon the altar all night until morning, while the fire of the altar must be kept burning on it.

- 10 The priest must put on his linen vestments, and put his linen breeches on his body, and then remove the ashes to which the fire has reduced the burnt-offering on the altar, and place them beside the altar; then, taking off his garments and putting on others, he must take the ashes to a clean place outside the camp. The fire must be kept burning on the altar, it must never go out; the priest must light wood on it every morning, arrange the burnt-offering on it, and burn the fat of the thank-offerings on it. Fire must be kept burning on the altar continually; it must never go out.
- 14 "This is the law for the cereal-offering: the sons of Aaron must offer it before the LORD in front of the altar. A handful shall be removed from it, from the fine flour of the cereal-offering, with its oil and all the frankincense on the cereal-offering, and it shall be offered on the altar as a soothing odor, its memorial sacrifice to the LORD. The remainder of it Aaron and his sons shall eat; it must be eaten as unleavened cakes in a sacred place; in the court of the tent of meeting they must eat it; it must not be baked with leaven. I designate it as their portion of my sacrifices; it is most sacred, like the sin-offering and guilt-offering. Any male among the sons of Aaron may eat it, as his perpetual due from the sacrifices to the LORD throughout your generations; whatsoever touches them becomes taboo."
- 19 The LORD said to Moses,
- 20 "This is the offering which Aaron and his sons must present to the LORD on the anniversary of his anointing; a tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a regular cereal-offering, half of it in the morning and half of it in the evening. It must be prepared on a griddle, mixed with oil; you must bring it in, break the cereal-offering into pieces, and offer it as a soothing odor to the LORD. The anointed priest who of his descendants succeeds him must supply it, the whole of it to be burned as a perpetual due to the LORD. In the case of every cereal-offering of a priest it is to be the whole; it is not to be eaten."
- 24 The LORD said to Moses,
- 25 "Say to Aaron and his sons, 'This is the law for the sin-offering: at the place where the burnt-offering victims are slaughtered the sin-offering victim must be slaughtered before the LORD; it is most sacred. The priest who offers it for sin shall eat it; in a sacred place must it be eaten, in the court of the tent of meeting. Whatsoever touches its flesh shall become taboo, and if any of its blood is sprinkled on a garment, you must wash the part that was sprinkled in a sacred place. The earthen vessel in which it was boiled must be broken; but if it was boiled in a bronze vessel, it need only be scoured and rinsed with water. Any male among the priests may eat it, since it is most sacred; but no sin-offering of which any of the blood is brought into the tent of meeting to make atonement in the sanctuary may be eaten; it must be burned up.

"This is the law for the guilt-offering: since it is most sacred, the guilt-offering victim must be slaughtered at the place where the burnt-offering victims are slaughtered, its blood must be dashed all around the altar, and all its fat offered, the fat tail, the fat covering the entrails, the two kidneys with the fat that is on them near the loins, and the lobe on the liver which is to be removed with the kidneys. The priest shall burn them on the altar as a sacrifice to the LORD; it is a guilt-offering. Any male among the priests may eat it; it is to be eaten only in a sacred place; it is most sacred. The guilt-offering is like the sin-offering; the same law holds for both; the priest who makes atonement with it is to receive it. The priest who offers anyone's burnt-offering, that priest is to have for himself the hide of the burnt-offering which he offered, and every cereal-offering that is baked in the oven, and whatsoever is prepared in a pan or on a griddle shall go to the priest who offers it, while every cereal-offering, mixed with oil or dry, shall go to the sons of Aaron, to all alike.

"This is the law for the thanksgiving sacrifice: if the one who offers it to the LORD would offer it as a praise-offering, he must offer, in addition to the sacrifice of the praise-offering, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers smeared with oil, and cakes mixed with oil, of fine flour well mixed. In addition to his sacrifice in praise for prosperity he must present cakes of leavened bread along with his offering, and from each kind of offering he must present one cake as a contribution to the LORD, to go to the priest who dashes the blood of the thank-offering.

The flesh of the victim sacrificed as his praise-offering for prosperity must be eaten on the day that it is offered; he must leave none of it over until morning. But if the sacrifice that is offered is a votive-offering or a voluntary offering, while it should be eaten on the day that he offers his sacrifice, any of it left over may be eaten on the next day, but any of the flesh of the sacrifice that is left over on the third day must be burned up. If any of the flesh of his thanksgiving sacrifice should ever be eaten on the third day, it shall not be accepted; it shall not count for the one who offered it; it shall be but refuse, and anyone eating any of it shall answer for his iniquity. Also, any flesh that touches any unclean thing may not be eaten; it must be burned up. Other flesh anyone that is clean may eat. Any person who eats the flesh of the thanksgiving sacrifice which belongs to the LORD, while in a state of uncleanness, that person shall be cut off from his people. If any person touches any unclean thing, whether it is human uncleanness, or an unclean animal, or any unclean reptile, and then eats some of the flesh of the thanksgiving sacrifice, which belongs to the LORD, that person shall be cut off from his people."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the Israelites, 'You must never eat the fat of ox, or sheep, or goat. The fat of an animal that has died a natural death, or from being torn, may be put to any other use, but you must never eat it. For whosoever eats the fat of any animal, part of which is offered as a sacrifice to the LORD, the person so eating shall be cut off from his people. Also, you must never eat blood in any of your places of abode, either of bird or beast; whosoever eats any blood at all, that person shall be cut off from his people.'"

The LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the Israelites, 'Whoever offers a thanksgiving sacrifice to the LORD must bring part of his thanksgiving sacrifice as his offering to the LORD, bringing the sacrifices for the LORD with his own hands, bringing the fat along with the breast, that the breast may be waved as a wave-offering before the LORD. The priest shall burn the fat on the altar, but the breast shall go to Aaron and his sons, while you are to give the right thigh to the priest as a contribution out of your thanksgiving sacrifices. He of the sons of Aaron who offers the blood of the thank-offerings and the fat shall receive the right thigh as his share. For I have taken the waved breast and the thigh that was contributed from the thanksgiving sacrifices of the Israelites, and have assigned them to Aaron, the priest, and his sons as their perpetual due from the Israelites. This shall be the emolument of Aaron and his sons from the sacrifices to the LORD, as prescribed on the day that they were presented to serve as priests to the LORD, which the LORD commanded to be given them from the Israelites on the day that he had them anointed, as their perpetual due throughout their generations.'"

This was the law for the burnt-offering, for the cereal-offering, for the sin-offering, for the guilt-offering, for the installation-offering, and for the thanksgiving sacrifice, which the LORD enjoined on Moses at Mount Sinai on the day that he commanded the Israelites to present their offerings to the LORD in the desert of Sinai.

THE INSTALLATION OF THE AARONIC PRIESTHOOD,

8:1—10:20

The LORD then said to Moses,

"Take Aaron, along with his sons, the vestments, the anointing oil, the bullock of the sin-offering, the two rams, and the basket of unleavened cakes, and assemble the whole community at the doorway of the tent of meeting."

Moses did as the LORD commanded him. When the community had been assembled at the doorway of the tent of meeting, Moses said to the community,

"This is what the LORD has commanded to be done."

Thereupon Moses brought Aaron and his sons forward, and washed them with water. He then put the tunic on him, girded him with the sash, clothed him with the robe, put the apron on him, girding him with the skilfully made girdle of the apron and fastening it around him with it, placed the pouch on him, putting the Urim and Thummim in the pouch, and set the turban on his head, placing the gold diadem, the sacred crown, on the front of the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses. Then Moses took the anointing oil and anointed the dwelling and everything in it, and thus consecrated them. He then sprinkled some of it on the altar seven times, and anointed the altar with all its utensils and the laver with its base, to consecrate them. He also poured some of the anointing oil on Aaron's head, and anointed him to consecrate him. Moses then brought Aaron's sons forward, clothed them with tunics, girded them with sashes, and fastened caps on them, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He brought forward the bullock of the sin-offering; Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the bullock of the sin-offering, and then Moses slaughtered it, and taking the blood, put it all around the horns of the altar with his finger to rid the altar of sin, while the rest of the blood he poured out at the base of the altar, thus consecrating it by making atonement for it. Taking all the fat on the entrails, the lobe of the liver, and the two kidneys, with their fat, Moses burned it on the altar, while the bullock itself, its hide, flesh, and offal he burned up outside the camp, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He then brought forward the ram of the burnt-offering; Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, and then Moses slaughtered it, and dashed the blood all around the altar, while the ram itself he cut into pieces, whereupon Moses burned the head along with the other pieces and the suet. Having washed the entrails and legs with water, Moses burned the whole ram on the altar as a burnt-offering for a soothing odor, as a sacrifice to the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. He then brought forward the other ram, the installation ram; Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, and then Moses slaughtered it, and taking some of its blood, he put it on the tip of Aaron's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the great toe of his right foot. He then had Aaron's sons come forward, whereupon Moses put some of the blood on the tips of their right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the great toes of their right feet, and Moses dashed the rest of the blood all around the altar. Taking the fat, the fat tail, all the fat on the entrails, the lobe of the liver, the two kidneys with their fat, and the right thigh, and taking from the basket of unleavened cakes, which was before the LORD, one unleavened cake, one loaf of bread made with oil, and one wafer, he added them to the fat and right thigh, and laid the whole in the hands of Aaron and his sons, and then waved them as a wave-offering before the LORD. Then Moses took them from their hands, and burned them on the altar for burnt-offerings; they were an installation-offering for a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD. Taking the breast, Moses waved it as a wave-offering before the LORD, which went to Moses as his share of the installation ram, as the LORD had commanded Moses. Moses then took some of the anointing oil and some of the blood which was on the altar and sprinkled it on Aaron and his vestments, and on his sons with him and on the vestments of his sons, thus consecrating Aaron and his vestments, as well as his sons with him and the vestments of his sons. Then Moses said to Aaron and his sons, "Boil the flesh at the doorway of the tent of meeting, and eat it there, together with the bread in the installation basket, as I was commanded when told, 'Aaron and his sons must eat it.' The remainder of the flesh and bread you must burn up. For seven days you must not leave the doorway of the tent of meeting, not until the days for your installation are over; for it will take seven days to instal you. As has been done today, the LORD commanded to be done, that atonement might be made for you. So you must remain at the doorway of the tent of meeting day and night for seven days, and observe the behest of the LORD, that you die not for so I was commanded."

Aaron and his sons carried out all the commands which the LORD gave through Moses.

On the eighth day Moses summoned 9

Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel, and said to Aaron,

"Take a bull calf for a sin-offering and a ram for a burnt-offering, both perfect, and offer them before the LORD, while you must say to the Israelites, 'Take a he-goat for a sin-offering, and a calf and a lamb, both yearlings and perfect, as a burnt-offering, together with an ox and a ram as a thank-offering, to sacrifice before the LORD, as well as a cereal-offering mixed with oil; for today the LORD is to appear to you.'"

So they brought what Moses commanded to the front of the tent of meeting, and the whole community came forward and stood before the LORD, whereupon Moses said,

"This is what the LORD has commanded you to do, that the glory of the LORD may appear to you."

"Come up to the altar," Moses said to Aaron, "and offer your sin-offering and burnt-offering, and make atonement for yourself and the people, presenting the offering of the people and making atonement for them, as the LORD commanded."

So Aaron went up to the altar, and slaughtered the sin-offering calf that was for himself, whereupon the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him, and he dipped his finger into the blood, and put it on the horns of the altar, pouring out the rest of the blood at the base of the altar, while the fat, the kidneys, and the lobe of the liver of the sin-offering victim he burned on the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses, burning up the flesh and hide outside the camp. He then slaughtered the burnt-offering victim, whereupon Aaron's sons handed him the blood, and he dashed it all around the altar. Then they handed him the various pieces of the burnt-offering along with the head, and he burned them on the altar. He washed the entrails and legs, and burned them on the altar with the rest of the burnt-offering. He then presented the people's offering; taking the sin-offering goat that was for the people, he slaughtered it, and offered it for sin as in the case of the former. He presented the burnt-offering, and offered it as prescribed. He presented the cereal-offering, taking a handful from it, and burning it on the altar in addition to the morning burnt-offering. He slaughtered the ox and the ram, the thanksgiving sacrifice that was for the people, whereupon the sons of Aaron handed him the blood, and he dashed it all around the altar, while the fat pieces of the ox and ram, the fat tail, that covering the entrails, the kidneys, and the lobe of the liver, these fat pieces they added to the breasts, and he burned the fat pieces on the altar, while the breasts and the right thigh Aaron waved as a wave-offering before the LORD, as Moses commanded. Then Aaron raised his hands toward the people, and blessed them, whereupon he came down from offering the sin-offering, burnt-offering, and thank-offering. Moses and Aaron then entered the tent of meeting, and when they came out, they blessed the people, whereupon the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people. Fire came forth from the presence of the LORD, and consumed the burnt-offering and the pieces of fat on the altar. When all the people saw it, they shouted, and fell on their faces.

Now the sons of Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, took each his fire-pan, and putting fire on them, they placed incense on it, and offered improper fire before the LORD, which he had not commanded them, whereupon fire came forth from the presence of the LORD, and consumed them, so that they died at the hands of the LORD. Then Moses said to Aaron,

"This must be what the LORD meant by saying,

'By those near me I must be treated as holy,

That I may reveal myself in glory to the people at large.'"

But Aaron was silent. Then Moses summoned Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel, Aaron's uncle, and said to them,

"Go up and carry your kinsmen away from the front of the sanctuary outside the camp."

So they went up and carried them away in their tunics outside the camp, as Moses said. Then said Moses to Aaron and his sons, Eleazar and Ithamar,

"Do not let the hair on your heads hang loose, nor tear your clothes, that you die not, and wrath be brought upon the whole community, when your kinsmen, the whole house of Israel, are weeping over the conflagration which the LORD himself has brought about.

7 You must not leave the doorway of the tent of meeting, lest you die; for it is the LORD'S anointing oil that is on you."

They did as Moses directed.

8 The LORD said to Aaron,

9 "Drink no wine or liquor, neither you nor your sons with you, when you enter the tent of meeting, that you die not; it is to be a perpetual statute throughout your generations, that a distinction may be made between the sacred and the profane, and between the unclean and the clean, and that the Israelites may be taught all the statutes which the LORD has communicated to them through Moses."

12 Moses said to Aaron and his remaining sons, Eleazar and Ithamar,

"Take the cereal-offering that is left over from the sacrifices to the LORD, and eat it as unleavened cakes beside the altar; for it is most sacred; so you must eat it in a sacred place, because it is the due of you and your sons from the sacrifices to the LORD; for so was I commanded. The waved breast and the thigh that was contributed you may eat in a clean place, along with your sons and daughters; for they have been designated as the due of you and your sons out of the thanksgiving sacrifices of the Israelites. The thigh that is to be contributed and the breast that is to be waved must be brought, along with the fat pieces for the sacrifices, to be waved as a wave-offering before the LORD; they are to go to you and your sons with you as a perpetual due, as the LORD has commanded."

16 When Moses made careful search for the goat of the sin-offering, he found that it had been burned! So he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the remaining sons of Aaron, and said,

17 "Why have you not eaten the sin-offering at the sanctuary? For it is most sacred and was given to you to bear the iniquity of the community, that atonement might be made for them before the LORD. See, the blood from it was not brought inside the sanctuary; you ought certainly to have eaten it in the sanctuary, as I commanded."

19 Whereupon Aaron said to Moses,

"Yes, they have offered their sin-offering and burnt-offering before the LORD today, but then such dreadful things have happened to me! But even if I had eaten the sin-offering today, would it have been acceptable to the LORD?"

When Moses heard that, he was satisfied.

LAWS RELATING TO UNCLEANNESS, 11:1—16:34

The LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying to them,

"Say to the Israelites, 'The following are the creatures that you may eat, of all the animals that are on the earth. Any of the animals with a cloven hoof, that has the hoof completely divided, and that chews the cud, you may eat. However, of those that chew the cud or have the hoof completely cloven, you must not eat the following: the camel, because, though chewing the cud, it does not have the hoof cloven—it is unclean for you; the rock-badger, because, though chewing the cud, it does not have the hoof cloven—it is unclean for you; the hare, because, though chewing the cud, it does not have the hoof cloven—it is unclean for you; and the pig, because, though having the hoof cloven and completely divided, it does not chew the cud—it is unclean for you. Of their flesh you must not eat, and their carcasses you must not touch, since they are unclean for you.'

"Of all the things that live in the water you may eat the following: whatsoever has fins and scales, living in the water, whether in sea or stream, you may eat, but whatsoever has not fins and scales, living in sea or stream, either any kind of water reptile or any living creature at all that lives in the water, they are detestable for you, and must be detested by you; you must not eat of their flesh, and their carcasses you must detest; everything in the water that does not have fins and scales is detestable for you.

"Of birds you must detest the following; they are not to be eaten, since they are detestable: the griffon, the vulture, the eagle, the buzzard, the kite in its several species, the raven in all its species, the ostrich, the night-hawk,

the sea-mew, the hawk in its several 17 species, the screech-owl, the cormorant,
 18 the eagle-owl, the horned owl, the jack-19 daw, the carrion-vulture, the stork, the heron in its several species, the bittern, and the bat.

20 "All winged insects that walk on all 21 fours are detestable for you. However, of all winged insects that walk on all fours you may eat the following: whatever has jointed legs above its feet with 22 which to leap upon the ground, of these you may eat the following: the common locust in its several species, the devastating locust in its several species, the flying locust in its several species, and the grasshopper in its several species.
 23 But all winged insects which simply have four feet are detestable for you.

24 "In the case of the following you shall become unclean; whosoever touches any carcass of them shall remain unclean until evening, and whosoever carries any of their carcasses must 25 wash his clothes, remaining unclean until evening. In the case of every animal that has the hoof cloven, but not completely divided, and does not chew the cud, such are unclean for you; whosoever touches them shall become un-27 clean. Whosoever walks on its paws, any of the animals that walk on all fours are unclean for you; whosoever touches their carcasses shall remain un-28 clean until evening, and anyone carrying their carcasses must wash his clothes, remaining unclean until evening; they are unclean for you.

29 "Among the reptiles that swarm on the earth the following are unclean for you: the weasel, the mouse, the lizard 30 in its several species, the croaking lizard, the agama, the gecko, the cha-31 meleon, and the basilisk. Among all the reptiles these are the ones that are unclean for you; whosoever touches them when they are dead shall remain un-32 clean until evening, and whatsoever any of them falls upon when dead shall become unclean, whether it be any wooden article, or a garment, or a skin, or a sack, any article at all of which use is made; it must be put into water, remaining unclean until evening, when it 33 shall become clean. Any earthen vessel into which any of them falls, since whatever is in it becomes unclean, you 34 must break; of all the food that was edible, that which has had contact with water shall be unclean, and all the liquid in any such vessel that was drinkable shall be unclean. Whosoever any 35 of their dead bodies falls upon shall become unclean; an oven or a fire-pot must be broken in pieces; they are unclean and must be unclean for you.

 However, a fountain or a cistern for 36 collecting water shall be clean, but he who touches a dead body of theirs shall be unclean. If any of their dead bodies 37 falls upon seed for sowing that is to be sown, it shall be clean; but if water is 38 put on the seed, and any of their dead bodies falls on it, it shall be unclean for
 you.

"If any animal which you use for 39 food dies, whoever touches its carcass shall remain unclean until evening;
 whoever eats any of its carcass must 40 wash his clothes, remaining unclean until evening; and whoever carries its carcass must wash his clothes, remaining unclean until evening.

"Every insect that swarms on the 41 earth is detestable; it must not be eaten. Whosoever crawls on its belly, 42 anything that crawls upon four legs or anything that has many legs, any kind of insect at all that swarms on the earth, you must not eat; for they are detestable. You must not render your-43 selves detestable through any swarming insect, nor make yourselves unclean through them, and so defile yourselves;
 for I, the LORD, am your God. Conse-44 crate yourselves, therefore, and be holy;
 for I am holy; so you must not defile yourselves with any kind of insect that crawls on the earth. For I am the LORD 45 who brought you up out of the land of Egypt to be your God, and so you must be holy; for I am holy.

"This is the law regarding animals, 46 birds, all living creatures that move in the water, and all creatures that swarm on the earth, that a distinction may be 47 made between the unclean and the clean, between animals that are to be eaten and those that are not to be eaten."

The LORD said to Moses, 12

"Say to the Israelites, 'When a wom-2 an is delivered and gives birth to a boy, she shall be unclean for seven days, being unclean as at the time of menstruation. On the eighth day the flesh of his 3 foreskin shall be circumcised, while she 4 shall remain unclean for thirty-three days, the time for her purification, touching nothing sacred, nor entering the sanctuary, until the time for her purification is over. But if she gives birth to a girl, she shall be unclean for two weeks as at menstruation, and she shall remain continent for sixty-six days, as the time for her purification. When the time for her purification is over for either son or daughter, she shall bring to the priest at the doorway of the tent of meeting a yearling lamb as a burnt-offering, and a young pigeon or a turtle-dove as a sin-offering, and he shall offer it before the LORD, and thus make atonement for her, that she may be cleansed from her flow of blood. This is the law for her who gives birth to a child, whether male or female. If she cannot afford a lamb, she must take two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, the one for a burnt-offering, and the other for a sin-offering; the priest shall make atonement for her, and she shall be clean.' "

13 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "When anyone has a swelling or an eruption or an inflamed spot on the skin of his body, and it develops into an attack of leprosy on the skin of his body, he must be brought to Aaron, the priest, or to one of his sons, the priests; the priest shall look at the mark on the skin of his body, and if the hair on the mark has turned white, while the mark itself has the appearance of being deeper than the skin of his body, it is an attack of leprosy, and the priest upon looking at him, must pronounce him unclean. But if the inflamed spot on the skin of his body is white and has no appearance of being deeper than the skin, while the hair has not turned white, the priest shall quarantine the afflicted person for seven days; the priest shall look at him on the seventh day, and if he finds that the mark is unchanged in color, and that the mark has not spread on the skin, the priest shall quarantine him for another seven days; on the seventh day the priest shall look at him again, and if he finds that the mark has grown dim, and has not spread on the skin, the priest shall pronounce him clean; it is only an eruption; so the man shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the eruption spreads on the skin, after he has shown himself to the priest to be pronounced clean, he must show himself to the priest again, and the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that the eruption has spread on the skin, the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is leprosy.

"When anyone has an attack of leprosy, he must be brought to the priest; the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that there is a white swelling on the skin, which has turned the hair white, and that there is quick raw flesh in the swelling, it is chronic leprosy on the skin of his body; so the priest must pronounce him unclean, without quarantining him, for he is unclean. If the leprosy breaks out all over the skin, so that the leprosy completely covers the skin of the afflicted person, from head to foot, in so far as the priest can see, the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that the leprosy has covered his whole body, he shall pronounce him clean; since it has all turned white, he is clean. But whenever raw flesh appears on him, he shall become unclean; when the priest sees the raw flesh, he must pronounce him unclean, raw flesh being unclean, indicating leprosy. On the other hand, if the raw flesh turns white again, he must come to the priest, and the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that the mark has turned white, the priest shall pronounce the afflicted person clean, since he is clean.

"When anyone has a boil on the skin of his body, and it heals, leaving a white swelling or a reddish-white inflamed spot, it must be shown to the priest; the priest shall look at it, and if he finds that it has the appearance of being deeper than the skin and that the hair is turned white, the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is an attack of leprosy, which has broken out in the boil. But if the priest, upon looking at it, finds no white hair on it, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has become dim, the priest shall quarantine him for seven days; if it then spreads all over the skin, the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is an attack; but if the inflamed spot remains where it is, without spreading, it is only the scar of the boil, so the priest shall pronounce him clean.

"Or, when anyone has a burn on the skin of his body, and the raw flesh of the burn becomes an inflamed spot, reddish-white or white, the priest must look at it, and if he finds that the hair on the inflamed spot has turned white, and that it has the appearance of being deeper than the skin, it is leprosy which has broken out in the burn; so the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is an attack of leprosy. But if the priest, upon looking at it, finds that there is no white hair on the inflamed spot, and that it is no deeper than the skin, but has become dim, the priest shall quarantine him for seven days: on the seventh day the priest shall look at him, and if it has spread all over the skin, the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is an attack of leprosy. But if the inflamed spot remains where it is, without spreading on the skin, and has become dim, it is only the swelling from the burn, so the priest shall pronounce him clean; for it is only the scar of the burn.

“When a man or a woman has a sore on the head or the beard, the priest must look at the sore, and if he finds that it has the appearance of being deeper than the skin, and that there is thin yellow hair on it, the priest shall pronounce him unclean, since it is ringworm, a leprous disease of the head or beard. If the priest, upon looking at the sore of the ringworm, finds that it has no appearance of being deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair on it, the priest shall quarantine the person afflicted with the ringworm for seven days; on the seventh day the priest shall look at the sore, and if he finds that the ringworm has not spread, that there is no yellow hair on it, and that the ringworm has no appearance of being deeper than the skin, the person shall shave himself, but not shave the ringworm, and then the priest shall quarantine the person with the ringworm for another seven days; on the seventh day the priest shall look at the ringworm, and if he finds that the ringworm has not spread on the skin, and that it has no appearance of being deeper than the skin, the priest shall pronounce him clean; he shall wash his clothes, and be clean. But if the ringworm spreads on the skin after he has been pronounced clean, the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that the ringworm has spread on the skin, the priest need not look for yellow hair; he is unclean. But if the ringworm is unchanged in color, and black hair has grown on it, the ringworm is healed; he is clean, and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

“When a man or a woman has inflamed spots on the skin of his body, white inflamed spots, the priest shall look at them, and if he finds that the inflamed spots on the skin of his body are a dull white, it is only tetter, which has broken out on the skin, so he is clean.

“When a man loses the hair on his head, he is bald, but he is clean. If he loses the hair from the front of his head, he is bald on the forehead, but he is clean. But if there is a reddish-white mark on the bald head or bald forehead, it is leprosy breaking out on his bald head or bald forehead; so the priest shall look at it, and if he finds that the swelling from the affection on his bald head or bald forehead is reddish-white, like the appearance of leprosy on the skin of the body, he is a leprous man, he is unclean; the priest must be sure to pronounce him unclean, since the affection is on his head.

“In the case of any leper who has the affection, his clothes must be torn, and the hair on his head worn loose; he must cover his mustache, and cry, ‘Unclean! Unclean!’ All the time that he has the affection, he shall be unclean; being unclean, he must live alone, his domicile must be outside the camp.

“When a garment has a leprous affection on it, whether it is a woolen garment or a linen garment, whether it is woven or knitted material of linen or wool, whether it is skin or anything made of skin, if the affection on the garment or the skin, or the woven or knitted material, or the article of skin whatever it may be, is greenish or reddish, it is a leprous affection, and must be shown to the priest. The priest shall look at the affection, and isolate the thing affected for seven days; on the seventh day he shall look at the affection, and if the affection has spread on the garment, or the woven or knitted material, or the skin, whatever may be the use to which the skin is put, the affection is a malignant leprosy; it is unclean; so he must burn the garment, or the woven or knitted material of wool or linen, or the article of skin whatever it may be, which has the affection; for it is a malignant leprosy; 53 it must be burned up. But if the priest, upon looking at it, finds that the affection has not spread on the garment, or the woven or knitted material, or the 54 article of skin whatever it may be, the priest shall order the thing that has the affection to be washed, and then isolate 55 it for another seven days. After the affected thing has been washed, the priest shall look at it, and if he finds that the affection has not changed its color, nor the affection itself spread, it is unclean; you must burn it up, whether the virus has produced bareness on 56 the back or the front. If the priest, upon looking at it, finds that the affection has become dim after being washed, he shall tear it out of the garment, or the skin, or the woven or knitted 57 material; and if it still appears on the garment, or the woven or knitted material, or the article of skin whatever it may be, it is breaking out again; you must burn up the thing that has the 58 affection on it. But if the affection disappears from the garment, or the woven or knitted material, or the article of skin whatever it may be, which has been washed, it shall be washed a second time, and then it shall be clean. 59 "This is the law for leprous affections on any garment of wool or linen, or on woven or knitted material, or on any article of skin whatsoever, having to do with its pronouncement as clean or unclean."

14 The LORD said to Moses,
2 "This is the law for the leper at the 3 time that he is pronounced clean. His case must be brought to the priest, and the priest shall go outside the camp, and the priest shall look at him, and if he finds that the attack of leprosy has 4 been healed in the leper, the priest shall order two clean live birds, some cedar wood, scarlet string, and hyssop to be 5 procured for the one who is to be cleansed, and then the priest shall order one of the birds to be killed over fresh 6 water in an earthen vessel. He shall then take the live bird, with the cedar wood, scarlet string, and hyssop, and dip them and the live bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the 7 fresh water, and sprinkling it seven times upon the one who is to be cleansed from leprosy, he shall pronounce him clean, and set the live bird free in the open country. He that is to be cleansed must then wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and bathe himself in water, and so become clean. After that he may re-enter the camp, but must stay outside his tent for seven days; on the seventh day he shall shave off all the hair on his head, his beard, and his eyebrows; and when he has shaved off all his hair, he shall wash his clothes, and bathe his body in water, and so become clean. On the eighth day he shall take two perfect male lambs and one perfect yearling ewe-lamb, along with three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering, and one log of oil. Then the priest who is to do the cleansing shall set the man to be cleansed and the other things before the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting. Taking one male lamb, the priest shall offer it as a guilt-offering, along with the log of oil, and wave them as a wave-offering before the LORD, slaughtering the lamb at the place where the sin-offering and burnt-offering victims are slaughtered, at the place where the sanctuary is; for the guilt-offering like the sin-offering shall go to the priest, since it is most sacred. Taking some of the blood of the guilt-offering, the priest shall put it on the tip of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and the great toe of his right foot. Taking some of the log of oil, the priest shall pour it into the palm of his own left hand, whereupon the priest shall dip his right finger in the oil that is in the palm of his left hand, and sprinkle some of the oil with his finger seven times before the LORD; of the rest of the oil that is in his palm the priest shall put some on the tip of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and the great toe of his right foot, on top of the blood of the guilt-offering, while the remainder of the oil that is in his palm, the priest shall put on the head of the one to be cleansed. Thus shall the priest make atonement for him before the LORD. The priest shall then offer the sin-offering, and make atonement for the one to be cleansed because of his uncleanness, after which he shall slaughter the burnt-offering victim, and the priest shall offer up the burnt-offering and the cereal-offering on the altar. Thus shall the priest make atonement for him, and he shall become clean.

"If, however, he is poor, and cannot afford so much, he may take one male lamb as a guilt-offering to be waved in atonement for him, and one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering, and a log of oil, together with two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, such as he can afford, the one to be a sin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering. On the eighth day he shall bring them for his cleansing to the priest at the doorway of the tent of meeting, before the LORD, whereupon the priest shall take the lamb of the guilt-offering and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them as a wave-offering before the LORD. He shall then slaughter the lamb of the guilt-offering, and taking some of the blood of the guilt-offering, the priest shall put it on the tip of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and the great toe of his right foot, while the priest shall pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand, and the priest shall then sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in the palm of his left hand seven times before the LORD. The priest shall put some of the oil that remains in his palm on the tip of the right ear of the one to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and the great toe of his right foot, on the place where the blood of the guilt-offering is, while the remainder of the oil that is in his palm the priest shall put on the head of the one to be cleansed, to make atonement for him before the LORD. Of the turtle-doves or young pigeons, such as he can afford, he shall offer the one as a sin-offering and the other as a burnt-offering, along with the cereal-offering. Thus shall the priest make atonement before the LORD for the one to be cleansed. This is the law for him who has an attack of leprosy, who cannot afford the regular offerings for his cleansing."

The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, "When you enter the land of Canaan which I am giving you as your own, if I bring a leprous affection on a house in the land that you hold, the owner of the house shall come and inform the priest, saying, 'There appears to me to be some kind of affection in my house'; whereupon the priest shall order the house to be emptied before he goes in to look at the affection, so that everything that is in the house may not be made unclean, after which the priest shall go in to look at the house. If, upon looking at the affection, he finds that the affection on the walls of the house is in greenish or reddish patches, and that they have the appearance of being deeper than the surface of the wall, the priest shall come out of the house to the doorway of the house, and quarantine the house for seven days. On the seventh day the priest shall come back, and look at it, and if he finds that the affection has spread on the walls of the house, the priest shall order the stones which have the affection on them to be pulled out and thrown into an unclean place outside the city, while he shall have the inside of the house itself scraped all around, and the mortar that is scraped off is to be dumped into an unclean place outside the city; fresh stones shall be procured and the other stones be replaced with them, and fresh mortar shall be procured and the house replastered. If the affection breaks out again in the house, after the stones have been pulled out, and the house has been scraped and replastered, the priest shall go in and look at it, and if he finds that the affection has spread in the house, it is malignant leprosy in the house; it is unclean. So he must pull down the house, its stones, its timbers, and all the mortar of the house, and take them to an unclean place outside the city. Moreover, anyone who enters the house while it is quarantined shall be unclean until evening; anyone who sleeps in the house must wash his clothes, and anyone who eats in the house must wash his clothes. If, however, the priest should come in, and upon looking at it, find that the affection has not spread in the house, after the house has been replastered, the priest shall pronounce the house clean, since the affection has been remedied. To cleanse the house he shall take two birds, along with some cedar wood, scarlet string, and hyssop, and killing one bird over fresh water in an earthen vessel, he shall take the cedar wood, hyssop, and scarlet string, along with the live bird, and dipping them in the blood of the bird that was killed and in the fresh water, he shall sprinkle the house

52 seven times; he shall cleanse the house with the blood of the bird and the fresh water, along with the live bird, the cedar wood, hyssop, and scarlet string, 53 and then he shall set the live bird free outside the city in the open country. Thus he shall make atonement for the house, and it shall become clean.

54 "That is the law for every kind of 55 leprous affection, for ringworm, for 56 leprosy on a garment or in a house, for a swelling, for an eruption, and for in- 57 flamed spots, to indicate when it is unclean and when it is clean; this is the law for leprosy."

15 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, 2 "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'When any man has a discharge from his body, the discharge is unclean, 3 and such shall be the uncleanness from his discharge that he shall be unclean whether his body runs with the discharge, or is stopped up to prevent the 4 discharge. Every bed on which he who has the discharge lies shall be unclean, and every chair on which he sits shall be 5 unclean. Anyone who touches his bed must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining unclean until 6 evening. Whoever sits on the chair on which he who has the discharge may have sat must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining un- 7 clean until evening. Whoever touches the body of him who has the discharge must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining unclean until 8 evening. If he who has the discharge spits on one who is clean, he must wash his clothes and bathe himself in water, 9 remaining unclean until evening. Every seat on which he who has the discharge 10 rides shall be unclean. Whoever touches anything at all that has been under him shall be unclean until evening; whoever carries such things must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, re- 11 maining unclean until evening. Anyone whom he who has the discharge touches, without having rinsed his hands in water, must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining 12 unclean until evening. Any earthen pot which he who has the discharge touches must be broken, and every wooden article must be rinsed with water.

13 "When he who has the discharge is to be cleansed of his discharge, he must allow seven days for his cleansing; he must wash his clothes, and bathe his body in fresh water, and so become clean. On the eighth day he shall procure two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, and appear before the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting, and give them to the priest, whereupon the priest shall offer them, one as a sin-offering and the other as a burnt-offering. Thus shall the priest make atonement before the LORD for him because of his discharge.

"If a man has an emission of semen, 1 he must bathe his whole body in water, remaining unclean until evening; and 1 every garment and every skin that has the semen on it must be washed with water, remaining unclean until evening. If a man lies with a woman and has an 10 emission of semen, they must bathe themselves in water, remaining unclean until evening.

"If a woman has a discharge, her 11 discharge being menstruation, she shall continue for seven days in her impurity; and whosoever touches her shall be unclean until evening. Everything on 21 which she lies while in her impurity shall be unclean, and every chair on which she sits shall be unclean. Who- 21 ever touches her bed must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, re- maining unclean until evening. Who- 21 ever touches any chair on which she sits must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining unclean until evening. If she herself is on the bed or 21 the chair, when he touches it, he shall be unclean until evening. If a man 21 should ever lie with her, her impurity shall be transmitted to him; he shall be unclean for seven days; and every bed on which he lies shall be unclean.

"If a woman has a discharge of 21 blood for a long time, when it is not her menstruation period, or if she has a discharge beyond her period, she shall be unclean during all the time of her unclean discharge, as she is during the time of her menstruation. Every bed 20 on which she lies during all the time of her discharge shall be affected by her in the same way as a bed in her period, and every chair on which she sits shall be unclean as it is unclean in her period. Whoever touches them shall become 27 unclean; he must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining unclean until evening. If she is to be 289 cleansed of her discharge, she must allow seven days for it, after which she shall be clean. On the eighth day she must procure two turtle-doves or two young pigeons, and bring them to the priest at the doorway of the tent of meeting, whereupon the priest shall offer one as a sin-offering and the other as a burnt-offering. Thus shall the priest make atonement before the LORD for her because of her unclean discharge.

11 "Thus shall you rid the Israelites of their uncleanness, lest they die for their uncleanness, by defiling my dwelling that is in their midst.

12 "That is the law for one having a discharge, or for one who has an emission of semen and is made unclean by it, for her who is suffering from menstruation, for anyone who has a discharge, whether man or woman, and for any man who lies with an unclean woman."

6 After the death of Aaron's two sons, when they approached the presence of the LORD and died, the LORD spoke to Moses,

12 "Tell your brother Aaron," the LORD said to Moses, "that he must under no circumstances enter the sacred place inside the veil in front of the propitiatory which is on the ark, that he die not; for I manifest myself in the cloud on the propitiatory; it is only with this that Aaron may enter the sacred place: with a young bullock as a sin-offering and a ram as a burnt-offering. He must put on the sacred linen tunic, wear the linen breeches on his body, be girded with the linen sash, and wind on the linen turban, these being the sacred vestments; when he has bathed his body in water he shall put them on. From the Israelite community he shall procure two he-goats as a sin-offering and one ram as a burnt-offering. Aaron shall offer the sin-offering bullock which is for himself, and so make atonement for himself and his household. He shall then take the two goats, and set them before the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting, whereupon Aaron shall place lots on the two goats, one lot for the LORD and the other for Azazel. Aaron shall then bring forward the goat which has the lot of the LORD on it, and offer it as a sin-offering, while the goat that has the lot of Azazel on it shall be set alive before the LORD, that atonement may be made through it by sending it off to Azazel in the desert. Aaron shall offer the sin-offering bullock which is for himself, and so make atonement for himself and his household. He must slaughter the sin-offering bullock which is for himself, and taking a pan full of coals of fire from the altar before the LORD and with his hands full of finely ground, fragrant incense, he must bring them inside the veil, and put the incense on the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of incense may cover the propitiatory which is over the decrees, that he die not. Taking some of the blood of the bullock, he must sprinkle it with his finger on the east side of the propitiatory, and then sprinkle some of the blood with his finger seven times in front of the propitiatory. He must then slaughter the sin-offering goat which is for the people, and bring its blood inside the veil; he must do with its blood as he did in the case of the bullock's blood, sprinkling it on the propitiatory and in front of the propitiatory. Thus he shall make atonement for the sanctuary because of the uncleanness of the Israelites and their transgressions in all their sins. And he shall do the same for the tent of meeting that has its abode with them in the midst of their uncleanness. When he goes in to make atonement in the sacred place, there must be no one present in the tent of meeting until he comes out, that he may make atonement for himself, his own household, and the whole community of Israel. He must then go outside to the altar which is before the LORD, and make atonement for it; taking some of the bullock's blood and some of the goat's blood, he must put it all around the horns of the altar, and sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times, to cleanse and sanctify it from the uncleanness of the Israelites. When he has finished making atonement for the sacred place, the tent of meeting, and the altar, he shall bring forward the live goat, and laying both his hands on the head of the live goat, Aaron shall confess over it all the iniquities of the Israelites and all their transgressions in all their sins, and laying them on the head of the goat, send it off to the desert by a man standing in

22 readiness. Thus the goat shall carry all their iniquities away with it into a desolate region; and he shall set the goat
 23 free in the desert. Then Aaron shall re-enter the tent of meeting, and removing the linen vestments which he put on when he entered the sacred place, he 24 shall leave them there; he shall bathe his body in water at a sacred place, put on his other clothes, and then come out and offer his own burnt-offering and the people's burnt-offering, making atone-
 25 ment for himself and the people, while the fat of the sin-offering he shall burn on the altar. The one who lets the goat
 26 go for Azazel must wash his clothes, and bathe his body in water, after 27 which he may re-enter the camp. The sin-offering bullock and the sin-offering goat, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the sacred place, must be taken outside the camp, and their hides, flesh, and offal burned up;
 28 while the one who burns them must wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, after which he may re-enter the camp.
 29 "It shall be a perpetual statute for you that on the tenth day of the seventh month you shall mortify yourselves and not do any work at all, neither the native born nor the proselyte
 30 who resides among you; for on this day shall atonement be made for you to cleanse you, that you may be cleansed
 31 from all your sins before the LORD. It shall be a sabbath of complete rest for you, and you must mortify yourselves;
 32 it is to be a perpetual statute. The priest who shall be anointed and installed as priest in his father's place shall make the atonement; he shall put on the linen vestments, the sacred
 33 vestments, and make atonement for the most sacred place, make atonement for the tent of meeting and the altar, and make atonement for the priests and 34 all the people of the community. This is to be a perpetual statute for you, for making atonement once a year for the Israelites because of all their sins."

It was done as the LORD commanded Moses.

LAWS RELATING TO HOLINESS, 17:1—26:46

- 17 The LORD said to Moses,
 2 "Speak to Aaron and his sons and all the Israelites, and say to them, "This is the command that the LORD has given: "Anyone at all belonging to the house of Israel who slaughters an ox or a lamb or a goat in the camp, or slaughters it outside the camp, and does not bring it to the doorway of the tent of meeting, to present it as an offering to the LORD in front of the LORD'S dwelling, that man shall be held guilty of bloodshed, since he has shed blood; hence that man shall be cut off from his people, to the end that the Israelites may bring in their sacrifices, which they have been accustomed to sacrifice in the country at large, and bring them to the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting, to the priest, and sacrifice them as thanksgiving sacrifices to the LORD; whereupon the priest shall dash the blood upon the altar of the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting, and burn the fat as a soothing odor to the LORD. They must no longer offer their sacrifices to the satyrs after whom they have been running in wanton fashion. This shall be a perpetual statute for them throughout their generations."

"You must also say to them, 'Anyone at all belonging to the house of Israel, or the proselytes who reside among them, who offers a burnt-offering or a sacrifice, and does not bring it to the doorway of the tent of meeting to offer it to the LORD, that man shall be cut off from his people.'

"If anyone at all belonging to the house of Israel or the proselytes who reside among them eats any blood at all, against the person who eats blood I will set my face, and will cut him off from his people; for the life of the creature is in the blood, and I direct you to place it upon the altar, to make atonement for you; for it is the blood which as the life makes atonement. That is why I say to the Israelites, "No person among you may eat blood, nor may the proselyte who resides among you eat blood."

"Anyone at all of the Israelites, or the proselytes who reside among them, who in hunting catches an animal or a bird that may be eaten, must pour out its blood, and cover it with dust; for the life of every creature is identical with its blood; hence I say to the Israelites, "You may not eat the blood of any creature at all"; for the life of every creature is its blood; whosoever eats it shall be cut off. Every person who eats anything that has died a natural death or from being torn, whether he is a native born or a proselyte, must wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, remaining unclean until evening, when he shall become clean. If he does not wash them, nor bathe his body, he shall answer for his iniquity."

§ The LORD said to Moses,

2 "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'I, the LORD, am your God. You must not imitate the practices of the land of Egypt in which you lived, nor imitate the practices of the land of Canaan to which I am about to bring you, nor walk in their statutes. It is my ordinances that you must observe, and my statutes that you must keep, by walking in them, since I, the LORD, am your God. So you must keep my statutes and ordinances, by the observance of which man shall live, since I am the LORD.

6 "None of you shall approach anyone closely related to him, to have intercourse with her; since I am the LORD. You must not have intercourse with her who belongs to your father, namely, your mother; since she is your mother, you must not have intercourse with her. You must not have intercourse with a wife of your father, since she belongs to your father. You must not have intercourse with your sister, whether full sister or half-sister, legitimate or illegitimate. You must not have intercourse with your son's daughter nor your daughter's daughter; for they are your own flesh. You must not have intercourse with your father's wife's daughter, begotten by your father, since she is your sister. You must not have intercourse with your father's sister, since she is your father's relative. You must not have intercourse with your mother's sister, for she is your mother's relative. You must not have intercourse with her who belongs to your father's brother; you must not approach his wife, since she is your aunt. You must not have intercourse with your daughter-in-law; since she is your son's wife, you must not have intercourse with her. You must not have intercourse with your brother's wife, since she belongs to your brother. You must not have intercourse with a woman and her daughter as well; you must not take her son's daughter and her daughter's daughter to have intercourse with them; since they are relatives, it would be lewdness. You must not marry a woman in addition to her sister as a rival wife, having intercourse with her as well as with the other, while she is alive. You must not approach a woman while she is unclean from menstruation, to have intercourse with her. You must not have sexual intercourse with your neighbor's wife, defiling yourself with her. You must not dedicate any of your children to the service of Molech; you must not profane the name of your God, of me, the LORD. You must not lie with a male as with a woman, since that would be abominable. You must not have sexual intercourse with any animal at all, defiling yourself with it; nor must a woman stand in front of an animal, to lie down for it, since that would be bestial. Do not defile yourselves in any of these ways; for it was in all these ways that the nations whom I am driving out of your way defiled themselves, so that the land became defiled, and I punished it for its iniquity and the land vomited out its inhabitants. So keep my statutes and ordinances, and do not follow any of these abominable practices, neither the native born nor the proselytes who reside among you (for it was all these abominable practices that the natives of the land who preceded you followed, so that the land became defiled), lest the land vomit you out when you defile it, as it vomited out the nations who preceded you. For whoever follows any of these abominable practices—the persons who do so shall be cut off from their people. So keep my charge by not observing any of the abominable customs which were observed before you, and do not defile yourselves with them, since I, the LORD, am your God."

The LORD said to Moses, 19

2 "Speak to the whole Israelite community, and say to them, 'You must be holy; for I, the LORD your God, am holy. You must each revere his father and mother, and you must keep my sabbaths, since I, the LORD, am your God. Do not turn to unreal gods, nor make yourselves molten gods, since I, the LORD, am your God.

4 "When you offer a thanksgiving sacrifice to the LORD, sacrificing it so

- 6 as to make you acceptable, you must eat it on the day that you sacrifice it, or on the next day; any left over until the third day must be burned up. If it should ever be eaten on the third day, it would be mere refuse; it would not be acceptable; anyone eating it shall answer for his iniquity, because he has profaned what is sacred to the LORD; so that person shall be cut off from his people.
- 9 "When you reap the harvest of your land, you must not reap your field to the very corners, nor gather the gleanings of your harvest; you must not glean your vineyards bare, nor gather the fallen fruit of your vineyard; you must leave them for the poor and the resident alien, since I, the LORD, am your God.
- 11 "You must not steal, nor cheat, nor lie to one another. You must not take a false oath in my name, and so profane the name of your God, of me, the LORD.
- 13 "You must not defraud your fellow, nor rob him; the wages of a hired laborer are not to remain all night with you until morning.
- 14 "You must not curse a deaf person, nor place an obstacle in the way of a blind person; you must stand in awe of your God, of me, the LORD.
- 15 "You must do no injustice in a case, neither showing partiality to the poor, nor deferring to the powerful, but judging your fellow fairly.
- 16 "You must not play the part of a talebearer against your people; you must not secure yourself by the life of another, since I am the LORD.
- 17 "You must not cherish hate against your fellow-countryman; you must be sure to reprove your fellow, but not incur sin because of him. You must not avenge yourself, nor bear a grudge against the members of your own race, but you must love your fellow as one of your own, since I am the LORD.
- 19 "You must keep my statutes; you must not let your cattle breed with a different species; you must not sow your field with two kinds of seed, nor put on a garment made of two kinds of material.
- 20 "If a man has sexual intercourse with a woman, who is a slave, betrothed to another man, but who has never been redeemed, nor given her freedom, there shall be an investigation; they shall not be put to death, because she was not free, but he must bring his guilt-offering to the LORD at the doorway of the tent of meeting, a ram as a guilt-offering, whereupon the priest shall make atonement for him with the guilt-offering ram before the LORD for the sin that he committed, and he shall be forgiven for the sin that he committed.

"When you enter the land, and plant all kinds of trees for food, you must treat their fruit as uncircumcised, to be held by you as uncircumcised for three years and not to be eaten; and in the fourth year all their fruit is to be sacred, a praise-offering to the LORD; it is only in the fifth year that you may eat their fruit, that their produce may enrich you, since I, the LORD, am your God.

"You must not eat anything with the blood.

"You must not practice augury or soothsaying.

"You must not shave around your temples, nor do away with the corners of your beard; you must not make incisions in your body for the dead, nor tattoo any marks on yourselves, since I am the LORD.

"Do not degrade your daughter by making a harlot of her, lest the land fall into harlotry, and become full of lewdness.

"You must keep my sabbaths, and stand in awe of my sanctuary, since I am the LORD.

"Do not turn to mediums or magicians; do not defile yourselves with them by consulting them, since I, the LORD, am your God.

"You must rise in the presence of the hoary-headed, and defer to the aged, and so stand in awe of your God, of me, the LORD.

"If a proselyte is residing with you in your land, you must not mistreat him; you must treat the proselyte who resides with you like the native born among you, and love him as one of your own, since I, the LORD, am your God; for you were once aliens yourselves in the land of Egypt.

"You must do no injustice in a case, with rule, or weight, or measure; you must have just balances, just weights, a just ephah, and a just hin, since it was

1 I, the LORD your God, who brought 2 you out of the land of Egypt. So you must be careful to observe all my statutes and ordinances, since I am the LORD.' "

3 The LORD said to Moses,
4 "Say to the Israelites, 'Anyone at all of the Israelites or the proselytes who reside in Israel, who dedicates any of his children to Molech, must be put to death; the people of the land must stone him. I, too, will set my face against that man, and cut him off from his people, because he has dedicated some of his children to Molech, defiling my sanctuary and profaning my holy name. If the people of the land should ever shut their eyes to such a man when he dedicates some of his children to Molech by not putting him to death, I myself will set my face against that man and his family, and cut him off from his people, as well as all those who run wantonly after him by running wantonly after Molech.

5 "If any person turns to mediums and magicians by running wantonly after them, I will set my face against that person, and cut him off from his people.

6 "Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be holy; for I, the LORD, am your God; be careful to observe my statutes, since it is I, the LORD, who sanctify you. For anyone at all who curses his father or mother must be put to death; since he has cursed his father or mother, his blood shall be on his head.

7 "In the case of any man who commits adultery with another man's wife, who commits adultery with his neighbor's wife, both the adulterer and the adulteress must be put to death. In the case of any man who lies with his father's wife, having intercourse with her who belongs to his father, both of them must be put to death; their blood shall be on their heads. In the case of any man who lies with his daughter-in-law, both of them must be put to death;
since they have committed a bestial act, their blood shall be on their heads.

8 If any man lies with a male as with a woman, since they have both committed an abominable act, they must be put to death; their blood shall be on their heads. In the case of a man who marries a woman and her mother as well, it is lewdness; both he and they must be burned up, that there may be no lewdness in your midst. Any man 15 who has sexual intercourse with an animal must be put to death, and the animal must be slain. If a woman goes up 16 to any animal to lie down for it, you must slay both the woman and the animal; they must be put to death; their blood shall be on their heads. If a man 17 takes his sister, either his full sister or his half-sister, and they have intercourse with each other, it is a shameful deed; so they must be cut off in sight of the members of their own race; since he has had intercourse with his sister, he must answer for his iniquity. If a man 18 lies with a woman while she is menstruating, and has intercourse with her, he has bared her fountain, and she has let the fountain of her blood be uncovered, so they must both be cut off from their people. You must not have intercourse 19 with your mother's sister nor your father's sister; for such a one would have made his relative bare; they must answer for their iniquity. In the case of a 20 man who lies with his aunt, he has had intercourse with her who belongs to his uncle; they shall answer for their sin by dying childless. If a man takes his 21 brother's wife, it is an impure deed;

since he has had intercourse with her who belongs to his brother, they shall be childless.

9 "Be careful, then, to observe all my 22 statutes and ordinances, lest the land, into which I am about to bring you to live, vomit you out. You must not fol- 23 low the customs of the nations whom I am driving out of your way; it was because they did all of these things that I abhor them, and say to you, "You 24 shall take possession of their land; I give it to you to possess, a land abounding in milk and honey." I, the LORD, am your God, who have separated you from other peoples, so you must make a 25 distinction between clean and unclean animals, between unclean and clean birds; you must not make yourselves detestable by animal or bird or any land reptile, which I have set apart for you to hold as unclean. You must be holy 26 to me; for I, the LORD, am holy, and have separated you from other peoples to be mine.

10 "If there is a man or woman who is 27 a medium or a magician, they must be put to death by being stoned; their blood shall be on their heads.' ”

- 21 The LORD said to Moses,
 “Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them, ‘No one is to defile himself for a dead person among his relatives, except for his nearest kin, his mother, his father, his son, his daughter, his brother, his sister if she is an unmarried virgin and hence still related to him; for such he may defile himself; he must not defile himself for those related to him by marriage by profaning himself. They must not shave part of their heads bald, nor shave off the corners of their beards, nor make incisions in their bodies. They must be holy to their God, and not profane the name of their God; for it is the LORD’S sacrifices, their God’s food, that they offer, so they must be holy. They must not marry a harlot or a woman who has been violated; they must not marry a woman who has been divorced from her husband; for he is to be holy to his God. Consecrate him therefore; for it is your God’s food that he offers; you must treat him as holy; for I, the LORD, who consecrate them, am holy. If a priest’s daughter degrades herself by playing the harlot, she degrades her father; she must be burned up.
- 10 “The priest who is the highest of his fellows, on whose head the anointing oil has been poured, and who has been installed to wear the vestments, must not let his hair hang loose, nor tear his clothes; he must never approach any corpse, defiling himself for neither his father nor his mother; he must not leave the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for it is the consecration of his God’s anointing oil that is on him; I am the LORD.
- 13 “He must marry a virgin; a widow, or a divorced woman, or a woman who has been violated, or a harlot, such he may not marry, but a virgin of his own class he must marry, that he may not degrade his children among his clansmen; for it is I, the LORD, who consecrate him.’ ”
- 16 The LORD said to Moses,
 17 “Say to Aaron, ‘None of your descendants, from generation to generation, who has a defect, may draw near to offer his God’s food; for no one who has a defect may come near, no one who is blind, or lame, or has any perforations, or has a limb too long; no one who has a fractured foot, or a fractured hand, or is a hunchback, or has a cataract, or a defect of eyesight, or scurvy, or scabs, or crushed testicles—no one of the descendants of Aaron, the priest, who has a defect, may come near to offer the LORD’S sacrifices; since he has a defect, he may not come near to offer his God’s food. He may eat his God’s food, some of the most sacred as well as the sacred; only he must not approach the veil, nor come near the altar, because he has a defect in him, lest he profane my sanctuaries; for it is I, the LORD, who consecrate them.’ ”

So Moses spoke to Aaron and his sons, and all the Israelites.

The LORD said to Moses,

“Tell Aaron and his sons to be careful about the sacred gifts of the Israelites, which they consecrate to me, and not to profane my holy name, since I am the LORD. Say to them, ‘Anyone at all out of all your descendants throughout your generations who approaches the sacred gifts which the Israelites consecrate to the LORD, while he is unclean, that person shall be cut off from my presence, since I am the LORD. No one at all of the descendants of Aaron, who is a leper, or has a discharge, may eat any of the sacred gifts until he is clean. Whoever touches anyone who has been made unclean through contact with a corpse, or anyone who has had an emission of semen, or anyone who touches any insect through which he may contract uncleanness, or any person through whom he may contract whatever uncleanness he has—the person who touches such shall be unclean until evening, and must not eat of the sacred gifts unless he has bathed his body in water. When the sun sets, he shall be clean, after which he may eat of the sacred gifts for these are his food. Anything that has died a natural death or from being torn, he must not eat to be defiled by it, since I am the LORD. So they must keep my charge, that they may not incur sin in the matter, and die because of it, for profaning it, since it is I, the LORD, who consecrate them. No layman may ever eat a sacred gift; a priest’s serf or hired servant may not eat a sacred gift; but if a priest buys a slave, he may eat of it, and those that are born in his house may eat of his food. If a priest's daughter is married to a layman, she must not eat of the sacred contributions; but if a priest's daughter is a widow or is divorced, and having no child, has returned to her father's home as in her youth, she may eat of her father's food; but no layman may ever eat of it. If anyone eats a sacred gift inadvertently, he must add a fifth to it, and give the sacred gift to the priest. They must not profane the sacred gifts of the Israelites, which they contribute to the LORD, and so make them incur iniquity requiring a guilt-offering by eating their sacred gifts; for it is I, the LORD, who consecrate them."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to Aaron and his sons and all the Israelites, and say to them, 'If anyone at all belonging to the house of Israel or the proselytes in Israel presents his offering, any votive offering or voluntary offering at all of theirs, which they present as a burnt-offering to the LORD—in order that you may be accepted, it must be a perfect male, in the case of either oxen, or lambs, or goats; you must not offer anything that has a blemish on it; for it would not be accepted for you. If anyone offers a thanksgiving sacrifice to the LORD as a special votive offering or voluntary offering, either in oxen or sheep, it must be perfect to be accepted, with no blemish on it at all. Anything blind, or maimed, or mutilated, or suppurating, or scurvy, or scabbed, such you must not offer to the LORD, nor offer any of them on the altar as a sacrifice to the LORD. An ox or a sheep, however, which has a limb too long or too short, you may offer as a voluntary offering, but as a votive offering it will not be accepted. Anything that has its testicles bruised or crushed or torn off or cut off, you must not offer to the LORD: you must not do such things in your land. Neither may you offer any such as food for your God when received from a foreigner; for they are marred; since they have blemishes on them, they will not be accepted for you.'"

The LORD said to Moses,

"When an ox, or a sheep, or a goat, is born, it must remain seven days with its mother, and only from the eighth day onward will it be acceptable as a sacrificial offering to the LORD; and in the case of a cow or ewe, you must not slaughter it and its young on the same day.

"When you make a praise-offering 29 sacrifice to the LORD, you must sacrifice it so as to win acceptance for you; you must eat it that very day, leaving 30 none of it over until morning, since I am the LORD.

"So you must be careful to observe 31 my commands, since I am the LORD. You must not profane my holy name; 32 but I must be hallowed among the Israelites, since it is I, the LORD, who hallow you, who brought you out of the 33 land of Egypt to be your God, I, the LORD."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to the Israelites, and say to 2 them, 'The fixed festivals of the LORD which you must proclaim as religious assemblies—the following are my fixed 3 festivals. For six days work may be done, but on the seventh day there is to be a sabbath of complete rest, a religious assembly, when you must not do any work at all; it is to be a sabbath for the LORD in all your places of abode.

"The following are the fixed 4 festivals of the LORD, the religious assemblies which you must proclaim at their proper season. On the fourteenth day 5 of the first month at twilight is the pass-over to the LORD. On the fifteenth day 6 of the same month is the feast of unleavened cakes to the LORD; for seven days you must eat unleavened cakes. On the first day you must hold a religious assembly, doing no hard work at all; and for seven days you must offer 7 sacrifices to the LORD; on the seventh day there is to be a religious assembly, when you must do no hard work at all.'"

The LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to the Israelites, and say to 10 them, 'When you enter the land which I am about to give you, and reap its harvest, you must bring the sheaf of the first-fruits of your harvest to the priest, who shall wave the sheaf before 11 the LORD that you may be accepted; it is on the day following the sabbath that the priest shall wave it. On the day 12 when you wave the sheaf, you must offer a perfect yearling male lamb as a burnt-offering to the LORD, while its 13

- cereal-offering shall be two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil, as a sacrifice to the LORD, a soothing odor, and its libation shall be a fourth of a hin of wine. You must eat neither bread nor parched grain nor new grain until this same day, until you have brought your God's offering; it is to be a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your places of abode.
- 15 "From the day following the sabbath, from the day that you brought the sheaf of the wave-offering, you must
- 16 count seven full weeks, counting fifty days to the day following the seventh sabbath, and then you must offer a cereal-offering of new grain to the
- 17 LORD. From your dwellings you must bring two loaves of bread as a wave-offering, made of two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour, baked with leaven, as first-fruits for the LORD. With the bread you must offer seven perfect yearling male lambs, one young bullock, and two rams; they are to be a burnt-offering to the LORD, along with their cereal-offering and libations, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD. You must also offer one he-goat as a sin-offering, and two yearling male lambs as a thanksgiving sacrifice; the priest shall wave them along with the bread of the first-fruits as a wave-offering before the LORD, in addition to the two lambs; they are to be sacred to the
- 21 LORD, to the priest. On that same day you must proclaim and hold a religious assembly, when you must do no hard work at all; it is to be a perpetual statute in all your places of abode throughout your generations.
- 22 "When you reap the harvest of your land, you must not reap your field to the very corners, nor gather the gleanings of your harvest; you must leave them for the poor and the resident alien, since I, the LORD, am your God."
- 23 The LORD said to Moses,
- 24 "Say to the Israelites, 'On the first day of the seventh month you must observe a memorial day of complete rest, celebrated by the blowing of trumpets, a religious assembly, when you must do
- 25 no hard work at all, but offer a sacrifice to the LORD.'"
- 26 The LORD said to Moses,
- 27 "On exactly the tenth day of this seventh month is the day of atonement, when you must hold a religious assembly, and mortify yourselves, and offer a sacrifice to the LORD. You must do no work at all on that same day; for it's a day of atonement, or which to make atonement for you before the LORD your God. For every person who will not mortify himself of that same day shall be cut off from his people, and any person who does any work at all on that same day, that person I will destroy from the midst of his people, since you must do no work at all; it is to be a perpetual statute throughout your generations in all your places of abode. You must observe it as a sabbath of complete rest, and you must mortify yourselves; on the ninth day of the month at evening, from evening to the next, you must keep your sabbath."

The LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the Israelites, 'On the fifteenth day of this seventh month is the seven-day feast of booths for the LORD. On the first day there is to be a religious assembly, when you must do no hard work at all. For seven days you must offer sacrifices to the LORD; on the eighth day you must hold a religious assembly, and offer a sacrifice to the LORD; since it is a sacred assembly you must do no hard work at all.

"These are the fixed festivals of the LORD, which you must proclaim as religious assemblies to make offerings to the LORD, a burnt-offering, a cereal offering, a sacrifice, and libations, each on its proper day, in addition to the sabbaths of the LORD, and the gifts, votive-offerings, and voluntary offerings, which you give to the LORD.

"On exactly the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have gathered in the produce of your land, you must observe the feast of the LORD for seven days. On the first day there is to be a sabbath of complete rest, and on the eighth day there is to be a sabbath of complete rest. On the first day you must procure boughs of beautiful trees, branches of palm trees, limbs of leafy trees, and water-willows, and rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days. You must observe it as a feast to the LORD for seven days a year (a perpetual statute throughout your generations), observing it in the seventh month. For seven days you must live in booths; all the native-born in Israel must live in booths, that your descendants may know that it was in booths that I made the Israelites live when I brought them out of the land of Egypt, I, the LORD your God.”

So Moses announced to the Israelites the fixed festivals of the LORD.

The LORD said to Moses,

“Order the Israelites to provide you with pure oil from crushed olives for the light, so that there may always be a lamp to lift in place; in the tent of meeting, outside the veil which screens the decrees, Aaron must keep it continually supplied from evening until morning before the LORD; it is to be a perpetual statute throughout your generations; he must keep the lamps on the lampstand of pure gold continually supplied before the LORD.

“Taking fine flour, you must bake twelve cakes of it, with two-tenths of an ephah to each cake. You must place them in two lots, six in each lot, on the table of pure gold before the LORD, and put pure frankincense on each lot, to serve as memorial bread, a sacrifice to the LORD. Regularly on every sabbath day it must be set out before the LORD—a perpetual covenant on the part of the Israelites. It shall go to Aaron and his sons, who shall eat it in a sacred place; for it is the most sacred part of the LORD’s sacrifices for him, a perpetual due.”

The son of an Israelite woman, whose father was an Egyptian, had come out with the Israelites; the son of the Israelite woman and an Israelite had a quarrel in the camp, and the son of the Israelite woman blasphemed the Name, and cursed, so they brought him to Moses. His mother’s name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, belonging to the tribe of Dan. He was put in custody, so that the LORD’s will might be made clear for them. So the LORD said to Moses,

“Take the one who has cursed outside the camp, and let all who heard him lay their hands on his head, and then let the whole community stone him. To the Israelites themselves say, “When anyone at all curses his God, he must answer for his sin; whoever blasphemes the name of the LORD must be put to death by having the whole community stone him; the proselyte like the native-born must be put to death when he blasphemeth the Name. If anyone takes any other person’s life, he must be put to death. Whoever takes an animal’s life must make it good—a life for a life. If anyone disfigures another, as he did, so it shall be done to him, fracture for fracture, eye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he disfigured the other, so shall he be disfigured. Whoever kills an animal must make it good, but whoever kills a man must be put to death. You shall have the one ordinance, with proselyte and native-born to be treated alike; for I, the LORD, am your God.”

Moses told the Israelites, so they took the one who had cursed outside the camp, and stoned him; the Israelites did as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The LORD said to Moses at Mount Sinai,

“Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, ‘When you enter the land which I am about to give you, the land shall enjoy a sabbath to the LORD. For six years you may sow your field, and for six years prune your vineyard and gather in its produce; but during the seventh year there is to be a sabbath of complete rest for the land, a sabbath to the LORD, when you must not sow your field nor prune your vineyard, nor even reaping the aftergrowth of your harvest, nor gathering the grapes of your undressed vines, since it is to be a year of complete rest for the land. The sabbath of the land, in the matter of working it, shall be incumbent on you yourself, your male and female slaves, your hired laborer and your serf, who live with you, and your live stock, while all its produce shall serve as food for the wild beasts that are in your land.

“You must count seven weeks of years, seven times seven years; you must have a full seven weeks of years, forty-nine years. Then, on the tenth day of the seventh month, you must sound a loud trumpet blast everywhere, sounding the trumpet blast everywhere throughout your whole land on the day of atonement. You must hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout the land to all its inhabitants; it is to be a jubilee for you, when each of you shall return to his own possessions, and each of you shall return to his own

11 family. The fiftieth year shall be a jubilee for you, when you must not sow, nor reap any aftergrowth in it, nor gather grapes from the undressed vines in it; 12 for, being a jubilee, it is to be sacred for you; you must eat its produce out of the 13 field. In this year of jubilee each of you shall return to his own possessions. 14 When you make a sale to your neighbor or a purchase from your neighbor, you 15 must not cheat each other; you must buy from your neighbor on the basis of the number of years that are to follow the jubilee, while he must sell to you on the basis of the number of years for 16 crops; if the years are many, the price shall be proportionately high; if the years are few, the price shall be proportionately low; for it is the number of 17 crops that is to be sold to you. So you must not cheat each other, but stand in awe of your God; for I, the LORD, am your God.

18 "You must observe my statutes, and be careful to observe my ordinances, that you may live in security 19 upon the earth; then shall the earth yield its fruitage, and you shall eat your fill, and live in security upon it. If you should say, "What are we going to eat in the seventh year, seeing that we may 21 not sow, nor gather in our crops?" I will command such a blessing for you in the sixth year that a three years' crop 22 will be produced; then in the eighth year you shall sow, but live on the old crop, eating the old crop until the ninth 23 year's crop comes in. The land must not be sold in perpetuity; for the land is mine, since you are only resident 24 aliens and serfs under me. Hence, throughout all the land that you hold you must allow redemption for the land.

25 "If a fellow-countryman of yours becomes poor, and sells some of his property, his next-of-kin must come and redeem what his countryman sold. 26 If a man has no one to redeem it, but becomes rich enough to find the means 27 to redeem it himself, he must count up the years since its sale, and make a refund for the remainder to the man to whom he sold it, whereupon he may return to his property. But if he does not have sufficient means to recover it, what he sold shall remain in the hands of the purchaser until the year of jubilee; at the jubilee it shall be released, and he shall return to his property.

"If anyone sells a dwelling-house in a walled city, the right to redeem it shall hold until the completion of the year following its sale; the right to redeem it shall hold throughout that time. If it is not redeemed, however, by the completion of a full year, the house in the walled city shall be made over in perpetuity to its purchaser and his descendants, not to be released at the jubilee. But the houses of villages which have no walls around them shall be reckoned as belonging to the country-fields; the right of redemption shall hold for such, and at the jubilee they shall be released. In the case of the cities of the Levites, however, in the case of the houses of the cities in their possession, the Levites shall have a perpetual right of redemption; anything belonging to the Levites may be redeemed, while any houses sold in a city in their possession must be released at the jubilee; for the houses in the cities of the Levites are their property among the Israelites. But the fields in the pasture-lands of their cities may not be sold; for that is their inalienable possession.

"If a fellow-countryman of yours becomes poor, so that his ability to meet his obligation with you fails, and you force on him the status of a resident alien or a serf, and he lives under you, take no interest from him in money or in kind, but stand in awe of your God, while your countryman lives under you. You must not lend him your money at interest, nor give him your food for a return, since I, the LORD, am your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to give you the land of Canaan, and be your God.

"If a fellow-countryman of yours under obligation to you becomes poor, and sells himself to you, you must not make him serve as a slave; he shall have the status of a hired laborer or a serf with you, working for you until the year of jubilee, when he shall be released from your service, along with his children, and return to his own family, and return to his ancestral property; because they are my slaves, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt, they must not be sold as slaves. You must not exert your authority over him harshly, but stand in awe of your God. As for the male and female slaves that you may have, it is only from the nations that surround you that you may buy male and female slaves; although you may also buy them from the children of the serfs who may be living under you, and from their descendants in your employ who may have been born in your land. They may become your property, and you may bequeath them to your children after you to hold as property; you may make permanent slaves of them; but over your fellow-Israelites you must not exert your authority harshly, the one over the other.

"If an alien or a serf under you becomes rich, and a fellow-countryman of yours under obligation to him becomes poor, and sells himself to the alien or serf under you, or to a member of the alien's family, even after he has sold himself, the right of redemption shall hold for him; one of his brothers may redeem him, or his uncle or his uncle's son may redeem him, or any of his near relatives belonging to his family may redeem him, or if he becomes rich enough, he may redeem himself. He shall reckon with his purchaser from the year that he sold himself to him down to the year of jubilee, and the price for his release shall be based on the number of years; he is to have the status of a hired laborer with him. If there are still many years to run, he must refund as redemption for himself a proportionate amount of his purchase price; if there are only a few years left until the year of jubilee, he must make a reckoning with him, refunding as redemption for himself an amount proportionate to the years left him. He shall have the same status with him as that of a laborer hired year by year; he must not exert his authority over him harshly, while you see it. If he is not redeemed in any of these ways, he shall go free at the year of jubilee, along with his children. For it is to me that the Israelites are slaves, being my slaves whom I brought out of the land of Egypt, I, the LORD, your God.

"You must make no idols for yourselves, nor erect a carved image or sacred pillar for yourselves, nor locate a figured stone in your land to pay homage to it; for I, the LORD, am your God. You must keep my sabbaths, and stand in awe of my sanctuary, since I am the LORD.

"If you walk in my statutes, and are careful to observe my commands, I will give rain for you in due season, the land shall yield its crops, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit; threshing shall last for you until the time of vintage, and the time of vintage shall last until sowing time, so that you shall eat all that you want of your food, and live securely in your land. I will establish peace in the land, so that you shall lie down with none to frighten you; I will clear the land of wild beasts, and no sword shall pass through your land; you shall chase your enemies, and they shall fall by the sword before you; five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall chase a myriad, so that your enemies shall fall by the sword before you. I will give my attention to you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you; I will establish my covenant with you. You shall have so much of old stores to eat, that you shall cast out the old to make way for the new. I will set my dwelling in your midst, and will not hold you in contempt, but will move about among you, and be your God, while you shall be my people, since I, the LORD, am your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery to them, and broke the bars of your yoke, and made you walk upright.

"But if you will not listen to me, nor observe all these commands; if you reject my statutes, and treat my ordinances as abhorrent by not observing all my commands, by breaking my covenant, I on my part will do this to you: I will inflict consumption and fever upon you as terrors, exhausting your eyes and depressing your spirits; you shall sow your seed in vain, since your enemies shall consume it. I will set my face against you, so that you shall be laid low before your enemies, and your foes shall rule over you, and you shall flee when no one is pursuing you. If you will not listen to me even for these things, I will punish you seven more times for your sins; I will shatter your vaunted power; I will make your sky like iron, and your earth like bronze, so that your strength shall be spent in vain, since your land shall not yield its crops, nor the trees of the land yield

21 their fruit. If you live at enmity with me, and will not listen to me, I will bring seven more afflictions upon you, 22 as your sins deserve; I will let wild beasts loose among you, that shall rob you of your children, destroy your cattle, and reduce you in numbers, so that 23 your roads shall be desolate. And if by this discipline you are not turned to me, 24 but live at enmity with me, then I in turn will live at enmity with you, and I will afflict you seven times for your 25 sins; I will bring a sword upon you that shall wreak vengeance for the covenant, so that you shall huddle together in your cities; I will send pestilence among you, and you shall be delivered 26 into the power of the enemy. When I deprive you of the sustenance of bread, there will be ten women to bake your bread in a single oven, and your bread shall be doled out in rations, and you shall not have enough to eat to satisfy 27 you. And if you will not listen to me for 28 all this, but live at enmity with me, I will live at fierce enmity with you, and I on my part will punish you seven 29 times for your sins; you will have to eat the flesh of your sons, and the flesh of your daughters, too, you will have to 30 eat; I will destroy your high places, cut down your incense altars, and cast your carcasses on the ruins of your idols; I 31 will abhor you; I will make your cities a waste, and desolating your sanctuaries, I will not smell your soothing 32 odors; I will also desolate the land, so that your enemies who come to live in 33 it shall be amazed at it; while you yourselves I will scatter among the nations, and unsheathe the sword on you, so that your land shall become a desolation and your cities a waste. Then shall 34 the land enjoy its sabbaths, as long as it lies desolate, and you remain in your enemies' land; then shall the land have 35 rest, and enjoy its sabbaths; as long as it lies desolate, it shall have rest, which it did not have on the sabbaths when you 36 lived in it. As for those of you that may be left, I will inject faintness into their hearts in the lands of their enemies, so that the sound of a driven leaf shall chase them, and they shall flee as from the sword, and fall when there is no one 37 in pursuit; they shall trip over one another, as if in flight from the sword, although there is no one in pursuit. You shall have no power to stand before your enemies; you shall perish among the nations; and the land of your enemies shall consume you. Those of you that may be left shall pine away in their enemies' lands because of their iniquity, and also because of their father's iniquities shall they pine away. But if they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers through the perfidy which they committed against me, and also through living at enmity with me, so that I in turn had to live at enmity with them, and bring them into the land of their enemies, or if their uncircumcised heart shall then be humbled, and they shall then make amends for their iniquity, I will remember my covenant with Jacob, my covenant with Isaac too, and my covenant with Abraham also, I will remember, and I will remember the land. But the land shall be deserted by them, and shall enjoy its sabbaths, while it lies desolate without them, and they themselves shall make amends for their iniquity for the reason, for the very reason that they rejected my ordinances, and abhorred my statutes. And yet even so, when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not reject them, nor abhor them, so as to put an end to them by breaking my covenant with them; for I, the LORD, am their God; but in their favor I will remember the covenant with their ancestors, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt in sight of the nations, that I might be their God, I, the LORD.' "

Those were the statutes, ordinances, and laws which the LORD established between himself and the Israelites through Moses at Mount Sinai.

THE COMMUTATION OF VOTIVE OFFERINGS AND DUES, 27:1-34

The LORD said to Moses, "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'When anyone makes a special votive offering to the LORD with the money value of the persons, the valuation of males from twenty years old up to sixty years old shall be, the valuation shall be fifty shekels of silver, in terms of the sacred shekel; if it is a female, the valuation shall be thirty shekels. If they run from five years old up to twenty years old, the valuation of males shall be twenty shekels, and for females ten shekels. If they run from a month old up to five years old, the valuation of males shall be five shekels of silver, and for females the valuation shall be three shekels of silver. If they run from sixty years old and upward, if a male, the valuation shall be fifteen shekels, and for a female ten shekels. But if he is too poor to pay the valuation, he must be set before the priest, and the priest shall value him; the priest shall value him proportionately to what the maker of the yow can afford.

"If it is an animal, of a kind which may be presented as an offering to the LORD, whatsoever anyone gives of such to the LORD shall be taboo; he must not substitute something else for it, nor exchange it, a good one for a bad one, or a bad one for a good one; if he should ever exchange the one animal for another, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall become taboo. If it is any unclean animal at all, of a kind which may not be presented as an offering to the LORD, he shall set the animal before the priest, and the priest shall value it midway between high and low; as the priest values it, so shall it be. If he should ever wish to redeem it, he must add a fifth to the valuation.

"When anyone consecrates his house as sacred to the LORD, the priest shall value it midway between high and low; as the priest values it, so shall it stand. If the one who dedicated his house would redeem it, he must add a fifth of the money value to it, and it shall be his.

"If anyone consecrates to the LORD part of the field that he owns, the valuation shall be proportionate to the seed for it, fifty shekels of silver in the case of a homer of barley seed. If he consecrates his field from the year of jubilee on, it shall stand as valued; but if he consecrates his field after the jubilee, the priest shall reckon for it money proportionate to the years remaining until the next year of jubilee, and a reduction shall be made in the valuation. If the person who consecrated the field should ever wish to redeem it, he must add a fifth of its money value to it, and it shall pass to him. If, instead of re-deeming the field, he has sold the field to another man, it may not be redeemed any more; but the field, when released at the jubilee, shall be sacred to the LORD, like a field that has been devoted; the possession of it shall go to the priest. If one consecrates to the LORD a field that he has bought, which was not a part of his hereditary estate, the priest shall reckon for it the amount of the valuation up to the year of jubilee, and he shall give the valuation on that day as a sacred gift to the LORD. At the year of jubilee the field shall revert to him from whom it was bought, to whom it belonged as hereditary land. Every valuation must be in terms of the sacred shekel, the shekel of twenty gerahs.

"However, a firstling among the animals, which as such belongs to the LORD, no one may consecrate; whether it is ox or sheep, it belongs to the LORD. If it belongs to the unclean animals, it must be bought in at its valuation, with a fifth added to it; and if it is not redeemed, it must be sold at its valuation.

"However, nothing at all which anyone devotes to the LORD out of all his possessions, whether of man or beast, or of field in his heritage, may be sold, or redeemed, since everything devoted is most sacred to the LORD. No one at all of men who becomes devoted may be ransomed; he must be put to death.

"All the dues of the land, whether from the grain of the land or the fruit of the trees, belong to the LORD; they are sacred to the LORD. If anyone should ever wish to redeem any of his dues, he must add a fifth to it. As for all the dues of the herd and flock, all that pass under the staff, the tenth is sacred to the LORD. One must not inquire whether it is good or bad, nor exchange it; if he should ever exchange it, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be taboo, it cannot be redeemed."

These were the commands which the LORD gave Moses for the Israelites at Mount Sinai.

THE BOOK OF NUMBERS

THE CENSUS OF THE ISRAELITES AT SINAI,

1:1—4:49

1 ON the first day of the second month, in the second year after the exodus from the land of Egypt, the LORD said to Moses in the tent of meeting in the desert of Sinai,

2 "Take a census of the whole Israelite community, clan by clan, family by family, counting the various individuals, that is, all the males, a head at a time; all in Israel from twenty years old and upward who can go out to war, you and Aaron must number, company by company. One man from each tribe is to accompany you, each one the head of his family, and the following are the names of the men who are to stand with you: from Reuben, Elizur, the son of Shedeur; from Simeon, Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai; from Judah, Nahshon, the son of Amminadab; from Issacher, Nethanel, the son of Zuar; from Zebulun, Eliab, the son of Helon; from the Josephites—from Ephraim, Elishama, the son of Ammihud, and from Manasseh, Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur; from Benjamin, Abidan, the son of Gideoni; from Dan, Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai; from Asher, Pagiel, the son of Ochran; from Gad, Eliasaph, the son of Deuel; from Naphtali, Ahira, the son of Enan."

16 These were the select men of the community, the leaders of their ancestral tribes, who were the heads of the clans of Israel. Moses and Aaron took these men who have been indicated by name, and assembled the whole community on the first day of the second month, when they had themselves registered by clans, family by family, with the various individuals counted from twenty years old and upward, a head at a time. Moses numbered them in the desert of Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him.

20 The descendants of Reuben, Israel's first-born, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, a head at a time, that is, all the males from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Reuben that were numbered by them were forty-six thousand five hundred. Of the descendants of Simeon, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, a head at a time, that is, all the males from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Simeon that were numbered by them were fifty-nine thousand three hundred. Of the descendants of Gad, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Gad that were numbered by them were forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty. Of the descendants of Judah, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Judah that were numbered by them were seventy-four thousand six hundred. Of the descendants of Issachar, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Issachar that were numbered by them were fifty-four thousand four hundred. Of the descendants of Zebulun, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Zebulun that were numbered by them were fifty-seven thousand four hundred. Of the descendants of Joseph—of the descendants of Ephraim, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Ephraim that were numbered by them were forty thousand five hundred; and of the descendants of Manasseh, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Manasseh that were numbered by them were thirty-two thousand two hundred. Of the descendants of Benjamin, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Benjamin that were numbered by them were thirty-five thousand four hundred. Of the descendants of Dan, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Dan that were numbered by them were sixty-two thousand seven hundred. Of the descendants of Asher, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Asher that were numbered by them were forty-one thousand five hundred. Of the descendants of Naphtali, their registration clan by clan, family by family, as counted by individuals, from twenty years old and upward, all who could go out to war, those of the tribe of Naphtali that were numbered by them were fifty-three thousand four hundred.

These were the ones numbered, whom Moses numbered, along with Aaron and the twelve leaders of Israel, there being one from each tribe, to represent his family. All the Israelites that were numbered family by family, from twenty years old and upward, all in Israel who could go out to war, all that were numbered were six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

The Levites, however, were not numbered by their ancestral tribes along with the others, since the LORD had said to Moses,

"Under no circumstances must you number the tribe of Levi, nor take a census of it with the other Israelites; but you must put the Levites in charge of the dwelling of the decrees and all its equipment and all its belongings; they are to carry the dwelling and all its equipment, and take care of it, en-camping around the dwelling; whenever the dwelling has to move on, the Levites must take it down, and whenever the dwelling has to be pitched, the Levites must put it up; any layman who approaches it must be put to death. The Israelites must encamp by 52 companies, each on his own camping-ground and with his own standard, while the Levites must encamp around 53 the dwelling of the decrees, that there may be no outburst of wrath against the Israelite community; and the Levites must take charge of the dwelling of the decrees."

The Israelites did so; they did just as 54 the LORD commanded Moses.

The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, 2
 "The Israelites must encamp, each 2 by his own standard, marked with the family device, encamping around the tent of meeting facing it. Those who 3 are to encamp on the east side, toward the dawn, are the standard of the camp of Judah, arranged by companies, with Nahshon, the son of Amminadab, as leader of the Judeans, whose host, that 4 is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to seventy-four thousand six hundred. Those who are to encamp 5 next to him are the tribe of Issachar, with Nethanel, the son of Zuar, as leader of the Issacharites, whose host, that 6 is, those in it that were numbered, amounted to fifty-four thousand four hundred. Then the tribe of Zebulun, 7 with Eliab, the son of Helon, as leader of the Zebulunites, whose host, that is, 8 those in it that were numbered, amounted to fifty-seven thousand four hundred. The total number of those 9 belonging to the camp of Judah is one hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred, arranged by companies; they are always to be the first to set out.

"To the south is to be the standard 10 of the camp of Reuben arranged by companies, with Elizur, the son of Shedeur, as leader of the Reubenites, whose host, that is, those in it that 11 were numbered, amounted to forty-six thousand five hundred. Those who are 12 to encamp next to him are the tribe of Simeon, with Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai, as leader of the Simeonites, whose host, that is those of them that 13 were numbered, amounted to fifty-nine thousand three hundred. Then the 14 tribe of Gad with Eliasaph, the son of 15 Deuel, as leader of the Gadites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty. The total number of those belonging to the camp of Reuben is one hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and fifty, arranged by companies; they are always to be the second to set out, after which the tent of meeting is to move forward, with the army of the Levites, in the middle of the other armies; they are to set out exactly as they encamp, each in his place, one standard after another.

18 "To the west is to be the standard of the camp of Ephraim, arranged by companies, with Elishama, the son of Ammihud, as leader of the Ephraimites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to forty thousand five hundred. Next to him is to be the tribe of Manasseh, with Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur, as leader of the Manassites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to thirty-two thousand two hundred. Then the tribe of Benjamin, with Abidan, the son of Gideon, as leader of the Benjaminites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to thirty-five thousand four hundred. The total number of those belonging to the camp of Ephraim is one hundred and eight thousand one hundred, arranged by companies; they are always to be the third to set out.

25 "To the north is to be the standard of the camp of Dan, arranged by companies, with Ahiezer, the son of Amishaddai, as leader of the Danites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to sixty-two thousand seven hundred. Those who are to encamp next to him are the tribe of Asher, with Pagiel, the son of Ochran, as leader of the Asherites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to forty-one thousand five hundred. Then the tribe of Naphtali, with Ahira, the son of Enan, as leader of the Naphtalites, whose host, that is, those of them that were numbered, amounted to fifty-three thousand four hundred. The total number of those belonging to the camp of Dan is one hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred; they are always to set out in the rear, one standard after another."

(Such were the Israelites as numbered by families; the total of the armies as numbered by companies amounted to six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty. The Levites, however, were not numbered with the other Israelites, as the LORD had commanded Moses.)

The Israelites did so: just as the LORD had commanded Moses, they encamped by standards, and they set out clan by clan, family by family.

The following are the descendants of Aaron and Moses at the time that the LORD spoke to Moses on Mount Sinai. These are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab, the first-born, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. These were the names of the sons of Aaron, the priests that were anointed, who were installed to serve as priests. Nadab and Abihu met death at the hands of the LORD, because they offered improper fire before the LORD in the desert of Sinai; they had no children. Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests during the lifetime of their father Aaron.

The LORD said to Moses,

"Have the tribe of Levi come forward and take their stand before Aaron, the priest, to minister to him; they shall do duty for him and for the whole community before the tent of meeting, to look after the dwelling, taking charge of all the equipment of the tent of meeting, as well as the duties for the Israelites, to look after the dwelling. You must assign the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they are to be assigned to him from the rest of the Israelites as servants. Aaron and his sons you are to appoint to take charge of their priestly duties; any layman who dares to approach must be put to death."

The LORD said to Moses,

"See, I am taking the Levites from among the Israelites instead of all the first-born of the Israelites, those who first open the womb; the Levites belong to me, because all the first-born belong to me; at the time that I slew all the first-born in the land of Egypt, I consecrated to myself all the first-born in Israel, both man and beast; they belong to me, to myself, the LORD."

In the desert of Sinai, the LORD said to Moses,

"Number the descendants of Levi by family by family, clan by clan, numbering every male from a month old and upward."

So Moses numbered them by command of the LORD, as he was commanded. The following were the sons of Levi in the order of their names: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari; while these were the names of the sons of Gershon arranged by clans: Libni and Shimei; the sons of Kohath arranged by clans were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, the Uzziel; and the sons of Merari arranged by clans were Mahli and Mushi. These were the clans of the Levites, family by family.

To Gershon belonged the clan of the Libnites, and the clan of the Shimeites; these were the clans of the Gershonites. Those of them that were numbered in the census of all the males, from a month old and upward, those of them that were numbered amounted to seven thousand five hundred. The clans of the Gershonites were to encamp behind the dwelling to the west, with Eliasaph, the son of Lael, as leader of the families (belonging to the Gershonites, and in the tent of meeting the sons of Gershon had to take charge of the dwelling, the tent with its covering, the screen for the doorway of the tent of meeting, the hangings of the court, the screen for the doorway into the court inclosing the dwelling and the altar, and the ropes for it, in short all its appurtenances.

To Kohath belonged the clan of the Amramites, the clan of the Izharites, the clan of the Hebronites, and the clan of the Uzzielites; these were the clans of the Kohathites. Those of them that were numbered in the census of all the males, from a month old and upward, amounted to eight thousand six hundred, who had charge of the sacred objects. The clans of the sons of Kohath were to encamp on the south side of the dwelling, with Elizaphan, the son of Uzziel, as leader of the families belonging to the clans of the Kohathites, and they had to take charge of the ark, the table, the lampstand, the altars, the utensils of the sanctuary that were used for ministering, and the screen, in short all their appurtenances, with Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, as chief leader of the Levites and supervisor of those having charge of the sacred objects.

To Merari belonged the clan of the 33 Mahlites and the clan of the Mushites; these were the clans of Merari. Those 34 of them that were numbered in the census of all the males, from a month old and upward, amounted to six thousand two hundred, with Zuriel, the son of 35 Abihail, as leader of the families belonging to the clans of Merari. They 36 were to encamp on the north side of the dwelling, and the sons of Merari were given charge of the frames of the dwelling, its bars, its columns, its pedestals, and all its fittings, in short all its appurtenances, as well as the columns 37 around the court, their pedestals, pegs, and ropes.

Those that were to encamp in front 38 of the dwelling, to the east, in front of the tent of meeting toward the dawn, were Moses and Aaron with his sons, who had charge of the sanctuary in the matter of duties for the Israelites; any layman who dared to approach was to be put to death.

The total of the Levites numbered, 39 whom Moses and Aaron numbered by command of the LORD, clan by clan, all the males from a month old and upward, amounted to twenty-two thousand.

The LORD said to Moses, 40
"Number all the first-born males of the Israelites from a month old and upward, and take a census of them by individuals. But you are to take the 41 Levites for me, myself, the LORD, instead of all the first-born among the Israelites, and the cattle of the Levites instead of all the first-born among the cattle of the Israelites."

So Moses numbered all the first-born 42 among the Israelites, as the LORD commanded him; and all the first-born 43 males of those that were numbered, as counted by individuals, from a month old and upward, amounted to twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.

Then the LORD said to Moses, 44
"Take the Levites instead of all the 45 first-born among the Israelites, and the cattle of the Levites instead of their cattle, and the Levites shall belong to me, to myself, the LORD. As redemption 46 for the two hundred and seventy-three of the first-born of the Israelites that exceed the number of the Levites, 47 you must take five shekels each per head, taking it in sacred shekels, the 48 shekel of twenty gerahs, and you must give the money for the redemption of those in excess among them to Aaron and his sons."

49 So Moses took the redemption-money from those that were left over from the number redeemed by the Levites, taking from the first-born of the Israelites the sum of one thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels in 50 sacred shekels, and Moses gave the redemption-money to Aaron and his sons at the command of the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

4 Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

2 "Take a census of the Kohathite division of the Levites, clan by clan, 3 family by family, from thirty years old up to fifty, all who entered the service 4 to do work in the tent of meeting. The following are to be the duties of the Kohathites in the tent of meeting with 5 regard to the most sacred object: when the camp is about to break up, Aaron and his sons must go in and take down the veil of the screen and cover the ark 6 of the decrees with it; they must then place a covering of porpoise skin over it, and on top of that spread a cloth made entirely of violet material, and put its 7 poles in place. Over the table of Presence-bread they must spread a cloth of violet material, putting the plates on it, the cups, the flagons, and the libation-bowls, with the ever present bread remaining on it; they must then spread a cloth of scarlet material over them, and cover this with a covering of porpoise 9 skin, and put its poles in place. Taking a cloth of violet material, they must cover the lampstand for the lights, along with its lamps, snuffers, snuff-dishes, and all its oil containers from 10 which it is supplied; they must then put it and all its fittings into a covering of porpoise skin, and place it on a 11 stretcher. Over the gold altar they must spread a cloth of violet material, and then cover it with a covering of porpoise skin, and put its poles in place. 12 Taking all the service utensils that were used in the service in the sanctuary, they must put them in a cloth of violet material, and cover them with a covering of porpoise skin, and place them on a stretcher. They must remove the 1 ashes from the other altar, and spread a purple cloth over it, placing on it all 1 the utensils that were used in the service connected with it, the fire-pans, forks, shovels, and basins, all the utensils of the altar; they must then spread a covering of porpoise skin over it, and put its poles in place. When Aaron and his 11 sons have finished packing up the sacred objects and all the fittings of the sacred objects when the camp breaks up, after that the Kohathites must come to carry them, but without touching the sacred objects themselves, in which case they would die. These are to be the duties of the Kohathites in the tent of meeting. Eleazar, the son of Aaron, 1 the priest, is to have charge of the oil for the lights, the fragrant incense, the ever present cereal-offering, and the anointing oil; he is to have charge of the whole dwelling and of all that is in it, whether it pertains to the sanctuary itself or its fittings."

The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, 1 "Do not cut the tribe of Kohathite 1 families off from the Levites; but that 1 they may live, and not die, when they approach the most sacred objects, deal with them as follows: Aaron and his sons are to go in, assigning to each of them his task and his load; but they 2 themselves must not go in to look on while the sacred objects are being packed, in which case they would die."

The LORD said to Moses, 2 "Take a census of the Gershonites 2; also, family by family, clan by clan, numbering those from thirty years old 2 up to fifty, all who undertook to engage in service to do work in the tent of meeting. The following are to be the 2 duties of the Gershonite clans in serving and carrying: they must carry the 2 curtains of the dwelling, the tent of meeting with its covering and the covering of porpoise skin that is on top of it, the screen for the doorway of the tent of meeting, the hangings of the court, 2 the screen for the doorway of the gate of the court which incloses the dwelling and the altar, with the ropes for them and all the appurtenances connected with their service; whatever needs to be done with these things, they must do. All the duties of the Gershonites, in all that they have to carry and in all that they have to do, are to be under the direction of Aaron and his sons, and you are to appoint the latter over them to look out for what they are to carry. These are to be the duties of the Gershonite clans in the tent of meeting, and their work is to be under the supervision of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest."

"As for the Merarites, you must number them, clan by clan, family by family, numbering those from thirty years old up to fifty, all who entered the service to do the work of the tent of meeting. In the course of all their duties in the tent of meeting the following are to be their responsibility for transport: the frames of the dwelling, with its bars, columns, and pedestals, the columns of the surrounding court, with their pedestals, pegs, and ropes, in short all their fittings and all their appurtenances; you must tell them off individually to the objects that are to be their responsibility for transport. These are to be the duties of the Merarite clans in the course of all their duties in the tent of meeting, under the supervision of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest."

So Moses and Aaron and the leaders of the community numbered the Kohathites clan by clan and family by family, from thirty years old up to fifty, all who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting; and those that were numbered by them, clan by clan, amounted to two thousand seven hundred and fifty. These were the Kohathite clans that were numbered, all who served in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered by the command of the LORD through Moses.

The Gershonites that were numbered, clan by clan, and family by family, from thirty years old up to fifty, all who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting—those of them that were numbered, clan by clan, family by family, amounted to two thousand six hundred and thirty. These were the Gershonite clans that were numbered, all who served in the tent of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the command of the LORD.

The Merarite clans that were numbered, clan by clan, family by family, from thirty years old up to fifty, all who entered the service for work in the tent of meeting—those of them that were numbered, clan by clan, amounted to three thousand two hundred. These were the Merarite clans that were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the command of the LORD through Moses.

All the Levites that were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron and the leaders of Israel numbered, clan by clan, family by family, from thirty years old up to fifty, all who undertook to do the work of serving and the work of transport in the tent of meeting—those of them that were numbered amounted to eight thousand five hundred and eighty. At the command of the LORD through Moses, they were appointed each to his proper task of serving or carrying, those namely that were numbered by him, as the LORD had commanded Moses

VARIOUS LAWS AND REGULATIONS, 5:1—6:27

The LORD said to Moses, "Command the Israelites to drive from the camp every leper, everyone who has a discharge, and everyone unclean through contact with a corpse; you must drive out both male and female, driving them outside the camp, that they may not defile the camp of those in whose midst I myself dwell."

The Israelites did so; they drove them outside the camp; the Israelites did just as the LORD had told Moses.

The LORD said to Moses, "Say to the Israelites, 'If a man or woman commits any of the sins of mankind, by breaking faith with the LORD, and that person becomes conscious of guilt, he must confess the sin that he has committed, and restore his ill-gotten gains in its original amount, adding a fifth to it and giving it to him whom he wronged. But if the man has no next-of-kin to whom the property wrongfully held may be restored, the property wrongfully held that is to be restored must go to the LORD, to the priest, in addition to the atonement ram with which atonement is to be made for him. And every contribution, indeed all the sacred gifts that the Israelites present to the priest shall become his property; anyone's sacred offerings shall become his; whatever anyone gives to the priest becomes his.'"

- 11 The LORD said to Moses,
 12 "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'If any man's wife goes wrong and proves unfaithful to him, and another man lies with her in sexual intercourse, and it is hidden from the eyes of her husband, and she is undetected, although she has defiled herself, and there are no witnesses against her, since she was not caught in the act, and a fit of suspicion comes over him and he becomes suspicious of his wife, since she has defiled herself, or a fit of suspicion comes over him and he becomes suspicious of his wife, although she may not 15 have defiled herself, the man must bring his wife to the priest, and bring her offering for her, a tenth of an ephah of barley meal, without pouring oil on it or adding frankincense to it, since it is a cereal-offering having to do with suspicion, a memorial cereal-offering,
 16 intended to recall iniquity; the priest must then have her come up and take
 17 her stand before the LORD, whereupon the priest must take holy water in an earthen jar, and taking some of the dust that is on the floor of the dwelling, the 18 priest must put it in the water; the priest must then have the woman stand before the LORD, loosening the hair of the woman's head, and putting the memorial cereal-offering in her hands (that is, the cereal-offering having to do with suspicion), with the priest himself holding the water that produces pain,
 19 that brings a curse; the priest must then have her take an oath, saying to the woman, "If no man has lain with you, and if you have not turned aside to indecent acts while married to your husband, be immune to this water that 20 produces pain, that brings a curse; but if you have gone wrong while married to your husband, and if you have defiled yourself, and some man besides your husband has lain with you"—
 21 then the priest must have the woman take the oath of execration, and the priest must say to the woman—"may the LORD make you an execration and an oath among your people by making you have miscarriages, along with a 22 womb easily fertilized; may this water that brings a curse enter your bowels, causing your womb to be easily fertilized, but making you have miscarriages"; and the woman must say, "So be it; so be it." The priest must write these curses in a book, and then wash them off into the water that produces pain; he must make the woman drink the water that produces pain, that brings a curse, so that the water that brings a curse may enter into her and cause pain. The priest must then take the cereal-offering having to do with suspicion from the woman's hand, and wave the cereal-offering before the LORD, and bringing it up to the altar, the priest must take a handful of the cereal-offering as the memorial part of it, and burn it on the altar, after which he must make the woman drink the water. When he has made her drink the water, if she has defiled herself and has been unfaithful to her husband, then the water that brings a curse, on entering into her, shall cause pain, her womb shall become easily fertilized, but she shall have miscarriages, so that the woman shall become an execration among her people. But if the woman is not defiled, but pure, she shall be immune, and shall bear children. This is the law in cases of suspicion, when a woman while married to her husband goes wrong and defiles herself, or when a fit of suspicion comes over a man and he becomes suspicious of his wife, in which case he shall have the woman stand before the LORD, and the priest shall deal with her in strict accord with this law. The man shall be free from guilt, but that woman must answer for her guilt.'"

The LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'If a man or woman makes a special vow, the vow of a Nazirite, to set himself apart to the LORD, he must abstain from wine and liquor, drinking no fermented wine, nor hard liquor, and drinking no grape-juice at all, nor eating fresh grapes or dried; as long as he remains a Nazirite, he must eat nothing that is borne by the grape-vine, neither unripe grapes nor tendrils. As long as his vow to be a Nazirite holds, no razor is to be used on his head; until the time is completed for which he set himself apart to the LORD, he is to be consecrated; he must let the locks of hair on his head hang loose. For all the time that he set himself apart to the LORD

7 he must not come near a dead body; he must not defile himself for his father or mother, for his brother or sister, when they die; for a crown to his God rests on his head. As long as he remains a Nazirite, he remains consecrated to the LORD. If someone should die very suddenly beside him, and he defiles his head with its crown, he must shave his head on the day of his cleansing, shaving it on the seventh day, and on the eighth day he must bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons to the priest at the doorway of the tent of meeting; the priest shall offer one as a sin-offering and the other as a burnt-offering, and so make atonement for him, because he incurred sin through the corpse. That same day he must re-consecrate his head, and set apart to the LORD the period that he was to be a Nazirite, bringing a yearling male lamb as a guilt-offering; the previous period becomes void, since his crown was defiled.

"The following is the law for the Nazirite when the period is completed for which he was to be a Nazirite: he must be brought to the doorway of the tent of meeting, and then he must present his offering to the LORD, one perfect yearling male lamb as a burnt-offering, one perfect yearling ewe-lamb as a sin-offering, one perfect ram as a thank-offering, a basket of unleavened bread, cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers smeared with oil, along with their cereal-offering and libations. The priest must then bring them into the presence of the LORD, offering his sin-offering and his burnt-offering, and offering the ram as a thanksgiving sacrifice to the LORD, with the basket of unleavened cakes, as well as its cereal-offering and libation. Then the Nazirite must shave off the crown of his head at the doorway of the tent of meeting, and taking his crown, the hair of his head, lay it on the fire which is under the thanksgiving sacrifice. The priest must take the shoulder of the ram when it is cooked, one unleavened cake from the basket, and one unleavened wafer, and place them in the hands of the Nazirite after he has shaved off his crown; then the priest must wave them as a wave-offering before the LORD, these being consecrated to the priest, along with the waved breast and the thigh of the contribution. Thereafter the Nazirite may drink wine. This is the law for the Nazirite 21 who takes a vow—his offering to the LORD as a Nazirite, besides anything else that he can afford; he must carry out the terms of the vow that he took in accord with the law pertaining to his position as a Nazirite."

The LORD said to Moses, 22

"Say to Aaron and his sons, 'This is 23 the way that you are to bless the Israelites; say to them,

"The LORD bless you, and guard you; 24

The LORD make his face to shine 25 upon you, and be gracious unto you;

The LORD lift up his countenance 26 upon you, and make you prosper!"

"So shall they invoke my name in be- 27 half of the Israelites, and I will bless them."

THE OFFERINGS OF THE TRIBAL LEADERS,

7:1-89

On the day that Moses had finished 7 the erection of the dwelling, and had anointed and consecrated it and all its equipment, along with the altar and all its equipment, having anointed and consecrated them, the leaders of Israel, 2 the heads of their families (that is, the leaders of the tribes, those that were at the head of those numbered), made offerings, bringing their offerings into 3 the presence of the LORD, six draught wagons and twelve oxen, a wagon for every two leaders and an ox for each of them; and they presented them in front of the dwelling. Then the LORD said 4 to Moses,

"Take the things from them, that 5 they may be used to do the work of the tent of meeting, and give them to the Levites, to each in proportion to the amount of his work."

So Moses took the wagons and oxen, 6 and gave them to the Levites; two 7 wagons and four oxen he gave to the Gershonites in proportion to the amount of their work, and four wagons 8 and eight oxen he gave to the Merarites in proportion to the amount of their work, under the direction of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest; but to the 9 Kohathites he gave nothing, because the care of the sacred objects devolved upon them, and they had to carry them on their shoulders.

- 10 The leaders also presented dedication gifts for the altar on the day that was anointed, making their offerings before 11 the altar, whereupon the LORD said to Moses,

"They must present their offerings, one leader each day, for the dedication of the altar."

- 12 The one who presented his offering on the first day was Nahshon, the son of Amminadab, belonging to the tribe of 13 Judah; his offering was one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as 14 a cereal-offering; one gold cup of ten
15 shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling male
16 lamb, as a burnt-offering; one male

- 24 On the third day came the leader of the Zebulunites, Eliab, the son of Helon, with his offering, one silver plate weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as 26 a cereal-offering; one gold cup of ten
27 shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling male
28 lamb, as a burnt-offering; one male goat
29 as a sin-offering; and as a thanksgiving sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five yearling male lambs.

This was the offering of Eliab, the son of Helon.

This was the offering of Elizur, the son of Shedeur.

On the fifth day came the leader of the Simeonites, Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai, with his offering, one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering; one gold cup of ten shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling male lamb, as a burnt-offering; one male goat as a sin-offering; and as a thanksgiving sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five yearling male lambs. This was the offering of Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai.

On the sixth day came the leader of the Gadites, Eliasaph, the son of Deuel, with his offering, one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering; one gold cup of ten shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling male lamb, as a burnt-offering; one male goat as a sin-offering; and as a thanksgiving sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five yearling male lambs. This was the offering of Eliasaph, the son of Deuel.

On the seventh day came the leader of the Ephraimites, Elishama, the son of Ammihud, with his offering, one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering; one gold cup of ten shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling 52 male lamb, as a burnt-offering; one male

 53 goat as a sin-offering; and as a thanksgiving sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five yearling male lambs. This was the offering of Elishama, the son of Ammihud.

14 On the eighth day came the leader of the Manassites, Gamaliel, the son of 85 Pedahzur, with his offering, one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed
 16 with oil as a cereal-offering; one gold
 17 cup of ten shekels, full of incense; one young bullock, one ram, and one yearling male lamb, as a burnt-offering; one 18 male goat as a sin-offering; and as a thanksgiving sacrifice, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five yearling male lambs. This was the offering of Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur.

10 On the ninth day came the leader of the Benjaminites, Abidan, the son of 11 Gideon, with his offering, one silver plate, weighing one hundred and thirty shekels, one silver basin of seventy shekels, in terms of the sacred shekel, both of them full of fine flour mixed
 12 with oil as a cereal-offering; one gold

22 On the eleventh day came the leader of the Asherites, Pagiel, the son of 88 the animals for thanksgiving sacrifices, twenty-four bullocks, sixty rams, sixty he-goats, and sixty yearling male lambs. This was the dedication-gift for the altar after it was anointed.

When Moses went into the tent of 89 meeting to converse with him, he heard the voice speaking to him from above the propitiatory that was on the ark of the decrees, from between the two cherubim; and he spoke to him.

VARIOUS INSTRUCTIONS,

8:1—10:10

- 8 The LORD said to Moses,
 2 "Speak to Aaron, and say to him,
 'When you put up the lamps, the seven lamps are to shed light on the space in front of the lampstand.'"
- 3 Aaron did so; he put up the lamps of the lampstand so as to shed light on the space in front of it, as the LORD had 4 commanded Moses. And this was the material of the lampstand, gold beaten work, being beaten work in both its base and its calyxes; Moses had made the lampstand in strict accord with the pattern that the LORD had shown him.
- 5 The LORD said to Moses,
 6 "Separate the Levites from the Is-7 raelites, and cleanse them; and this is what you are to do to them in cleansing them: the water for use in case of sin is to be sprinkled on them; they are to use a razor all over their bodies, and wash their clothes, and cleanse them-8 selves; they must then take a young bullock, with its cereal-offering consisting of fine flour mixed with oil, while you take another young bullock as a 9 sin-offering; you must present the Levites before the tent of meeting; assembling the whole Israelite communi-10 ty, you must present the Levites before the LORD; the Israelites shall lay 11 their hands on the Levites, and Aaron shall present the Levites before the LORD as a wave-offering from the Israelites, that they may be qualified to 12 perform the service of the LORD; the Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the bullocks; then sacrifice the one as a sin-offering, and the other as a burnt-offering, to the LORD, to make 13 atonement for the Levites. You must then have the Levites stand before Aaron and his sons, who shall present them as a wave-offering to the LORD.
- 14 Thus shall you separate the Levites from the rest of the Israelites that the 15 Levites may become mine. Thereafter the Levites may enter upon their duties in the tent of meeting, when you have cleansed them, and presented them as a 16 wave-offering; for they have been assigned to me from the rest of the Israelites as servants; I have taken them for myself instead of all who first open the womb, the first-born of all of the Is-17 raelites; for all the first-born among the Israelites belong to me, both man and beast; it was on the day that I slew all the first-born in the land of Egypt that I consecrated them to myself; so I have 18 taken the Levites instead of all the first-born among the Israelites, assigning the 19 Levites from among the Israelites as servants to Aaron and his sons to perform the service for the Israelites in the tent of meeting and to make atonement for the Israelites, so that there may be no plague among the Israelites when the Israelites approach the sanctuary."

Thus did Moses and Aaron and the 20 whole Israelite community to the Levites; the Israelites did to the Levites just as the LORD had given Moses command concerning them. The Levites 21 purified themselves, and washed their clothes; then Aaron presented them as a wave-offering before the LORD, and Aaron also made atonement for them to cleanse them, after which the Levites 22 entered upon the performance of their duties in the tent of meeting as assistants to Aaron and his sons; they did to the Levites just as the LORD had given Moses command concerning them.

The LORD said to Moses, 23

"This is the law which pertains to 24 the Levites: from twenty-five years old and upward he shall enter upon the service connected with the care of the tent of meeting, but after fifty years of 25 age he must retire from active service, and not work any more; he may help his 26 fellows in the tent of meeting in the performance of their duties, but he must do no menial work. This is what you are to do with Levites in the matter of their duties."

At the first new moon of the second year after the exodus from the land of Egypt the LORD said to Moses in the desert of Sinai,

"The Israelites must observe the 27 passover at its proper time; you must 28 observe it at its proper time, on the fourteenth day of this month, at twilight, observing it in conformity with all the statutes and ordinances for it."

So Moses told the Israelites to ob-29 serve the passover; and they accord-30 ingly observed the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, at twilight, in the desert of Sinai; the Israelites did just as the LORD had commanded Moses.

There were some, however, who were unclean through contact with a corpse, and so could not observe the passover on that day. So these men presented themselves to Moses and Aaron that day, and said to him,

"We are unclean through contact with a corpse, why should we be prevented from presenting the offering of the LORD at its proper time along with the other Israelites?"

Moses said to them,

"Wait until I hear what command the LORD has to give concerning you."

So the LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the Israelites, 'If anyone of you or your descendants is unclean through contact with a dead body, or is absent on a journey, he may still offer the passover-sacrifice to the LORD. Such persons are to offer it on the fourteenth day of the second month, at twilight; they must eat it with unleavened cakes and bitter herbs, without leaving any of it over until morning, nor breaking a bone in it, offering it in strict accord with the statute for the passover. Any man, however, who is clean and is not on a journey, and yet fails to offer the passover-sacrifice, that person must be cut off from his people, because he did not present the offering to the LORD at its proper time; that person must answer for his sin.

"If a proselyte is residing with you, and would observe the passover to the LORD, he must follow the statute for the passover and its ordinance; you must have the same statute for the proselyte as for the native born of the land."

On the day that the dwelling was erected the cloud covered the dwelling, that is, the tent of meeting, while at evening it had the form of fire over the dwelling until morning. It was always so; the cloud used to cover it by day, but in the form of fire by night. Whenever the cloud was lifted from the tent, after that the Israelites would set out, and at the place where it stopped, there the Israelites would camp; it was at the bidding of the LORD that the Israelites set out, and it was at the bidding of the LORD that they camped, remaining in camp all the time that the cloud stayed over the dwelling. Even when the cloud stayed over the dwelling for many days, the Israelites would keep the instructions of the LORD, and not set out. Sometimes the cloud would remain a few days over the dwelling. It was at the bidding of the LORD that they camped, and it was at the bidding of the LORD that they set out. Sometimes the cloud would remain from evening until morning, and then the cloud would be lifted in the morning, and they would set out; or it would remain during the daytime, and then at night the cloud would be lifted, and they would set out; or it would remain two days, or a whole month. As long as the cloud stayed over the dwelling, the Israelites would remain in camp, and not set out; but when it was lifted, they would set out. It was at the bidding of the LORD that they camped, and it was at the bidding of the LORD that they set out; they kept the instructions of the LORD in accordance with the LORD'S command through Moses.

The LORD said to Moses,

"Make two silver trumpets, making them of beaten work. You are to use them to summon the community and to start the camps on the march. When both are blown, the whole community shall gather to you at the doorway of the tent of meeting; but if only one is blown, the chieftains, the heads of the clans of Israel, shall gather to you. When you blow an alarm, those encamped on the east side shall set out; when you blow a second alarm, those encamped on the south side shall set out; an alarm is to be blown for them to set out. When convoking the assembly, however, you are to blow without sounding an alarm. The sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow the trumpets, and your use of them shall be a perpetual statute for you throughout your generations. When you engage in war in your own land against an adversary that is oppressing you, you must sound an alarm with the trumpets, so that you may be remembered before the LORD your God, and be saved from your enemies. Also on your days of celebration, on your fixed festivals, and on the first day of the month you must blow the trumpets over your burnt-offerings and thanksgiving sacrifices; they will serve as a reminder for you before your God, since I, the LORD, am your God."

THE JOURNEY FROM SINAI
TO PARAN, 10:11—12:16

11 On the twentieth day of the second month of the second year the cloud was lifted from the dwelling of the decrees; 12 so the Israelites set out from the desert of Sinai in successive stages, until the 13 cloud stopped at the desert of Paran. It was the first time that they ever set out at the bidding of the LORD through 14 Moses. The standard of the camp of the Judeans, arranged by companies, was the first to set out, with Nahshon, the son of Amminadab, in charge of 15 their host, while Nethanel, the son of Zuar, was in charge of the host of the 16 tribe of Issacharites, and Eliab, the son of Helon, was in charge of the host of 17 the tribe of Zebulunites. Whenever the dwelling was taken down, the Gershonites and Merarites, who carried the 18 dwelling, would set out; and then the standard of the camp of Reuben, arranged by companies, would set out, with Elizur, the son of Shedeur, in 19 charge of his host, while Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai, was in charge of the 20 host of the tribe of Simeonites, and Eliasaph, the son of Deuel, was in charge of the host of the tribe of Gad- 21 ites. Then the Kohathites, who carried the sacred objects, would set out, and the dwelling would be erected in antici- 22 pation of their arrival. Then the standard of the camp of the Ephraimites, arranged by companies, would set out, with Elishama, the son of Ammihud, in 23 charge of their host, while Gamaliel, the son of Pedahzur, was in charge of the 24 host of the tribe of Manassites, and Abidan, the son of Gideoni, was in charge of the host of the tribe of Ben- 25 jaminites. Then the standard of the camp of the Danites, arranged by companies, would set out as the rearguard for all the other camps, with Ahiezer, the son of Ammishaddai, in charge of 26 their host, while Pagiél, the son of Oehran, was in charge of the host of the 27 tribe of Asherites, and Ahira, the son of Enan was in charge of the host of the 28 tribe of Naphtalites. This was the order of march for the Israelites when they set out, arranged by companies. 29 Moses said to Hobab, the son of Reuel, the Midianite, the father-in-law of Moses,

"We are setting out for the region of which the LORD said, 'I will give it to you'; come along with us, and we will do well by you; for the LORD has promised Israel prosperity."

But he said to him,

"I will not go; since I must go to my own land and kindred."

"Please do not leave us," he said. 31 "Inasmuch as you know the camping-places for us in the desert, you will serve as eyes for us. And then, if you go with 12 us, when that prosperity comes which the LORD will bring to us, we will do well by you."

Leaving the mountain of the LORD, 33 they journeyed for three days, while the ark of the covenant of the LORD journeyed in front of them for the three days, to look for a resting-place for them, and the cloud of the LORD was 34 over them by day, whenever they set out from the camp.

Whenever the ark would start, Moses 35 would say,

"Arise, O LORD, that thy foes may be scattered,

That those who hate thee may flee before thee."

And whenever it would halt, he would say,

"Halt, O LORD, and bless the clans of Israel."

Now the people were complaining of 1: misfortune in the hearing of the LORD; and when the LORD heard it, his anger blazed, so that the fire of the LORD burned among them, and consumed some of the best parts of the camp. Then the people cried to Moses; so 2 Moses prayed to the LORD, and the fire abated. Hence the name of that 3: place came to be called Taberah [burning], because the fire of the LORD had burned among them.

Now the rabble among them had a 4: craving for flesh, and the Israelites also wept, and said,

"O that we had flesh to eat! We remember the fish that we used to eat for nothing in Egypt, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic; but now we are hungry, and there 6: is not a thing, except that we have the manna to look at."

Now the manna was like coriander 7: seed, and its color was like that of resinous gum. The people used to go about 11 and gather it, then grind it between millstones or pound it in a mortar, boil it in a pot, and make cakes of it; its taste was like that of a cake baked with oil. Whenever the dew fell on the camp at night, the manna used to fall with it.

10 Moses heard the people weeping, family by family, each at the doorway of his tent; the anger of the LORD blazed exceedingly, and Moses was displeased.

11 "Why hast thou been so hard on thy servant?" said Moses to the LORD. "Why have I not found favor with thee, that thou shouldst put the burden of all this people on me? Was it I who conceived all this people? Or was it I who gave them birth, that thou shouldst say to me, 'Carry them in your bosom, as a nurse would carry a sucking child, to the land which thou didst promise on oath to their fathers?' Where can I get flesh to give to all this people? For they weep on my shoulder, saying, 'Give us flesh to eat.' I am not able to carry all this people by myself, because they are too heavy for me. If this is the way thou art going to deal with me, pray kill me at once, if I find any favor with thee, and let me see no more of my trouble."

116 The LORD said to Moses, "Gather to me seventy of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be elders and officers of the people; and bring them to the tent of meeting that they may take their stand there with you. I will come down and speak with you there, and I will withdraw some of the spirit that is upon you and put it upon them, that they may share the burden of the people with you, and you not hear it by yourself. Say to the people, 'Sanctify yourselves in readiness for tomorrow, that you may eat flesh; for you have wept in the hearing of the LORD, saying, "O that we had flesh to eat! For we were prosperous in Egypt.'" So the LORD will give you flesh to eat; you shall eat, not one day, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days, but a whole month, until it comes out of your very nostrils and becomes loathsome to you—because you have spurned the LORD who is in your midst, and have wept before him, saying, "Why did we ever leave Egypt?"'"

21 But Moses said, "The people, among whom I am, are six hundred thousand men on foot, and yet thou sayest, 'I will give them flesh to eat for a whole month.' Can enough 22 flocks and herds be slaughtered for them to be sufficient for them? Or if all the fish of the sea are caught for them, will it be sufficient for them?"

The LORD said to Moses, 23 "Is the LORD's power so limited? You shall see now whether my word will come true for you or not."

So Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD. He gathered seventy elders of the people, and had them stand around the tent. Then the LORD came down in the cloud and spoke to him; he withdrew some of the spirit that was upon him and put it upon the seventy elders, and as soon as the spirit came upon them, they prophesied—but never again. Now two men had been left in the camp, the name of the one being Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. The spirit rested upon them too (they were among those recorded, but had not gone out to the tent), and they prophesied in the camp. Whereupon a youth ran and told Moses.

"Eldad and Medad," he said, "are prophesying in the camp."

So Joshua, the son of Nun, the attendant of Moses from his youth up, spoke up and said,

"My lord Moses, put a stop to them!"

But Moses said to him, 29 "Are you jealous on my account? O that all the LORD's people were prophets, that the LORD might put his spirit upon them!"

Then Moses withdrew to the camp, along with the elders of Israel.

There went forth a wind from the LORD, and bringing quails across from the sea, it dropped them near the camp, about a day's journey on each side all around the camp, and about two cubits thick upon the surface of the ground. All that day and night, and all the next day, the people spent in gathering the quails, the one who got the least gathering ten homers; then they spread them out all around the camp. While the meat was still between their teeth, before it was exhausted, the anger of the LORD blazed against the people, and the LORD smote them with a very great plague. Hence the name of that place came to be called Kibroth-hattaavah [the graves of craving], because it was

- there that they buried the people who had the craving.
- 35 From Kibroth-hattaavah the people set out for Hazeroth, and stayed at Hazeroth.
- 12 Then Miriam and Aaron spoke against Moses because of the Ethiopian woman whom he had married; for he had married an Ethiopian woman.
- 2 "Is it only through Moses alone that the LORD has spoken?" they said. "Has he not spoken through us as well?" And the LORD heard it.
- 3 Now the man Moses was very modest, more so than all men upon the face of the earth.
- 4 Suddenly the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam,
"Come out, you three, to the tent of meeting."
- 5 So the three of them went out, and the LORD came down in a column of cloud, and stood at the doorway of the tent.
"Aaron and Miriam!" he called.
- 6 Whereupon both of them went forward, and then he said,
"Hear my words!
If either of you were a prophet of the LORD,
In visions would I make myself known to him,
In dreams would I speak through him.
- 7 Not so with my servant Moses;
With all my house he has been entrusted;
- 8 Mouth to mouth do I speak with him,
Plainly, and not in riddles,
And the very form of the LORD does he behold.
Why then were you not afraid
To speak against my servant Moses?"
- 9 So the anger of the LORD blazed against them; and when he departed, and the cloud withdrew from the tent, there was Miriam leprous, as white as snow! When Aaron turned to look at Miriam, there she was leprous!
- 11 "O my lord!" Aaron said to Moses, "do not punish us for the folly that we have done and the sin that we have committed. Do not let her become like one dead, who when coming forth from his mother's womb has half his flesh consumed."
- 13 So Moses cried to the LORD,
"Pray, O God, heal her!"
- 14 But the LORD said to Moses,
"If her father had but spit in her face, would she not hide in shame for seven days? Let her be shut up for seven days outside the camp, and after that she may be taken back."

So Miriam was shut up for seven days outside the camp, and the people did not start again until Miriam was taken back. After that, however, the 16 people set out from Hazeroth, and camped in the desert of Paran.

THE STORY OF THE SPIES,

13:1—14:45

Then the LORD said to Moses, 13
"Send men to spy out the land of 2 Canaan, which I am going to give the Israelites; you must send a man from each of their ancestral tribes, everyone a chieftain among them."

So Moses despatched them from the 3 desert of Paran in accordance with the command of the LORD, all of them being head men of the Israelites. The fol- 4 lowing were their names: from the tribe of Reuben, Shammua, the son of Zac- 5 cur; from the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat, the son of Hori; from the tribe of Judah, 6 Caleb, the son of Jephunneh; from the tribe of Issachar, Igal, the son of Jo- 7
seph; from the tribe of Ephraim, Ho- 8
shea, the son of Nun; from the tribe of 9
Benjamin, Palti, the son of Raphu; from the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel, the 10 son of Sodi; from the tribe of Joseph 11
(that is, from the tribe of Manasseh),
Gaddi, the son of Susi; from the tribe of 12
Dan, Ammiel, the son of Gemalli; from 13
the tribe of Asher, Sethur, the son of Michael; from the tribe of Naphtali, 14
Nahbi, the son of Vophsi; from the tribe 15 of Gad, Geuel, the son of Machi. These 16 were the names of the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, but Moses called Hoshea, the son of Nun, Joshua.
When Moses sent them to spy out the 17
land of Canaan, he said to them,

"Go up now into the Negeb; go up into the highlands, and see what the 18 land is like, and whether the people who are living in it are strong or weak, whether they are few or many; and 19 what the land is like in which they are living, whether it is good or bad; and what the cities are like in which they are living, whether it is in camps or in strongholds; and what the land is like, 20 whether it is rich or poor, whether there is wood in it or not. Do your best to get some of the fruit of the land." (Now the season was that of the first ripe grapes.)

1 So they went up, and spied out the land from the desert of Zin as far as Rehob, toward the approach to Hamath. They went up into the Negeb, and reached Hebron, where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the sons of Anak, lived. (Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) Reaching the valley of Eshcol, they cut a branch from there with a single cluster of grapes, and it took two of them to carry it on a stretcher, along with some pomegranates and some figs. That place came to be called the valley of Eshcol [cluster] because of the cluster which the Israelites cut from there.

5 At the end of forty days they came back from spying out the land. They left and came to Moses and Aaron and the whole Israelite community in the desert of Paran, at Kadesh; they brought back a report to them and the whole community, and showed them the fruit of the land.

7 "We reached the land to which you sent us," they told him, "and it surely does flow with milk and honey, and here is its fruit. The people, however, who live in the land are strong, and the cities are fortified and very large; and besides, we saw the Anakim [giants] there. Amalek is living in the land of the Negeb, and the Hittites, Jebusites, and Amorites are living in the highlands, while the Canaanites are living along the sea and the banks of the Jordan."

10 Caleb, however, broke through the people to Moses, and said,

"We ought to go up and seize it; for we are quite able to do so."

11 But the men who went up with him said,

"We are not able to go up against the people; for they are too strong for us."

12 So they gave the Israelites a bad report of the land that they had spied out; saying,

"The land through which we passed in spying it out is a land that destroys its inhabitants, and all the people that we saw in it are men of great stature.

13 We saw the Nephilim [titans] there (the Anakim belong to the Nephilim); to ourselves we looked like grasshoppers, and we must have looked the same to them."

Then the whole community lifted up 14 their voices and cried; the people wept that night; the Israelites all grumbled 2 against Moses and Aaron.

"Would that we had died in the land of Egypt!" the whole community said to them. "Or would that we had died in this desert! Why is the LORD bringing us into this land, only to fall by the sword? Our wives and little ones will become a prey. Would it not be better for us to return to Egypt?" "Let us take our own course and return to Egypt," they said to one another.

Then Moses and Aaron fell on their 5 faces before the whole assembly of the Israelite community, while Joshua, the son of Nun, and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, who belonged to those who had spied out the land, tore their clothes, and said to the whole Israelite 7 community,

"The land through which we passed in spying it out is a very, very fine land. If the LORD is pleased with us, he will 8 bring us into this land, and give it to us—a land which flows with milk and honey. Only do not rebel against the 9 LORD; and do not be afraid of the people of the land; for they will simply be food for us; their protection has left them, while the LORD is with us; do not be afraid of them."

But the whole community had deter- 10 mined to stone them, when the glory of the LORD appeared to all the Israelites at the tent of meeting.

"How long are this people going to despise me?" the LORD said to Moses. "How long is it that they are not going to trust me, in spite of all the signs that I performed in their midst? I will smite 12 them with pestilence, and disinherit them, and I will make you into a nation greater and stronger than they."

But Moses said to the LORD, 13

"When the Egyptians hear of it (for thou didst bring this people out of their midst by thy might), they will say— 14 when all the inhabitants of this land have heard that thou, LORD, art in the midst of this people, thou, LORD, being one who is seen eye to eye, while thy cloud stands over them, and thou thyself goest before them in a column of cloud by day and a column of fire by night—indeed, if thou slayest this peo- 15

ple to a man, the nations who have 16 heard about thee will say, 'It was because the LORD could not bring this people into the land which he prom-17 ised on oath to them that he slaughtered them in the desert.' But now, pray let the forbearance of the Lord be as great as thou didst declare in saying, 18 'The LORD is slow to anger, abounding in kindness, forgiving iniquity and transgression, without leaving it completely unpunished, however, but avenging the iniquity of fathers upon their children down to the third or even 19 the fourth generation.' Pray pardon the sin of this people in accordance with thine abundant kindness, even as thou hast forgiven this people from Egypt until now."

20 So the LORD said,
 "I will pardon them in accordance 21 with your request; but as surely as I live and the whole earth is full of the 22 glory of the LORD, none of the men who have seen my glory and my signs which I performed in Egypt and the desert, and yet have put me to the test for ten times now, and have not heeded my in-23 junctions, shall see the land which I promised on oath to their fathers, and none of those who despised me shall see 24 it. But my servant Caleb, because he is of a different spirit, and has corroborated me, I will bring into the land which he entered, and he shall pass it on as a heritage to his descendants.
 25 Since, however, the Amalekites and Canaanites are living in the valleys, turn tomorrow, and set out for the desert in the direction of the Red Sea."

26 The LORD said to Moses and Aaron,
 27 "How long is this wicked community going to keep up their grumbling against me? I have heard the grumbling of the Israelites which they have 28 been muttering against me. Say to them, 'As I live'—it is the oracle of the LORD—"I will do to you just as I have 29 heard you say: your corpses shall fall in this desert, and none of you that were numbered, none of you that were counted from twenty years old and upward, 30 who have grumbled against me, shall enter the land in which I swore by uplifted hand to settle you, except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the 31 son of Nun. Your little ones, however, who you said would become a prey, I will bring in, and they shall come to know the land that you have despised.

 But as for yourselves, your corpses shall fall in this desert, while your children shall be shepherds for forty years in the desert, and shall suffer for your wantonness, until the last of your corpses lies in the desert. According to the number of the days that you took to spy out the land, forty days, one year for each day shall you suffer for your iniquities, that is, forty years, and you shall experience opposition from me. I, the LORD, declare that this is what I will do to all this wicked community that are gathered against me: in this desert they shall die to the last man."

So the men whom Moses had sent to spy out the land, and who on their return made the whole community grumble against him by giving out a bad report concerning the land, the men who gave out a bad report of the land died
 by a plague at the hands of the LORD;
 but Joshua, the son of Nun, and Caleb,
 the son of Jephunneh, remained alive out of those men who went to spy out the land.

When Moses told these things to all the Israelites, the people mourned greatly. Next morning they rose early, and proceeded up to the mountain
 headlands, saying,

"Here we are, ready to go up to the place of which the LORD spoke; for we have indeed sinned."

But Moses said,

"Why is it that you go on violating the injunctions of the LORD, when that cannot succeed? Do not go up, lest you be struck down in front of your enemies; for the LORD will not be in the midst of you. For the Amalekites and 33 Canaanites will face you there, and you will fall by the sword, inasmuch as you have turned from following the LORD,
 so that the LORD will not be with you."

But they presumptuously went up to the mountain headlands, although neither the ark of the covenant of the LORD nor Moses left the camp. Then 35 the Amalekites and Canaanites who were living in those highlands came down and attacked them, and harried them all the way to Hormah.

MISCELLANEOUS LAWS AND NARRATIVES, 15:1—19:22

The LORD said to Moses,

“Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, ‘When you come into your homeland which I am giving you, and would make an offering to the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a sacrifice as a special votive offering or as a voluntary offering, or an offering at your stated festivals, to make a soothing odor to the LORD with an ox or a sheep, the person making the offering must present as a cereal-offering to the LORD a tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a fourth of a hin of oil, and as wine for the libation, you must supply a fourth of a hin with the burnt-offering or sacrifice for each lamb. Or in the case of a ram, you must supply as a cereal-offering two tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a third of a hin of oil, and as wine for the libation you must present a third of a hin as a soothing odor to the LORD. When you provide a bullock as a burnt-offering, or as a sacrifice as a special votive offering, or as a thank-offering to the LORD, there must be presented as a cereal-offering with the bullock three tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil, and as wine for the libation you must present half a hin as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD. This is what is to be done in the case of each bullock or ram or lamb or kid; according to the number that you provide, this is what you are to do in the case of each, whatever their number. Every native born is to do these things in this way, in presenting a sacrifice as a soothing odor to the LORD; and if there is a proselyte who resides with you, or one living permanently in your midst, and he wishes to make a sacrifice as a soothing odor to the LORD, he must do just as you do. As for the community, there shall be the one statute for you and the proselyte, a perpetual statute throughout your generations; the proselyte and you shall be alike before the LORD; there shall be one law and one ordinance for you and the proselyte residing with you.’”

The LORD said to Moses,

“Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, ‘When you come into the land to which I am bringing you, then, when you eat of the food of the land, you must set aside a portion for the LORD; in the case of the first batch of baking you must set aside a cake as a contribution, setting it aside as a contribution from the threshing-floor; out of your first batch of baking you must give a portion to the LORD throughout your generations.

“If you should make a mistake and not carry out all these commands that the LORD has communicated to Moses, all that the LORD commanded you through Moses, from the day that the LORD first gave you a command, down through your various generations, then, if it was done inadvertently, through lack of knowledge on the part of the community, the whole community must offer one bullock as a burnt-offering, as a soothing odor to the LORD, along with the cereal-offering and libation as prescribed for it, and one he-goat as a sin-offering. Then the priest shall make atonement for the whole Israelite community, and they shall be forgiven; for it was a mistake, and they have brought their offering as a sacrifice to the LORD, and their sin-offering into the presence of the LORD for their mistake. So the whole Israelite community shall be forgiven, including the proselyte who resides among them; for in the case of a mistake he is included in the sum total of the people.

“If an individual sins inadvertently, he must offer a yearling she-goat as a sin-offering, and the priest shall make atonement before the LORD for the person that made a mistake, in sinning inadvertently, making atonement for him that he may be forgiven. In the case of either the native born among the Israelites or the proselyte who resides among them, you must have the one law for him who does anything inadvertently. But the person who sins willfully, whether he belongs to the native born or the proselyte, is reviling the LORD, so that person must be cut off from his people. Because it is the word of the LORD that he has despised, and his command that he has broken, that person must be completely cut off, his iniquity being on his own head.’”

When the Israelites were in the desert, they found a man gathering wood on the sabbath day. Those who found him gathering wood brought him to 34 Moses and Aaron and the whole community, and they put him in custody, because it had not been clearly explained what should be done to him.

35 Then the LORD said to Moses, "The man must be put to death by having the whole community stone him outside the camp."

36 So the whole community took him outside the camp, and stoned him to death, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

37 The LORD said to Moses,

38 "Speak to the Israelites and tell them that throughout their generations they must make tassels for themselves on the corners of their garments, fastening the tassel to each corner with a violet string. They shall serve you as tassels to look at and by which to be reminded to carry out all the commands of the LORD and not to follow your own desires and fancies, which you

39 used to follow so wantonly, in order that you may remember to carry out all my commands, and be consecrated to

40 your God, since I, the LORD, am your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt to become your God, I, the LORD, your God."

16 Now Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, along with Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, the son of Reuben, became arrogant and took their stand before Moses, along with two hundred and fifty of the Israelites, leaders of the community, picked men of the assembly, men of note. They gathered in a body against Moses and Aaron, and said to them,

"Enough of you; for all the community are holy, every one of them, since the LORD is in their midst; why then do you exalt yourselves above the LORD'S assembly?"

4 When Moses heard this, he fell on his face; then he said to Korah and all his company,

"In the morning the LORD will show who belongs to him and who is holy, that he may have him come near him; and whomsoever he chooses he will have come near him. Do this: take fire-pans (that is, Korah and all his company), and putting fire in them, place incense upon them in the presence of the LORD tomorrow; and then the man whom the LORD chooses shall be the holy one. Enough of you, you Levites!"

"Listen, you Levites," said Moses to Korah, "is it too little for you that the God of Israel has singled you out from the community of Israel to have you come near him to look after the LORD'S dwelling, and to stand before the community to serve them, and that he has had you come near him, and all your fellow-Levites with you, that you should seek the priesthood as well? It is accordingly against the LORD that you and all your company are gathered; for what is there about Aaron that you should grumble against him?"

Moses sent for Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, but they said,

"We will not go up. Is it such a trifle that you have brought us up from a land flowing with milk and honey to kill us in the desert, that you should also play the prince over us? Moreover, you have not brought us into a land flowing with milk and honey, nor given us a heritage of fields and vineyards. Are you trying to blind the eyes of these men? We will not go up."

Then Moses became very angry, and said to the LORD,

"Pay no attention to an offering from them. Not a single ass have I taken from them, nor done any harm to any of them."

Moses said to Korah,

"Tomorrow you and all your company are to appear before the LORD—you, and they, and Aaron; each of you take his fire-pan, and putting incense on it, each of you is to bring his fire-pan before the LORD, that is, two hundred and fifty fire-pans; you also, and Aaron, each with his fire-pan."

So each of them took his fire-pan, and putting fire on them, they placed incense on them, and then took their stand at the doorway of the tent of meeting, along with Moses and Aaron. Korah had gathered the whole community against them at the doorway of the tent of meeting, whereupon the glory of the LORD appeared to the whole community. Then the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

"Separate yourselves from this community that I may consume them instantly."

But they fell on their faces, and said, "O God, the God of the spirits of all mankind, when only one man sins, shouldst thou become angry with the whole community?"

So the LORD said to Moses,

"Say to the community, 'Withdraw from the neighborhood of the dwelling where Korah, Dathan, and Abiram are.'"

Moses rose and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed him. Then he said to the community,

"Move away from the tents of these wicked men, and do not touch anything at all that belongs to them, lest you be swept away with all their sins."

So they withdrew from the neighborhood of the dwelling where Korah, Dathan, and Abiram were.

As Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the doorways of their tents, with their wives and sons and little ones, Moses said,

"Hereby shall you know that the LORD has sent me to do all these deeds, and that it has not been of my own choice: if these men die as all men die, and suffer the fate of all men, it is not the LORD who has sent me; but if the LORD does something new, and the ground opens its mouth, and swallows them up, with all that belongs to them, and they descend into Sheol alive, then you shall know that these men have despised the LORD."

And then, just as he finished saying these words, the ground under them split open; the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, with all their households, and all the men who belonged to Korah and all their goods. So they and all that belonged to them descended into Sheol alive; and the earth closed over them, and they perished from the community. Then all the Israelites that were in their neighborhood fled at their cries; "Lest," said they, "the earth swallow us up."

Fire having come forth from the LORD, it consumed the two hundred and fifty men offering the incense.

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"Tell Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, to pick up the fire-pans out of the conflagration, and then you must scatter the fire far and wide; for these sinners have made the fire-pans taboo at the cost of their lives. So they must be made into beaten plates as a covering for the altar, that they may become a sign to the Israelites; for they were presented before the LORD, and so have become taboo."

So Eleazar, the priest, took the bronze fire-pans which those who had been burned had presented, and they were beaten out as a covering for the altar, a reminder to the Israelites, so that no layman, who was not one of the descendants of Aaron, might draw near to burn incense before the LORD, lest he fare like Korah and his company—just as the LORD had directed him through Moses.

But next day the whole Israelite community grumbled against Moses and Aaron, saying,

"It is you who have slain the LORD'S people."

But when the community gathered against Moses and Aaron, they turned toward the tent of meeting, and there was the cloud covering it and the glory of the LORD visible! Then Moses and Aaron came to the front of the tent of meeting, whereupon the LORD said to Moses,

"Withdraw from this community, that I may instantly consume them."

But they fell on their faces, and Moses said to Aaron,

"Take your fire-pan, put fire from the altar on it, place incense on it, and then carry it quickly to the community, and make atonement for them; for wrath has gone forth from the LORD; the plague has begun."

So Aaron took it, as Moses had said, and ran into the midst of the community, but the plague had already begun among the people; he put on the incense, and making atonement for the people, he stood between the living and the dead, so that the plague was checked. But those who died from the plague amounted to fourteen thousand seven hundred, in addition to those who died in the affair of Korah. Then Aaron returned to Moses at the doorway of the tent of meeting, now that the plague had been checked.

The LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to the Israelites, and take from them one staff for each clan, in all twelve staffs from the leaders of their clans, writing the name of each upon his staff, and Aaron's name upon the staff of Levi (for there is to be a special

4 staff for the head of their clan); you must then deposit them in the tent of meeting in front of the decrees, where I am accustomed to meet you; and then the staff of the man whom I choose shall sprout. Thus will I rid myself of the grumbling of the Israelites, which they have been muttering against you."

5 So Moses spoke to the Israelites, and they gave him one staff for every one of the leaders of their clans, twelve staffs in all, with Aaron's staff among theirs.

7 Then Moses deposited the staffs before the LORD in the tent of the decrees; and next day, when Moses entered the tent of the decrees, he found that the staff of Aaron, representing the clan of Levi, had sprouted, it had put forth sprouts, it had produced blossoms and sprouts, it had produced blossoms and sprouts ripe almonds. Moses then brought out all the staffs from the presence of the LORD to all the Israelites, and having inspected them, each of them took his staff.

10 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Put Aaron's staff back in front of the decrees, to be kept as a sign for the rebels; and you must rid me of their grumbling, that they die not."

11 Moses did so; he did just as the LORD commanded him.

12 The Israelites said to Moses, "We perish! We are lost, we are all lost! If everyone who dares to approach the dwelling of the LORD is to die, shall we ever cease dying?"

18 So the LORD said to Aaron, "You and your sons, along with your clan, shall answer for any guilt in connection with the sanctuary, and you and your sons with you shall answer for any guilt in connection with your priesthood. Have your fellows too, the tribe of Levi, your ancestral tribe, present themselves with you, that they may be associated with you, and minister to you, while you and your sons with you are in front of the tent of the decrees; they shall attend to you and all the tent; only they must not come near the sacred vessels or the altar, that neither they nor you die. They shall be associated with you, and take charge of the tent of meeting in all the work connected with the tent, since no layman may come near you. You are to take charge of the sanctuary and the altar, that wrath may never again fall on the Israelites. For my part, see, I have selected your fellow-Levites from the Israelites as a gift for you, made over to the LORD to look after the tent of meeting, while you and your sons with you must reserve your priestly functions for everything connected with the altar and inside the veil, and look after them. It is a lucrative office that I am making your priesthood, while any layman who draws near shall be put to death."

Then the LORD said to Aaron,

"For my part, see, I give you the office connected with the contributions to me; in the case of all the sacred gifts of the Israelites, I give them to you as your share, and to your sons as your perpetual due. The following is to go to you from the most sacred offerings, from the sacrifices: in the case of every offering of theirs, that is, every cereal offering of theirs, in the case of every sin-offering of theirs, and every guilt-offering of theirs with which they make restitution to me, it shall be most sacred to you and your sons; as a most sacred thing shall you eat it, that is, every male eating it, since it is sacred to you. This also shall be yours, the contributions from their gift in the case of every wave-offering of the Israelites; I give it to you, and to your sons and daughters with you, as your perpetual due, to be eaten by everyone in your family who is clean. All the best of the oil, all the best of the wine and grain. The first-fruits which they give to the LORD, I give to you. The first-ripe fruits of all that is in their land which they bring to the LORD shall be yours, to be eaten by everyone in your family who is clean. Every devoted thing in Israel is to go to you. Everything that first opens the womb, in the case of every creature that they offer to the LORD, whether man or beast, shall be yours; only you must be sure to have the first-born of man redeemed, and the first-born of unclean animals you must have redeemed. The redemption-price of the former (you must have them redeemed at a month old) shall be fixed by you at five shekels of silver in terms of the sacred shekel, which is twenty gerahs. The firstling of a cow, however, or the firstling of a sheep, or that of a goat, you must not have redeemed, since they are sacred; you must dash their blood upon the altar, and burn their fat in sacrifice as a soothing odor to the LORD; but their flesh shall be yours, becoming yours like the waved breast and the right thigh. All the contributions from the sacred gifts which the Israelites contribute to the LORD, I give to you, and to your sons and daughters with you, as your perpetual due, to be an inviolable covenant forever before the LORD for you and your family with you."

The LORD said to Aaron,

"You are to have no heritage in their land, nor own any property among them; I am to be your property and heritage among the Israelites. To the Levites, however, I give all the dues in Israel as their heritage, in return for the service that they perform in connection with the tent of meeting. The Israelites must never again come near the tent of meeting, to answer for their sin by death, but the Levites alone shall look after the tent of meeting, while the rest shall answer for their iniquity. It is to be a perpetual statute throughout your generations that they are to have no heritage among the Israelites; for the dues which the Israelites contribute to the LORD I give to the Levites as a heritage; that is why I have told them that they are not to have any heritage among the Israelites."

The LORD said to Moses,

"You must speak to the Levites, and say to them, 'When you take from the Israelites the dues that I have given you from them as your heritage, you must set apart some of it as a contribution to the LORD, a due from the dues. The contribution made to you is to be credited to you like the grain from the threshing-floor, or the produce of the winepress; in the same way you, too, must set apart some of all the dues that you receive from the Israelites as a contribution to the LORD, and give the LORD's contribution from it to Aaron, the priest. From all the gifts made to you, from the best of them, you must set apart the LORD's full contribution, the most sacred of them.' Also say to them, 'When you have contributed the best of them, the rest is to be credited to the Levites as in the case of the produce of the threshing-floor and that of the winepress; you may eat it anywhere, you and your households; for it is your reward in return for your services at the tent of meeting. You will not have to answer for any sin through it when you set apart the best of it; but you must not profane the sacred gifts of the Israelites, that you die not.'"

The LORD said to Moses and Aaron, 19

"This is the statute of the law which the LORD has commanded: 'Tell the Israelites to bring you a red cow, sound, in which there is no defect, and upon which a yoke has never come; you must then give it to Eleazar, the priest, to be taken outside the camp, and slain in his presence. Eleazar, the priest, shall take some of its blood with his finger, and sprinkle some of its blood toward the front of the tent of meeting seven times. The cow is then to be burned in his sight; its hide, flesh, and blood, as well as its offal, are to be burned, and the priest is to take cedar wood, hyssop, and scarlet string, and throw them into the burning body of the cow. Then the priest is to wash his clothes, and bathe his body in water, after which he may re-enter the camp, but the priest shall remain unclean until evening. He who burns it must also wash his clothes in water, and bathe his body in water, and shall remain unclean until evening. A man that is clean shall gather up the ashes of the cow, and deposit them in a clean place outside the camp, to do duty for the Israelite community as water for impurity, to be used in the case of sin. He who gathers the ashes of the cow must wash his clothes, and shall remain unclean until evening. This is to be a perpetual statute for the Israelites and the proselytes who reside among them. Anyone who touches a dead body, that is, any human body, shall remain unclean for seven days; on the third day and the seventh day he must cleanse himself from sin with it, and so become clean; if he does not cleanse himself from sin on the third day and the seventh day, he will not become clean. Whoever touches a dead body, the corpse of a man who may have died, and does not cleanse himself from sin, since he has polluted the dwelling of the LORD, that person must be cut off from Israel; because the water used for impurity was not thrown over him, he remains unclean, his uncleanness being still with him.

"This is to be the law when a man dies in a tent: everyone entering the tent and everyone in the tent shall be

- 15 unclean for seven days; and every open vessel which has no cover tied down on it shall be unclean. Also, whoever in the open fields touches a person slain by the sword, or one who has died a natural death, or a human bone, or a grave, shall be unclean for seven days. Then some of the ashes prepared for use in case of sin are to be taken, and fresh water is to be added to them in a vessel; a man that is clean must then take hyssop, dip it into the water, and sprinkle it upon the tent, upon all the furniture, and upon the persons that were present, and him who touched the bone, or the person slain, or the person dead from natural causes, or the grave; the clean person must sprinkle it upon the unclean person on the third day and the seventh day, thus cleansing him from sin on the seventh day; he must then wash his clothes, and bathe himself in water, and at evening he shall be clean.
- 20 But the man who becomes unclean and does not cleanse himself from sin, that person shall be cut off from the community, because he has polluted the sanctuary of the LORD; since the water for use in case of impurity was not thrown over him, he remains unclean.
- 21 This shall be a perpetual statute for them. He who sprinkles the water for use in case of impurity must wash his clothes, while he who touches the water for use in case of impurity shall remain unclean until evening; whatever the unclean person touches shall become unclean, and the person who touches it shall remain unclean until evening."

THE LATER YEARS OF THE DESERT JOURNEY,

20:1—27:23

- 20 In the first month the Israelites, the whole community of them, arrived at the desert of Zin, and the people established themselves at Kadesh. Miriam died there, and was buried there. Since there was no water for the community, they gathered in a body against Moses and Aaron; and the people found fault with Moses.
- "Would that we had perished when our fellows perished at the hands of the LORD!" they said. "Why have you brought the LORD's community into this desert, to die there, both we and our cattle? Why have you brought us up out of Egypt, to bring us to this wretched place, since it is no place for grain, or figs, or vines, or pomegranates, nor is there any water to drink?"

Then Moses and Aaron came away from the presence of the assembly to the doorway of the tent of meeting, and fell on their faces, whereupon the glory of the LORD appeared to them, and the LORD said to Moses,

"Take the staff, and assemble the community, you and your brother Aaron; and then in their presence tell the rock to yield its waters; you shall produce water from the rock for them, and thus give the community and their cattle a drink."

So Moses took the staff from its place before the LORD, as he had commanded him. Then Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly in front of the rock, and he said to them,

"Listen, you rebels; is it from this rock that we have to produce water for you?"

And raising his hand, Moses struck the rock with his staff twice, whereupon water in abundance gushed out, and the community and their cattle drank.

But the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

"Because you did not trust me by paying me due honor in the presence of the Israelites, that is why you shall not bring this community into the land which I have given them."

These are the waters of Meribah [finding fault], where the Israelites found fault with the LORD, but where he vindicated himself among them.

From Kadesh Moses sent messengers to the king of Edom:

"Thus says your brother Israel: 'You know all the hardships that have befallen us, how our fathers went down to Egypt, how we remained a long time in Egypt, how badly the Egyptians treated us and our fathers, and how, when we cried to the LORD, he heeded our cry, and sent an angel to bring us out of Egypt. So here we are at Kadesh, a city on the edge of your territory. Pray let us pass through your land; we will not pass through field or vineyard, nor drink the water of the wells; we will go only by the royal road, turning neither to the right nor to the left, until we cross your territory.'"

But Edom said to him,

"You must not pass through my territory, lest I come out with the sword against you."

"We will go up only by the road," the Israelites said to him; "and if we drink any of your water, we and our live stock, we will pay for it; let us just walk through, a matter of no consequence."

But he said,

"You shall not pass through."

So Edom came out against them with a large army and a strong force. Thus Edom refused to grant Israel passage through his territory; so Israel turned aside from him.

The Israelites then set out from Kadesh, the whole community of them, and came to Mount Hor. At Mount Hor, near the frontier of the land of Edom, the LORD said to Moses and Aaron,

"Aaron is to be gathered to his fathers; for he is not to enter the land which I have given the Israelites, because you rebelled against my instructions in connection with the waters of Meribah. Take Aaron and his son Eleazar, and bring them up Mount Hor; then strip Aaron of his robes, and put them on his son Eleazar, whereupon Aaron shall be gathered in death there."

Moses did as the LORD commanded; they ascended Mount Hor in view of the whole community, and when Moses had stripped Aaron of his robes, and put them on his son Eleazar, Aaron died there on the top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar descended the mountain, and when the whole community saw that Aaron was dead, the whole house of Israel wept for Aaron thirty days.

When the Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negeb, heard that Israel was coming toward Atharim, he fought against Israel, and took some of them captive. Then Israel made a vow to the LORD, and said,

"If thou wilt but deliver this people into my power, I will annihilate their cities."

The LORD acceded to Israel's request, and delivered up the Canaanites; so they annihilated them and their cities. Hence the name of the place came to be called Hormah [annihilation].

From Mount Hor they set out in the direction of the Red Sea to make a circuit of the land of Edom, and the people grew impatient over the journey; so the people reproached God and Moses, "Why have you brought us up out of Egypt to die in the desert? For there is neither food nor water, and we loathe this wretched food."

Then the LORD sent stinging serpents among the people, and they bit the people, so that many of Israel died. So the people came to Moses, and said,

"We have sinned, in that we have reproached the LORD and you; pray to the LORD that he remove the serpents from us."

So Moses prayed for the people, whereupon the LORD said to Moses,

"Make a serpent, and mount it on a pole, and then everyone that is bitten shall live if he looks at it."

So Moses made a bronze serpent, and mounted it on a pole; accordingly, if a serpent bit anyone, he looked at the bronze serpent, and lived.

The Israelites set out, and then 10 camped at Oboth. Setting out from 11 Oboth, they camped at Ije-abarim, in the desert opposite Moab, to the east. Setting out from there, they camped in 12 the valley of Zered. Setting out from 13 there, they camped on the other side of the Arnon, which is in the desert extending from the frontier of the Amorites; for the Arnon constitutes the frontier of Moab between Moab and the Amorites. That is why it is said in 14 the Book of the Wars of the LORD,

" . . . Waheb in Suphah, and the Arnon valleys; the slope of the valleys, 15 which extends to the site of Ar, and leans toward the frontier of Moab . . . "

From there they proceeded to Beer 16 [well], which is the well where the LORD said to Moses, "Collect the people that I may give them water." It 17 was then that Israel sang this song:

"Spring up, O well! Sing to it;

The well which the princes dug, 18
Which the nobles of the people sunk,
With the scepter, with their staffs."

From the desert they proceeded to 19 Mattanah, from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, and from 20 Bamoth to the valley which is in the country of Moab, at the headland of Pishgah, which overlooks Jeshimon.

- 21 Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon, king of the Amorites, saying,
- 22 "Let us pass through your land; we will not turn off into field or vineyard; we will not drink the water from the wells; we will go only by the royal road, until we pass through your territory."
- 23 But Sihon would not let Israel pass through his territory; Sihon collected all his forces, and sallied forth against Israel in the desert. Arriving at Jahaz,
- 24 he fought against Israel, but Israel put him to the sword, and seized his land from the Arnon as far as the Jabbok, that is, as far as the Ammonites; for Jazer was the frontier of the Ammonites.
- 25 Israel captured all the cities here, and Israel settled in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon and all its dependencies. For Heshbon was the capital of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab and had wrested from him all his land as far as the Arnon. That is how the bards came to say,
- "Come to Heshbon! Let it be built!
Let the capital of Sihon be established!
For fire issued from Heshbon, Flame from Sihon's city;
It consumed Ar of Moab,
It extended up to the heights of the Arnon.
- 29 Woe to you, O Moab!
You are undone, O people of Chemosh!
He has made his sons fugitives,
And his daughters captives,
To an Amorite king, Sihon;
- 30 So their children perished from Heshbon as far as Dibon,
And their wives as far as Nophah, which is near Medeba."
- 31 So Israel settled in the land of the
- 32 Amorites. After Moses had sent the men to spy out Jazer, they captured its dependencies, and evicted the Amorites that were there. Then they moved on, and proceeded up the road to Bashan, whereupon Og, king of Bashan, together with all his people, sallied forth for battle against them at Edrei,
- 34 but the LORD said to Moses,
- "Do not be afraid of him; for I am delivering him, all his people, and his land into your power, so that you shall do to him as you did to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon."
- 35 So they harried him and his sons and all his people until not a survivor was left to him, and took possession of his land. The Israelites then moved on, and camped in the steppes of Moab on the other side of the Jordan at Jericho.

Now Balak, the son of Zippor, saw all that Israel did to the Amorites, so that Moab stood in great fear of the people, because they were so many; Moab stood in dread of the Israelites.

"Now this horde will lick up all the pasture around us, as an ox licks up the grass of a field," said Moab to the elders of Midian.

Balak, the son of Zippor, was king of Moab at that time; so he sent messengers to Balaam, the son of Beor, at Pethor, which is near the Euphrates, to the land of the Ammonites, to summon him, saying,

"Here is a people come out of Egypt! They cover the whole face of the earth, and are settled opposite me. Now then, come and curse this people for me; for they are too strong for me; perhaps I may be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land; for I know that he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed."

So the elders of Moab and of Midian departed, they themselves being skilled in enchantment, and coming to Balaam, they gave Balak's message to him.

"Stay here tonight," he said to them, "and I will bring you back such word as the LORD delivers to me."

So the chieftains of Moab stayed with Balaam. Then God came to Balaam, and said,

"What business have these men with you?"

Balaam said to God,

"Balak, the son of Zippor, king of Moab, has sent word to me, 'Here is the people that came out of Egypt covering the face of the earth! Come now, and curse them for me; perhaps I may be able to fight against them and drive them out.'"

God said to Balaam,

"You must not go with them; you must not curse the people; for they are to be blessed."

So, when Balaam rose next morning, he said to Balak's chieftains,

"Go home to your own land; for the LORD has refused to let me go with you."

So the chieftains of Moab started off, and coming to Balak, said,

"Balaam refused to leave with us."

Then Balak again sent chieftains, more in number and more distinguished than the others, and coming to Balaam, they said to him,

"Thus says Balak, the son of Zippor: 'Pray let nothing hinder you from coming to me; for I will reward you handsomely, and do for you whatever you indicate to me; pray come then and curse this people for me.'"

But Balaam in reply said to Balak's ministers,

"Though Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not violate the instructions of the LORD my God to do anything, either small or great. But do you also remain here tonight, and I will ascertain what else the LORD may have to say to me."

Then God came to Balaam in the night, and said to him,

"If it is to summon you that the men have come, be off and go with them; but it is only the message that I give you that you are to give."

So, when Balaam rose next morning, he saddled his ass, and went off with the chieftains of Moab.

The anger of God blazed at his going, and the angel of the LORD stationed himself on the road to obstruct him, as he rode on his ass, accompanied by his two slaves. When the ass saw the angel of the LORD standing on the road with his drawn sword in his hand, the ass turned out of the road, and went into the fields; but Balaam struck the ass to turn her back into the road. Then the angel of the LORD took his stand on a lane between vineyards, with a wall on either side; and when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she pressed herself against the wall, and crushed Balaam's foot against the wall, so that he struck her again. Then the angel of the LORD passed on further, and took his stand in a narrow place where there was no room to turn either to the right or to the left; and when the ass saw the angel of the LORD, she lay down under Balaam, so that Balaam's anger blazed, and he struck the ass with his staff. Then the LORD opened the mouth of the ass, and she said to Balaam,

"What have I done to you that you should have struck me these three times?"

"Because you have made a toy of me," said Balaam to the ass. "Would that there had been a sword in my hand, for then I would have killed you."

The ass said to Balaam,

"Am I not your own ass, upon which you have ridden all your life long until this day? Have I ever been accustomed to deal thus with you?"

"No," he said.

Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes, and he saw the angel of the LORD standing on the road, with his drawn sword in his hand, whereupon he bowed his head, and fell on his face.

"Why have you struck your ass these three times?" the angel of the LORD said to him. "See, it was I who came forth to obstruct you; for your errand is displeasing to me. The ass saw me, and swerved from me these three times; unless she had swerved from me, I would surely have slain you just now, but would have spared her."

"I have sinned," said Balaam to the angel of the LORD; "for I did not know that it was you who stationed yourself on the road against me. Now then, if it is displeasing to you, I will go back."

But the angel of the LORD said to Balaam,

"Go with the men; but it is only the message that I give you that you are to give."

So Balaam went along with Balak's chieftains.

When Balak heard that Balaam was coming, he went out to meet him at Ir-Moab, which is on the Arnon frontier, at the end of the frontier.

"Did I not send urgently for you?" Balak said to Balaam. "Why did you not come to me? Am I really unable to honor you?"

Whereupon Balaam said to Balak,

"See, I have come to you! Have I now any power of myself to say anything at all to you? It is only the message that God puts in my mouth that I can speak."

Then Balaam went along with Balak, and when they came to Kirjath-huzoth, Balak sacrificed oxen and sheep, and sent some to Balaam and the chieftains who were with him.

Next morning Balak took Balaam and brought him up to Bamoth-baal, from which he could see the nearest of the people.

Then Balaam said to Balak,

- "Build seven altars for me here, and offer seven bullocks and seven rams for me here."
- 2 Balak did as Balaam had indicated, and offered a bullock and a ram on each altar. Then Balaam said to Balak, "Stay beside your burnt-offering, while I go aside; perhaps the LORD will come to meet me; whatever message he reveals to me I will tell you."
- 4 So he went off by himself. Then God came to meet Balaam, whereupon he said to him, "I have arranged the seven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on each altar."
- 5 Then the LORD put a message in Balaam's mouth. "Return to Balak," he said, "and thus shall you speak."
- 6 So he returned to him, and found him standing beside his burnt-offering, together with all the chieftains of Moab. Then he gave utterance to his oracle, saying, "From Aram has Balak brought me, The king of Moab, from the mountains of the east: 'Come, curse Jacob for me, Come, execrate Israel.'"
- 8 How can I curse one whom God has not cursed? How can I execrate one whom the LORD has not execrated?
- 9 For from the top of the rocks I see them, From the hills I behold them— Lo, a people living by themselves, Not accounting themselves as one of the nations.
- 10 Who can count Jacob's masses, Or number Israel's myriads? Let me die the death of the righteous, Let my end be like theirs!"
- 11 "How have you treated me?" Balak said to Balaam. "It was to curse my enemies that I took you, and here you have actually blessed them."
- 12 "Is it not what the LORD puts in my mouth that I must be careful to speak?" he answered.
- 13 Then Balak said to him, "Pray come with me to another place, from which you may see them, although it will be only the nearest of them that you shall see, and not all of them; curse them for me from there."
- 14 So he took him to the field of Zophim, to the top of Pisgah, where he built seven altars and offered up a bullock and a ram on each altar.

"Stay here beside your burnt-offering," he said to Balak, "while I go to meet him yonder."

Then the LORD came to meet Balaam, and putting a message in his mouth, said,

"Return to Balak, and thus shall you speak."

So he came back to him, and found him standing beside his burnt-offering, together with the chieftains of Moab.

"What has the LORD said?" Balak said to him.

Whereupon he gave utterance to his oracle, saying,

"Come, Balak, and hear;

Give ear unto me, son of Zippor!

God is not a man that he should break his word,

Nor a human being that he should change his mind.

When he has said something, will he not do it?

When he has asserted something, will he not make it good?

See, it is a blessing that I have received;

He has given a blessing, so I cannot change it.

No misfortune is to be observed in Jacob,

No trouble is to be seen in Israel;

The LORD their God is with them,

The King is pleased with them.

God who brought them out of Egypt: Is like the horns of a wild-ox for them:

For there can be no enchantment against Jacob,

And no divination against Israel,

Since the times are declared to Jacob,

And what God shall do, to Israel.

Here is a people that rises like an old lion,

That rears itself like a lion;

It never lies down until it devours prey,

And drinks slain creatures' blood."

"Then," said Balak to Balaam, "neither curse nor bless them at all!"

But Balaam in reply said to Balak,

"Did I not say to you, 'Whatsoever the LORD declares, that I must do?'"

Then Balaam said to Balaam,

"Come, let me take you to another place; perhaps God will see fit to have you curse them for me from there."

So Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor, which overlooks Jeshimon.

"Build seven altars for me here," said Balaam to Balak, "and offer seven bullocks and seven rams for me here."

Balak did as Balaam said; he offered up a bullock and a ram on each altar. When Balaam saw that the LORD saw fit to bless Israel, he did not go in search of oracles as usual, but directed his gaze toward the desert. Raising his eyes, Balaam saw Israel grouped into their several tribes, whereupon the spirit of God came upon him, and he gave utterance to his oracle, saying,

"The oracle of Balaam, the son of Beor,
The oracle of the man who had evil designs,

The oracle of him who hears the words of God,

Who has a vision of the Almighty,
Prostrate, but with eyes open:

How fine your tents are, O Jacob,
Your dwellings, O Israel!

Like far-stretching valleys,
Like gardens beside a river,
Like aloes planted by the LORD,
Like cedars beside a stream.

Water shall flow from their buckets,
And their seed shall have abundant water;

Their king shall be taller than Agag,
And their kingdom shall be exalted.

God who brought them out of Egypt
Is like the horns of a wild-ox for them.
They shall devour nations that are their adversaries,

And break their bones in pieces,
And shatter their loins;

They crouch, they lurk like a lion,
Like an old lion; who dare disturb
them?

Blessed are they who bless you,
And cursed are they who curse you."

Then Balak's anger blazed against Balaam, and he struck his fists together.

"It was to curse my enemies that I summoned you," said Balak to Balaam; "and here you have actually blessed them these three times. So then, hurry back to your home! I intended to honor you greatly, but, as it is, the LORD has held you back from honor."

But Balaam said to Balak,

"Was it not indeed to the messengers whom you sent to me that I said, 'If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not violate the instructions of the LORD to do either good or bad of my own accord'? It is only what the LORD tells me that I can say. Now then, I leave at once for my own people; come, let me advise you what this people will do to your people in days to come."

Whereupon he gave utterance to his 15 oracle, saying,

"The oracle of Balaam, the son of Beor,
The oracle of the man who had evil designs,

The oracle of him who hears the 16 words of God,

And is acquainted with the knowledge of the Most High,

Who has a vision of the Almighty,
Prostrate, but with eyes open:

I see them, but not as they are now, 17
I behold them, but not as they are at present;

A star has come forth from Jacob,
A comet has risen from Israel,
And has shattered the temples of Moab,

And the skulls of all the sons of Seth;
Edom has become a possession, 18
Seir has become a possession;
Israel has performed valiantly,
Jacob has conquered his enemies, 19
And has exterminated any survivors from Ar."

Then he looked at Amalek, and gave 20 utterance to his oracle, saying,

"The first of the nations was Amalek,
But in the end he shall perish forever."

Then he looked at the Kenites, and 21 gave utterance to his oracle, saying,
"Though your dwelling place is enduring,

And your nest set on a rock,
Nevertheless it shall be annihilated, 22
O Kain;

How long will Ashur make captives of
you?"

Then he gave utterance to his oracle, 23 saying,

"Alas, who can live longer than God has appointed him?

Ships shall come from the coast of 24
Kittim,

They shall harass Ashur, they shall harass Eber,
So that he in turn shall perish forever."

Then Balaam rose, and departing, 25 returned home; while Balak also went his way.

- 25 When Israel settled down at Shittim, the people began to have illicit relations with the women of Moab, who invited the people to the sacrifices to their gods, so that the people ate them, and paid homage to their gods. Israel paired themselves off in honor of the Baal of Peor, so that the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel.
- 26 "Take all the ringleaders of the people," said the LORD to Moses, "and execute them for the LORD in broad daylight, so that the fierce anger of the LORD may be averted from Israel."
- 27 So Moses said to the tribes of Israel, "Slay each of you those of your members who paired themselves off in honor of the Baal of Peor."
- 28 Now one of the Israelites came and introduced a Midianite woman into his family in plain sight of Moses and the whole assembly of the Israelites, while they were weeping at the doorway of the tent of meeting. When Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, saw it, he withdrew from the assembly, and taking a spear in his hand, followed the Israelite into the room, and stabbed both of them, the Israelite and the woman in her abdomen. Thus the plague was stopped in its attack on the Israelites, but those who died from the plague amounted to twenty-four thousand.
- 29 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, has averted my wrath from the Israelites by showing the same jealousy among them as I would, and so I did not put an end to the Israelites in my jealousy. Announce therefore, 'I hereby give him my pledge of friendship, which shall serve him and his descendants after him as the pledge of a perpetual priesthood, because he was jealous for his God, and made atonement for the Israelites.'"
- 30 Now the name of the slain Israelite, who was killed with the Midianite woman, was Zimri, the son of Salu, the leader of a Simeonite clan, while the name of the Midianite woman who was killed was Cozbi, the daughter of Zur, who was the head of a clan division in Midian.
- 31 The LORD said to Moses, "Open hostilities with the Midianites, and attack them; for they have been showing hostility toward you by their tricks which they have played against you in the affair of Peor and that of their country-woman Cozbi, the daughter of a Midianite chieftain, who was killed on the day of the plague, in the affair of Peor."

After the plague the LORD said to Moses and Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest,

"Take a census of the whole Israelite community from twenty years old and upward, clan by clan, all who can go out to war in Israel."

So Moses and Eleazar, the priest, had them pass in review on the steppes of Moab, beside the Jordan at Jericho, those from twenty years old and upward, as the LORD had commanded Moses—that is, the Israelites who came out of the land of Egypt: Reuben, Israel's first-born, and the descendants of Reuben, Hanoch, of the Hanochite family, the Palluite family of Pallu, the Hezronite family of Hezron, and the Carmite family of Carmi. These constituted the families of the Reubenites, whose numbers amounted to forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty.

The son of Pallu, Eliab, and the sons of Eliab, Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram, the latter being the Dathan and Abiram, the select men of the community, who took their stand with Korah's company against Moses and Aaron when they ranged themselves against the LORD, and whom the earth, opening its mouth, swallowed up, along with Korah, when his company died, when the fire consumed two hundred and fifty men, so that they became a warning. (The sons of Korah, however, did not die.)

The descendants of Simeon, arranged by families: the Nemuelite family of Nemuel, the Jaminite family of Jamin, the Jachinite family of Jachin, the Zerahite family of Zerah, and the Shaulite family of Shaul. These constituted the families of the Simeonites, twenty-two thousand two hundred.

The descendants of Gad, arranged by families: the Zephonite family of Zephon, the Haggite family of Haggi, the Shunite family of Shuni, the Ozniter family of Ozni, the Erite family of Eri, the Arodite family of Arod, and the Arelite family of Areli. These constituted the families of the descendants of Gad that were numbered, forty thousand and five hundred.

The sons of Judah, Er and Onan, but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan, so the descendants of Judah as arranged by families were the Shelahite family of Shelah, the Perezite family of Perez, and the Zerahite family of Zerah, while the descendants of Perez were the Hezronite family of Hezron and the Hamulite family of Hamul. These constituted the families of Judah that were numbered, seventy-six thousand five hundred.

The descendants of Issachar, arranged by families: the Tolaithe family of Tola, the Puvite family of Puvah, the Jashubite family of Jashub, and the himronite family of Shimron. These constituted the families of Issachar that were numbered, sixty-four thousand and three hundred.

The descendants of Zebulun, arranged by families: the Seredite family of Sered, the Elonite family of Elon, and the Jahleelite family of Jahleel. These constituted the families of the Zebulunites that were numbered, sixty thousand five hundred.

The descendants of Joseph, arranged by families: Manasseh and Ephraim; the descendants of Manasseh: the Mahirite family of Machir and the Gileadite family of Gilead, Machir having also been the father of Gilead. The following are the descendants of Gilead: the Jezerite family of Jezer, the Helekite family of Helek, the Asrielite family of Asriel, the Shechemite family of Shechem, the Shemidaite family of Shemida, and the Hephherite family of Hephher. Zelophehad, the son of Hephher, had no sons, but only daughters, the names of the daughters of Zelophehad being Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Miliah, and Tirzah. These constituted the families of Manasseh, whose numbers amounted to fifty-two thousand seven hundred.

The following are the descendants of Ephraim, arranged by families: the Shuthelahite family of Shuthelah, the Becherite family of Becher, and the Tahanite family of Tahan, while the following are the descendants of Shuthelah: the Eranite family of Eran. These constituted the families of the descendants of Ephraim that were numbered, thirty-two thousand five hundred.

These constituted the descendants of Joseph as arranged by families.

The descendants of Benjamin, arranged by families: the Belaite family of Bela, the Ashbelite family of Ashbel, the Ahiramite family of Ahiram, the Shuphamite family of Shupham, and the Huphamite family of Hupham, while the descendants of Bela were Ard and Naaman, the Ardite family and the Naamite family of Naaman. These constituted the descendants of Benjamin as arranged by families, whose numbers amounted to forty-five thousand six hundred.

The following are the descendants of Dan, arranged by families: the Shuhamite family of Shuham. This constituted the families of Dan as arranged by families. The total of the Shuhamite families that were numbered was sixty-four thousand four hundred.

The descendants of Asher, arranged by families: the Imnite family of Imnah, the Ishvite family of Ishvi, and the Beriite family of Beriah, while the descendants of Beriah along the Heberite family of Heber and the Malchielite family of Malchiel, and the name of Asher's daughter was Serah. These constituted the families of the descendants of Asher that were numbered, fifty-three thousand four hundred.

The descendants of Naphtali, arranged by families: the Jahzeelite family of Jahzeel, the Gunitite family of Guni, the Jezerite family of Jezer, and the Shillemite family of Shillem. These constituted the families of Naphtali as arranged by families, whose numbers amounted to forty-five thousand four hundred.

These constituted the Israelites that were numbered, six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty.

Then the LORD said to Moses, "Among these the land is to be apportioned as a heritage, according to their respective numbers; for the large group you must make the heritage large, and for the small group you must make the heritage small, to each being given a heritage proportionate to its numbers. However, the land is to be divided by lot; they are to receive their heritage according to the numbers in their respective ancestral tribes; as determined by lot their heritage is to be divided proportionately between the larger groups and the smaller groups."

- 57 The following are the Levites that were numbered, arranged by families: the Gershonite family of Gershon, the Kohathite family of Kohath, and the
- 58 Merarite family of Merari. The following are the families of Levi: the Libnite family, the Hebronite family, the Mahlite family, the Mushite family, and the Korahite family. Kohath was
- 59 the father of Amram, while the name of Amram's wife was Jochebed, the daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt; she bore Aaron and Moses to Amram, as well as their sister Miriam.
- 60 To Aaron were born Nadab, Abihu,
- 61 Eleazar, and Ithamar, but Nadab and Abihu died when they offered improper
- 62 fire before the LORD. Those of them that were numbered amounted to twenty-three thousand, all the males from a month old and upward; for they were not numbered among the other Israelites, because no heritage was given them among the Israelites.
- 63 These constituted those that were numbered by Moses and Eleazar, the priest, who numbered the Israelites on the steppes of Moab, beside the Jordan
- 64 at Jericho, and among these there was no one belonging to those who had been numbered by Moses and Aaron, the priest, who numbered the Israelites in
- 65 the desert of Sinai; for the LORD had said of them that they would be sure to die in the desert, and so not one of them was left except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun.
- 27 Then came forward the daughters of Zelophehad, the son of Hephher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, members of the families of Manasseh, the son of Joseph; the following were the names of his daughters: 2 and Tirzah. They took their stand before Moses, and Eleazar, the priest, and before the chieftains and the whole assembly, at the doorway of the tent of meeting, saying,
- 3 "Our father died in the desert, though he did not participate with those who gathered against the LORD in Korah's company, but he died simply for his own sin, leaving no sons.
- 4 Why should our father's name be lost to his family, just because he had no son? Give us property along with our father's kinsmen."

So Moses laid their case before the LORD, and the LORD said to Moses, "The daughters of Zelophehad are right in their statements; you must certainly give them the possession of a heritage along with their father's kinsmen, transferring their father's heritage to them. Further, you must say to the Israelites, 'If a man dies, leaving no son, you must transfer his heritage to his daughter. If he has no daughter, you must give his heritage to his brothers. If he has no brothers, you must give his heritage to his father's brothers. If his father has no brothers, you must give his heritage to the nearest relative in his family, and he shall take it over.' This is to be a fixed ordinance for the Israelites, as the LORD has commanded Moses."

Then the LORD said to Moses, "Ascend this mountain of the Abarim, and view the land which I am giving the Israelites. When you have viewed it, you, too, shall be gathered to your fathers, as your brother Aaron was, since you rebelled against my instructions when the community rebelled in the desert of Zin, in the matter of paying me due honor in their presence at the waters" (these being the waters of Meribath-Kadesh in the desert of Zin).

Then Moses said to the LORD, "Let the LORD, the God of the spirits of all mankind, appoint someone over the community, who shall come and go before them, and lead them out and bring them in, so that the LORD'S community may not be like sheep without a shepherd."

So the LORD said to Moses, "Take Joshua, the son of Nun, a man of capacity, and lay your hand upon him; have him stand before Eleazar, the priest, and the whole community, and commission him in their sight. Invest him with some of your own majesty, that the whole Israelite community may heed him. He is to take his stand before Eleazar, the priest, who shall make inquiry before the LORD for him by decision of the Urim, and at whose bidding both he and all the Israelites with him, the whole community, are to come and go."

Moses did as the LORD commanded!

him; he took Joshua and had him stand before Eleazar, the priest, and the whole community; he laid his hands upon him, and commissioned him, as the LORD had indicated through Moses.

VARIOUS REGULATIONS,

28:1—36:13

1 The LORD said to Moses,

“Command the Israelites, and say to them, ‘The offering of food made to me as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to me, you must be careful to offer to me at the proper time for it.’ You must also say to them, ‘This is the sacrifice that you are to offer to the LORD: two perfect yearling male lambs as a regular burnt-offering each day, offering the one lamb in the morning, and the other lamb at twilight, together with a tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with a fourth of a hin of oil from crushed olives, as a cereal-offering—a regular burnt-offering, such as was instituted at Mount Sinai, as a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD. Its libation is to be a fourth of a hin for the one lamb, a libation of liquor to the LORD, to be poured out in the sanctuary; the other lamb you must offer at twilight as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, offering it with the same cereal-offering and libation as in the morning.

“‘On the sabbath day, two perfect yearling male lambs and two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering, along with its libation, as the sabbath burnt-offering each sabbath, in addition to the regular burnt-offering and its libation.

“‘On your new moons you must offer as a burnt-offering to the LORD two young bullocks, one ram, and seven perfect yearling male lambs, along with three tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering for each bullock, and two tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering for the one ram, and a tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a cereal-offering for each lamb—a burnt-offering, a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD. Their libations are to be half a hin of wine per bullock, a third of a hin for the ram, and a fourth of a hin per lamb. This is to be the burnt-offering of the new moon, each new moon throughout the new moons of the year. Moreover, one he-goat is to be offered 15 as a sin-offering to the LORD, in addition to the regular burnt-offering and its libation.

“‘On the fourteenth day of the first 16 month is the passover to the LORD, and on the fifteenth day of this month 17 there is to be a feast. For seven days unleavened cakes are to be eaten. On 18 the first day there is to be a religious assembly; you must do no hard work at all, but offer as a sacrifice, a burnt- 19 offering to the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs, having them perfect; and for 20 their cereal-offerings you must offer fine flour mixed with oil, three tenths of an ephah per bullock and two tenths for the ram, offering a tenth for each of 21 the seven lambs, together with one he-goat as a sin-offering, to make atone- 22 ment for you. You are to offer these in 23 addition to the morning burnt-offering which is the regular burnt-offering. Offerings like these you must make 24 daily, for the seven days, as food, as a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, to be made in addition to the regular burnt-offering and its libation; and on 25 the seventh day you must hold a religious assembly, doing no hard work at all.

“‘On the day of first-fruits, when 26 you offer a cereal-offering of new grain to the LORD in your festival of weeks, you must hold a religious assembly; you must do no hard work at all, but offer 27 as a burnt-offering, as a soothing odor to the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs, together with their cereal-offering, fine 28 flour mixed with oil, three tenths of an ephah per bullock, two tenths for the 29 one ram, and a tenth for each of the seven lambs, as well as one he-goat to 30 make atonement for you. In addition 31 to the regular burnt-offering and its cereal-offering you are to offer these and their libations, having them perfect.

“‘On the first day of the seventh 29 month you must hold a religious assembly, doing no hard work at all, but observing it as a day of festivity; you 2 must offer as a burnt-offering, a soothing odor to the LORD, one young bullock, one ram, and seven perfect year-

- 3 ling male lambs, together with their cereal-offering, fine flour mixed with oil, three tenths of an ephah per bullock, two tenths for the ram, and a 5 tenth for each of the seven lambs, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering to 6 make atonement for you—in addition to the burnt-offering of the new moon with its cereal-offering, and the regular burnt-offering with its cereal-offering, and the libations as prescribed for them, as a soothing odor, a sacrifice to the LORD.
- 7 “On the tenth day of this same seventh month, you must hold a religious assembly, and mortify yourselves; you 8 must do no work at all, but offer as a burnt-offering to the LORD, a soothing odor, one young bullock, one ram, and seven yearling male lambs, having 9 them perfect, together with their cereal-offering, fine flour mixed with oil, three-tenths of an ephah per bullock, 10 two tenths for the one ram, and a 11 tenth for each of the seven lambs, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the atonement sin-offering and the regular burnt-offering and its cereal-offering, along with their libations.
- 12 “On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you must hold a religious assembly, doing no hard work at all, but holding a feast for the LORD for 13 seven days; you must offer as a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, thirteen young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen yearling male 14 lambs that are perfect, together with their cereal-offering, fine flour mixed with oil, three tenths of an ephah for each of the thirteen bullocks, two 15 tenths for each of the two rams, and a 16 tenth for each of the fourteen lambs, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering, its cereal-offering and libation.
- 17 “On the second day, twelve young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering and its cereal-offering, along with their libations.
- 20 “On the third day, eleven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offering and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering with its cereal-offering and libation.

“On the fourth day, ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering, its cereal-offering and libation.

“On the fifth day, nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in proportion to their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering, its cereal-offering and libation.

“On the sixth day, eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in accordance with their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering, its cereal-offering and libation.

“On the seventh day, seven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullocks, rams, and lambs, in accordance with their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering, its cereal-offering and libation.

“On the eighth day you must hold a sacred assembly; you must do no hard work at all, but offer as a burnt-offering, a sacrifice, a soothing odor to the LORD, one bullock, one ram, and seven perfect yearling male lambs, together with the cereal-offerings and libations for the bullock, ram, and lambs, in accordance with their numbers, as prescribed, as well as one he-goat as a sin-offering, in addition to the regular burnt-offering with its cereal-offering and libation.

“These you must offer to the LORD at your fixed festivals, in addition to your votive offerings and voluntary offerings, as your burnt-offerings, cereal-offerings, libations, and thank-offerings.”

So Moses instructed the Israelites just as the LORD commanded Moses.

Then Moses said to the heads of the Israelite tribes,

“This is the command that the LORD has given: ‘When a man makes a vow to the LORD or on oath binds himself with a pledge, he must not break his word; he must do just as he declared. Also, when a woman makes a vow to the LORD, or binds herself with a pledge, while she is still in her youth in her father’s house, if her father should hear of her vow and her pledge with which she bound herself, and her father gives her his tacit approval, all her vows shall stand, and every pledge with which she bound herself shall stand. But if her father does raise objections with her, when he hears of it, none of her vows or her pledges with which she bound herself shall stand, and the LORD will absolve her, because her father raised objections with her. If she should ever marry while bound by her vows or some rash utterance with which she bound herself, and her husband should hear of it, but gives her his tacit approval when he does hear of it, her vows shall stand, and her pledges with which she bound herself shall stand. But if her husband raises objections with her when he hears of it, he shall nullify the vow by which she is bound and the rash utterance with which she bound herself, and the LORD will absolve her. In the case of the vow of a widow, however, or a divorced woman, everything with which he has bound herself shall be binding on her. If a woman has made a vow or bound herself with a pledge by an oath while in the house of her husband, and her husband should hear of it, but gives her his tacit approval, by not raising objections with her, all her vows shall stand, and every pledge with which she bound herself shall stand. But if her husband should make them null and void when he hears of them, nothing to which she gave utterance by way of a vow or pledge shall stand; since her husband nullified them, the LORD will absolve her. Any vow and any oath as a pledge to self-mortification, her husband can validate or nullify. But if her husband from day to day does give her his tacit approval, he shall validate all her vows or pledges by which she is bound; he has validated them, because he gave her his tacit approval when he heard of them. But if he should attempt to nullify them after he has heard of them, he shall answer for her iniquity himself.’”

These were the statutes with which the LORD charged Moses, in a situation involving a man and his wife, and a father and his daughter while she is still in her youth in her father’s house.

Then the LORD said to Moses, “Avenge the Israelites on the Midianites, after which you shall be gathered to your fathers.”

So Moses commanded the people, “Choose the best of your number as an army to serve against Midian, to execute the LORD’s vengeance on Midian, selecting for the army a thousand from each of all the tribes of Israel.”

So a thousand per tribe were furnished from the clans of Israel, twelve thousand picked troops. Then Moses sent them to the war, a thousand from each tribe, together with Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, as priest for the army, with the sacred objects and the alarm trumpets in his hand. They made war on Midian, as the LORD had commanded Moses, and slew every male; they slew the kings of Midian with the rest of them that were slain, namely, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian; and they also slew Balaam, the son of Beor, with the sword. The Israelites took the women and children of Midian captive, while all their cattle, and flocks, and goods they took as booty, and burned up all the cities where they lived and all their encampments. Then they took all the spoil and all the booty of man and beast, and brought the captives, booty, and spoil to Moses and Eleazar, the priest, and the Israelite community at the camp in the steppes of Moab beside the Jordan at Jericho.

When Moses with Eleazar, the priest, and all the leaders of the community went outside the camp to meet them, Moses became angry with the officers of the army, the captains of divisions of a thousand and those of a hundred, who had come from service in the war.

“And so you have let all the women 15

16 live?" Moses said to them. "Why, it was these who led the Israelites through the counsel of Balaam to forsake the LORD in the affair of Peor, so that the plague appeared among the LORD'S community. Now then, slay every male among the little ones, and slay every woman who has had intercourse with a man by lying with a male; but all the girls who have not had intercourse with a man by lying with a male, keep alive for yourselves. Now as for yourselves, remain outside the camp for seven days; all of you who have slain anyone and all of you who have touched a slain person, purify yourselves on the third day and the seventh, you and your captives. Also, every garment, every article made of skin, everything made of goat's hair, and every wooden article, you must purify."

21 Eleazar, the priest, said to the warriors who engaged in the battle,

"This is the statute of the law which the LORD has commanded Moses: 'However, the gold, silver, bronze, iron, tin, and lead—everything that can stand fire, you must put through fire, that it may become clean, being purified, however, by the water used for impurity; whatever cannot stand fire you must pass through the water. You must wash your clothes on the seventh day, and so become clean, after which you may re-enter the camp.'"

25 Then the LORD said to Moses,

26 "Take a count of the booty that was captured, both of man and beast, you, Eleazar, the priest, and the heads of families in the community, and then divide the booty in two between the warriors who went out to the battle and all the rest of the community, levying a tax for the LORD on the warriors who went out to the battle, one in five hundred, of the men, the cattle, the asses, and the flocks, taking it from their half, and giving it to Eleazar, the priest, as a contribution to the LORD. From the Israelites' half you must take one drawn from every fifty, of the men, the cattle, the asses, and the flocks, of all the live stock, and give them to the Levites who have charge of the dwelling of the LORD."

31 Moses and Eleazar, the priest, did as the LORD commanded Moses. Now the plunder, what was left of the booty that the warriors took, consisted of six hundred and seventy-five thousand sheep, seventy-two thousand oxen, sixty-one thousand asses, and a total of thirty-two thousand girls, who had never had intercourse with a man by lying with a male. The half which constituted the share of those who went out to the battle amounted to three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, the LORD'S tax from the sheep being six hundred and seventy-five, thirty-six thousand oxen, from which the LORD'S tax was seventy-two, thirty thousand five hundred asses, from which the LORD'S tax was sixty-one, and sixteen thousand persons, from whom the LORD'S tax was thirty-two persons. Moses gave the tax to Eleazar, the priest, as a contribution to the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses. From the Israelites' half which Moses divided from that of the warriors (now the community's half was three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, thirty-six thousand oxen, thirty thousand five hundred asses, and sixteen thousand persons), from the Israelites' half Moses took one drawn out of every fifty, both of man and beast, and gave them to the Levites who had charge of the LORD'S dwelling, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Then the officers who were attached to the divisions of a thousand in the army, the captains of divisions of a thousand and those of a hundred, came up to Moses, and said to Moses,

"Your servants have taken a census of the warriors who have been in our charge, and not one of us is missing. So we have brought as an offering to the LORD what each had acquired, articles of gold, armlets, bracelets, signet-rings, earrings, and necklaces, to make atonement for ourselves before the LORD."

So Moses and Eleazar, the priest, took the gold from them, all serviceable articles, and the total amount of the gold in the contribution which they made to the LORD from the captains of divisions of a thousand and those of a hundred was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels. (The warriors, too, had taken booty, each keeping it for himself.) When Moses and Eleazar, the priest, took the gold from the captains of divisions of a thousand and those of a hundred, they brought it to the tent of meeting as a memorial for the Israelites before the LORD.

Now the Reubenites and Gadites had much live stock, a very great amount. So, when they saw that the land of Jazer and the land of Gilead was a district suitable for live stock, the Gadites and Reubenites came and said to Moses, and Eleazar, the priest, and the leaders of the community,

"Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, Nimrah, Heshbon, Elealeh, Sebam, Nebo, and Beon, the land which the LORD laid out before the community of Israel, is a land suitable for live stock, and your servants have live stock." "If we have found favor with you," they said, "let this land be given to your servants as heir property. Do not take us across the Jordan."

But Moses said to the Gadites and Reubenites,

"Ought your fellow-tribesmen to engage in war while you remain here? Why should you discourage the Israelites from crossing to the land which the LORD has given them? That is what your fathers did when I sent them from Kadesh-barnea to view the land. When they went up to the valley of Eshcol and saw the land, they discouraged the Israelites from entering the land which the LORD had given them, so that the LORD'S anger blazed that day, and he swore, saying, 'None of the men who came up from Egypt, from twenty years old and upward, shall ever see the land which I promised on oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because they have not corroborated me, with the exception of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua, the son of Nun, because they have corroborated the LORD.' So the LORD'S anger blazed against Israel, and he made them wander up and down the desert for forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the sight of the LORD had perished. And here you have risen in your father's place, a brood of sinners, to augment still more the fierce anger of the LORD against Israel! If you turn from following him, he will again abandon them in the desert, and you will bring harm to this whole people."

Then they came up to him, and said,

"We will but build folds here for our live stock and cities for our dependents, while we ourselves will form the picked troops to go as special troops ahead of the Israelites until we have brought them to their home, and our dependents shall live in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land. We will not return to our own houses until the Israelites have each come into possession of his heritage; for we will not seek any heritage with them across and beyond the Jordan, because our heritage has fallen to us on the other side of the Jordan, to the east."

So Moses said to them,

"If you will do this, if you will form the picked troops to go before the LORD into battle, and all you picked troops cross the Jordan in sight of the LORD until he drives his enemies out of his way, and the land is subdued before the LORD, after that you may return, quit of all obligation to the LORD and Israel, and this land shall be yours to hold before the LORD. But if you will not do so, then you will have sinned against the LORD, and be assured that your sin will find you out. Build cities for your dependents and folds for your sheep, and do what you have promised."

The Gadites and Reubenites said to Moses,

"Your servants shall do as my lord commands. Our little ones, wives, flocks, and all our cattle shall remain there in the cities of Gilead; but your servants, all picked troops, shall cross over to battle in sight of the LORD, as my lord indicates."

So Moses gave instructions concerning them to Eleazar, the priest, to Joshua, the son of Nun, and to the heads of families in the Israelite tribes.

"If the Gadites and Reubenites, all picked troops," Moses said to them, "cross the Jordan with you for battle in sight of the LORD, and the land is subdued before you, then you must give them the land of Gilead as their property; but if they do not cross over with you, they shall receive property with you in the land of Canaan."

Whereupon the Gadites and Reubenites responded,

"We will do just what the LORD has told your servants. We will cross over as picked troops in sight of the LORD to the land of Canaan, but the property constituting our heritage shall fall to us on the other side of the Jordan."

33 So Moses gave them, the Gadites, Reubenites, and half-tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og, king of Bashan, the land with its cities in the various districts, the cities throughout the land.

34 The Gadites built Dibon, Ataroth, 35 Aroer, Atroth-shophan, Jazer, Jogbehah, Beth-nimrah, and Beth-haran, as fortified cities, as well as sheepfolds.

37 The Reubenites built Heshbon, Eleah, Kirjathaim, Nebo, Baal-meon 38 leh, Kirjathaim, Nebo, Baal-meon (names to be changed), and Sibmah, and renamed the cities that they rebuilt.

39 The descendants of Machir, the son of Manasseh, went to Gilead, and capturing it, evicted the Amorites who 40 were in it. So Moses gave Gilead to Machir, the son of Manasseh, and he 41 settled in it. Then Jair, the son of Manasseh, went and captured their villages, calling them Havvoth-jair [the 42 villages of Jair], while Nobah went and captured Kenath and its dependencies, calling it Nobah after his own name.

33 The following are the stages by which the Israelites came from Egypt in companies, under the direction of Moses 2 and Aaron. Moses wrote down the starting-places as commanded by the LORD for them on their several stages, and the following are the stages as arranged by their starting-places. In the 3 first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month, they set out from Rameses; on the day after the passover the Israelites went triumphantly out in sight 4 of all the Egyptians, while the Egyptians were burying all their first-born whom the LORD had struck down among them. The LORD had also executed judgment upon their gods. The Israelites set out from Rameses, and 6 camped at Succoth. Setting out from Succoth, they camped at Etham, which 7 is on the edge of the desert. Setting out from Etham, they turned back to Pi-hahiroth, which is east of Baal-zephon, 8 and camped to the east of Migdol. Setting out from Pi-hahiroth, they passed through the sea into the desert, and marching for three days in the desert 9 of Etham, they camped at Marah. Setting out from Marah, they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees, so 10 they camped there. Setting out from

Elim, they camped beside the Red Sea. Setting out from the Red Sea, they camped in the desert of Sin. Setting out from the desert of Sin, they camped at Dophkah. Setting out from Dophkah, they camped at Alush. Setting out from Alush, they camped at Rephidim, where there was no water for the people to drink. Setting out from Rephidim, they camped in the desert of Sinai. Setting out from the desert of Sinai, they camped at Kibroth-hattaavah. Setting out from Kibroth-hattaavah, they camped at Hazeroth. Setting out from Hazeroth, they camped at Rithmah. Setting out from Rithmah, they camped at Rimmon-perez. Setting out from Rimmon-perez, they camped at Libnah. Setting out from Libnah, they camped at Rissah. Setting out from Rissah, they camped at Kehelah. Setting out from Kehelah, they camped at Mount Shepher. Setting out from Mount Shepher, they camped at Haradah. Setting out from Haradah, they camped at Makheloth. Setting out from Makheloth, they camped at Tahath. Setting out from Tahath, they camped at Terah. Setting out from Terah, they camped at Mithkah. Setting out from Mithkah, they camped at Hashmonah. Setting out from Hashmonah, they camped at Moseroth. Setting out from Moseroth, they camped at Bene-jaakan. Setting out from Bene-jaakan, they camped at Hor-haggidgad. Setting out from Hor-haggidgad, they camped at Jotbah. Setting out from Jotbah, they camped at Abronah. Setting out from Abronah, they camped at Ezion-geber. Setting out from Ezion-geber, they camped in the desert of Zin, that is, at Kadesh. Setting out from Kadesh, they camped at Mount Hor, on the edge of the land of Edom. (By command of the LORD, Aaron, the priest, ascended Mount Hor. and died there, in the fortieth year after the Israelites had come out of the land of Egypt, on the first day of the fifth month, Aaron being one hundred and twenty-three years old when he died on Mount Hor. The Canaanite king of Arad, who lived in the Negeb in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the Israelites.) Setting out from Mount Hor, they camped at Zalmonah. Setting out from Zalmonah, they camped at Punon. Setting out from Punon, they camped at Oboth. Setting out from Oboth, they camped at Ijeabaram, on the frontier of Moab. Setting out from Ijim, they camped at Dibon-gad. Setting out from Dibon-gad, they camped at Almon-diblathaim. Setting out from Almon-diblathaim, they camped at the Abarim mountains, east of Nebo.

Setting out from the Abarim mountains, they camped on the steppes of Moab beside the Jordan at Jericho; their camp lay along the Jordan, from Beth-jeshimoth as far as Abel-shittim, on the steppes of Moab.

On the steppes of Moab beside the Jordan at Jericho the LORD said to Moses,

"Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, you must drive all the inhabitants of the land out of your way, destroy all their figured stones, destroy all their molten images, and demolish all their high places. When you have conquered the land, you are to settle in it; for it is to you that I have given the land, to take possession of it. You are to apportion the land as a heritage among yourselves by lot, clan by clan, making the heritage large for the large group, and making the heritage small for the small group; to whomsoever the lot gives it, his shall it be; you are to make the apportionments among you by ancestral tribes. But if you do not drive the inhabitants of the land out of your way, those of them whom you allow to remain shall become bricks in your eyes and thorns in your sides, and they will harass you in the land in which you live, and so I will treat you as I intended to treat them.'"

The LORD said to Moses,

"Command the Israelites, and say to them, 'When you enter the land of Canaan (this is the land that is to fall to you as a heritage, the land of Canaan throughout its extent), your southern boundary shall run from the desert of Zin along the side of Edom; your southern frontier shall run from the lower end of the Salt Sea eastward; your frontier shall then turn south of the slope of Akkrabbim, pass along to Zin, and end south of Kadesh-barnea; it shall proceed to Hazar-addar, and continue to Azmon; at Azmon the frontier shall turn to the River of Egypt, and end at the Sea. As a western frontier you shall have the Great Sea with its coastland; this shall be your western frontier. The following shall be your northern frontier: from the Great Sea you shall draw your line to Mount Hor; from Mount Hor you shall draw your line to the approach to Hamath, and the frontier shall end at Zedad; the frontier shall then proceed to Ziphron, and end at Hazar-enan. This shall be your northern frontier. For the eastern frontier you shall draw your line from Hazar-enan to Shepham; from Shepham the frontier shall run down to Riblah, east of Ain; the frontier shall then go down and strike the spur at the sea of Chinnereth to the east; the frontier shall run down to the Jordan, and end at the Salt Sea. This is the land that you are to have, as bounded by its various frontiers.'"

So Moses instructed the Israelites as follows:

"This is the land which you are to apportion among yourselves by lot, which the LORD has commanded to be given to the nine and a half tribes; for the Reubenite tribe, family by family, the Gadite tribe, family by family, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have received their heritages; the two and a half tribes have received their heritages on the other side of the Jordan at Jericho to the east, toward the dawn."

Then the LORD said to Moses,

"The following are the names of the men who are to apportion the land for you: Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun. You must also take one chieftain from each tribe to apportion the land, and the following are the names of the men: from the tribe of Judah, Caleb, the son of Jephunneh; from the Simeonite tribe, Shemuel, the son of Ammihud; from the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad, the son of Chislon; from the Danite tribe, a chieftain, Bukki, the son of Jogli; from the Josephites: from the Manassite tribe, a chieftain, Haniel, the son of Ephod, and from the Ephraimite tribe, a chieftain, Kemuel, the son of Shiphtan; from the Zebulunite tribe, a chieftain, Elizaphan, the son of Parnach; from the Issacharite tribe, a chieftain, Paltiel, the son of Azzan; from the Asherite tribe, a chieftain, Ahihud, the son of Shelomi; and from the Naphtalite tribe, a chieftain, Pedahel, the son of Ammihud."

29 These were those whom the LORD commanded to apportion the heritages to the Israelites in the land of Canaan.

35 On the steppes of Moab beside the Jordan at Jericho the LORD said to Moses,

2 "Command the Israelites that they give the Levites cities to live in out of the heritages that they hold; you must also give the Levites the pasture-lands adjacent to the cities. The cities shall serve them to live in, while the pasture-lands shall serve their cattle and live stock, all their animals. The pasture-lands of the cities that you give the Levites are to extend for a radius of one thousand cubits outside the wall of the city; you must make the measurements of the east side outside the city two thousand cubits, those of the south side two thousand cubits, those of the west side two thousand cubits, and those of the north side two thousand cubits, with the city lying in the center. This shall be the pasture-lands of their cities.

6 The cities that you give the Levites shall be the six cities of refuge to which you must let the homicide flee, and in addition to them you must designate 7 forty-two other cities. The total number of cities that you give the Levites is to be forty-eight, together with their 8 pasture-lands. In the case of the cities that you give them from the holdings of the Israelites, you shall take many from the large group, and few from the small group; each in proportion to the heritage that it receives shall give of its cities to the Levites."

9 The LORD said to Moses,

10 "Speak to the Israelites, and say to them, 'When you cross the Jordan into 11 the land of Canaan, you must select suitable cities to serve as cities of refuge for you, that the homicide who kills anyone inadvertently may flee there.

12 The cities shall serve you as places of refuge from the avenger, that the homicide may not die until he has taken his stand before the community for trial.

13 As for the cities that you are to designate, you must have six cities of refuge, 14 designating three cities on the other side of the Jordan and three cities in the land of Canaan, to be cities of refuge.

15 These six cities shall serve the Israelites, as well as the resident aliens and the serfs among them, as places of refuge, so that anyone who kills another inadvertently may flee there. But if he struck him with an iron tool, so that he died, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. If he struck him with a stone in the hand, from which death may result, so that he died, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. Or, if he struck him with a wooden object in the hand, from which death may result, so that he died, he is a murderer; the murderer must be put to death. The avenger of blood shall himself put the murderer to death, putting him to death when he encounters him. Also, if he gave him a push through hatred, or threw something at him intentionally, so that he died, or in enmity struck him with his hand, so that he died, the one who struck the blow must be put to death, since he is a murderer; the avenger of blood shall put the murderer to death when he encounters him. But if he pushed him inadvertently and not out of enmity, or threw anything at all at him unintentionally, or without seeing him let a stone of any kind fall on him from which death might result, so that he died, when he was not his enemy, nor sought his harm, then the community must decide between the one who struck the blow and the avenger of blood in accordance with these regulations; the community shall release the homicide from the power of the avenger of blood, and the community shall return him to the city of refuge to which he fled, to live there until the death of the high priest who was anointed with the sacred oil. But if the homicide ever goes outside the bounds of the city of refuge to which he fled, and the avenger of blood finds him outside the bounds of his city of refuge, the avenger of blood may slay the homicide without incurring any guilt, because he must remain in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest; but after the death of the high priest the homicide may return to his own land. These, then, are to serve as a fixed ordinance for you throughout your generations in all your places of abode.

"In every case of murder the murderer is to be put to death only on the evidence of witnesses, the evidence of one witness being insufficient to condemn anyone to death. You must not accept a ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death, but he must be put to death. You must not accept a ransom in place of having the person flee to his city of refuge, that he may live in the land again before the death of the high priest. Thus you will not pollute the land in which you are living; for it is blood that pollutes a land, and no atonement can be made for the blood that has been shed in a land, except by the blood of him who shed it. So you must not defile the land in which you are living, in the midst of which I dwell; for I, the LORD, am dwelling in the midst of the Israelites.' "

Then the heads of families in the clan constituting the descendants of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, part of the Josephite clan, came up and addressed Moses and the chieftains, the heads of families among the Israelites.

"The LORD," they said, "commanded my lord to give the land to the Israelites as a heritage by lot, and my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the heritage of our kinsman Zelophehad to his daughters. Now if they are married into one of the other Israelite tribes, their heritage will be lost to our ancestral heritage, and will be added to the heritage of the tribe which they join, and thus be lost to our allotted heritage; when the Israelites hold the jubilee, their heritage will be added to the heritage of the tribe which they join, and thus their heritage will be lost to the heritage of our ancestral tribe."

So Moses at the bidding of the LORD gave this command:

"The Josephite tribe speaks the truth. This is the command that the LORD has given concerning the daughters of Zelophehad: 'Let them be married to whom they like; only it must be into a family of their own ancestral tribe that they are married, so that no heritage of the Israelites may pass from one tribe to another; for the Israelites must keep each the heritage of his ancestral tribe. Any girl belonging to the Israelite tribes who comes into possession of a heritage must be married to someone in a family belonging to her ancestral tribe, so that the Israelites may hold each his own ancestral heritage. No heritage may pass from one tribe to another; for the Israelite tribes must keep each its own heritage.' "

The daughters of Zelophehad did just as the LORD commanded Moses; Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married to their kinsmen's sons, being married into families of the descendants of Manasseh, the son of Joseph, so that their heritage remained in the tribe of their ancestral family.

These were the commands and ordinances which the LORD through Moses enjoined on the Israelites on the steppes of Moab beside the Jordan at Jericho.

THE BOOK OF DEUTERONOMY

THE FIRST DISCOURSE OF MOSES: HISTORICAL RET- ROSPECT, 1:1—4:43

1 THE following are the events, concerning which Moses spoke to all Israel beyond the Jordan, in the wilderness, in the Arabah, opposite Suph, between Paran, and Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth and Dizahab, which occurred on the eleven days of the journey from Horeb to the highlands of Seir as far as Kadesh-barnea. It was in the fortieth year, on the first day of the eleventh month, that Moses spoke to the Israelites, just what the LORD commanded him to say to them, after he had defeated Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon, and at Edrei Og, king of Bashan, who lived at Ashtaroth; beyond the Jordan, in the land of Moab, Moses undertook to expound this code, saying,

6 "The LORD our God said to us at Horeb, 'You have remained long enough at this mountain; move on, and set out on your journey to the highlands of the Amorites and all the surrounding regions in the Arabah, in the highlands and lowlands, in the steppes, and on the seashore, the land of the Canaanites; also to the Lebanon, as far as the Great River, the river Euphrates. See, I have put the land at your mercy; go in and occupy the land which the LORD swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give to them and their descendants after them.'

9 "Then I said to you at that time, 'I am not able to bear the burden of you by myself. The LORD your God has so multiplied you that you are today like the stars of the heavens for number. (May the LORD, the God of your fathers, increase you a thousand-fold more than you are, and bless you, as he promised you!) How can I bear by myself the load and burden of you, and 13 your discontent? Choose capable, intelligent, and experienced men from each of your tribes, and I will make them your chieftains.'

"Replying to me, you said, 'The action that you suggest taking is excellent.'

"So I took your capable and experienced men, and I set them as chieftains over you, as captains of divisions of a thousand, of a hundred, of fifty, and of ten, and as judges for your various tribes.

"Then I charged your judges at that time, saying, 'Hear the cases between your fellow-countrymen, and judge aright between a man and his fellow, or the resident alien in his employ. You must never show partiality in a case; you must hear high and low alike, standing in fear of no man; for the judgment is God's. Any case that is too hard for you, you must bring to me, and I will hear it.' I also enjoined on you at that time all the things that you were to do.

"Then we set out from Horeb, and traversed all that great and terrible desert, as you know, on the way to the highlands of the Amorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us. When we reached Kadesh-barnea, I said to you, 'You have reached the highlands of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is about to give us. See, the LORD your God has put the land at your mercy; go up and occupy it, as the LORD, the God of your fathers, told you; do not be afraid or dismayed.'

"Then you all came up to me, and said, 'Let us send men ahead of us to reconnoiter the land for us, and bring us back a report about the route that we should follow, and the cities that we shall reach.'

"The proposal was agreeable to me; so I chose twelve men from you, one from each tribe, and they set out on their journey up to the highlands. When they reached the valley of Eshcol, they spied it out, and taking some fruit of the land in their hands, they brought it down to us. Also they brought us back a report, and said, 'The land is fine, which the LORD our God is about to give us.'

"However, you would not go up, but scorned the injunction of the LORD your God, and grumbled in your tents, and said, 'It is because the LORD hates us that he has brought us out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the power of the Amorites, that they may destroy us. Our fellow-countrymen have made us lose heart by saying, "Where we are going there is a people stronger and more numerous than we; there are cities large and fortified up to the sky; and besides we saw the Anakim [giants] there."'

"Then I said to you, 'Have no dread; do not be afraid of them. The LORD your God who is going ahead of you, will himself fight for you, just as you saw him do for you in Egypt, and in the desert, as you know, where the LORD your God carried you, as a man carries his son, all the way of your journey, until you reached this place.' But in this matter you would not trust the LORD your God, who had gone ahead of you on the road, to look for a place for you to pitch your tents; in fire by night, so that you might make out the road that you should follow, and in a cloud by day.

"When the LORD heard your protestations, he was angry, and swore, saying, 'Not one of these men shall ever see the fine land that I swore to give to your fathers, except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it, and to him will I give the land on which he has set foot, and to his children, because he corroborated the LORD.'

"With me, too, the LORD was angry on your account, saying, 'Neither shall you enter there. Joshua, the son of Nun, your attendant, shall enter there; encourage him; for he is to put Israel in possession of it. Also your babes who you said would become a prey, and your children who as yet do not know good from evil, they shall enter there; to them I will give it, and they shall occupy it. But do you turn back, and set out for the desert in the direction of the Red Sea.'

"In reply you said to me, 'We have sinned against the LORD; we will ourselves go up and fight, just as the LORD our God commanded us.'

"Then each of you buckled on his weapons of war, and made light of going up into the highlands. But the LORD said to me, 'Say to them, "You must not go up, nor fight, lest you be routed before your enemies; for I will not be with you."'

So I spoke to you, but you would not listen; you scorned the injunction of the LORD, and in your presumption you went up into the highlands. Then the Amorites, who lived in those highlands, came out against you, and chased you, as a swarm of bees would, and harried you all the way from Seir to Hormah. Then you came back, and wept before the LORD, but the LORD would not heed your cry, nor listen to you. So you remained at Kadesh the long time that you did.

"Then we turned back, and set out for the desert in the direction of the Red Sea, as the LORD had told me. For a long time we circled round the highlands of Seir. Then the LORD said to me, 'You have circled round these highlands long enough; turn northward. Instruct the people as follows: "You are about to cross the territory of your kinsfolk, the sons of Esau, who live in Seir. They will be afraid of you, but you must be very careful not to provoke them; for I am not going to give you so much as a foot of their land, because I have given Esau the possession of the highlands of Seir. You may purchase food from them to eat, and you may also buy water from them to drink; for the LORD your God has blessed you in all your undertakings; he has looked after you in your journey in this great desert; for forty years now the LORD your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing."'

"So we moved on, away from our kinsfolk, the sons of Esau, who live in Seir, away from the Arabah route, from Elath and Ezion-geber. We turned, and moved on toward the wilderness of Moab. Then the LORD said to me, 'Do not take a hostile attitude toward Moab, nor provoke them to battle; for I am not going to give you possession of any of their land, because I have given the sons of Lot possession of Ar. (The Emim used to live in it, a people as great, numerous, and tall as the Anakim; like the Anakim they also were known as Rephaim [titans], but the 12 Moabites call them Emim; and in Seir the Horites used to live, but the sons of Esau conquered them, and exterminated them from their way, and settled in their place, as Israel did with the land of their possession, which the LORD gave them.) Up then, and cross the brook Zered.'

14 "So we crossed the brook Zered. The time that we took to journey from Kadesh-barnea until we crossed the brook Zered was thirty-eight years; until all that generation, that is, the warriors, had perished from the camp, as the LORD had sworn to them; since the hand of the LORD had been against them, to exterminate them from the camp, until they came to an end.

16 "When all the warriors had finally perished from the people, the LORD said to me, 'Today you are going to cross Ar, the territory of Moab. When you approach the frontier of the Ammonites, do not take a hostile attitude toward them, nor provoke them; for I am not going to give you possession of any of the land of the Ammonites, because I gave the sons of Lot possession of it. (It also was known as a land of Rephaim, since Rephaim used to live in it; but the Ammonites call them

20 Zamzummim, a people as great, numerous, and tall as the Anakim. The LORD exterminated them from their way, so that they conquered them, and settled in their place, as he did for the sons of Esau, who live in Seir, when he exterminated the Horites from their way, so that they conquered them, and settled

23 in their place, as to this day. Likewise the Avvim, who lived in villages as far as Gaza, the Cretans, who came from Crete, exterminated, and settled in their place.) Up, move on, and cross the river Arnon. Here I am delivering Sihon, king of Heshbon, the Amorite, and his land into your power. Begin the conquest, and provoke him to battle.

25 This very day I will begin to put the dread and fear of you upon the peoples everywhere under the heavens, who, when they hear news of you, will tremble and quail before you.'

26 "So I sent messengers from the desert of Kedemoth to Sihon, king of Heshbon, with a peaceful message, as follows: 'Let me pass through your land; I will go only by the road, turning neither to the right nor to the left. You shall sell me food to eat, and sell me water to drink; let me walk through, as the sons of Esau, who live in Seir, did for me, and the Moabites, who live in Ar; until I cross the Jordan into the land which the LORD our God is going to give us.'

"But Sihon, king of Heshbon, would not let us pass through his land; for the LORD your God made him stubborn and defiant, that he might deliver him into your power, as is the case today.

"Then the LORD said to me, 'See, I have begun by putting Sihon and his land at your mercy; begin the conquest by occupying his land.'

"When Sihon came out to engage us in battle at Jahaz, with all his people, the LORD our God put him at our mercy, so that we defeated him and his sons and all his people. At that time we captured all his cities, and in every city we massacred its men, women, and children, sparing none; only we took the cattle as our booty, along with the spoil of the cities that we had captured. From Aroer which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, and the city that is in the valley, as far as Gilead, there was no city that was too strong for us; the LORD our God put all at our mercy; only you did not go near the land of the Ammonites, all the land along the river Jabbok and the cities of the highlands, just as the LORD our God had commanded us.

"When we moved on, and proceeded up the road to Bashan, Og, king of Bashan, together with all his people, came out to engage us in battle at Edrei, but the LORD said to me, 'Do not be afraid of him; for I am delivering him and all his people and his land into your power, so that you shall do to him as you did to Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon.'

"So the LORD our God delivered Og also, king of Bashan, and all his people into our power, and we harried him until not a survivor was left to him. At that time we captured all his cities (there was not a city of them that we did not take), the sixty cities in all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan (all of these being cities fortified with high walls, gates, and bars), besides very many unwalled towns. We annihilated them, as we did in the case of Sihon, king of Heshbon, in every city massacring its men, women, and children; but all the cattle and the spoil of the cities we took as our booty.

"Thus we conquered at that time from the two Amorite kings beyond the Jordan the land from the river Arnon as far as Mount Hermon (the Sidonians call Hermon Sirion, while the Amorites call it Senir), all the cities of the tableland, the whole of Gilead, and the whole of Bashan as far as Salecah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan. (For Og, king of Bashan, was the last survivor of the remnant of the Rephaim; his sarcophagus was an iron sarcophagus; is it not still at the Ammonite city of Rabbah? It was nine cubits long, and four cubits broad, according to the ordinary cubit.) So we occupied this land at that time.

"The territory beginning at Aroer, which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, and half of the highlands of Gilead, with its cities, I gave to the Reubenites and Gadites; while the rest of Gilead and the whole of Bashan, the kingdom of Og, I gave to the half-tribe of Manasseh, namely, the whole region of Argob. (That Bashan is all called a land of Rephaim. It was Jair, a Manassite, who captured the whole region of Argob, as far as the frontier of the Geshurites and the Maacathites, and called it, namely, Bashan, after his own name, Havvoth-jair, as it is to this day.) To Machir, then, I gave Gilead, and to the Reubenites and Gadites I gave the territory from Gilead as far as the river Arnon, the stream itself and its banks, and as far as the Jabbok river, the frontier of the Ammonites; along with the Arabah and the Jordan with its banks, from Chinnereth as far as the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, at the foot of the slopes of Pisgah eastward.

"At that time I charged you, saying, 'Since the LORD your God has given you this land to occupy, all of you who are stout-hearted shall cross over as picked troops ahead of your fellow-Israelites; but your wives, your little ones, and your cattle (I know that you have many cattle) shall remain in the cities which I have given you, until the LORD provides your kinsmen with a home, as he has you, and they also occupy the land which the LORD your God is giving them beyond the Jordan.

Then each of you may return to his own property, which I have given you.'

"I charged Joshua also at that time, 21 saying, 'You have seen with your own eyes all that the LORD your God has done to these two kings; so shall the LORD do to all the kingdoms into which you are about to cross. Do not be 22 afraid of them; for it is the LORD your God who fights for you.'

"I also entreated the LORD at that 23 time, saying, 'O Lord GOD, thou hast 24 only begun to show thy servant thy greatness and thy mighty power; for what god is there in the heavens or on the earth who can do such deeds and mighty acts as thine? Pray let me 25 go over, and see the fine land which is beyond the Jordan, those magnificent highlands, and the Lebanon.'

"But the LORD was angry with me 26 on your account, and would not listen to me. The LORD said to me, 'Enough, say not another word to me about this matter. Climb to the top of Pisgah, and 27 look out, west, north, south, and east; look well; for you shall not cross this Jordan. But commission Joshua, en- 28 courage and strengthen him; for he shall lead this people across, and he shall put them in possession of the land on which you look.'

"So we remained in the valley opposite Beth-peor.

"And now, O Israel, heed the statutes 4 and ordinances which I am teaching you to observe, that you may live, and go in and occupy the land which the LORD, the God of your fathers, is giving you. You must not add anything to 2 the charge that I am enjoining on you, nor take anything from it, that you may keep the commands of the LORD your God which I am giving you. You 3 saw with your own eyes what the LORD did in the matter of the Baal of Peor; for everyone that followed the Baal of Peor, the LORD your God destroyed from your midst; whereas you who held 4 fast to the LORD your God are all alive today. Here I am teaching you, as the 5 LORD my God commanded me, to observe statutes and ordinances in the land which you are invading for conquest. Be careful, then, that you ob- 6 serve them; for that will demonstrate your wisdom and intelligence to the nations, who, when they hear of all these statutes, will say, 'This great nation is indeed a wise and intelligent people!'

 7 For what great nation is there that has a god so near it as is the LORD our God
 8 whenever we call on him? And what great nation is there that has statutes and ordinances so just as all this code that I am putting before you today?
 9 Only take care, and watch yourselves well that you do not forget the things that you saw with your own eyes, and that they do not slip from your mind as long as you live; but that you impart them to your children and your
 10 children's children—the day that you stood before the LORD your God at Horeb, when the LORD said to me, 'Gather the people to me, that I may let them hear my words, so that they may learn to stand in awe of me all the days of their life on the earth, and so instruct 11 their children.' You came near, and stood at the foot of the mountain, while the mountain flamed with fire up to the very heart of the heavens, shrouded in darkness, cloud, and gloom.
 12 The LORD spoke to you out of the fire, when you heard the sound of words, but saw no form, there being only a voice.
 13 He made his covenant known to you, which he commanded you to observe, namely, the decalogue, and he wrote
 14 it on two stone tablets. As for myself, the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you to observe statutes and ordinances in the land into which you 15 are crossing for conquest. So watch yourselves well (since you saw no form at all when the LORD spoke to you at 16 Horeb out of the fire), that you do not act perniciously by carving an image for yourselves in the shape of any statue, 17 like male or female, like any animal that is on the earth, or any bird that flies in 18 the air, or any reptile on the ground, or any fish that is in the waters under
 19 the earth; beware, when you look up into the heavens and see all the host of the heavens, the sun, moon, and stars, that you do not let yourselves be allured into paying homage to them, and serving them, which things the LORD
 20 your God has allotted to all the peoples everywhere under the heavens; whereas the LORD took you and brought you out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to become a people of his very own, as is 21 the case today. Although the LORD was angry with me on your account, and swore that I was not to cross the Jordan, nor enter the fine land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage, but that I was to die in this land instead of crossing the Jordan, yet you are going to go over and occupy that fine land. Take care that you do not forget the covenant of the LORD your God which he made with you and carve an image for yourselves in the shape of anything about which the LORD your God gave you instructions; for the LORD your God is a consuming fire, a jealous God.

"When you have children and grand-children, and grow old in the land, if you act perniciously by carving an image in the shape of anything at all, and do what is evil in the sight of the LORD your God, thus provoking him to jealousy, I call heaven and earth to witness against you today, that you shall soon perish completely from the land which you are about to cross the Jordan to occupy. You shall not live long upon it, but shall be completely wiped out. The LORD shall scatter you among the peoples, and you shall be left a paltry few among the nations where the LORD drives you. There you will have to serve man-made gods of wood and stone, that neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell. Nevertheless you shall seek the LORD your God there, and you shall find him, if you search for him with all your mind and heart. When you are in distress, and all these things happen to you, in the end you shall come back to the LORD your God, and heed his injunctions; for the LORD your God is a merciful God; he will not fail you, nor destroy you, nor forget the covenant which he swore to your fathers. For inquire now of the early times which preceded you, since the day that God created man on the earth, and from one end of the heavens to the other, if anything as great as this has ever happened, or if anything like this has ever been heard of: did any people ever hear the voice of a god speaking out of fire, as you have, and still live? Or has any god ventured to go and take a nation for himself out of another nation by tests, signs, and portents, by war, by a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and by great terrors, just as you saw the LORD your God do for you in Egypt? You have learned to know that the LORD is God, there being no other but he. Out of the heavens he let you hear his voice, to discipline you, and on earth he let you see his mighty fire, when you heard his words out of the fire. Because he loved your fathers, and chose their descendants after them, and in his own person brought you out of Egypt by his great power, by driving out of your way nations greater and stronger than you, that he might bring you into a position to give you their land for a heritage, as it is today; therefore be assured this day, and keep in mind that the LORD is God in the heavens above and on the earth below, there being no other. You must keep his statutes and commands, which I am giving you today, that you may prosper, and your children after you, and that you may live long upon the land which the LORD your God is giving you for life."

Then Moses proceeded to set apart three cities beyond the Jordan to the east, that a homicide who had killed his fellow unintentionally, without having any standing feud with him, might flee there, and by fleeing to one of the following cities might save his life: Bezer in the wilderness on the table-land, for the Reubenites; Ramoth in Gilead, for the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, for the Manassites.

THE SECOND DISCOURSE OF MOSES: THE CODE OF LAWS, 4:44—26:19

This is the code which Moses put before the Israelites; these are the decrees, statutes, and ordinances which Moses communicated to the Israelites when they had come out of Egypt, beyond the Jordan, in the valley opposite Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon, whom Moses and the Israelites defeated when they came out of Egypt, occupying his land and also the land of Og, king of Bashan, the two Amorite kings who lived beyond the Jordan to the east, from Aroer, which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, as far as Mount Sion (that is, Hermon), along with all the Arabah beyond the Jordan to the east as far as the Sea of the Arabah, at the foot of the slopes of Pisgah.

Moses summoned all Israel, and said to them,

"Hear, O Israel, the statutes and ordinances which I am delivering in your hearing today, and you must learn them and be careful to observe them. The LORD our God made a covenant with us at Horeb; it was not with our forefathers that the LORD made this covenant, but with ourselves, with those of us who are all here alive today. The LORD talked with you face to face out of the fire at the mountain, myself standing between the LORD and you at the time, to communicate to you the words of the LORD; for you stood in fear of the fire, and did not ascend the mountain. He said,

"Since I, the LORD, am your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery, you must have no other gods beside me.

"You must not carve an image for yourself in the shape of anything that is in the heavens above, or that is on the earth below, or that is in the waters under the earth; you must not pay homage to them, nor serve them; for I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, punishing children for the sins of their fathers, to the third or fourth generation of those who hate me, but showing kindness to the thousandth generation of those who love me and keep my commands.

"You must not invoke the name of the LORD your God to evil intent; for the LORD will not hold him guiltless who invokes his name to evil intent.

"Be careful to keep the sabbath day holy, as the LORD your God commanded you. Six days you are to labor and do all your work, but on the seventh day, a sabbath to the LORD your God, you must not do any work at all, neither you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male or female slave, nor your ox, nor your ass, nor any of your cattle, nor the alien in your employ residing in your community, that your male and female slaves may rest as well as you. You must remember that you were once a slave yourself in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD your God brought you out from there by a strong hand and an outstretched arm; that is why the LORD your God has commanded you to observe the sabbath day.

"Honor your father and mother, as the LORD your God has commanded you, that you may live long and prosper in the land that the LORD your God is giving you.

- 17 "You must not commit murder.
 18 "You must not commit adultery.
 19 "You must not steal.
 20 "You must not bring a false charge against your fellow.
 21 "You must not lust after your neighbor's wife, nor covet your neighbor's home, his fields, his male or female slave, his ox, his ass, or anything at all that is your neighbor's."
 22 "These words, and nothing more, the LORD spoke to all your assemblage at the mountain with a loud voice out of the midst of the fire, cloud, and gloom; and he wrote them on two stone tablets, which he gave to me. When you heard the voice out of the darkness, the mountain being aflame with fire, you came up to me, that is, all the heads of your tribes and your elders, and said, 'Seeing that the LORD our God has let us see his glory and his greatness, and that it is his voice which we have heard out of the fire, we know now that God can speak with man, and he still live. Why then should we die? For this great fire is going to consume us! If we continue to hear the voice of the LORD our God any longer, we shall die! For what mortal at all is there that has ever heard the voice of the living God speak out of fire, as we have, and has still lived? Do you go near, and hear all that the LORD our God has to say, and then tell us whatever the LORD our God tells you; when we hear it, we will observe it.'
 28 "When the LORD heard your protestations when you spoke to me, the LORD said to me, 'I have heard the protestations which this people have made to you. They have spoken well. O that their present attitude might lead them always to stand in awe of me and keep all my commands, that it might go well with them and with their children for all time! Go and say to them, "Go home to your tents"; but do you stand here beside me, that I may tell you the whole charge, the statutes and ordinances, that you are to teach them to observe in the land which I am about to give them to occupy.'
 32 "Be careful, then, to do as the LORD your God has commanded you, swerving neither to the right nor to the left.

You must walk in all the way that the LORD your God has appointed you, that you may live, and prosper, and live long in the land that you are to occupy.

"Now this is the charge, the statutes and ordinances, which the LORD your God commanded that you be taught to observe in the land into which you are crossing for conquest, a land flowing with milk and honey, that you, with your son and your grandson, may stand in awe of the LORD your God all your life by observing all his statutes and commands which I am giving you, and that you may live long. Therefore heed them, O Israel, and be careful to observe them, that you may prosper, and multiply greatly, as the LORD, the God of your fathers, promised you.

"Listen, O Israel; the LORD is our God, the LORD alone; so you must love the LORD your God with all your mind and all your heart and all your strength. These instructions that I am giving you today are to be fixed in your mind; you must impress them on your children, and talk about them when you are sitting at home, and when you go off on a journey, when you lie down and when you get up; you must bind them on your hand as a sign, and they must be worn on your forehead as a mark; you must inscribe them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

"When the LORD your God brings you into the land which he promised on oath to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give you great and splendid cities which you did not build, houses full of all kinds of goods which you did not fill them, cisterns already hewn out, which you did not hew out, and vineyards and olive groves which you did not plant, but from which you may eat your fill, then take care not to forget the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery. You must stand in awe of the LORD your God; him you must serve; and by his name you must swear. You must not run after alien gods, any of the gods of the nations that surround you, lest the anger of the LORD your God blaze against you, and he wipe you off the face of the earth; for the LORD your God in your midst is a jealous God.

"You must not put the LORD your God to the test, as you did at Massah. You must be sure to keep the commands of the LORD your God, as well as his decrees and statutes which he commanded you. You must do what is right and good in the sight of the LORD, that you may prosper, and go in and occupy the fine land concerning which the LORD swore to your fathers that he would drive all your enemies out of your way, as the LORD promised.

"When your son asks you in time to come, 'What is the significance of the decrees, statutes, and ordinances which the LORD our God has commanded you?' you must say to your son, 'When we were Pharaoh's slaves in Egypt, the LORD brought us out of Egypt by a strong hand. The LORD displayed before our eyes great and ominous signs and portents against Egypt, against Pharaoh and all his court, but he brought us out from there that he might bring us into a position to give us the land which he promised on oath to our fathers. So the LORD commanded us to observe all these statutes, by standing in awe of the LORD our God for our good always, that he might keep us alive, as at this day. Hence it will stand to our credit with the LORD our God to be careful to observe all this charge, as he commanded us.'

"When the LORD your God brings you into the land which you are invading for conquest, and clears out of your way great nations like the Hittites, Gergashites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites, seven nations greater and stronger than yourselves; when the LORD your God puts them at your mercy, and you defeat them, you must be sure to exterminate them, without making a covenant with them, or giving them any quarter; you must not intermarry with them, neither giving your daughters in marriage to their sons, nor receiving their daughters for your sons; for they would turn your sons from following me to serving alien gods, and then the anger of the LORD would blaze against you, and he would quickly destroy you. But this is how you are to treat them: you must tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, cut down their sacred poles, and burn up their carved images. For you are a people consecrated to the LORD your God, the LORD your God having chosen you out of all the peoples that are on the face of the earth to be a people of his very own. It was not because you were the greatest of all peoples that the LORD set his heart on you and chose you (for you were the smallest of all peoples), but it was because the LORD loved you, and would keep the oath that he swore to your fathers, that the LORD brought you out by a strong hand, and rescued you from a state of slavery, from the power of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. Be assured, then, that the LORD your God is God, a trustworthy God, who to a thousand generations keeps loving faith with those that love him and keep his commands, but one who immediately requites anyone who hates him, by destroying him, never delaying with anyone who hates him, but requiring him immediately. So be careful to observe the charge, the statutes and ordinances, that I am enjoining on you today.

"It will be because you heed these ordinances, and are careful to observe them, that the LORD your God will keep loving faith with you, as he swore to your fathers; he will love you, bless you, and multiply you; he will bless the offspring of your body and the produce of your soil, your grain and wine and oil, the issue of your cattle, and the progeny of your flock, in the land which he swore to your fathers to give you. Blessed shall you be above all peoples, not a male or female being barren among you or your cattle. The LORD will also free you from all sickness, and none of the malignant diseases of Egypt, with which you are acquainted, will he inflict on you; but he will inflict them on all who hate you. You must annihilate all the peoples whom the LORD your God is about to surrender to you, without giving them any quarter, so that you may not serve their gods; for that would be dangerous for you.

"Though you say to yourselves, 'These nations are greater than I; how can I conquer them?' you must not be afraid of them, remembering rather what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and all Egypt: the great tests which you saw with your own eyes, the signs and portents, the strong hand and outstretched arm, by means of which the LORD your God brought you out. So shall the LORD your God do to all the peoples of whom you stand in fear.

- 20 In fact, the LORD your God will send leprosy among them, until any that are left or hidden perish from your way.
- 21 You must not stand in terror of them; for the LORD your God is in your
- 22 midst, a great and awful God. The LORD your God, however, will only clear these nations out of your way little by little, in that you are not to be allowed to put an end to them all at once, lest the wild beasts grow too numerous for you. But the LORD your God will put them at your mercy, and will throw them into great confusion,
- 24 until they are destroyed. He will deliver their kings into your power, so that you shall obliterate their very name from under the heavens, not one being able to hold his own against you,
- 25 until you have destroyed them. The carved images of their gods you must burn up; you must not covet the silver or the gold on them, nor appropriate it for yourselves, lest you be ensnared by it; for it is abominable to the LORD
- 26 your God, and you must not bring anything abominable into your house, and so become a doomed thing like it; you must rather loathe it and abhor it; for it is a doomed thing.
- 8 "All the charge that I am enjoining on you today, you must be careful to observe, that you may live and multiply, and go in and occupy the land which the LORD promised on oath to
- 2 your fathers. You must remember all the experiences through which the LORD your God has led you for the past forty years in the desert, that he might bring afflictions on you to test you, to find out whether it was your intention to keep his commands or not.
- 3 So he brought afflictions on you, and let you hunger, and then fed you with manna, with which you were not acquainted, nor were your fathers, that he might make you understand that it is not on bread alone that man lives, but it is on everything produced by command of the LORD that man lives.
- 4 Your clothing did not become too worn for you to wear, nor did your feet swell
- 5 during the past forty years. Be assured, then, in your mind that the LORD your God has been disciplining you as a man
- 6 disciplines his son. You must keep the commands of the LORD your God by walking in his ways and by standing in awe of him; for the LORD your God is bringing you into a fine land, a land with streams of water, with springs and pools welling up in the valleys and on the hills; a land of wheat and barley, of vines, fig-trees, and pomegranates; a land of oil-producing olives and honey; a land where you may eat food without stint, lacking nothing in it; a land whose stones contain iron, and out of whose hills you can dig copper. When you have eaten your fill, you must thank the LORD your God for the fine land that he has given you. Take care not to forget the LORD your God by not keeping his commands, ordinances, and statutes, which I am commanding you today; and when you have eaten your fill, and have built fine houses to live in, and your herds and flocks multiply, and your silver and gold increase, and all that you have increases, not to become haughty, and forget the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery, who led you through the great and terrible desert with its venomous serpents and scorpions and thirsty waterless ground, who brought water for you out of the flinty rock, who fed you in the desert with manna, with which your fathers were not acquainted, that he might bring afflictions on you and test you, in order to make you prosper in the end; and then say to yourselves, 'My own power and the strength of my own hand have gained this wealth for me.' You must remember that it is the LORD your God who has been giving you power to gain wealth, that he might carry out his covenant which he swore to your fathers, as is the case today.

"If you ever forget the LORD your God, and run after alien gods, and serve them and pay homage to them, I warn you today that you shall most certainly perish. Like the nations that the LORD is to wipe out of your way, so shall you perish, since you would not listen to the injunctions of the LORD your God.

"Listen, O Israel; today you are about to cross the Jordan, to undertake the conquest of nations greater and stronger than yourselves, cities great and fortified up to the heavens, a people great and tall, the Anakim people, whom you yourselves know, and of whom you have heard it said, 'Who can hold his own against the Anakim?' Be assured, then, today that the LORD your God will be the one to go over ahead of you as a consuming fire; it is he who will destroy them and subdue them before you, so that you shall conquer them and kill them off easily, as the LORD promised you. After the LORD your God has driven them out of your way, never say to yourselves, 'It is because of my goodness that the LORD brought me into possession of this land'; whereas it is because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD is about to drive them out of your way. It is not because of your goodness or integrity of mind that you are coming into possession of their land, but it is because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD your God is about to drive them out of your way, and in order to carry out the oath that the LORD swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Be assured, then, that it is not because of your goodness that the LORD your God is giving you this fine land to occupy; for you are a stiff-necked people.

"Remember, never forget, how you provoked the LORD your God to anger in the desert; from the time that you left the land of Egypt until you reached this place you have been in a state of contention with the LORD. Even at Horeb you provoked the LORD to anger; indeed the LORD was angry enough with you to destroy you. When I climbed the mountain to receive the stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant which the LORD had made with you, I remained on the mountain forty days and nights, without eating food or drinking water. Then the LORD gave me the two stone tablets, inscribed by the finger of God, and on them a copy of all the words that the LORD had spoken to you at the mountain out of the fire on the day of the assemblage. At the end of forty days and nights, the LORD gave me the two stone tablets, the tablets of the covenant, and the LORD said to me, 'Rise, hurry down from here; for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted perniciously, in that they have been quick to swerve from the path that I appointed them, by making themselves a molten image.'

"The LORD said to me further, 'I see that this people is indeed a stiff-necked people. Let me alone, that I may destroy them, and blot out their very name from under the heavens, and make you into a nation stronger and greater than they.'

"So I turned and descended from the mountain, the mountain flaming with fire, and the two tablets of the covenant in my two hands. I found that you had indeed sinned against the LORD your God by making yourselves a molten bull, having quickly swerved from the path that the LORD had appointed you. So I seized the two tablets, and flung them from my hands, and broke them before your eyes. Then I prostrated myself before the LORD, as I did before, for forty days and nights, without eating food or drinking water, because of all the sin that you had committed, in doing what was evil in the sight of the LORD, thus provoking him to jealousy. For I stood in dread of the anger and wrath which the LORD had against you to your destruction. But the LORD listened to me on that occasion also. With Aaron, too, the LORD was angry enough to destroy him, but I prayed for Aaron also at that time. Then, taking the wicked thing that you had made, the bull, I burned it up, and crushed it, grinding it thoroughly until it was as fine as dust, and then I threw the dust of it into the stream that flowed down from the mountain. (At Taberah also, at Massah, and at Kibroth-hattaavah you continued to provoke the LORD to anger; and when the LORD sent you away from Kadesh-barnea, saying, 'Go up and occupy the land that I am giving you,' you scorned the command of the LORD your God; you would not trust him, nor heed his instructions. You have been in a state of contention with the LORD ever since I knew you.) So I lay prostrate before the LORD for the forty days and nights that I did, because the LORD had threatened to destroy you, and I prayed to the LORD, saying, 'O Lord GOD, do not destroy thy people, thy very own, whom thou hast rescued by thy might, whom thou hast brought out of Egypt by a strong hand. Remember thy servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; pay no attention to the obstinacy of this people, nor their wickedness, nor their sin, lest the land out of which thou hast brought us say, "Because the LORD could not bring them into the land that he promised them, and because he hated them, he has brought them out to slay them in the desert!"

29 And yet they are thy people, thy very own, whom thou hast brought out by thy great power and outstretched arm.'

10 "At that time the LORD said to me, 'Cut two tablets of stone like the former ones, and ascend the mountain to me; also make an ark of wood; that I may write on the tablets the words that were on the former tablets which you broke; and then you are to put them in the ark.'

3 "So I made an ark of acacia wood, cut two tablets of stone like the former ones, and ascended the mountain, with the two tablets in my hand. When the LORD had reproduced the former inscription on the tablets, the decalogue which he spoke to you at the mountain out of the fire on the day of the assemblage, the LORD gave them to me.

5 Then I turned, and descending from the mountain, I put the tablets in the ark that I had made, as the LORD had commanded me, and there they are."

6 (The Israelites set out from Beeroth-bene-jaakan for Moserah, where Aaron died, and was buried, Eleazar, his son, succeeding him in the priesthood. From there they set out for Gudgod, and from Gudgod for Jotbah, a land with streams of water.)

8 "At that time the LORD set apart the tribe of Levi to carry the ark of the covenant of the LORD, to be in attendance on the LORD as his ministers, and to pronounce blessings in his name, as they do to this day. That is why Levi has had no property or heritage with his fellows, the LORD being his heritage, as the LORD your God promised him.

10 "So I remained on the mountain as before, for forty days and nights, and the LORD listened to me on that occasion also, in that the LORD agreed not to destroy you. Then the LORD said to me, 'Proceed at once to set out at the head of the people, so that they may go in and occupy the land which I swore to their fathers to give them.'

12 "And now, O Israel, what does the LORD your God require of you but to fear the LORD your God, walk in all his ways, love him, serve the LORD your God with all your mind and heart, by keeping the commands of the LORD and his statutes that I am commanding you today, for your good? Even though the heavens to the highest heavens belong to the LORD your God, and the earth with all that is in it, yet the LORD set his heart on your fathers to love them, and chose their descendants after them, even you, in preference to all peoples, as is the case today. Be circumcised in heart, then, and do not be stiff-necked any more; for the LORD your God is the God of gods, and the Lord of lords, the great, mighty, and awful God, who is never partial, and never takes a bribe, who secures justice for the orphan and the widow, and loves the resident alien in giving him food and clothing. So you should love the resident alien; for you were once resident aliens yourselves in the land of Egypt. You must stand in awe of the LORD your God; him you must serve; to him you must hold fast; and by his name you must swear. He is to be your praise, and he your God, who has performed with you these great and awful deeds that you have seen with your own eyes. Your fathers went down to Egypt, seventy in number; and now the LORD your God has made you like the stars of the heavens for multitude.

"So you must love the LORD your God, and always keep his charge, his statutes, ordinances, and commands. You must teach them to your children who have not known or experienced the discipline of the LORD your God, his greatness, his strong hand and outstretched arm, his signs, and his deeds that he did in Egypt to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and to all his land; and what he did to the army of the Egyptians, to their horses and chariots, how he made the waters of the Red Sea engulf them as they pursued you, and how the LORD destroyed them, as it is to this day; and what he did to you in the desert until you reached this place; and what he did to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, Reuben's son, how the earth opened its mouth, and in the midst of all Israel swallowed them up, with their households, their tents, and every living thing that was in their

7 train; for it is your eyes that saw all the great deeds which the LORD performed. Accordingly, you must keep all the charge which I am enjoining on you today, that you may be strong, and go in and occupy the land into which you are crossing for conquest, and that you may live long upon the land which the LORD swore to your fathers to give to them and their descendants, a land flowing with milk and honey. For the land which you are invading for conquest is not like the land of Egypt from which you came, where you used to sow your seed and water it by hand like a vegetable garden. On the contrary, the land into which you are crossing for conquest is a land of hills and valleys, watered by rain from the sky, a land for which the LORD your God cares, the eyes of the LORD your God being continually on it, from the beginning to the end of the year.

9 "If you will but heed the commands that I am giving you today, to love the LORD your God, and serve him with all your mind and heart, he will give you rain for your land in due season, the winter rain and the spring rain, so that you will gather in your grain and wine and oil, and he will produce grass in your fields for your cattle, and you will eat your fill.

6 "Take care lest you be deceived into turning aside to serve alien gods and to pay homage to them, and the anger of the LORD blaze against you, and he shut up the skies so that there be no rain, and the land yield no produce, and you quickly perish off the fine land that the LORD is about to give you.

8 Accordingly, you must keep these words of mine in mind and heart; you must bind them on your hand as a sign, and they must be worn on your forehead as a mark; you must teach them to your children, talking about them when you are sitting at home and when you go off on a journey, when you lie down and when you get up; you must inscribe them on the door-posts of your house and on your gates, so that your life and the life of your children may be long in the land which the LORD swore to your fathers to give them for as long as the sky remains over the earth.

2 "If you are but careful to observe all this charge that I am enjoining on you, loving the LORD your God, walking in all his ways, and holding fast to him, the LORD shall drive all these nations out of your way, and you shall conquer nations greater and stronger than you. Every place on which the sole of your foot treads shall be yours; the region from the desert as far as Lebanon, from the River, the river Euphrates, as far as the Western Sea shall be your domain. No one shall hold his own against you, in that the LORD your God shall put the dread and fear of you on all the land on which you shall tread, as he promised you.

"See, I am putting before you today a blessing and a curse: a blessing, if you heed the commands of the LORD your God which I am giving you today; and a curse, if you do not heed the commands of the LORD your God, but swerve from the way that I am appointing you today, by running after alien gods of whom you have had no experience. When the LORD your God brings you into the land which you are invading for conquest, you are to place the blessing on Mount Gerizim and the curse on Mount Ebal. (Are they not beyond the Jordan, west of it, toward the sunset, in the land of the Canaanites who live in the Arabah, opposite Gilgal, beside the terebinth of Moreh?) For you are about to cross the Jordan to enter into possession of the land which the LORD your God is giving you. When you have conquered it, and settled down in it, you must be careful to observe all the statutes and ordinances that I am putting before you today.

"The following are the statutes and ordinances which you must be careful to observe in the land which the LORD, the God of your fathers, shall give you to hold as long as you live on the earth.

"You must be sure to destroy all the sanctuaries where the nations whom you are to dispossess served their gods, on high mountains, on hills, and under every spreading tree; you must tear down their altars, smash their sacred pillars, burn up their sacred poles, and cut down the carved images of their gods, obliterating the very name of them from that sanctuary. You must not act like this toward the LORD your God, but to the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses out of all your tribes as the seat of his presence, to his habitation you must resort; there 6 you must go, and there bring your burnt-offerings, your sacrifices, your dues, your personal contributions, your votive offerings, your voluntary offerings, and the firstlings of your herd and 7 flock; and there you must eat before the LORD your God, and with your households rejoice over all your undertakings, in which the LORD your God has blessed you.

8 "You must not do just as we are doing here today, each whatever he 9 pleases; for you have not as yet reached the home and heritage which the LORD your God is about to give you.
 10 But when you cross the Jordan, and settle down in the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage, and when he gives you rest from all your enemies around you, so that you
 11 live in security, then to the sanctuary that the LORD your God chooses as the abiding-place of his presence, there you must bring all that I am commanding you, your burnt-offerings, your sacrifices, your dues, your personal contributions, and all your choice votive offerings which you vow to 12 the LORD; and you are to rejoice before the LORD your God, you, your sons and daughters, your male and female slaves, and the Levite living in your community; for he has no property or heritage with you.

13 "Take care not to offer your burnt-offerings at any sanctuary that you see;
 14 but at the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses in one of your tribes, there you must sacrifice your burnt-offerings, and there do all that I am
 15 commanding you. However, whenever you wish you may slaughter anything for food purposes in any of your communities to the extent of the blessing that the LORD your God accords you, the unclean along with the clean eating it, as though it were a gazelle or a deer;
 16 only you must not partake of the blood; you must pour it out on the ground like water.

17 "You may not eat in your home town the dues of your grain or wine or oil, nor the firstlings of your herd or flock, nor any votive-offering that you vow, nor your voluntary offerings, nor 18 your personal contributions, but you must eat them before the LORD your God at the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses, you, your son, your daughter, your male and female slaves, and the Levite living in your community, rejoicing before the LORD your God over all your undertakings. Take 19 care not to neglect the Levite as long as you live in your land.

"When the LORD your God enlarges
 20 your territory, as he has promised you, and you say, 'I would eat meat' (seeing that you have a longing to eat meat), you may do so whenever you wish. If 21 the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses as the seat of his presence is far away from you, as I have instructed you, you may slaughter for food purposes in your own communities whenever you wish any of your herd or flock which the LORD has given you. You are to eat it just as you
 22 would a gazelle or a deer, the unclean and the clean eating it together; only be 23 sure never to partake of the blood; for the blood is the life, and you must not eat the life along with the flesh; you
 24 must not eat it; you must pour it out on the ground like water. You must not 25 eat it, that you may prosper, and your children after you; for then you will be doing what is right in the sight of the LORD. However, what consecrated gifts
 26 you have and your votive offerings, you must take, and go to the sanctuary that the LORD chooses, and offer your 27 burnt-offerings, the flesh along with the blood, on the altar of the LORD your God; the blood of your sacrifices is to be poured out on the altar of the LORD your God, but the flesh you are to eat yourselves.

"Be careful to heed all these things
 28 that I am commanding you, that it may go well with you, and with your children after you for all time; for then you will be doing what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God.

"When the LORD your God exter-
 29 mines from your way the nations to conquer whom you are going there, and you conquer them, and settle down in their land, take care not to be beguiled
 30 into copying them, after they have been exterminated from your way; and not to resort to their gods, saying, 'How did these nations worship their gods?— that I in turn may do the same.'
 31 That I must not act like this toward the LORD your God; for every kind of practice that is abominable to the LORD, what he hates, they carried on for their gods; for even their sons and daughters they used to burn to their gods.

2 "Everything that I am commanding you, that you must be careful to observe, without adding anything to it, or taking anything from it.

13 "If a prophet or a dreamer of dreams appears among you, offering you a sign or portent, and the sign or portent comes true, in connection with which he said to you, 'Let us follow alien gods! (of whom you have had no experience), and let us serve them,' you must not heed the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams; for the LORD your God is testing you to find out whether you really love the LORD your God with all your mind and heart. It is the LORD your God that you must follow; of him you must stand in awe; his commands you must keep; his injunctions you must heed; him you must serve; and to him you must hold fast. But that prophet or that dreamer of dreams must be put to death, because he spoke falsely against the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, and rescued you from a state of slavery, in order to allure you from the path in which the LORD your God commanded you to walk. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst.

16 "If your brother, the son of your mother, or your son, or your daughter, or the wife of your bosom, or your friend who is as precious as your own life, entices you in secret, saying, 'Let us go and serve alien gods!' (of whom you have had no experience, nor have your fathers, namely, any of the gods of the peoples who surround you, either near you or far away from you, from one end of the earth to the other), you must not yield to him, nor heed him; you must not show him any mercy, nor spare him, nor shield him; but you must be sure to kill him; your own hand to be the first against him to put him to death, and then the hands of all the people. You must stone him to death, because he tried to allure you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery; and when all Israel hears of it, they will be afraid, and never again do such a wicked thing as this in your midst.

"If you hear it said that in one of 12 your cities, which the LORD your God is giving you to live in, certain scoundrels from among you have gone out and enticed their fellow-citizens, saying, 'Let us go and serve alien gods!' (of whom you have had no experience), you must examine and investigate, and make a thorough inquiry; and if it proves true and is established that this abominable thing has been done in your midst, you must be sure to put the inhabitants of that city to the sword, exterminating it and all that is in it; and all its spoil you must gather into the middle of the open square, and then burn up the city with all its spoil as a holocaust to the LORD your God, to lie in ruins forever, never to be rebuilt. Nothing of the things doomed is to be appropriated by you, that the LORD may turn from his fierce anger, and show you mercy, and in his mercy multiply you, as he swore to your fathers; for then you will be heeding the injunction of the LORD your God by keeping all his commands which I am giving you today, by doing what is right in the sight of the LORD your God.

"As children of the LORD your God, 14 you must not cut yourselves nor shave your foreheads for the dead; for you are a people consecrated to the LORD your God, and out of all the peoples that are on the face of the earth the LORD has chosen you to be a people of his very own.

"You must not eat anything abominable. The following are animals that you may eat: the ox, the sheep, the goat, the deer, the gazelle, the roebuck, the wild-goat, the ibex, the antelope, and the mountain-sheep. Also, you may eat any animal with a cloven hoof, that has the hoof divided completely in two, and that chews the cud. However, of those that chew the cud or have the hoof completely cloven, you must not eat the following: the camel, the hare, and the rock-badger, because, though chewing the cud, they do not have the hoof cloven—they are unclean for you; also the pig, because, though having the hoof cloven, it does not chew the cud—it is unclean for you. Of their flesh you must not eat, and their carcasses you must not touch.

9 "Of all things that live in the water
10 you may eat the following: whatever has fins and scales you may eat; but whatever has not fins and scales you must not eat; it is unclean for you.

11 "You may eat any clean bird; but the 12 following are the ones of which you must not eat: the griffon, the vulture, 13 the eagle, the buzzard, the kite in its 14 several species, the raven in all its species, 15 the ostrich, the night-hawk, the sea-mew, the hawk in its several species, 16 the screech-owl, the eagle-owl, the 17 horned owl, the jackdaw, the carrion-18 vulture, the cormorant, the stork, the heron in its several species, the bittern, 19 and the bat. Also, all winged insects are unclean for you; they must not be 20 eaten. Any winged thing that is clean you may eat.

21 "You must not eat anything that has died a natural death; for you are a people consecrated to the LORD your God;
you may give it to any alien residing in your community to eat, or sell it to a foreigner.

"You must not boil a kid in its mother's milk.

22 "Every year you must be sure to take out the dues of all the produce of 23 your seed, that has left the field, and before the LORD your God, at the sanctuary which he chooses as the abiding-place of his presence, you must eat the dues of your grain, wine, and oil, and the firstlings of your herd and flock, that you may learn to stand in 24 awe of the LORD your God always. If the road is too long for you, so that you cannot transport it, because the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses as the seat of his presence is too far away from you, then, when the 25 LORD your God blesses you, you must give it in money, securing the money in your hand, and going to the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses 26 (you may spend the money for whatever you wish, for oxen, sheep, wine, or liquor, or for anything that you have a craving for), and there you must feast in joy before the LORD your God, you and your household. Also, you must 27 not neglect the Levite living in your community; for he has no property or heritage with you.

28 "Every third year you must take out all the dues of your produce for that year, and deposit it in your community,

so that the Levite (since he has no 29 property or heritage with you), the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, who are in your community, may come and eat their fill, in order that the LORD your God may bless you in every enterprise that you undertake.

"Every seventh year you must ob- 11 serve a remission; and the operation of the remission is to be as follows: every creditor who has a claim against his fellow-countryman is to remit it; he is not to press it against his fellow-countryman or kinsman; for a remission has been proclaimed by the LORD. Against an alien you may press it; but anything of yours that is in the possession of your kinsman you must remit. However, 14 there shall be no poor among you; for the LORD will be sure to bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage to occupy, if you but heed the injunctions of the LORD your God by being careful to observe all this charge which I am enjoining on you today. When the LORD 16 your God blesses you, as he has promised you, you shall have many nations obligated to you, but you shall never be obligated to them; you shall rule over many nations, but they shall never rule over you.

"If there is a needy person among 17 you, any of your fellow-countrymen in any of your communities in the land which the LORD your God is giving you, you must not steel your heart, nor shut your hand against your needy countryman; but you must open wide your hand to him, and freely lend him sufficient for the needs that he has.
Take care lest a base thought enter your head like this: 'The seventh year, the year of remission, is near!' and you behave meanly to your needy countryman by not giving him anything, and he cries to the LORD against you, and you incur guilt. You must give to him 19 freely; and you are not to begrudge it when you give him something, because the LORD your God for this very thing will bless you in all your work and all your undertakings. For the poor will 11 never cease to be in your land; that is why I am commanding you to open wide your hand to your poor and needy fellow-countryman in your land.

"If a countryman of yours, a Hebrew 12:
man or woman, is sold to you, he is to work six years for you, but in the seventh year you must set him free from your service. And when you set him free from your service, you must not send him away empty-handed; you must provision him liberally out of your flock, threshing-floor, and wine-press, supplying him as the LORD your God has blessed you. You must remember that you were once a slave yourself in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD your God rescued you; that is why I am giving you this command today. If, however, he says to you, 'I will not leave your service'—because he is fond of you and your household, and has fared well with you—then you must take an awl, and drive it through his ear into the door; he shall then be your slave permanently. You shall do the same with your female slave. You must not begrudge it when you set him free from your service; for he has worked six years for you at half the cost of a hired laborer. Then shall the LORD your God bless you in all that you undertake.

"You must consecrate to the LORD your God all the male firstlings of your herd and flock; you must do no work with a firstling ox, nor shear a firstling sheep. You must eat it each year with your household before the LORD your God at the sanctuary which the LORD chooses. If, however, it has any blemish, such as lameness, or blindness, or any bad blemish at all, you must not sacrifice it to the LORD your God. You must eat it in your own community, the unclean and the clean together, as though it were a gazelle or a deer; only you must not partake of the blood; you must pour it out on the ground like water.

"Observe the new moon of Abib by holding the passover for the LORD your God; for on the new moon of Abib the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night. You must sacrifice the passover-victim, a sheep or an ox, to the LORD your God at the sanctuary which the LORD chooses as the abiding-place of his presence. You must not eat leavened bread with it; for seven days you must eat unleavened cakes with it, the bread of distress (for in trepidation you left the land of Egypt) that you may remember the day that you left the land of Egypt all through your life.

For seven days no leaven must be seen in your possession anywhere in your territory, and none of the flesh which you sacrifice on the evening of the first day is to be left over until morning. You may not offer the passover-sacrifice in any of the communities which the LORD your God is giving you; but at the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses as the abiding-place of his presence, there you must offer the passover-sacrifice in the evening at sunset, at the time that you left Egypt. You must cook and eat it at the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses; and in the morning you are to return to your tents. For six days you are to eat unleavened cakes; and on the seventh day there is to be a sacred assembly for the LORD your God, when you must do no work.

"You must count seven weeks, beginning your count of the seven weeks from the time that the sickle is first put to the grain; and then you must hold the feast of weeks for the LORD your God, as a voluntary personal gift, giving as the LORD your God blesses you; and with your son, your daughter, your male and female slaves, the Levite living in your community, the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, who are among you, you are to rejoice before the LORD your God at the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses as the abiding-place of his presence. You must remember that you were once a slave yourself in Egypt; so you must be careful to observe these statutes.

"You must hold the feast of booths for seven days after the ingathering from your threshing-floor and wine-press, rejoicing at your feast, along with your son, your daughter, your male and female slaves, the Levite, the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, who are in your community. For seven days you must hold a feast to the LORD your God at the sanctuary that the LORD chooses; for the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all your undertakings, so that you can only be happy.

"Three times a year all your males must visit the LORD your God at the sanctuary which he chooses; at the feast of unleavened cakes, the feast of weeks, and the feast of booths. And they must not visit the LORD empty-handed, but each with a personal gift befitting the blessing which the LORD your God has bestowed on you.

18 "In all the communities which the LORD your God is giving you, you are to appoint judges and officials for your various tribes, to judge the people aright. You must not pervert justice; you must not show partiality, nor take a bribe; for a bribe blinds the eyes of the learned, and subverts even a just case. 19 Justice, and justice only, you must strive for, in order that you may live, and take possession of the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

20 "You must plant no sacred pole, no wooden object whatsoever, beside the altar of the LORD your God that you make, nor set up a sacred pillar, which is hateful to the LORD your God.

21 "You must not sacrifice to the LORD your God an ox or sheep that has a blemish or any defect; for that would be abominable to the LORD your God.

2 "If there is found among you in any of your communities which the LORD your God is giving you, a man or a woman, who does what is evil in the sight of the LORD your God, by violating his covenant, and has gone and served alien gods, and paid homage to them, namely, the sun, or the moon, or the whole host of the heavens, which I 3 prohibited; if it is reported to you, and you hear of it, you must make a thorough investigation; and if it proves true and is established that such an abominable thing has been done in Israel, you must bring the man or woman who did this evil deed out to your gates, 4 and stone him to death. On the evidence of two or three witnesses shall the condemned person be put to death; he must not be put to death on the evidence of one witness; the hands of the witnesses to be the first against him to put him to death, and then the hands of all the people. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst.

5 "If a case in law should arise in your local community for which you have no precedent, a case of bloodshed, or a law-suit, or an assault, doubtful cases, you must set out and go up to the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses, and coming to the Levitical priests and the judge who is in office at that time, you must inquire of them, and they will let you know the decision for the case. You must then comply with the terms of the decision which they render you from that sanctuary which the LORD chooses, and you must be careful to do just as they direct you, complying with the terms of the verdict which they give you and the judgment which they deliver to you, swerving neither to the right nor to the left from the decision which they render you. The man who acts presumptuously, in not heeding the priest standing in attendance there on the LORD your God or the judge, that man must be put to death. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from Israel; and when all the people hear of it, they will be afraid, and never act presumptuously again.

"When you reach the land that the LORD your God is giving you, and occupy it, and settle down in it, and then declare, 'I must place a king over me like all the nations surrounding me,' you must be sure to make him king over you whom the LORD your God chooses. You must make one of your own countrymen king over you; you may not put a foreigner over you, who is not a countryman of yours. However, he must not provide himself with many horses, nor have the people enter into relations with Egypt again, to provide himself with many horses, since the LORD means that you are never again to go back that way. Neither must he provide himself with many wives, so that his heart may not be estranged; nor must he provide himself with great quantities of silver and gold. As soon as he has taken his seat on his royal throne, he must write for himself in a book a copy of this code as approved by the Levitical priests; he must keep it with him, and peruse it all the days of his life, that he may learn to stand in awe of the LORD his God, by being careful to observe all the provisions of this code and these statutes, that he may not consider himself more exempt than his fellow-countrymen, and that he may not swerve from the charge to the right or to the left, in order that he with his descendants may continue long on the throne in Israel.

"The Levitical priests, that is, the whole tribe of Levi, shall have no property or heritage like the rest of Israel; they shall live on the sacrifices made to the LORD and the dues made over to him. Levi shall have no heritage among his fellows, the LORD being his heritage, as he promised him. This shall be the priests' due from the people, from those sacrificing either an ox or a sheep: the shoulder, the two cheeks, and the stomach are to be given to the priest. Also, you must give him the first of your grain, wine, and oil, with the first of the fleece of your sheep. For the LORD your God has chosen him out of all your tribes, that he and his descendants for all time should be in attendance on the LORD your God to minister to him and pronounce blessings in his name.

"If a Levite leaves one of your local communities anywhere in Israel where he is a resident, he may come whenever he wishes to the sanctuary which the LORD chooses, and minister in the name of the LORD his God like all his fellow-Levites, who are in attendance there on the LORD, having an equal share with them in the living, besides his gratuities."

Concerning sorcery.—"When you enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you, you must not learn to imitate the abominable practices of these nations. There must not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter pass through fire, a diviner, a soothsayer, an augur, a sorcerer, a charmer, a medium, a magician, or a necromancer. For anyone given to these practices is abominable to the LORD; indeed, it is because of these abominable practices that the LORD your God is driving them out of your way. You must be absolutely true to the LORD your God; for while these nations whom you are to conquer give heed to soothsayers and diviners, the LORD your God has not intended you to do so. Instead, the LORD your God will raise up a prophet for you from among yourselves, one of your fellow-countrymen like me (it is he that you must heed), just as you asked of the LORD your God at Horeb on the day of the assemblage, when you said, 'I must not hear the voice of the LORD my God any longer, nor see this great fire any more, that I die not.' The LORD said to me, 'They have spoken aright; from time to time I will raise up for them someone like you from among their fellow-countrymen to be a prophet; I will put my oracles in his mouth, and he shall tell them everything that I command him. If there is anyone who will not heed the oracle that he delivers in my name, I will make him answer for it myself. But the prophet who presumes to deliver an oracle in my name which I did not command him to deliver, or who delivers oracles in the name of alien gods, that prophet must die.' And if you say to yourselves, 'How are we to recognize an oracle that the LORD has not given?'—if the oracle that the prophet delivers in the name of the LORD does not come to pass or come true, that is an oracle which the LORD did not give, the prophet having spoken it presumptuously; you are not to be afraid of him.

"When the LORD your God exterminates the nations whose land the LORD your God is giving you, and you conquer them, and settle down in their cities and houses, you must set apart three cities in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to occupy. You must so fix the distances that you divide the area of the land which the LORD your God is giving you for your own into three parts, in such a way that any homicide may flee there, so that the avenger of blood may not pursue the homicide in the heat of his anger, and overtake him, because the way is long, and take his life, when he did not deserve to die, since he had no standing feud with him. The procedure in the case of a homicide who flees there to save his life is to be as follows: anyone who kills another unintentionally, having no standing feud with him, like the case of someone who goes into the woods with another to cut wood, and when he lets drive with the ax to fell a tree, the head slips from the helve, and alights upon the other so that he dies, that person may flee to one of these cities, and save his life. That is why I am commanding you to set apart three cities. And if the LORD your God enlarges your territory, as he swore to your fathers, and gives you all the land which he promised your fathers to give you, provided that you were careful to observe all this charge which I am enjoining on you today, by loving the LORD your God, and by walking always in his ways, then you

- must add three more cities to these three, so that innocent blood may not be shed in the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage, in which case you would incur guilt of blood. However, if someone has a feud with another, and lies in wait for him, attacking him and beating him to death, and then flees to one of these cities, the elders of his city must send and take him from there, and hand him over to the avenger of blood to be slain.
- 13 You must have no mercy on him, but purge the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that you may prosper.
- 14 "On the property which you inherit in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to occupy, you must not move your neighbor's landmark, which the early inhabitants put in place.
- 15 "A single witness shall not convict a man in the case of any crime or offense of any kind whatsoever that he has committed; it is only on the evidence of two or three witnesses that a charge can be sustained.
- 16 "If a plaintiff with a grudge appears against a man to accuse him falsely, the two parties who have the dispute must appear before the LORD, that is, before the priests, and the judges that are in office at that time; the judges shall make a thorough investigation, and if it turns out that the plaintiff is false, having falsely accused his fellow, you must do to him as he meant to do to his fellow. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst; and when those that are left hear of it, they will be afraid, and never again do such a wicked thing as this in your midst.
- 21 So you must show no mercy—life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.
- 20 "When you go out to battle against your enemies, and see horses, and chariots, forces greater than your own, you must not be afraid of them; for the LORD your God who brought you up from the land of Egypt is on your side.
- 2 When you are on the eve of a battle, a priest must come up and speak to the people. He shall say to them, 'Listen, O Israel; today you are on the eve of a battle against your enemies; do not be faint-hearted, nor afraid, nor alarmed, nor stand in dread of them; for the LORD your God is going with you, to fight for you against your enemies and give you the victory.' Then the officers shall say to the people, 'Whoever has built a new house, but has not dedicated it, may leave and return home, lest he die in the battle, and another dedicate it. Whoever has planted a vineyard, but has not had the use of it, may leave and return home, lest he die in the battle, and another get the use of it. Whoever has betrothed a wife, but has not married her, may leave and return home, lest he die in the battle and another marry her.' The officers shall say further to the people, 'Whoever is afraid and faint-hearted must leave and return home, so that his fellows may not become faint-hearted like him.' As soon as the officers have finished addressing the people, the army commanders shall place themselves at the head of the people.

"When you invest a city, you must offer it terms of peace. If it agrees to make peace with you, and surrenders to you, then all the people to be found in it shall become forced laborers for you, and serve you. But if it will not make peace with you, but wages war with you, you are to besiege it, and when the LORD your God delivers it up to you, you must put every male in it to the sword; but the women and children and live stock and everything that is in the city, that is, all its spoil, you may take as your booty, and yourselves use the spoil of your enemies which the LORD your God gives you. So shall you treat all the cities that are very far away from you, that do not belong to the cities of the nations here. However, in the cities of the peoples here, which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage, you must not spare a living soul; but you must be sure to exterminate them, Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites, as the LORD your God commanded you, so that they may not teach you to imitate all the abominable practices that they have carried on for their gods, and so sin against the LORD your God.

"When you have to besiege a city a long time in your war on it in order to capture it, you must not destroy its trees by taking an ax to them, because you can eat their fruit; you must not cut them down; for are trees in the field men to be besieged by you? It is only trees which you know are not fruit trees that you may destroy and cut down for the construction of siege-works against the city that is waging war with you, until it is razed.

"If anyone is found slain in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to occupy, lying in the open, and it is not known who struck him, your elders and judges must go out and measure the distances to the cities that are in the neighborhood of the dead body, and the elders of the city that is nearest to the dead body must take a heifer that has never been worked, nor has pulled in a yoke; and the elders of that city must bring the heifer down to a valley with running water, which has never been ploughed or sown, and break the heifer's neck there in the valley. Then the priests, the sons of Levi, shall approach (for the LORD your God has chosen them to minister to him, and pronounce blessings in the name of the LORD, and so every case of dispute or assault is to be settled by them), and all the elders of that city, those living nearest the dead body, shall wash their hands over the heifer whose neck has been broken in the valley. Then they shall make affirmation as follows: 'Our hands did not shed this blood, nor did our eyes see it done; clear thy people Israel whom thou hast rescued, O LORD, and do not hold thy people Israel responsible for innocent blood.' Thus shall the guilt of blood be cleared from them. Because you do what the LORD regards as right, you shall purge the guilt of innocent blood from your midst.

"When you go out to battle against your enemies, and the LORD your God delivers them up to you, and you make them prisoners, if you see among the prisoners a beautiful woman upon whom you set your heart, you may take her for a wife. When you bring her into your home, she shall uncover her head, and pare her nails, and throw off her prisoner's garb. She shall remain in your house, and bewail her father and mother for a whole month. After that you may have intercourse with her. You shall be her husband, and she shall be your wife. If you lose interest in her, you must let her go absolutely free; you must not sell her, nor mistreat her, because you have humiliated her.

"If a man has two wives, the one 15 loved and the other slighted, and both the loved and the slighted have borne him children, and the first-born son belongs to her that is slighted, when he 16 comes to will his property to his sons, he may not give the right of the first-born to the son of the loved one to the disadvantage of the son of the slighted wife, who is the first-born; but he must 17 give the right of the first-born to the first-born, the son of the slighted wife, by giving him two-thirds of all that he owns; for he was the first issue of his manly vigor, and the right of the first-born belongs to him.

"If a man has a stubborn and refrac- 18 tory son, who will not obey his father or mother, nor heed them, even when they chastise him, his father and moth- 19 er must take hold of him, and bring him before the elders of his city at the gateway of his home town, and say to 20 the elders of his city, 'This son of ours is a stubborn and refractory fellow who will not obey us, a ne'er-do-well, and a drunkard.' Then all his fellow-citizens 21 shall stone him to death. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst, and when all Israel hears of it, they will be afraid.

"If anyone has committed a crime 22 punishable by death, and has been put to death, and you have impaled him on a stake, his corpse must not remain all 23 night on the stake; but you must be sure to bury him the same day; for an impaled man is a terrible disgrace, and you must not pollute the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a her- itage.

"You must not see your fellow- 22 countryman's ox or sheep go astray without showing concern for it; you must be sure to take it home to your fellow-countryman. If, however, your 2 fellow-countryman is not a tribesman of yours and you do not know him, you must take it home with you, and keep it until your fellow-countryman claims it; then you must give it back to him. You must do the same with his ass, 3 with his garment, and with anything lost by a fellow-countryman of yours, which he has lost and you have found; you are not to be without concern for it.

- 4 "You must not see your fellow-countryman's ass or ox foundered on the road without showing concern for it; you must be sure to help him to raise it up.
- 5 "A woman must never wear any article belonging to a man, nor must a man put on a woman's garment; for whosoever does such things is abominable to the LORD your God.
- 6 "If you should happen to come upon a bird's nest in any tree, or on the ground, with young ones or eggs, and the mother sitting on the young or the eggs, you must not take the mother with the young. You must rather let the mother go, and only take the young, that you may prosper, and live long.
- 8 "When you build a new house, you must make a parapet for your roof, that you may not bring the guilt of blood upon your house, in case anyone should fall from it.
- 9 "You must not sow your vineyard with two kinds of seed, lest the whole produce become taboo, the crop that you sowed as well as the harvest from your vineyard.
- 10 "You must not plough with an ox and an ass yoked together.
- 11 "You must not wear material blended of wool and linen.
- 12 "You must plait tassels on the four corners of the cloak with which you cover yourself.
- 13 "If a man marries a wife, and has intercourse with her, and then turns against her, and frames wanton charges against her, and slanders her by saying, 'I married this woman, but when I had intercourse with her, I did not find the evidence of virginity in her,' the girl's father and mother shall take the evidence of the girl's virginity and bring it to the elders of the city at the gate, and the girl's father shall say to the elders, 'I gave my daughter to this man in marriage, but he turned against her, and here he is framing wanton charges against her, saying, "I did not find the evidence of virginity in your daughter." Here is the evidence of my daughter's virginity!' Whereupon they shall spread out the cloth before the elders of the city. Then the elders of that city shall take the man and punish him, fining him one hundred shekels of silver, and giving it to the girl's father, because he slandered a virgin of Israel. She shall be his wife as long as he lives, without his being able to divorce her. If, however, the charge proves true, that the evidence of virginity was not to be found in the girl, the girl shall be brought out to the door of her father's house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death, because she committed a shameful act in Israel by playing the harlot in her father's house. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst.

"If a man is caught lying with a married woman, both of them shall die, the man who lay with the woman and the woman herself; thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from Israel.

"If there should be a girl who is a virgin betrothed to a husband, and a man chances upon her in the city and lies with her, you must take them both out to the gate of that city, and stone them to death; the girl, because she did not call for help although in the city, and the man, because he seduced another's wife. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst. If, however, it is in the open country that the man chances upon the betrothed girl, and the man seizes her, and lies with her, then simply the man who lay with her shall die; you must do nothing to the girl, since no sin deserving of death attaches to the girl; for this case is like that of a man attacking his neighbor and murdering him; because it was in the open country that he chanced upon her; the betrothed girl may have called for help, but there was no one to save her.

"If a man chances upon a girl, a virgin who is not betrothed, and seizes her, and lies with her, and they are caught, the man who lay with her must pay the girl's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife as long as he lives, without his being able to divorce her, because he violated her.

"A man must not marry his father's wife, nor have intercourse with her who belongs to his father.

"No one who has his testicles crushed or his penis cut off shall marry into the LORD'S community. No bastard shall marry into the LORD'S community; likewise, none of his descendants to the tenth generation shall marry into the LORD'S community. No Ammonite or Moabite shall marry into the LORD'S community; likewise, none of their descendants to the tenth generation shall ever marry into the LORD'S community; because the one did not meet you with food and water on the road after you came out of Egypt, and the other hired Balaam, the son of Beor, from Bethor in Aram-naharaim against you, to curse you. (Nevertheless the LORD your God would not heed Balaam; but the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God loved you.) Never in all your life are you to seek their welfare or prosperity.

"You must not abhor an Edomite, because he is your kinsman. You must not abhor an Egyptian, because you were once a resident alien in his land. Children born to them in the third generation may marry into the LORD'S community.

"When you go out against your enemies and are in camp, you must keep yourselves clear of everything offensive. If there happens to be any of you who is not clean because of an emission at night, he must go outside the camp; he must not come inside the camp; then at the approach of evening he must bathe himself in water, and at sundown he may come inside the camp. Also, you must have a latrine outside the camp, and you must go outside to it; you must have a stick along with your weapons, and when you relieve yourself outside, you must dig a hole with it, and then fill it up, and cover your excrement. Because the LORD your God moves within your camp to rescue you and to put your enemies at your mercy, your camp must be clean, so that he may not see anything indecent with you, and turn away from you.

"You must not turn a slave over to his master when he has escaped from his master to you; he shall live right in your midst with you, in any place that he chooses in one of your communities as being advantageous to him; you must not mistreat him.

"None of the Israelite women shall become a temple-prostitute, nor shall any of the Israelite men become a temple-prostitute. You must never bring the gains of a harlot or the earnings of a male prostitute as a votive offering to the temple of the LORD your God; for both are abominable to the LORD your God.

"You must not exact interest on loans to a fellow-countryman of yours, interest in money, food, or anything else that might be exacted as interest. On loans to a foreigner you may exact interest, but on loans to a fellow-countryman you must not, that the LORD your God may bless you in all your undertakings in the land which you are invading for conquest.

"When you make a vow to the LORD your God, you must pay it without delay; for the LORD your God definitely requires it of you, and you would incur guilt. However, if you refrain from making a vow, you will incur no guilt. A spoken promise you must be careful to observe, in the way that you promised the LORD your God, seeing that it was a voluntary promise that you made.

"When you enter your neighbor's vineyard, you may eat your fill of the grapes, as much as you wish; but you must not put any in your bag.

"When you enter your neighbor's grain, you may pull off some heads with your hand; but you must not put a sickle to your neighbor's grain.

"When a man takes a wife and marries her, if it turns out that she does not please him, because he has found some indecency in her, and he writes her a bill of divorce, and putting it into her hand, dismisses her from his house, if, on leaving his house, she goes and marries another man, and then the latter husband turns against her, and writes her a bill of divorce, and putting it into her hand, dismisses her from his house, or if the latter husband who married her dies, her former husband who divorced her may not marry her again, after she has been defiled; for that is abominable to the LORD, and you must not bring guilt on the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage.

"When a man is newly married, he is not to go out with the army, nor be counted with it for any duty; he is to be free at home for one year, to enjoy himself with his wife whom he has married.

"No one is to take a handmill or an upper millstone in pledge; for he would be taking a life in pledge.

- 7 "If a man is caught kidnapping any of his fellow-Israelites, to hurt him, or to sell him, that thief shall die. Thus shall you eradicate the wicked person from your midst.
- 8 "Take care in an attack of leprosy to be very careful to do just as the Levitical priests direct you, being careful to follow the instructions that I gave you. Remember what the LORD your God did for Miriam during the journey after you came out of Egypt.
- 10 "When you make your neighbor a loan of any sort, you must not go into his house to take his pledge; you must wait outside, and the man to whom you are making the loan shall bring the pledge outside to you. If he is a poor man, you must not sleep in the article that he has pledged; you must be sure to return it to him at sunset, that he may sleep in his cloak, and so be grateful to you. It will stand to your credit with the LORD your God.
- 14 "You must not defraud a hired laborer who is poor and needy, whether he is one of your fellow-countrymen, or one of the aliens residing in your land, in your community. You must pay him his wages by the day, before the sun sets (for he is poor, and is expecting it), so that he may not cry to the LORD against you, and you incur guilt.
- 16 "Fathers are not to be put to death with their children, nor are children to be put to death with their fathers. Everyone is to be put to death for his own sin.
- 17 "You must not pervert the justice due the resident alien, or the orphan, nor take a widow's garment in pledge.
- 18 You must remember that you were once a slave yourself in Egypt, and the LORD your God rescued you from there; that is why I am commanding you to do this.
- 19 "When you reap your harvest in your field, and forget a sheaf in the field, you must not go back to get it; it is to go to the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, that the LORD your God may bless you in all your enterprises. When you beat your olive trees, you must not go over them a second time; that is to go to the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow. When you pick the grapes of your vineyard, you must not go over it a second time; that is to go to the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow. You must remember that you were 22 once a slave yourself in the land of Egypt; that is why I am commanding you to do this.

"If two men go to law with each 25 other, and come into court, and have the case decided for them, so that the innocent is acquitted and the guilty convicted, if the guilty man deserves a 2 flogging, the judge shall make him lie down, and have him flogged in his presence, with the number of lashes warranted by his crime. He may be given 3 forty lashes, but not more, lest in being given more than that number your fellow-countryman should be cut to ribbons before your eyes.

"You must not muzzle an ox when he 4 is treading out grain.

"If there are brothers living on a 5 joint estate, and one of them dies, leaving no son, the wife of the deceased must not be married to a stranger; her brother-in-law must go to her, and marry her, doing the duty of a brother-in-law to her; and the first son that she 6 bears shall succeed to the name of the deceased brother, so that his name may not be blotted out of Israel. But if the 7 man does not want to marry his sister-in-law, then his sister-in-law shall go to the elders at the city gate, and say, 'My brother-in-law refuses to carry on his brother's name in Israel; he will not do the duty of a brother-in-law to me'; whereupon the elders of his city shall 8 summon him, and speak to him, and if he maintains his position, and says, 'I do not want to marry her,' his sister-in-law shall go up to him in the presence of 9 the elders, and pull his sandal off his foot, and spit in his face, and solemnly declare, 'So shall it be done to the man who will not build up his brother's house'; and it shall be called in Israel, 10 'the house for which the sandal was pulled off.'

"If two men get into a fight with each 11 other, a man and his fellow-countryman, and the wife of one comes up to rescue her husband from his assailant, and puts out her hand, and seizes him by his private parts, you must cut off 12 her hand, without showing any mercy.

"You must not have weights of different sizes in your bag, a large one and a small one; you must not have different sized ephahs in your house, a large one and a small one; you must have a 15

full, just weight; you must have a full, just ephah, that you may live long in the land which the LORD your God is giving you; for everyone given to these practices, everyone given to dishonesty, is abominable to the LORD your God.

7 "Remember what Amalek did to you during the journey after you came out of Egypt, how with no fear of God he fell upon you on the way, when you were tired and faint, and cut off all the stragglers in your rear. Therefore, when the LORD your God gives you rest from all your enemies around you, in the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage to occupy, you must blot out the very memory of Amalek from under the heavens, being sure not to forget.

1 "When you enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you as a heritage, and conquer it, and settle down in it, you must take some of all the first produce of the soil that you harvest from the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and putting it in a basket, you must go to the sanctuary which the LORD your God chooses as the abiding-place of his presence. You must go to the priest who is officiating at that time, and say to him, 'I give thanks today to the LORD my God that I have entered the land which the LORD swore to our fathers to give us.' Then the priest shall take the basket from your hand, and place it in front of the altar of the LORD your God; and you shall solemnly declare before the LORD your God, 'A nomad Aramean was my father; he went down to Egypt to reside there, with a small company, and there he became a nation, great, mighty, and numerous; the Egyptians treated us harshly, oppressed us, and imposed hard servitude upon us; but we cried to the LORD, the God of our fathers, and the LORD heard our cry, and seeing our affliction, our toil, and our oppression, the LORD brought us out of Egypt, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, with great terrors, signs, and portents; and bringing us to this place, he gave us this land, a land flowing with milk and honey. And now see, I have brought the first of the produce of the soil, which thou, O LORD, hast given me!' You must then place it before the LORD your God, and do homage before the LORD your God, and rejoice over all the good fortune which the LORD your God has accorded you and your household, along with the Levite and the alien residing in your midst.

"When you have finished taking out all the dues of your produce in the third year, the year for the taking out of dues, you must give them to the Levite, the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, that they may eat their fill in your community; and then you must declare before the LORD your God, 'I have cleared the consecrated material from my house, and furthermore, I have given it to the Levite, the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow, just as thou didst command me, breaking none of thy commands nor forgetting them; I have not eaten any of it through want; I have not disposed of any of it improperly; I have not offered any of it to the dead; I have heeded the injunction of the LORD my God by doing just as thou didst command me. Look down from the heavens, thy sacred dwelling-place, and bless thy people Israel, and the soil which thou hast given us, as thou didst swear to our fathers—a land flowing with milk and honey.'

"This day the LORD your God is commanding you to observe these statutes and ordinances; you must be careful then to observe them with all your mind and heart. Concerning the LORD you have today avowed that he is your God, and that you would walk in his ways, and keep his statutes, commands, and ordinances, and heed his injunctions; and the LORD has today avowed concerning you that you are a people of his very own, as he promised you, and so you are to keep all his commands, and then he will place you high above all other nations whom he has made, in praise, renown, and honor, that you may be a people consecrated to the LORD your God, as he promised."

CLOSING INJUNCTIONS OF

MOSES, 27:1—31:13

Moses and the elders of Israel commanded the people as follows:

"Keep in mind all the charge that I am enjoining on you today. On the very day that you cross the Jordan into the land which the LORD your God is giving you, you must set up some large stones, and whitewashing them with lime, you must inscribe on them all the words of this code as soon as you have crossed, in order that you may enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you, a land flowing with milk and honey, as the LORD, the God of your fathers, promised you. As soon as you cross the Jordan, you must set up these stones, concerning which I am giving you instructions today, on Mount Gerizim, and whitewashing them with lime, you must inscribe all the words of his code on the stones very distinctly.

"You must build there an altar to the LORD your God, an altar of stones on which you must not use any iron tool; it is with undressed stones that you must build the altar of the LORD your God; you shall offer burnt-offerings to the LORD your God on it, and sacrifice thank-offerings, and feast there in joy before the LORD your God."

Then Moses and the Levitical priests said to all Israel,
"Be silent and listen, O Israel; today you have become the people of the LORD your God; you must therefore heed the injunctions of the LORD your God, and observe his commands and statutes, which I am commanding you today."

Moses charged the people that same day as follows:

"When you cross the Jordan, the following shall face Mount Gerizim for the blessing of the people: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin; and the following shall face those pronouncing the curse on Mount Ebal: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, Naphtali. Then the Levites with a loud voice shall solemnly declare to all the men of Israel:

"'Cursed be he who makes a carved or molten image, so abominable to the LORD, the handiwork of a craftsman, setting it up in secret!'
"And all the people in response shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who dishonors his father or mother!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who moves his neighbor's landmark!'

"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who misleads a blind man on the road!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who perverts the justice due the resident alien, the orphan, and the widow!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who lies with his father's wife; for he would have had intercourse with her who belongs to his father!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who lies with any animal!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who lies with his sister, whether she is his full sister or half-sister!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who lies with his mother-in-law!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who murders his neighbor secretly!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who accepts a bribe to permit the murder of an innocent person!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"'Cursed be he who does not give effect to the provisions of this code by observing them!'
"And all the people shall say,
"'So be it.'

"If you will but heed the injunctions of the LORD your God by being careful to observe all his commands which I am giving you today, the LORD your God shall place you high above all the nations of the earth, and all the following blessings shall come upon you and overtake you; for you will be heeding the injunctions of the LORD your God.

"Blessed shall you be in the city,
And blessed shall you be in the country;
Blessed shall be the offspring of your body,

The produce of your soil, the offspring of your live stock,

The issue of your cattle, and the progeny of your flock;

5 Blessed shall be the contents of your basket and kneading-trough;

5 Blessed shall you be in your coming, And blessed shall you be in your going.

7 "The LORD shall cause your enemies who attack you to be routed before you; they may come out against you by a single road, but they shall fly before you by seven different roads. The LORD shall order blessings upon you in your barns, and in all your undertakings; and he shall bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

9 The LORD shall make you a people consecrated to himself, as he swore to you; for you will be keeping the commands of the LORD your God, and will be walking in his ways, so that all the peoples of the earth will see that you bear the name of the LORD, and will stand in fear of you. The LORD shall give you abounding prosperity in the offspring of your body, the progeny of your cattle, and the produce of your soil, in the land which the LORD swore to your fathers to give you. The LORD shall open for you his rich treasury in the heavens, to give rain to your land in due season and to bless all your labor, so that you shall have many nations under obligations to you, but you shall never be obligated to them. The LORD shall make you the head, not the tail, and you shall tend upward only, and not downward; for you will be heeding the commands of the LORD your God which I am giving you today, by being careful to observe them, swerving neither to the right nor to the left from any of the commands that I am giving you today, by running after alien gods to serve them.

"If, however, you will not heed the injunctions of the LORD your God by being careful to observe all his commands and statutes which I am commanding you today, then all the following curses shall come upon you and overtake you.

"Cursed shall you be in the city,

And cursed shall you be in the country; Cursed shall be the contents of your basket and kneading-trough;

11 Cursed shall be the offspring of your body, and the produce of your soil.

The issue of your cattle, and the progeny of your flock;

Cursed shall you be in your coming, 19 And cursed shall you be in your going.

"The LORD shall send curses on you, 20 trouble and distress in every enterprise of yours that you undertake, until you are destroyed, and perish quickly for your evil doing in forsaking me. The 21 LORD shall fasten plagues on you until he exterminates you from the land which you are invading for conquest; the LORD shall smite you with con- 22 sumption, fever, inflammation, and sunstroke, with drought, blasting, and mildew, which shall pursue you until you perish. For you the sky overhead 23 shall be bronze, and the earth underfoot shall be iron; the LORD shall turn 24 the rain of your land into powder and dust; it shall descend from the sky upon you until you are destroyed. The 25 LORD shall cause you to be routed before your enemies; you may go out against them by a single road, but you shall fly before them by seven different roads. You shall become a terrifying example to all the kingdoms of the earth. Your carcasses shall become food 26 for all the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth, with no one to scare them away. The LORD shall smite you with 27 Egyptian sores, with ulcers, scurvy, and itch, of which you cannot be cured. The LORD shall strike your minds with 28 madness, blindness, and dismay, so 29 that you shall go groping at noon as the blind grope in the dark, and shall not make a success of your life, but shall simply be wronged and robbed continually, with no one to rescue you. You 30 may betroth a wife, but another man shall ravish her; you may build a house, but you shall not live in it; you may plant a vineyard, but you shall not get the use of it; your ox may be slaugh- 31 tered under your inspection, but you shall not eat any of it; your ass shall be snatched from under your nose, and not be returned to you; your flock shall be given to your enemies, with no one to rescue it for you; your sons and daugh- 32 ters shall be handed over to an alien people, while your eyes gaze, ever straining after them, with nothing that you can do; the produce of your soil 33 and all the fruits of your labor shall a nation that is strange to you eat up, and you shall simply be wronged and

34 oppressed continually, until you are driven mad by the sight of what you
 35 see. The LORD shall smite you on the knees and legs, from the sole of your foot to the crown of your head, with malignant sores, of which you cannot 36 be cured. The LORD shall dispatch you and the king that you place over you to a nation that you do not know, nor did your fathers, and there you shall serve
 37 alien gods of wood and stone; you shall become a horror, a taunt, and a byword among all the peoples where the LORD
 38 shall drive you. You may take out much seed to the field, but you shall harvest little; for the locust shall consume it. You may plant vineyards, 39 and work them, but you shall not drink wine, nor store it; for grubs shall 40 eat them up. You may have olive trees all through your country, but you shall not anoint yourselves with oil; for your 41 olives shall drop off. You may have sons and daughters born to you, but they shall not remain yours; for they 42 shall go into captivity. Locusts shall infest all your trees and the produce of 43 your soil. The alien who is residing in your midst shall rise higher and higher above you, while you shall sink lower 44 and lower; he shall lend to you, but you shall never lend to him; he shall be the head, and you the tail.

45 "All these curses shall come upon you, pursuing you and overtaking you until you are destroyed, because you would not heed the injunctions of the LORD your God, by keeping his commands and statutes which he commanded you. They shall be signs and portents against you and your descendants for all time.

47 "Because you would not serve the LORD your God in the joy and happiness of mind that came from the abundance of everything, you shall serve your enemies, whom the LORD sends against you, in hunger, thirst, nakedness, and want of everything; and he shall put an iron yoke on your neck, 49 until he has destroyed you. The LORD shall bring a nation against you from afar, from the ends of the earth, swooping down like a vulture, a nation whose 50 language you do not understand, a nation, stern of face, that shall have no regard for the old, nor mercy for the 51 young, and that shall eat up the offspring of your cattle and the produce of your soil, until you are destroyed, leaving you neither grain, nor wine, nor oil, nor the issue of your cattle, nor the progeny of your flock, until they exterminate you. They shall besiege you 52 in all your towns until your high, fortified walls on which you relied are razed all through your land; they shall besiege you in all your towns all through the land which the LORD your God has given you, so that you shall have to 53 eat your own offspring, the flesh of the sons and daughters whom the LORD your God has given you in the stress of the siege with which your enemies shall press you. The man that is most tender 54 among you, and quite the most dainty, will act so meanly toward his brother, the wife of his bosom, and the remaining children that may be left to him, that he will not give any of them any 55 of the flesh of his children which he has to eat, since there is nothing else left to him in the stress of the siege with which your enemies shall press you in all your towns. She that is most tender and 56 dainty among you, who would not venture to set the sole of her foot upon the ground, since she is so dainty and tender, will act meanly toward the husband of her bosom, her son, and her daughter, both in the case of the after 57 birth that may come from her womb, and the children that she may bear; for she shall secretly eat these for want of everything in the stress of the siege with which your enemies shall press you in your towns.

"If you are not careful to observe all 58 the provisions of this code, written in this book, by standing in awe of this glorious and awful name, the LORD your God, then the LORD shall bring 59 extraordinary plagues on you and your descendants, severe and prolonged plagues, and severe and prolonged diseases; he shall bring back upon you all 60 the diseases of Egypt of which you stood in dread, and they will fasten themselves on you; indeed every kind 61 of sickness and plague that is not recorded in this book of the law the LORD shall inflict on you until you are destroyed. You shall be left a paltry few, 62 instead of being like the stars of the heavens for number, because you would not heed the injunctions of the LORD your God. As the LORD took delight in 63 making you prosperous and numerous, so the LORD shall take delight in exterminating and destroying you, and you shall be torn from the land which 54 you are invading for conquest; the LORD shall scatter you among all peoples from one end of the earth to the other, and there you shall serve alien gods of wood and stone, of whom you have had no experience, nor had your 55 fathers. Among these nations you shall have no ease, nor shall there be a resting-place for the sole of your foot, but the LORD shall give you there an anxious mind, spent eyes, and a despondent

 56 spirit; your life shall be lived in suspense; you shall live in fear day and night, and never be certain about your
 37 life; in the morning you shall say, 'O that it were evening!' and in the evening you shall say, 'O that it were morning!'—because of the terror of mind which frightens you, and the 58 sights that you see. The LORD shall take you back to Egypt in ships, which journey I meant you never again to make, and there you shall offer yourselves for sale to your enemies as male and female slaves, with none to buy you."

19 These were the terms of the covenant which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the Israelites in the land of Moab, besides the covenant which he had made with them at Horeb.

2 Moses then summoned all Israel, and said to them,

"Although you have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh and all his court-13 iers and all his land, the great tests which you saw with your own eyes, the 14 signs, and those great portents, yet to this day the LORD has not given you a mind to understand, nor eyes to discern, nor ears to hear. For forty years I have led you through the desert, your clothes never getting too worn for you to wear, nor your sandals too worn for 16 your feet, without bread to eat, or wine or liquor to drink, in order that you might come to know that I, the LORD,
 17 am your God. When you reached this place, Sihon, king of Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan, came out to engage us
 18 in battle; but we defeated them, and capturing their land, we gave it as a heritage to the Reubenites, Gadites, 19 and half-tribe of Manassites. Be careful then to observe the terms of this covenant, that you may succeed in everything that you undertake.

"You are all taking your stand today 10 before the LORD your God, the heads of your tribes, your elders, and your officers, even all the men of Israel, together 11 with your children, your wives, and the aliens in your employ who are living in your camps, both your wood-gatherers and your water-drawers, that you may 12 enter into the covenant of the LORD your God and the solemn compact which the LORD your God is making with you today, that he may today 13 make you his own people, and that he may be your God, as he promised you, and as he swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. It is not with 14 you alone that I am making this covenant and solemn compact, but with 15 those who are here with us today, standing before the LORD our God, and with those who are not here with us today (for you yourselves know how we 16 once lived in the land of Egypt, and how we passed through the territory of the nations that you did; and so you 17 saw the detestable and horrid things of wood and stone, of silver and gold, that were in their possession), lest there 18 should be among you man, woman, family, or tribe, whose heart after all might turn from the LORD our God to go and serve the gods of those nations; lest there should be among you a root bearing poison and wormwood, and 19 then upon hearing the terms of this sacred compact he should flatter himself by saying, 'I shall be safe, even though I persist in my stubbornness of mind,' to the destruction of moist and dry alike. The LORD would never consent 20 to forgive him, but instead, the anger and resentment of the LORD would burn against such a man; every curse recorded in this book would settle on him; the LORD would blot out his very name from under the heavens; and the 21 LORD would single him out from all the tribes of Israel for doom, by all the curses of the covenant recorded in this book of the law. Then the next generation, your children who take your place, and the foreigners who come from a distant land, will say, when they see the plagues of that land and the diseases with which the LORD has afflicted it—all its soil being brimstone and salt, 23 a burning waste, unsown and unproductive, no herbage of any kind growing in it, like the devastation of Sodom and Gomorrah, Admah and Zeboiim, which the LORD devastated in his anger and 24 fury—indeed all nations will say, 'Why has the LORD done thus to this land?

25 Why this great heat of anger?' And the answer will be, 'Because they forsook the covenant, which the LORD, the God of their fathers, made with them, when he brought them out of the land of

26 Egypt, and went and served alien gods, and paid homage to them, gods of whom they had no experience, and

27 whom he did not assign to them; hence the anger of the LORD blazed against this land, bringing it every curse recorded in this book; and the LORD uprooted them from their land in anger, fury, and great wrath, and flung them into an alien land, as at this day.'

29 "What is hidden is in the keeping of the LORD our God, but what is revealed concerns us and our children forever, that we should observe all the provisions of this code.

30 "When all these things have befallen you, the blessing as well as the curse which I have put before you, and you call them to mind among all the nations where the LORD your God has driven

2 you, if you return to the LORD your God, you and your children, and heed his injunctions, just as I am commanding you today, with all your mind and

3 heart, then the LORD your God will restore your fortune, taking pity on you, and gathering you again out of all the peoples where the LORD your God

4 scattered you. Even though your outcasts are at the ends of the world, the LORD your God will gather you from

5 there, and take you away. The LORD your God will bring you into the land which your fathers occupied, that you may occupy it; and he will prosper you, and make you more numerous than

6 your fathers. The LORD your God will circumcise you and your descendants in heart, to love the LORD your God with all your mind and heart, that you

7 may live. The LORD your God will inflict all these curses on your enemies and your antagonists who persecuted

8 you; but you yourselves shall once more heed the injunctions of the LORD, and observe all his commands which I am

9 giving you today; and the LORD your God will give you abounding prosperity in all your labor, in the offspring of your body, the offspring of your cattle, and the produce of your soil; for the LORD will again take delight in prospering you, as he did your fathers; for you will 10 be heeding the injunctions of the LORD your God by keeping his commands and statutes, recorded in this book of the law; for you will be returning to the LORD your God with all your mind and heart.

"For this charge which I am enjoining

11 on you today is not beyond your power, nor is it out of reach; it is not in the

12 heavens, that you should say, 'O that someone would ascend to the heavens for us, and get to know it for us, and then communicate it to us, so that we may observe it!' Nor is it beyond

13 the sea, that you should say, 'O that someone would cross the sea for us, and get to know it for us, and then communicate it to us, so that we may observe it!' No, the matter is very near 14 you, in your mouth and in your mind, for you to observe.

"See, I put before you today life and 15 prosperity, along with death and misfortune. If you heed the commands of 16 the LORD your God which I am giving you today, by loving the LORD your God, by walking in his ways, and by keeping his commands, statutes, and ordinances, then you shall live, and multiply, and the LORD your God will bless you in the land which you are invading for conquest. If, however, your

17 heart turns away, and you give no heed, but are enticed to pay homage to alien gods and serve them, I tell you to-

18 day that you shall most certainly perish, without living long on the land which you are crossing the Jordan to invade for conquest. I call heaven and

19 earth to witness against you today that I have put life and death before you, the blessing and the curse; therefore choose life, that you as well as your descendants may live, by loving the 20 LORD your God, by heeding his injunctions, and by holding fast to him; for that will mean life to you, and a long time to live upon the land which the LORD swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give them."

Then Moses proceeded to speak these

31 words to all Israel. He said to them,

"I am one hundred and twenty years old today; I am no longer able to come and go, and the LORD has said to me, 3 'You are not to cross this Jordan.' The LORD your God will be the one to go over ahead of you; it is he who will exterminate these nations from your way

 so that you may dispossess them;
 Joshua will be the one to go over ahead 4 of you, as the LORD promised. The LORD will do to them as he did to Sihon and Og, kings of the Amorites, and to their land, in his destruction of 5 them; the LORD will put them at your mercy, and you must do to them just 6 as I commanded you. Be strong, be brave, have no fear, do not stand in dread of them; for the LORD your God will be going with you, never failing you nor forsaking you."

7 Then Moses summoned Joshua, and said to him in the presence of all Israel,
 "Be strong, be brave; for you are to bring this people into the land which the LORD swore to your fathers to give them; you are to put them in possession 8 of it. The LORD will be the one to go ahead of you; it is he who will be with you, never failing you nor forsaking you; do not be afraid or dismayed."

9 When Moses had written this code, he committed it to the priests, the descendants of Levi, who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all 10 the elders of Israel. Then Moses commanded them as follows:

"At the end of every seven years, in the time of the year of remission, at the 11 feast of booths, when all Israel comes to visit the LORD your God at the sanctuary which he chooses, you must read this code in the hearing of all Israel, 12 assembling the people, men, women, and children, and any aliens in your employ that are in your community, that they may hear it, and learn to stand in awe of the LORD your God, and be careful to observe all the provi-13 sions of this code; and that their children who do not know it may hear it, and learn to stand in awe of the LORD your God; as long as you live upon the land into which you are crossing the Jordan for conquest."

THE COMMISSION OF JOSHUA AND THE SONG OF MOSES,

31:14—32:52

14 Then the LORD said to Moses,
 "The time for you to die is indeed

drawing near; call Joshua, and present yourselves at the tent of meeting, that I may commission him."

So Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves at the tent of meeting. Then the LORD appeared at the 15 tent in a column of cloud; the column of cloud came to a stand at the doorway of the tent, and he commissioned 23
 Joshua, the son of Nun, and said,

"Be strong, be brave, for you are to bring the Israelites into the land which I promised on oath to them; I will be with you."

Then the LORD said to Moses, 16

"You will soon now be sleeping with your fathers; and then this people will decide to run wantonly after the foreign gods of the land which they are soon to invade, and they will forsake me, and thus break the covenant that I made with them. In that case my anger shall 17 blaze against them, and I will forsake them, and withhold my favor from them; they shall become a thing to be consumed, and many evils and troubles shall befall them, so that they will say at that time, 'Is it not because God is not in our midst that these evils have befallen us?' I will certainly withhold 18 my favor at such a time, because of all the evil that they have done in turning to alien gods. Write this song then, and 19 teach it to the Israelites, having them repeat it, that this song may be a witness for me against the Israelites. When 20
 I bring them into the land which I swore to their fathers to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey, and they eat their fill, and become prosperous, and turn to alien gods, and serve them, despising me, and breaking my covenant, then, when many evils and 21 troubles befall them, this song shall confront them as a witness (for it will never be forgotten by their descendants) that I know what their temper-ment will lead to, even now, before I bring them into the land, which I promised them on oath."

So Moses wrote the following song 22 that very day, and taught it to the Israelites.

When Moses had finished writing the 24 provisions of this code in a book, until they were complete, Moses gave this 25 charge to the Levites who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD:

"Take this book of the law, and place 26

it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, so that it may remain 27 there as a witness against you; for I know how contentious and stiff-necked you are; even now while I am still living with you, you continue in a state of contention with the LORD; and how 28 much more after my death! Assemble to me all the elders of your tribes and your officers, that I may recite these words to them, and call heaven and 29 earth to witness against them; for I know that after my death you will be sure to act perniciously, and swerve from the way that I appointed you; and in after days evil will befall you, because you will be doing what is evil in the sight of the LORD, thus provoking him to jealousy with your practices."
 30 So Moses recited the words of this song to its end, in the hearing of all the assembly of Israel:
 32 "Hearken, O heavens, that I may speak; And let the earth hear the words of my mouth.
 2 May my message drop as the rain, My speech distil as the dew, As the mist on the fresh grass, And as showers on the vegetation.
 3 For I proclaim the name of the LORD: Give glory to our God!
 4 He is a rock; what he does is right; For all his ways are just; A trustworthy and never deceiving God; True and upright is he.
 5 Their imperfection has been the undoing of those undutiful to him, A twisted and crooked generation.
 6 Is this the way to treat the LORD, You foolish and senseless people? Is he not your father who created you, Who made you and fashioned you?
 7 Remember the days of old, Review the years, age after age; Ask your father to inform you, Your elders to tell you.
 8 When the Most High gave heritages to the nations, When he made divisions among mankind, He assigned the realms of the nations To the various deities;
 9 While the LORD'S apportionment was his own people; Jacob was the allotment for him to hold.
 10 He found them in a desert land,

In the howling waste of a wilderness; He encircled them, he cared for them; He guarded them like the pupil of his eye.

Like an eagle stirring up its nestlings, 11 Dashing against its brood, Spreading its wings to catch them, And carrying them on its pinions, The LORD alone was their leader, 12 And no foreign god was with him. He made them mount the heights of 13 the earth, And they ate the products of the field; He had them suck honey from crags, And oil from flinty rocks. Curds from cows and milk from sheep, 14 With the fat of lambs and rams, Herds of Bashan and goats, With the very choicest wheat, And the blood of the grapes, a foaming draught, Jacob ate to the fill; Jeshurun grew fat, and kicked— 15 Gorge yourself, and you do become fat and corpulent— So they forsook the God who made them, And scoffed at the Rock of their salvation; They provoked him to jealousy with 16 alien gods, They vexed him with abominable practices; They sacrificed to demons that were 17 not at all God, Gods of whom they had had no experience; New ones, but lately arrived, Whom your fathers never revered. You neglected the very Rock who bore 18 you, And forgot the God who gave you birth. When the LORD saw it, he spurned 19 them, Because he was vexed with their sons and daughters; And he said, 'I will hide my face from 20 them; I will see what will become of them; For a fickle race are they, Children in whom there is no sense of honor. They provoked me to jealousy with 21 what is no god; They vexed me with their vanities; So I will provoke them to jealousy with what is no nation,

With an impious people I will vex them;

22 For a fire shall blaze within me,
And burn to the very depths of Sheol:
So that it shall consume the earth and its produce,
And set the bases of the mountains on fire.

23 I will exhaust calamities upon them;
I will use up my arrows on them.

24 The devastation of famine, and the ravages of fever,
And malignant pestilence,
And ferocious beasts I will send on them,
Along with poisonous reptiles.

25 On the street the sword shall cause bereavement,
And terror at home,
For youth and maiden alike,
For the babe as well as the man of gray hairs.

26 I would have said, "I will cut them in pieces;
I will extinguish the memory of them from men,"

27 Except that I dreaded irritation from the enemy,
Lest their foes should misinterpret it;
Lest they should say, "It is our might that has triumphed,
And not at all the LORD who did this";

28 For a people lacking in sense are they,
With no intelligence among them;

29 If they had any sense, they would perceive this;
They would see through to their own end.'

30 How could one person chase a thousand,
Or two put ten thousand to flight,
Unless their Rock had sold them,
And the LORD had given them up?

31 For their rock is not like our Rock,
Nor is our God a thing of nought;

32 For their vine comes from the stock of Sodom,
And from the fields of Gomorrah;
Their grapes are poisonous grapes;
Bitter clusters are theirs;

33 Their wine is the venom of dragons,
And the pitiless poison of cobras,

34 'Is it not stored up with me,
Sealed up in my treasuries,
Against the day of revenge and requital,
Against the time that their foot slips?
For their day of calamity is at hand,
And their doom is coming apace.'

For the LORD will vindicate his 36 people,
And take compassion on his servants,
When he sees that their power is gone,
With neither bound nor free remaining,
And that it is being said, 'Where is 37 their God,
The Rock in whom they sought refuge,
He who ate the fat of their sacrifices, 38
And drank the wine of their libations?
Let him come to your help;
Let him be a shelter over you!'

'Know now that I, I am he, 39
And that there is no god beside me;
It is I who slay, and bring to life;
When I have inflicted wounds, it is I who heal them,
With none to give deliverance from my power;
For I lift my hand to the heavens, 40
And declare, "As I live forever,
I will whet my flashing sword, 41
And my hand shall lay hold on justice;
I will wreak vengeance on my foes,
And punish those who hate me;
I will drench my arrows with blood, 42
With the blood of captives slain;
And my sword shall devour flesh
From the shaggy heads of the enemy."'

Shout among the nations, O you, his 43 people,
That he shall avenge the blood of his servants,
And wreak vengeance on his adversaries,
And purge his people's land of guilt."

So Moses went and recited all the 44 words of this song to the people, along with Hoshea, the son of Nun.

When Moses had finished reciting all 45 these words to all Israel, he said to 46 them,
"Take to heart all the things of which I am warning you today that you may lay them as a charge on your children, that they may be careful to observe all the provisions of this code; for this is by 47 no means too trivial a thing for you to do; on the contrary it means your life, and for this very reason you shall live long in the land into which you are crossing the Jordan for conquest."

That very same day the LORD said 48 to Moses,
"Ascend this mountain of the Aba- 49 rim, namely Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, facing Jericho, and view the land of Canaan which I am giving to the Israelites as their own; 50 and then die on the mountain that you ascend, and be gathered to your fathers; as your brother Aaron died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his fathers—because you broke faith with me among the Israelites at the waters of Meribath-Kadesh in the desert of Zin; because you did not pay me due honor 52 among the Israelites. Accordingly you shall view the land from a point of vantage; but you shall not enter the land which I am giving to the Israelites."

THE BLESSING OF MOSES,

33:1-29

33 This is the blessing which Moses, the man of God, pronounced upon the Israelites before his death. He said:

"The LORD came from Sinai,
And dawned on us from Seir;
He shone forth from the mountains of Paran,

And advanced from Meribath-Kadesh,
With his lightning-bolts at his right hand.

3 Yea, he loves his people;
All those consecrated to him he blesses.
So they recline at thy feet,
Partaking of thine instruction,

4 Moses having charged us with a law.
His domain is Jacob's assembly,

5 And he became king in Jeshurun,
When the people's chieftains were assembled,
And all the tribes of Israel came together."

6 "May Reuben live and not die, Though his men are few."

7 And this of Judah; he said,
"Hear, O LORD, the cry of Judah,
And bring him to his people!
As his strength, contend for him,
And be thou a help from his adversaries!"

8 And of Levi he said,
"Give thy thummim to Levi,
And thy urim to the man devoted to thee;
Whom thou didst test at Massah,
With whom thou didst contend at the waters of Meribah:

Who said of his father and mother, 9
'I no longer recognize them';
And disowned his brothers,
And disavowed his own children;
But he has kept thine injunctions,
And guarded thy covenant.

He communicates thine ordinances to 10
Jacob,
And thy law to Israel;
He provides the odor of sacrifices for thy nostrils,
And holocausts on thine altars."

"O LORD, bless his might, 11
And graciously accept the work of his hands!
Shatter his opponents' loins,
And his adversaries beyond recovery!"

Of Benjamin he said, 12
"He is the beloved of the LORD;
With him he dwells securely;
He ever encircles him,
And has established his abode between his shoulders."

And of Joseph he said, 13
"Blessed of the LORD be his land,
With the wealth of the heavens above,
And that of the abyss couching below;
With lavish crops from the sun, 14
And the lavish yield of the months;
With the finest produce of the ancient 15 mountains,
And the wealth of the eternal hills;
With the wealth of the earth and its 16
abundance,

And the favor of him who dwelt in the bush—
May it descend on the head of Joseph,
And on the brow of him who was cursed by his brothers!
As his firstling bull may majesty be 17
his,

And may his horns be the horns of a wild-ox,
To butt the nations with them,
And drive them to the ends of the earth!
So may these be the myriads for Ephraim,
And these the thousands for Manasseh!"

And of Zebulun he said, 18
"Rejoice, Zebulun, in your enterprises abroad,
And you, Issachar, in your tents at home!

- 19 They call peoples to their mountain shrines,
There they offer the prescribed sacrifices;
For they suck up the affluence of the seas,
And the hidden treasures of the sand."
- 20 And of Gad he said,
Blessed be he who made Gad so great!
He lurks like a lion,
That he may tear the arm, and the scalp as well.
- 21 He picked out the first for himself,
(For a leader's portion was reserved there),
And he entered as the forerunner of the people;
He carried out the just will of the LORD,
And his ordinances for Israel."
- 22 And of Dan he said,
"Dan is a lion's whelp,
That leaps from Bashan."
- 23 And of Naphtali he said,
"O Naphtali, loaded with favors,
And filled with the blessings of the LORD,
Take possession of the lake and the south!"
- 24 And of Asher he said,
"Most blessed of sons may Asher be;
May he be the favorite among his brothers,
With his foot immersed in oil!"
- 25 May your bars be iron and bronze,
And your strength like your days!"
- 26 "There is none like the God of Jeshurun, Throned in the heavens as your help,
And in the skies as the one to bring you victory.
- 27 The eternal God is a refuge,
And underneath are the everlasting arms;
So he drove the enemy out of your way,
And he destroyed the Amorites,
And settled Israel in security,
- 28 The fountain of Jacob undisturbed,
In a land of grain and wine,
With his heavens, too, dropping dew.

Fortunate are you, O Israel; who is there like you?
A people saved by the LORD,
The shield of your help,
And he that is the sword of your victory;
So that your foes shall come cringing to you,
As you march over their heights."

THE DEATH AND BURIAL OF MOSES, 34:1-12

From the steppes of Moab Moses 34 ascended Mount Nebo, the headland of Pisgah, which faces Jericho, and the LORD showed him all the land—Gilead as far as Dan, all Naphtali, the territory of Ephraim and Manasseh, all the territory of Judah as far as the Western Sea, the Negeb, and the basin or valley of Jericho (the city of palms) as far as Zoar. The LORD said to him, 4
"This is the land concerning which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, as follows: 'To your descendants I will give it'; I have let you look upon it, but you shall not go over there."

So Moses, the servant of the LORD, 5 died there in the land of Moab by command of the LORD; and he was buried 6 in the valley in the land of Moab opposite Beth-peor; but to this day no one knows his burial-place.

Moses was one hundred and twenty 7 years old when he died, his eyes undimmed, and his virility unabated. For 8 thirty days the Israelites wept for Moses in the steppes of Moab. When the days of weeping in lamentation over Moses had come to an end, since Joshua, the son of Nun, was full of sagacity (for Moses had laid his hands upon him), the Israelites gave their allegiance to him, doing as the LORD had commanded Moses. 9

Since then no prophet has ever appeared in Israel like Moses, with whom the LORD held converse face to face—as regards all the signs and portents 11 which the LORD sent him to perform in the land of Egypt against Pharaoh and all his courtiers and all his land, as well 12 as all the mighty power and all the great wonders which Moses performed in the sight of all Israel.

THE BOOK OF JOSHUA

THE ISRAELITE CONQUEST OF CANAAN, 1:1—12:24

1 NOW after the death of Moses, the servant of the LORD, the LORD said to Joshua, the son of Nun, the attendant of Moses,

2 "My servant Moses is dead; proceed then, to cross the Jordan here, you and all this people, into the land which I am giving them. Every place on which the sole of your foot treads I have given to you, as I promised Moses; the region from the desert as far as the Lebanon yonder, and from the Great River, the river Euphrates, as far as the Great Western Sea, all the land of the Hittites, shall be your domain. No one shall be able to hold his own against you as long as you live, in that I will be with you, as I was with Moses, never failing you nor forsaking you. Be strong and brave; for you shall put this people in possession of the land which I swore to their fathers to give them.
7 Only be very strong and resolute to be careful to do just as my servant Moses commanded you, swerving therefrom neither to the right nor to the left, so that you may succeed in everything that you undertake. This book of the law must never be off your lips, but you must muse over it day and night, that you may be careful to comply with all that is written in it; for then you shall make your life prosperous, and you shall succeed. Have I not commanded you to be strong and brave? Do not be frightened or dismayed; for the LORD your God is with you in whatever you undertake."

8 Then Joshua commanded the officers of the people,

9 "Go through the camp, and command the people as follows: 'Provide yourselves with supplies; for within three days you are going to cross the Jordan here to enter into possession of the land which the LORD your God is giving you to conquer.'"

Also to the Reubenites, Gadites, and 12 half-tribe of Manasseh Joshua said,

"Remember the command which 13 Moses, the servant of the LORD, gave you, when he said, 'The LORD your God is providing you with a home, and is giving you this land.' Your wives, 14 your little ones, and your cattle are to remain in the land which Moses gave you beyond the Jordan, but all of you who are valiant warriors are to cross over as special troops ahead of your kinsmen, and help them, until the 15 LORD provides your kinsmen with a home, as he has you, and they also occupy the land which the LORD your God is giving them. Then you may return to the land of your own, which Moses, the servant of the LORD, gave you beyond the Jordan to the east."

They answered Joshua, 16

"Everything that you have commanded us we will do, and wherever you send us we will go. Just as we 17 obeyed Moses in everything, so will we obey you; only may the LORD your God be with you as he was with Moses! Anyone who scorns your orders and 18 does not obey you in all that you command him, shall be put to death; only be strong and brave."

From Shittim Joshua, the son of 2 Nun, sent two men as spies, saying,

"Go, view the land, especially Jericho."

So they went off. They entered the house of a harlot whose name was Rahab, and lay down there. Then the 2 king of Jericho was told, "Some men came here tonight from the Israelites to reconnoiter the land!" So the king of 3 Jericho sent word to Rahab,

"Bring out the men who have come to you, who have entered your house; for they have come to reconnoiter the whole land."

The woman, however, had taken the 4 two men and hidden them; so she said,

"Yes, the men did come to me, but I did not know where they came from. When it came time for the gate to be 5 closed at dark, the men went out. I do not know where the men went. Hurry and pursue them; for you can overtake them."

6 She had, however, brought them up to the roof, and had hidden them with the stalks of flax which she had spread out on the roof.

7 As for the men themselves, pursuers went after them in the direction of the Jordan as far as the fords; and the gate was shut as soon as those in pursuit of them went out. Before they had lain down, she came up to them on the roof, and said to the men,

"I know that the LORD has given you the land, and that the terror of you has fallen on us, and that all the inhabitants of the land are losing heart because of you; for we have heard how the LORD dried up the waters of the Red Sea before you when you came out of Egypt, and what you did to the two Amorite kings who lived on the other side of the Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom you exterminated. When we heard of it, our hearts failed, and no courage was left in anyone because of you; for the LORD your God is God in the heavens above and on the earth below. Now then, since I have dealt kindly with you, swear to me by the LORD that you in turn will deal kindly with my father's household, giving me a sure sign, and that you will spare the lives of my father, my mother, my brothers, and my sisters, together with all that belong to them, and thus save us from death."

14 The men said to her,

"We pledge our lives for yours that, if you say nothing about this errand of ours, we will deal kindly and honestly with you when the LORD gives us the land."

15 Then she let them down by a rope through the window (for her house was built into the city-wall, so that she was living right in the wall).

16 "Get away to the hills," she said to them, "lest the pursuers chance upon you; hide yourselves there for three days until the pursuers return, and then you may proceed on your way."

17 The men said to her,

18 "See, when we invade the land, you must tie this cord of scarlet string in the window through which you let us down. Gather your father, your mother, your brothers, and all your father's household inside your house; in the case of anyone who leaves the door of your house for the street, his blood shall be on his own head; we will not be to blame; but in the case of everyone who is with you in the house, his blood shall be on our heads, if a hand is laid on him. If, however, you divulge this errand of ours, we shall be released from the oath to you which you made us take."

"Let it be as you say," she said. 21

Then she saw them off; and when they had gone, she tied the scarlet cord in the window. So they went off and entered the hills, and stayed there for three days, until the pursuers returned. The pursuers looked for them all along the road, but did not find them. Then the two men returned; coming down from the hills, they crossed over and came to Joshua, the son of Nun, and told him all that had befallen them.

"The LORD is delivering the whole land into our power," they said to Joshua; "moreover, the inhabitants of the land are all losing heart because of us."

So Joshua rose early next morning, and he and all the Israelites set out from Shittim, and reaching the Jordan, they passed the night there, before crossing over. Three days afterward the officers went through the camp, and commanded the people as follows:

"As soon as you see the Levitical priests taking up the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, you must leave your position and follow it (there must be, however, between you and it a space of some two thousand cubits; you must not come any nearer to it), in order that you may know what road to follow; for you have never gone over this road before."

Then Joshua said to the people, "Consecrate yourselves; for tomorrow the LORD is going to perform wonders among you."

To the priests Joshua said, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over ahead of the people."

So they took up the ark of the covenant, and went ahead of the people.

Then the LORD said to Joshua, "This day I begin to exalt you in the sight of all Israel, that they may know that I am with you, as I was with Moses. Now, you are to command the priests who are carrying the ark of the covenant as follows: 'As soon as you reach the brink of the water of the Jordan, you must come to a halt in the Jordan.'

9 Then Joshua said to the Israelites, "Come here and hear the words of the LORD your God."

10 Joshua said, "By this you shall know that the living God is in your midst, and that he is surely going to drive out of your way the Canaanites, Hittites, Hivvites, Perizzites, Girschites, Amorites, and 11 Jebusites. See, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth is to 12 cross the Jordan ahead of you. Now then, choose twelve men from the tribes
13 of Israel, one man from each tribe. As soon as the soles of the feet of the priests carrying the ark of the LORD, the Lord of the whole earth, rest in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off, namely, the waters flowing down from above, and they shall come to a stop in a single heap."

14 When the people left their tents to cross the Jordan, with the priests carrying the ark of the covenant preceding
15 the people, then, as soon as the bearers of the ark reached the Jordan, and the feet of the priests carrying the ark dipped in the brink of the water (the Jordan being flooded above all its banks during all the time of harvest), 16 the waters flowing down from above came to a stop, rising up in a single heap, and extending for a long distance from Adamah, a city that is in the vicinity of Zarethan; while those flowing down toward the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, were completely cut off, so that the people crossed over, opposite Jericho. The priests carrying the ark of the covenant of the LORD took their stand on dry ground, right in the middle of the Jordan, while all Israel crossed over on dry ground, until the whole nation had finished crossing the Jordan.

14 As soon as the whole nation had finished crossing the Jordan, the LORD said to Joshua,

2 "Choose twelve men from the people,
3 one from each tribe, and command them as follows: 'Take up twelve stones from here, right out of the middle of the Jordan, from the place where the feet of the priests stood, and carrying them over with you, lay them down at the place where you are going to camp tonight.'"

So Joshua summoned the twelve
4 men whom he had selected from the Israelites, one from each tribe, and Josh-
5 ua said to them,

"Go over to where the ark of the LORD your God is in the middle of the Jordan, and each of you lift a stone upon his shoulder, to the number of the tribes of the Israelites, that this may be 6 a sign among you; for later your children will be asking you, 'What is the significance of these stones to you?' and 7 then you must tell them how the waters of the Jordan were cut off in front of the ark of the covenant of the LORD; when it passed into the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan were cut off; so these stones serve as a memorial for the Israelites forever."

The Israelites did as Joshua com-
8 manded; they took up twelve stones out of the middle of the Jordan, as the LORD had told Joshua, to the number of the tribes of the Israelites, and carrying them over with them to the camping-place, they laid them down there (Joshua having piled up the twelve 9 stones in the middle of the Jordan at the place where the feet of the priests carrying the ark of the covenant stood), and there they are to this day. The 10 priests carrying the ark remained standing in the middle of the Jordan until everything had been finished that the LORD had commanded Joshua to tell the people to do. The people hurried over, and as soon as the people had 11 all finished crossing, the ark of the LORD, with the priests, passed over to the van of the people. The Reubenites, 12 Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh passed over as special troops ahead of the Israelites, as Moses had told them, some forty thousand picked troops
13 passing over in sight of the LORD to the steppes of Jericho for battle. That day 14 the LORD exalted Joshua in the sight of all Israel, so that they revered him as they had revered Moses, as long as he lived.

Then the LORD said to Joshua,
15 "Command the priests carrying the 16 ark of the decrees to come up out of the Jordan."

So Joshua commanded the priests,
17 "Come up out of the Jordan."

18 When the priests carrying the ark of the covenant of the LORD came up from the middle of the Jordan, and the soles of the feet of the priests were lifted on to the dry ground, the waters of the Jordan resumed their course, and flowed as before above all its banks.

19 It was on the tenth day of the first month that the people came up from the Jordan, and camped at Gilgal at the eastern outskirts of Jericho; and these twelve stones which they took out of the Jordan, Joshua set up at Gilgal.

21 Then he said to the Israelites,

"When your children in time to come ask their fathers, 'What is the significance of these stones?' you must inform your children as follows: 'Right on dry ground Israel crossed this Jordan.' For the LORD your God dried up the waters of the Jordan in front of you, until you had passed over, as the LORD your God did to the Red Sea which he dried up in front of us, until we had passed over, that all the peoples of the earth may know that the hand of the LORD is strong, so that you may stand in awe of the LORD your God always."

5 Now when all the Amorite kings who were beyond the Jordan to the west, and all the Canaanite kings who were by the Sea heard how the LORD had dried up the waters of the Jordan in front of the Israelites, until they had passed over, their hearts failed, and there was no courage left in them because of the Israelites.

2 At that time the LORD said to Joshua,

"Make flint knives, and have another circumcision for the Israelites."

3 So Joshua made flint knives, and circumcised the Israelites at Gibeath-araloth [the hill of the foreskins]. Now this is the reason why Joshua had the circumcision: all the people who had come out of Egypt, that is, the males, all the warriors, had died during the journey through the desert after coming out of Egypt; for all the people who came out were circumcised, but none of the people who had been born during the journey through the desert after coming out of Egypt had been circumcised; for the Israelites had journeyed for forty years in the desert until the whole generation, that is, the warriors who came out of Egypt, had perished, since they would not heed the injunctions of the LORD, and the LORD had sworn to them that he would not let them see the land which the LORD had sworn to their fathers to give us, a land flowing with milk and honey. So it was their children who replaced them that Joshua circumcised; for they were uncircumcised, because they had not been circumcised on the journey. After the circumcision had been completed for the whole nation, they remained at home in the camp until they had recovered.

Then the LORD said to Joshua, "Today I have rolled the odium of Egypt off you."

Hence the name of that place came to be called Gilgal [rolling], as it is to this day.

When the Israelites were camped at Gilgal, they observed the passover on the evening of the fourteenth day of the month, on the steppes of Jericho. The day after the passover they ate some of the products of the land, unleavened cakes and parched grain; that very same day the manna ceased, when they ate some of the products of the land, so that the Israelites had manna no longer, but lived that year on the produce of the land of Canaan.

When Joshua was near Jericho, he raised his eyes and saw a man standing opposite him with his drawn sword in his hand. So Joshua approached him, and said to him,

"Are you for us, or for our adversaries?"

"No," said he; "I come rather as captain of the host of the LORD."

Then Joshua fell on his face to the earth, and bowing down, said to him,

"What has my lord to say to his servant?"

"Take your sandals off your feet," said the captain of the host of the LORD to Joshua; "for the place on which you are standing is holy."

Joshua did so. (Now Jericho was shut up tight because of the Israelites, with no one going out or coming in.) Then the LORD said to Joshua,

"See, I am delivering Jericho into your power, along with its king. Take the most valiant warriors, and march around the city, all the warriors going around the city once. Thus shall you do for six days, while seven priests carry seven rams' horns in front of the ark. On the seventh day you shall march around the city seven times, while the priests blow the horns. When they blow a long blast on the rams' horns, as soon as you hear the sound of the horns, all the people must raise a mighty shout, and then the wall of the city shall fall down flat, so that the people can go up, each straight in front of him."

6 So Joshua, the son of Nun, summoned the priests, and said to them, "Take up the ark of the covenant, and let seven priests carry seven rams' horns in front of the ark of the LORD."

7 Then he said to the people, "Pass on, and march around the city, while the picked troops pass on in front of the ark of the LORD."

8 As soon as Joshua spoke to the people, the seven priests carrying the seven rams' horns in front of the LORD passed on, and blew the horns, while the ark of the covenant of the LORD followed them, and the picked troops marched in front of the priests who were blowing the horns, and the rearguard followed the ark, blowing the horns as they went.

9 Then Joshua commanded the people, "You must not shout, nor let your voices be heard, nor let a word escape your lips, until the day that I tell you to shout; then shout."

10 So he had the ark of the LORD taken around the city, going around it once; then they retired to the camp, and spent the night in the camp.

11 Next morning Joshua rose early; the priests took up the ark of the LORD, while the seven priests carrying the seven rams' horns in front of the ark of the LORD went along, blowing the horns as they went, and the picked troops went ahead of them, and the rearguard followed the ark of the LORD, blowing the horns as they went.

12 So they marched once around the city on the second day, and then returned to the camp. Thus they did for six days.

13 Then on the seventh day they rose early at daybreak, and marched around the city in the same manner seven times; it was on that day only that they marched around the city seven times.

14 The seventh time the priests blew the horns, and then Joshua said to the people, "Shout; for the LORD is giving you the city. The city with all that is in it is to be immolated to the LORD; only Rahab, the harlot, is to be spared, she and all who are with her in her house, because she hid the messengers whom we sent. As for yourselves, you are to keep absolutely clear of the doomed things, lest you covet them, and take some of the doomed things, and so put the camp of Israel under the ban, and bring trouble to it. But all the silver and gold, and the articles of bronze and iron are sacred to the LORD; they are to go into the treasury of the LORD."

So the people shouted, when the horns were blown. As soon as the people heard the sound of the horns, the people raised a mighty shout, and the wall fell flat, so that the people went up into the city, each straight in front of him, and they captured the city. They massacred all that were in the city, both men and women, old and young alike, as well as the oxen, sheep, and asses, putting them to the sword. But Joshua said to the two men who had spied out the land,

"Go into the harlot's house, and bring the woman out of it, with all that belong to her, as you swore to her."

So the spies went in, and brought Rahab out, with her father, her mother, her brothers, and all that belonged to her; they brought all her family out, and placed them outside the camp of Israel. The city itself they burned up, with all that was in it; only the silver and gold and articles of bronze and iron, they put into the treasury of the LORD. But Rahab, the harlot, and her father's household, and all that belonged to her, Joshua spared; and she lived among the Israelites, as do her descendants to this day; for she hid the messengers that Joshua sent to spy out Jericho.

At that time Joshua had an oath taken as follows:

"Cursed be the man before the LORD, Who undertakes to rebuild this city, Jericho;

At the cost of his first-born shall he lay its foundation,

And at the cost of his youngest son shall he erect its gates."

The LORD was with Joshua, so that his fame spread all through the land.

But the Israelites broke faith in the case of the doomed things, in that Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, who belonged to the tribe of Judah, took some of the doomed things, so that the anger of the LORD blazed against the Israelites.

2 Joshua sent men from Jericho to Ai, which is near Bethaven, east of Bethel, and said to them,

"Go up and spy out the land."

So the men went up and spied out Ai.

3 Then they returned to Joshua, and said to him,

"All the people need not go up; only two or three thousand men need go up to attack Ai; do not make all the people toil up there; for they are few."

4 So about three thousand of the people went up there; but they fled from the men of Ai. The men of Ai killed about thirty-six of them, and pursued them out from the city gate as far as Shebarim, and killed them at the descent, so that the hearts of the people failed, and turned to water.

5 Then Joshua tore his clothes, and falling on his face to the earth before the ark of the LORD, he lay there until evening, together with the elders of Israel; and they threw dust on their heads.

6 "Alas, O Lord GOD," said Joshua, "why didst thou ever bring this people across the Jordan, only to deliver us into the power of the Amorites, to destroy us? Would that we had been content to remain on the other side of

7 the Jordan! Pray, O Lord, what can I say after Israel has turned his back on his enemies? When the Canaanites and all the inhabitants of the land hear of it, they will surround us, and wipe us off the earth; and what wilt thou do then for thy great name?"

8 "Rise!" the LORD said to Joshua. "What use is it to fall on your face?"

9 Israel has sinned; they have violated the covenant with me, which I enjoined on them; they have taken some of the doomed things; they have stolen them, dissimulated about them, and put them

10 among their own things. The Israelites, accordingly, cannot stand up against their enemies, but turn their backs on their enemies; for they have become doomed themselves. I will not be with you any more, unless you get rid of the 11 doomed things. Rise, consecrate the people, and say, "Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow; for thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: "Doomed things are among you, O Israel; you cannot stand up against your enemies until you remove the doomed things from your midst." In the morning then, you shall 14 present yourselves by tribes; and the tribe which the LORD indicates shall come forward by clans; and the clan which the LORD indicates shall come forward by families; and the family which the LORD indicates shall come forward by individuals. Then he that is 15 indicated as having the doomed things shall be burned, together with all that belong to him; because he violated the covenant of the LORD, and because he committed an infamous act in Israel."

So Joshua rose early next morning, 16 and had Israel come forward by tribes, and the tribe of Judah was indicated. Then he had the clans of Judah come 17 forward, and the clan of the Zerahites was indicated. Then he had the clan of the Zerahites come forward by families, and Zabdi was indicated. Finally he 18 had his family come forward by individuals, and Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, the son of Zerah, belonging to the tribe of Judah, was indicated. Then Joshua said to Achan, 19

"My son, render homage to the LORD, the God of Israel, and give praise to him; but do tell me what you did; do not hide it from me."

Achan answered Joshua, 20

"Yes, it was I who sinned against the LORD, the God of Israel; this briefly is what I did: when I saw among the spoil 21 a beautiful mantle from Shinar, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a bar of gold fifty shekels in weight, I coveted them, and took them; they are hiddden in the ground inside my tent, with the money underneath the mantle."

So Joshua sent messengers, who ran 22 to the tent, and there it was hidden in his tent, with the money underneath it! They took the things from the tent, 23 and brought them to Joshua and all the Israelites; and they laid them before the LORD. Then Joshua, accompanied 24 by all Israel, took Achan, the descendant of Zerah, and the silver, the mantle, the bar of gold, his sons, his daughters, his oxen, his asses, his sheep, his household, and all that belonged to him, and they brought them to the valley of Achor.

"Why have you brought trouble on?"

us?" said Joshua. "May the LORD bring trouble on you today!"

So all Israel stoned him; they burned them all up and stoned them. They erected a great cairn of stones over him, which remains to this day. Then the LORD relented from his fierce anger. That is how the name of that place came to be called the Valley of Achor [trouble], as it is to this day.

Then the LORD said to Joshua,

"Do not be afraid or dismayed; take all the warriors with you, and go, march against Ai. See, I am delivering the king of Ai into your power, together with his people, his city, and his land. You shall do to Ai and its king as you did to Jericho and its king, except that you may take its spoil and cattle as your booty. Set an ambush for the city west of it."

So Joshua, with all the warriors, prepared to march against Ai. Joshua picked out thirty thousand of the most valiant warriors, and sent them off by night, commanding them as follows:

"See, you are to lie in ambush against the city, to the west of it; do not go very far from the city, but all of you be ready. I and all the troops with me will draw near to the city, and then, when they come out against us, we shall flee from them as we did the first time, and they will come out after us, until we draw them away from the city; for they will say, 'They are fleeing from us as they did the first time.' Thus we shall flee from them, and then you must rise from your ambush, and take possession of the city. The LORD your God will deliver it into your power. As soon as you have seized the city, set the city on fire, doing as the LORD directed. See, I have given you your commands."

Then Joshua sent them off, and they went to the place of ambush, establishing themselves between Bethel and Ai, west of Ai; but Joshua himself spent that night with the people.

Next morning Joshua rose early, and mustered the people, and with the elders of Israel marched at the head of the people to Ai. Then all the people, that is, the warriors that were with him, marched up until they came near it. Arriving in front of the city, they encamped north of Ai, with the valley between them and Ai. Joshua took about five thousand men, and set them in ambush between Bethel and Ai, west of the city. So the people were given their stations, the main body north of the city, and the rearguard west of the city; but Joshua himself spent that night in the valley.

As soon as the king of Ai became aware of it, he hurried out with all his people to meet Israel in battle, without knowing that there was an ambush for him west of the city. Joshua and all Israel pretended to be beaten by them, and fled in the direction of the desert. Then all the people that were in the city were called out to pursue them; and in pursuing Joshua, they were drawn away from the city. Not a man was left in Ai or Bethel that did not go out in pursuit of Israel; they left the city unguarded, and pursued Israel. Then the LORD said to Joshua,

"Stretch out the javelin that is in your hand toward Ai; for I will deliver it into your power."

So Joshua stretched out the javelin that was in his hand toward the city; whereupon the men in ambush rose quickly from their position; as soon as he stretched out his hand, they ran, and entered the city, and captured it; then they hurriedly set the city on fire. When the men of Ai looked back, they saw the smoke of the city rising to the heavens! They had no chance to flee this way or that; for the people who had been fleeing to the desert turned on their pursuers. When Joshua and the main body of Israel saw that the men in ambush had captured the city, and that smoke was rising from the city, they turned back and attacked the men of Ai. Then the others came out of the city against them, and thus they were between two bodies of Israelites, some on one side and some on the other. They slew them until not one remained or escaped. The king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua.

When Israel had finished slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the open desert where they had pursued them, and all of them had fallen by the sword until they were at an end, all Israel turned back to Ai, and put it to the sword. The total number of those that fell that day, including men and women, was twelve thousand, namely, all the people of Ai; Joshua did not withdraw his hand, with which he was holding out the javelin, until he had massacred all 27 the inhabitants of Ai. The cattle, however, and the spoil of that city the Israelites took as their booty, in accord-28 LORD had given Joshua. So Joshua burned Ai, and turned it permanently into a heap of ruins, as it is to this day.

 29 The king of Ai he hanged on a tree and left until evening, but at sunset Joshua ordered his body to be taken down from the tree, and thrown down at the entrance to the city's gate. A great cairn of stones was erected over it, which remains to this day.

30 Then Joshua built an altar to the LORD, the God of Israel, on Mount 31 Gerizim, as Moses, the servant of the LORD, had commanded the Israelites, an altar of undressed stones, on which no iron tool had been used, as it is written in the lawbook of Moses.
 Burnt-offerings to the LORD were made on it, and thank-offerings were sacri-32 ficed. Then he wrote there on the stones a copy of the law of Moses which he had written for the Israelites.

33 First all Israel, with their elders, officers, and judges, took their stand on each side of the ark, opposite the Levitical priests who carried the ark of the covenant of the LORD—the resident aliens as well as the native born—half of them in front of Mount Gerizim, and half of them in front of Mount Ebal for the blessing of the people of Israel, as Moses, the servant of the LORD, had 34 instructed; and then he read all the provisions of the law, the blessing and the curse, just as it was written in the 35 lawbook; there was not a word of all that Moses commanded that Joshua did not read in the presence of all the assemblage of Israel, with the women, the children, and the resident aliens who were residing with them.

9 When all the kings heard of it, who were beyond the Jordan, in the highlands and lowlands, and all along the coast of the Great Sea in front of Lebanon, the Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebu-2 sites, they formed a coalition to fight as a single body with Joshua and Israel.

3 When the inhabitants of Gibeon heard what Joshua had done to Jericho 4 and Ai, they on their part resorted to a ruse; they proceeded to disguise themselves: they took old sacks to load on their asses, and old torn, patched wine-skins, with old, patched sandals on their feet, and old garments on their backs, and the bread for their provisions was all dry and crumbled. Then they went to Joshua at the camp at Gilgal, and said to him and the men of Israel,

"We have come from a far country;
 now then, make an alliance with us."

The men of Israel said to the Hiv-vites,

"Perhaps you are living among us; so how can we make an alliance with
 you?"

"We are your servants," they said to Joshua.

But Joshua said to them,

"Who are you, and where do you come from?"

They said to him,

"Your servants have come from a very far country on account of the fame of the LORD your God; for we have heard the report of him, and all that he did in Egypt and all that he did to the two Amorite kings who were beyond the Jordan, Sihon, king of Heshbon, and Og, king of Bashan, who lived at Ashtaroth. Our elders and all the inhabitants of our land said to us, 'Take with you provisions for a journey, and go to meet them, and say to them, "We are your servants; now then, make an alliance with us."' This is our bread; we took it fresh for our provision out of our houses on the day that we left to come to you, and now look; it is dry and crumbled. These are our wine-skins, which were new when we filled them, and now look; they are torn.
 These are our clothes and sandals; they are worn out from the very long journey."

Then the men partook of their provisions, without asking the advice of the LORD; and Joshua came to terms with them, and made a covenant with them to let them live, and the leaders of the community swore an oath to them.

However, three days after they had made the covenant with them, they learned that they were their neighbors, and were living among them. So the Israelites set out, and reached their cities on the third day, their cities being Gibeon, Chephirah, Beeroth, and Kir-jath-jearim. The Israelites, however, did not kill them, because the leaders of the community had sworn an oath to them by the LORD, the God of Israel. The whole community grumbled at the leaders, but the leaders all said to the whole community,

"We have sworn an oath to them by the LORD, the God of Israel; so now we cannot touch them. This is what we will do to them; we will let them live, so that no wrath may come upon us for the oath which we swore to them."

"They shall live," the leaders said to them; "but they shall become hewers of wood and drawers of water for the whole community, as the leaders told them."

Then Joshua summoned them, and said to them,

"Why have you deceived us by saying, 'We live very far from you,' when you are really living among us? Cursed then shall you be; never shall you cease providing slaves, hewers of wood and drawers of water, for the temple of my God!"

They answered Joshua,

"Your servants were assured that the LORD your God had commanded his servant Moses to give you the whole land, and to exterminate all the inhabitants of the land from your way, so we stood in great fear of our lives through you, and accordingly have done this. Here we are, then, in your power; do whatever you think it right and proper to do to us."

And that was what Joshua did to them; he saved them from the Israelites, so that they did not slay them; but he made them that day hewers of wood and drawers of water for the community, and for the altar of the LORD, for the sanctuary that he should choose, as they are to this day.

When Adoni-zedek, king of Jerusalem, heard that Joshua had captured Ai, and had annihilated it (having done so to Ai and its king as he did to Jericho and its king), and that the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and had joined them, he was in great terror; for Gibeon was a large city, quite like a royal city, and was larger than Ai, and its men were all fighters. So Adoni-zedek, king of Jerusalem, sent this message to Hoham, king of Hebron, to Piram, king of Jarmuth, to Japhia, king of Lachish, and to Debir, king of Eglon:

"Join me, and give me your help, that we may chastise Gibeon; for it has made peace with Joshua and the Israelites."

So the five Amorite kings, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon, mustered their forces, and coming up with all their armies, they invested Gibeon, and attacked it. Then the Gibeonites sent this message to Joshua at the camp at Gilgal:

"Do not abandon your servants; come up quickly to our rescue, and help us; for all the Amorite kings inhabiting the highlands have gathered against us."

So Joshua went up from Gilgal, accompanied by all the warriors, as well as all the seasoned troops.

"Do not be afraid of them," the LORD said to Joshua; "for I am delivering them into your power; not one of them shall hold his own against you."

So Joshua made a surprise attack upon them, by marching all night from Gilgal; and the LORD threw them into a panic before Israel, so that they inflicted great slaughter on them at Gibeon, and pursuing them in the direction of the slope of Beth-horon, they harried them all the way to Azekah and Makkedah. After they had fled from the Israelites, while they were at the descent of Beth-horon, the LORD cast great stones from the sky upon them all the way to Azekah, so that they died, more dying from the hailstones than the Israelites slew with the sword.

It was on the day that the LORD put the Amorites at the mercy of the Israelites that Joshua spoke to the LORD, and in the presence of Israel said, "O sun, stop at Gibeon;

And thou moon, at the valley of Aijalon!"

So the sun came to a stop, and the moon stood still, until the nation took vengeance on their foes. (Is this not written in the Book of Jashar?) The sun stood still at the zenith, and delayed its setting for about a whole day. Never before or since has there been a day like that, when the LORD heeded the cry of a man; for the LORD fought for Israel. Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, returned to the camp at Gilgal.

16 The five kings fled, and hid themselves in the cave at Makkedah; and Joshua was told,

"The five kings have been discovered, hidden in the cave at Makkedah."

18 So Joshua said,

"Roll large stones up to the mouth of the cave, and post men over it to guard them; but do not stay there yourselves; pursue your enemies, and attack them in the rear; do not let them get into their cities; for the LORD your God has delivered them into your power."

20 When Joshua and the Israelites had finished inflicting a very great slaughter on them until they were at an end, and the survivors who were left of them had gained the fortified cities, the people all returned unmolested to Joshua at the camp at Makkedah, not a man flinging a word at the Israelites.

22 Then Joshua said,

"Open the mouth of the cave, and bring me those five kings out of the cave."

23 They did so; they brought him these five kings out of the cave: the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon. When they had brought these kings out to Joshua, Joshua summoned all the men of Israel, and said to the army commanders who had accompanied him,

"Come forward, and put your feet on the necks of these kings."

25 So they came forward, and put their feet on their necks. Then Joshua said to them,

"Do not be afraid or dismayed; be strong and brave; for thus shall the LORD do to all your enemies with whom you fight."

26 Joshua then felled them, and killed them; he hanged them on five trees, and they remained hanging on the trees until evening. At sunset, on command of Joshua, they were taken down from the trees, and thrown into the cave where they had hidden themselves, and large stones were placed on the mouth of the cave, which remain to this very day.

28 That day Joshua captured Makkedah, and put it and its king to the sword, annihilating it and every person in it, sparing no one. He did to the king of Makkedah as he had done to the king of Jericho.

Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, passed on from Makkedah to Libnah. He attacked Libnah, and the LORD delivered it also, with its king, into the power of Israel. He put it to the sword, with every person that was in it, sparing no one in it, and did to its king as he had done to the king of Jericho.

Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, passed on from Libnah to Lachish. He invested it, and attacked it; and the LORD delivered Lachish into the power of Israel. He captured it on the second day, and put it to the sword, with every person that was in it, just as he had done to Libnah. Then Horam, king of Gezer, came up to help Lachish, but Joshua harried him and his army until not a survivor was left to him.

Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, passed on from Lachish to Eglon. They invested it, and attacked it. They captured it that same day, and put it to the sword, massacring that day every person that was in it, just as had been done to Lachish.

Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, marched up from Eglon to Hebron. They attacked it, and captured it, and put it to the sword, with its king, all its towns, and every person that was in it, sparing no one, just as had been done to Eglon. He annihilated it and every person in it.

Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, turned back to Debir, and attacked it. He captured it and its king and all its towns. He put them to the sword, and massacred every person that was in it, sparing no one. As he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir and its king, as also he had done to Libnah and its king.

Thus Joshua conquered the whole land, the highlands, the steppes, the lowlands, and the slopes, with all their kings, sparing no one, but massacring every living soul, as the LORD, the God of Israel, had directed. Joshua conquered them from Kadesh-barnea as far as Gaza, and all the land of Goshen as far as Gibeon. All these kings and their country Joshua captured in a single campaign; for the LORD, the God of Israel, fought for Israel. Then Joshua, accompanied by all Israel, returned to the camp at Gilgal.

When Jabin, king of Hazor, heard that about it, he sent to Jobab, king of Madon, to the king of Shimran, to the king of Achshaph, to the kings that were in the highlands to the north, in the Arabah south of Chinneroth, in the lowlands, and in the uplands of Dor to the west—the Canaanites to the east and west, the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites in the highlands, and the Hivvites at the foot of Hermon in the land of Mizpeh. These, accompanied by all their troops, sallied forth, a great host, as numerous as the sands on the seashore, with very many horses and chariots. All these kings joined forces, and went and encamped together at the waters of Merom, to fight with Israel.

Then the LORD said to Joshua, "Do not stand in fear of them; for tomorrow about this time I will deliver them up to Israel all slain; you must hamstring their horses and burn up their chariots."

So Joshua, accompanied by all the warriors, made a surprise attack upon them at the waters of Merom, and fell upon them. The LORD delivered them into the power of Israel, so that they defeated them, and pursued them as far as Sidon the Great and Misrephoth-maim and the valley of Mizpeh eastward. They harried them until not a survivor was left of them. Joshua did to them as the LORD had told him, hamstringing their horses, and burning up their chariots.

It was at that time also that Joshua captured Hazor, and put its king to the sword (for Hazor used to be the head of all those kingdoms). They put every person that was in it to the sword, massacring them, not a living soul being left. Then Hazor was burned.

So Joshua captured all the cities of those kings, as well as all the kings themselves, and put them to the sword, massacring them, as Moses, the servant of the LORD, had commanded. None of the cities, however, that stood on mounds did Israel burn, except Hazor alone, Joshua having burned it. All the spoil of these cities and the cattle, the Israelites took as their booty; but they put all the men to the sword until they had destroyed them, sparing not a living soul. As the LORD had commanded his servant Moses, so did Moses command Joshua; and thus Joshua did, neglecting nothing of all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

So Joshua took all that land (the highlands, all the steppes, all the land of Goshen, the lowlands, the Arabah, the highlands of Israel, and its lowlands), from Mount Halak, that rises toward Seir, as far as Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon at the foot of Mount Hermon. He captured all their kings, and after scourging them, he put them to death. For a long time Joshua carried on war with all those kings. There was no city that made peace with the Israelites, except the Hivvites, inhabiting Gibeon; they all had to be taken in battle. For it was at the instigation of the LORD that they had been encouraged to engage Israel in battle, that they might be annihilated, without being given any quarter, but annihilated, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

At that same time Joshua went and exterminated the Anakim from the highlands; from Hebron, Debir, and Anab, from all the highlands of Judah, and all the highlands of Israel; Joshua annihilated them, along with their cities. No Anakim were left in the land of the Israelites; it was only in Gaza, Gath, and Ashdod that some remained. Joshua captured the whole land, just as the LORD had promised Moses. Joshua then distributed it as a heritage among the various tribes of Israel. So the land had rest from war.

The following are the kings of the land whom the Israelites had already vanquished, and whose land beyond the Jordan to the east they had occupied, from the river Arnon as far as Mount Hermon, with all the Arabah eastward: Sihon, king of the Amorites, who lived at Heshbon, and whose rule extended from Aroer, which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, from the middle of the valley as far as the Jab-bok river, the frontier of the Ammonites, that is, half of Gilead, along with the Arabah as far as the Sea of Chinneroth to the east, and as far as the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, to the east, in the direction of Beth-jeshimoth, and southward to the foot of the slopes of Pisgah; also Og, king of Bashan, one of the survivors of the Rephaim, who lived at Ashtaroth, and Edrei, and who ruled over Mount Hermon, Salecah, and the whole of Bashan, as far as the frontier of the Geshurites and Maacathites, along with half of Gilead, as far as the frontier of Sihon, king of Heshbon. Moses, the servant of the LORD, and the Israelites had vanquished them, and Moses, the servant of the LORD, had given the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh possession of their land.

7 The following are the kings of the land whom Joshua and the Israelites vanquished beyond the Jordan to the west, from Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon as far as Mount Halak which rises toward Seir (Joshua distributed the land among the various tribes of Israel as their possession), in the highlands, the lowlands, the Arabah, the slopes, the desert, and the steppes: Hittites, Amorites, Canaanites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites:

THE ALLOTMENT OF THE LAND AMONG THE HE- BREW TRIBES,

13:1—21:45

When Joshua was old, being well 15 advanced in life, the LORD said to
him,

"You are old, being well advanced in life, but very much of the land remains still to be conquered. The following 2 is the territory that still remains: all the Philistine states, and all those of the Geshurites, from the Shihor which is 3 east of Egypt as far as the frontier of Ekron to the north (which is regarded as Canaanite), the five principalities of the Philistines, the Gazite, Ashdodite, Ashkelonite, Gittite, and Ekronite; also the territory of the Avvim to the south, all the land of the Canaanites 4 from Mearah which belongs to the Sidonians as far as Aphek, as far as the frontier of the Amorites; and the terri- 5 tory of the Gebalites, along with the whole of Lebanon to the east, from Baal-gad at the foot of Mount Hermon as far as the approach to Hamath.
All the inhabitants of the highlands 6 from Lebanon as far as Misrephothmaim, all the Sidonians, I will drive out of the way of the Israelites; meanwhile, however, allot the land to Israel as a heritage, as I commanded you. Now 7 then, divide this land as a heritage among the nine tribes and the half-tribe of Manasseh."

Along with the other half-tribe, the 8
Reubenites and Gadites had received their heritage, which Moses had given them beyond the Jordan to the east, as Moses, the servant of the LORD, had assigned it to them, extending from 9
Aroer which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, together with the city that is in the valley, and all the table-land from Medeba as far as Dibon, and all the 10 cities of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, as far as the frontier of the Ammonites; as well as 11
Gilead, and the territory of the Geshurites and Maacathites, and the whole of Mount Hermon, and the whole of Bashan as far as Salecah, the whole 12 kingdom of Og in Bashan who reigned at Ashtaroth and Edrei (he was the last survivor of the Rephaim)—Moses had defeated these, and dispossessed

13 them. The Israelites, however, did not evict the Geshurites or Maacathites; but Geshur and Maacath live in the 14 midst of Israel to this day. To the tribe of Levi alone was no heritage given, the LORD, the God of Israel, being their heritage, as he had promised them.

15 Moses had made assignments to the various clans of the tribe of Reubenites. To them went the territory extending from Aroer which is on the edge of the Arnon valley, together with the city that is in the valley, and all 7 the table-land at Madeba, Heshbon and all its towns on the table-land, Dibon, 8 Bamoth-baal, Beth-baal-meon, Jahaz, 9 Kedemoth, Mephaath, Kirjathaim, Sibmah, Zereth-shahar on the hill in the 0 valley, Beth-peor, the slopes of Pisgah, 1 Beth-jeshimoth, all the cities on the table-land, and the whole kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, who reigned in Heshbon, whom Moses defeated, along with the Midianite chiefs, Evi, Rekem, Zur, Hur, and Reba, who as vassals of Sihon were living in the 2 land. Besides these victims the Israelites also slew the soothsayer Balaam, 3 the son of Beor, with the sword. The territory of the Reubenites was the Jordan and its banks; this was the heritage of the various clans of the Reubenites, the cities and their villages.

4 Moses had also made assignments to the various clans of the tribe of Gad, 5 the Gadites. To them went the territory, Jazer, all the cities of Gilead, half the land of the Ammonites as far as 6 Aroer, which is east of Rabbah, the region from Heshbon as far as Ramathimzeph and Betonim, and from Mahanaim as far as the outskirts of Debir, 7 along with Beth-haram, Beth-nimrah, Succoth, and Zaphon, in the valley, the rest of the kingdom of Sihon, king of Heshbon—the Jordan and its banks as far as the lower end of the Sea of Chinnereth beyond the Jordan to the east. 8 This was the heritage of the various clans of the Gadites, the cities and their villages.

9 Moses had also made assignments to the half-tribe of Manasseh, and in the case of the half-tribe of Manassites it 10 was by clans. Their territory was that extending from Mahanaim, the whole of Bashan, the whole kingdom of Og, king of Bashan, the whole of Havvothjair which is in Bashan (sixty towns); also half of Gilead, with Ashtaroth and 11 Edrei (cities belonging to the kingdom of Og in Bas.an), went to the various clans of the descendants of Machir, the son of Manasseh, that is, half the Machirites.

These were the assignments which 12 Moses had made in the steppes of Moab, beyond the Jordan, east of Jericho. To the tribe of Levi, however, 13 Moses had assigned no heritage, the LORD, the God of Israel, being their heritage, as he had promised them.

The following are the heritages which 14 the Israelites received in the land of Canaan, which Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the heads of families in the tribes of Israelites assigned to them, the assignments to 2 them being made by lot, as the LORD through Moses had commanded for the nine and a half tribes; for Moses had 3 already made the assignments to the other two and a half tribes beyond the Jordan, but to the Levites he had made no assignment with the others. (As a 4 matter of fact the descendants of Joseph formed two tribes, Manasseh and Ephraim.) No share of the land was given to the Levites, except some cities to live in, with the pasture-lands around them for their cattle and other live stock. As the LORD commanded 5 Moses, so did the Israelites in their allotment of the land.

The Judeans came up to Joshua at 6 Gilgal, and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, said to him,

"You know what the LORD said to Moses, the man of God, about you and myself at Kadesh-barnea. I was forty 7 years old when Moses, the servant of the LORD, sent me from Kadesh-barnea to spy out the land. I brought him back as conscientious a report as I could. My kinsmen, however, who went 8 up with me, made the people lose heart, whereas I corroborated the LORD my God. So Moses made this oath to me 9 that day: 'The land on which your foot has trodden is to be a heritage for you and your descendants forever, because you have corroborated the LORD, my God.' Now then, seeing that the LORD 10 has let me live, as he promised, for the past forty-five years, that is, ever since the LORD spoke this word to Moses, while Israel was journeying through the - desert, here I am today eighty-five years old; but I am still as strong today as I was when Moses sent me off, my strength now being the equal of my strength then, for war, and for going and coming. Give me, then, these highlands of which the LORD spoke that day. By the way, you heard that same day that the Anakim were there, with great fortified cities; but perhaps the LORD will enable me to evict them, as the LORD in fact promised."

- 13 So Joshua blessed him, and gave Hebron to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, as a heritage. That is how Hebron became the heritage of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, as it is to this day, because he corroborated the LORD, the God of Israel. (The name of Hebron used to be Kirjath-arba, Arba having been the head man among the Anakim.) Then the land had rest from war.
- 14 The territory allotted to the various clans of the tribe of Judeans extended to the frontier of Edom, southward to the desert of Zin in the extreme south.
- 15 Their southern frontier ran from the lower end of the Salt Sea, from the bay facing south, and continued south of the slope of Akrabim, passing along to Zin, then it proceeded upward south of Kadesh-barnea, along to Hezron, up to Addar, around to Karka, on to Azmon, and came out at the River of Egypt, so that the frontier ended at the sea; this was their southern frontier. The eastern frontier was the Salt Sea, as far as the mouth of the Jordan. The northern frontier ran from the bay of the Sea at the mouth of the Jordan, and then the frontier continued up to Beth-hoglah, and passed north of Beth-arabah; the frontier continued up to the stone of Bohan, the son of Reuben; the frontier then went up to Debir from the valley of Achor, and turned north to Gilgal which is opposite the slope of Adumin, south of the river; then the frontier continued to the waters of En-shemesh, and ended at En-rogel; the frontier then continued up the valley of Ben-Hinnom to the southern side of the Jebusite spur (that is, Jerusalem); then the frontier ran to the top of the hill which overlooks the valley of Hinnom, to the west, at the northern end of the valley of Rephaim; from the top of the hill the frontier ran to the fountain of Merneptah, and continued to the spur of Mount Ephron; then the frontier ran to Baalah (that is, Kirjath-jearim); at Baalah the frontier turned westward to the mountain range of Seir, continuing to the northern spur of Mount Jearim (that is, Chesalon), down to Beth-shemesh, and on to Timnah; the frontier then continued north to the spur of Ekron; the frontier ran to Shikkeron, on to Mount Baalah, and came out at Jabneel, and the frontier ended at the sea. The western frontier was the Great Sea with its coastland. This was the frontier encircling the various clans of the Judeans.

In accord with the command of the LORD to Joshua, he allotted a share to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, among the Judeans, namely, Kirjath-arba (Arba being the father of Anak), that is, Hebron. Caleb evicted from there the three sons of Anak, Sheshai, Ahiman, and Talmi, the children of Anak. From there he marched against the inhabitants of Debir (the name of Debir used to be Kirjath-sepher).

"Whoever attacks Kirjath-sepher and captures it," said Caleb, "I will give him my daughter, Achsah, in marriage."

Othniel, the son of Caleb's brother, Kenaz, captured it; so he gave him his daughter, Achsah, in marriage. When she arrived, he induced her to ask her father for the necessary fields; so she alighted from her ass, and when Caleb said to her, "What do you want?" she said,

"Give me a pool; since you have assigned me to the region of the steppes, give me Gullath-maim."

So he gave her Upper Gullath and Lower Gullath.

The following is the heritage assigned to the various clans of the tribe of Judeans; the cities in their totality belonging to the tribe of Judeans toward the frontier of Edom were, in the steppes, Kabzeel, Eder, Jagur, Kinah, Dimonah, Adadah, Kedesh, Hazor, Ithnan, Ziph, Telem, Bealoth, Hazor-haddatah, Kerioth-hezron (that is, Hazor), Amam, Shema, Moladah, Hazar-gaddah, Heshmon, Beth-pelet, Hazar-shual, Beersheba with its dependencies, Baalah, Iim, Ezem, Eltolad, Chesil, Hormah, Ziklag, Madmanah, Sansannah, Lebaoth, Shilhim, and

En-rimmon—a total of twenty-nine cities with their villages.

331 In the lowlands, Eshtaol, Zorah,
334 Ashnah, Zanoah, En-gannim, Tappuah,
335 Enam, Jarmuth, Adullam, Socoh, Azekah,
336 Shaaraim, Adithaim, and Gederah—fourteen cities with their villages;
337 Zenan, Hadashah, Migdal-gad, Dilan,
338 Mizpeh, Joktheel, Lachish, Bozkath,
340 Eglon, Cabbon, Lahmas, Chithlish,
341 Gederoth, Beth-dagon, Naamah, and Makkedah—sixteen cities with their villages;
342 Libnah, Ether, Ashan, Iphtah,
343 Ashnah, Nezeb, Keilah, Achzib, and Mareshah—nine cities with their villages;
345 Ekron with its towns and villages;
346 Ekron to the sea, all that lay alongside of Ashdod with their villages;
347 Ashdod with its towns and villages, Gaza with its towns and villages, as far as the River of Egypt, and the Great Sea with its coastland.

348 In the highlands, Shamir, Jattir, Socoh,
349 Dannah, Kirjath-sannah (that is, Debir),
350 Anab, Eshtemoth, Anim, Goshen, Holon, and Giloh—eleven cities with their villages;
352 Arab, Rumah, Eshan, Janum, Beth-tappuah, Aphekah, 354 Humtah, Kirjath-arba (that is, Hebron), and Zior—nine cities with their villages;
355 Maon, Carmel, Ziph, Juttah, Jezreel, Jokdeam, Zanoah, 357 Kain, Gibeah, and Timnah—ten cities with their villages;
358 Halhul, Beth-zur, Gedor, Maarath, Beth-anoth, and Elkron—six cities with their villages;
360 Kirjath-baal (that is, Kirjath-jearim) and Rabbah—two cities with their villages.

361 In the desert, Beth-arabah, Middin, Secacah, Nibshan, Salt City, and Engedi—six cities with their villages.

362 The Judeans, however, could not evict the Jebusites inhabiting Jerusalem; but the Jebusites live with the Judeans in Jerusalem to this day.

6 The frontier of the Josephites extended from the Jordan at Jericho, east of the waters of Jericho, up from Jericho through the highlands to the wilderness at Bethel, then leaving Bethel (that is, Luz), it continued to Ataroth, the domain of the Archites, then to the west, down to the territory of the Japhletites as far as the outskirts of Lower Beth-horon and Gezer, and ended at the sea.

7 The Josephites, Manasseh and Ephraim, received their heritage. The territory of the Ephraimites was assigned to their various clans. The eastern frontier of their heritage ran from Ataroth-addar as far as Upper Beth-horon, then the frontier continued westward to Michmethath in the north; the frontier then turned east to Taanath-shiloh, and continued to Otho, east of Janoah; from Janoah it proceeded down to Ataroth and Naarah, then reached to Jericho, and came out at the Jordan. The western frontier ran from Tappuah to the brook Kanah, and ended at the sea. This was the heritage assigned to the various clans of the tribe of Ephraimites, together with the cities set aside for the Ephraimites in the heritage of the Manassites, all the cities within their villages. They did not evict the Canaanites who were living in Gezer; the Canaanites lived with Ephraim, as they do to this day, but they became forced laborers.

17 Then there was the allotment made to the tribe of Manasseh (Manasseh being the first-born of Joseph). To Machir, the first-born of Manasseh, the father of Gilead, went Gilead, and Bashan, since he was a man of war. Allotments were then made to the various other clans of the Manassites, the Abiezrites, the Helekites, the Asrielites, the Shechemites, the Hephrites, and the Shemidaites (these being the various clans of the male descendants of Manasseh, the son of Joseph). Zelophehad, however, the son of Hephher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, only daughters, these being the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. They appeared before Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the leaders, saying,

So, in accord with the command of the LORD, they were given a heritage along with their father's kinsmen. Ten shares fell to Manasseh, apart from the land of Gilead and Bashan, which is on the other side of the Jordan (for the daughters of Manasseh received a heritage along with his sons), while the land of Gilead went to the rest of the Manassites.

The frontier of Manasseh ran from 7

Asher to Michmethath, which is east of Shechem; the frontier then went south 8 to En-tappuah (the land of Tappuah belonged to Manasseh, but Tappuah near the frontier of Manasseh belonged 9 to the Ephraimites); the frontier then went down to the brook Kanah, to the south of the brook (the cities here belonged to Ephraim, although among cities of Manasseh); the frontier of Manasseh then ran north of the brook, 10 and ended at the sea, the land to the south being Ephraim's, and that to the north Manasseh's, with the sea as their frontier. They reached to Asher on the north, and to Issachar on the east. 11 Moreover, in Issachar and Asher there went to Manasseh, Beth-shean with its dependencies and Ibleam with its dependencies, along with the inhabitants of Dor and its dependencies, the inhabitants of En-dor and its dependencies, the inhabitants of Taanach and its dependencies, the inhabitants of Megiddo and its dependencies. 12 The Manassites, however, were not able to evict the inhabitants of these cities; the Canaanites clung to the habitation 13 of this region, but when the Israelites became strong enough, they made the Canaanites forced laborers; they never completely evicted them.

14 Then the Josephites said to Joshua, "Why have you allotted to us only one share as our heritage, when we are a numerous people, whom the LORD has blessed thus bountifully?"

15 Joshua said to them, "If you are such a numerous people, go up to the forest, and there clear ground for yourselves in the land of the Perizzites and Rephaim; for the highlands of Ephraim are near you."

16 "The highlands are not enough for us," said the Josephites; "and all the Canaanites who live in the valley lands have iron chariots, both those in Beth-shean and its dependencies, and those in the valley of Jezreel."

17 Then Joshua said to the clan of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasseh, "You are a numerous people, and have great power. One share alone shall 18 not go to you, but the highlands as well shall be yours; for though they are wooded, you can clear them, and their products shall be yours. For you shall evict the Canaanites, even though they have iron chariots and are strong."

Then the whole Israelite community 18 assembled at Shiloh, and set up the tent of meeting there, the region having been brought into subjection to them.

There still remained seven tribes 2 among the Israelites, who had not yet been allotted their heritage; so Joshua 3 said to the Israelites,

"How long are you going to put off entering into possession of the land which the LORD, the God of your fathers, has given you? Select three men 4 from each tribe, and I will send them forth that they may explore the land. They shall map it out with a view to the heritage of each, and then report to me. 5 They shall divide it into seven parts, Judah remaining in their territory in the south, and the clan of Joseph in their territory in the north. You shall 6 map out the land into seven parts, and then report to me here. I will cast lots for you here before the LORD our God. The Levites, however, are to have no 7 share with you; for the priesthood of the LORD is to be their heritage; while Gad, Reuben, and the half-tribe of Manasseh have already received their heritage beyond the Jordan to the east, which Moses, the servant of the LORD, gave them."

So the men prepared to go; then 8 Joshua gave this command to those that were leaving to map out the land:

"Go and explore the land, and map it out, and come back to me. Then I will cast lots for you here before the LORD at Shiloh."

The men went forth, and traversed 9 the land, and mapped out its various cities in a book into seven parts; then they reported to Joshua at the camp at Shiloh. So Joshua cast lots for them at 10 Shiloh before the LORD; and there Joshua distributed the land among the Israelites, to each his share.

The lot was drawn for the various 11 clans of the tribe of Benjaminites. The territory allotted to them lay between the Judeans and Josephites. Their frontier 12 on the north ran from the Jordan; then the frontier went up to the northern spur of Jericho, up through the highlands westward, and ended at the wilderness of Bethaven; from there the 13 frontier continued to Luz, toward the southern spur of Luz (that is, Bethel); then the frontier ran down to Ataroth-addar, near the hill which lies south of 14 Lower Beth-horon. The frontier continued, and for the western boundary turned southward from the hill which lies south of Beth-horon, and ended at Kirjath-baal (that is, Kirjath-jearim), a city of the Judeans. This was the western boundary. The southern boundary ran from the outskirts of Kirjath-icarim; the frontier then ran westward, running to the fountain of Merneptah; then the frontier went down to the foot of the hill which overlooks the valley of Ben-Hinnom, which is north of the valley of Rephaim; then down the valley of Hinnom, to the southern side of the Jebusite spur; then down to En-rogel. It continued northward, and ran to En-shemesh, then to Gilgal, which is opposite the slope of Adummim, then down to the stone of Bohan, the son of Reuben, on to the spur north of Beth-arabah, and then down to the Arabah; the frontier then passed on to the northern spur of Beth-hoglah, and the frontier ended at the northern bay of the Salt Sea, at the southern end of the Jordan. This was the southern frontier; while the Jordan bounded it on the east. This was the heritage of the various clans of the Benjaminites, as bounded by its frontiers.

121 The cities assigned to the various clans of the tribe of Benjaminites were 122 Jericho, Beth-hoglah, Emek-keziz, Beth-123 arabah, Zemaraim, Bethel, Avvim, 124 Parah, Ophrah, Chephar-ammoni, Ophni, and Geba—twelve cities with their villages; Gibcon, Ramah, Beeroth, 125 Mizpeh, Chephirah, Mozah, Rekem, 126 127 128 Irpeel, Taralah, Zelah, Eleph, the Jebusite city (that is, Jerusalem), Gibeath, and Kirjath-jearim—fourteen cities with their villages. This was the heritage of the various clans of the Benjaminites.

19 The second lot fell to Simeon, to the various clans of the tribe of Simeonites. Their heritage lay inside that of the Judeans. They received as their heritage 3 Beersheba, Shema, Moladah, Hazarshual, Balah, Ezem, Eltolad, Bethul, 5 Hormah, Ziklag, Beth-marcaboth, Hazar-susah, Beth-lebaath, and Sharuhenn—thirteen cities with their villages; 7 En-rimmon, Ether, Ashan, and Tochen 8 —four cities with their villages; together with all the villages that surrounded these cities, as far as Baalath-beer and Ramah of the South. This was the heritage of the various clans of the Simeonites, the heritage of the Simeonites being taken from the territory of the Judeans. Since the Judeans' portion was too large for them, the Simeonites received their heritage inside theirs.

The third lot was drawn for the various clans of the Zebulunites. The frontier of their heritage reached to Sarid; then their frontier went westward, up to Maralah; it then reached to Dabbesheth, and to the brook which is east of Jokneam; from Sarid it turned eastward toward the dawn, toward the outskirts of Chisloth-tabor, on to Daberrath, and up to Japhia; from there it continued eastward toward the dawn, to Gath-hepher and Eth-kazin, then to Rimmonah, and on to Neah; the frontier then turned north to Hannathon, and ended at the valley of Iphtah-el. . . . Kattath, Nahalal, Shimron, Idalah, and Bethlehem—twelve cities with their villages. This was the heritage of the various clans of the Zebulunites, these cities with their villages.

The fourth lot fell to Issachar, to the various clans of the Issacharites. Their territory included Jezreel, Chesulloth, Shunern, Hapharaim, Shion, Anaharath, Rabbith, Kishion, Ebez, Remeth, En-gannim, En-haddah, and Bethpazzez. The frontier reached to Tabor, then to Shahazumah, and Beth-she-mesh; and their frontier ended at the Jordan. There were sixteen cities with their villages. This was the heritage of the various clans of the tribe of Issacharites, the cities with their villages.

The fifth lot fell to the various clans of the tribe of Asherites. Their territory included Helkath, Hali, Beten, Achshaph, Allammelech, Amad, and Mishal; it reached west to Carmel and Shihor-libnath; then it turned east to Beth-dagon; it reached to Zebulun and the valley of Iphtah-el, to the north, then to Beth-emek, and Neiel; it continued north to Cabul, then to Ebron, Rehob, Hammon, and Kanah, as far as Sidon the Great; the frontier then turned to Ramah, reaching the fortified city of Tyre; the frontier then turned to Hosab, and ended at the sea . . . Mahalab, Achzib, Acco, Aphek, and Rehob 30 —twenty-two cities with their villages. This was the heritage of the various 31 clans of the tribe of Asherites, these cities with their villages.

32 The sixth lot fell to the Naphtalites, to the various clans of the Naphtalites.

33 Their frontier ran from Heleph, Elon-bezaananim, Adami-nekeb, and Jabneel as far as Lakkum, and ended at the

34 Jordan; the frontier then turned westward to Aznoth-tabor; from there it continued to Hukkok, and reached to Zebulun on the south, to Asher on the west, and to Judah at the Jordan on the

35 east. The fortified cities were Ziddim, Zer, Hammath, Rakkath, Chinnereth, 36 Adamah, Ramah, Hazor, Kedesh,

37 Edrei, En-hazor, Iron, Migdal-el, Horem, Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh—

39 nineteen cities with their villages. This was the heritage of the various clans of the tribe of Naphtalites, the cities with their villages.

40 The seventh lot fell to the various

41 clans of the tribe of Danites. The territory comprising their heritage included

42 Zorah, Eshtaol, Ir-shemesh, Shaalabbin, Aijalon, Ithlah, Elon, Timnah, 44 Ekron, Eltekeh, Gibbethon, Baalath,

45 Jehud, Bene-berak, Gath-rimmon, Me-jarkon, and Rakkon, with the coast-

46 line in front of Joppa. The territory of the Danites, however, was too small for them; so the Danites went up and attacked Leshem. They captured it, and putting it to the sword, they took possession of it, and settled down in it, calling Leshem Dan, after the name of 48 their ancestor Dan. This was the heritage of the various clans of the tribe of Danites, these cities with their villages.

49 When the distribution of the various divisions of the land had been completed, the Israelites gave Joshua, the son of Nun, a heritage amongst themselves; in accordance with the command of the 50 LORD they gave him the city for which he asked, namely, Timnath-heres in the highlands of Ephraim. He rebuilt the city, and settled down in it.

51 These were the heritages which Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the heads of families in the Israelite tribes distributed by lot at Shiloh before the LORD, at the doorway of the tent of meeting. Thus they completed the division of the land.

20 Then the LORD said to Joshua,

2 "Speak to the Israelites as follows: "Select the cities of refuge, concerning

3 which I spoke to you through Moses, so that a homicide who kills anyone inadvertently, unintentionally, may flee

there; they shall serve you as places of refuge from the avenger of blood. When

4 anyone flees to one of these cities, he shall stand at the entrance of the city gate, and explain his case to the elders of that city; then they shall receive him into their city, and give him a home, and he shall live with them. If the

5 avenger of blood should pursue him, they are not to deliver the homicide into his power; for he killed his fellow unintentionally, having no standing feud with him. He shall live in that city

6 until he appears before the community for trial, or until the death of the high priest who is in office at that time. After that the homicide may return to his own city and his own home, to the city from which he fled.' "

So they set apart Kedesh in Galilee,

7 in the highlands of Naphtali, Shechem in the highlands of Ephraim, and Kirjath-arba (that is, Hebron) in the highlands of Judah; and beyond the Jordan,

8 east of Jericho, they selected Bezer in the desert, on the table-land, from the tribe of Reuben; Ramoth in Gilead, from the tribe of Gad; and Golan in Bashan, from the tribe of Manasseh. These were the cities which were designated for all the Israelites, and also for the aliens residing among them, so that anyone who killed a person inadvertently might flee there, and not die by the hand of the avenger of blood, until he had appeared before the community.

Then the heads of families among the 21 Levites went up to Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the heads of families in the Israelite tribes, and said to them at Shiloh in the land

2 of Canaan,

"The LORD gave command by Moses that we were to be given cities to live in, along with their pasture-lands for our cattle."

So the Israelites, in accordance with

3 the command of the LORD, gave the Levites some of their own heritage, namely, the following cities with their pasture-lands.

The lot was drawn for the Kohathite

4 clans. Thirteen cities from the tribes of Judah, Simeon, and Benjamin fell by lot to the descendants of Aaron, the priest, part of the Levites. To the rest

5 of the Kohathites ten cities from the clans of the tribe of Ephraim, the tribe of Dan, and the half-tribe of Manasseh fell by lot.

6 To the Gershonites thirteen cities from the clans of the tribe of Issachar, the tribes of Asher and Naphtali, and the half-tribe of Manasseh in Bashan fell by lot.

7 To the various clans of the Merarites fell twelve cities from the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulun.

8 The Israelites allotted these cities with their pasture-lands to the Levites, as the LORD had commanded through Moses.

9 From the tribes of Judeans and Simeonites they gave the following named cities (they went to the descendants of Aaron, one of the clans of the Kohathites, belonging to the Levites; for the lot fell to them first). They gave them Kirjath-arba (Arba being the father of Anak), that is, Hebron, in the highlands of Judah, with its adjacent pasture-lands; but the fields of the city and its villages they gave to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, as his property. To the descendants of Aaron, the priest, then, they gave the city of refuge for the homicide, namely, Hebron, along with its pasture-lands, as well as Libnah with its pasture-lands, Jattir with its pasture-lands, Eshtemoa with its pasture-lands, Holon with its pasture-lands, Debir with its pasture-lands, Ain with its pasture-lands, Juttah with its pasture-lands, and Beth-shemesh with its pasture-lands—nine cities out of those two tribes; and out of the tribe of Benjamin, Gibeon with its pasture-lands, Geba with its pasture-lands, Anathoth with its pasture-lands, and Almon with its pasture-lands—four cities; the total of the cities for the descendants of Aaron, the priests, being thirteen cities with their pasture-lands.

120 For the clans of the Kohathites that were Levites, that is, those that were left of the Kohathites, the cities indicated by their lot came from the tribe of Ephraim; so they were given the city of refuge for the homicide, namely, Shechem in the highlands of Ephraim, along with its pasture-lands, Gezer with its pasture-lands, Kibzaim with its pasture-lands, and Beth-horon with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the tribe of Dan, Eltekeh with its pasture-lands, Gibbethon with its pasture-lands, Aijalon with its pasture-lands, and Gath-rimmon with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Taanach with its pasture-lands, and Ibleam with its pasture-lands—two cities; a total of ten cities with their pasture-lands for the remaining clans of the Kohathites.

To the Gershonites, one of the clans of the Levites, from the half-tribe of Manasseh went the city of refuge for the homicide, namely, Golan in Bashan, with its pasture-lands, and Beesh-terah with its pasture-lands—two cities; and out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishion with its pasture-lands, Daberath with its pasture-lands, Jarmuth with its pasture-lands, and En-gannim with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the tribe of Asher, Mishal with its pasture-lands, Abdon with its pasture-lands, Helkath with its pasture-lands, and Rehob with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the tribe of Naphtali, the city of refuge for the homicide, namely, Kedesh in Galilee, with its pasture-lands, Hammoth-dor with its pasture-lands, and Kartan with its pasture-lands—three cities; the total of the cities for the various clans of the Gershonites being thirteen cities with their pasture-lands.

To the clans of the Merarites, the rest of the Levites, from the clan of Zebulun went Jokneam with its pasture-lands, Kartah with its pasture-lands, Dimnah with its pasture-lands, and Nahalal with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer with its pasture-lands, Jahaz with its pasture-lands, Kedemoth with its pasture-lands, and Mephaath with its pasture-lands—four cities; and out of the tribe of Gad, the city of refuge for the homicide, namely, Ramoth in Gilead, with its pasture-lands, Mahanaim with its pasture-lands, Heshbon with its pasture-lands, and Jazer with its pasture-lands—four cities in all. All these cities went to the various clans of the Merarites, the rest of the Levite clans, their allotment being twelve cities.

The total number of cities of the Levites within the holdings of the Israelites was forty-eight cities, with their pasture-lands, each of these cities having its own pasture-lands adjacent to it, this being the case with all of these cities.

So the LORD gave Israel all the land which he had sworn to their fathers to give them; they occupied it, and settled 44 down in it, and the LORD gave them peace on every side, just as he had sworn to their fathers; not one of all their enemies could withstand them, the LORD having delivered all their 45 enemies into their power. Not one of the good promises which the LORD made to the house of Israel failed, all being fulfilled.

THE DISMISSAL OF THE EASTERN TRIBES, AND THE DISPUTE ABOUT THEIR ALTAR, 22:1-34

22 Then Joshua summoned the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh, and said to them,

"You have observed all that Moses, the servant of the LORD, commanded you, and have heeded my injunctions
 3 in all that I have commanded you; you have not deserted your kinsmen during this long time, but down to this day you have faithfully observed the charge of 4 the LORD your God. Now, however, the LORD your God has given peace to your kinsmen, as he promised them; return then, and go home to your tents in the land of your own, which Moses, the servant of the LORD, gave you beyond the Jordan. Only be very careful to observe the charge and law which Moses, the servant of the LORD, enjoined on you, loving the LORD your God, walking in all his ways, keeping his commands, holding fast to him, and serving him with all your mind and heart."

6 Then Joshua blessed them, and let them go; and they went home to their tents.

7 (To the one half-tribe of Manasseh Moses had assigned territory in Bashan, and to the other half-tribe Joshua had assigned territory with their kinsmen beyond the Jordan to the west.)

Furthermore, when Joshua sent them home, he blessed them.

8 "Return home with great wealth," he said to them, "with very many cattle, with silver, gold, bronze, and iron, and with a great quantity of clothing; divide the spoil of your enemies with your kinsmen."

So the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh went home, parting from the Israelites at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go to the land of Gilead, the land of their own, which they had seized by command of the LORD through Moses. When they 10 reached the region of the Jordan, which is within the land of Canaan, the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh built an altar there beside the Jordan, a large altar for display. The 11 Israelites heard it reported that the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh had built an altar at the frontier of the land of Canaan, in the region of the Jordan, on the side belonging to the Israelites. When the Israelites
 12 heard of it, the whole Israelite community assembled at Shiloh to march against them in war. To the Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead, the Israelites sent Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the priest, and with him ten chieftains, one 14 chieftain of a household from each of the tribes of Israel, each one of them being the head of his household among the clans of Israel. They came to the 15 Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh in the land of Gilead, and said to them,

"Thus says the whole community of the LORD: 'Why this perfidy that you have committed against the God of Israel in turning now from following the LORD by building yourselves an altar in rebellion against the LORD? Did the 17 sin at Peor, from which we have not even yet cleansed ourselves, and for which a plague came upon the LORD's community, mean so little to us, that 18 you must today turn from following the LORD? If you rebel against the LORD today, he will be angry with the whole community of Israel tomorrow! If,
 19 however, the land which you hold is unclean, cross over to the land which the LORD himself holds, where the dwelling of the LORD stands, and settle among us; but do not rebel against the LORD, nor implicate us, by building another altar besides the altar of the LORD our God. Was it not Achan, the son of 20 Zerah, who broke faith in the case of the doomed things, so that wrath fell upon the whole community of Israel? And he did not perish alone for his iniquity.'"

21 The Reubenites, Gadites, and half-tribe of Manasseh in reply said to the heads of the clans of Israel,

22 "By the LORD, the God of gods (the LORD, the God of gods, knows it, and Israel should know it), it was not in a spirit of rebellion or infidelity toward the LORD (otherwise spare us not today!) that we built an altar to turn from following the LORD, nor did we offer burnt-offerings or cereal-offerings on it, nor did we sacrifice thank-offerings on it (otherwise let the LORD himself requite us!); but we did it rather out of fear of this, namely, that in time to come your children might say to our children, 'What have you to do with the LORD, the God of Israel? The LORD made the Jordan a boundary between us and you, you Reubenites and Gadites. You have no share in the LORD.' Thus your children might make our children cease to stand in awe of the LORD. So we said, 'Let us protect ourselves by building an altar—not for burnt-offerings, nor for sacrifices, but that it might serve as a witness between you and us, and between your descendants and ours, that we do perform the service of the LORD before him with our burnt-offerings, sacrifices, and thank-offerings, so that your children may never say to our children in time to come, "You have no share in the LORD." We calculated that if in time to come this was ever said to us or to our descendants, we could say, 'Look at the copy of the altar of the LORD which our fathers made, not for burnt-offerings nor for sacrifices, but that it might serve as a witness between you and us.'

19 Far be it from us to rebel against the LORD, or turn now from following the LORD, by building an altar for burnt-offerings, cereal-offerings, or sacrifices, besides the altar of the LORD our God which stands in front of his dwelling!"

20 When Phinehas, the priest, and the chieftains of the community, the heads of the clans of Israel who were with him, heard what the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites said, they were satisfied; and Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the priest, said to the Reubenites, Gadites, and Manassites,

"Now we know that the LORD is in our midst, since you have not committed this act of perfidy against the LORD; thus you have saved the Israelites from the hand of the LORD."

Then Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the priest, and the chieftains returned from the Reubenites and Gadites in the land of Gilead to the land of Canaan, to the Israelites, and made a report to them. The Israelites were satisfied; the Israelites blessed God, and said nothing more about marching against the Reubenites and Gadites in war, to ravage the land in which they lived. The Reubenites and Gadites called the altar Ed [witness]; "For," said they, "it is a witness between us that the LORD is God."

JOSHUA'S FAREWELL AND DEATH, 23:1—24:33

A long time afterward, when the LORD had given Israel rest from all their enemies around them, and Joshua was old, being well advanced in life, Joshua summoned all Israel, their elders, leaders, judges, and officers, and said to them,

"I am an old man, being well advanced in life; but you have seen all that the LORD your God has done for you to all these nations; for it is the LORD your God who has been fighting for you. See, I have allotted to you as a heritage for your various tribes the territory of all the nations whom I exterminated, from the Jordan as far as the Great Western Sea; and in the case of those nations that are left, the LORD your God will himself sweep them before you, and drive them out of your way, and you shall occupy their land, as the LORD your God promised you. Be very resolute, then, to observe and carry out all that is written in the law-book of Moses, without swerving from it to the right or to the left, never mingling with these nations, those that are still left with you; you must not invoke the names of their gods, nor swear by them, nor serve them, nor pay homage to them; but you must hold fast to the LORD your God, as you have done up to this day. The LORD has driven out of your way great and strong nations, so that no one has been able to withstand you to this day. One of you alone could put a thousand to flight, because it is the LORD your God who has been fighting for you, as he promised you.

11 Take great care, therefore, to love the 12 LORD your God. For if you ever back-slide, and ally yourselves with the remnant of these nations, those that are still left with you, and intermarry with them, and have intercourse with them 13 and they with you, be very certain that the LORD your God will no longer drive these nations out of your way; but they shall be a snare and a trap for you, a scourge in your sides, and thorns in your eyes, until you perish from off this fine land which the LORD your 14 God has given you. Here I am, right now about to go the way of all the earth; but you know with all your minds and hearts that not one of the good promises which the LORD your God made concerning you has failed; all have been realized for you, not one of them having failed. Hence, as every good 15 promise which the LORD your God made concerning you has come to pass for you, so shall the LORD bring on you every threat, until he has destroyed you from off this fine land which the 16 LORD your God has given you. Whenever you violate the covenant of the LORD your God which he enjoined on you, and go and serve alien gods, and pay homage to them, then shall the anger of the LORD blaze against you, and you shall perish quickly from off the fine land which he gave you.”

24 Joshua assembled all the tribes of Israel at Shechem, summoning the elders of Israel, their leaders, judges, and officers. When they had presented 2 themselves before God, Joshua said to all the people,

“Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: ‘In days of old your fathers lived beyond the River, namely, Terah, the father of Abraham and Nahor, and 3 served alien gods; but I took your father Abraham from beyond the River, and I had him range the whole land of Canaan, and made his descendants nu-
 4 merous. I gave him Isaac, and to Isaac
 I gave Jacob and Esau. I gave the highlands of Seir to Esau to occupy, whereas Jacob and his children went down to 5 Egypt. Then I sent Moses and Aaron, and I smote Egypt with what I did in her midst. After that I brought you 6 out; I brought your fathers out of Egypt, and when you reached the sea,
 the Egyptians pursued your fathers with chariotry and cavalry to the Red

Sea; but when they cried to the LORD, 7 he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea over them, and engulfed them. You saw with your own eyes what I did in Egypt. You lived for a long time in the desert, and then I brought you to the 8 land of the Amorites who lived beyond the Jordan. They fought with you, but I delivered them into your power, so that you took possession of their land, since I exterminated them from your way. Then Balak, the son of Zippor, 9 king of Moab, appeared, and fought against Israel. He sent for Balaam, the son of Beor, to curse you; but I would 10 not listen to Balaam, so he had to bless you, and thus I saved you from his power. Crossing the Jordan, you ar-11 rived at Jericho, and the citizens of Jericho fought against you, as well as the Amorites, Perizzites, Canaanites, Hittites, Gergashites, Hivvites, and Jeb-usites; but I delivered them into your power. I sent leprosy ahead of you to 12 drive the two Amorite kings out of your way; it was not done by your sword nor your bow. I gave you a land on which 13 you had never labored, and cities in which you settled without having built them, vineyards and olive groves from which you eat without having planted them.’ Therefore, stand in awe of the 14 LORD, and serve him faithfully and loyally; remove the gods whom your fathers served beyond the River, and in Egypt, and serve the LORD. However, 15 if you find it obnoxious to serve the LORD, choose today whom you will serve, either the gods whom your fathers served who are beyond the River, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land you are living; but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD.”

The people in reply said, 16 “Far be it from us that we should forsake the LORD to serve alien gods; for 17 it is the LORD our God who brought us and our fathers up out of the land of Egypt, out of a state of slavery, and performed those great signs before our eyes, and took care of us all through the journey that we made, and among all the peoples through whom we passed;
 the LORD also drove out of our way all 18 the peoples, namely, the Amorites, who inhabited the land, so we too will serve the LORD; for he is our God.”

- 19 Then Joshua said to the people,
"You may not serve the LORD and foreign gods as well; for being a holy God and a jealous God, he will not forgive your transgression nor your sins.
- 20 If you forsake the LORD, and serve foreign gods, he will turn and do evil to you, and annihilate you, after having done you good."
- 21 "No," the people said to Joshua; "it is the LORD that we would serve."
- 22 So Joshua said to the people,
"You are witnesses against yourselves that you have chosen the LORD as the one to serve."
"We are witnesses," they said.
- 23 "Remove, then, the foreign gods that are in your midst, and turn your hearts to the LORD, the God of Israel."
- 24 The people said to Joshua,
"The LORD our God we will serve,
and his injunctions we will heed."
- 25 So Joshua made a covenant with the people that day; he made statutes and 26 ordinances for them at Shechem, and Joshua wrote these regulations in the book of the law of God; and taking a large stone, he set it up there under the oak that was in the sanctuary of the 27 LORD. Then Joshua said to all the people,

"See, this stone shall be a witness against us; for it has heard all the words that the LORD has said to us; so it shall be a witness against you, lest you deny your God."

Then Joshua dismissed the people, 28
each to his heritage.

After these events Joshua, the son of 29 Nun, the servant of the LORD, died at the age of one hundred and ten years;
and he was buried in the grounds of his 30 heritage, in Timnath-heres which is in the highlands of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash.

Israel served the LORD during all the 31 lifetime of Joshua, and all the lifetime of the elders who survived Joshua and had seen all the deeds which the LORD did for Israel.

The bones of Joseph, which the Is- 32
raelites had brought up from Egypt, were buried at Shechem, in the piece of ground which Jacob had bought for one hundred kesitas from the sons of Hamor, the ancestor of Shechem, and had presented to the Josephites as a heritage.

Likewise Eleazar, the son of Aaron, 33 died, and was buried at Gibeah of Phinehas, his son, to whom it had been given, in the highlands of Ephraim.

THE BOOK OF JUDGES

THE HEBREW TRIBES IN THEIR INVASION OF PALESTINE, 1:1-36

- 1 AFTER the death of Joshua the Israelites inquired of the LORD, saying, "Which of us is to be the first to go up against the Canaanites to attack them?"
- 2 "Judah is to go up," said the LORD. "See, I am delivering the land into his power."
- 3 So Judah said to his brother Simeon, "Invade with me the territory allotted to me that we may attack the Canaanites, and I in turn will invade with you the territory allotted to you."
- 4 So Simeon went with him. Then Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and Perizzites into their power, so that they defeated ten thousand of them at Bezek. At Bezek they came upon Adoni-bezek, and attacked him, and defeated the Canaanites and Perizzites. Adoni-bezek fled; but they pursued him, and capturing him, they cut off his thumbs and great toes; whereupon Adoni-bezek said, "Seventy kings with their thumbs and great toes cut off used to pick up crumbs under my table; as I did, so has God requited me."
- Then he was brought to Jerusalem, and died there.
- 8 The Judeans attacked Jerusalem, and capturing it, they put it to the sword, and set the city on fire. Afterwards the Judeans went down to attack the Canaanites inhabiting the highlands, the steppes, and the lowlands. So Judah marched against the Canaanites who lived in Hebron (the name of Hebron used to be Kirjath-arba), and they defeated Sheshai, 11 Ahiman, and Talmi. Then they marched from there against the inhabitants of Debir (the name of Debir used to be Kirjath-sepher).
- 12 "Whoever attacks Kirjath-sepher and captures it," said Caleb, "I will give him my daughter, Achsah, in marriage."

Othniel, the son of Caleb's younger brother, Kenaz, captured it; so he gave him his daughter, Achsah, in marriage. When she arrived, he induced her to ask her father for the necessary fields; so she alighted from her ass, and when Caleb said to her, "What do you want?" she said to him,

"Grant me a pool; since you have assigned me to the region of the steppes, give me Gullath-maim."

So Caleb gave her Upper Gullath and Lower Gullath.

The descendants of Hobab, the Kenite, the father-in-law of Moses, came up from the City of Palms with the Judeans into the wilderness of Judah, which is in the steppes of Arad; then they went off to live with the Amalekites. But Judah went with his brother Simeon, and they defeated the Canaanites inhabiting Zephath, and annihilated it; so the city came to be called Hormah [annihilation]. Judah also captured Gaza with its territory, Askelon with its territory, and Ekron with its territory. The LORD was with Judah, so that he conquered the highlands, although he was not able to conquer the inhabitants of the plain, because they had iron chariots. Hebron was given to Caleb, as Moses had directed, and he evicted from there the three sons of Anak. The Benjaminites, however, did not evict the Jebusites inhabiting Jerusalem, but the Jebusites live with the Benjaminites in Jerusalem to this day.

Likewise the clan of Joseph marched against Bethel, and the LORD was with them. The clan of Joseph made a reconnaissance at Bethel (the name of the city used to be Luz), and when the scouts saw a man leaving the city, they said to him,

"Come, show us the way to get into the city, and we will treat you kindly."

So he showed them the way to get into the city, and they put the city to the sword; but they let the man and all his family go free; and the man went to the land of the Hittites, and built a city, calling its name Luz, which is its name to this day.

Manasseh did not conquer Bethshean and its dependencies, nor Taanach and its dependencies, nor the inhabitants of Dor and its dependencies, nor the inhabitants of Ibleam and its dependencies, nor the inhabitants of Megiddo and its dependencies; but the Canaanites clung to the habitation of this region. However, when Israel became strong enough, they made the Canaanites forced laborers, but they never completely evicted them.

Neither did Ephraim evict the Canaanites who lived in Gezer; but the Canaanites lived among them in Gezer. Zebulun did not evict the inhabitants of Kitron, nor the inhabitants of Nahalol; but the Canaanites lived among them, becoming, however, forced laborers.

Asher did not evict the inhabitants of Acco, nor the inhabitants of Sidon, nor those of Ahlab, nor those of Achzib, nor those of Helbah, nor those of Aphik, nor those of Rehob; but the Asherites settled among the Canaanites inhabiting the land; for they could not evict them.

Naphtali did not evict the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath, but settled among the Canaanites inhabiting the land; nevertheless the inhabitants of Beth-shemesh and Beth-anath became forced laborers for them.

The Amorites pressed the Danites into the highlands; for they would not let them come down into the plain. The Amorites clung to the habitation of Harheres, Aijalon, and Shaalbim; but when the power of the clan of Joseph grew strong enough, they became forced laborers.

The frontier of the Edomites ran from the slope of Akrabim, from Sela upward.

THE ORIGIN OF THE NAME

BOCHIM, 2:1-5

An angel of the LORD went up from Gilgal to Bochim, and said,

“ . . . I have brought you up out of Egypt, and have brought you into the land which I promised on oath to your fathers, when I said, ‘I will never break my covenant with you, but you on your part must make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land; you must tear down their altars.’ But you have not heeded my injunction: what a way for you to behave! So now I add, I will not drive them out of your way; but they shall become your adversaries, and their gods shall become a trap for you.”

When the angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the Israelites, the people lifted up their voices in weeping; so the name of that place came to be called Bochim [weepers]; and sacrifices were made there to the LORD.

INTRODUCTION TO THE STORIES OF THE JUDGES, 2:6-3:6

When Joshua had dismissed the people, the Israelites went each to his heritage to occupy the land; and the people served the LORD during all the lifetime of Joshua, and all the lifetime of the elders who survived Joshua, who had seen all the great work which the LORD had done for Israel. Then Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of the LORD, died at the age of one hundred and ten years, and he was buried in the grounds of his heritage at Timnath-heres, in the highlands of Ephraim, north of Mount Gaash. Also all that generation were gathered to their fathers, and another generation succeeded them who had no knowledge of the LORD, nor the work that he had done for Israel.

Then the Israelites did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, by serving the Baals and forsaking the LORD, the God of their fathers, who had brought them out of the land of Egypt, and by running after alien gods, from among the gods of the peoples that surrounded them, and by paying homage to them, so that they provoked the LORD to jealousy. Thus they forsook the LORD, and served the Baals and Ashtarts. Then the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel, so that he delivered them into the power of plunderers who plundered them, and he sold them into the power of their enemies around them, so that they were no longer able

15 to withstand their enemies. In every campaign the hand of the LORD was against them for evil, as the LORD had declared, and as the LORD had sworn to them, so that they were in sore 16 straits. Then the LORD raised up champions to deliver them out of the 17 power of their plunderers; but even their champions they did not heed; for they ran wantonly after alien gods, and paid homage to them, swerving quickly from the path which their fathers had trod in obedience to the commands of the LORD; not so did they.

18 Now when the LORD raised up champions for them, the LORD would be with the champion, and would deliver them out of the power of their enemies during all the lifetime of the champion; for the LORD would be moved to pity by their groans under 19 their tyrants and oppressors. But whenever the champion died, they would relapse, and behave worse than their fathers, by running after alien gods to serve them and pay homage to them; they would not abandon any of 20 their practices or stubborn ways. So the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel, and he said,

"Since this nation has violated the covenant with me which I enjoined on their fathers, and has not heeded my 21 injunctions, I on my part will no longer drive out of their way any of the nations that Joshua left when he died"
22 (his purpose being to test Israel by them as to whether or not they would keep to the way of the LORD by walking in it, as their fathers had).

23 So the LORD left these nations instead of driving them out at once, and did not deliver them into the power of
3 Joshua. Now these are the nations whom the LORD left as a means to test Israel (that is, all who had had no experience of all the wars with Canaan
2 —merely for the sake of succeeding Israelites, to teach them war; such only as had had no previous experience of
3 them); namely, the five tyrants of the Philistines, all the Canaanites, the Sidonians, and the Hittites inhabiting Mount Lebanon from Mount Baal-Hermon as far as the approach to 4 Hamath. They served as a means to test Israel to see whether they would obey the commands which the LORD had enjoined on their fathers through

Moses. So the Israelites settled among 5 the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Hivvites, and Jebusites; they married their daughters, and their 6 own daughters they married to their sons, and they served their gods.

CONQUEST BY CUSHAN-RISHATHAIM AND DELIVERANCE THROUGH OTHNIEL, 3:7-11a

So the Israelites did what was evil in 7 the sight of the LORD in that they forgot the LORD their God, and served the Baals and Ashtarts. Then the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel, so that he sold them into the power of Cushan-rishathaim, king of Aram-naharaim, and the Israelites were subject to Cushan-rishathaim for eight years. Then the Israelites cried to 8 the LORD, and the LORD raised up a savior for the Israelites to save them, namely Othniel, the son of Kenaz, Caleb's younger brother. The spirit of the 9 LORD inspired him to champion Israel; so he went forth to battle, and the LORD delivered Cushan-rishathaim, king of Aram, into his power, so that his might prevailed over Cushan-rishathaim, and the land enjoyed se-10 curity for forty years.

CONQUEST BY THE MOABITES AND DELIVERANCE THROUGH EHUD, 3:11b-30

When Othniel, the son of Kenaz, had died, the Israelites again did what was 11 evil in the sight of the LORD. So the LORD made Eglon, king of Moab, prevail over Israel, because they had done what was evil in the sight of the LORD. He allied with himself the 12 Ammonites and Amelekites, and went and defeated Israel, and occupied the City of Palms; and the Israelites were 13 subject to Eglon, king of Moab, for eighteen years. Then the Israelites 14 cried to the LORD, and the LORD raised up a savior for them, namely, Ehud, the son of Gera, the Benjaminite, a left-handed man. The Israelites sent tribute by him to Eglon, king of Moab; so Ehud made himself a two-15 edged dagger, a gomed long, and hanging it under his cloak upon his right

7 hip, he brought the tribute to Eglon, king of Moab (Eglon being a very fat man). When he had finished delivering the tribute, he dismissed the tribute-bearers; but he himself turned back at Pesilim, which is near Gilgal, to say, "I have a private message for you, O king."

So he said, "Begone!" whereupon all his attendants left him.

Then Ehud went in to him, as he sat alone in his cool roof-chamber.

"I have a message from God for you," said Ehud.

As he rose from his chair, Ehud stretched out his left hand, and drawing the dagger from his right hip, he plunged it into his abdomen, so that the hilt also went in after the blade, and the fat closed over the blade; for he did not draw the dagger out of his abdomen, but let it go into the hole. Then Ehud went out into the vestibule, shutting the doors of the roof-chamber on him, and locking them. When he had gone out, his servants came, and discovered that the doors of the roof-chamber were locked; but they said,

"He is only relieving himself in the closet of the cool chamber."

So they waited until they became uneasy; and then, seeing that he did not open the doors of the roof-chamber, they took the key and opened them, and there was their master fallen to the ground, dead! But Ehud had escaped while they were delaying, having passed Pesilim, and he escaped to Seirah. Upon his arrival he sounded the alarm through the highlands of Ephraim, and the Israelites went down with him from the highlands, with him at their head.

"Follow close after me," he said to them; "for the LORD is delivering your enemies, the Moabites, into your power."

So they followed him down, and they seized the fords of the Jordan against the Moabites, and would not allow anyone to cross. They slew on that occasion about ten thousand Moabites, all stout and valiant fellows, so that not one escaped. Thus was Moab brought into subjection that day to the power of Israel, and the land enjoyed security for eighty years.

THE MINOR JUDGE, SHAMGAR, 3:31

After him came Shamgar, the son of Anath, who slew six hundred Philistines with an ox-goad; he, too, saved Israel.

CONQUEST BY THE CANAANITES AND DELIVERANCE THROUGH DEBORAH AND BARAK, 4:1-24

Then the Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, now that Ehud was dead. So the LORD sold them into the power of Jabin, king of Canaan, who reigned at Hazor, the general of whose army was Sisera, who lived in Harosheth-goiim. Then the Israelites cried to the LORD; for he had nine hundred iron chariots, and he oppressed the Israelites most severely for twenty years. It was a prophetess, Deborah, the wife of Lappidoth, who was governing Israel at that time. She lived below Tomer-Deborah, between Ramah and Bethel, in the highlands of Ephraim. The Israelites came to her for direction; so she sent and summoned Barak, the son of Abinoam, from Kedesh in Naphtali, and said to him,

"Does not the LORD, the God of Israel, command, 'Go and dispose yourself at Mount Tabor, taking with you ten thousand men from the Naphtalites and the Zebulunites? I will lure Sisera, the general of Jabin's army, out to you at the river Kishon, together with his chariots and his troops; and I will deliver him into your power.'"

Then Barak said to her,

"If you will go along with me, I will go; but if you will not go along with me, I will not go."

"Of course I will go along with you," she said; "however, you will have no glory for the course that you are pursuing; for it is into the power of a woman that the LORD is going to sell Sisera."

Then Deborah rose and went with Barak to Kedesh, and Barak mustered Zebulun and Naphtali at Kedesh, and ten thousand men marched out at his heels. Deborah also went up with him.

Now Heber, the Kenite, had parted 11

from the Kenites, the descendants of Hobab, the father-in-law of Moses, and had pitched his tent as far away as Elon-bezaanin, which was near Kadesh.

- 12 When Sisera learned that Barak, the son of Abinoam, had gone up to Mount Tabor, Sisera collected all his chariots, nine hundred iron chariots, and all the people that were with him, out of Harosheth-goiim to the river Kishon. Then Deborah said to Barak,

"Up! for this is the day in which the LORD is to deliver Sisera into your power. Is it not the LORD who has gone forth in front of you?"

- So Barak went down from Mount Tabor with ten thousand men following him, and the LORD routed Sisera, all his chariots, and all his army before Barak at the edge of the sword, so that Sisera alighted from his chariot, and fled on foot. But Barak pursued the chariots and army as far as Harosheth-goiim, so that the whole army of Sisera fell before the sword, not so much as one being left. Sisera, however, fled on foot to the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber, the Kenite; for there were friendly relations between Jabin, king of Hazor, and the clan of Heber, the Kenite. So Jael went out to meet Sisera, and said to him,

"Turn in, my lord; turn in with me; do not be afraid."

So he turned in to her tent, and she covered him with a robe.

- 19 "Please give me a little water," he said to her; "for I am thirsty."

So she opened the milk-skin, and gave him a drink, and covered him up.

- 20 "Stand at the doorway of the tent," he said to her, "and then, if anyone comes and asks you, 'Is anyone here?' say, 'No.'"

- 21 But Jael, the wife of Heber, seized a tent-pin, and taking a hammer in her hand, she approached him stealthily, and drove the pin through his temple into the ground, while he was sound asleep from exhaustion, so that he died. 22 Just then Barak arrived in pursuit of Sisera, and Jael went out to meet him.

"Come," she said to him, "and I will show you the man for whom you are looking."

- So he went inside with her, and there was Sisera fallen down dead, with the tent-pin in his temple! Thus did God that day subdue Jabin, king of Canaan, before the Israelites; and the power of the Israelites bore harder and harder on Jabin, king of Canaan, until they finally destroyed Jabin, king of Canaan.

THE VICTORY OF DEBORAH AND BARAK OVER THE CANAANITES, 5:1-31

Then sang Deborah and Barak, the son of Abinoam, on that day, saying.

"When locks were worn loose in Israel,
When the people volunteered;

    bless the LORD!

Hear, O kings; give ear, O princes!

I—to the LORD I will sing,
I will praise the LORD, the God of Israel.

"O LORD, when thou camest forth from Seir,

When thou marchedst from the land
of Edom,

The earth quaked, the heavens also shook,

The clouds, too, dripped water,

The mountains rocked at the presence of the LORD (that is, Sinai),

At the presence of the LORD, the God
of Israel.

"In the time of Shamgar, the son of Anath,

In the time of Jael, caravans had disappeared,

And travelers kept to the by-roads;

The peasantry had disappeared, they had disappeared in Israel.

Until you arose, O Deborah, arose as a mother in Israel.

"Armorsmen had they none;
Armed men failed from the city.

Was shield to be seen or lance,

Among forty thousand in Israel?
My heart is with the commanders of

Israel,

Who volunteered among the people;
    bless the LORD!

"O riders on tawny asses, sitting on robes;

And you who travel on the road, attend!

To the noise of musicians at the watering-places,

There the triumphs of the LORD will be recounted,
The triumphs of his peasantry in Israel."

Then the people of the LORD went down to the gates.

- 2 "Awake, awake, Deborah;
Awake, awake, strike up the song!
Up, Barak, and take your captives,
O son of Abinoam!
- 3 "Then the remnant went down like nobles;
The people of the LORD went down like heroes.
- 4 Ephraim surged into the valley;
Following you came Benjamin among your clansmen.
From Machir came down commanders,
And from Zebulun those who carry the marshal's staff.
- 5 The chieftains of Issachar were with Deborah and Barak;
In like manner Barak rushed into the valley among his foot-soldiers.
- 6 "In the clans of Reuben great were the debates.
7 Why did you lounge among the ravines,
Listening to the bleating of the flocks?
In the clans of Reuben great were the debates.
- 8 "Gilead remained beyond the Jordan;
And Dan, why did he take service on alien ships?
Asher stayed by the sea-coast,
And remained by his creeks.
- 9 "Zebulun was a people who exposed themselves to death,
And Naphtali, on the heights of the field.
- 10 The kings came, they fought,
Then fought the kings of Canaan;
At Taanach, by the brooks of Megid-do,
They won no booty of silver.
- 11 From the heavens fought the stars;
From their courses they fought with Sisera.
- 12 "The river Kishon swept them away;
A river barring the way was the river Kishon.

Bless thou, my soul, the might of the LORD!
Then the hoofs of the horses struck 22
down
Their warriors by their furious plunging.
'Curse Meroz,' said the angel of the 23
LORD,
'Curse utterly its inhabitants;
For they came not to the help of the LORD,
To the help of the LORD like heroes.'
Most blessed of women may Jael be, 24
The wife of Heber, the Kenite;
Of bedouin women most blessed!
Water he asked; milk she gave; 25
In a lordly bowl she brought him curds.
She put her hand to the tent-pin, 26
And her right hand to the workman's mallet;
And she struck down Sisera, she crushed his head;
She shattered and smashed his temple.
At her feet he sank, he fell, he lay 27 prone;
At her feet he sank, he fell;
Where he sank, there he fell slain.

- "Out of the window she peered, and ex- 28 claimed,
The mother of Sisera, out of the lattice:
'Why is his chariot so long in coming?
Why is the clatter of his chariots so delayed?'
The wisest of her princesses replies; 29
She it is who makes answer to her:
'Are they not finding, dividing booty? 30
A maid or two for each warrior;
Booty of dyed stuffs for Sisera,
Booty of dyed stuffs embroidered;
A couple of pieces of dyed embroidery for his neck as booty.'
- "Thus may all thine enemies perish, O 31
LORD;
But let thy friends be like the rising of the sun in his might."

So the land enjoyed security for forty years.

CONQUEST BY THE MIDIANITES AND DELIVERANCE THROUGH
GIDEON, 6:1—8:28

Then the Israelites did what was evil 6 in the sight of the LORD, so that the LORD delivered them into the power of

2 Midian for seven years, and the power of Midian prevailed over Israel. It was because of Midian that the Israelites made for themselves the dens which are in the mountains, and the caves and strongholds. Whenever the Israelites put in seed, the Midianites, Amalekites, and Kedemites used to come up, and attack them. They encamped against them, and destroyed the produce of the land as far as the vicinity of Gaza. They would leave nothing in Israel for the sheep, oxen, and asses to live on; for they used to come up with their cattle and tents; they used to come like locusts for number, both they and their camels being innumerable. They came into the land to ruin it. So Israel was brought very low through Midian; and the Israelites cried to the LORD. Then, when the Israelites cried to the LORD on account of Midian, the LORD sent a prophet to the Israelites, who said to them,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, 'It was I who brought you up out of Egypt, and brought you out of a state of slavery; I rescued you from the power of Egypt, and from the power of all your oppressors; I drove them out of your way, and gave you their land. So I said to you, 'I, the LORD, am your God; you must not stand in awe of the gods of the Amorites in whose land you are living.' But you have not heeded my injunction.'"

11 The angel of the LORD came and sat down under the terebinth at Ophrah, which belonged to Joash, the Abiezrite, whose son Gideon was beating out wheat in a wine-press, to keep it safe from Midian. The angel of the LORD appeared to him, and said to him, "The LORD is with you, valiant warrior!"

13 "Pray, sir," Gideon said to him, "if the LORD is with us, why, then, has all this happened to us? Where are all his wonderful deeds, which our fathers recounted to us, saying, 'Was it not out of Egypt that the LORD brought us?' But now the LORD has cast us off, and has delivered us into the power of Midian."

14 Then the LORD turned to him, and said,

"Go in this strength of yours, and save Israel from the power of Midian. Am I not sending you?"

But he said to him,

"Pray, O Lord, how can I save Israel, seeing that my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and that I am the lowliest in my father's family?"

But the LORD said to him,

"I will be with you, and you shall destroy Midian to a man."

Then he said to him,

"If I have really found favor with thee, pray show me a sign that it is thou who speakest with me. Do not leave here, I pray, until I come back to thee, and bring out my offering, and place it before thee."

"I will wait until you return," he said.

So Gideon went inside, and prepared a kid and unleavened cakes from an ephah of flour; he put the meat in a basket, and put the broth in a pot, and bringing them out to him under the terebinth, he presented them. But the angel of God said to him,

"Take the meat and the unleavened cakes, and place them on the rock yonder; but pour out the broth."

He did so. Then the angel of the LORD stretched out the end of the staff that was in his hand, and touched the meat and unleavened cakes, whereupon fire burst forth from the rock, and consumed the meat and unleavened cakes. Then the angel of the LORD vanished from his sight. So Gideon perceived that it was the angel of the LORD.

"Alas, O Lord GOD," said Gideon: "inasmuch as I have seen the angel of the LORD face to face!"

But the LORD said to him,

"You are safe; have no fear, you are not to die."

So Gideon built there an altar to the LORD, and called it Yahweh-shalom. To this day it still stands in the Abiezrite city of Ophrah.

That very night the LORD said to him,

"Take the choicest of the bulls that your father has (it has been the choice bull for seven years), and tear down the altar of the Baal that your father has, and cut down the sacred pole that is beside it. Then build an altar to the LORD your God on the top of this strongbold with the material, and take the choice bull, and offer it up as a burnt-offering with the wood of the sacred pole which you are to cut down."

So Gideon took ten of his slaves, and did as the LORD told him; but since he was too afraid of his father's household and the townsmen to do it by day, he did it by night. When the townsmen rose early next morning, there was the altar of the Baal torn down, and the sacred pole which was beside it cut down, and the choice bull offered up on the altar which had been built! Then they said to one another,

"Who has done this deed?"

When they had inquired and investigated, they declared,

"Gideon, the son of Joash, has done this deed."

So the townsmen said to Joash,

"Bring out your son that he may die; for he has torn down the altar of the Baal, and has cut down the sacred pole which was beside it."

But Joash said to all his opponents, "Will you take the Baal's part, or will you champion him? Whoever takes his part will be put to death by morning. If he is a god, let him take his own part; for his altar has been torn down!"

So Gideon was named Jerubbaal that day, meaning, "Let the Baal take his own part against him; for he tore down his altar."

Then all the Midianites, Amalekites, and Kedemites joined their forces, and crossing over, encamped in the valley of Jezreel. So the spirit of the LORD took possession of Gideon, and he sounded the alarm, and the Abiezrites were mustered in his following. Then he sent messengers all through Manasseh, and they also were mustered in his following. He sent messengers through Asher, Zebulun, and Naphtali, and they marched out to meet them. Then Gideon said to God,

"If thou art really going to save Israel by my power, as thou hast declared—see, I will put a fleece of wool on the threshing-floor; if there is dew on the fleece only, while it is dry on all the ground, I will know that thou wilt save Israel by my power, as thou hast declared."

And so it happened. When he rose early next morning, and wrung the fleece, he squeezed in dew out of the fleece a bowlful of water. Then Gideon 39 said to God,

"Let not thy anger blaze against me, that I may speak just once more. Pray let me make only one more test with the fleece; pray let it be dry on the fleece only, but on all the ground let there be dew."

And God did so that night; it was dry 40 on the fleece only, but on all the ground there was dew.

So Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) and all 7 the people that were with him rose early, and encamped near En-harod, while the camp of Midian was north of Gibeah-moreh in the valley. Then the 2 LORD said to Gideon,

"The people that are with you are too many for me to deliver Midian into their power, lest Israel should glory over me, saying, 'My own power has saved me.' Now then, proclaim in the 3 hearing of the people, 'Whoever is afraid and timid must go home.'"

So Gideon put them to the test, and twenty-two thousand of the people went home, but ten thousand were left. Then the LORD said to Gideon, 4

"The people are still too many. Bring them down to the water, and let me test them there for you; he of whom I say to you, 'This one is to go with you,' shall go with you; but everyone of whom I say to you, 'This one is not to go with you,' must not go."

So he brought the people down to the 5 water, and the LORD said to Gideon,

"Everyone who laps up the water with his tongue as a dog laps, put off by himself; and likewise everyone who kneels down to drink."

The number of those who lapped 6 with their tongues was three hundred, while all the rest of the people knelt down to drink water. Then the LORD 7 said to Gideon,

"With the three hundred men who lapped I will save you, and will deliver Midian into your power; but let all the rest of the people go each to his home."

Then they took the pitchers of the 8 people in their hands, together with their trumpets; and he sent all the rest of the Israelites home, each to his tent, keeping only the three hundred men. Now the camp of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

That very night the LORD said to 9 him,

10 "Rise, descend on the camp; for I am delivering it into your power. But if you are afraid to go down alone, go down with your servant Purah to the 11 camp, and hear what they are saying; and after that you will have the courage to descend on the camp."

12 So he went down with his servant Purah to the outposts of the warriors that were in the camp. Now the Midianites, Amalekites, and all the Kedemites were lying along the valley like locusts for number, and their camels were innumerable, being like the sands 13 on the seashore for number. Just as Gideon came, a man was telling his comrade a dream.

"I just had a dream," he said, "that a crust of barley bread came tumbling into the camp of Midian, and coming to a tent, struck it so that it fell, and turned it upside down, so that the tent lay flat."

14 "That," his comrade responded, "is nothing other than the sword of Gideon, the son of Joash, an Israelite. God is delivering Midian and all the camp into his power."

15 As soon as Gideon heard the telling of the dream and its interpretation, he bowed in reverence; and returning to the camp of Israel, he said,

"Up! for the LORD is delivering the camp of Midian into your power."

16 Then he divided the three hundred men into three companies, and put trumpets into the hands of all of them, and empty pitchers, with torches inside the pitchers.

17 "Watch me," he said to them, "and do likewise; as I reach the outskirts of the camp, see that you do just as I do; 18 when I blow the trumpet, I and all those accompanying me, you also must blow your trumpets all around the camp, and say, 'For the LORD and for Gideon!'"

19 When Gideon and the hundred men that accompanied him reached the outskirts of the camp at the beginning of the middle watch, the guards having just been posted, they blew their trumpets, and smashed the pitchers 20 that were in their hands; whereupon the three companies blew their trumpets, and shattered their pitchers, holding the torches in their left hands and the trumpets in their right to blow them, and they cried, "For the LORD and for Gideon!" Then they stood each 21 in his place around the camp, and all the camp ran; they cried out, and fled. When the three hundred trumpets 22 were blown, the LORD set them to fighting with one another all through the camp; and the camp fled as far as Bethshittah in the direction of Zererah, as far as the edge of Abel-meholah, near Tabbath. Israelites were mustered 23 from Naphtali, Asher, and all Manasseh to pursue Midian; and Gideon sent 24 messengers all through the highlands of Ephraim, saying,

"Come down against Midian, and seize the streams against them as far as Bethbarah, and also the Jordan."

So all the Ephraimites were mustered, and seized the streams as far as Bethbarah, and also the Jordan. Cap- 25 turing Midian's two chieftains, Oreb and Zeeb, they killed Oreb at Zur-Oreb, and Zeeb they killed at Jekeb-Zeeb. They pursued Midian, and the heads of Oreb and Zeeb they brought to Gideon on the other side of the Jordan.

Then the Ephraimites said to him,

"What trick is this that you have played us in not calling us when you went to fight against Midian?"

They vigorously upbraided him, but he said to them,

"What after all have I done as compared with you? Is not the gleanings of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abiezer? It was into your power that God delivered Midian's chieftains, Oreb and Zeeb; so what have I been able to do as compared with you?"

Then their anger relented against him when he said that.

When Gideon reached the Jordan, and crossed it, with the three hundred men who accompanied him, they became exhausted in their pursuit. So he said to the men of Succoth,

"Pray give some loaves of bread to my followers, because they are exhausted in my pursuit of Zebah and Zalmunna, the kings of Midian."

But the officials of Succoth said,

"Are the persons of Zebah and Zalmunna already in your hands that we should give bread to your host?"

"Accordingly," said Gideon, "when the LORD delivers Zebah and Zalmunna into my hands, I will trample you:

bodies among desert thorns and briers!"

From there he went up to Penuel, and spoke similarly to them; but the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had. So he said also to the men of Penuel,

"When I come back in triumph, I will tear down this tower."

Now Zebah and Zalmunna were at Karkor, and their army with them, about fifteen thousand men, all that remained of all the Kedemite army, since the fallen numbered one hundred and twenty thousand swordsmen. So Gideon went up the caravan route, east of Nobah and Jogbehah, and attacked the camp as it lay off its guard. Zebah and Zalmunna fled, but he pursued them, and captured Midian's two kings, Zebah and Zalmunna, and struck panic into the whole army. Then Gideon, the son of Joash, returned from the battle at the slope of Heres. He captured a youth belonging to Succoth, and questioned him, so that he wrote down for him a list of the officials and elders of Succoth, seventy-seven of them. Coming to the men of Succoth, he said,

"Here are Zebah and Zalmunna, concerning whom you taunted me, saying, 'Are the persons of Zebah and Zalmunna already in your hands that we should give bread to your exhausted men?'"

Then he took the elders of the city along with desert thorns and briers, and he trampled the men of Succoth into them. Also the tower of Penuel he tore down, and slew the men of the city.

Then he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, "Where are the men whom you slew at Tabor?"

"They were like yourself," said they, "just like the sons of a king in stature."

"They were my brothers," said he, "the sons of my mother. As the LORD lives, if you had let them live, I would not be slaying you."

Then he said to Jether, his first-born, "Go and slay them!"

But the boy would not draw his sword, because he was afraid; for he was still only a boy. Then Zebah and Zalmunna said,

"Come and fall upon us yourself; for a man has a man's courage."

So Gideon went and slew Zebah and Zalmunna, and he took the crescents which were on the necks of their camels.

Then the Israelites said to Gideon, 22 "Rule over us, you, then your son, and then your grandson; for you have saved us from the power of Midian."

But Gideon said to them, 23

"I will not rule over you, nor shall my son rule over you, since the LORD rules over you."

"But let me make a request of you," 24

Gideon said to them; "each of you give me the earrings of his captives." (For they had gold earrings, since they were Ishmaelites.)

"We surely will," said they. 25

So they spread out a mantle, and each of them threw the earrings of his captives into it, so that the weight of 26 the gold earrings for which he had asked was one thousand seven hundred shekels in gold, exclusive of the crescents, pendants, and purple robes worn by the kings of Midian, and the collars which were on the necks of their camels. Then 27 Gideon made it into an ephod, and deposited it in his city Ophrah, and all Israel ran wantonly after it there, so that it became a snare for Gideon and his family. Thus were the Midianites 28 brought into subjection to the Israelites, so that they never raised their heads again; and the land enjoyed security for forty years, during the lifetime of Gideon.

THE KINGDOM OF ABIMELECH: ITS RISE AND

FALL, 8:29—9:57

Then Jerubbaal, the son of Joash, 29 went to live at home. Gideon had seventy sons, who were his own offspring; for he had many wives. His consort 31 who lived in Shechem had also borne him a son, to whom he had given the name of Abimelech. Then Gideon, the 32 son of Joash, died at a ripe old age, and was buried in the tomb of his father Joash, in the Abiezrite city of Ophrah. Just as soon as Gideon died, the Israel- 33 ites again ran wantonly after the Baals, and made Baal-berith their god. The 34 Israelites paid no attention to the LORD their God, who had rescued them from the power of all their enemies around them, nor were they kind to the 35 family of Jerubbaal (that is, Gideon) in return for all the good that he had rendered Israel.

- 9 Then Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal, went to Shechem to his mother's kinsmen, and spoke to them and to all the clan of his mother's family, saying, "Say in the hearing of all the citizens of Shechem, 'Which is better for you, to have seventy men rule over you, all the sons of Jerubbaal, or to have one man rule over you? Also remember that I am your own flesh and blood.'"
- 3 So his mother's kinsmen spoke all these words in his behalf in the hearing of all the citizens of Shechem, so that their sympathies turned toward Abimelech; "For," said they, "he is our kinsman."
- 4 So they gave him seventy shekels of silver from the temple of Baal-berith, and with them Abimelech hired vagabonds and reckless fellows to follow him. Then he came to his father's house at Ophrah, and slew his brothers, the sons of Jerubbaal, seventy of them, on a single stone; but Jotham, the youngest son of Jerubbaal, escaped, because he hid himself.
- 6 Then all the citizens of Shechem and all Beth-millo assembled, and went and made Abimelech king, beside the terebinth connected with the sacred pillar which was at Shechem. When the news was brought to Jotham, he went and stood on the top of Mount Gerizim, and lifting up his voice, he called out, and said to them,
- "Listen to me, O citizens of Shechem, so that God may listen to you! Once upon a time the trees set out to anoint a king over themselves; so they said to the olive tree,
- "Reign over us."
- 9 "But the olive tree said to them, "Do I lack my rich oil, with which gods and men are honored, that I should go begging to the trees?"
- 10 "Then the trees said to the fig tree, "Do you come and reign over us!"
- 11 "But the fig tree said to them, "Do I lack my sweetness and good fruit that I should go begging to the trees?"
- 12 "Then the trees said to the vine, "Do you come and reign over us!"
- 13 "But the vine said to them, "Do I lack my wine, which cheers gods and men, that I should go begging to the trees?"
- 14 "Finally the trees said to the thorn, "Do you come and reign over us!"

"But the thorn said to the trees, "If in good faith you are anointing me as king over you, come and take shelter in my shade; but if not, fire shall burst forth from the thorn, and consume the cedars of Lebanon."

"So now, if you have acted in good faith and integrity in making Abimelech king, and if you have acted fairly by Jerubbaal and his family, and treated him as he deserved—seeing that my father fought for you, and risked his life, and rescued you from the power of Midian, whereas you have today risen against my father's family, and have slain his sons, seventy of them, on a single stone, and have made Abimelech, the son of his slave girl, king over the citizens of Shechem, because he is your kinsman—if, I say, you have acted in good faith and integrity by Jerubbaal and his family this day, have joy in Abimelech, and may he also have joy in you! But if not, fire shall burst forth from Abimelech, and consume all the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo, and fire shall burst forth from the citizens of Shechem and Beth-millo and consume Abimelech."

Then Jotham ran away, and fleeing, went to Beer, and settled there, on account of his brother Abimelech.

For three years Abimelech held sway over Israel. Then God sent an evil spirit between Abimelech and the citizens of Shechem, so that the citizens of Shechem played false by Abimelech, in order that the murder of the seventy sons of Jerubbaal and their blood might be requited on their brother Abimelech, who had slain them, and on the citizens of Shechem, who had abetted him in slaying his brothers. The citizens of Shechem to his hurt set men in ambush on the mountain-tops, and robbed all who passed by them on the road; and it was reported to Abimelech.

Now Gaal, the son of Obed, came with his kinsmen, and moved into Shechem; and the citizens of Shechem put their trust in him. They went out into the fields, and cut their grapes and trod them out. Then they held a festival, and entering the house of their god, they ate and drank, and reviled Abimelech. Then Gaal, the son of Obed, said,

"What claim has Abimelech on Shechem, that we should serve him? Did not Jerubbaal's son, and his lieutenant Zebul, once serve the men of Hamor, (the ancestor of Shechem; so why should we serve him? O that this people were under my authority! Then would I depose Abimelech, and I would say to Abimelech, 'Your tenure of office has been long enough; so get out!'"

When Zebul, the governor of the city, heard the words of Gaal, the son of Obed, his anger blazed; and he sent messengers to Abimelech at Arumah, saying,

"Gaal, the son of Obed, and his kinsmen have come to Shechem, and here they are, turning the city against you! Now then, start out at night, you and the people that are with you, and lie in ambush in the fields; and then rise early next morning, just at sunrise, and make a dash against the city. Then, just as he and the people that are with him come out against you, do to him as opportunity offers."

So Abimelech and all the people that were with him started out at night, and lay in ambush against Shechem, in four companies. When Gaal, the son of Obed, came out, and stood at the entrance of the city gate, Abimelech and the people that were with him rose from the ambushade; and when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul,

"See, there are people coming down from the mountain tops."

"It is the mountain shadows," Zebul said to him, "which look to you like men!"

But Gaal said again,

"See, there are people coming down from the vicinity of Tabburerez, and one company is advancing from the direction of Elon-meonenim!"

Then Zebul said to him,

"Where is your boast now, which you made, 'Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him?' Are these not the people that you despised? Come out then, and fight against them!"

So Gaal led out the citizens of Shechem, and fought against Abimelech; but Abimelech pursued him, and he fled from him, while many fell wounded, right up to the entrance of the gate. Abimelech, however, continued to live at Arumah; while Zebul banished Gaal and his kinsmen from Shechem.

Next day, when the people went out into the fields, the news was brought to Abimelech. So he took his men, and dividing them into three companies, lay in ambush in the fields. When he saw the people coming out of the city, he rose against them, and attacked them. Abimelech and the company that was with him made a dash, and occupied the entrance to the city gate; while the other two companies made a dash against all who were in the fields, and attacked them. Abimelech fought against the city all that day; and when he captured the city, he slew the people that were in it, razed the city itself, and sowed it with salt.

When all the citizens of Migdal-Shechem heard of it, they entered the crypt of the temple of El-berith. When the news was brought to Abimelech that all the citizens of Migdal-Shechem were gathered there, Abimelech went up to Mount Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him; and taking an ax in his hand, Abimelech cut down brushwood, and lifting it up, put it on his shoulder. Then he said to the people that were with him,

"Hurry, and do just what you saw me do."

So all the people likewise cut down brush, and following Abimelech, placed it on the crypt, and then set the crypt on fire over them; so that all the citizens of Migdal-Shechem also died, about a thousand men and women.

Then Abimelech went to Thebez, invested Thebez, and captured it. But there was a strong tower inside the city, and thither fled all the men and women, all the citizens of the city, and shut themselves in, and went up on the roof of the tower. When Abimelech reached the tower, he attacked it; but as he approached the doorway of the tower to burn it down, a woman threw an upper millstone on Abimelech's head, and crushed his skull, whereupon he called quickly to his armorbearer, and said to him,

"Draw your sword, and despatch me, lest it be said of me, 'A woman killed him!'"

So his servant ran him through, and he died. When the Israelites saw that Abimelech was dead, they went each to his home. Thus did God requite the crime of Abimelech which he committed against his father, in slaying seventy brothers. Also all the wickedness of the men of Shechem did God requite upon their heads, so that the curse of Jotham, the son of Jerubbaal, came upon them.

THE MINOR JUDGES, TOLA AND JAIR, 10:1-5

- 10 After Abimelech, there rose to save Israel Tola, the son of Puah, the son of Dodo, an Issacharite. He lived at Shamir, in the highlands of Ephraim. He governed Israel for twenty-three years. Then he died, and was buried at Shamir.
- 3 After him rose Jair, the Gileadite. He governed Israel for twenty-two years. He had thirty sons who rode on thirty saddle-asses and possessed thirty cities (they are called Havvoth-jair to this day), which are in the land of Gilead. Then Jair died, and was buried at Kamon.

CONQUEST BY THE AMMONITES AND DELIVERANCE THROUGH JEPHTHAH,

10:6-12:7

- 6 Then the Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD by serving the Baals and Ashtarts, the gods of Syria, the gods of Sidon, the gods of Moab, the gods of the Ammonites, and the gods of the Philistines; they forsook the LORD and did not serve him. Then the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel, so that he sold them into the power of the Philistines, and into the power of the Ammonites. They crushed and oppressed the Israelites for eighteen years, that is, all the Israelites who were beyond the Jordan in the land of the Amorites, which is in Gilead. The Ammonites crossed the Jordan to fight also against Judah, Benjamin, and the clan of Ephraim, so that Israel was in sore straits. Then the Israelites cried to the LORD, saying,
- "We have sinned against thee; for we have forsaken our God and served the Baals."
- 11 Then the LORD said to the Israelites,
- "Is it not as easy to save from the Ammonites and Philistines as from the Egyptians and Amorites? When the Sidonians, Amalekites, and Midianites oppressed you, and you cried to me, I saved you from their power. Yet you have forsaken me, and served alien gods. Accordingly, I will not save you any more. Go and cry to the gods whom you have chosen! Let them save you in your time of distress!"

Then the Israelites said to the LORD, 15 "We have sinned; do to us just as thou seest fit; only do rescue us this day!"

Then they removed the foreign gods 16 from their midst, and served the LORD, so that he had to yield to the grievances of Israel.

The Ammonites were mustered, and 17 camped in Gilead; while the Israelites were assembled, and camped at Mizpeh. Then the people throughout the 18 cities of Gilead said to one another, "Whoever will take the lead in fighting against the Ammonites, shall become chief over the inhabitants of Gilead."

Now Jephthah, the Gileadite, was a 11 valiant warrior; but he was the son of a harlot. Gilead was the father of Jephthah, but Gilead's wife had borne him 2 other sons, and when his wife's sons had grown up, they had driven Jephthah out, and had said to him,

"You shall have no inheritance in our father's estate; for you are the son of another woman."

So Jephthah had fled from his brothers, and was living in the land of Tob. Vagabonds gathered about Jephthah, and went raiding with him. After a 4 while the Ammonites went to war with Israel. When the Ammonites went to 5 war with Israel, the elders of Gilead went to bring Jephthah from the land of Tob.

"Come and be our commander," 6 they said to Jephthah, "that we may fight against the Ammonites."

But Jephthah said to the elders of 7 Gilead,

"Are you not the men who hated me, and drove me out of my father's house? Why then have you come to me now, when you are in trouble?"

"That is just why we have come back 8 to you," the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah; "so come with us, and fight against the Ammonites, and be chief over us, over all the inhabitants of Gilead."

9 Whereupon Jephthah said to the elders of Gilead,

"If you take me back to fight against the Ammonites, and the LORD puts them at my mercy, shall I really become your chief?"

10 The elders of Gilead said to Jephthah,

"The LORD shall be witness between us that we will do just as you say."

11 So Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead, and the people made him chief and commander over them, and Jephthah repeated all his words in the presence of the LORD at Mizpeh.

12 Then Jephthah sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites, saying,

"What have you against me that you have come against me to wage war on my country?"

13 The king of the Ammonites said to the messengers of Jephthah,

"Israel took away my lands when they came up out of Egypt, from the Arnon as far as the Jabbok and the Jordan; so now restore them peaceably."

14 Then Jephthah again sent messengers to the king of the Ammonites, to say to him,

"Thus says Jephthah: 'Israel did not take away the land of Moab, nor the 15 land of the Ammonites. When they came up out of Egypt, Israel journeyed through the desert as far as the Red

16 Sea, and then came to Kadesh. Israel then sent messengers to the king of Edom, saying, 'Pray let us pass through your land'; but the king of Edom would not agree. Likewise they sent

17 to the king of Moab, but he would not consent. So Israel remained at Kadesh. Then they journeyed through the desert, and making a circuit around the land of Edom and the land of Moab, they kept to the east of the land of Moab, and camped beyond the Arnon. They did not enter the territory of Moab; for the Arnon was the frontier

18 of Moab. Then Israel sent messengers to Sihon, king of the Amorites, king of Heshbon. 'Pray let us pass through your land to our destination,' Israel

19 said to him. But Sihon refused to let Israel pass through his territory; Sihon collected all his people, and encamped

20 at Jahaz, and fought with Israel. Then the LORD, the God of Israel, delivered Sihon and all his people into the power of Israel, so that they defeated them; and Israel occupied all the land of the Amorites inhabiting that region. They 22 occupied all the territory of the Amorites, from the Arnon as far as the Jabbok, and from the desert as far as the Jordan. So, now that the LORD, the 23 God of Israel, has driven the Amorites out of the way of his people Israel, are you to occupy the territory? Should 24 you not occupy the territory of those whom Chemosh, your own god, drives out, while we occupy that of all those whom the LORD, our God, has driven out of our way? Are you then any 25 stronger than Balak, the son of Zippor, king of Moab? Did he ever quarrel with the Israelites, or fight with them? While Israel lived in Heshbon and its 26 dependencies, and in Aroer and its dependencies, and in all the cities which are on the banks of the Arnon, for three hundred years, why did you not recover them within that time? I have com- 27 mitted no wrong against you, but you are doing me wrong in making war on me. Let the LORD, as judge today, decide the issue between the Israelites and Ammonites!"

But the king of the Ammonites would 28 not agree to the proposal which Jephthah sent him.

Then the spirit of the LORD inspired 29 Jephthah, so that he crossed to Gilead and Manasseh; then he passed on to Mizpeh of Gilead, and from Mizpeh of Gilead he passed on to the Ammonites. Jephthah made a vow to the LORD, 30 saying,

"If thou wilt but deliver the Ammonites into my power, whosoever 31 comes out of the door of my house to meet me, when I return in triumph from the Ammonites, shall be the LORD'S; I will offer him up as a burnt-offering!"

Then Jephthah crossed over to the 32 Ammonites, to fight against them; and the LORD delivered them into his power. He routed them with very great 33 slaughter, from Aroer as far as the vicinity of Minnith, through twenty cities, and as far as Abel-cheramim. Thus were the Ammonites brought into subjection to the Israelites.

Then Jephthah went home to Miz- 34 peh, and there was his daughter coming out to meet him with tambourines and dancing! She was his one and only child; besides her he had neither son nor daughter. Upon seeing her, he tore his clothes, and said,

"Alas, my daughter, you have stricken me low! You have indeed brought calamity on me! For I made a vow to the LORD, and I cannot repudiate it."

36 "My father," she said to him, "since you have made a vow to the LORD, do to me as you declared, now that the LORD has wreaked vengeance for you on your enemies, the Ammonites."

37 "But let this privilege be granted me," she said to her father; "spare me for two months, that I may go and roam at large on the mountains, and bewail my maidenhood, I and my companions."

38 "Go!" he said.

So he let her go for two months, and she went, she and her companions, to bewail her maidenhood on the mountains. Then, at the end of two months she returned to her father, who did to her what he had vowed, and she one who had never had intercourse with a man. Thus it became a custom in Israel for the Israelite maidens to go annually to commemorate the daughter of Jephthah, the Gileadite, for four days in the year.

12 When the Ephraimites were mustered, they crossed to Zaphon, and said to Jephthah,

"Why did you cross over to fight against the Ammonites without inviting us to go with you? We will burn your house over your head."

2 But Jephthah said to them,

"I had a quarrel with my people. The Ammonites oppressed them severely, and they called on you, but you would not save them from their power. When I saw that you would not help, I took my life in my hands, and crossed over to the Ammonites; and the LORD delivered them into my power. Why then have you come against me today to fight with me?"

4 Then Jephthah collected all the Gileadites, and fought with Ephraim; and the Gileadites defeated Ephraim.

5 Gilead seized the fords of the Jordan against Ephraim, and whenever a fugitive from Ephraim would say, "Let me cross," the Gileadites would say to him, "Are you an Ephraimite?" If he said, "No," they would say to him,

"Then say 'Shibboleth.'" If he said "Sibboleth," seeing that it is not proper so to pronounce it, they would seize him, and slay him at the fords of the Jordan. Thus there fell at that time forty-two thousand of the Ephraimites.

Jephthah governed Israel for six years. Then Jephthah, the Gileadite, died, and was buried in his city in Gilead.

THE MINOR JUDGES: IBZAN, ELON, AND ABDON,

12:8-15

After him Ibzan of Bethlehem governed Israel. He had thirty sons. He married thirty daughters outside his family, and thirty daughters he brought in for his sons from outside. He governed Israel for seven years. Then Ibzan died, and was buried at Bethlehem.

After him Elon, the Zebulunite, governed Israel; he governed Israel for ten years. Then Elon, the Zebulunite, died, and was buried at Aijalon in the land of Zebulun.

After him Abdon, the son of Hillel, the Pirathonite, governed Israel. He had forty sons and thirty grandsons, who rode on seventy saddle-asses. He governed Israel for eight years. Then Abdon, the son of Hillel, the Pirathonite, died, and was buried at Pirathon in the land of Ephraim, in the highlands of the Amalekites.

THE STORY OF SAMSON,

13:1-16:31

Then the Israelites again did what was evil in the sight of the LORD; so that the LORD delivered them into the power of the Philistines for forty years.

Now there was a certain man of Zorah, belonging to the Danite clan, whose name was Manoah. His wife was barren and childless; but the angel of the LORD appeared to the woman, and said to her,

"See now, although you have been barren and childless, you are going to conceive, and bear a son. Now then, take care not to drink wine or liquor, nor to eat anything unclean; for you are going to conceive, and bear a son. A razor is not to be used on his head; for the boy is to be a Nazirite to God from conception. He it is who will take the lead in saving Israel from the power of the Philistines."

6 Then the woman came and told her husband, saying,

"A man of God came to me, whose appearance was like that of an angel of God, very awe-inspiring. I did not ask him where he came from, nor did he tell me his name; but he said to me, 'You are going to conceive, and bear a son; now then, do not drink wine or liquor, nor eat anything unclean; for the boy is to be a Nazirite to God from conception to the day of his death.'"

7 Then Manoah besought the LORD, and said,

"Pray, O Lord, let the man of God whom thou didst send come back to us, and teach us what to do for the boy that is to be born."

8 So God acceded to Manoah's request, and the angel of God came back to the woman while she was sitting in the field, her husband Manoah not being with her. Then the woman ran quickly to tell her husband.

"The man who came to me the other day has just appeared to me!" she said to him.

9 So Manoah rose and followed his wife, and coming to the man, said to him,

"Are you the man who spoke to my wife?"

"I am," he said.

10 "In case your promise comes true," said Manoah, "what is to be the boy's training and his vocation?"

11 The angel of the LORD said to Manoah,

"The woman must abstain from everything of which I spoke to her. She must not eat any of the products of the grapevine, nor drink wine or liquor, nor eat anything unclean. All that I commanded her she must observe."

12 Then Manoah said to the angel of the LORD,

"Pray allow us to detain you, that we may prepare a kid for you."

13 But the angel of the LORD said to Manoah,

"Though you detain me, I will not taste your food; but if you are going to make a burnt-offering, offer it up to the LORD." (For Manoah did not know that he was the angel of the LORD.)

Then Manoah said to the angel of the LORD,

"What is your name, that we may properly honor you when your promise comes true?"

"Why do you ask for my name," 18 the angel of the LORD said to him, "seeing that it is ineffable."

Then Manoah took the kid, along with the cereal-offering, and offered it up on the rock to the LORD, who performed wonders while Manoah and his wife looked on; when the flame ascended from the altar heavenward, the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar, while Manoah and his wife looked on, and fell on their faces to the ground. (The angel of the LORD never again appeared to Manoah and his wife.) Then Manoah knew that he was the angel of the LORD; so Manoah said 22 to his wife,

"We shall certainly die; for we have seen God!"

But his wife said to him, 23

"If the LORD had meant to kill us, he would not have accepted a burnt-offering and a cereal-offering from us, nor would he have showed us all these things, nor would he have told us such a thing as he did just now."

So the woman bore a son, and called 24 his name Samson. The boy grew up, and the LORD blessed him; but the 25 spirit of the LORD first stirred him up at Mahaneh-dan, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

Samson went down to Timnah, and 14 saw a woman at Timnah, one of the Philistine women. When he came back, 2 he told his father and mother.

"I saw a woman at Timnah," he said, "one of the Philistine women; now then, get her for me in marriage."

But his father and mother said to 3 him,

"Is there no woman among the girls of your own kinsmen or among all my people, that you must go and get a wife from the uncircumcised Philistines?"

But Samson said to his father,

"Get her for me; for she is the one that suits me."

His father and mother did not know, 4 however, that it was at the instigation of the LORD that he was picking a quarrel with the Philistines; for at that time the Philistines held sway over Israel.

- 5 Then Samson went down with his father and mother to Timnah, and just as they reached the vineyards of Timnah, a young lion came roaring at him.
- 6 Then the spirit of the LORD came rushing upon him, so that he split it open as one might split a kid, although he had nothing at all in his hands. However, he did not tell his father and mother
- 7 what he had done. So he went down, and talked to the woman, and she suited Samson. When he returned after a while to marry her, he turned aside to look at the remains of the lion, and there was a swarm of bees in the carcass
- 8 of the lion, and honey! So he scraped it out into his hands, and ate it as he went along. When he returned to his father and mother, he gave them some to eat, but he did not tell them that it was out of the carcass of the lion that he had scraped the honey.
- 10 When his father went down to the woman, Samson made a feast there; for so bridegrooms were accustomed to do.
- 11 As soon as they saw him, they selected thirty companions to accompany him.
- 12 To them Samson said,
"Let me propound you a riddle; if you can but solve it for me in the seven days of the feast, and find it out, I will give you thirty linen robes and thirty
- 13 festal garments; but if you are unable to tell me the solution, then you must give me thirty-linen robes and thirty festal garments."
- "Propound your riddle," they said to him, "let us hear it!"
- 14 So he said to them,
"Out of the eater came something to eat,
And out of the strong came something sweet."
When they could not solve the riddle
- 15 after three days, they said to Samson's wife on the fourth day,
"Coax your husband to solve the riddle for us, lest we burn up you and your father's house. Was it to impoverish us that you invited us here?"
- 16 So Samson's wife wept on his shoulder, and said,
"You simply hate me and do not love me at all. You have propounded a riddle to my countrymen without telling me the solution."
He said to her,
"Why I haven't told my father or mother; so should I tell you?"

But she wept on his shoulder through the seven days that they kept the feast, until finally on the seventh day he told her, since she pressed him so hard. Then she told the riddle to her countrymen; and on the seventh day, as he was about to enter the bridal chamber, the men of the city said to him,
"What is sweeter than honey,
And what is stronger than a lion?"

He said to them,
"If you had not ploughed with this heifer of mine,
You would not have found out this riddle of mine."

Then the spirit of the LORD came rushing upon him, so that he went down to Askelon, and killing thirty of them, he despoiled them, and gave the festal garments to those who had solved the riddle. Then, blazing with anger, he went up to his father's house, and Samson's wife went to his rival, who had been a rival to him.

After a while, however, in the time of wheat harvest, Samson paid a visit to his wife with a kid.

"I am going into the bridal chamber to my wife," he said.

But her father would not let him go in.

"I thought of course that you must simply hate her," her father said, "so I gave her to your rival. Is her younger sister not better than she? Take her instead."

Then Samson said of them,

"This time I am going to get even with the Philistines; for I am going to do them harm."

So Samson went and caught three hundred foxes; he then procured torches, and turning tail to tail, he put a torch between each pair of tails. Then, setting the torches on fire, he turned the foxes loose in the standing grain of the Philistines, and burnt up both the shocks and the standing grain, and also the vineyards and olive groves.

"Who has done this?" said the Philistines.

"Samson, the son-in-law of the Timnite," it was said, "because his wife was taken away and given to his rival."

So the Philistines went up, and burned up her and her father's house.

Then Samson said to them,

"You can never do such a thing as 16:1 this without my taking revenge on you; but after this I will quit."

16:2 So he smote them hip and thigh with great slaughter; then he went down, and lived in a cleft of the crag Etam.

16:3 Then the Philistines came up, and encamped in Judah, and made a raid on Lehi.

16:4 "Why have you come up against us?" said the Judeans.

16:5 "We have come up to take Samson prisoner," they said, "that we may do to him as he did to us."

16:6 So three thousand of the Judeans went down to the cleft of the crag Etam, and said to Samson,

16:7 "Do you not know that the Philistines hold sway over us? What ever have you done to us?"

16:8 "As they did to me," he replied, "so have I done to them."

16:9 "We have come down to take you prisoner," they said to him, "to turn you over to the Philistines."

16:10 "Swear to me that you will not fall upon me yourselves," Samson said to them.

16:11 "No," they responded, "we will but take you prisoner, and turn you over to them, but we will not kill you."

16:12 So they bound him with two new ropes, and brought him up from the crag. As he reached Lehi, the Philistines came shouting to meet him. Then the spirit of the LORD came rushing upon him, so that the ropes on his arms became like flax that has caught on fire, and his bonds melted off his hands; and finding a fresh jawbone of an ass, he put out his hand, and seizing it, felled a thousand men with it. Then Samson said,

16:13 "With the red ass's jawbone I have dyed them red;

16:14 With the red ass's jawbone I have felled a thousand men."

16:15 As he finished speaking, he threw the jawbone away; hence that place came to be called Ramath-lehi [the hill of the jawbone]. Then he became very thirsty, so he called to the LORD, saying,

16:16 "Thou hast vouchsafed this great victory by thy servant, and am I now to die of thirst, and fall by the hands of the uncircumcised?"

16:17 Then God split open the mortar that is at Lehi, and water gushed out of it; and when he drank, his spirits rose, and he revived. That is how its name came to be called En-hakkor [the spring of the caller], which is at Lehi to this day. So he governed Israel in the time of the 20 Philistines for twenty years.

16:18 Samson went to Gaza, and seeing a harlot there, had intercourse with her. When the Gazaites were told, "Samson has come here," they came around, and lay in wait for him all night at the gate of the city. They kept quiet all night, saying, "As soon as morning dawns, we will kill him." Samson lay until midnight; but at midnight he rose, and taking hold of the doors of the city gate and the two gateposts, he pulled them up, together with the bar, and putting them on his shoulder, he carried them to the top of the hill that faces Hebron.

16:19 Afterwards he fell in love with a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah. Then the Philistine tyrants came to her, and said to her,

16:20 "Coax him, and find out why his strength is so great, and how we can overpower him and bind him helpless, and we will each give you eleven hundred shekels of silver."

16:21 So Delilah said to Samson,

16:22 "Do tell me why your strength is so great, and how you can be bound helpless?"

16:23 Samson said to her,

16:24 "If I were to be bound with seven fresh bowstrings that have not been dried, I should become weak, and be like any other man."

16:25 Then the Philistine tyrants brought her seven fresh bowstrings that had not been dried, and she bound him with them. Then, having men lie in wait in the inner room, she said to him,

16:26 "The Philistines are on you, Samson!"

16:27 But he snapped the bowstrings, as a strand of tow is snapped when it comes near fire. So the source of his strength was not discovered.

16:28 Then Delilah said to Samson,

16:29 "There, you have trifled with me, and told me lies! Do tell me now how you can be bound."

16:30 So he said to her,

16:31 "If I were but bound with new ropes that have not been used, I should become weak, and be like any other man."

16:32 So Delilah took new ropes, and bound him with them. Then she said to him,

"The Philistines are on you, Samson!"

(Meanwhile men were lying in wait in the inner room.)

But he snapped them off his arms like thread.

- 13 Then Delilah said to Samson, "Up to now you have trifled with me, and told me lies. Tell me how you can be bound."

So he said to her,

"If you were to weave the seven locks of my head into the web, and beat them in with the pin, I should become weak, and be like any other man."

- So, when he was asleep, Delilah took the seven locks of his head and wove them into the web, and beat them in with the pin. Then she said to him,

"The Philistines are on you, Samson!"

But he awoke from his sleep, and pulled up both the loom and the web.

- 15 Then she said to him, "How can you say, 'I love you,' when you do not confide in me? Three times already you have trifled with me, and have not told me why your strength is so great."

- 16 At last, after she had pressed him with her words continually, and urged him, he got tired to death of it, and told her his whole secret.

"A razor has never been used on my head," he said to her; "for I have been a Nazirite to God from conception. If I were to be shaved, my strength would leave me; I should become weak, and be like any other man."

- 18 When Delilah saw that he had told her his whole secret, she sent for the Philistine tyrants, saying,

"Come up this once; for he has told me his whole secret."

- So the Philistine tyrants came to her, and brought the money in their hands. Then she put him to sleep on her knees, and summoning a man, she had him shave off the seven locks of his head, so that he became quite helpless, and his strength left him. Then she said,

"The Philistines are on you Samson!"

- He awoke from his sleep, and thought, "I shall get off as I have done over and over again, and shake myself free"—not knowing that the LORD had left him. Then the Philistines seized him, and gouged out his eyes, and bringing him down to Gaza, they bound him with bronze shackles, and he spent his time grinding in the prison. But the hair of his head began to grow again as soon as it had been shaved off.

Now the Philistine tyrants gathered to offer a great sacrifice to their god Dagon, and for merry-making, saying, "Our god has delivered our enemy Samson into our power!"

When the people saw him, they praised their god; "For," said they, "our god has delivered our enemy into our hands, the devastator of our lands, and him who slew us in bands."

When they were in high spirits, they said,

"Summon Samson, that he may make sport for us!"

So Samson was summoned from the prison, and made sport before them. When they had stationed him between the pillars, Samson said to the attendant who was holding his hand,

"Put me so that I can feel the pillars on which the building is supported, that I may lean against them."

Now the building was full of men and women, and all the Philistine tyrants were there; and on the roof there were about three thousand men and women, looking on while Samson made sport. Then Samson cried to the LORD, saying,

"O Lord GOD, pray remember me, and give me strength just this one time, O God, to wreak vengeance but once upon the Philistines for my two eyes!"

Then Samson grasped the two middle pillars on which the building was supported, one with his right hand and the other with his left, and braced himself against them.

"Let me die with the Philistines!" said Samson.

Then he pulled with all his might, so that the building fell in upon the tyrants and all the people that were in it. So those that he killed at his death were more than those that he had killed during his life.

Then his kinsmen and all his father's household came down, and took him up; and bringing him away, they buried him between Zorah and Eshtaol, in the tomb of his father Manoah. He had governed Israel for twenty years.

THE STORY OF MICAH AND THE DANITES, 17:1—18:31

There was a man of the highlands of Ephraim, whose name was Micah. He said to his mother,

"The eleven hundred shekels of silver which were stolen from you, and concerning which you uttered a curse, and further, said it in my hearing, here is the silver in my possession; it was I who stole it; so now I return it to you."

His mother said,

"Blessed be my son of the LORD!"

When he returned the eleven hundred shekels of silver to his mother, his mother said,

"I do solemnly consecrate the silver to the LORD from me for my son, to make a carved image and a molten image."

So he returned the silver to his mother, and his mother took two hundred shekels of it, and gave it to a silversmith, who made it into a carved image and a molten image, to stand in Micah's house. The man Micah had a shrine; he had made an ephod and teraphim, and had installed one of his sons to be priest for him. In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone used to do as he pleased.

Now there was a young man from Bethlehem in Judah, belonging to the clan of Judah; he was a Levite, and was an immigrant there. The man had left the city, Bethlehem in Judah, to settle as an immigrant wherever he might find a place; so he came to the highlands of Ephraim to the house of Micah in the accomplishment of his errand.

"Where do you come from?" Micah said to him.

"I am a Levite from Bethlehem in Judah," he replied; "I am traveling to settle as an immigrant wherever I can find a place."

"Live with me," Micah said to him; "be father and priest to me, and I will give you ten shekels of silver a year, the necessary clothes, and your living."

So the Levite agreed to live with the man, and the young man was treated by him like one of his own sons. Micah installed the Levite, and the young man became his priest, and lived in Micah's house.

"Now," said Micah, "I know that the LORD will prosper me, seeing that the Levite has become my priest."

In those days there was no king in Israel.

In those days the Danite tribe were looking for a heritage to settle in, since nothing in the way of a heritage had fallen to them up to that time among the tribes of Israel. So the Danites sent from their clan five of their ablest men, valiant fellows, from Zorah and Eshtaol, to spy out the land and explore it.

"Go and explore the land," they said to them.

So they came into the highlands of Ephraim to the house of Micah, to spend the night there. As they came near the house of Micah, they recognized the accent of the young Levite. So they turned aside there, and said to him,

"Who brought you here; what are you doing in this place; what is your business here?"

He said to them,

"So and so did Micah do for me. He hired me, and I became his priest."

"Pray inquire of God," they said to him, "so that we may know whether the errand on which we are going will be successful."

The priest said to them,

"Go forth to victory; the errand on which you are going has the LORD'S approval."

So the five men departed, and coming to Laish, they found the people who were in it living in security, after the manner of the Sidonians, quiet and unsuspecting; there was no lack of anything in the earth; they were far from the Sidonians and had no dealings with Syria.

When the spies came back to their clansmen at Zorah and Eshtaol, their clansmen said to them,

"How did you get along?"

"Rise," they said, "let us go up against them; for we have seen the land, and it is surely very fine. And you sit idle! Do not delay in setting out to go in and occupy the land; for God is delivering it into your power. When you arrive, you will come upon an unsuspecting people, while the land is extensive, a place where there is no lack of anything at all that is in the earth."

So there set forth from there, from 11 Zorah and Eshtaol, six hundred men of the Danite clan, armed with weapons of war. They went up and encamped at 12

Kirjath-jearim in Judah. That is why that place is called Mahaneh-dan [the camp of Dan] to this day; it lies west of Kirjath-jearim. From there they passed on to the highlands of Ephraim, and arrived at the house of Micah.

14 Then the five men who had gone to spy out the land, Laish, spoke up, and said to their clansmen,

"Do you know that there is an ephod in these buildings, and teraphim and a carved image and a molten image? Decide then what you are going to do."

15 So they turned aside there, and came to the house of the young Levite, Micah's house, and greeted him. While the six hundred men belonging to the Danites, armed with their weapons of war, stood at the entrance of the gate, the five men that had gone to spy out the land went up; they went inside to take the carved image, ephod, teraphim, molten image, and priest, while the six hundred men armed with weapons of war stood at the entrance of the gate. When these went into Micah's house, and took the carved image, ephod, teraphim, and molten image, the priest said to them.

"What are you doing?"

19 "Keep quiet!" they said to him. "Clap your hand on your mouth, and go along with us; be father and priest to us! Is it better for you to be priest for one man's household, or to be priest for a whole tribe and clan in Israel?"

20 The priest was elated, and taking the ephod, teraphim, and carved image, he went along with the people.

21 So they turned and went off, putting the children, cattle, and goods in front of them.

22 When they had gone some distance from Micah's house, the men that were in the houses near Micah's house were mustered, and overtook the Danites.

23 They called out to the Danites, who turned their heads, and said to Micah, "What ails you, that you are up in arms?"

24 "You have taken my gods, that I made," he said, "and the priest, and have made off! So what have I left? What a thing to say to me, 'What ails you?'"

25 The Danites said to him,

"Do not let your voice be heard among us, lest some hot-tempered fellows fall upon you, and you lose your life, with the lives of your household."

So the Danites went on their way, and when Micah saw that they were stronger than he, he turned and went home.

Thus they took what Micah had made, and the priest that he had, and coming to Laish, to a people living quiet and unsuspecting, they put them to the sword, and burned the city. There was no one to give any succor; for it was far from Sidon, and they had no dealings with Syria. It lay in the valley belonging to Beth-rehob. Then they rebuilt the city, and settled in it, calling the name of the city Dan after the name of their ancestor Dan, who was born to Israel; but Laish was the name of the city originally. The Danites set up the carved image for themselves, while Jonathan, the son of Gershom, the son of Moses, he and his descendants, were priests to the Danite tribe down to the time that the ark was carried off. So they used the carved image, which Micah had made, all the time that the temple of God stood at Shiloh.

THE CRIME OF GIBEAH AND ITS CONSEQUENCES TO THE BENJAMINITES, 19:1—21:25

In those days, when there was no king in Israel, there was a certain Levite, residing as an immigrant in the distant parts of the highlands of Ephraim, who took to himself a woman from Bethlehem in Judah as consort. But his consort became angry with him, and left him for her father's home at Bethlehem in Judah. When she had been there some four months, her husband rose and went after her, to woo her back, taking with him his servant and a pair of asses. So she brought him into her father's house, and when the girl's father saw him, he greeted him warmly. His father-in-law, the girl's father, detained him; so he remained with him three days. Eating and drinking, they spent their nights there. Then on the fourth day, when they had risen early in the morning, he got up to go; but the girl's father said to his son-in-law,

"Refresh yourself with a bit of food, after which you may go."

So the two of them again ate and drank together. Then the girl's father said to the man,

"Do consent to stay the night, and enjoy yourself."

The man, however, got up to go; but his father-in-law urged him so strongly that he stayed another night there. On the morning of the fifth day he rose early to go; but the girl's father said,

"Do take some refreshment."

So they passed the time until afternoon, the two of them eating. Then the man got up to go, with his consort and servant; but his father-in-law, the girl's father, said to him,

"See, the day has drawn to its close; do stay the night. Here it is the close of the day; stay the night here, and enjoy yourself. You may rise early tomorrow for your journey, and go home."

However, the man would not stay the night, but got up and left, and reached a point opposite Jebus (that is, Jerusalem), having with him a pair of saddled asses, and his consort as well. As they were near Jebus, with the day far spent, the servant said to his master,

"Come, now, let us turn aside to this city of the Jebusites, and spend the night in it."

But his master said to him,

"We will not turn aside to a city of foreigners, who do not belong to the Israelites; we will go on to Gibeah."

"Come," he said to his servant, "let us reach one of the places, and spend the night in Gibeah or Ramah."

So they passed on and went their way; and the sun went down on them close to Gibeah, which belongs to Benjamin. So they turned aside there to enter and spend the night in Gibeah. When he entered, he sat down in the open square of the city, since no one offered to take them into the house to spend the night. But just then an old man was coming in from his work in the field at evening (now the man belonged to the highlands of Ephraim, and had settled as an immigrant in Gibeah, whereas the men of the place were Benjaminites). When he raised his eyes, he saw the traveler in the open square of the city; so the old man said,

"Where are you going, and where did you come from?"

He said to him,

"We are passing from Bethlehem in Judah to the distant parts of the highlands of Ephraim, where I belong. I went to Bethlehem in Judah, and I am now on my way home, but no one offers to take me into the house, although there is both straw and fodder for our asses, and also bread and wine for myself and your maidservant and the boy with your servants, there being no lack of anything."

"Be at ease!" the old man said. "All your needs shall be solely my care; only you must not spend the night in the open."

So he took him home, and gave the asses fodder; and after they had washed their feet, they ate and drank.

While they were enjoying themselves, the men of the city, perverted fellows, surrounded the house; they kept pounding on the door, and said to the master of the house, the old man,

"Bring out the man who has come to your house, that we may have intercourse with him."

But the master of the house went out to them, and said to them,

"No, my friends; please do not be so depraved. Now that this man has entered my house, do not commit this carnal deed. Here is my virgin daughter, and his consort; let me bring them out that you may ravish them, and do what you like to them; but against this man you must not commit a deed so carnal."

The men, however, would not listen to him; so the man seized his consort, and turned her outdoors to them; and they had intercourse with her, and used her wantonly all night until morning, but let her go at the approach of dawn. As morning broke, the woman came and lay prostrate until daylight at the doorway of the man's house, where her master was. When her master rose in the morning, and opened the doors of the house to go out and proceed on his way, there was the woman, his consort, lying at the doorway of the house with her hands on the threshold!

"Get up," he said to her, "and let us be off!"

But there was none to answer. So he took her on the ass, and the man started on his way home. When he reached home he took his knife, and taking hold of his consort, he cut her up, limb by limb, into twelve pieces, and distributed them through all the territory of Israel. He commanded the men whom he sent, as follows:

"Thus shall you say to all the Israelites: 'Has there ever been such a deed as this since the time that the Israelites came up out of Egypt until this day? Think it over, and speak out.'"

20 Then all the Israelites marched forth, and the community to a man, from Dan to Beersheba, along with the land of Gilead, gathered to the LORD at Mizpeh; and the leaders of all the nation, all the tribes of Israel, took their stand in the assembly of God's people, four hundred thousand foot-soldiers, armed with swords. (The Benjaminites heard that the Israelites had gone up to Mizpeh.)

"Speak out," said the Israelites; "how did this crime happen?"

4 The Levite, the husband of the murdered woman, in reply said,

"To Gibeah, which belongs to Benjamin, I came with my consort to spend the night; but the citizens of Gibeah rose against me, and at night surrounded the house against me. Me they intended to kill, and my consort they ravished, so that she died. Then I took hold of my consort, and cutting her in pieces, I distributed them through all the country in the possession of Israel; for they had committed a foul and carnal deed in Israel. Here you all are, O Israelites; come forward with your advice and counsel in the matter."

8 Then all the people to a man rose, saying,

"Not one of us will go home; not one of us will return home; but on the contrary this is what we will do to Gibeah: we will march against it according to lot; and we will choose ten men from every hundred belonging to all the tribes of Israel, and a hundred from every thousand, and a thousand from every myriad, to procure provisions for the army, for those setting forth to requite Gibeah in Benjamin for all the wantonness which they committed in Israel."

11 So all the Israelites to a man gathered to the city in alliance.

12 Then the tribes of Israel sent messengers all through the tribe of Benjamin, saying,

"What a crime is this that has happened among you! Now then, hand it over the pervers in Gibeah that we may put them to death; and so extirpate the crime from Israel."

But the Benjaminites would not accede to the request of their fellow-Israelites. The Benjaminites gathered from the cities to Gibeah, to engage in battle with the Israelites. The Benjaminites mustered at that time from the cities twenty-six thousand swordsmen, exclusive of the inhabitants of Gibeah, seven hundred picked men, that were left-handed, all of them accustomed to slinging a stone at a hair without missing.

The Israelites, exclusive of Benjamin, mustered four hundred thousand swordsmen, all of them warriors. Then they proceeded to go up to Bethel to inquire of God.

"Which of us is to be the first to engage in battle with the Benjaminites?" said the Israelites.

"Judah is to be the first," said the LORD.

So, when the Israelites rose next morning, they invested Gibeah. The Israelites marched out to battle against the Benjaminites, and the Israelites drew up in battle array against them at Gibeah. Then the Benjaminites marched forth from Gibeah, and felled to the ground that day twenty-two thousand of the Israelites. But the Israelite forces rallied, and again drew up in battle array at the place where they had drawn up on the first day.

Then the Israelites went up to Bethel, and wept before the LORD until evening, and inquired of the LORD, saying,

"Shall we again engage in battle with our kinsmen, the Benjaminites?"

"Attack them," said the LORD.

So the Israelites advanced against the Benjaminites on the second day; and Benjamin marched forth from Gibeah to meet them on the second day, and again felled to the ground eighteen thousand of the Israelites, all of them swordsmen. Then all the Israelites, that is, all the army, went up and came to Bethel, and weeping, sat there before the LORD; they fasted that day until evening, and offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings be-

17 fore the LORD. Then the Israelites inquired of the LORD (for the ark of the covenant of God was there at that time, and Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, was minister to it at that time), saying,

"Shall we again engage in battle with our kinsmen, the Benjaminites, or shall we desist?"

"Attack," said the LORD; "for tomorrow I will deliver them into your power."

19 So Israel set men in ambush all around Gibeah; and the Israelites marched against the Benjaminites on the third day, and drew up against Gibeah as before. Then the Benjaminites sallied forth to meet the army, and were drawn away from the city. As before, they started out by killing some of the army on the roads, one of which runs to Bethel and the other to Gibeah, about thirty of the Israelites in the open. So the Benjaminites thought, "They are being routed before us as at first"; but the Israelites said,

"Let us flee, and draw them away from the city to the roads."

13 Then the main body of the Israelites moved from their position, and drew up at Baal-tamar, while the Israelites in ambush rushed forth from their position, the clearing of Geba. The ten thousand men, picked from all Israel, reached a point opposite Gibeah. Then the battle became furious. Before they realized that disaster was overtaking them, the LORD had routed Benjamin before Israel, so that the Israelites felled that day twenty-five thousand one hundred of the Benjaminites, all of them swordsmen. So the Benjaminites saw that they were defeated. Then the Israelites yielded ground to the Benjaminites; for they relied on the ambuscade that they had set against Gibeah.

7 The men in ambush rushed headlong against Gibeah; the men in ambush deployed, and put the whole city to the sword. The Israelites had an arrangement with the men in ambush that they should send up a smoke signal from the city, whereupon the Israelites would wheel round in the battle. Benjamin started out by killing about thirty of the Israelites, so that they thought, "They are completely routed before us as in the first battle." As the signal began to rise from the city in a column of smoke, the Benjaminites looked back, and there was the whole city going up to the sky in flames! Then the Israelites wheeled round, and the Benjaminites became panic-stricken; for they saw that disaster had overtaken them. So they retreated before the Israelites in the direction of the desert; but the battle pressed them close, and those from the city were in their midst killing them. They defeated the Benjaminites, and pursued them from Nohah to a point opposite Geba toward the east, so that eighteen thousand of the Benjaminites fell, all of them men of valor. When they retreated, they fled toward the desert to the cliff of Rimmon; but they picked up five thousand of them on the roads, and followed hard after them as far as Gidom, killing two thousand of them. So the total number of Benjaminites who fell that day was twenty-five thousand swordsmen, all of them men of valor. Six hundred men, however, turned, and fled toward the desert to the cliff of Rimmon, and remained at the cliff of Rimmon for four months. Then the Israelites turned their attention to the other Benjaminites, and put to the sword both man and beast, and everything that was to be found; all the cities, too, that were to be found, they set on fire.

Now the Israelites had sworn at Mizpeh, saying,

"None of us shall give his daughter in marriage to Benjamin."

The people went to Bethel, and sat there until evening before God, and lifting up their voices, they wept bitterly, and said,

"Why, O LORD. God of Israel, has this happened in Israel, so that one tribe today is missing from Israel?"

Next day the people rose early, and building an altar there, they offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings. Then the Israelites said,

"Who is there out of all the tribes of Israel that did not come up in the assembly to the LORD?"

(For a solemn oath had been taken concerning him who did not come up to the LORD at Mizpeh, as follows: "He shall be put to death.")

But the Israelites changed their minds concerning their brother Benjamin, and said,

"One tribe today is cut off from Is-7 rael. What are we to do about wives for them, the survivors, seeing that we have sworn by the LORD not to give them any of our daughters in marriage?"

8 Then they said,

"What one is there of the tribes of Israel that did not come up to the LORD at Mizpeh?"

Now, not one had come to the camp from Jabesh-gilead, to the assembly.

9 The people were mustered, but not one of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead was there. So the assembly sent twelve thousand of the bravest men there, and commanded them, saying,

10 "Go and put the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead to the sword, along with the women and children. This is what you are to do: every male and every woman that has had intercourse by lying with a male, you are to destroy, but you are to spare the virgins."

11 They did so. They found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred virgin girls who had not had intercourse with a man by lying with a male; and they brought them to the camp at Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan.

12 Then the whole assembly sent word to the Benjaminites, that were at the cliff of Rimmon, proclaiming peace to them. So Benjamin returned at that time, and they gave them the women that they had saved alive from the women of Jabesh-gilead; but even so there were not enough for them.

13 The people changed their minds concerning Benjamin; for the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.

14 The elders of the community said, "What are we to do about wives for the survivors; for there are no women for Benjamin?"

"There must be heirs for the remnant of Benjamin," they said, "that a tribe may not be blotted out of Israel; and yet we cannot give them wives from our daughters."

(For the Israelites had sworn, saying, "Cursed be he who gives a wife to Benjamin.")

So they said,

"There is the feast of the LORD held annually at Shiloh!" (which is north of Bethel, east of the road running from Bethel to Shechem, and south of Lebonah.)

Then they instructed the Benjaminites as follows:

"Go and lie in wait in the vineyards, and watch. Then, when the girls of Shiloh come out to participate in the dances, rush out of the vineyards and, each of you catch his wife from the girls of Shiloh, and be off to the land of Benjamin. If their fathers or kinsmen come to make complaint to us, we will say to them, 'Forgive them on our account; for we did not get each of them a wife in the battle, nor did you give them any; for then you would be doing wrong.'"

The Benjaminites did so, and took as many wives as they themselves numbered from the dancers that they carried off. Then they made off, and returning to their own territory, they built cities, and settled in them. At that time the Israelites grouped themselves there into their respective tribes and clans, and then they all left there, each for his own heritage.

In those days there was no king in Israel; everyone used to do as he pleased.

THE BOOK OF RUTH

THE ANTECEDENTS OF RUTH,

1:1-22

IN THE time when the judges were in power a famine occurred in the land; so a certain man from Bethlehem in Judah emigrated to the country of Moab, along with his wife and two sons. The man's name was Elimelech, his wife's Naomi, and the names of his two sons Mahlon and Chilion—Ephrathites from Bethlehem in Judah. So they came to the country of Moab, and remained there. Then Elimelech, the husband of Naomi, died; and she was left a widow, with her two sons. These married Moabite women, the name of one being Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth. They lived there for about ten years, and then both Mahlon and Chilion died. Then, being bereft of her two children as well as of her husband, the woman, with her daughters-in-law, prepared to return from the country of Moab; for she had heard in the country of Moab that the LORD had taken note of his people by giving them food. So she left the place where she was, accompanied by her two daughters-in-law, and they set out on the road to return to the land of Judah. But Naomi said to her two daughters-in-law,

"Go, return each of you to her mother's house. May the LORD deal as kindly with you as you have dealt with the dead and with me! May the LORD enable you to find a home, each of you, in the house of her husband!"

Then she kissed them good-bye; but they lifted up their voices in weeping, and said to her,

"No, we will go back with you to your people."

But Naomi said,

"Turn back, my daughters. Why should you go with me? Have I any more sons in my womb to become husbands for you? Turn back, my daughters; go your way; for I am too old to get married. If I should say that I have hopes both of getting married tonight and of bearing sons, would you wait for them until they were grown up? Would you forego marriage for them? No, my daughters; but I am very sorry for your sakes that the hand of the LORD has been raised against me."

Then they lifted up their voices again in weeping, and Orpah kissed her mother-in-law good-bye, but Ruth clung to her.

"See," she said, "your sister-in-law has turned back to her own people and her own gods; turn back after your sister-in-law."

But Ruth said,

"Do not press me to leave you, to turn back from following you; for wherever you go, I will go; and wherever you lodge, I will lodge; your people shall be my people, and your god my god; wherever you die, I will die, there will I be buried. May the LORD requite me and worse, if even death separates me from you."

When she saw that she was determined to go with her, she ceased arguing with her. So the two of them went until they came to Bethlehem. Upon their arrival in Bethlehem the whole city became agitated over them, and the women said,

"Is this Naomi?"

But she said to them,

"Do not call me Naomi [pleasant]; call me Mara [bitter]; for the Almighty has dealt very bitterly with me. I went away full, but the LORD has brought me back destitute. Why should you call me Naomi, seeing that the LORD has afflicted me, and the Almighty has brought evil upon me?"

So Naomi returned from the country of Moab, accompanied by her daughter-in-law, Ruth, the Moabitess. They reached Bethlehem at the beginning of the barley harvest.

THE MEETING OF RUTH
AND BOAZ, 2:1-23

- 2 Now Naomi had a kinsman of her husband, a man of great wealth, belonging to the family of Elimelech, whose name was Boaz.
- 2 One day Ruth, the Moabitess, said to Naomi,
"Let me go to the fields and glean among the ears of grain after him with whom I may find favor."
"Go, my daughter," she said to her.
- 3 So off she went, and came and gleaned in the fields after the harvesters; and it was her fortune to come upon the part of the field belonging to Boaz, who belonged to the family of Elimelech. Just then Boaz himself came from Bethlehem.
- "The LORD be with you!" he said to the harvesters.
- "The LORD bless you!" they replied.
- 5 "Whose girl is this?" said Boaz to his overseer in charge of the harvesters.
- 6 "It is a Moabite girl who came back with Naomi from the country of Moab," the overseer in charge of the harvesters answered. "She said, 'Let me glean, if you please, and gather among the sheaves after the harvesters.' So she came, and has remained since morning until now, without resting even a little."
- 8 Then Boaz said to Ruth,
"Now listen, my girl. Do not go to glean in another field, nor leave this one, but stay here close by my women.
- 9 Note the field that they are reaping, and follow them. Have I not charged the servants not to molest you? And when you are thirsty, go to the water jars, and drink some of what the servants draw."
- 10 Then she fell on her face, bowing to the ground, and said to him,
"Why have I found such favor with you that you should take notice of me, when I am a foreigner?"
- 11 Boaz in reply said to her,
"I have been fully informed of all that you have done for your mother-in-law since the death of your husband, and of how you left your father and mother, and the land of your birth, and came to a people that you did not know before. May the LORD reward your conduct, and may you receive full recompense from the LORD, the God of Israel, under whose wings you have come for shelter!"

"I thank you, sir," she said; "for you I have cheered me, and have spoken comfortingly to your maidservant, even though I do not belong to your maidservants."

At mealtime Boaz said to her, 14
"Come here, and eat some of the bread, and dip your piece in the sour wine."

So she seated herself beside the harvesters, and he handed her roasted grain. She ate until she was satisfied, 15 and had some left over. When she got up to glean, Boaz gave orders to his servants,

"Let her glean right among the sheaves, and do not be rude to her. Indeed pull out some bunches for her, and leave them for her to glean, and do not hinder her."

So she gleaned in the field until evening; then she beat out what she had gleaned, and it amounted to about an ephah of barley. She took it up, and 18 coming into the city, showed her mother-in-law what she had gleaned. Then she brought out and gave her what she had left over after being satisfied.

"Where did you glean today," her 19 mother-in-law said to her. "Where did you work? Blessed be he who took such notice of you!"

So she told her mother-in-law with whom she had worked.

"Boaz is the name of the man with whom I worked today," she said.

Then Naomi said to her daughter-in- 20 law,

"Blessed be he of the LORD, whose goodness has failed neither the living nor the dead!"

"The man is a relative of ours," Naomi said to her; "he is next after our next-of-kin."

"Furthermore," said Ruth, the Mo- 21 abitess, "he said to me, 'You must stay close by my servants until they have finished all my harvest.'"

"It is best, my daughter," Naomi 22 said to her daughter-in-law, Ruth, "that you should go out with his women, so as not to be molested in another field."

So she stayed close by the women 23 working for Boaz, gleaning until the end of both the barley and wheat harvests; then she returned to her mother-in-law.

RUTH'S APPEAL TO BOAZ,

3:1-18

8 Then her mother-in-law Naomi said to her,

"Should I not be seeking a home for you, my daughter, where you may be comfortable? Now then, what about your relative Boaz, with whose women you have been? See, he is going to winnow barley at the threshing-floor tonight. Wash and anoint yourself therefore, put on your best clothes, and go down to the threshing-floor; but do not let your presence be known to the man until he has finished eating and drinking. See to it, however, when he lies down, that you note the place where he lies; then go in, uncover his feet, and lie down yourself; he will let you know what to do."

15 "I will do just as you say," she responded.

16 So she went down to the threshing-floor, and did just as her mother-in-law had instructed her. Boaz, having eaten and drunk, had a sense of well-being and went to lie down at the end of the straw stack. Then she came in stealthily, uncovered his feet, and lay down.

18 At midnight the man started up, and turning over, discovered a woman lying at his feet!

19 "Who are you?" he said.

"I am Ruth, your maidservant," she said. "Take your maidservant in marriage; for you are next-of-kin."

20 "Blessed be you of the LORD, my girl!" he said. "This last kindness of yours is lovelier than the first, in that you have not run after the young men, either poor or rich. And now, my girl, have no fear; I will do for you all you ask; for all the council of my people know that you are a woman of worth.

22 But now, as matter of fact, I am really not next-of-kin, since there is another nearer than I who is next-of-kin. Stay here tonight, and then, in the morning, if he will do the duty of next-of-kin for you, good; let him do so; but if he does not wish to do the duty of next-of-kin for you, then, as the LORD lives, I will do so for you. Lie down until morning."

24 So she lay at his feet until morning, but got up before one could recognize another; for he said, "It must not be known that the woman came to the threshing-floor."

"Bring the mantle which you have on," he said, "and hold it out."

So she held it out, and he poured out six homers of barley, and put it on her shoulder; then she went back to the city, and came to her mother-in-law.

"How did you get along, my daughter?" she said.

Then she told her all that the man had done for her.

"These six homers of barley he gave to me," she said; "'For,' said he, 'you must not go back empty-handed to your mother-in-law.'"

"Wait, my daughter," she said, "until you learn how the matter turns out; for the man will not rest unless he settles the matter today."

RUTH'S MARRIAGE TO BOAZ AND THEIR DESCENDANTS,

4:1-22

Meanwhile Boaz went up to the city gate, and sat down there just as the next-of-kin was passing, of whom Boaz had spoken.

"Come over and sit down here somewhere," he said.

So he came over and sat down. Then Boaz got ten of the elders of the city, and said,

"Sit down here."

When they had seated themselves, he said to the next-of-kin,

"Naomi, who has come back from the country of Moab, is selling the piece of land which belonged to our relative, Elimelech; so I thought that I would tell you about it, suggesting that you buy it in the presence of those who are sitting here, and in the presence of the elders of my people. If you will redeem it, do so; but if you will not redeem it, then tell me, so that I may know; for there is no one but you to redeem it, and I come after you."

"I will redeem it," he said.

Then Boaz said,

"At the time that you buy the field from Naomi, you must also buy Ruth, the Moabitess, the widow of the deceased, in order to restore the name of the deceased to his estate."

Then the next-of-kin said,

"I cannot redeem it for myself, lest

I ruin my own estate. Use my right of redemption for yourself; for I cannot do so."

7 Now this was the ancient custom in Israel: to validate any transaction in the matter of the right of redemption and its conveyance, the one pulled off his sandal, and gave it to the other; this was the manner of attesting in Israel.

8 Accordingly, when the next-of-kin said to Boaz, "Buy it for yourself," he drew off his sandal. Then Boaz said to the elders and all the people,

"You are witnesses today that I am buying from Naomi all that belonged to Elimelech and all that belonged to Chilion and Mahlon. Also Ruth, the Moabitess, the widow of Mahlon, I am buying to be my wife, in order to restore the name of the dead to his estate, so that the name of the dead may not be cut off from among his relatives nor from the council of his home; you are witnesses today."

11 Whereupon all the people at the gate and the elders said,

"We are witnesses. May the LORD make the woman who is coming into your home like Rachel and Leah, both of whom built up the house of Israel; may you achieve wealth in Ephrath, and gain fame in Bethlehem; and from 12 the offspring that the LORD gives you by this young woman, may you have a house like the house of Perez, whom Tamar bore to Judah!"

So Boaz took Ruth, and she became 13 his wife; he had intercourse with her, and the LORD made her conceive, and she bore a son. Then the women said to 14 Naomi,

"Blessed be the LORD, who has not left you this day without a next-of-kin! May the boy's name become famous in Israel! He shall renew your youth, and 15 be the stay of your old age; for your daughter-in-law, who loves you, has borne him, who herself is more to you than seven sons."

Then Naomi took the child, and laid 16 him in her bosom, and became his nurse; and the women of the neighborhood 17 gave him a name, saying, "A son has been born to Naomi!" So they called his name Obed. He was the father of Jesse, the father of David.

Now this is the genealogy of Perez: 18 Perez was the father of Hezron, Hezron 19 of Ram, Ram of Amminadab, Ammin- 20 adab of Nahshon, Nahshon of Salmon, Salmon of Boaz, Boaz of Obed, Obed of 21 Jesse, and Jesse of David. 22

THE FIRST BOOK OF SAMUEL

THE BIRTH AND DEDICATION OF SAMUEL, 1:1-28

1 NOW there was a certain man of Ramah, a Zuphite of the highlands of Ephraim, whose name was Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Elihu, the son of Tohu, the son of Zuph, an Ephraimite, and he had two wives; the name of the one was Hannah, and that of the other Peninnah. Peninnah had children, but Hannah went childless.

2 This man used to go up from his city annually to worship and sacrifice to the LORD of hosts in Shiloh. Now the priests of the LORD there were Eli and his two sons, Hophni and Phinehas. 3 When therefore the accustomed day arrived that Elkanah sacrificed, he used to give portions to Peninnah his wife and to all her sons and daughters, while to Hannah he would give but one portion; however he loved Hannah; but the LORD had made her childless. Her fellow-wife also used to vex her bitterly on account of her misfortune, because the LORD had made her childless. So she did year by year; as often as they went up to the house of the LORD, she used to vex her; therefore she wept and could not eat. Accordingly Elkanah her husband said to her,

"Hannah, why do you weep? Why do you not eat, and why is your heart sad? Am I not dearer to you than ten sons?"

4 Now Hannah rose up, after they had eaten in Shiloh, and took her stand before the LORD. Meanwhile Eli the priest was sitting upon the seat beside the door-post of the temple of the LORD. She was very wretched and prayed to the LORD, and weeping bitterly, she vowed a vow and said,

"O LORD of hosts, if thou wilt indeed look on the affliction of thy maidservant, and remember me, and not forget thy maidservant, but will give unto thy maidservant a son, then will I give him to the LORD all the days of his life, and a razor shall never touch his head."

Now it happened, as she kept on praying for a long time before the LORD, that Eli's attention was called to her mouth. But Hannah herself was speaking inwardly; only her lips moved, while her voice was not heard; accordingly Eli took her to be a drunken woman. So Eli said to her,

"How long will you make yourself a drunken spectacle? Throw off your wine from you."

But Hannah answered and said, "Not so, sir. I am an unfortunate woman, I have drunk neither wine nor strong drink, but have been pouring out my heart before the LORD. Count not your maidservant for a base woman; for out of the abundance of my despair and vexation have I spoken thus far."

Then Eli answered and said, "Go in peace; and the God of Israel grant your petition that you have asked of him."

"Let your maidservant find favor in your eyes," she said.

Then the woman went her way to the sacrificial chamber, and she ate and drank with her husband, and her countenance was no more sad.

So they rose up early in the morning, and having prostrated themselves before the LORD, they returned, and came to their house at Ramah. Then Elkanah sought offspring of Hannah his wife, and the LORD remembered her, so that Hannah conceived; and when the time came around, Hannah bore a son, and called his name Samuel; for she said,

"I have asked him of the LORD."

Again the man Elkanah and all his house went up to sacrifice the annual sacrifice to the LORD in Shiloh, and to keep his vow. But Hannah did not go up; for she said to her husband,

"When the child is weaned, then I shall bring him, that he may appear in the presence of the LORD, and there abide forever."

Thereupon Elkanah her husband said to her,

"Do what seems best to you; remain until you have weaned him; only the LORD establish your words."

So the woman remained and nursed her son, until he was weaned; and when she had weaned him, she took him up with her, along with a three-year-old bull and an ephah of meal and a skin of wine. Thus she came to the house of the LORD in Shiloh, accompanied by the child; and they slew the bull and Hannah brought the child to Eli, and said,

"O sir! as surely as you live, sir, I am the woman that was standing here in your presence, engaged in prayer unto the LORD. I prayed earnestly for this boy; and the LORD has given me my request which I asked of him. Therefore I have dedicated him to the LORD; as long as he lives he is set apart to the LORD."

And he worshiped the LORD there.

HANNAH'S SONG OF PRAISE,

2:1-10

- 2 Then Hannah prayed and said:
 "My heart exults in the LORD;
 My strength is exalted through my God.
 My mouth is enlarged against my foes,
 Because I rejoice in thy salvation.
- 2 "There is none holy like the LORD;
 (there is none beside thee);
 There is none righteous like our God.
- 3 "Boast no more so very proudly;
 Let not arrogance go forth from your mouth;
 For the LORD is a God of knowledge,
 And by him actions are accounted.
- 4 "The bows of the heroes are shattered;
 While they that are feeble gird on might.
- 5 They that were replete have hired out for bread;
 While the hungry have ceased to toil.
 The barren has borne seven;
 While the one rich in children languishes alone
- 6 "The LORD slays and makes alive;
 He brings down to Sheol and raises up.

The LORD impoverishes, and he makes rich;
 He brings low, he also exalts.

"He raises up the poor from the dust;
 He exalts the needy from the refuse heap,
 To make them sit with the noble,
 And inherit a seat of honor;
 For the pillars of the earth are the LORD'S,
 And he has set the world upon them.

"He will guard the feet of his pious ones;
 But the wicked shall be cut off in darkness;
 For not by might shall a man prevail.

"The adversaries of the LORD will be in dismay;
 Against them will he thunder in heaven.
 The LORD will judge the ends of the earth;
 And he will give strength to his king,
 And exalt the power of his anointed."

So she left him there before the LORD, and went back to Ramah. Thus the child began to minister to the LORD in the presence of Eli the priest.

THE SIN AND DOOM OF THE HOUSE OF ELI, 2:12-36

Now the sons of Eli were unscrupulous men. They did not regard the LORD, nor the rightful dues of the priest from the people. Whenever any man was about to make a sacrifice, an attendant of the priest would come, while the meat was still boiling, and with a three-pronged fork in his hand, he would thrust into the pot, or kettle, or cauldron, or vessel; all that the fork brought up the priest would take for himself. So they used to do to all the Israelites who came there to sacrifice to the LORD in Shiloh. Also, before they burned the fat, the attendant of the priest would come, and say to the man about to sacrifice,

"Give meat to roast for the priest; for he will not accept boiled meat from you, but raw."
 Should the man, however, say to him,
 "They will surely burn the fat first of all, and then take to your heart's content."

"No, but you shall give it now," he would say, "and if not, I will surely take it by force."

17 Thus the sin of the young men was exceedingly great in the sight of the LORD; for the men despised the offering of the LORD.

18 Meanwhile Samuel continued to minister in the presence of the LORD, as a lad, girl with a linen apron. Moreover his mother used to make for him a little outer garment, and bring it up to him each year, when she went up with her husband to offer the annual sacrifice.

20 And Eli would bless Elkanah and his wife, and would say,

"The LORD reward you with offspring from this woman, because of the object of her petition which she dedicated to the LORD."

21 Then they would go to their own home. So the LORD visited Hannah, and she conceived and bore three sons and two daughters. Meanwhile the lad Samuel grew up in the service of the LORD.

22 Now Eli was exceedingly old; and when he kept hearing all that his sons were habitually doing to all Israel, how they lay with the women who served at the door of the tent of meeting, he said to them,

"Why do you do according to these evil rumors which I am constantly hearing from all the people? No, my sons; for the report is not a good one which I hear the people of the LORD are spreading abroad. If a man sin against a man, God will mediate for him; but if a man sin against the LORD, who will intercede for him?"

But they would not listen to the voice of their father; for it was the pleasure of the LORD to destroy them.

26 Now as the child Samuel grew older, more and more he won the approval both of the LORD and of men.

17 Now there came a man of God to Eli, and said to him,

"Thus says the LORD: 'I did indeed reveal myself to the house of your father, when they were in Egypt subject to the house of Pharaoh; and I chose him out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to go up to my altar, to burn incense, to wear a priestly apron before me; and I gave to the house of your father all the fire offerings of the Israelites. Why do you look with an envious eye upon my sacrifice and my offering which I commanded, and honor your sons above me, by feeding greedily in my presence upon the choicest of all the offerings of Israel?' Therefore it is the oracle of the LORD, the God of Israel, 'I did indeed say that your house and the house of your father should prosper before me forever'; but now it is the oracle of the LORD, 'Far be it from me; for them that honor me I will honor, and they that despise me shall be lightly esteemed. Behold, the days are about to come, when I will cut off your strength, and the strength of your father's house, that there shall not be an old man in your house. You shall also look upon distress, eyeing enviously all the prosperity which I will bestow on Israel; and there shall not be an old man in your house forever. That man of you whom I shall not cut off from my altar shall be left to weep out his eyes, and to eat out his heart; and all the increase of your house shall die by the sword of men. This then is to be the sign to you, that shall come upon your two sons, Hophni and Phinehas: both of them shall die on the same day. But I will raise up for myself a faithful priest, who will do according to that which is in my mind and in my heart; and I will build for him a sure house, and he shall continue before my anointed forever. The time shall also come, when everyone that is left in your house shall come to supplicate him for a piece of money or a loaf of bread, and shall say, "Attach me, I pray, to one of the priestly offices, that I may not lack a morsel of bread." "'

THE CALL OF SAMUEL, 3:1—4:1a

The child Samuel was ministering in the presence of the LORD before Eli. And the word of the LORD was rare in those days; there was no frequent vision. Now it happened at that time, as Eli was lying down in his place (his eyesight had begun to fail, so that he could not see), and the lamp of God had not yet gone out, and Samuel was lying down in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, that the LORD called,

"Samuel! Samuel!"

- "Here I am!" he said.
 5 So he ran to Eli, and said,
 "Here I am; for you called me."
 "I did not call," he said, "go back and lie down."
 6 So he went and lay down. Then the LORD called once again,
 "Samuel! Samuel!"
 Again Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said,
 "Here I am; for you called me."
 "I did not call, my son," he said, "go back and lie down."
 7 Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the word of the LORD yet revealed to him. So when the LORD called Samuel again the third time, he arose and went to Eli, and said,
 "Here I am; for you called me."
 9 Then Eli perceived that the LORD was calling the lad. Therefore Eli said to Samuel,
 "Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he calls you, you shall say, 'Speak, LORD; for thy servant hears.'"
 So Samuel went and lay down in his place. Then the LORD came, and took his stand, and called as at other times,
 "Samuel! Samuel!"
 So Samuel said,
 "Speak, for thy servant hears."
 11 Then the LORD said to Samuel,
 "Behold, I am about to do a thing in Israel, at which both ears of every-12 one that hears it will tingle. At that time I will execute against Eli all that I have spoken concerning his house, from 13 beginning to end. You shall tell him that I am about to judge his house forever, for the wrong-doing which he knew, because his sons were blaspheming God, and he did not rebuke them.
 14 Therefore I have sworn to the house of Eli, that the wrong-doing of Eli's house shall not be expiated by sacrifice or offering forever."
 15 So Samuel lay until morning; then he rose early in the morning, and opened the double doors of the house of the LORD. But Samuel feared to show Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and said, "Samuel, my son."
 "Here I am," he said.
 17 "What is the thing that he spoke to you?" he said. "Do not, I beg of you, hide it from me. May God requite you and worse, if you hide anything from me of the whole matter which he spoke to you."

Then Samuel told him everything, and concealed nothing from him.

"It was the LORD," he said, "let him do what is good in his sight."

Thus Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him, and he let none of his words fall to the ground. All Israel from Dan even to Beersheba knew that Samuel was one accredited as a prophet of the LORD, since the LORD continued to reveal himself in Shiloh; for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel. But Eli was exceedingly old, and his sons kept right on making their conduct hateful before the LORD. Thus the word of Samuel came to all Israel.

WARS WITH THE PHILISTINES,

4:1b-7:14

Now it happened in those days, that the Philistines mustered against Israel for war; and Israel went out to meet the Philistines in battle, and encamped at Ebenezer, while the Philistines encamped in Aphek. Then the Philistines drew up in line of battle to meet Israel; and when the battle became general Israel was beaten by the Philistines, about four thousand men being slain on the field of battle. So when the people reached the camp, the older men of Israel said,

"Why has the LORD put us to rout today before the Philistines? Let us take the ark of the covenant of our God from Shiloh, that it may come into our midst, and deliver us from the power of our enemies."

So the people sent to Shiloh; and they brought from there the ark of the covenant of the LORD of hosts who is seated upon the cherubim; and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were there with the ark of the covenant of God.

Now when the ark of the covenant of the LORD reached the camp, all Israel gave a great cheer, so that the earth echoed. But when the Philistines heard the noise of the cheering, they said,
 "What is the meaning of this great sound of cheering in the camp of the Hebrews?"

Then they learned that the ark of the LORD had arrived at the camp. And the Philistines were afraid, for they said,

"The gods have come to them to the camp."

8 "Alas for us!" they said, "for nothing like this has happened before. Alas for us! who shall deliver us from the power of these majestic gods? These are the gods that struck down the Egyptians with every sort of calamity and plague. 9 Strengthen yourselves, and be real men, O Philistines, lest you become slaves to the Hebrews, as they have been to you; be real men and fight."

10 So the Philistines fought, and Israel was defeated, and they fled in confusion, every man for himself; and the number killed was very great indeed, for there fell of Israel thirty thousand 11 footmen. And the ark of God was taken; and the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, perished.

12 Now a man of Benjamin ran from the battle line, and came to Shiloh the same day, with his clothes torn, and with 13 earth upon his head. Just as he arrived, Eli was sitting on the seat beside the gate, anxiously watching the road, because he was deeply stirred regarding the ark of God. Then as the man came to tell it in the city, all the city was in 14 uproar; and when Eli heard the noise of the outcry, he said,

"What is this confused noise?"

Then the man came in haste and told 15 Eli. (Now Eli was ninety-eight years old, and his eyes were set, so that he 16 could not see.) The man said to Eli,

"I am he who came from the camp, for I fled today from the battle line."

"What has happened, my son?" he said.

17 He that brought the tidings answered and said,

"Israel has fled before the Philistines, and likewise there has been a great slaughter among the people, and your two sons also, Hophni and Phinehas, are dead, and the ark of God has been taken."

18 Then it was, as he mentioned the ark of God, that Eli fell from his seat backward through the gate opening; and his neck was broken and he expired, for the man was old and heavy. He had judged Israel forty years.

19 Moreover, his daughter-in-law, the wife of Phinehas, was about to become a mother. When she heard the report in regard to the capture of the ark of God, and that her father-in-law and her husband were dead, she reclined and gave birth; for she was in travail. At 20 about the time of her death the attending women said to her,

"Fear not; for you have borne a son."

Yet she neither answered nor gave heed. But she named the child Ichabod, 21 saying,

"The glory is departed from Israel."

Because the ark of God was captured and because of her father-in-law and her husband, she said, 22

"The glory is departed from Israel;

For the ark of God is taken."

Now the Philistines had captured the 5 ark of God, and taken it from Ebenezer to Ashdod. The Philistines also took 2 the ark of God, and brought it to the house of Dagon and set it up by the side of Dagon. But when the people of Ash- 3 dod arose early the next day and went to the house of Dagon, they looked and there was Dagon fallen face downward upon the ground before the ark of the LORD. So they lifted up Dagon and re- 4 stored him to his place. But when they arose early on the morning following, there was Dagon fallen face downward upon the ground before the ark of the LORD; and the head of Dagon and both the palms of his hands were cut off upon the threshold, only his body being left. Therefore neither the priests of Dagon 5 nor any who enter Dagon's house tread on the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod to this day, but leap over it.

The hand of the LORD also was heavy 6 upon the Ashdodites, and he ravaged them, and brought upon them plague-boils, both upon Ashdod and its borders. When the men of Ashdod saw that it 7 was so, they said,

"The ark of the God of Israel shall not remain with us; for his hand is severe upon us, and upon Dagon our god."

Accordingly they sent and brought 8 together all the city rulers of the Philistines, and said,

"What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel?"

"Let the ark of the God of Israel be brought around to Gath," they said.

So they brought the ark of the God of 9 Israel around. But after they had brought it around, the hand of the LORD was against the city—there was a very great panic—and he smote the men of the city, both young and old, 10 that plague-boils broke out upon them.

- 12 Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. But as soon as the ark of God came to Ekron, the Ekronites cried out, saying,

"They have brought around the ark of the God of Israel to us, to slay us and our people."

- 11 They sent therefore and gathered together all the city rulers of the Philistines, and said,

"Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it return to its own place and not kill us and our people."

- 12 For a deadly panic raged throughout the entire city; the hand of God was very heavy there. The men who did not die were stricken with plague-boils; and the cry of the city for help arose to heaven.

- 6 Now the ark of the LORD had been in the territory of the Philistines seven months, when the Philistines called for the priests and the diviners, saying,

"What shall we do with the ark of the LORD? Show us how we shall send it to its place."

- 3 "If you are going to send away the ark of the God of Israel," they said, "do not send it away empty, but be sure to return to him a guilt-offering. Then you will be healed and it shall be made known to you why his hand is not removed from you."

- 4 "What should be the guilt-offering which we should return to him?" they said.

- "Five plague-boils of gold," they said, "and five golden mice, according to the number of the city rulers of the Philistines; for one plague was upon you and upon your city rulers. Therefore you should make images of your plague-boils and images of your mice that ravage the land; and give glory to the God of Israel; perhaps he will relax the grip of his hand from you and from your gods and from your land. Why then should you make your minds stubborn, as the Egyptians and Pharaoh made their minds stubborn? Was it not after he had flouted them that they let them go, and they departed? Now therefore take and make ready a new cart, and two milch cows upon which there has never been a yoke; and hitch the cows to the cart, but keep their calves behind them at home. Take the ark of the LORD and place it in the cart and put in a box at its side the objects of gold which you must surely return to him as a guilt-offering. Then send it off that it may be on its way. But observe, if it goes up on the way to its own territory to Bethshemesh, it is he who has done us this great harm; but if not, then we shall know that his hand did not touch us; we simply met with an accident."

Accordingly the men did so, and took two milch cows and hitched them to the cart, and shut up their calves in the house. They put the ark of the LORD in the cart, and the box with the golden mice and the images of their plague-boils. The cows went straight in the direction of Bethshemesh, keeping to one highway, and lowing as they went along. They turned neither to the right nor the left; and the city rulers of the Philistines were proceeding along after them as far as the border of Bethshemesh. Now the inhabitants of Bethshemesh were reaping their wheat harvest in the valley; and they lifted up their eyes and saw the ark, and came with rejoicing to meet it. But when the cart came into the field of Joshua the Bethshemeshite, there it stopped, where there was a huge stone. So they broke up the wood of the cart and offered the cows as a burnt-offering to the LORD. Also the Levites took down the ark of the LORD and the box that was beside it, in which were the golden objects, and set them upon the great stone; and the men of Bethshemesh offered burnt-offerings and sacrificed sacrifices on that day to the LORD. When the five city rulers of the Philistines saw it, they returned that day to Ekron.

These are the golden plague-boils which the Philistines returned as a guilt-offering to the LORD: one for Ashdod, one for Gaza, one for Askelon, one for Gath, one for Ekron. But the golden mice corresponded to the number of all the cities of the Philistines belonging to the five city rulers, including both fortified cities and country villages. The great stone also is a witness, beside which they caused the ark of the LORD to rest. To this day it is in the field of Joshua the Bethshemeshite.

The sons of Jechoniah, however, did not rejoice with the men of Bethshemesh, when they looked upon the ark of the LORD. Therefore he smote among them seventy men (fifty thousand men) and the people mourned because the LORD had made a great slaughter among the people. Therefore the men of Bethshemesh said,

"Who is able to stand before the LORD, this holy God? And to whom shall he go up from us?"

Then they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Kirjath-jearim, saying,

"The Philistines have brought back the ark of the LORD. Come down and take it up to you."

Accordingly the men of Kirjath-jearim came and took up the ark of the LORD, and brought it into the house of Abinadab on the hill, and he consecrated Eleazar his son to have charge of the ark of the LORD. So from the day that the ark found lodgment in Kirjath-jearim, the time ran on, and it was twenty years.

Moreover all the house of Israel sought after the LORD. Then Samuel spoke to all the house of Israel, saying,

"If with all your heart you are turning to the LORD, put away the foreign gods and the Ashtarts from your midst, and direct your attention toward the LORD and serve him alone that he may deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines."

So the Israelites put away the Baals and the Ashtarts, and served the LORD alone.

Accordingly Samuel said, "Assemble all Israel at Mizpeh that I may intercede on your behalf with the LORD."

So they assembled at Mizpeh, and drew water and poured it out before the LORD, and fasted on that day, saying, "We have sinned against the LORD."

Samuel also judged the Israelites in Mizpeh; and when the Philistines heard that the Israelites were assembled together at Mizpeh, the city rulers of the Philistines went up against Israel. But when the Israelites heard of it, they were afraid of the Philistines.

Then the Israelites said to Samuel, "Cease not to cry out to the LORD our God for us, that he may save us from the power of the Philistines."

Accordingly Samuel took a sucking lamb and offered it as a burnt-offering to the LORD. Samuel also cried out to the LORD in behalf of Israel, and the LORD answered him; for just as Samuel was offering the burnt-offering, the Philistines came on for an attack upon Israel; but the LORD thundered with a mighty voice that day against the Philistines, and threw them into confusion and they were overcome before Israel. Whereupon the men of Israel went forth from Mizpeh and pursued the Philistines and harassed them until they were below Bethcar.

Then Samuel took a stone and set it between Mizpeh and Yeshana and called its name Ebenezer, for he said,

"Hitherto the LORD has helped us."

Thus the Philistines were humbled and came no more into the territory of Israel. The hand of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel. Also the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel were restored to Israel, from Ekron even to Gath; and Israel rescued their territory from the power of the Philistines. Thus there was peace between Israel and the Amorites.

THE CHOICE OF SAUL AS KING, 7:15—12:25

Now Samuel judged Israel all the days of his life. He used to go around as often as once a year in succession to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mizpeh; and he used to judge Israel in all these places. The end of his circuit was Ramah, for there was his home; there too he judged Israel; and he built there an altar for the LORD.

But as Samuel grew old, he established his sons as judges over Israel. The name of his eldest son was Joel, and that of his second, Abijah; they were judges in Beersheba. However, his sons did not follow his example, but became grasping for gain by methods of violence and received bribes and perverted justice.

Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and they said to him,

"Consider, you have become old and your sons do not follow in your footsteps. Now set up for us a king to judge us like all the nations."

But the thing was evil in the sight of Samuel, when they said,

"Give us a king to judge us."

Nevertheless Samuel prayed earnest-

7 ly unto the LORD; and the LORD said to Samuel,

"Listen to the voice of the people according to all that they say to you; for they have not rejected you, but they have rejected me from being king over 8 them. Like all the deeds which they have done to me from the day I brought them up from Egypt even to this day, inasmuch as they have forsaken me and served other gods, so they are also doing 9 to you. Now therefore listen to their utterance, except that you shall certainly warn them, and show them the procedure of the king who shall reign over them."

10 Then Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who were asking of 11 him a king; and he said,

"This will be the procedure of the king who shall reign over you: he will take your sons and appoint them for himself for his chariots and for his horsemen; and they shall run before his 12 chariots; and he will appoint for himself commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, and some to do his plowing and to reap his harvests and make his implements of war and the 13 equipment for his chariots. He will take your daughters for perfumers, for 14 cooks, and for bakers. He will take the best of your fields and your vineyards and your olive orchards, and give them 15 to his servants. He will take the tenth of your grain crops and of your vineyards and give it to his eunuchs and to 16 his servants. He will take your male and female slaves, and the best of your cattle and your asses, and make use of 17 them for his work. He will take a tenth of your flocks; and you yourselves will 18 become his slaves. Then you will cry out on that day because of your king whom you will have chosen for yourselves; but the LORD will not answer you on that day."

19 But the people refused to listen to the voice of Samuel, and said,

20 "No but there shall be a king over us, that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us and go forth before us and fight our battles."

21 When Samuel had heard all the words of the people, he repeated them in the 22 presence of the LORD. Then the LORD said to Samuel,

"Listen to their appeal and make them a king."

Samuel then said to the men of Israel, "Go every man to his city."

Now there was a man of Benjamin, 9 whose name was Kish, the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Becorath, the son of Aphiah, a Benjaminite, a well-to-do person; and he had a son 2 whose name was Saul, a handsome young man; and there was not a man among the Israelites more handsome than he. From his shoulders and upwards, he was taller than any of the people.

Now the she-asses of Kish, Saul's 3 father, were lost. Accordingly Kish said to Saul his son,

"Take now one of the lads with you and arise, go and seek the she-asses."

So they passed through the highlands 4 of Ephraim and the land of Shalisha, but they did not find them. Then they passed through the land of Shaalim, but they were not there. They also passed through the land of the South, but did not find them. As they came into the 5 land of Zuph, Saul said to his servant who was with him,

"Come, let us go back, lest my father cease to be concerned for the asses and become anxious for us."

But he said to him, 6 "See now, there is a man of God in this city, and the man is held in honor; all that he speaks is sure to prove true. Now let us go there; perhaps he can tell us of our mission on which we have started."

Then Saul said to his servant, 7 "Very well, suppose we go, but what shall we offer to the man? for the provisions are used up from our sacks, and there is no present to offer to the man of God. What have we?"

The lad answered Saul again, and 8 said,

"See, there is in my possession a fourth of a shekel of silver, and you shall give it to the man of God that he may inform us regarding our mission."

(Formerly, in Israel, when a man 9 went to inquire of God, thus he said,

"Come, let us go to the seer"; for he who is now called a prophet was earlier called a seer.)

Then Saul said to his servant, 10 "Your advice is good; come, let us go."

So they went to the city where the man of God was.

11 As they were going up the ascent to the city, they met maidens going forth to draw water and said to them,

"Is there a seer here?"

12 They answered them and said,

"There is; he is directly before you.

13 He has just now come to the city; for the people have a sacrifice today on the high place. As you come to the city, you may find him at once before he goes up to the high place to eat; for the people will not eat until he arrives, for he is accustomed to bless the sacrifice; afterward the invited guests eat. Now therefore go up; for you may immediately meet him."

14 So they went up to the city. They were just about to enter the city, when, behold, Samuel was already coming out toward them, to go up to the high place.

15 Now the day before Saul came, the LORD had communicated to Samuel the following message:

16 "About this time tomorrow I will send you a man out of the land of Benjamin and you shall anoint him to be a leader of my people Israel. He shall deliver my people from the power of the Philistines; for I have seen the affliction of my people and their cry has come to me."

17 Thus when Samuel saw Saul, the LORD indicated to him,

"Behold the man of whom I spoke to you! He it is who shall bear rule over my people."

18 Then Saul approached Samuel in the gate, and said,

"Pray tell me, where is the house of the seer?"

19 Samuel answered Saul and said,

"I am the seer; go up before me to the high place, for you shall eat with me today; and in the morning I will gladly further your journey, and tell you all that is on your mind. As for your asses that were lost three days ago, dismiss them from your mind, for they have been found. For whom is all that is desirable in Israel reserved? Is it not for you and for your father's house?"

20 But Saul answered and said,

"Am I not a Benjaminite, from the smallest of the tribes of Israel, and is not my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? Why then have you spoken to me after this manner?"

But Samuel took Saul and his servant 22 and brought them to the sacred hall and gave them a place at the head of the guests, who were about thirty persons.

Samuel also said to the cook,

23 "Bring the portion I gave you, which I told you to put aside."

Accordingly the cook took up the leg 24 and the fat tail and set them before Saul. Then Samuel said,

"Behold that which was reserved to set before you! Eat! for it was being kept for you until the appointed time, before I invited the people."

So Saul ate with Samuel that day.

Now after they came down from the 25 high place into the city, they spread a bed for Saul upon the roof, and he retired. Then at dawn Samuel called to 26 Saul on the roof, saying,

"Up, that I may further your journey."

So Saul arose, and he and Samuel went out into the street. As they were 27 going down near the city limits, Samuel said to Saul,

"Tell the servant to pass on before us (and he passed on), but do you halt at this point that I may make known to you the word of God."

Then Samuel took a vial of oil, and 10 poured it on his head, and kissed him and said,

"Has not the LORD anointed you to be a leader over his people Israel? You shall rule over the people of the LORD and deliver them from the power of their enemies round about; and this shall be the sign that the LORD has anointed you to be a leader over his heritage: when you go from me today 2 you will find two men at Rachel's tomb, in the territory of Benjamin at Zelzah; and they will say to you, 'The asses which you went to seek are found, and now your father has dismissed the matter of the asses only to become anxious about you, saying, "What shall I do regarding my son?"' Then you shall 3 hasten on from there until you come to the oak of Tabor; and there three men going up to God to Bethel will meet you, one carrying three kids, and another carrying three loaves of bread, and another carrying a skin of wine. They will greet you and give you two 4 loaves of bread which you shall take

5 from their hands. Afterward you will come to the hill of God, where there is a Philistine post; and furthermore when you come there to the city, you will meet a band of prophets coming down from the high place with a lyre, a tambourine, a flute, and a harp before them; and they will be prophesying 6 ecstatically. Then the spirit of the LORD shall suddenly seize upon you, and you shall prophesy ecstatically with them and you shall be changed 7 into another man. When these signs come to you, do as the occasion demands; for God is with you. You shall go down before me to Gilgal; and behold, I shall be coming down to you, to offer burnt-offerings and to sacrifice thank-offerings. Wait seven days until I come to you and show you what you shall do."

9 Accordingly when he turned about to leave Samuel, God gave him another heart, and all these signs took place 10 that day. When they came there to the hill, behold, a band of prophets met him; and the spirit of God suddenly seized upon him, and he prophesied 11 ecstatically among them. When all his former acquaintances saw that he really prophesied with the prophets, the people said to one another,

"What is this that has happened to the son of Kish? Is Saul also among the prophets?"

12 A bystander answered and said, "But who is their father?"

Therefore it became a proverb,

"Is Saul also among the prophets?"

13 Now when he had finished prophesying, he went home.

14 Saul's uncle also said to him and to his servant,

"Where have you been?"

"To seek the asses," he said, "and when we saw that they were not to be found, we went to Samuel."

15 Then Saul's uncle said,

"Tell me, I pray, what Samuel said to you."

16 So Saul said to his uncle,

"He told us emphatically that the asses were found."

But the matter of the kingdom, of which Samuel had spoken, he did not mention to him.

17 Thereafter Samuel summoned the 18 people unto the LORD to Mizpeh; and he said to the Israelites,

"Thus says the LORD the God of Israel: 'I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and I delivered you from the power of the Egyptians, and from the power of all the kingdoms that were oppressing you. But you yourselves have 19 this day despised your God, who himself is your savior from all your calamities and your distresses, and you have said, "No, but a king you shall set over us." Now therefore take your stand before the LORD by your tribes and by your thousands.'"

Then Samuel caused all the tribes of 20 Israel to approach, and the tribe of Benjamin was taken. He caused the 21 tribe of Benjamin to approach by its clans, and the clan of the Matrites was taken; and he caused the clan of the Matrites to approach man by man, and Saul, the son of Kish, was taken; but when they sought him, he could not be found. Therefore they asked of the 22 LORD further,

"Did the man come hither?"

And the Lord said,

"Behold, he has hidden himself among the baggage."

So they ran and brought him from 23 there; and as he took his stand in the midst of the people, he was taller than any of the people from his shoulders upward. So Samuel said to all the 24 people,

"Do you see him whom the LORD has chosen? For there is not his peer among all the people."

Then all the people gave a mighty shout and said,

"Long live the king!"

Samuel also described to the people 25 the nature of the kingdom; and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. Thereupon Samuel sent all the people away, each one to his own home. Saul also went to his home at Gibeah; 26 and there went with him some brave men whose hearts the LORD had touched. But there were some worth- 27 less individuals who said,

"How shall this man save us?"

Thus they despised him, and brought him no present.

Now it happened after about a 111 month that Nahash the Ammonite went up and besieged Jabesh-gilead; and all the men of Jabesh said to Nahash,

"Make a treaty with us and we will serve you."

2 But Nahash the Ammonite said to them,

"On this condition will I make terms with you: that I gouge out the right eye of every one of you, thereby making it a reproach against all Israel."

3 But the elders of Jabesh said to him, "Give us seven days respite, that we may send messengers through all the territory of Israel. Then if there should be none to save us we will come out to you."

4 Thus the messengers came to Gibeah of Saul and stated these things in the hearing of the people, and all the people raised a cry of lamentation, just as Saul was coming from the field behind the oxen; and Saul said,

"What is the trouble with the people that they are weeping?"

6 Then they related to him the words of the men of Jabesh; and the spirit of the LORD suddenly seized upon Saul when he heard these words, and he became violently enraged. So he took a yoke of oxen, and cut them in pieces, and dispatched them throughout all the territory of Israel by the hand of messengers, saying,

"Whoever does not come forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done to his oxen."

7 Then a terror from the LORD fell upon the people, and they rallied with one accord. Thus he mustered them in Bezek; and the Israelites were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. Then he said to the messengers who came,

"Thus shall you say to the men of Jabesh-gilead: 'Tomorrow, by the time the sun is hot, deliverance shall come to you.'"

8 So the messengers went and told the men of Jabesh, and they were glad.

10 Therefore the men of Jabesh said,

"Tomorrow we will come out to you, and you may do to us whatever you please."

11 Accordingly on the day following, Saul divided the people into three contingents; and they came into the midst of the camp at the morning watch, and they fought the Ammonites until the heat of the day, even until those who remained scattered, so that no two of them were left together.

12 Then the people said to Samuel, "Who is he that says, 'Saul shall not reign over us?' Bring the men that we may put them to death."

13 "There shall not a man be put to death today," said Saul, "for today the LORD has brought about deliverance in Israel."

14 Then Samuel said to the people, "Come, and let us go to Gilgal and renew there the kingdom."

15 So all the people went to Gilgal, and there Samuel anointed Saul king before the LORD in Gilgal; and there they sacrificed thank-offerings before the LORD; and there Samuel and all the men of Israel held a great celebration.

12 Then Samuel said to all Israel,

"See, I have yielded to your plea in all that you have said to me and have appointed a king over you. Behold now the king who is to go out and in before you; but as for me, I am old and gray, and my sons are here with you; and I have conducted myself before you from my youth unto this day. Here I stand; testify against me before the LORD, and before his anointed: whose ox have I taken, or whose ass have I taken, or whom have I oppressed? Whom have I defrauded, or from whose hand have I taken a ransom, or a pair of sandals? Testify against me and I will restore it to you."

4 "You have not oppressed us," they said, "or defrauded us, nor have you taken anything from anyone's hand."

5 Therefore he said to them,

"The LORD is witness against you, and his anointed is witness this day, that you have found nothing in my hand."

"He is witness," they said.

6 Then Samuel said to the people,

"The LORD is witness, who appointed Moses and Aaron and who brought your fathers up out of the land of Egypt. Now therefore take your stand that I may enter into court with you before the LORD and let me declare to you all the righteous acts of the LORD, which he did to you and to your fathers. When Jacob went to Egypt, and the Egyptians afflicted them, your fathers cried to the LORD, and the LORD sent Moses and Aaron, and they brought your fathers out of Egypt, and he made them dwell in this place. But they forgot the LORD their God, and he sold them into the hand of Sisera, commander of the army of Hazor, and into the hand of the Philistines, and into the hand of the king of Moab; and they fought against them. Then they cried to the LORD and said, "We have sinned because we have forsaken the Lord and served the Baals and the Ashtarts. But now deliver us out of the hand of our enemies, and we will serve thee."

11 So the LORD sent Jerubbaal, and Barak, and Jephthah, and Samson, and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies round about you so that you dwelt in safety. And you saw that Nahash, king of the Ammonites, came against you. Accordingly you said to me, 'No, but a king shall reign over us,' although the LORD your God was your king.

13 "Now therefore see the king whom you have chosen and whom you have requested; for the LORD has now set a king over you. If you will fear the LORD and serve him and listen to his voice, and not rebel against the command of the LORD, and both you and the king who reigns over you follow the LORD your God, it is well. But if you will not listen to the voice of the LORD, but rebel against the command of the LORD, then shall the hand of the LORD be against you and your king to destroy you. Now therefore take your stand and see this great thing which the LORD is about to do before your eyes. Is it not wheat harvest today? I will call upon the LORD to send thunder and rain; and you shall know and see that your wickedness is great, which you have done in the sight of the LORD in asking for yourselves a king."

18 So Samuel called upon the LORD, and the LORD sent thunder and rain that day; and all the people were greatly afraid of the LORD and Samuel.

19 Then all the people said to Samuel, "Intercede with the LORD your God in behalf of your servants that we die not; for we have added to all our sins the wickedness of asking for ourselves a king."

20 But Samuel said to the people, "Fear not; you have indeed done all this evil, yet do not turn aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart; and do not turn aside after vain things which cannot profit or deliver; for they are vain. For the LORD because of his great name will not cast away his people; for the LORD has undertaken to make you a people for himself. Moreover, as for me, far be it from me that I should sin against the LORD in ceasing to intercede on your behalf; but I will instruct you in the good and the right way. Only fear the LORD and serve him in truth with all your heart, for see what a great thing he has done in your presence. But if you persist in wrong-doing, both you and your king shall be swept away."

THE REJECTION OF KING SAUL, 13:1-18

Saul was . . . . . years old when he began to reign; and he reigned . . . . . years over Israel. Now Saul chose for himself three thousand men of Israel: two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and on the mountain of Bethel, and a thousand were with Jonathan his son in Gibeah of Benjamin. But the rest of the people he had sent away, each to his home. Now Jonathan overcame the garrison of the Philistines that was in Gibeah. Thus the Philistines heard the report: the Hebrews have revolted. But Saul had meantime sent the trumpet call throughout all the land; and all Israel heard the report that Saul had smitten the garrison of the Philistines, and also that Israel was now in bad odor with the Philistines. Accordingly the people were summoned after Saul to Gilgal. Likewise the Philistines were gathered together to fight with Israel, three thousand chariots and six thousand horsemen, and people as numerous as the sand which is on the seashore; and they came up, and encamped in Michmash, on the east side of Bethaven. When the men of Israel saw that they were in jeopardy (for the people were at their wits' end), the people hid themselves in caves, in thickets, in rocky crags, in caverns, and in pits. They also crossed the fords of the Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead; but Saul was still in Gilgal, and all the people were on the point of desertion. Thus he waited seven days according to the appointed time which Samuel had said; but Samuel did not come to Gilgal, and the peo-

9 ple were scattering from him. Therefore Saul said,

"Bring here to me the burnt-offering and the thank-offerings."

10 So he offered the burnt-offering. Then just as he finished offering the burnt-offering, Samuel came; and Saul went 11 out to welcome him. But Samuel said,

"What have you done?"

Then Saul said,

"Because I saw that the people were scattering from me and you did not come within the appointed time, and the Philistines were gathering at 12 Michmash, I said, 'Now the Philistines will come down against me at Gilgal, and I shall not have appeased the LORD.' So I forced myself and offered the burnt-offering."

13 Then Samuel said to Saul,

"You have acted foolishly, in that you have not kept the command of the LORD your God, which he commanded you; for now would the LORD have established your kingdom over Israel

14 forever. But now your kingdom shall not continue. The LORD has sought out a man after his own heart, and the LORD has appointed him a leader over his people, because you have not kept that which the LORD commanded you."

15 Then Samuel arose and went up from Gilgal and proceeded on his way; and the rest of the people went up after Saul to meet the men of war, and they went from Gilgal to Gibeah of Benjamin. Saul also numbered the people

16 that were left with him, about six hundred men. Thus Saul and Jonathan his son, together with the people that remained with them, were staying in Gibeah of Benjamin, while the Philistines encamped in Michmash. Mean-

17 while raiders went out of the camp of the Philistines in three detachments, one detachment turning in the direction of 18 Ophrah in the land of Shual, and another detachment turning in the direction of Beth-horon, and another detachment turning in the direction of the hill that looks down over the valley of Zeboim toward the desert.

WAR WITH THE PHILISTINES, 13:19—14:52

19 Now there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel, for the Philistines said,

"Lest the Hebrews make sword or spear."

But all the Israelites went down to 20 the Philistines to sharpen each his plowpoint and his coultter and his ax and his mattock; and the price for the 21 plowpoints and the coultters was a pim and a third of a shekel for the axes and for setting the goads. Accordingly on 22 the day of Michmash neither sword nor spear was found in the possession of all the people who were with Saul and Jonathan; but Saul and Jonathan his son had them.

Now an outpost of the Philistines 23 was advanced to the pass of Michmash.

Thus it happened one day that Jona- 14 than, the son of Saul, said to the youth who bore his armor,

"Come, let us go over to the post of the Philistines, that is on the other side yonder."

But he did not tell his father. Now 2 Saul was tarrying in the outskirts of Gibeah, under the pomegranate tree which is by the threshing-floor, and the people who were with him were about six hundred men; and Ahijah, the son 3 of Ahitub, Ichabod's brother, the son of Phinehas, and son of Eli, the priest of the LORD at Shiloh, was in charge of an ephod. The people also did not know that Jonathan had gone. Now 4 between the passes by which Jonathan sought to go over to the Philistine post there was a sharp crag on the one side, and a sharp crag on the other side; and the name of the one was Bozez and the name of the other Seneh. The one crag 5 was on the north in front of Michmash, and the other on the south in front of Geba. Then Jonathan said to the 6 young man who bore his armor,

"Come, let us go over to the post of these uncircumcised Philistines; perchance the LORD will act on our behalf, for with the LORD there is no limitation to deliver by many or by few."

Accordingly his armor-bearer said 7 to him,

"Do whatever your judgment determines; see, I am with you; your inclination is mine."

Then Jonathan said,

"See, we are going to pass over to the men and show ourselves to them. If 9 they say to us, 'Halt, until we can

- reach you,' then we will remain where we are, and will not go up to them.
- 10 But if they say thus, 'Come up to us,' then we will go up; for the LORD has given them into our hand; and this shall be the sign to us."
- 11 Now when they both showed themselves to the Philistine post, the Philistines said,
"Look! Hebrews are coming out of the holes where they have hidden themselves."
- 12 So the men of the post hailed Jonathan and his armor-bearer, saying,
"Come up to us, we have something to tell you."
Then Jonathan said to his armor-bearer,
"Come up after me; for the LORD has given them into the hand of Israel."
- 13 Thereupon Jonathan scrambled up on his hands and feet, and his armor-bearer after him. But they turned back at the approach of Jonathan and he attacked them, and his armor-bearer was despatching the wounded after him, with arrows, with slingstones, and
- 14 with stones of the field. That first slaughter, which Jonathan and his armor-bearer made, amounted to about twenty men, part from the post and
- 15 part from the field. There was also terror in the camp, in the field, and among all the people; the garrison and even the raiders trembled; and the earth quaked so that it became a terror inspired of God.
- 16 The watchmen of Saul in Gibeah of Benjamin looked and behold the camp
- 17 melted away hither and thither. Then Saul said to the people who were with him,
"Investigate now and see who is gone from among us."
When they had investigated, behold, Jonathan and his armor-bearer were
- 18 not there. Then Saul said to Ahijah,
"Bring the ephod here."
For at that time he was intrusted with the ephod before the Israelites.
- 19 But while Saul was still speaking to the priest, the tumult in the camp of the Philistines kept on increasing. Therefore Saul said to the priest,
"Withdraw your hand"
- 20 Thereupon Saul and all the people who were with him rallied, and came to the battle, and now every man's sword was against his fellow in wild confusion. Those Hebrews too who had thus far been with the Philistines, who had gone up with them into the camp, even these turned to be with the Israelites who were with Saul and Jonathan. Likewise all the men of Israel who were in hiding in the highlands of Ephraim, when they heard that the Philistines had fled, also pursued after them in the battle. So the LORD saved Israel that day, and the battle passed beyond Beth-horon. All the people with Saul were about ten thousand men; and the fighting was scattered over the entire highlands of Ephraim. But Saul committed a grave error that day, for he put the people under oath, saying,

"Cursed be the man who shall eat food until evening and I avenge myself on my enemies."

So none of the people tasted food. Now there was comb honey in the fields; and when the people came to the honeycomb, the bees had just flown away; but no one put his hand to his mouth, for the people feared the oath. But Jonathan had not heard when his father adjured the people; therefore he put forth the end of the staff that was in his hand and dipped it in the honeycomb and put his hand to his mouth, and his eyes brightened. Then up spoke one of the people, and said,
"Your father strictly adjured the people saying, 'Cursed be the man who eats food today.'"

But the people were faint. Then said Jonathan, "My father has perturbed the land. See, now, how my eyes brightened because I tasted a little of this honey. The more, then, if the people had eaten freely today of the spoil of their enemies which they found, would there have been a great slaughter among the Philistines."

Nevertheless they fought the Philistines that day from Michmash to Ajalon, and the people were exceedingly faint. Then the people flung themselves upon the spoil, and took sheep and oxen and calves, and slew them on the ground, and the people were eating them with the blood. When they told Saul, saying,

"See, the people are sinning against the LORD in eating with the blood," he said,

"You have dealt treacherously; roll hither to me a great stone."

34 Saul also said,
"Disperse yourselves among the people and say to them, 'Let each man bring to me his ox and his sheep, and slay it here and eat; but do not sin against the LORD by eating the flesh together with the blood.'"

Accordingly all the people brought that night, each what he had in his 35 possession, and slew them there. So Saul built an altar unto the LORD: that marked the beginning of his building of altars to the LORD.

36 "Let us go down after the Philistines by night," said Saul, "and plunder among them until dawn, and let us not leave a man of them."

"Do whatever you deem best," they said.

But the priest said,
"Let us here draw near to God."

37 So Saul asked of God,
"Shall I go down after the Philistines? Wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel?"

But he did not answer him that day.

38 Then Saul said,
"Draw near here, all you chiefs of the people, and find out and see wherein 39 was this sin today. For as the LORD lives, who delivers Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die."

But no one of all the people answered him. Then he said to all Israel,

"You shall be on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side."

Then the people said to Saul,
"Do as it seems good to you."

11 Therefore Saul said,
"O LORD, God of Israel, why hast thou not answered thy servant this day? If the guilt be in me or in Jonathan my son, O LORD, God of Israel, give Urim: but if it be in thy people Israel, give Thummim."

Then Jonathan and Saul were taken and the people escaped.

12 "Cast the lot between me and Jonathan my son," said Saul. "He whom the LORD shall take, must die."

"It shall not be so!" the people said.

But Saul overruled the people and they cast the lot between him and Jonathan his son; and Jonathan was taken.

Then Saul said to Jonathan, 43
"Tell me what you have done."

So Jonathan told him, saying,
"I did indeed taste a little honey with the end of the staff that was in my hand; here I am, ready to die."

"May God requite me and worse; 44
you shall surely die, Jonathan," said Saul.

But the people said to Saul, 45
"Shall Jonathan die who has brought about this great deliverance in Israel? Far from it! As the LORD lives, there shall not a hair of his head fall to the ground; for he has worked with God this day."

Therefore the people ransomed Jonathan, so that he did not die. Then 46
Saul went up from pursuing the Philistines; and the Philistines went to their own place.

Now when Saul had taken the king- 47 dom over Israel, he fought against all his enemies on every side: against Moab and the Ammonites, and Edom and Beth-rehob, the king of Zobah, and the Philistines; and wherever he turned he was successful. He acted 48 vigorously and conquered the Amalekites and delivered Israel out of the hands of its plunderers.

Now the sons of Saul were Jona- 49 than, Ishbaal, and Malchishua; and these were the names of his two daughters: the name of the eldest was Merab, and that of the youngest, Michal. The 50 name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz. The name of the commander of his army was Abner, the son of Ner, Saul's cousin; and Kish, the 51 father of Saul, and Ner, the father of Abner, were the sons of Abiel.

But the war against the Philistines 52 was severe all the days of Saul. Therefore whenever Saul saw any valiant or outstanding man, he would attach him to himself.

A RAID UPON THE AMALEKITES, 15:1-35

Now Samuel said to Saul, 15

"The LORD sent me to anoint you to be king over his people Israel. Now then listen to the words of the LORD. Thus says the LORD of hosts: 'I will 2 punish Amalek for what he did to Israel, in that he opposed him on the way, when he came up out of Egypt.

 3 Now go and attack Amalek and utterly destroy him and all that he has, and spare him not, but slaughter both man and woman, child and infant, ox and sheep, camel and ass."

4 So Saul summoned the people and mustered them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen and ten thousand 5 men of Judah. Accordingly when Saul came to the city of Amalek, he laid an 6 ambush in the valley. But Saul said to the Kenites,

"Come, withdraw, come down from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them; for you showed kindness to the Israelites when they came up from Egypt."

7 So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites. Then Saul overcame the Amalekites from Havilah as far as Shur, which is contiguous to Egypt; 8 and he took Agag, the king of Amalek, alive and completely destroyed all the 9 people with the sword. But Saul and the people spared Agag and the best of the sheep, the oxen, the fatlings, the lambs, and all that was good, and were not willing utterly to destroy them; but everything that was vile and despised, that they completely destroyed.

10 Then the word of the LORD came to Samuel, saying,

11 "I repent that I have made Saul king; for he has turned from following me and has not carried out my commands."

12 Thereupon Samuel was angry and cried to the LORD all night. In the morning Samuel rose early to meet Saul; and it was told Samuel, saying,

"Saul came to Carmel and behold, he has set up a trophy for himself, and has turned and passed on and gone down to Gilgal."

13 When Samuel came to Saul, Saul said to him,

"Blessed be you of the LORD! I have fulfilled the command of the LORD."

14 "What then is this bleating of sheep in my ears and the lowing of cattle which I hear?" said Samuel.

15 "They have brought them from the Amalekites," said Saul, "for the people spared the best of the sheep and the oxen to sacrifice to the LORD your God; and the rest we have completely destroyed."

"Desist! and let me tell you what the LORD spoke to me last night," said Samuel to Saul.

"Declare it," he said to him.

"Though you are insignificant in your own eyes," said Samuel, "are you not the head of the tribes of Israel? The LORD anointed you king over Israel, and the LORD sent you on a mission and said, 'Go and completely wipe out the sinners, the Amalekites, and fight against them until you have consumed them.' Why then did you not obey the voice of the LORD and why did you fling yourselves upon the spoil and do that which was evil in the sight of the LORD?"

"I have obeyed the voice of the LORD," said Saul to Samuel, "and have gone on the mission upon which the LORD sent me and have brought back Agag, king of the Amalekites, and have completely destroyed the Amalekites. But the people took some of the spoil, sheep and cattle, the best of that which was put under the ban, to sacrifice to the LORD your God in Gilgal."

But Samuel said,
 "Does the LORD delight in burnt-offerings and sacrifices

As much as in obedience to the voice of the LORD?

Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice,

And to hearken, than the fat of rams.

For the sin of divination is rebellion, and the iniquity of the teraphim is arrogance.

Because you have rejected the word of the LORD,

He has rejected you from being king."

Then Saul said to Samuel,

"I have sinned; for I have transgressed the command of the LORD and your words, because I feared the people and listened to their voice. Now therefore pardon my sin and turn back with me, that I may worship the LORD."

But Samuel said to Saul,

"I will not turn back with you; for you have rejected the word of the LORD and the LORD has rejected you from being king over Israel."

As Samuel turned to go, Saul seized the skirt of his outer garment, and it tore. Then Samuel said to him,

"Today the LORD has torn the kingdom of Israel from you and given it to your neighbor who is better than you. 29 Moreover the Glory of Israel will not lie nor repent; for he is not a man that he should repent."

30 "I have sinned," he said, "yet honor me now before the elders of my people and before Israel, and return with me, that I may worship the LORD your God."

31 So Samuel turned back after Saul, while Saul worshiped the LORD.

32 "Bring to me here Agag, the king of the Amalekites," said Samuel.

Then Agag came to him trembling; and Agag said,

"Surely death is bitter."

33 "As your sword has bereaved women," said Samuel, "so shall your mother be the most bereaved of women."

Thereupon Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

34 Then Samuel went to Ramah, but Saul went up to his house to Gibeah of 35 Saul. So Samuel saw Saul no more until the day of his death, for Samuel grieved over Saul. Moreover the LORD repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.

THE ANOINTING OF DAVID AS KING, 16:1-13

6 Now the LORD said to Samuel, "How long will you grieve over Saul, since I have rejected him from being king over Israel? Fill your horn with oil and go. I will send you to Jesse the Bethlehemite; for I have discovered for myself a king among his sons."

12 "How can I go," said Samuel, "since Saul will hear of it and kill me?"

Accordingly the LORD said,

"You shall take a young heifer with you and say, 'I have come to sacrifice to the LORD.' You shall invite Jesse to the sacrifice, and I will show you what you shall do, and you shall anoint for me him whom I indicate to you."

14 Samuel did that which the LORD had commanded; and when he came to Bethlehem, the elders of the city came trembling to meet him and said, "Is your coming peaceable?"

15 "Yes, I have come to sacrifice to the LORD," he said. "Purify yourselves and rejoice with me today."

Then he purified Jesse and his sons and invited them to the sacrifice.

When they came and he saw Eliab, he 6 said,

"Surely the LORD's anointed is before him."

But the LORD said to Samuel, 7

"Do not look at his appearance or the height of his stature, since I have rejected him; for the LORD does not see as man sees, for man looks on the outward appearance, but the LORD looks at the heart."

Then Jesse called Abinadab, and 8 presented him before Samuel.

"Neither has the LORD chosen this one," he said.

Then Jesse presented Shammah. 9 But he said,

"Neither has the LORD chosen this one."

Then Jesse presented his seven sons 10 before Samuel. But Samuel said to Jesse,

"The LORD has not chosen these."

"Are these all the young men?" 11

Samuel said to Jesse.

"There is still the youngest," he said, "but just now he is shepherding the flock."

"Send and bring him," said Samuel, "for we will not sit down until he arrives."

So he sent and brought him in. Now 12 he was ruddy, a youth with beautiful eyes and attractive appearance. Then the LORD said,

"Arise, anoint him, for this is he."

Then Samuel took the horn of oil and 13 anointed him in the midst of his brothers, and the spirit of the LORD seized upon David from that day forward. Then Samuel arose and went to Ramah.

DAVID AS SAUL'S MUSICIAN, 16:14-23

Now the spirit of the LORD had de- 14 parted from Saul and an evil spirit from the LORD terrified him. So the 15 servants of Saul said to him,

"See now, an evil spirit from the LORD is terrorizing you. Let now 16 your servants who are before you speak: let them seek for our lord a man skilful in playing the lyre. Then whenever the evil spirit comes upon you he will play with his hand, and you will be well."

- 17 Accordingly Saul said to his servants, "Provide me now with a man who plays well, and bring him to me."
- 18 Thereupon one of the young men answered and said, "Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Bethlehemite who is skillful in playing and a man of unusual power, a warrior, judicious in speech, a distinguished looking man, and the LORD is with him."
- 19 Therefore Saul sent messengers to Jesse and said, "Send me David your son, who is with the flock."
- 20 Then Jesse took ten loaves of bread, a skin of wine, and a kid, and sent them to Saul by David his son. So David came to Saul and became his personal attendant; and he greatly loved him, so much so that he became one of his armor-bearers. Wherefore Saul sent to Jesse, saying, "Let David now stand in my presence, for he has found favor in my sight."
- 23 So whenever the evil spirit from God came upon Saul, David would take the lyre and play with his hand, and Saul would be relieved and feel restored and the evil spirit would depart from him.

DAVID SLAYS GOLIATH,

17:1-58

- 17 Now the Philistines mustered their armed forces for war, and they were gathered together at Socoh, which belongs to Judah, and they encamped between Socoh and Azekah, in Ephes-dammim. Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together and encamped in the valley of Elah; and they drew up in line of battle facing the Philistines.
- 3 The Philistines were stationed on the mountain on one side, and the Israelites were stationed on the mountain on the other side, and the valley was between them. Then there came out a champion from the camp of the Philistines, named Goliath of Gath, whose height was six cubits and a span. He had a helmet of bronze upon his head, and he was clad with a coat of mail of bronze scales, whose weight was about six thousand shekels. He had greaves of bronze upon his legs and a javelin of bronze between his shoulders. The shaft of his spear was like a weaver's beam, and the head of his iron spear weighed six hundred shekels; and his shield-bearer went before him.

He stood and shouted to the battle-line of Israel and said to them,

"Why have you come out to draw up the line of battle? Am I not a Philistine and you the servants of Saul? Choose for yourselves a man and let him come down to me. If he is able to fight with me and can kill me, then we will be your servants; but if I overcome him and kill him, then you shall be our servants and serve us."

"I challenge the ranks of Israel this day," said the Philistine, "give me a man that we may fight together."

When Saul and all Israel heard the words of the Philistine, they were terrified and panic-stricken.

Now David was the son of an Ephrathite of Bethlehem in Judah, whose name was Jesse, who had eight sons. The man was old in the days of Saul, well advanced in years. The three eldest sons of Jesse had gone after Saul to the war; and the names of these three sons who went to the war were Eliab the eldest, the second Abinadab, and the third Shammah. But David was the youngest. The three eldest had followed Saul; but David went to and fro from Saul to feed his father's sheep at Bethlehem.

So the Philistine drew near morning and evening and took his stand for forty days. Then Jesse said to David his son,

"Take now for your brothers an ephah of this parched grain and these ten loaves and take them quickly to the camp to your brothers. But bring these ten cheeses to the captain of the thousand, and look into the welfare of your brothers and take assurance of them."

Now Saul and they and all the men of Israel were in the valley of Elah fighting with the Philistines.

So David rose up early in the morning and left the flock with a keeper and took and went, as Jesse had commanded him. He came to the intrenchment just as the army was going forth to the battle-line, raising the shout of battle. Israel and the Philistines drew up the battle-lines facing each other. Then David left his supplies in care of the keeper of the baggage and ran to the battle-line and came and greeted his 23 brothers. While he was talking with them, the champion, the Philistine of Gath, Goliath by name, was seen coming up from the Philistine lines and he spoke the same words as before; and 14 David heard them. Then all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled from him and were panic-stricken.

 15 The men of Israel said,

"Have you seen this man who comes up? Surely to taunt Israel he comes up.
 Whoever overcomes him, the king will make very rich and will give him his daughter and make his father's house
 free in Israel."

16 Then said David to the men standing by him,

"What shall be done for the man who overcomes yonder Philistine and takes away the reproach of Israel? For who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should taunt the battle-lines of the living God?"

7 The people replied to him according to the above words, saying,

"Thus shall it be done to the man who overcomes him."

8 Now Eliab, his eldest brother, heard when he spoke to the men; and Eliab's anger blazed against David, and he said,

"Why now have you come down?
 With whom have you left those few sheep in the desert? I know your insolence, and the wickedness of your heart;
 for you have come down to look at the battle."

9 "What have I now done?" said David.
 "Is there not a cause?"

10 And turning away from him to another,
 he spoke as before; and the people returned answer as at the first. Now when the words which David spoke were heard, they reported them to Saul;
 and they took him and brought him before Saul.

2 Then David said to Saul,

"Let not my lord's courage fail him;
 your servant will go and fight with this Philistine."

3 "You are not able to go against this Philistine to fight with him," said Saul to David, "for you are but a youth and he has been a warrior from his youth."

But David said to Saul,

"Your servant has been a shepherd with his father's flock; and when a lion or a bear would come and take a sheep out of the flock, I would go out after 35 him and attack him and deliver it from his mouth; and if he rose up against me, I would seize him by his beard and wound him and kill him. Your servant 30 has slain both lion and bear; and this uncircumcised Philistine shall be as one of them, since he has taunted the battle-lines of the living God."

"The LORD who delivered me from 37
 the paw of the lion, and from the paw of the bear, will deliver me from the hand of this Philistine," said David.

So Saul said to David,

"Go, and may the LORD be with
 you."

Saul clothed David with his gar- 38 ments, and put a helmet of bronze on his head, and equipped him with a coat of mail. He also girded David with his 39 sword over his outer garments; and he struggled in vain to go, for he had not tried them.

"I cannot go with these, for I have not tried them," said David to Saul.

So David put them off him.

But he took his stick in his hand, and 40 chose five smooth stones out of the brook and put them in his bag, and with his sling in his hand he advanced toward the Philistine. The Philistine 41 began cautiously to approach David, having the bearer of his shield directly in front of him; and when the Philistine 42 looked about and saw David, he scorned him; for he was youthful and ruddy, and of attractive appearance.

"Am I a dog that you come to me 43 with sticks?" said the Philistine to David.

The Philistine also cursed David by 44 his gods; and the Philistine said to David,

"Come to me and I will give your flesh to the birds of the air and to the beasts of the field."

Then David said to the Philistine, 45

"You come to me with a sword and a spear and a javelin,

But I come to you in the name of the LORD of hosts,

The God of the battle-lines of Israel whom you have taunted.

This day the LORD will deliver you 46
 into my hand,

That I may lay you and sever your head from your body;

And I will this day give your dead body and the dead of the camp of the Philistines

To the birds of the air and to the wild beasts of the earth,

That all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel,

47 And that all this assembly may know That not with sword and spear does the LORD deliver;

For the battle is the LORD'S and he will give you into our hands."

48 Now when the Philistine arose and came and drew near to meet David, David also hastened and ran toward

49 the line to meet the Philistine. David put his hand in his bag and took from it a stone and slung it and it struck the Philistine on his forehead; and the stone sank into his forehead, so that he

50 fell on his face to the earth. So David overpowered the Philistine with a sling and a stone, and he struck the Philistine, and slew him, although there was 51 no sword in David's hand. Then David ran and stood over the Philistine, and took his sword, and drew it out of its sheath, and slew him, and cut off his head with it.

Now when the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they fled; 52 and the men of Israel and Judah arose and raised a shout and pursued the Philistines to the entrance to Gath and the gates of Ekron, so that the wounded of the Philistines fell down on the way from Shaaraim, even to Gath and 53 Ekron. When the Israelites returned from pursuing the Philistines, they 54 plundered their camp, but David took the head of the Philistine and brought it to Jerusalem; and he put his armor in his tent.

55 When Saul saw David going out against the Philistine, he said to Abner, the commander of the army,

"Whose son is this lad, Abner?"

56 "As you live, O king, I do not know," said Abner.

"Inquire whose son the youth is," said the king.

57 When David returned from slaying the Philistine, Abner took him, and brought him before Saul with the Philistine's head in his hand; and Saul said to him,

"Whose son are you, my lad?"

"The son of your servant Jesse, the Bethlehemite," said David.

SAUL'S JEALOUSY OF DAVID,

18:1—20:42

Now when he had finished speaking 1 with Saul, the soul of Jonathan was knit to the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as himself. Saul took him at that time and would not allow him to return to his father's house; and Jonathan made a covenant with David, because he loved him as his own life. Jonathan also stripped off the cloak which he had on and gave it to David and his equipment, even to his sword, his bow, and his girdle. So David went out; wherever Saul sent him he had good success, so that Saul appointed him over the fighting forces. He was well pleasing in the estimation of all the people and in the estimation of the servants of Saul.

Accordingly when they came back, as David returned from fighting the Philistine, the women came dancing out of all the cities of Israel, to meet David, with tambourines, with rejoicing, and with sistrums. The women sang as they played, and said,

"Saul has slain his thousands,

But David his ten thousands."

Then Saul was very angry, and this saying displeased him and he said,

"They have ascribed to David the ten thousands, while to me they have ascribed but the thousands, and what more can he have but the kingdom?"

So Saul kept his eye on David from that day forward.

On the next day the evil spirit from God seized upon Saul, and he was filled with prophetic frenzy within the house, while David was playing with his hand as he did each day. Now Saul had his spear in his hand; and Saul lifted up his spear, saying,

"I will pin David to the wall."

But David escaped from his presence twice.

Saul was afraid of David because the LORD was with him and had departed from Saul. Therefore Saul removed him from him, and made him his commander of a thousand; and he went out and came in before the people. David had good success in all his undertakings, for the LORD was with him. So when Saul saw that he exercised very good judgment, he stood in dread of him. But all Israel and Judah loved

David; for he went out and came in before the people.

17 Then Saul said to David,
"Here is my eldest daughter, Merab, I am ready to give her to you in marriage; only be zealous for me and fight the battles of the LORD."

For Saul said,

"Let not my hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him."

8 David said to Saul,
"Who am I, and who are my kinsfolk in Israel, that I should be the king's son-in-law?"

9 But when the time came that Merab, Saul's daughter, should have been given to David, she was given as wife to Adriel, the Meholathite.

10 However, Michal, Saul's daughter, loved David; and when they told Saul, the thing was agreeable to him.

11 "I will give her to him, that she may be a snare to him and that the hand of the Philistines may be upon him," said Saul.

Therefore Saul said to David,

"You shall this day be my son-in-law."

2 So Saul commanded his servants as follows:

"Communicate with David secretly and say, 'You see, the king is pleased with you and all his servants love you; now therefore make yourself the king's son-in-law.'"

3 The servants of Saul spoke these words in the ears of David.

"Is it an easy thing in your estimation to make one's self the king's son-in-law, and I a poor man and of humble station?" said David.

4 So Saul's servants told him, saying,
"David spoke according to these words."

5 Then Saul said,

"Thus shall you say to David: 'The king desires no dowry, but a hundred foreskins of the Philistines, in order to take vengeance on the king's enemies.'"

Now Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of the Philistines.

6 When his servants told David these words, David was well pleased to become the king's son-in-law. The days had not expired; so David arose and went, and he together with his men slew of the Philistines one hundred men; and David brought their foreskins and gave them in full to the king, in order to make himself the king's son-in-law. Accordingly Saul gave him Michal, his daughter, as wife. But when 28 Saul saw and realized that the LORD was with David and that all Israel loved him, Saul was still more afraid of 29 David. Thus Saul remained permanently hostile to David. At times the 30 princes of the Philistines went forth; and as often as they went forth, David had better success than all the servants of Saul, so that his name was very highly esteemed.

Saul spoke to Jonathan his son and 19 to all his servants that they should put David to death. But Jonathan, Saul's 2 son, was exceedingly fond of David. So Jonathan told David, saying,

"Saul my father is plotting to kill you; now therefore, I pray you, be on your guard in the morning and remain out of sight and keep yourself hidden. I will go out and stand beside my father in the field where you are, and I will speak about you to my father, and whatever I discover I will tell you."

Accordingly Jonathan spoke well of 4 David to Saul his father, and said to him,

"Let not the king sin against his servant David, because he has not sinned against you and his behavior toward you has been very praiseworthy; for he 5 took his life in his hand and overcame the Philistine, and the LORD brought about a great deliverance for all Israel. You saw it and rejoiced. Why then will you sin against innocent blood, by slaying David without a cause?"

So Saul listened to the appeal of 6 Jonathan; and Saul took oath,

"As the LORD lives, he shall not be put to death."

Then Jonathan called David, and 7 Jonathan told him all these words; and Jonathan brought David to Saul, so that he was again in his presence as formerly. Thus when there was again 8 war, David went out and fought against the Philistines, and overcame them with great slaughter, so that they fled before him. Then an evil spirit 9 from the LORD was upon Saul, while he was sitting in his house with his spear in his hand, and David was playing with his hand; and Saul tried to pin 10 David to the wall with his spear, but he slipped away out of Saul's presence, so that he drove the spear into the wall, and David fled and escaped.

11 That night Saul sent messengers to David's house to watch him, in order to slay him in the morning. But Michal, his wife, informed David saying,

"If you do not make your escape tonight, tomorrow you will be a corpse."

12 So Michal let David down through a window; and he stole away and escaped.

13 Michal then took the teraphim and laid it in the bed, and put a quilt of goat's hair at its head and covered

14 it with a garment. And when Saul sent messengers to take David, she said,

"He is sick."

15 Then Saul sent the messengers to see David, saying,

"Bring him up to me in the bed, that I may put him to death."

16 But when the messengers entered, behold, there was the teraphim in the bed, with a quilt of goat's hair at its head.

17 So Saul said to Michal,

"Why have you deceived me thus, and let my enemy go, so that he has escaped?"

Michal said to Saul,

"He said to me, 'Let me go; why should I kill you?'"

18 Now David fled and escaped and came to Samuel at Ramah and told him all that Saul had done to him. Then he and Samuel went and stayed in Naioth.

19 Accordingly when it was told Saul, saying,

"David is there at Naioth in Ramah,"

20 Saul sent messengers to take David.

But when they saw an assemblage of prophets prophesying with Samuel standing as head over them, the spirit of God came upon the messengers of Saul, so that they also prophesied.

21 When they told Saul, he sent other messengers, and they also prophesied ecstatically. Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they also

22 prophesied ecstatically. Then Saul's anger was aroused and he himself went to Ramah. When he came to the cistern of the threshing floor, which is on the bare height, he asked and said,

"Where are Samuel and David?"

"You will find him at Naioth in Ramah," they said.

23 But when he went from there to Naioth in Ramah, the spirit of God came upon him also, and as he went along he prophesied ecstatically, until he came to Naioth in Ramah. He even <sup>24</sup> stripped off his clothes, and he also prophesied ecstatically before Samuel, and fell down and lay naked all that day and all night. Therefore they say,

"Is Saul also among the prophets?"

Then David fled from Naioth in <sup>20</sup> Ramah.

Moreover he came and said before Jonathan,

"What have I done; what is my guilt; and what is my sin before your father, that he is seeking my life?"

He said to him,

"Far from it! You shall not die. Now my father does nothing great or small, but that he discloses it to me; and why should my father hide this thing from me? Not so."

David replied and said,

"Your father well knows that I have found favor in your eyes, and he has said to himself, 'Let not Jonathan know this lest he be pained.' Nevertheless as surely as the LORD lives, and as you live, there is but a step between me and death."

Then Jonathan said to David,

"What do you desire that I do for you?"

So David said to Jonathan,

"Behold, tomorrow is the new moon and I should indeed sit at table with the king; but let me go and I will hide myself in the field until evening. If your father does indeed miss me, then say, 'David urgently asked leave of me to run to his city Bethlehem; for the annual sacrifice is there for the whole family.' If he says, 'Good,' then it is well with your servant, but if it really stirs up his anger, then know that evil is determined upon by him. Now deal kindly with your servant, for you have brought your servant into a covenant of the LORD with yourself; but if there be guilt in me, slay me yourself, for why should you bring me thus to your father?"

"Far be it from you!" said Jonathan, <sup>9</sup> "for if I should indeed learn that my father had determined that evil should come upon you, would I not tell you that?"

Then David said to Jonathan,

"Who will tell me, if your father answers you harshly?"

So Jonathan said to David,

"Come, and let us go out to the field."

So the two of them went out to the field.

12 Then Jonathan said to David, "The LORD, the God of Israel be witness, that I will sound my father at this time tomorrow [or the third day], and if he be well disposed to David, then will I not send to you and disclose it to you? May the LORD requite Jonathan and worse, if my father be pleased to do you harm and I disclose it not to you, and send you away that you may go in peace. May the LORD be with you as he has been with my father. But O may you, if I am still alive, O may you show me the kindness of the LORD! But if I should die, may you never cut off your kindness from my house. When the LORD cuts off the enemies of David, everyone from the face of the ground, the name of Jonathan shall not be cut off from the house of David, and may the LORD require it at the hand of David's enemies."

17 So Jonathan took oath again to David because of his love to him; for he loved him as his own life.

18 Then Jonathan said to him, "Tomorrow is the new moon and you will be missed, because your seat will be empty; and on the third day you will be greatly missed. Then you shall come to the place where you hid yourself on the day of the affair, and you shall sit down there beside that stone heap. On the third day I will shoot to its side with arrows, as though I shot at a mark. Then I will send a lad, (saying), 'Go, find the arrows.' If I say explicitly to the lad, 'See, the arrows are on this side of you; get them!'—then come; for it is well for you, and, as the LORD lives, there is nothing the matter. But if I say thus to the youth, 'See, the arrows are beyond you,' go, for the LORD has sent you away. As for the word which we have spoken, you and I, behold, the LORD is between you and me forever."

14 So David hid himself in the field; and when it was new moon, the king sat at table to eat. The king sat upon his seat as usual, even on the seat by the wall, and Jonathan sat opposite, and Abner sat by Saul's side; but David's place was empty. Nevertheless Saul did not remark anything that day, for he thought,

"It is an accident; he is not ceremonially clean, for he has not been cleansed."

But when on the morrow of the new moon, even on the second day, David's place was empty, Saul said to Jonathan his son,

"Why has not the son of Jesse come to the meal, either yesterday or today?"

So Jonathan answered Saul, "David urgently asked leave of me to go to Bethlehem, for he said, 'Let me go, I pray you, since our family has a sacrifice in the city; and my brothers have commanded me. Now if I have found favor in your sight, let me slip away, I pray you, and see my brothers.' Therefore he has not come to the king's table."

Then Saul's anger blazed against Jonathan, and he said to him,

"Son of a renegade girl! Do I not know that you are attached to the son of Jesse to your own shame and to the shame of your mother's nakedness? For as long as the son of Jesse lives on the ground, neither you nor your kingdom will be established. Therefore now send and bring him to me, for he is condemned to die."

Then Jonathan answered Saul his father and said to him,

"Why should he be put to death? What has he done?"

But Saul lifted up his spear at him to strike him. So Jonathan knew that his father had determined to put David to death. Therefore Jonathan rose from the table in fierce anger and ate no food on the second day of the month, for he was grieved for David, because his father had vilified him. But in the morning Jonathan went out to the field at the time agreed with David, accompanied by a small boy. He said to his lad,

"Run, find now the arrows that I am about to shoot."

Then as the lad ran, he shot an arrow beyond him; and when the boy came to the location of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan called after the lad, and said,

"Is not the arrow beyond you?"

Again Jonathan called after the boy, "Make haste, be quick, do not stand still!"

So Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and brought them to his mas-

39 ter. But the lad did not perceive anything; only David and Jonathan understood the matter. Then Jonathan gave his weapons to the lad who was with him, and said to him,

"Go, take them to the city."

41 The lad departed, whereupon David arose from beside the stone heap, and fell on his face to the ground and prostrated himself three times; and they kissed each other and wept together 42 profusely. Then Jonathan said to David,

"Go in peace! inasmuch as we two have sworn in the name of the LORD, saying, 'The LORD will be between me and you and between my descendants and your descendants forever.'"

Then David rose and departed, while Jonathan went into the city.

DAVID IN FLIGHT FROM SAUL, 21:1—24:22

21 Thereupon David came to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. But Ahimelech came trembling to meet David and said to him,

"Why are you alone and no one with you?"

2 Then David said to Ahimelech the priest,

"The king has charged me with a matter and has said to me, 'Let no one know anything about the mission upon which I am sending you and which I have commanded you; and I have appointed the young men to such and such a place.' Now what is there in your possession? Five loaves of bread? Give them, or whatever can be found, into my hand."

4 The priest answered David and said, "There is no ordinary bread in my possession, but there is holy bread, if only the young men have kept themselves from women."

5 David answered the priest and said, "Of a truth women have been kept from us; as usual when I set out, the weapons of the young men are ceremonially cleansed, even though it be an ordinary journey; how much more then today shall their weapons be holy!"

6 So the priest gave him holy bread; for there was no bread there but the Presence-bread, that was taken from before the LORD in order to put hot bread there the day it was taken away. Now one of the servants of Saul was there that day, detained before the LORD, whose name was Doeg, an Edomite, the chief of Saul's shepherds. David then said to Ahimelech,

"Is there not here in your possession a spear or a sword? for I brought neither my sword nor my equipment with me, because the king's business required haste."

"The sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom you slew in the valley of Elah, see, it is wrapped in a garment behind the ephod," said the priest. "If you wish to take that, take it, for there is no other except that here."

"There is none like it, give it to me," said David.

Then David arose and fled that day from before Saul, and went to Achish, the king of Gath. Whereupon the servants of Achish said to him,

"Is not this David, the king of the land? Was it not of him that they used to sing responsively in the dances, saying,

'Saul has slain his thousands,
But David his ten thousands?'"

Now David took these words to heart and was greatly afraid of Achish, the king of Gath. So he disguised his sanity before them, and pretended to be mad in their hands and drummed on the doors of the gate and let his spittle run down on his beard. Then Achish said to his servants,

"Truly you look upon a man demented; why do you bring him to me? Do I lack madmen that you have brought this wretch to act the madman in my presence? Should this fellow come to my house?"

So David departed from there and escaped to the cave of Adullam. Now when his brothers and all his father's clan heard it, they went down there to him. There were also drawn together to him everyone that was in distress, and everyone who was in debt, and everyone who was embittered, and he became their leader. There were thus with him about four hundred men.

David then went forth from there to Mizpeh of Moab; and he said to the king of Moab,

"I pray you, let my father and my mother dwell with you, until I know what God will do for me."

4 So he left them in the presence of the king of Moab; and they remained with him all the time that David was in the stronghold. Then Gad the prophet said to David,

"Do not remain in Mizpeh; but go and enter the land of Judah."

So David went and entered the forest of Hereth.

6 Now when Saul heard that David and the men who were with him were discovered (Saul was sitting in Gibeah under a tamarisk tree on the high place, with his spear in his hand, and all his servants were standing about him), Saul said to his servants who were standing about him,

"Hear now O Benjaminites! Will the son of Jesse also give to everyone of you fields and vineyards? Will he make you all commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, that all of you have conspired against me, and there is no one that discloses to me when my son makes a covenant with the son of Jesse, and none of you sympathizes with me, or discloses to me that my son has incited my servant against me as an enemy, as it is this day?"

9 Then Doeg the Edomite, who was appointed over the servants of Saul, answered and said,

"I saw the son of Jesse as he came to Nob, to Ahimelech, the son of Ahitub. He inquired of God for him and gave him provisions and the sword of Goliath the Philistine."

1 Then the king sent a summons to Ahimelech, the son of Ahitub the priest, and to all his father's house, the priests who were in Nob, and all of them came to the king. Saul said,

"Hear now, O son of Ahitub!"

"I am here, my lord!" he said.

3 Then Saul said to him,

"Why have you and the son of Jesse conspired against me, in that you have given him bread and a sword and have inquired of God for him, that he should rise against me as an enemy, as it is this day?"

4 Ahimelech answered the king and said,

"But who among all your servants is trusted as is David, being both the king's son-in-law and commander of your body-guard and honored in your house? Have I begun today to inquire of God for him? Far be it from me! Let not the king impute anything to his servant nor to anyone of my father's house, for your servant knew nothing at all about all this."

"You shall surely die, Ahimelech, 16 you and your entire house," said the king.

Then the king said to the runners 17 that were standing by him,

"Turn and slay the priests of the LORD, for their hand also was with David, and because they knew that he was a fugitive, but would not disclose it to me."

But the servants of the king would not put forth their hands to slay the priests of the LORD. Then the king 18 said to Doeg,

"Doeg, turn about and fall upon the priests."

Accordingly Doeg the Edomite turned and fell upon the priests, and he slew that day eighty-five men who wore the linen apron. Also Nob, the city of the 19 priests, he put to the sword, both men and women, children and infants, oxen and asses and sheep.

But one son of Ahimelech, the son of Ahitub, named Abiathar, escaped and fled after David. And Abiathar told 21 David that Saul had slain the priests of the LORD. Then David said to Abiathar,

"I knew that day, because Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would surely tell Saul. I myself am responsible for all the lives of your father's house. Remain with me, fear not; for he that seeks my life seeks your life, for you shall be a charge to me."

Now when they told David, saying, 23

"Behold, the Philistines are fighting against Keilah, and are robbing the threshing-floors,"

David inquired of the LORD, saying, 2 "Shall I go and attack these Philistines?"

So the LORD said to David, "Go and attack the Philistines, and save Keilah."

But David's men said to him, 3 "We are afraid here in Judah; how much more if we go to Keilah against the forces of the Philistines."

Then David inquired once again of 4 the LORD; and the LORD answered him and said,

"Arise, go down to Keilah, for I am about to deliver the Philistines into your hand."

- 5 So David and his men went to Keilah and fought with the Philistines and drove off their cattle and caused them heavy loss of life. Thus David relieved the inhabitants of Keilah. Now when Abiathar, the son of Ahimelech, fled to Keilah to David, he went down with an ephod in his hand. When it was told Saul that David had gone to Keilah, Saul said,

"God has sold him into my hand; for he has entrapped himself by going into a town that has double doors and bars."

- 8 Accordingly Saul summoned all the people for war, to go down to Keilah, and besiege David and his men. When therefore David learned that Saul was devising evil against him, he said to Abiathar the priest,

"Bring the ephod here."

- 10 "O LORD, God of Israel," said David, "thy servant has indeed heard that Saul is seeking to come to Keilah, to destroy the city because of me. Will the citizens of Keilah deliver me into his hand? Will Saul come down, as thy servant has heard? O LORD, God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy servant."

Then the LORD said,

"He will come down."

- 12 "Will the citizens of Keilah deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul?" said David.

The LORD said,

"They will deliver you up."

- 13 Then David and his men, who were about six hundred, arose and departed from Keilah, and they went on their wanderings as they used to go. When it was told Saul that David had escaped from Keilah, he gave up the campaign.

- 14 So David dwelt in the desert in the strongholds, and in the hilly country in the Desert of Ziph. Saul was always seeking him, but the LORD did not deliver him into his hand.

- 15 Now David was afraid because Saul had come out to seek his life; and David was in the Desert of Ziph in Horesha. Jonathan, Saul's son, arose and went to David in Horesha and strengthened his hand in God; and he said to him,

"Fear not, for the hand of Saul my father shall not find you, and you shall be king over Israel and I shall be next to you; and that too my father Saul well knows."

So they two made a covenant before the LORD; and David remained in Horesha, while Jonathan went to his home.

Then the Ziphites went up to Saul to Gibeah, saying,

"Is not David stealing from one hiding place to another among us in the strongholds in Horesha, in the hill of Hachilah, which is to the south of the Desolate Waste? Now therefore, O king, according to all your heart's desire, come down, and it shall be our part to deliver him into the hand of the king."

Then Saul said,

"Blessed be you of the LORD; for you have had compassion on me. Go now, make still more sure, and know and see the place where his haunt is and who has seen him there; for I am told that he is very cunning. Therefore know and see and learn all the secret places where he is accustomed to conceal himself, and return to me with evidence, and I will go with you, and if he be in the land, I will search him out of all the thousands of Judah."

So they arose and went to Ziph before Saul. But David and his men were in the Desert of Maon, in the Arabah to the south of the Desolate Waste. When Saul and his men went to seek him, they told David, and he went down to the crag which is in the Desert of Maon. When Saul heard it, he pursued David to the Desert of Maon. Saul went on one side of the mountain, and David and his men on the other side of the mountain; and David was in desperate straits to escape from Saul, for Saul and his men were at the point of surrounding David and his men, to seize them, when a messenger came to Saul, saying,

"Come quickly, for the Philistines have made a raid upon the land."

So Saul returned from pursuing David and went to meet the Philistines; therefore they called that place the Crag of the Divisions. Then David went up from there, and dwelt in the strongholds of Engedi.

Now when Saul returned from following the Philistines, it was told him, saying,

"Behold, David is in the Desert of Engedi."

Then Saul took three thousand men chosen from all Israel and went to seek David and his men upon the Rocks of the Wild Goats; and he came to the sheepfolds by the way, and there was a cave. So Saul went in to cover his feet, while David and his men were lodging in the inner recesses of the cave.

Then David's men said to him, "Behold the day of which the LORD said to you, 'Truly I am about to give your enemy into your hand and you shall do to him as it shall seem good in your sight.'"

David then arose and secretly cut off the skirt of Saul's mantle. But afterward David was conscience-stricken because he had cut off the skirt of Saul's mantle. Therefore he said to his men,

"The LORD forbid that I should do this thing to my lord, the LORD'S anointed, to put forth my hand against him, since he is the LORD'S anointed."

So David persuaded his men with these words, and did not permit them to rise up against Saul.

But when Saul arose from the cave and went on his way, David also arose after him and went from the cave and called after Saul, saying,

"My lord the king!"

Then when Saul looked behind him, David bowed his face to the earth, and did obeisance; and David said to Saul,

"Why did you listen to the words of the men who said, 'See, David seeks your hurt?' Behold, this day your eyes see that the LORD gave you into my hand in the cave, but I refused to kill you and had pity on you, and I said, 'I will not put forth my hand against my lord, for he is the LORD'S anointed.' Moreover, my father, see indeed the skirt of your mantle in my hand; in that I cut off the skirt of your mantle and did not kill you, know and see that there is neither wrong nor crime in my hands, and I have not sinned against you, though you are lying in wait to take my life. The LORD judge between me and you, and the LORD avenge me of you; but my hand shall not be upon you. As runs the old saying, 'Out of the wicked comes wickedness.' But my hand shall not be against you. After whom has the king of Israel come forth? Whom are you pursuing? A dead dog? A single flea? The LORD therefore be judge and execute justice between me and you and see and plead my cause and acquit me from your hand."

Now as David finished speaking these words to Saul, Saul said,

"Is this your voice, my son David?"

Then Saul lifted up his voice and wept, and he said to David,

"You are more righteous than I, for you have shown me kindness, while I have shown you evil. You have shown exceptional kindness in what you have done to me, in that today, when the LORD had shut me up in your hand, you did not kill me. For when a man finds his enemy, does he send him away safely? Therefore may the LORD reward you richly in return for what you have done to me this day. Now indeed I know that you shall surely be king, and that by your hand the kingdom of Israel shall be established. So now swear to me by the LORD, that you will not cut off my descendants after me and that you will not destroy my name from my father's house."

So David swore to Saul. Then Saul went home, while David and his men went up to the stronghold.

DAVID'S RAID UPON NABAL;

25:1-43

Now Samuel had died and all Israel gathered themselves together and lamented for him and buried him in his own house in Ramah. Then David arose and went down to the Desert of Maon. Now there was a man in Maon, whose business was in Carmel. The man was very prosperous, and he had three thousand sheep and a thousand goats, and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. Now the man's name was Nabal; and the name of his wife was Abigail; and the woman had good sense and was fair to look upon, but the man was rough and uncouth; and he was a Calebite.

David heard in the desert that Nabal was shearing his sheep. So David sent ten young men, and David said to the young men,

"Go up to Carmel and visit Nabal and greet him in my name; and you shall say thus to my brother, 'Peace be to you and your house and all that you have. I have heard that you have shearers. Now your shepherds were with us, and we did not insult them, and nothing of theirs was missing all the 8 time they were in Carmel. Ask your young men and let them tell you. Therefore let the young men find favor in your eyes, for we have come on a propitious day. Give therefore whatever you have at hand to your servants and to your son David.' "

9 So when David's young men came, they spoke to Nabal in accordance with all these words in the name of David, and then they waited.

10 But Nabal answered David's servants, and said,

"Who is David, and who is the son of Jesse? There are many slaves today who connivingly break away, each from 11 his master! Should I then take my bread and my water and my meat that I have slaughtered for my shearers, and give it to men whose origin I do not know?"

12 So David's young men retraced their steps, and returned and came and reported to him in accordance with all 13 these words. So David said to his men, "Let every man gird on his sword."

And they girded on each man his sword. David also girded on his sword; and there went up after David about four hundred men, while two hundred remained with the baggage.

14 But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, saying,

"David has just sent messengers from the desert to salute our master, and he 15 railed at them. But the men have been very kind to us and we have not been insulted nor have we missed anything, as long as we were associated with 16 them, while we were in the field. They were a wall about us both by night and by day, all the time we were with them 17 keeping the sheep. Now therefore know and consider what you will do, for evil is determined against our master and against all his house, for he is such a base rascal that no one can speak to him."

18 Then Abigail hastened and took two hundred loaves of bread and two skins of wine and five dressed sheep and five homers of parched grain and a hundred bunches of raisins and two hundred cakes of figs, and loaded them on asses; 19 and she said to her young men,

"Go on before me; see, I am coming after you."

But she did not tell Nabal, her husband. As she was riding on the ass and 20 coming down through a defile of the mountain, David and his men were also coming down in her direction, so that she met them. Now David had said, 21

"Surely in vain have I guarded all that this fellow has in the desert, so that nothing was missing of all that belongs to him, and he has returned me evil for good. May God requite David and 22 worse, if I leave of all that belongs to him until tomorrow as much as a single male person."

Therefore when Abigail saw David, 23 she hastened and dismounted from her ass and fell on her face before David and bowed herself to the ground. She 24 fell at his feet, and said,

"Upon me, my lord, even me, be the blame. Only, I pray you, let your maidservant speak in your ears, and give heed to the words of your maidservant. Let not my lord, I pray you, take seriously this worthless individual, Nabal, for as his name is, so is he; 'Fool' is his name, and folly his boon companion; but as for myself your maidservant, I did not see the young men of my lord, whom you sent. Now therefore, my 25 lord, as the LORD lives and as you live, since the LORD has restrained you from shedding blood and from finding redress for yourself by your own hand—and now may your enemies and those who seek to harm my lord be as Nabal—let now this gift, which your humble 26 servant has brought to my lord, be given to the young men who accompany my lord. Forgive, I pray, the 27 transgression of your maidservant, for the LORD will surely make for my lord a secure house, for my lord is fighting the wars of the LORD, and evil shall not be found in you all your days. Should 28 man rise up to pursue you and seek your life, the life of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of the living along with the LORD your God, but he will sling out the life of your enemies as from the hollow of a sling. When the 29 LORD shall do to my lord in accordance with all the good which he spoke concerning you and shall appoint you prince over Israel, then this shall not 30 be a qualm of conscience or a burden of remorse to my lord, that you have shed blood without cause or that my lord has found redress for himself by his own hand. When therefore the LORD shall prosper my lord, then remember your maidservant."

2 Then David said to Abigail,

"Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who sent you this day to meet me, and blessed be your discernment, and blessed be you yourself, who have restrained me this day from bloodshed and from finding redress for myself by my own hand. For in very deed as the LORD, the God of Israel, lives, who has restrained me from doing you harm, except you had made haste and come to meet me, surely there would not have been left to Nabal by the morning light so much as one male person."

3 So David received from her hand that which she had brought him; and he said to her,

"Go up to your house in peace. See, I have listened to your plea, and shown you favor."

4 But when Abigail came to Nabal, he was just holding a drinking bout in his house, like the drinking bout of a king. Nabal's heart was merry within him, for he was very drunk, so that she could not tell him anything at all until the morning light. But in the morning, when the effects of the wine upon Nabal were passing off, his wife told him these things, and his heart died within him and he became like a stone. And about ten days later the LORD inflicted a stroke upon Nabal, so that he died.

5 Accordingly when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said,

"Blessed be the LORD, who has vindicated my charge of reproach at the hand of Nabal and has kept back his servant from evil; and the LORD has returned the evil-doing of Nabal upon his own head."

6 Then David sent and made his proposal to Abigail to take her to him to be his wife. And when the servants of David came to Abigail at Carmel and said to her,

"David has sent us to you to take you to him to be his wife," she arose and bowed her face to the earth and said,

"Behold your female slave, a maidservant to wash the feet of my lord's servants."

7 Then Abigail hastily arose and mounted an ass, and five of her maidens followed in her train. So she went after the messengers of David and became his wife.

8 David also took Ahinoam of Jezreel and they both became his wives. Now Saul had given Michal his daughter, David's wife, to Paltai, the son of Laish of Gallim.

DAVID SPARES SAUL'S LIFE, 26:1-25

Now the Ziphites came to Saul at 26 Gibeah, saying,

"Is not David in hiding in the hill of Hachilah, which is east of the Desolate Waste?"

1 Accordingly Saul arose and went down to the Desert of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the Desert of Ziph; and Saul encamped in the hill of Hachilah, which is east of the Desolate Waste, by the way. But David was staying in the desert. And when he saw that Saul had come to the desert in pursuit of him, David sent out spies, and when he learned that Saul was coming straight on, David arose and came to the place where Saul was encamped. So David saw the place where lay Saul and Abner the son of Ner, the commander of his army; and Saul lay within the barricade, and the people were encamped round about him.

2 Then David spoke up and said to Ahimelech the Hittite and to Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, saying,

"Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp?"

"I will go down with you," said Abishai.

3 So David and Abishai came to the people by night; and there was Saul lying asleep within the barricade, with his spear thrust into the earth at his head; and Abner and the people were lying round about him.

4 "God has today delivered up your enemy into your hand," said Abishai to David. "Now therefore, I pray you, let me pin him to the earth with but one thrust of his own spear, and I shall have no occasion to repeat the blow, so far as he is concerned."

5 But David said to Abishai,

"Destroy him not; for who can lay his hand upon the LORD'S anointed and be innocent?"

- 10 "As the LORD lives," said David, "either the LORD shall smite him, or his day shall come to die, or he shall go
- 11 down into the battle and perish. The LORD forbid that I should put forth my hand against the LORD'S anointed; but take now, I pray you, the spear that is at his head and the jug of water and let us go."
- 12 So David took the spear and the jug of water from Saul's head and they withdrew. No one saw it or knew it, neither did any awake; for they were all asleep because a deep sleep from the LORD had fallen upon them.
- 13 Thereupon David went over to the other side and stood on the top of a mountain at a safe distance, a great
- 14 space being between them. Then David called to the people and to Abner, the son of Ner, saying,
"Will you not answer, Abner?"
Abner answered and said,
"Who are you that calls?"
- 15 So David said to Abner,
"Are you not a man? Who is like you in Israel? Why then have you not guarded your lord the king? For one of the people came to destroy the king
- 16 your lord. This thing that you have done is not good. As the LORD lives, you are worthy of death, because you did not keep watch over your master, the LORD'S anointed. See now where the king's spear is and the jug of water that was at his head."
- 17 Then Saul recognized David's voice and said,
"Is that your voice, my son David?"
"It is my voice, my lord, O king," said David.
- 18 "Why is my lord pursuing his servant," he said, "for what have I done,
- 19 or of what evil am I guilty? Now therefore, I pray, let my lord the king listen to the words of his servant. If the LORD has stirred you up against me, let him be appeased by an offering; but if they be the sons of men, cursed be they before the LORD; for they have driven me out today, so that I have no share in the heritage of the LORD, saying, 'Go serve other gods.' Now therefore, may my blood not fall to the earth far removed from the presence of the LORD; for the king of Israel has come forth to seek my life, as one hunts a partridge in the mountains."
- 21 "I have sinned," Saul said, "return, my son David, for I will do you no more harm, because my life was held sacred by you this day. I have acted foolishly; indeed and have erred exceedingly."

Then David answered and said,

"Here is the king's spear! Now let one of the young men come over and get it. The LORD will recompense every man's righteousness and fidelity; for the LORD delivered you into my hand today, but I refused to stretch forth my hand against the LORD'S anointed. Just as your life was highly valued in my sight today, so may my life be highly valued in the sight of the LORD, and may he deliver me out of every distress."

Then Saul said to David,

"Blessed are you my son David; you will certainly succeed in whatever you undertake."

So David went his way, while Saul returned to his home.

DAVID'S RESIDENCE AMONG THE PHILISTINES,

27:1—28:2

Thereupon David said to himself,

"I shall be captured some day by the hand of Saul. There is nothing better for me than that I should make good my escape to the land of the Philistines; then Saul will despair of seeking me further in all the territory of Israel, and I shall escape from his hand."

So David arose and went over, accompanied by the six hundred men who were with him, to Achish, the son of Maoch, king of Gath. David with his men remained with Achish at Gath, each with his household, David with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess and Abigail the Carmelitess, Nabal's widow. Now when it was told Saul that David had fled to Gath, he gave up entirely his search for him.

"If now I have found favor in your sight," David said to Achish, "let a place be given me in one of the country towns, that I may dwell there; for why should your servant dwell in the royal city with you?"

Then Achish gave him Ziklag at that time; therefore Ziklag has belonged to the kings of Judah to this day. The length of time that David dwelt in the country of the Philistines was a year and four months. David and his men went up and made raids upon the Geshurites, the Girzites, and the Amalekites; for these tribes dwell in the land which extends from Telem as one goes to Shur, even to the land of Egypt. And whenever David attacked the land, he would not leave alive either man or woman, but he would take the sheep and cattle, the asses and camels, and clothing; and when he returned and came to Achish, and Achish said, "Against whom have you made a raid today?"

David would say,

"Against the Negeb of Judah, or against the Negeb of the Jerahmeelites, or against the Negeb of the Kenites."

But David would never leave alive man or woman, to bring them to Gath, "Lest," said he, "they should report concerning us and say, 'Thus David has done.'"

Such was his custom as long as he remained in the country of the Philistines; and Achish believed in David, saying,

"He has surely made himself abhorrent to his people Israel; therefore he shall be my servant permanently."

Now in those days the Philistines assembled their armed camps in order to make war upon Israel. Achish said to David,

"Know for a certainty that you shall go forth with me into the camp, you and your men."

David said to Achish,

"Then you shall now know what your servant is capable of."

So Achish said to David,

"Then I make you my body-guard from this time forth."

SAMUEL AND THE WITCH OF ENDOR, 28:3-25

Now Samuel had died and all Israel had lamented for him and buried him in Ramah, his own city. And Saul had put the mediums and the wizards out of the land. Then when the Philistines gathered together and came and encamped in Shunem, Saul assembled all Israel, and encamped in Gilboa. But when Saul saw the camp of the Philistines, he was afraid and his mind was filled with misgivings. Consequently Saul inquired of the LORD, but the LORD did not answer him either by dreams or by Urim or by prophets. Then Saul said to his servants,

"Seek for me a woman who has a divining talisman that I may go to her and inquire of her."

So his servants said to him,

"Behold, there is a woman at Endor who has a divining talisman."

Then Saul disguised himself by putting on other garments and went, accompanied by two men, and they came to the woman by night.

"Divine now for me by the talisman," he said, "and bring up for me the one whom I shall indicate to you."

But the woman said to him,

"Surely you know what Saul has done, how he has cut off the mediums and the wizards from the land. Why then are you laying a snare for my life, to bring about my death?"

Then Saul swore to her by the LORD, 10 saying,

"As the LORD lives, no guilt shall I come upon you from this matter."

"Whom shall I bring up to you?" said the woman.

"Bring Samuel up for me," said he.

Now when the woman saw Samuel, 12 she gave a great shriek; and the woman said to Saul,

"Why have you deceived me, for you are Saul?"

So the king said to her,

"Do not be alarmed. What have you seen?"

The woman said to Saul,

"I have seen a divine being coming up out of the earth."

"What was his appearance?" said he 14 to her.

"An old man is coming up," she said, "and he is wrapped in a mantle."

Then Saul knew that it was Samuel, and he bowed with his face to the earth and did obeisance.

Then Samuel said to Saul,

"Why have you disturbed me by bringing me up?"

"I am in great distress," said Saul, "for the Philistines are waging war against me, and God has turned from me and answers me no more, either by prophets or by dreams; therefore I have called you to tell me what I should do."

"Why do you ask me when the LORD 16 has turned from you and become your adversary?" said Samuel. "The LORD 17 has done to you as he spoke by me; for the LORD has wrenched the kingdom from your hand, and given it to your neighbor—to David. Because you did not listen to the voice of the LORD, and did not execute the fierceness of his wrath against Amalek, the LORD has done this thing to you today. Moreover the LORD will give Israel along with you into the hand of the Philistines; and tomorrow you and your sons with you will fall; the LORD will also deliver the camp of Israel into the hand of the Philistines."

Immediately Saul fell at full length upon the earth and was exceedingly fearful because of the words of Samuel; besides he had no strength in him, for he had not eaten food during a whole day and that whole night. Accordingly when the woman came to Saul and saw that he was panic-stricken, she said to him,

"You see, your maidservant has heeded your voice, and I have taken my life in my hand and have listened to your words which you spoke to me. Now therefore, listen, I beg of you, even you yourself to the voice of your maidservant; and let me set before you a bit of food, and eat that you may have strength when you go on your way."

But he refused and said, "I cannot eat."

However, his servants together with the woman proceeded to urge him, until he yielded to their entreaty. So he arose from the earth and sat upon a couch. Now the woman had a fattened calf in the house; and she speedily slew it, and took flour and kneaded it and baked from it unleavened cakes. She set it before Saul and his servants, and they ate. Then they arose and went away that night.

DAVID WITH THE PHILISTINES

29:1—30:31

Now the Philistines had assembled all their forces at Aphek; and the Israelites were encamped by the fountain which is in Jezreel. The princes of the Philistines were pressing forward (with their forces) by companies and by regiments; and David and his men were bringing up the rear with Achish. Then the commanders of the Philistines said, "What are these Hebrews?"

So Achish said to the commanders of the Philistines,

"Is not this David, the servant of Saul king of Israel, who has been with me two years? and I have found no fault in him from the day of his desertion to me until now?"

But the commanders of the Philistines were enraged against him, and the commanders of the Philistines said to him,

"Send the man back that he may return to the place where you have assigned him residence; he shall not go down with us to battle, that he may not be an adversary to us in the fray; for with what could this fellow reconcile himself to his lord? Might it not be with the heads of these men? Is not this David of whom they sang in the dances, saying,

'Saul has slain his thousands,
But David his ten thousands?'"

Then Achish called to David and said to him,

"As the LORD lives, you are reliable, and your going out and coming in with me in the camp is pleasing in my sight; for I have found no evil in you from the day that you came to me until this day, but you are not acceptable in the eyes of the princes. Now therefore return and go away quietly, that you may do nothing offensive in the sight of the princes of the Philistines."

"But what have I done?" David said to Achish, "and what have you found in your servant from the day that I came into your presence to this day, that I may not go and fight against the enemies of my lord the king?"

Achish answered and said to David, "I acknowledge that you are as acceptable in my sight as a messenger of God; nevertheless the commanders of the Philistines have said, 'He shall not go up with us to the battle.' Now therefore rise early in the morning, together with the servants of your master who came with you, and go to the place where I have assigned you residence, and allow no base thought to enter your mind, for you are upright in my sight; but rise early in the morning, and as soon as you can see, depart."

So David rose up early, together with his men, to go in the morning to return to the land of the Philistines; and the Philistines went up to Jezreel.

30 Now when David and his men arrived at Ziklag on the third day, the Amalekites had made a raid on the Negeb and upon Ziklag, and had overcome Ziklag and burned it, and they took captive the women and all who were in it, from the least to the greatest, but without slaying any, and carried them off and went their way. And when David and his men came to the city, there were only the burnt ruins; for their wives and their sons and their daughters were carried off. Then David and the people who were with him raised a cry and wept until they were without strength even to weep. Also David's two wives were taken captive, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, the widow of Nabal the Carmelite.

16 Moreover David was in a serious predicament; for the people threatened to stone him, for the spirit of all the people was embittered, each for his sons and for his daughters; but David strengthened himself in the LORD his God; and David said to Abiathar the priest, the son of Ahimelech,

"Now bring to me the ephod."

18 So Abiathar brought the ephod to David; and David inquired of the LORD, saying,

"Shall I pursue this band?"

"Shall I overtake them?"

Then he said to him,

"Pursue, for you shall assuredly overtake,

And as certainly, rescue."

19 So David set out, together with the six hundred men who were with him, and they came to the Brook Besor, and the ones left behind remained. But David together with four hundred men kept up the pursuit; while two hundred men remained behind, who were too faint to cross the Brook Besor. Then they found an Egyptian in a field and they brought him to David, and gave him food and he ate, and they provided him with water to drink; and what they gave him was a piece of a cake of figs, and two clusters of raisins. When he had eaten, his energy came back to him; for he had not tasted food or drunk water for three days and three nights.

23 Then David said to him, "To whom do you belong? And whence are you?"

"I am an Egyptian youth, a slave of an Amalekite," he said, "and my master left me when I fell sick three days ago. We had been making a raid upon the Negeb of the Cherethites and upon that which belongs to Judah and upon the Negeb of Caleb, and had burned Ziklag."

"Will you bring me down to this band?" said David to him.

"Swear to me by God," he said, "that you will neither kill me nor deliver me over to my master, and I will bring you down to this band."

So when he had brought him down, they were there scattered over the face of the whole landscape, eating and drinking and dancing, because of all the vast booty which they had taken from the land of the Philistines and from the land of Judah. But David slaughtered them from dawn until evening in order to exterminate them. Not a man escaped except four hundred young men who rode upon camels and fled. So David rescued all whom the Amalekites had taken; and likewise David rescued his two wives. Nothing belonging to them was missing, whether much or little, sons or daughters, booty or anything that they had taken for themselves—David recovered everything. So they took all the sheep and cattle and drove them before him and said,

"This is David's spoil."

But when David came to the two hundred men who had been too faint to follow David, so that he had halted them at the Brook Besor, they went out to meet David and the people who were with him, and when they drew near to the people, they saluted them. Then every base and worthless rascal among the men who went with David spoke up and said,

"Because they did not go with us, we will not give them any share of the spoil which we have recovered, except to each his wife and his children, that he may take them away and be gone."

But David said,

"Do not do so after what the LORD has given us and the way in which he has kept us and delivered the band that came against us into our hand. Who will listen to you in this matter? For: As is the share of him who goes down into the battle,

Even so is his portion who remains with the baggage;
They shall share alike."

- 25 Accordingly he made it a statute and an ordinance in Israel from that day forward to this day.
- 26 Now when David came to Ziklag, he sent some of the spoil to the elders of Judah, his friends, saying, "Here is a gift for you from the booty of the enemies of the LORD": to those who were in Bethel, to those who were in Ramoth of the Negeb, and to those in Jattir, to those who were in Aroer, in 29 Siphmoth and in Eshtemoa, to those who were in Carmel, and in the cities of the Jerahmeelites, and in the cities 30 of the Kenites, to those who were in Hormah, and in Beersheba, and in 31 Athach, and to those who were in Hebron, and to all the places which David and his men had frequented.

THE DEATH OF SAUL, 31:1-13

- 31 Now the Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and the wounded fell on 2 Mount Gilboa. The Philistines overtook Saul and his sons; and the Philistines slew Jonathan and Abinadab and 3 Malchishua, the sons of Saul. Thus the battle raged about Saul, and the archers found their mark, and he was seriously 4 wounded in the abdomen. Then Saul said to his armor-bearer,
"Draw your sword and run me through with it, lest these uncircumcised men come and run me through and make sport of me."

But his armor-bearer would not, for he was terrified. Therefore Saul took his sword and fell upon it. So when his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, then he also fell upon his sword and died with him. Thus Saul and his three sons and his armor-bearer and all his men died together on the same day.

Likewise when the men of Israel who were across the valley and beyond the Jordan saw that the Israelites had fled and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled, and the Philistines came and occupied them. Then on the morrow when the Philistines came to strip the slain, they found Saul and his three sons fallen on Mount Gilboa. They cut off his head and stripped off his armor and dispatched them throughout the land of the Philistines to bring good tidings to their idols and to the people. They also put his armor in the temple of Ashtart, and they impaled his body on the wall of Beth-shan. Now when the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard of it, namely, what the Philistines had done to Saul, all the valiant men arose and marched all night and took the bodies of Saul and his sons from the wall of Beth-shan; and they came to Jabesh and burned them there. Then they took their bones and buried them under the tamarisk tree at Jabesh, and they fasted seven days.

THE SECOND BOOK OF SAMUEL

DAVID AVENGES THE DEATH OF SAUL, 1:1-16

NOW after Saul's death, when David had returned from overcoming the Amalekites, David remained two days in Ziklag. Then on the third day, behold, a man came from the camp from Saul, with his garments rent and with earth upon his head. When he came to David, he fell to the earth and did obeisance; and David said to him,

"From where do you come?"

"From the camp of Israel I have escaped," he said to him.

"What is the situation? I pray you, tell me," said David to him.

"The people," he said, "fled from the battle, and many of the people have fallen, and also Saul and Jonathan his son are dead."

Then David said to the young man who told him,

"How do you know that Saul and Jonathan his son are dead?"

The young man who told him said, "By chance I happened to be on Mount Gilboa, and right there was Saul leaning upon his spear, and at the same time the chariotry and the leaders of the horsemen were sweeping toward him. When he looked behind him, he saw me and called to me; and I said, 'Here I am.' He said to me, 'Who are you?' So I said to him, 'I am an Amalekite.' Then he said to me, 'Stand, I pray you, beside me and despatch me; for confusion has seized me, because my life is still in me.' So I stood beside him and despatched him, because I was convinced that he could not live after he had fallen; and I took the crown that was upon his head, and the armlet that was on his arm, and I have brought them here to my lord."

Then David grasped his garments and tore them; as did likewise all the men who were with him. They mourned and lamented and fasted until evening over Saul and over Jonathan his son and over the people of the LORD and over the house of Israel, because they had fallen by the sword.

Then David said to the young man 13 who had reported to him,

"Whence are you?"

"I am the son of an Amalekite sojourner," he said.

"Why were you not afraid to stretch 14 forth your hand to destroy the LORD'S anointed?" said David to him.

David also said to him, 16

"Your blood be upon your head; for your own mouth has testified against you, by saying, 'I have slain the LORD'S anointed.'"

Then David called to one of the 15 young men, and said,

"Here! Cut him down."

So he struck him a blow, and he died.

DAVID'S DIRGE OVER SAUL AND JONATHAN, 1:17-27

Then David sang this dirge over 17 Saul and Jonathan his son (behold, it is 18 written in the Book of Jashar to instruct the Judeans), and he said,

"Your beauty, O Israel, 19
Upon your heights is slain.
How have the heroes fallen!

"Tell it not in Gath, 20
Announce it not in the streets of Askelon;
Lest the daughters of the Philistines rejoice,
Lest the daughters of the uncircumcised exult.

"O mountains of Gilboa, let neither 21
dew fall,
Nor rain be upon you, O fields of death!
For there was the shield of the mighty thrown aside,
The shield of Saul, not anointed with oil.

- 22 "From the blood of the slain,
From the fat of the mighty,
The bow of Jonathan turned not back,
Nor empty returned the sword of Saul.
- 23 "Saul and Jonathan, beloved and lovely!
In life and in death they were not divided;
Swifter than eagles were they,
They were stronger than lions.
- 24 "O daughters of Israel, weep over Saul,
Who clothed you in scarlet daintily,
Who adorned your garments with gold and jewels;
- 25 How are the mighty fallen in the midst of battle!
- "O Jonathan! by your death am I mortally wounded,
- 26 I am distressed for you, my brother Jonathan!
You were exceedingly dear to me,
Your love was more marvelous to me than the love of women.
- 27 "How have the mighty fallen,
And the weapons of war perished!"

WARS BETWEEN DAVID AND THE FORCES OF SAUL,

2:1—3:39

- 2 Now after that David inquired of the LORD, saying,
"Shall I go up to one of the cities of Judah?"
The LORD said to him,
"Go up."
And when David said,
"Whither shall I go up?"
He said,
"To Hebron."
- 2 So David went up there with his two wives, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail, the widow of Nabal the Carmelite. David also brought up the men who were with him, each with his household, and they dwelt in the towns of Hebron. Then the men of Judah came and there anointed David king over the house of Judah.
- Now when they told David, saying that the men of Jabesh-gilead had buried Saul, David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh-gilead, and said to
them,

"Blessed are you of the LORD, because you have shown this kindness to your lord, even to Saul, and have buried him. Now may the LORD show kindness and truth to you; and I also will do well by you, because you have done this thing. Therefore let your hands be strong and be valiant; for Saul your lord is dead, and the house of Judah has anointed me king over
them."

Now Abner, the son of Ner, commander of Saul's army, had taken Ishbaal, the son of Saul, and brought him over to Mahanaim. He had him made king over Gilead and the Ashurites and Jezreel and Ephraim and Benjamin and all Israel. Ishbaal, Saul's son, was forty years old when he became king over Israel, and he reigned two years. But the house of Judah followed David; and the length of time that David was king in Hebron over the house of Judah was seven years and six months.

Now Abner, the son of Ner, and the servants of Ishbaal, the son of Saul, went out from Mahanaim to Gibeon;
and Joab, the son of Zeruiah, and the servants of David went out from Hebron and met them at the pool of Gib-eon. They sat down, the one on the one side of the pool and the other on the other side of the pool. Then Abner said to Joab,

"I pray you, let the young men arise and make sport before us."

"Let them arise," said Joab.

Then they arose and were numbered off: twelve for Benjamin, and Ishbaal the son of Saul, and twelve for the servants of David. Thereupon they seized each his adversary by the head and his sword transfixed his side, so they fell down together. So they called that place the Portion of Ground of the Sides, which is in Gibeon. The battle was very bitterly fought that day, and Abner and the men of Israel were put to rout before the servants of David.

There were three sons of Zeruiah there, Joab, Abishai, and Asahel; and Asahel was as swift of foot as one of the gazelles which are in the field. Now Asahel pursued Abner; and he turned not in his course to the right or to the left from his pursuit of Abner. So Abner turned about and said,

"Is that you, Asahel?"

"It is I," he said.

121 So Abner said to him,
 "Turn aside to your right or to your left and seize one of the young men and take for yourself his spoil."

122 But Asahel would not turn from pursuing him. Therefore Abner said again to Asahel,

"Turn aside from following me. Why should I fell you to the earth? How then could I look your brother Joab in the face?"

123 But he refused to turn aside. Therefore Abner struck him with a backward thrust of the spear in the abdomen, so that the spear came out at his back, and he fell there and died in his tracks. So all who came to the place where Asahel had fallen and died, stood still.

124 Then Joab and Abishai took up the pursuit of Abner; and as the sun was setting, they came to the hill of Ammah, which is in front of Giah on the way to the Desert of Gibeon. The Benjaminites rallied their forces around Abner and formed into line, and halted on a hilltop. Then Abner called to Joab and said,

"Shall the sword devour forever? Do you not know that it will be bitter in the end? How long then before you are going to tell the people to give up the pursuit of their brothers?"

127 "As the LORD lives," said Joab, "unless you had spoken, then only after the morning would the people have given up, each from pursuing his brother. So Joab blew the trumpet and all the people halted and pursued Israel no more, nor was there any more fighting. Then Abner and his men marched all that night through the Arabah and crossed the Jordan and traversed the whole of Bithron and arrived at Mahanaim.

130 So Joab returned from pursuing Abner. But when he had assembled all the people, nineteen of David's servants were missing, besides Asahel; while the servants of David had slain from Benjamin and among Abner's men three hundred and sixty. Moreover they took up Asahel and buried him in his father's grave, which was in Bethlehem. Then Joab and his men marched all night, and the light broke upon them at Hebron.

138 Moreover the war between the house of Saul and the house of David grew more strenuous; and David kept growing stronger, while the house of Saul became gradually weaker.

Also sons were born to David in Hebron; his first-born was Amnon, the son of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; and his second, Chileab, the son of Abigail, the widow of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, Absalom, the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmi, king of Geshur; and the fourth, Adonijah, the son of Haggith; and the fifth, Shephethiah, the son of Abital; and the sixth, Ithream, belonged to Eglah, David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

Now, while there was war between the house of Saul and the house of David, Abner was strengthening himself in the house of Saul. Saul had a concubine, whose name was Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, and Ishbaal, the son of Saul, said to Abner,

"Why do you go in unto my father's concubine?"

Then Abner was very angry at the words of Ishbaal and said,

"Am I a dog's head, that today I am showing kindness to the house of Saul your father, to his brothers, and to his friends, and have not delivered you into the hand of David, that you now charge me with guilt in relation to a woman? May God requite Abner and worse, if, as the LORD has sworn to David, I do not even so to him, by transferring the kingdom from the house of Saul and by establishing the throne of David over Israel and Judah from Dan to Beersheba."

But he could not answer Abner a single word, because of his fear of him.

Accordingly Abner sent messengers to David to Hebron, saying,

"Make your covenant with me; then my hand shall be with you to bring all Israel to you."

"It is well," he said; "I will make a covenant with you, but one thing I demand of you, namely, you shall not see my face unless you bring Michal, Saul's daughter, when you come to see me."

Then David sent messengers to Ishbaal, Saul's son, saying,

"Give me my wife Michal, whom I acquired for a hundred foreskins of the Philistines."

So Ishbaal sent and took her from her husband, Paltiel, the son of Laish. But her husband accompanied her, weeping as he followed her as far as Bahurim. Then Abner said to him,

"Go, return."

So he returned.

17 Now Abner had communicated with the elders of Israel, saying,

"Already some considerable time ago you were seeking to have David king over you. Now then do it; for the LORD has said of David, 'By the hand of my servant David I will save my people Israel from the hand of the Philistines and from the power of all their enemies.'"

19 Abner also spoke in the ears of Benjamin, and Abner went also to speak to David personally in Hebron all that seemed good in the sight of Israel and in the sight of the whole house of Benjamin.

20 So when Abner came to David at Hebron, accompanied by twenty men, David made Abner and the men who were with him a feast. Then Abner said to David,

"I will arise and assemble all Israel to my lord the king, that they may make a covenant with you and that you may be king over all, as you personally desire."

Then David sent Abner away, and he went in peace.

22 Just then the servants of David and Joab arrived from a raid, and they brought a large amount of plunder with them; but Abner was not with David in Hebron, because David had sent him away, and he had gone in peace. But when Joab and all the force that was with him came in, they told Joab, saying,

"Abner, the son of Ner, has been with the king, but he has sent him away, and he has gone in peace."

24 Then Joab went to the king and said,

"What have you done? I understand that Abner has been to see you; why have you now sent him away, so that he is gone? Do you not know Abner, the son of Ner, that he has come to deceive you and to learn of your going out and your coming in and to know all that you are doing?"

26 Therefore when Joab came out from David's presence, he sent messengers after Abner and they brought him back from the Well of Sirah without David's knowledge. Then when Abner returned to Hebron, Joab beckoned him to the side of the gate to speak with him privately and stabbed him there in the abdomen. So he died for the blood of Asahel Joab's brother.

Now when David heard of it, he said, 24

"I and my kingdom are forever innocent before the LORD of the blood of Abner, the son of Ner. May it fall temptuously upon the head of Joab and upon all his father's house, and may there not be lacking from the house of Joab one who has an issue, or who is leprous, or who holds the distaff, or who falls by the sword, or who lacks bread."

But Joab and Abishai his brother slew Abner because he had killed Asahel their brother in the battle at Gibeon.

Then David said to Joab, and to all the people who were with him,

"Rend your garments and gird on sackcloth, and lament before Abner!"

Also King David followed the bier; and when they buried Abner in Hebron, the king raised a loud wailing at the grave of Abner, and all the people wept. David also chanted a dirge for Abner and said,

"Should Abner die as dies the wanton fool?

Your hands were not bound,
Nor your feet cramped in fetters;
As one falls before bandits, you have fallen."

Then all the people wept afresh for him. Afterward all the people came to persuade David to eat food while it was still day; but David swore, saying,

"May God requite me and worse, if I taste bread or anything else before the sun sets."

Now when all the people took notice, it was pleasing in their eyes; for everything which the king did was pleasing in the sight of all the people. So all the people and all Israel perceived that day that it was not the intention of David to slay Abner, the son of Ner. Then the king said to his servants,

"Do you not know that a prince and a great man has fallen this day in Israel? I am today weak, though anointed king; for these men, the sons of Zeruiah, are too difficult for me. May the LORD requite the evil-doer according to his guilt!"

THE END OF SAUL'S HOUSE,

1 Accordingly when Ishbaal, Saul's son, heard that Abner was dead in Hebron, his hands became listless and all Israel was dismayed. Ishbaal, Saul's son, had two men who were captains of guerilla bands: the name of one was Baanah, and the name of the other was Rechab, sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, of the Benjaminites (for Beeroth is also reckoned to Benjamin, and the Beerothites fled to Gittaim and have been sojourners there until this day).

1 Also Jonathan, Saul's son, had a son who was crippled in his feet. He was five years old when the news of Saul and Jonathan came from Jezreel; and his nurse took him up and fled, and as she fled in haste, he fell and was made lame. His name was Meribaal. Then the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, Rechab and Baanah, went forth and came to the house of Ishbaal about the heat of the day as he was taking his mid-day siesta. At that particular time the doorkeeper of the house was cleaning wheat, but she had become drowsy and slept. So Rechab and Baanah his brother slipped through and thus entered the house, as he was lying on his couch in his sleeping room, and they struck him and killed him and cut off his head.

Then they took his head and journeyed all night by the way of the Arabah, and they brought the head of Ishbaal to David at Hebron and said to the king,

"Here is the head of Ishbaal, the son of Saul your enemy, who sought your life. Thus the LORD has granted vengeance to my lord the king this day on Saul and his descendants."

Then David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, and said to them,

"As the LORD lives, who has delivered my life out of every distress, when one told me, saying, 'Behold, Saul is dead,' considering himself a messenger of good tidings, I seized him and killed him in Ziklag, to give him a reward for his tidings. How much more, when wicked men have slain a righteous man in his own house upon his bed, shall I not hold you responsible for his blood, and destroy you from the earth?"

Then David gave a command to his young men and they slew them and cut off their hands and their feet and hanged them up beside the pool in Hebron. But the head of Ishbaal they took and buried in the grave of Abner in Hebron.

DAVID, KING OF ISRAEL,

5:1-16

Then all the tribes of Israel came to David at Hebron and said as follows:

"Behold, we are your bone and your flesh. Also formerly when Saul was king over us, it was you who led out and brought in Israel, and the LORD said to you, 'You shall shepherd my people Israel, and you shall be a leader over Israel.'"

So all the elders of Israel came to the king at Hebron, and King David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel.

David was thirty years old when he became king, and he reigned forty years. In Hebron he reigned over Judah seven years and six months, and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty-three years over all Israel and Judah.

The king and his men went to Jerusalem against the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land, who spoke to David, saying, "You shall not come in here, but the blind and the lame shall prevent you," thinking David could not enter there.

Nevertheless David took the citadel of Zion (that is the city of David). David said on that day,

"He who would smite the Jebusites, let him gain the water shaft, and all will be as the lame and blind who hate David's life."

Therefore it is said,

"The blind and the lame cannot come into the house."

So David dwelt in the citadel, and called it the City of David.

David also built an encircling wall from the Millo and inward.

Thus David kept on increasing in power, for the LORD of hosts was with him. Therefore Hiram, king of Tyre, sent messengers to David, also cedar

- trees and carpenters and stone-cutters
 12 and they built David a house; and David realized that the LORD had established him king over Israel; for his kingdom had been exalted for the sake of his people Israel.
- 13 David also took more concubines and wives from Jerusalem, after he 14 came from Hebron; and there were other sons and daughters born to David. These are the names of those who were born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, Ibhar, 15 Elishua, Nepheg, Japhia, Elishama, 16 Baaliada, and Eliphelet.

WAR WITH THE PHILISTINES, 5:17-25

- 17 Accordingly when the Philistines heard that they had anointed David king over Israel, all the Philistines went up to seek David; and when David heard of this he went down to the stronghold.
- 18 Now the Philistines had come and spread themselves out in the valley of 19 Rephaim. Therefore David inquired of the LORD, saying,
 "Shall I go up against the Philistines? Wilt thou deliver them into my hand?"
- Then the LORD said to David,
 "Go up; for I will certainly deliver the Philistines into your hand."
- 20 So David came to Baal-perazim, and David defeated them there; and he said,
 "The LORD has burst forth upon my enemies before me, like the bursting of a dam."
- Therefore he called the name of that 21 place Baal-perazim. Moreover they left their gods there, and David and his men carried them away.
- 22 The Philistines came up once again and spread themselves out in the valley of 23 Rephaim; and when David inquired of the LORD, he said,
 "You shall not go up; go around to their rear and come upon them opposite the balsam trees. Then when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, make haste, for at that moment the LORD has gone forth before you to fall upon the camp of the Philistines."
- 24 So David did as the LORD commanded him, and he joined battle with the Philistines from Gibeon as far as Gezer.

THE RETURN OF THE ARK TO JERUSALEM, 6:1-23

David again mustered all the chosen men of Israel, thirty thousand. Then David and all the people who were with him arose and went to Baal-Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God which is called by the name of the LORD of hosts who is seated upon the cherubim. Also they conveyed the ark of God upon a new cart, and they brought it up from the house of Abinadab which was on the hill, and Uzzah and Ahio, the sons of Abinadab, were guiding the cart: Uzzah was walking beside the ark of God, while Ahio was walking in front of the ark. At the same time David and all the house of Israel were reveling before the LORD with all their might with songs and harps and lyres and with tambourines and castanets and cymbals. But when they came to the threshing floor of Naccon, Uzzah put out his hand to the ark of God and grasped hold of it, for the oxen jostled it. Then the anger of the LORD blazed against Uzzah and God struck him down there because he put his hand to the ark and there he died beside the ark of God. Whereupon David was angry because the LORD had broken forth upon Uzzah. Therefore that place is called Perez-uzzah [Breach of Uzzah] to this day. Moreover David was afraid of the LORD that day and he said,

"How can the ark of the LORD come to me?"

So David was unwilling to remove the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David, but took it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite. Thus the ark of the LORD remained in the house of Obed-edom the Gittite three months. But the LORD blessed Obed-edom and all his house.

Now when it was told King David that the LORD had blessed the house of Obed-edom and all that belonged to him, because of the ark of God, David went and brought up the ark of God with joy from the house of Obed-edom to the city of David. Accordingly when the bearers of the ark of the LORD had advanced six paces, he sacrificed an ox and a fatling. David was also whirling in a dance with all his might, and David was girded with a linen apron. So David and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting and the sound of the trumpet.

Then as the ark of the LORD was coming to the city of David, and Michal, the daughter of Saul, was looking out of the window, she saw King David whirling and leaping before the LORD, and despised him in her heart. Now when they brought in the ark of the LORD and set it in its place within the tent that David had pitched for it, David offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings before the LORD; and when David finished offering the burnt-offerings and the thank-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts. He also distributed to all the people, even the whole multitude of Israel, both men and women, to each a loaf of bread and a portion of meat and a raisin cake. Then all the people departed each to his home.

But when David returned to bless his family, Michal the daughter of Saul came out to meet David and said,

"How dignified was the king of Israel today as he stripped himself in the sight of the maidservants of his retainers, as a common rake exposes himself!"

"It is before the LORD that I dance," said David to Michal. "Blessed be the LORD, who chose me rather than your father or any of his house to appoint me as a leader over the people of the LORD, over Israel. Therefore I will dispute myself before the LORD and I will be still more abandoned than that, and I will be vile in your eyes. But with the maid-servants to whom you have referred I shall indeed be held in honor."

Michal the daughter of Saul had no child to the day of her death.

DAVID'S DESIRE TO BUILD A TEMPLE, 7:1-29

Now when the king dwelt in his house, and the LORD had given him rest from all his enemies on every side, the king said to Nathan the prophet,
"See here, I dwell in a house of cedar,

but the ark of God dwells under tent curtains."

Then Nathan said to the king,
"Go, do all that is in your mind, for the LORD is with you."

But that very night the word of the LORD came to Nathan, saying,

"Go and say to my servant David,
"Thus says the LORD: "Should you build me a house to dwell in? for I have not dwelt in a house since the day I brought up the Israelites out of Egypt, even to this day, but I have been making my abode in a tent as a dwelling.

In all the places where I have made my abode with all the Israelites, did I speak a word with one of the judges of Israel whom I commanded to shepherd my people Israel, saying, 'Why have you not built me a house of cedar?' "

Now therefore thus you shall say to my servant David, 'Thus says the LORD of hosts: "I took you from the pasture, from following the sheep, that you should be a leader over my people, over Israel; and I have been with you wherever you have gone, and I have cut off all your enemies from before you, and I will make for you a great name, like the name of the great who are in the earth.

I will also appoint a place for my people Israel and will plant them that they may dwell in their own place, and be disturbed no more. The wicked shall no more afflict them as formerly, even from the day that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel.

"Thus I will give you respite from all your foes.

The LORD also declares to you That he will make you a house;
And when your days are finished, 12

And you are laid with your fathers, I will raise up your heir after you, Who shall be born of your body;

And I will establish his kingdom. He shall build a house for my name, 13
And I will establish the throne of his kingdom forever.

"I will be a father to him, 14
And he shall be a son to me;
When he goes astray,

I will chasten him with the rod of men, And with the stripes of the sons of Adam.

But my kindness shall not depart from 15
him,

As I withdrew it from him who was before you.

16 Your house and your kingdom shall be confirmed before me forever; Your throne shall be established forever." " "

17 In accordance with all these words and all this vision, so did Nathan speak to David.

18 Then King David went in and sat down before the LORD and said,

"Who am I, my lord GOD, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me

19 thus far? As though this were too small a thing in thine eyes, O my lord GOD, thou hast gone on to speak concerning the house of thy servant for a long time to come, and hast made me see the coming generations of men, O my lord

20 GOD! Now what more can David say to thee? for thou knowest thy servant,

21 O my lord GOD. For thy word's sake, and according to thine own heart hast thou brought about all this greatness to

22 show it to thy servant. Therefore thou art great, O LORD God, for there is none like thee, and there is no God beside thee, according to all that we have

23 heard with our ears. What other nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem for himself as a people, to make himself a name by doing great and terrible things for them (for thy land) in driving out from before his people, whom thou didst redeem for thyself from Egypt, a nation

24 and its gods? And thou didst establish for thyself thy people Israel for thine own people forever, and thou, O LORD,

25 didst become their God. Now, therefore, O LORD God, confirm forever the word which thou hast spoken concerning thy servant and concerning his

26 house, and do as thou hast spoken, that thy name may be magnified forever, in saying, 'The LORD of hosts is God over Israel; and the house of thy servant

David shall be established before thee.'

27 For thou, O LORD of hosts, God of Israel, hast revealed to thy servant, saying, 'I will build you a house'; therefore thy servant has found his courage to

28 pray unto thee this prayer. And now, O my lord GOD, thou art God, and thy words are truth, and thou hast spoken

29 this good word to thy servant; now therefore may it please thee to bless the house of thy servant that it may continue before thee forever; for thou, O my lord GOD, hast spoken; and with thy blessing the house of thy servant shall be forever blest."

DAVID'S WARS, 8:1-18

Now after this David defeated the Philistines and subdued them; and David took the control of the metropolis out of the hand of the Philistines. He also defeated the Moabites and measured them off with a line, making them lie down on the ground; and he measured two lines to put to death and one line to save alive. Thus the Moabites became subject to David and brought tribute. Then David defeated Hadadezer, the son of Rehob, the king of Zobah, as he went to establish his power at the River; and David took from him a thousand chariots, seven thousand cavalry, and twenty thousand infantry; and David hamstringed all the chariot horses, but reserved enough of them for one hundred chariots.

Likewise when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians twenty-two thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Damascene Syria, and the Syrians became subject to David and brought tribute. Thus the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went. David also took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem; and from Tabah and Berothai, cities of Hadadezer, King David took a very large amount of bronze.

Now when Toi, king of Hamath, heard that David had defeated all the army of Hadadezer, Toi sent Hadoram his son to King David, to greet him and congratulate him because he had fought against Hadadezer and defeated him; for Hadadezer had been Toi's opponent in war; and he brought with him articles of silver, gold, and bronze. These also King David dedicated to the LORD, along with the silver and gold that he dedicated from all the nations that he had subdued—from Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Amalek, and from the spoil of Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah. So David won fame. On his return, he overcame eighteen thousand

6 Edomites in the Valley of Salt; and he put garrisons throughout all Edom; and all the Edomites became David's servants. Thus the LORD gave David victory wherever he went.

7 David was king over all Israel; and David administered justice and righteousness for all his people. Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was in command of the army, and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was recorder, and Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Abiathar, the son of Ahimelech, were priests, and Seraiah was scribe, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was in command of the Cherethites and Pelethites, and David's sons were priests.

DAVID'S KINDNESS TO JONATHAN'S SON, 9:1-13

"Is there anyone left of the family of Saul to whom I may show kindness for Jonathan's sake?" said David.

2 Now there was a retainer of Saul's house whose name was Ziba, and they called him to David; and the king said to him,

"Are you Ziba?"

"Your servant," he said.

3 "Is there not still someone belonging to the house of Saul to whom I may show the kindness of God?" said the king.

"There is a son of Jonathan still living, who is crippled in his feet," said Ziba to the king.

4 "Where is he?" said the king to him.

"Behold, he is in the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lodebar," Ziba said to the king.

5 Then King David sent and took him from the house of Machir, the son of Aminiel, from Lodebar. When Meribaal, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, came to David, he fell on his face and did obeisance; and David said, "Meribaal!"

"Behold your servant," he said.

7 "Fear not," said David to him, "for I will surely show you kindness for the sake of Jonathan your father and I will restore to you the entire estate of Saul your grandfather, and you shall always eat bread at my table."

8 Again he did obeisance and said,

"What is your servant that you should regard such a dead dog as I am?"

Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's 9 domestic, and said to him,

"All that belonged to Saul and to all his house I give to your master's son; and you together with your sons and 10 your servants shall cultivate the soil for him, and bring in the harvest that your master's son may have food to eat; but Meribaal, your master's son, shall always eat bread at my table."

Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants. Then Ziba said to the king, 11

"Your servant will do just as my lord the king commands his servant."

So Meribaal ate at David's table like one of the king's sons. And Meribaal 12 had a little son and his name was Mica; and all who dwelt in Ziba's house were Meribaal's servants. So Meribaal 13 dwelt in Jerusalem; for he ate regularly at the king's table, being crippled in both feet.

DAVID'S VICTORY OVER AMMON, 10:1-19

Now after this, the king of the Am- 10 monites died and Hanun his son became king in his stead. Then David 2 said,

"I will show kindness to Hanun, the son of Nahash, as his father showed kindness to me."

So David sent by his servants to condole with him concerning his father. But when the servants of David came to the land of the Ammonites, 3 the princes of the Ammonites said to Hanun their lord,

"Do you imagine that David is honoring your father in sending you comforters? Is it not to inspect the city and to spy it out and to overthrow it, that David has sent his servants to you?"

Whereupon Hanun took David's 4 servants, and shaved off one side of their beards, cut their garments off at the hips, and sent them away. When 5 they told David about the men, he sent to meet them, for the men were deeply ashamed. So the king said,

"Remain at Jericho until your beards are grown and then return."

Now when the Ammonites saw that 6 they were in bad odor with David, the Ammonites sent and hired the Arameans of Beth-Rehob, and the Arameans of Zobah, twenty thousand infantry, and the king of Maacah with a thousand men, and Ishtob with twelve thousand men. When David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of seasoned troops. Then the Ammonites came out and drew up in line of battle at the entrance of the city; and the Arameans of Zobah and Rehob, and Ishtob and Maacah, were by themselves in the open country.

9 Now when Joab saw that he had to meet both a frontal and rear attack, he made a selection from all the picked men of Israel, and drew them up in line against the Arameans. The rest of the people he placed in command of Abishai his brother; and he drew them up in line against the Ammonites. Then he said,

"If the Arameans prove too strong for me, then you shall be my help, but if the Ammonites prove too strong for you, then I will come to your aid. Be courageous, and let us show ourselves strong for the sake of our people and for the cities of our God; and may the LORD do that which is good in his sight."

13 Now when Joab and the people who were with him drew near to join battle with the Arameans, they fled before him; and when the Ammonites saw that the Arameans had fled, they likewise fled before Abishai, and entered the city. Then Joab returned from his attack upon the Ammonites, and came to Jerusalem.

15 But when the Arameans saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they gathered themselves together. Moreover Hadadezer sent, and brought the Arameans who were beyond the River, and they came to Helam, with Shobach, the commander of Hadadezer's army, at their head. Now when it was told David, he gathered all Israel together and crossed the Jordan and came to Helam. Thereupon the Arameans drew up their lines to meet David and fought with him. But the Arameans fled before Israel; and David destroyed seven hundred chariots and forty thousand horsemen and he mortally wounded Shobach, the commander of their army, so that he died there.

19 When all the kings who were servants of Hadadezer, saw that they were defeated by Israel, they made peace with Israel and became subject to them. So the Arameans feared to help the Ammonites any more.

DAVID'S SIN WITH BATHSHEBA, 11:1—12:25

Now at the return of spring, at the time when kings go forth, David sent Joab and his servants with him, even all Israel, and they ravaged the Ammonites, and besieged Rabbah. But David remained in Jerusalem. Then one day at sunset, David got up from his couch, and walked to and fro upon the roof of the king's house; and from the roof he saw a woman bathing. The woman was very beautiful. Therefore David sent and sought for the woman, and said,

"Is not this Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, the wife of Uriah the Hittite?"

So David sent messengers and took her; and she came to him, and he lay with her at the time she was cleansing herself from her impurity; then she returned to her house. So the woman conceived; and she sent and informed David, and she said,

"I am with child."

Then David sent to Joab,

"Send me Uriah the Hittite."

Accordingly Joab sent Uriah the Hittite to David; and when Uriah came to him, David asked concerning the welfare of Joab and the condition of the people and the course of the war. Then David said to Uriah,

"Go down to your house and wash your feet."

So Uriah went out of the king's house, and there followed him a present from the king. But Uriah slept at the entrance of the king's house, along with all the servants of his lord, and did not go down to his house. Now when they told David that Uriah did not go down to his house, David said to Uriah,

"Have you not come from a journey? Why have you not gone down to your house?"

Then Uriah said to David,

"The ark and Israel and Judah dwell in booths, and my master Joab and the servants of my lord are camping in the open field; and should I enter my house to eat and drink and to lie with my wife? As the LORD lives and as you yourself live, I could not do this thing."

So David said to Uriah,

"Remain here today also, and tomorrow I will send you away."

Accordingly Uriah remained in Jeru-

3 salem that day. But on the morrow David summoned him and he ate and drank before him, so that he made him drunk; and in the evening he went out to lie on his bed with the servants of his lord, but he did not go down to his house.

4 Then in the morning, David wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hand of Uriah; and he wrote in the letter, saying,

5 "Put Uriah in the forefront of the hottest fighting, then draw back from him, that he may be struck down and die."

6 Therefore as Joab pressed the siege against the city, he put Uriah at a point where he knew the best opposing troops were; and when the men of the city sallied out and fought with Joab, some of the men of David's forces fell, and Uriah the Hittite was also among the slain. Then Joab sent and reported to David the full details of the fighting.

7 He also gave instructions to the messenger, saying,

8 "When you have finished telling all the details of the fighting to the king, then if the king's anger is aroused, and he say to you, 'Why did you go so near the city to fight? Did you not know that they would shoot from the wall? Who killed Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman drop an upper millstone upon him from the wall, so that he died in Thebez? Why did you go near the wall?' Then you shall say, 'Your servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also.'"

9 So the messenger of Joab set out and came and when he told David all that with which Joab had charged him, even all the details of the fighting, then David was enraged at Joab, and he said to the messenger,

10 "Why did you go near the city to fight? Did you not realize that you would be attacked from the wall? Who killed Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal? Did not a woman drop an upper millstone upon him from the wall, so that he died in Thebez? Why did you go near the wall?"

11 Then the messenger said to David, "Because the men gained an advantage over us and came out to fight us in the open field, but we fought them back to the very entrance of the gate, and then the archers shot from the wall at your servants; and some of the king's servants are dead, and your servant Uriah the Hittite is dead also."

12 Thereupon David said to the messenger,

13 "Thus shall you say to Joab: 'Let not this affair depress you, for the sword devours one as well as another; strengthen your attack upon the city and overthrow it,' and do you encourage him."

14 Now when the wife of Uriah heard that Uriah her husband was dead, she made lamentation for her husband. But when the mourning was over, David sent and removed her to his house, and she became his wife and bore him a son. But the thing that David had done displeased the LORD.

15 Accordingly, the LORD sent the prophet Nathan to David; and he came to him, and said to him,

16 "There were two men in a certain city, the one rich, and the other poor. The rich man owned very many flocks and herds. But the poor man had nothing but a single little ewe lamb, which he had bought. He reared it and it grew up with him and with his children. It would eat from his food and drink from his cup, and it lay in his bosom, and it was like a daughter to him. Now there came a traveler to the rich man, and he refused to take from his own flock or his own herd to make ready for the wayfarer who had come to him, but he took the poor man's lamb and prepared it for the man who had come to him."

17 Then David's anger became furious against the man, and he said to Nathan,

18 "As the LORD lives, the man that does this is worthy of death; he shall restore the lamb sevenfold, because he did this and because he showed no pity."

19 "You are the man!" said Nathan to David. "Thus says the LORD God of Israel: 'I anointed you king over Israel and I delivered you out of the hand of Saul, and I gave you your master's house and your master's wives into your bosom; I also gave you the house of Israel and of Judah, and if that were too little, I would add in this or that way. Why have you despised the LORD by doing that which is evil in my sight? You have slain Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and you have taken his wife to be your wife, having slain him with the sword of the Ammonites. Now therefore the sword shall never depart from your house, because you have despised me and have taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be your wife.' Thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I will raise up evil against you out of your own house, and I will take your wives from before your eyes and give them to your neighbor, and he shall lie with your wives in the sight of this sun, for you did it secretly; but I will do this thing before all Israel in the open light of day.' "

13 Then David said to Nathan, "I have sinned against the LORD."
"The LORD has also taken away your sin; you shall not die," said Nathan to David. "Nevertheless, because you have openly spurned the LORD by this deed, the child that is born to you shall surely die."

15 Then Nathan went to his house. And the LORD struck the child that the wife of Uriah bore to David, so that it was taken ill, and David besought the LORD in behalf of the child, and he kept a fast and went in and lay in sackcloth upon the earth. Then the older men of his household arose and stood beside him in order to raise him up from the earth, but he would not, neither would he eat food with them.

18 Now on the seventh day the child died; and the servants of David feared to tell him that the child was dead, for they said,

"Behold, while the child was still alive, we spoke to him, and he heeded not our voice; how can we say to him, the child is dead? How desperate it will make him!"

19 But when David saw that his servants were whispering to one another, David perceived that the child was dead, and David said to his servants,

"Is the child dead?"

"He is dead," they said.

20 Thereupon David arose from the earth, and bathed and anointed himself, and changed his garments; and he went into the house of the LORD and worshiped. Then he went to his own house; and he asked for food and they set it before him and he ate. However, his servants said to him,

"What is the meaning of this thing that you have done? You have fasted and wept for the child, while it was alive, but when the child died, you have arisen and eaten food!"

"While the child was still alive," he said, "I fasted and wept; for I said, 'Who knows whether the LORD will show himself merciful to me and let the child live?' But now he is dead; why should I fast? Can I bring him back again? I expect to go to him, but he will never come back to me."

Then David comforted Bathsheba his wife, and went in to her and lay with her and she conceived and bore a son, and he called his name Solomon. The LORD loved him, and sent a message through Nathan the prophet; so he called his name Jedidiah, according to the command of the LORD.

DAVID'S CAPTURE OF RABBAH OF AMMON, 12:26-31

Joab fought against Rabbah of the Ammonites and took the City of the Waters. Then Joab sent messengers to David, and said,

"I have fought against Rabbah; I have also taken the City of the Waters. Now therefore muster the rest of the people, and encamp against the city, and take it, lest I take it and my name be proclaimed over it."

So David mustered all the people and went to Rabbah and fought against it and took it. He also took the crown of Milcom from his head; and its weight was about a talent of gold, and in it was a precious stone; and it was placed on David's head. And he brought away the very great amount of the city's spoil. He also brought forth the people who were in it, and set them to the saws and to cutting instruments of iron and to axes of iron, and on occasion he made them labor at the brick-molds. Even thus he did in turn to all the cities of the Ammonites. Then David and all the people returned to Jerusalem.

DAVID'S FAMILY TROUBLES, 13:1-14:33

Now Absalom, a son of David, had a beautiful sister, whose name was Tamar; and it happened after this that Amnon, a son of David, loved her.

 2 Amnon was so distressed that he made himself sick because of his sister Tamar — for she was a virgin—and it seemed impossible to Amnon to get any approach to her.

3 But Amnon had a friend whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah, David's brother, and Jonadab was a very shrewd man.

4 "Why, O prince, are you so depressed morning after morning?" he said to him. "Will you not tell me?"

"I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister," said Amnon to him.

5 "Lie down on your bed, and pretend to be ill," Jonadab said to him. "Then when your father comes to see you, say to him, 'Let now my sister Tamar come and serve me some food, and let her prepare the food in my sight, that I may see it and eat from her hand.'"

6 So Amnon lay down and pretended to be ill. And when the king came to see him, Amnon said to the king,

"Let now my sister Tamar come and make a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat from her hand."

7 So David sent to the house for Tamar, saying,

"Go now to your brother Amnon's house, and prepare food for him."

8 Then Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house while he was there in bed. She took dough and kneaded it and make cakes before him, and fried 9 the cakes; and she took the pan and poured them out before him, but he refused to eat. Amnon then said,

"Put out everybody from attending me."

10 So they all withdrew from him. Then Amnon said to Tamar,

"Bring the food into the chamber, that I may eat from your hand."

So Tamar took the cakes that she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother. But 11 when she had brought them near to him to eat, he took hold of her and said to her,

"Come, lie with me, my sister."

12 "No, my brother," she said to him, "do not humiliate me, for it is not so done in Israel; do not this disgraceful

13 folly. As for me, whither could I carry my shame? and as for you, you would become as one of the impious profligates in Israel. Now therefore, I pray you, speak to the king; for he will not withhold me from marrying you."

But he would not listen to her voice, 14 and being stronger than she, he overpowered her and lay with her.

Then Amnon hated her with un- 15 terable hatred, for the hatred with which he hated her was greater than the love with which he had loved her.

"Arise be gone!" said Amnon to her. But she said to him,

16 "No, my brother; for greater would be this wrong, to send me away, than the first that you have done to me."

However, he would not listen to her, but called his servant, who ministered 17 to him, and said,

"Put out now this female from my presence, and bolt the door after her."

Now she wore a long-sleeved tunic 18 reaching to the ankles, for thus the virgin princesses were formerly accustomed to be clad. So his servant put her out and bolted the door after her. Then Ta- 19 mar put ashes on her head, and rent the long-sleeved tunic which she wore; and putting her hand on her head, she departed, crying aloud as she went along.

Accordingly Absalom her own broth- 20 er said to her,

"Has Amnon your brother been with you? But now, my sister, be quiet, he is your brother; do not take this matter to heart."

So Tamar remained desolate in the house of Absalom her brother. More- 21 over when king David heard all these things, he was very angry, but he did not reprove Amnon his son, for he loved him, because he was his first-born. But 22 Absalom spoke to Amnon neither good nor bad; for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had violated his sister Tamar.

Now it happened just two years lat- 23 er, that Absalom had sheep-shearers in Baal-hazor near Ephraim, and Absalom invited all the king's sons. Like- 24 wise Absalom went to the king and said,

"See now, your servant has sheep-shearers, let the king and his servants, I pray you, go with your servant."

But the king said to Absalom, 25 "No, my son, let us not all go now, lest we be a burden to you."

He pressed him, but he would not go, but he added his blessing.

"If not, then I pray you, let my 26

brother Amnon go with us," said Absalom.

"Why should he go with you?" said the king to him.

27 But when Absalom pressed him, he let Amnon and all the king's sons go with him. So Absalom made a feast like a royal feast. Then Absalom commanded his servants, saying,

"See now, when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say to you, 'Strike down Amnon,' then kill him. Fear not; have I not given you your orders? Be courageous and show yourselves valiant."

29 So the retainers of Absalom did to Amnon as Absalom commanded. Then all the king's sons arose and each mounted his mule and fled.

30 While they were on the way, the report came to David that Absalom had murdered all the king's sons so that there was not one of them left. Then the king arose and tore his garments and lay on the earth; and all his servants who were standing by him tore their garments. But Jonadab, the son of Shimeah, David's brother, answered and said,

"Let not my lord suppose that they have killed all the young men, the king's sons, for Amnon alone is dead, since by the mouth of Absalom this has been determined ever since he violated his sister Tamar. Now therefore let not 33 his sister Tamar. Now therefore let not my lord the king take the report so seriously to heart as to imagine that all the king's sons are dead; but Amnon alone is dead."

34 When the youth who kept the watch lifted up his eyes and looked, behold many people were coming on the Horonaim road; and the watchman came and told the king, saying,

"I have seen men coming down from the Horonaim road by the side of the mountain."

35 So Jonadab said to the king, "There, the king's sons have come; according to the word of your servant, so it has come about."

36 As soon as he had finished speaking, behold, the king's sons arrived, and they lifted up their voice and wept; and the king also and all his servants wept very bitterly.

37 But Absalom fled and went to Talmai, son of Ammihud, king of Geshur, and David kept on mourning for his son day after day. So Absalom fled and went to Geshur, and he was there three years. But the spirit of King David 35 pinned for Absalom, for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing that he was dead.

Now when Joab, the son of Zeruah, 11 perceived that the king's heart was inclined toward Absalom, Joab sent to Tekoa and brought from there a wise woman and said to her,

"Pretend now to be a mourner and put on mourning garments, I pray you, and do not anoint yourself with oil, but become as a woman who has been mourning many days for the dead; and go to the king and speak thus to him."

So Joab put the words into her mouth.

Accordingly when the woman of Tekoa came to the king, she fell on her face to the earth and did obeisance, and said,

"Help, O king!"

"What is your trouble?" said the king to her.

"Of a truth I am a widow," she said, "and my husband is dead. Your maidservant had two sons, and the two of them struggled together in the field, and there being no one to part them, the one struck the other and killed him. Now the whole clan has risen up against your maidservant and they say, 'Deliver up the slayer of his brother, that we may kill him for the life of his brother whom he slew,' that they may destroy the heir also. Thus they will quench my remaining hope, so as to leave to my husband neither name nor remnant on the face of the ground."

Then the king said to the woman,

"Go to your house and I will give orders concerning you."

But the woman of Tekoa said to the king,

"Upon me, my lord, O king, be the guilt and on my father's house; and the king and his throne be innocent."

"Whoever speaks to you, bring him to me and he shall not touch you again," said the king.

"I pray you," she said, "let the king remember the LORD your God, not to allow the avenger of blood to destroy and not to let them murder my son."

"As the LORD lives," he said, "not one hair of your son shall fall to the earth."

12 "I pray you," said the woman, "let your maidservant speak a word to my lord the king."

"Speak," he said.

13 "Why then," said the woman, "have you devised such a thing against the people of God? For in speaking this word the king is as one that is guilty, in that the king does not bring back his 14 banished one. For we must indeed die and are as water poured upon the earth, that cannot be gathered up again; nor can God take it up. Therefore a person should devise plans not to keep in banishment the one who is banished. Now
15 the reason why I have come to speak this word to the king my lord is because the people frightened me, and your maidservant said, 'I will now speak to the king; it may be that the king will perform the request of his handmaid.'

16 For the king will hearken, to deliver his handmaid from the hand of the man who seeks to destroy me and my son
17 from the heritage of the LORD. Then your maidservant said, 'Let the word of my lord the king be a comfort,' for as the angel of God, so is my lord the king to hear good and evil; and the LORD your God be with you."

18 Then the king answered and said to the woman,

"Do not, I pray you, conceal from me anything that I ask you."

The woman said,

"Let now my lord the king speak."

19 "Is the hand of Joab with you in all this?" said the king.

The woman answered and said,

"As sure as you are alive, my lord the king, one cannot turn to the right hand or to the left hand from all that my lord the king has spoken; for your servant Joab, he it was that commanded me, and he put all these words in the mouth 20 of your maidservant; in order to change the face of the matter your servant Joab did this thing. But my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of the angel of God, so that he knows all things that are in the earth."

21 Therefore the king said to Joab,

"See now, you have accomplished this thing; go therefore, bring the young man Absalom back."

22 Then Joab fell on his face to the earth and did obeisance and blessed the king; and Joab said,

"Today your servant knows that I have found favor in your sight, my lord, O king, in that the king has performed the request of his servant."

So Joab arose and went to Geshur, 23 and brought Absalom back to Jerusalem. However the king said, 24

"Let him live apart in his own house, since he is not to visit me."

So Absalom lived apart in his own house, and did not visit the king.

Now in all Israel there was no man so 25 much to be praised for his beauty as Absalom; from the sole of his foot to the crown of his head there was no blemish in him. When he shaved his 26 head—now at the end of every year he used to cut his hair, because it was heavy on him, therefore he cut it—he used to weigh his hair, two hundred shekels by the royal standard of weight. There were born to Absalom three sons 27 and one daughter, whose name was Tamar—she was a beautiful woman.

Absalom dwelt two full years in Je- 28 rusalem, without visiting the king. Then Absalom sent for Joab to send 29 him to the king; but he would not come to him. So he sent a second time, but 30 he refused to come. Therefore he said to his servants,

"See, Joab's field borders mine, where he has barley; go and set it on fire."

Later Joab's servants came to him with torn garments, and said,

"The servants of Absalom have set the field on fire."

Then Joab arose, and went to Ab- 31 salom at his house and said to him,

"Why have your servants set my field on fire?"

Accordingly Absalom said to Joab, 32

"Behold, I sent to you saying, 'Come here that I may send you to the king, to say, 'Why have I come from Geshur? It were better that I were still there.' Now therefore let me visit the king, and if there is guilt in me, let him kill me.'"

Therefore when Joab went to the 33 king and told him, he summoned Absalom. So he went to the king and did obeisance and fell upon his face to the earth before the king. Then the king kissed Absalom.

ABSALOM'S REVOLT,

15:1—19:42

Now afterward Absalom provided 16 for himself a chariot and horses and

- 2 fifty men to run before him. Also Absalom used to rise early and stand beside the way of the gate, and whenever any man had a suit to come to the king for judgment, Absalom would take occasion to call to him and say
 "Of what city are you?"
 And when he said,
 "Your servant is of some one of the tribes of Israel,"
- 3 Absalom would say to him,
 "It is evident your claims are valid and legitimate; but there is no one deputed by the king to hear you."
- 4 Absalom said moreover,
 "O that someone would make me a judge in the land, that any man who had a suit or cause might come to me, that I might give him justice!"
- 5 Whenever a man came near to do obeisance to him, he would put out his hand and take hold of him and kiss him.
- 6 After this manner Absalom dealt with all the Israelites who came to the king for judgment. So Absalom alienated the hearts of the men of Israel.
- 7 Now at the end of four years, Absalom said to the king,
 "Let me go, I pray you, and pay my vow, which I vowed to the LORD, in Hebron. For your servant vowed a vow, while I abode at Geshur in Syria, as follows: 'If the LORD will indeed bring me back to Jerusalem, then I will serve the LORD in Hebron.'"
- 9 "Go in peace," said the king to him.
- 10 So he arose and went to Hebron. But Absalom sent emissaries throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,
 "As soon as you hear the sound of the trumpet, then say, 'Absalom is king in Hebron.'"
- 11 Also with Absalom went two hundred men from Jerusalem, who went in all innocence as invited guests, and were not aware of any plot.
- 12 Moreover Absalom sent and called Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counselor, from his city Giloh, where he was offering sacrifices; and the conspiracy was strong, for the people with Absalom kept on increasing.
- 13 Therefore when a messenger came to David, saying,
 "The heart of the men of Israel has gone after Absalom,"
- 14 David said to all his servants who were with him at Jerusalem,
 "Up and away; for otherwise there will be for us no escape from Absalom. Make haste to be off, lest he quickly overtake us and set evil in motion against us and put the city to the sword."

Then the king's servants said to the king,

"In accordance with all that my lord the king decides, your servants are ready."

So the king went out and all his household after him. But the king left behind ten concubines to keep the palace. The king and all his attendants who followed after him went forth and halted at the last house, while all the people marched past him; and all the Cherethites and all the Pelethites and all the men of Ittai the Gittite, six hundred men who had followed him from Gath, passed on before the king.

Then the king said to Ittai the Gittite,

"Why will you also go with us? Return and remain with the king; for you are a foreigner and an exile from your own home. You came but yesterday and shall I today cause you to wander with us, while I go wherever I may? Return and lead back your fellow-countrymen with you; and the LORD will show you kindness and faithfulness."

But Ittai answered the king and said,
 "As the LORD lives and as my lord the king lives, wherever my lord the king shall be—whether for death or for life—there will your servant be."

Wherefore David said to Ittai,
 "Go and pass on."

So Ittai the Gittite passed on with all his men and all the children that were with him.

Moreover all the countryside was in loud lamentation as all the people were passing by. While the king stood in the Kidron valley, all the people were passing on before him by way of the olive tree which is in the desert. There too were both Zadok and Abiathar with him, bearing the ark of the covenant of God, and they halted the ark of God until all the people had entirely passed out of the city. Then the king said to Zadok and Abiathar,

"Carry back the ark of God into the city and let it remain in its place. If I shall find favor in the eyes of the LORD, he will bring me back, and show me both it and his abode. But if he say, 'I 'have no delight in you,' then here I am, let him do to me as seems good in his sight."

The king also said to Zadok and Abiathar the priests,

"Return to the city in peace and your two sons with you, Ahimaaz your son and Jonathan, the son of Abiathar. See, I am going to wait at the fords of the desert, until word comes from you to inform me."

Therefore Zadok and Abiathar carried the ark of God back to Jerusalem, and they remained there.

But David went up the ascent of Olivet, weeping as he went, with his head covered and walking barefoot, and all the people who were with him covered each his head, and they went up, weeping as they ascended; and when it was told David, saying,

"Ahithophel is among the conspirators with Absalom,"

David said,

"O LORD, I pray, turn the counsel of Ahithophel to foolishness."

When David came to the top where one worships God, there was Hushai the Archite to meet him with his tunic torn and earth upon his head; and David said to him,

"If you accompany me you will be a burden to me. But if you return to the city, and say to Absalom, 'O king, I will be your servant; and as I have been your father's servant in time past, so now I will be your servant,' thus you can defeat for me the counsel of Ahithophel. Are there not there with you Zadok and Abiathar the priests? It shall be that, everything which you shall hear from the house of the king, you shall make known to Zadok and Abiathar the priests. Behold, there are with them their two sons, Ahimaaz, Zadok's son, and Jonathan, Abiathar's son; and you shall send to me by them everything that you shall hear."

So Hushai, David's friend, came to the city just as Absalom was entering Jerusalem.

Now when David had passed a little beyond the summit, Ziba, the servant of Meribaal, met him with a couple of asses saddled, loaded with two hundred loaves of bread, a hundred bunches of raisins, a hundred of summer fruits, and a skin of wine.

"Why have you these?" said the king to Ziba.

"The asses," said Ziba, "are for the king's household to ride on, and the bread and the summer fruit for the young men to eat, and the wine, that those who become faint in the desert may drink."

"And where is your master's son?" said the king.

"He remains yonder at Jerusalem," Ziba said to the king, "for he has said, 'Today will the house of Israel give back to me the kingdom of my father.'"

Then the king said to Ziba,

"See, all is now yours that belonged to Meribaal."

"I do obeisance," said Ziba. "Let me continue to find favor in your sight, my lord, O king!"

When King David came to Bahurim, there was a man coming out from there of the family of the house of Saul, whose name was Shimei, the son of Gera, uttering a stream of curses as he came along. Also he threw stones at David and all the attendants of King David and at all the people and all the famous warriors on his right hand and on his left; and thus he said as he cursed:

"Begone, begone, man of blood and vile scoundrel! The LORD has brought back upon you all the blood of the house of Saul, in whose stead you have ruled; and the LORD has delivered the kingdom into the hand of Absalom your son; and here you are undone; for you are a man of blood!"

Then Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, said to the king,

"Why should this dead dog curse my lord the king? Let me go over now and take off his head."

But the king said,

"What have I in common with you, O sons of Zeruiah? If he curses when the LORD has said to him, 'Curse David!' then who shall say, 'Why have you done so?'"

David also said to Abishai and to all his attendants,

"See, my own son who came forth from my body seeks my life; how much more now a Benjaminite! Let him alone and let him curse, for the LORD has commanded him. Perhaps the LORD will look on my affliction, and the LORD may require good to me instead of his cursing today."

- 13 So David and his men kept on the road; but Shimei, proceeding along the hillside opposite him and cursing as he went along, continued to throw stones and fling dust at him. Finally the king and all the people who were with him arrived weary at the Jordan, and he refreshed himself there.
- 15 Then Absalom and all the men of Israel came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel with him. Now when Hushai the Archite, David's friend, came to Absalom, Hushai said to Absalom,
- "Long live the king, long live the king!"
- 17 "Is this your loyalty for your friend?" said Absalom to Hushai. "Why did you not go with your friend?"
- 18 Then Hushai said to Absalom,
- "No! for whom the LORD and this people and all the men of Israel have chosen, his will I be and with him will I remain; and secondly, whom should I serve? Should it not be his son? As I served your father, so will I serve you."
- 20 "Give your counsel," said Absalom to Ahithophel. "What shall we do?"
- 21 "Go in to your father's concubines, whom he has left to keep the house," said Ahithophel to Absalom; "and all Israel will hear that you are in bad odor with your father and the hands of all who are with you will be strengthened."
- 22 So they pitched a tent for Absalom upon the roof; and Absalom went in to the concubines of his father in the sight of all Israel. The counsel of Ahithophel, which he gave in those days, was as if one consulted an oracle of God—so was all the counsel of Ahithophel regarded both by David and by Absalom.
- 17 Later Ahithophel said to Absalom,
- "Let me, I pray you, choose twelve thousand man, and let me arise and pursue David tonight; thus I will come upon him when he is weary and exhausted and I will throw him and all the people who are with him into a panic; and I will strike down the king alone. I will then bring back all the people to you as the bride returns to her husband. You seek only the life of one man, and all the people shall be at peace."
- 4 Now the plan pleased Absalom, and all the elders of Israel.
- 6 "Call now Hushai the Archite also," said Absalom, "and let us hear likewise what he has to offer."

Accordingly when Hushai came to Absalom, Absalom said to him,

"Thus Ahithophel has spoken; shall we carry out his plan? If not, speak out."

Then Hushai said to Absalom,

"This time the counsel that Ahithophel has given is not good."

"You know your father and his men," said Hushai, "that they are tried warriors and thoroughly aroused, like a bear in the open robbed of her cubs. Furthermore your father is an expert campaigner and will not spend the night with the people. Even now he has hidden himself in one of the caves or in some other place. In case he falls upon the people at the first, whoever hears the report will say, 'There has been a slaughter among the people who follow Absalom.' Then even the valiant man whose heart is like the heart of a lion, will utterly lose courage; for all Israel knows that your father is a skilled warrior, and those who are with him are valiant men. But I counsel that all Israel be surely gathered together to you, from Dan to Beersheba, as many as the sand that is by the sea, with you yourself marching in their midst. Thus we will come upon him in some place where he has been located, and we will light upon him as the dew falls upon the ground; and of him and of all the men who are with him there shall not be left even one. But if he withdraws into a city, then all Israel will bring ropes to that city and we will drag it into the valley, until not even a pebble can be found there."

Then Absalom and all the men of Israel said,

"The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel."

For the LORD had ordained the good counsel of Ahithophel to be frustrated, in order that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom.

Then Hushai said to Zadok and Abiathar the priests,

"Thus and so did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and so have I counselled. Now therefore send quickly and tell David, saying, 'Do not camp tonight at the fords of the desert, but cross over without fail, lest the king and all the people with him be swallowed up.'"

Now Jonathan and Ahimaz were stationed at En-rogel; and a maidservant used to go and keep them informed, and they would go and tell king David, for they dared not be seen to enter the city. But a lad saw them, and told Absalom. Then they both went away in haste and entered into the house of a man in Bahurim, who had a well in his courtyard into which they descended; and a woman took and spread a covering over the well, and strewed dried fruit upon it, so that nothing was known. And when the servants of Absalom came to the woman to the house and said,

"Where are Ahimaaz and Jonathan?"

The woman said to them,

"They have crossed the source of the watercourses."

So when they had sought and could find no trace, they returned to Jerusalem. Now as soon as they had gone away, the two came up out of the well, and went and told King David and said to David,

"Arise, cross quickly over the water, for thus has Ahithophel counselled against you."

Then David and all the people who were with him arose and crossed the Jordan. By daybreak there was not one left behind who had not passed over the Jordan.

Now when Ahithophel saw that his counsel had not been carried out, he saddled his ass and arose, and went home to his own city. And after giving orders concerning his household, he strangled himself, and died and was buried in his father's grave.

Then David came to Mahanaim; and Absalom crossed the Jordan, together with all the men of Israel. And Absalom put Amasa in command of the army in place of Joab. Now Amasa was the son of an Ishmaelite by the name of Jether, who married Abigail the daughter of Jesse, the sister of Zeruiah, Joab's mother. Israel and Absalom encamped in the land of Gilead. When David arrived at Mahanaim, Shobi, the son of Nahash of the Ammonite Rabbah, and Machir, the son of Ammiel of Lodebar, and Barzillai, the Gileadite of Rogelim, brought couches and rugs and bowls, and earthen vessels, and wheat, barley, meal, parched grain, beans, lentils, honey, curds, sheep and calves for David, and for the people who were with him, to eat; for they thought,

"The people must have been hungry and weary and thirsty in the desert."

Then David mustered the people who were with him, and appointed over them commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds; and David divided the people into three divisions, one-third being under the command of Joab, another third under Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and another third under the command of Ittai the Gittite. And the king said to the people,

"I will surely go with you myself."

But the people said,

"You shall not go out; for if we do indeed run away, no one will trouble about us; or if half of us die, no one will trouble about us; but you are equal to ten thousand of us; and now the important thing is for you to be ready to help us from the city."

Then the king said to them,

"Whatever seems good in your eyes I will do."

So the king stood at the side of the gate, while all the people marched out by hundreds and by thousands. But the king commanded Joab, and Abishai, and Ittai, saying,

"Deal gently for my sake with the young man, with Absalom!"

And all the people heard when the king gave orders to all the commanders regarding Absalom. Then the people took the field against Israel; and the battle was in the forest of Ephraim. The people of Israel were defeated there by the servants of David; and the slaughter on that day was great—twenty thousand men. Also the battle was there spread out over the whole landscape; and the forest devoured more people that day than the sword.

But Absalom happened to meet the servants of David. Absalom was riding upon a mule, and the mule went under the thick branches of a great oak and his head caught fast in the oak, and he was left hanging between heaven and earth, while the mule that was under him passed on. Now when a certain man saw it, he told Joab and said,

"Behold, I saw Absalom hanging in an oak."

Then Joab said to the man who had told him,

"You mean to say that you saw him! Why then did you not fell him to the ground at once? Then it would have been my part to have given you ten shekels of silver and a girdle."

- 12 "Though I were to feel the pressure of a thousand shekels of silver in my hand," said the man to Joab, "I would not put forth my hand against the king's son; for in our hearing the king charged you and Abishai and Ittai, saying, 'Spare for my sake the young man Absalom.' Or if I had treacherously made away with him, nothing would have been hidden from the king, and you yourself would have stood aloof."
- 13 "Not so," said Joab; "I would have assuaged his wrath."

Then he took three weapons in his hand, and thrust them into Absalom's vitals, while he was still alive in the midst of the oak; and ten young men who bore Joab's armor gathered around and smote Absalom until he was dead.

16 Then Joab blew the trumpet, and the people returned from pursuing Israel; for Joab held back the people. Thereupon they took Absalom and cast him into a great pit in the forest, and raised over him a great heap of stones. Meanwhile all Israel fled each to his own home. Now Absalom already in his lifetime had taken and set up for himself a pillar which is in the king's valley; for he said,

"I have no son to keep my name in remembrance."

And he named the pillar after his own name; and it is called Absalom's Monument to this day.

- 19 Now when Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, said to Joab,

"Let me run now and bring the news to the king that the LORD has freed him from the power of his enemies,"

- 20 Joab said to him,

"You are not the man to carry tidings today. On another day you may carry news, but you shall not do so today, for the king's son is dead."

- 21 Then Joab said to the Cushite,

"Go, tell the king what you have seen."

- 22 So the Cushite did obeisance to Joab and proceeded to run. But Ahimaaz the son of Zadok said again to Joab,

"Whatever happens, I should still very much like to run even after the Cushite."

"Why is it that you would run, my son," said Joab, "since you will have no reward for news as a result of going."

"However it may be, I would run," he said.

So he said to him,

"Run."

And Ahimaaz ran by way of the plain of the Jordan; and he passed the Cushite.

Now David was sitting between the two gates; and the watchman had gone up to the roof of the gate by the wall; and when he lifted up his eyes and looked, there was a man running alone. Then the watchman called and told the king; and the king said,

"If he be alone, there are good tidings in his mouth."

Meantime he kept on drawing nearer. Whereupon the watchman saw another man running; and the watchman called toward the gate, and said,

"See, another man running alone!"

"He also is bringing good news," said the king.

"I see that the running of the first is like the running of Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok," said the watchman.

"He is a good man," said the king, "and comes with good news."

Then Ahimaaz drew near and said to the king,

"All is well."

He bowed with his face to the earth, and said,

"Blessed be the LORD your God, who has delivered up the men who lifted up their hand against my lord the king."

"Is it well with the young man Absalom?" said the king.

"When Joab sent your servant I saw a great tumult, but I did not learn what it was," said Ahimaaz.

- 20 "Turn aside and take your stand here," said the king.

So he turned aside and stood still. At that moment the Cushite entered; and the Cushite said,

"Let my lord the king receive the good news that the LORD has freed you this day from all those that rose up against you."

Then the king said to the Cushite,

"Is it well with the young man Absalom?"

"Let the enemies of my lord the king and all who rise up against you for evil

"be as this young man!" said the Cushite.

Then the king was deeply moved and went up to the chamber over the gate and wept. Thus he said, as he wept,

9 "My son Absalom, my son, my son Absalom! O that I, even I, had died instead of you, Absalom, my son, my son!"

Then it was told Joab, "Behold, the king is weeping and lamenting over Absalom."

And the victory that day was turned to mourning for all the people, since the people heard that day, saying,

"The king is grieved over his son."

Therefore the people stole away furtively into the city, as people who are put to shame when they have fled in battle steal away. But the king covered his face, and cried with a loud voice,

"My son Absalom, Absalom, my son, my son!"

So Joab went to the king in the house and said,

"You have covered with shame today the faces of all your servants, who have preserved your life today, and the lives of your sons and your daughters, and the lives of your wives and your concubines, by loving them who hate you and hating them who love you. For you have shown today that commanders and servants are nothing to you; for now I know that if Absalom were alive and all of us dead today, then you would be well pleased. Now therefore arise, go forth, and speak reassuringly to your subjects; for I swear by the LORD, if you do not go forth, not a man will be with you tonight, and this will be worse for you than all the misfortune that has befallen you from your youth until now."

Then the king arose and sat at the gate; and when the word passed to all the people, saying, "See, the king is sitting at the gate," all the people came before the king.

Now Israel had fled every man to his home; and all the people murmured throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying,

"The king delivered us from the hand of our enemies, and he has freed us out of the hand of the Philistines, but now he has fled from the land on account of Absalom. As for Absalom, whom we anointed over us, he has died in battle. Now therefore why do you remain silent about bringing the king back?"

Thus the word of all Israel came to the king.

Then King David sent to Zadok and 11 Abiathar the priests, saying,

"Speak to the elders of Judah, saying, 'Why are you the last to bring the king back to his house? You are my 12 kinsmen, my bone and my flesh, why then are you the last to bring the king back?' Say to Amasa, 'Are you not 13 my bone and my flesh? May God requite me and worse, if you shall not become commander of the army henceforth instead of Joab.'"

Accordingly Amasa swayed the hearts 14 of all the men of Judah as one man, so that they sent word to the king:

"Return, both you and all your followers."

So the king returned and came to the 15 Jordan; and Judah came to Gilgal in order to go and meet the king and bring him across the Jordan.

Moreover Shimei, the son of Gera the 16 Benjamite, who was of Bahurim, made haste and went down with the men of Judah to meet King David, with 17 a thousand men of Benjamin; and with him was Ziba, the servant of the house of Saul, with his fifteen sons and his twenty servants; and they hurried down to the Jordan before the king, and crossed over the ford to bring over 18 the king's household and to do whatever was pleasing in his sight. As he was about to cross the Jordan, Shimei, the son of Gera, fell down before the king, and he said to the king, 19

"Let not my lord hold me guilty nor remember that which your servant did perversely the day that my lord the king went out of Jerusalem, for the king should take it to heart. For your 20 servant knows that I have sinned; therefore, see, I have come today the first of all the house of Joseph to come down to meet my lord the king."

But Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, an- 21 swered and said,

"Shall not Shimei be put to death for this, because he cursed the LORD'S anointed?"

"What have I to do with you, you 22 sons of Zeruiah, that you should be as an adversary to me this day?" said David. "Should anyone be put to death in Israel today? For do you not know that I am today king over Israel?"

23 "You shall not die," said the king to Shimei.

And the king swore to him.

24 Also Meribaal, the son of Saul, came down to meet the king; and he had neither dressed his feet nor trimmed his moustache nor washed his clothes from the day the king departed until the day he came back in safety.

25 And when he came from Jerusalem to meet the king, the king said to him,

"Why did you not go with me, Meribaal?"

26 "My lord, O king," said he, "my servant deceived me; for your servant said to him, 'Saddle for me an ass, on which I may ride and go with the king,'

27 because your servant is lame; but he slandered your servant to my lord the king. My lord the king is as the angel of God; do therefore what is good in

28 your eyes. For though all the house of my father were naught but men deserving of death in the sight of my lord the king, nevertheless you have set your servant among those who eat at your table. From whose hand shall I receive justice?"

And he cried out again to the king;

29 and the king said to him,

"Why do you continue to amplify your words? I have settled it; you and Ziba shall divide the estate."

30 Meribaal then said to the king,

"Rather let him take the whole, inasmuch as my lord the king has come home in safety."

31 Now Barzillai the Gileadite had come down from Rogelim, and passed on with the king to the Jordan to bid him farewell at the Jordan. Barzillai was very aged, being eighty years old, and he had provisioned the king while he waited at Mahanaim; for he was a very great man. And the king said to Barzillai,

"Cross over with me, and I will provide for your old age with me in Jerusalem."

34 But Barzillai said to the king,

"How many years is my life, that I should go up with the king to Jerusalem? I am today eighty years old. Can I distinguish between good and bad? Can your servant relish what he eats or what he drinks? Can I hear any more the voice of singing men and singing women? Why then should your servant be an added burden to my lord the king? For your servant would only pass over the Jordan a little way with the king, and why should the king bestow upon me this boon? Let your servant return, I pray you, that I may die in my native city, by the grave of my father and mother. But here is your servant Chimham; let him cross over with my lord the king; and deal with him as seems good in your sight."

"Chimham shall cross over with me," said the king, "and I will deal with him as it would please you; and whatever you shall wish of me, that will I do for you."

Then all the people crossed the Jordan. But the king stood still. And the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him, and he returned to his home.

Then the king crossed over to Gilgal, Chimham being with him; and all the people of Judah and also half the people of Israel brought the king back; and all the men of Israel approaching the king, said to the king,

"Why have our kinsmen, the men of Judah, stolen you away, and brought from over the Jordan the king and his household, and all the men of David with him?"

Then all the men of Judah retorted to the men of Israel,

"Because the king is near of kin to us. Why then are you angry over this matter? Have we eaten at all at the king's expense? or has anything been carried away by us?"

But the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said,

"We have ten shares in the king; moreover we are the first-born rather than you; why then did you despise us? Was it not our advice first to bring back our king?"

But the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

Now there happened to be there a base rascal, whose name was Sheba, the son of Bichri, a Benjaminite; and he blew a trumpet and said,

"We have no portion in David,

And we have no share in Jesse's son! Each man to his tents, O Israel!"

Then all the men of Israel withdrew from David, and followed Sheba, the son of Bichri; but the men of Judah remained steadfast to their king, from the Jordan even to Jerusalem.

Now when David came to his house at Jerusalem, the king took the ten concubines, whom he had left to look after the house, and put them in the palace keep and supported them, but did not go in to them. So they were shut up until the day of their death, living as widows.

"Summon for me the men of Judah within three days, and report here in person," said the king to Amasa.

So Amasa went to summon Judah. But when he delayed beyond the set time which he had appointed him, David said,

"Now will Sheba, the son of Bichri, do us more damage than did Absalom; take your lord's servants and pursue him, lest he find for himself fortified cities and escape from us."

So there went out after Abishai, Joab and the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and all the seasoned warriors; and they set out from Jerusalem to pursue Sheba, the son of Bichri. When they were at the great stone which is in Gibeon, Amasa came to meet them. Now Joab was girt with a sword under his cloak, and outside his clothing he was girt with another sword in its sheath, bound upon his loins, and this came out and fell. And Joab said to Amasa,

"Is it well with you, my brother?"

Then Joab took Amasa by the beard with his right hand to kiss him. But as Amasa was not on his guard against the sword that was in Joab's hand, he stabbed him in the body, and shed his bowels to the ground, with a single thrust; and he died. Thereafter Joab and Abishai his brother pursued after Sheba, the son of Bichri; and one of Joab's young men stood by him and said,

"Whoever favors Joab, and whoever is for David, let him follow Joab."

But Amasa lay wallowing in blood in the middle of the highway. And when the man saw that all the people stopped, he carried Amasa out of the highway into a field, and threw a garment over him, inasmuch as he saw that everyone who came to him halted. When he was removed out of the highway, every man passed on after Joab, to pursue Sheba, the son of Bichri.

Now he passed on through all the 14 tribes of Israel to Abel-beth-maacah; and all the Bichrites assembled and entered after him. Then they came and 15 besieged him in Abel-beth-maacah; and they threw up a mound against the city, for it stood even with the rampart; and all the people with Joab were contriving how to throw down the wall. Now a 16 wise woman out of the city called, "Hear, hear! Say, I pray you, to Joab, 'Come here that I may speak to you.'"

So he came near her; and the woman 17 said,

"Are you Joab?"

"I am," said he.

"Listen to the words of your maid-servant," said she to him.

"I am listening," said he.

Then she said, 18

"They used to speak formerly, saying, 'Let them but inquire at Abel,' and so a matter was settled. I am of those 19 who are peaceable and faithful in Israel. You seek to destroy a city and a mother in Israel; why will you destroy the heritage of the LORD?"

Then Joab answered and said, 20

"Far be it, far be it from me that I should destroy or devastate! That is 21 not the case. But a man of the highlands of Ephraim, Sheba, the son of Bichri, by name, has lifted up his hand against King David; only deliver him up, and I will withdraw from the city."

"Behold, his head shall be thrown to you from the wall," said the woman to Joab.

Then she went and advised all the 22 people in her wisdom; and they cut off the head of Sheba, the son of Bichri, and threw it down to Joab. Therefore he blew the trumpet and they were dispersed from the city, each to his home; and Joab returned to Jerusalem, to the king.

Joab was commander-in-chief of the 23 whole army of Israel, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was in command of the Cherethites and the Pelethites; and 24 Adoram was in charge of the forced labor; and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was the recorder; and Shiva 25 was scribe; and Zadok and Abiathar were priests; and also Ira the Jairite was a priest to David.

A FAMINE—ITS CAUSE AND CURE, 21:1-14

21 Now there was a famine in the days of David for three years in succession; and when David sought the face of the LORD, the LORD said,

"It is because of Saul and his bloody house, because he put to death the Gibeonites."

2 So David called the Gibeonites and said to them (now the Gibeonites were not of the Israelites, but of the remnant of the Amorites; however the Israelites had taken oath with them; and Saul had sought to slay them in his zeal for the Israelites and the Judeans),

3 "What can I do for you? Wherewith can I make expiation, so that you may bless the heritage of the LORD?"

4 "It is not a matter of silver or gold between us and Saul or his house; neither is it for us to put to death any man in Israel," said the Gibeonites to him.

"What do you say that I shall do for you?" he repeated.

5 Then they said to the king,

"As for the man who consumed us, and who planned to destroy us that we should find no place in any of the borders of Israel—let seven of his sons be given to us, that we may hang them up to the LORD in Gibeon, the mountain of the LORD."

"I will give them," said the king.

7 But the king spared Meribaal, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, because of the oath of the LORD which was between them, between David and

8 Jonathan, the son of Saul. The king took the two sons of Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, whom she bore to Saul, Armoni and Meribaal, and the five sons of Merab, the daughter of Saul, whom she bore to Adriel, the son of Barzillai,

9 the Meholathite; and he gave them into the hand of the Gibeonites, and they hanged them in the mountain before the LORD, so that the seven of them fell together; and they were put to death in the first days of harvest, at the beginning of the barley harvest.

10 Then Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, took sackcloth and spread it for her on the rock, from the beginning of barley harvest until water was poured upon them from the heaven; and she did not permit the birds of the air to light upon them by day nor the beasts of the field by night. When it was told David what Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, the concubine of Saul had done, David went and took the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son from the men of Jabesh in Gilead, who had stolen them from the open square of Bethshan, where the Philistines had hanged them, on the day that the Philistines overcame Saul at Gilboa. He brought up from there the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son and they gathered up the bones of those who were hanged; and they buried the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his son in the land of Benjamin, by the side of the grave of Kish his father, and they did all that the king commanded. After that God was propitiated toward the land.

DAVID'S MIGHTY MEN,

21:15-22

Now when the Philistines were again at war with Israel, David went down together with his servants and encamped in Gob and fought against the Philistines. Then arose Dodo, who was one of the descendants of the giants, the weight of whose spear was three hundred shekels of bronze, and he had a new girdle; and he thought to slay David. But Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, succored him and attacked the Philistine and killed him. Then the men of David swore to him, saying,

"You shall go out no more with us to battle, that you may not quench the lamp of Israel."

Now when afterward there was again war with the Philistines at Gob, Sibbecai the Shuhite slew Saph, who was one of the descendants of the giants. When there was again war with the Philistines in Gob, Elhanan, the son of Jaareoregim the Bethlehemite, slew Goliath the Gittite, the shaft of whose spear was like a weaver's beam.

There was again war at Gath, where there was a man of great stature, who had six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, twenty-four in number; and he also was of the race of giants; and when he defied Israel, Jonathan, the son of Shimei, David's brother, slew him. These four were descended from the giants in Gath; and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

A VICTOR'S HYMN OF PRAISE,
22:1-51

David spoke to the LORD the words of this song, on the day that the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul; and he said,

"The LORD is my rock, my fortress, and my deliverer;
My God, my rock in whom I take refuge;
My shield, the weapon of my deliverance, my tower, and my refuge;
My savior, thou savest me from violence.
I call upon the LORD, who is worthy to be praised,
That I may be rescued from my enemies.

"The breakers of death engulfed me, Torrents of ruin terrified me;
The cords of Sheol surrounded me, Snares of death confronted me.

"In my distress I called upon the LORD,
And unto my God I cried for help;
He heard my voice from his palace,
And my cry reached his ears.

"Then the earth quaked and rocked;
The foundations of the heavens trembled
And rocked, when he was angry.
Smoke rose from his nostrils,
And fire from his mouth devoured;
Coals were kindled by it.

"He bowed the heavens and came down;
Thick darkness was under his feet.
He rode upon a cherub and flew,
And he sped on with the wings of the wind.

"He made darkness his encircling pavilions,
His covert was the darkness of the heavens,
Thick clouds without brightness;
Before him coals of fire were kindled.

The LORD thundered from the heavens,
The Most High uttered his voice.

"He let fly his arrows and scattered them,
Lightning, and discomfited them.
Then the floor of the sea was revealed, 16
And the foundations of the world were bared
At the rebuke of the LORD,
At the fierce breath of his wrath.
He sent from on high, he took me, 17
He drew me out of many waters.
He delivered me from my strong enemy,
From my foes; for they were too strong for me.

"They confronted me on the day of my calamity,
But the LORD became my stay.
He led me forth into a broad place; 20
He set me free, for he was pleased with me.
The LORD rewarded me in accordance with my righteousness; 21
He requited me in accordance with the cleanness of my hands.
For I have kept the ways of the LORD,
And have not transgressed against my God.
For all his ordinances are before me, 23
And from his statutes I do not turn aside.
I was blameless with him, 24
And guarded myself from my guilt.

"So the LORD requited me in accordance with my righteousness,
In accordance with my cleanness in his sight.

"Toward the godly thou dost act graciously;
Toward the blameless thou dost act blamelessly;
Toward the pure thou dost act purely; 27
And toward the crooked thou dost act craftily.
For thou wilt deliver a humble people, 28
But thine eyes are upon the haughty, to bring them low.
For thou, O LORD, art my lamp, 29
And the LORD lightens my darkness.
For through thee I can break down a strong rampart,
Through my God I can scale a wall.

- 31 "The way of God is blameless,
The speech of the LORD is sincere;
A shield is he to all who take refuge in him.
- 32 For who is God but the LORD?
And who is a rock save our God?
- 33 "God is my stronghold;
He makes my way blameless,
- 34 Making my feet like the doe's,
And making me stand securely on my heights;
- 35 The one who trains my hands for battle,
So that my arms can bend a bow of bronze.
- 36 And thou hast given me thy saving shield,
And thy help makes me great.
- 37 Thou dost enlarge the range of my steps,
And my ankles do not give way.
- 38 "I pursue my foes and destroy them,
And do not turn back until they are consumed.
- 39 And I consume them and thrust them through,
So that they cannot rise;
Beneath my feet they fall.
- 40 "And thou dost gird me with strength for the battle;
Thou dost subdue my opponents under me.
- 41 And thou dost make my foes show me the back;
And those that hate me I destroy.
- 42 They cry for help, but there is none to deliver,
To the LORD, but he does not answer them.
- 43 Then I grind them to powder like the dust of the earth,
I crush them like the dirt of the streets, by stamping upon them.
- 44 Thou dost deliver me from the feuds of the people;
Thou dost keep me as head of the nations;
People that I have not known serve me;
- 45 Foreigners fawn upon me;
As soon as they hear of me, they submit to me;
- 46 Foreigners fade away,
And come trembling from their fortresses.

"All hail to the LORD! And blessed be my Rock!
And may the God of my deliverance be exalted!
The God who gives me vengeance,
And puts peoples in subjection under me;
Who frees me from my foes.
Yea, thou dost exalt me above my adversaries;
From violent men thou dost rescue me.

"Therefore I shall praise thee among the nations, O LORD,
And sing praises to thy name;
To him who gives great victories to his king,
And shows kindness to his anointed,
To David and his descendants forever."

THE LAST WORDS OF DAVID, 23:1-7

Now these are the last words of David:

"The oracle of David, the son of Jesse,
The oracle of the man who was raised on high,
The anointed of the God of Jacob,
And the pleasant theme of the songs of Israel.
By me the spirit of the LORD has spoken,
And his word is upon my tongue.
The God of Israel said,
The Rock of Israel spoke to me:
'When one rules over men, as a righteous one,
When one rules in the fear of God,
Then it is as the light of the morning
When the sun rises,
A morning cloudless clear, after rain
Upon the tender grass.
For should not my house be so with God?
For he has decreed for me an eternal covenant,
Set in order in all things and secured;
For all my security and all my desire,
Will he not bring into being?
But the ungodly!—as thorns to be thrust away are all of them;
For with the hand they cannot be taken.
But the man who touches them

Arms himself with iron and spear-shaft,
And they are utterly burned forthwith."

A LIST OF DAVID'S HEROES, 23:8-39

These are the names of David's heroic followers: Ishbaal the Hachmonite, who was the leader of the Three; he raised aloft his spear over eight hundred slain at one time. Next to him among the three heroes was Eleazar, the son of Dodi, the son of the Ahothite. He was with David at Pasdammim when the Philistines were gathered there for battle. But when the Israelites withdrew, he arose and attacked the Philistines until his hand was weary and was as if grown fast to the sword. So the LORD brought about a great victory that day; and the people returned after him only to strip the slain. Next to him was Shammah, the son of Agee, a Hararite. The Philistines were gathered together at Lehi; and there was a plot of ground full of lentils. But when the people fled from the Philistines, he took his stand in the midst of the plot and defended it and slew the Philistines. So the LORD brought about a great victory.

Now three of the Thirty went down to the rock to David to the cave of Adullam, while the camp of the Philistines was pitched in the Valley of Rephaim. David was then in the stronghold, and the garrison of the Philistines was at the same time in Bethlehem. Moreover David longed earnestly and said,

"Oh that someone would give me a drink of water from the well of Bethlehem that is at the gate!"

So the three heroes broke through the camp of the Philistines and drew water out of the well of Bethlehem that was at the gate, and took it and brought it to David. But he would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD. And David said,

"Far be it from me, O LORD, that I should do this! It is the blood of men who went at the risk of their lives."

Therefore he would not drink it. These things did the three heroes.

Now Abishai, the brother of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was chief of the Thirty; and he wielded his spear over three hundred slain, and so won a name among the Thirty. He was indeed the most honorable of the Thirty, so that he became their commander, but he did not attain to the Three.

Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was a valiant man of Kabzeel, a man of great prowess; he slew two sons of Ariel of Moab. He also went down and slew a lion in the midst of a pit on a snowy day. He slew besides an Egyptian, a formidable looking man, armed with a spear, but he went down to him with a club, and wrenched the spear out of the Egyptian's hand and slew him with his own spear. These things did Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and won for himself a name among the thirty heroes. He was very honorable among the Thirty, but he did not attain to the Three. Nevertheless David set him over his guard.

Asahel, the brother of Joab, was among the Thirty; Elhanan, the son of Dodo of Bethlehem, Shammah the Harodite, Elika the Harodite, Helez the Paltite, Ira, the son of Ikkesh, the Tekoite, Abiezer the Anathothite, Sibbecai the Hushathite, Zalmon the Ahothite, Maharai the Netophathite, Heled, the son of Baanah, the Netophathite, Ittai, the son of Ribai of Gibeah of the Benjaminites, Benaiah a Pirathonite, Hiddai of the brooks of Gaash, Abiel the Arbathite, Azmaveth the Barhumite, Eliahba, the Shaalbonite, Jashen the Gunite, Jonathan, the son of Shammah, the Hararite, Ahiam, the son of the Ararite, Eliphelet, the son of Ahasbai, the Maacathite, Eliam, the son of Ahithophel, the Gilonite, Hezro the Carmelite, Paarai, the Arbite, Igal the son of Nathan of Zobah, Bani the Gadite, Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Beerothite, the armor bearers of Joab, the son of Zeruiah, Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the Ithrite, Uriah the Hittite—a total of thirty-seven.

DAVID'S CENSUS, 24:1-25

Now the LORD was again angered against Israel, and he incited David against them, saying,

"Go number Israel and Judah!"

So the king said to Joab and the commanders of the army which was with him,

"Go about now throughout all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beersheba, and take a census of the people that I may know the number of the people."

8 Joab said to the king,

"May the LORD your God add to the people a hundred times as many as they are, while the eyes of my lord the king look on! But why does my lord the king take delight in this thing?"

9 But the word of the king prevailed over Joab and the commanders of the army. Therefore Joab and the commanders of the army went out from the king's presence to take the census of the 5 people of Israel. They crossed the Jordan and started from Aroer, and from the city that is in the midst of the torrent valley, toward Gad and on to 6 Jazer. Then they came to Gilead and to the land of the Hittites, to Kadesh;

and they came to Dan, and from Dan

7 they went around to Sidon, and came to the fortress of Tyre and all the cities of the Hivvites, and of the Canaanites;

and they went forth to the Negeb of 8 Judah at Beersheba. When they had gone about through the whole land, they came to Jerusalem at the end of 9 nine months and twenty days; and Joab gave the number of the census of the people to the king, and Israel consisted of eight hundred thousand able-bodied men who drew sword, and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand.

10 But David's conscience smote him

after he had numbered the people.

Then David said to the LORD,

"I have sinned exceedingly in what

I have done. But now, O LORD, take away, I pray thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly."

11 When David arose in the morning, the word of the LORD came to Gad the prophet, David's seer, saying,

12 "Go and speak to David, 'Thus says the LORD: 'Three things I offer you;

choose one of them that I may do it to

you.'"

13 So Gad came to David and told him;

and said to him,

"Shall there come for you three years of famine upon your land? or shall there be three months of flight before your adversary, while he pursues you? or shall there be a three days' pestilence in your land? Now find out and consider what answer I shall return to him who sent me."

Then David said to Gad,

"I am in great distress. Let us fall now into the hand of the LORD, for his mercy is great, but let me not fall into the hand of man."

So the LORD sent a pestilence, and the days when the plague began were the days of wheat harvest, and it slew of the people from Dan to Beersheba seventy thousand men. Now when the angel of the LORD stretched forth his hand toward Jerusalem to destroy it,

the LORD repented of the evil, and said to the angel who was destroying among the people,

"It is enough; now stay your hand."

Now the angel of the LORD was by the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite. Then David spoke to the LORD, when he saw the angel who was smiting the people, and he said,

"Behold, I myself have sinned and have done wickedly; but these are sheep, what have they done? I pray thee, let thy hand be against me and my father's house."

Gad came to David that day, and said to him,

"Go up, rear an altar to the LORD on the threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite."

So David went up according to the word of Gad, as the LORD commanded.

When Araunah looked down and saw the king and his servants crossing over to him, Araunah went forth and did obsequence to the king with his face to the earth, and Araunah said,

"Why has my lord the king come to his servant?"

"To purchase of you the threshing-floor," said David, "to build an altar to the LORD, that the plague may be stayed from the people."

Then Araunah said to David,

"Let my lord the king take and offer up what is good in his sight. Here are the cattle for a burnt-offering and the threshing-sledges and the implements of the cattle for the wood. The servant of my lord the king gives it all to the king."

Araunah said to the king,

"The LORD your God accept you!"

But the king said to Araunah,
"No, but I will surely buy it of you for a price. I cannot offer burnt-offerings to the LORD my God that cost me nothing."

So David bought the threshing-floor and the cattle for fifty shekels of silver.

Then David built there an altar to the LORD, and offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings. So the LORD was entreated for the land and the plague was stayed from Israel.

THE FIRST BOOK OF KINGS

THE LAST DAYS OF DAVID,

1:1—2:11

1 NOW King David was getting old and well advanced in years, and although they wrapped him in garments he could not keep warm. Therefore his servants said to him,

"Let them seek for my lord the king a young maiden and let her attend the king and act as his nurse; and let her lie in your bosom, that my lord the king may be warm."

3 So they sought for a beautiful maiden throughout all the territory of Israel, and they found Abishag the Shunammite and they brought her to the king. The maiden was exquisitely beautiful; and she became the king's nurse, and ministered to him; but the king had no intercourse with her.

5 Then Adonijah, the son of Haggith, began making his boast, saying, "I will be king."

Therefore he provided for himself a chariot and horsemen and fifty men as runners to go before him. Now his father had never in his life restrained him by saying,

"Why do you do thus and so?"

He was besides a very handsome man, and he was born next after Absalom. Accordingly he negotiated with Joab, the son of Zeruiah, and with Abiathar the priest, so that they became Adonijah's helpers. But Zadok the priest and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan the prophet and Shimei and Rei and David's trained warriors were not with Adonijah. Now Adonijah sacrificed sheep and oxen and fat cattle by the Serpent's Stone, which is beside En-rogel, and he invited all his brothers, the king's sons, together with all the royal officials of Judah; but he did not invite Nathan the prophet, nor Benaiah, nor the trained warriors, nor Solomon his brother.

11 Then Nathan said to Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon,

"Have you not heard that Adonijah, the son of Haggith, has been made king and our lord David does not know it? Now therefore let me, I pray you, advise you, that you may save your own life and the life of your son Solomon. Go in to King David and say to him, 'Have you not, my lord, O king, sworn to your maidservant, saying, "Solomon your son shall be king after me, and he shall sit on my throne?" Why then has Adonijah been made king?' Now while you are still speaking there with the king, I also will come in after you and confirm your words."

So Bathsheba went in to the king to his chamber; (now the king was exceedingly old and Abishag the Shunammite was ministering to the king). Bathsheba then bowed and did obeisance to the king; and the king said,

"What do you want?"

"My lord," she said to him, "you yourself swore to your maidservant by the LORD your God, 'Solomon your son shall be king after me and he shall sit on my throne.' Now, behold, Adonijah is king and you, my lord, O king, do not know it. He has sacrificed oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and has invited all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab, the commander of the army; but he has not invited Solomon your servant. Now, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon you, that you should tell them who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him. As it stands, the result will be that when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers, I and my son Solomon will be regarded as rebels."

But while she was still speaking with the king, Nathan the prophet entered; and they told the king,

"Nathan the prophet is here."

So he came before the king and did obeisance to the king with his face to the earth; and Nathan said,

"My lord, O king, have you said, 'Adonijah shall be king after me, and he shall sit on my throne?' For he has gone down today and sacrificed oxen and fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and invited all the king's sons, and Joab, the commander of the army, and Abiathar the priest, and behold, they are eating and drinking before him, and have said, 'Long live King Adonijah!' But as for me, even me your servant, and Zadok the priest, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Solomon your servant he has not invited. Has this thing been brought about by my lord the king, and you have not told your servants who should sit upon the throne of my lord the king after him?"

Then King David spoke up and said, "Call Bathsheba to me."

So she came into the presence of the king and stood before him; and the king swore, saying,

"As the LORD lives, who has ransomed my life out of all adversity, as I swore to you by the LORD, the God of Israel, saying 'Solomon your son shall be king after me and he shall sit on my throne in my stead'; so will I do this day."

Then Bathsheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did obeisance to the king and said,

"My lord King David live forever!" "Call Zadok the priest for me, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada," said King David.

And when they came before the king, the king said to them,

"Take with you the servants of your lord and cause Solomon my son to ride upon my own mule, and bring him down to Gihon; and let Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet anoint him there king over Israel; then blow the trumpet and say, 'Long live King Solomon!' You also shall go up behind him and he shall come in and sit upon my throne and he shall be king in my stead; him have I commanded to be leader over Israel and Judah."

Then Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, answered the king and said,

"So be it! So may the LORD confirm the words of my lord the king. As the LORD has been with my lord the king, so may he be with Solomon, and make his throne greater than the throne of my lord King David!"

Accordingly Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, together with the Cherethites and the Pelethites, caused Solomon to ride on the mule of King David, and brought him to Gihon. Then Zadok the priest took a horn of oil from the tent and anointed Solomon. Whereupon they blew the trumpet and all the people said,

"Long live King Solomon!"

Then all the people went up after him playing upon flutes and rejoicing with such great outburst that the earth was rent with their noise.

Now Adonijah and all the guests who were with him heard it just as they finished feasting; and when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said,

"Why this noise of the town in uproar?"

While he was still speaking, there came Jonathan, the son of Abiathar the priest; and Adonijah said,

"Enter, for you are a valiant man and bring good news."

Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah,

"No, rather our lord King David has made Solomon king. Moreover the king has sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, together with the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and they have caused him to ride on the king's mule. Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him king in Gihon, and they have gone up from there rejoicing, so that the town is in uproar. That was the noise which you heard. So Solomon has actually taken his seat on the throne of the kingdom. Moreover the servants of the king have already come to congratulate our lord King David, saying, 'May your God make the name of Solomon better than your name and his throne greater than your throne!' Then the king bowed himself on his bed. Furthermore, thus the king has said, 'Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who has today granted one of my offspring to sit on my throne, my own eyes beholding it.'"

Then all the guests whom Adonijah had were terrified and arose and each went his way. But Adonijah was in such fear of Solomon that he arose and went and caught hold of the horns of the altar. And it was told Solomon, saying,

"See, Adonijah fears King Solomon, and now he has laid hold of the horns of the altar, saying, 'Let King Solomon swear to me first that he will not slay his servant with the sword.'

- 52 "If he be a worthy man," said Solomon, "not a hair of him shall fall to the earth, but if evil be found in him then he shall die."
- 53 So King Solomon sent and they brought him down from the altar, and he came and did obeisance to King Solomon.
- "Go to your house," said Solomon to him.
- 2 When David's time to die drew near, he charged Solomon his son, saying,
- 2 "I am about to go the way of all the earth. Be strong then and show yourself a man, and keep the charge of the LORD your God, by walking in his ways, by keeping his statutes, his commands, his ordinances, and his decrees, as it is written in the law of Moses, that you may have success in all that you do and in all that you undertake; that the LORD may establish his word that he spoke to me, saying, 'If your sons guard their steps by walking before me in truth with all their mind and with all their heart, there shall not fail you a man on the throne of Israel.'
- 5 "Now furthermore, you know what Joab, the son of Zeruiah, did to me, how he treated the two commanders of the armies of Israel, Abner, the son of Ner, and Amasa, the son of Jether, how he slew them and avenged blood shed in war in time of peace, and put innocent blood upon his girdle that was about his loins and upon his sandals that were on his feet. Act therefore according to your wisdom, so that you do not allow his hoary head to go down in peace to Sheol. But show kindness to the sons of Barzillai the Gileadite, and let them be among those who eat at your table; for so they presented themselves to me when I fled from Absalom your brother.
- 8 There is also with you Shimei, the son of Gera, the Benjaminite of Bahurim, who cursed me with a grievous curse on the day when I went to Mahanaim. But when he came down to meet me at the Jordan, I swore to him by the LORD, saying, 'I will not slay you with the sword.' But do you yourself not hold him guiltless; you are a wise man and know what you should do to him, and you shall bring down his old age with blood to Sheol."

So David slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David. The time that David was king over Israel was forty years: seven years he was king in Hebron, and thirty-three years he was king in Jerusalem.

SOLOMON'S EXECUTION OF DAVID'S WILL,

2:12-46

Thus Solomon sat upon the throne of David his father and his rule was thoroughly established. Now Adonijah, the son of Haggith, came to Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon, and did obeisance to her.

"Is your coming friendly?" she said.

"Friendly," he said.

"I would have a word with you," he went on to say.

"Speak," she said.

"You know," he said, "that the kingdom belonged to me and that all Israel openly expected me to reign, but now the kingdom has been changed and has become my brother's, for it was his from the LORD. Now, however, I am about to make one request of you; do not refuse me."

"Speak on," she said to him.

Then he said,

"Suggest, I pray you, to Solomon the king, for he will not refuse you, that he give me Abishag the Shunammite as wife."

"Very well, I will speak for you to the king," said Bathsheba.

Accordingly Bathsheba went in to King Solomon to speak to him concerning Adonijah; and the king arose to meet her and did obeisance to her, and sat down on his throne, and a seat was placed for the mother of the king, and she sat on his right. Then she said,

"A small request I am about to make of you; do not refuse me."

"Ask, my mother, for I will not refuse you," the king said to her.

Then she said,

"Let Abishag the Shunammite be given to Adonijah your brother as wife."

But King Solomon answered and said to his mother,

"Why then do you ask Abishag the Shunammite for Adonijah? Ask for him the kingdom also for he is my elder brother, and on his side are Abiathar the priest and Joab, the son of Zeruah."

Then King Solomon swore by the LORD, saying,

"May God requite me and worse, if Adonijah has not spoken this word against his own life. Now therefore, as the LORD lives, who has established me and caused me to sit upon the throne of David my father, and who has made me a house as he promised, Adonijah shall today be put to death."

So King Solomon sent by the hand of Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, who struck him down, so that he died.

Then the king said to Abiathar the priest,

"Go to Anathoth to your estate, for you are worthy of death, but I will not put you to death at this time, because you bore the ark of the LORD before David my father, and because you suffered affliction in all that my father endured."

So Solomon ousted Abiathar from being priest to the LORD, in fulfilment of the word of the LORD which he spoke concerning the house of Eli in Shiloh.

Now when the report came to Joab—for Joab had followed Adonijah but he had not followed Absalom—Joab fled to the tent of the LORD and laid hold of the horns of the altar. When it was told King Solomon that Joab had fled to the tent of the LORD and was there beside the altar, Solomon sent to Joab, saying,

"How does it happen that you have fled to the altar?"

"I was afraid of you and so I fled to the LORD," said Joab.

Then Solomon sent Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, saying,

"Go, strike him down."

So Benaiah went into the tent of the LORD and said to him,

"Thus the king has said, 'Come out.'"

But he said,

"No, for I prefer to die here."

Then Benaiah brought the king word again, saying,

"Thus Joab spoke and thus he answered me."

Then the king said to him,

"Do as he has spoken; strike him down and bury him, that you may take away from me and from my father's house the innocent blood which Joab shed. The LORD will also require his bloody deeds upon his own head, because he fell upon two men more righteous and honorable than he, and slew them with the sword, without the knowledge of my father David: Abner, the son of Ner, commander of the army of Israel, and Amasa, the son of Jether, commander of the army of Judah. So shall their blood return upon the head of Joab and upon the head of his descendants forever; but to David, and to his descendants, and to his house, and to his throne, may there be peace from the LORD for evermore."

Then Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, went up and fell upon him and slew him; and he was buried in his own house in the desert. Thereupon the king put Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, over the army in his stead, and the king put Zadok the priest in the place of Abiathar.

Then the king called Shimei and said to him,

"Build for yourself a house in Jerusalem and dwell there, and do not go forth from there to any place whatever. For the day you go forth and cross the Brook Kidron, know for a certainty that you shall surely die; your blood shall be upon your own head."

"The stipulation is fair," said Shimei to the king; "as my lord the king has spoken so will your servant do."

So Shimei lived in Jerusalem many days.

But at the end of three years, two of Shimei's slaves ran away to Achish, the son of Maachah, king of Gath. So when they told Shimei, saying, "Behold, your slaves are in Gath," Shimei arose and saddled his ass and went to Gath to seek his slaves. Thus Shimei went and brought his slaves from Gath. Accordingly when it was told Solomon that Shimei had gone from Jerusalem to Gath and returned, the king sent and called Shimei, and said to him,

"Did I not cause you to swear by the LORD and solemnly admonish you, saying, 'On the day that you go forth and go to any place whatever, know of a certainty that you shall surely die?' And you said to me, 'The stipulation is fair, I have heard it.' Why then have you not kept the oath of the LORD and the command which I laid upon you?"

- 44 The king also said to Shimei,
 "You are conscious of all the evil which you yourself know, that you did to David my father; now the LORD is bringing your iniquity upon your own 45 head. But King Solomon shall be blessed and the throne of David shall be established before the LORD forever."
 46 So the king commanded Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and he went forth and struck him down, so that he died. Thus the kingdom was completely established in the hand of Solomon.

SOLOMON'S DREAM AND HIS ANSWERED PRAYER, 3:1-28

- 3 Solomon formed a marriage alliance with Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and he took Pharaoh's daughter, and brought her into the city of David, until he had finished the building of his house and the house of the LORD and the wall
 2 around Jerusalem. However the people sacrificed on the high places because there was no house built for the name of the LORD until those days.
 3 Now Solomon loved the LORD so that he walked in the statutes of David his father; only he sacrificed and burned incense on the high places.
 4 Moreover the king went to Gibeon to sacrifice there; for that was the great high place; and Solomon used to offer a thousand burnt-offerings on that altar.
 5 In Gibeon the LORD appeared to Solomon in a dream by night; and God said,
 "Ask what I shall give you."
 6 Then Solomon said,
 "Thou hast shown great kindness to thy servant David my father, according as he walked before thee in truth, in righteousness, and in uprightness of heart with thee; and thou hast kept in store for him this great kindness, in that thou hast given him a son who sits 7 on his throne this day. Now therefore, O LORD my God, thou hast made thy servant king in the place of David my father, while I am a little child in comparison. I know not how to go out or 8 come in. Thy servant also is in the midst of thy people whom thou hast chosen, a vast people, who cannot be numbered or counted for multitude. Give thy servant therefore an attentive mind to judge thy people in righteousness and to discern between good and evil; for who is able to judge this great people of thine?"

It was pleasing in the eyes of the LORD that Solomon had asked this thing; so God said to him,

"Because you have asked this thing and have not asked for yourself long life nor riches nor the life of your enemies, but have asked for yourself understanding to perceive justice; behold,
 1 I have done according to your word: see, I give you a wise and discerning mind, so that there has been none like you before you, and none like you shall arise after you. I give also what you did not ask, both riches and honor, so
 1 that, all your days, there shall not be any like you among the kings. If you walk in my ways so that you keep my statutes and my commands as did your father David, then I will prolong your days."

Now when Solomon awoke, behold, it
 1 was a dream. Then he came to Jerusalem and stood before the ark of the covenant of the LORD and offered burnt-offerings and made thank-offerings and made a feast for all his servants.

Then two women of ill fame came to 1 the king and stood before him, and the 1 one woman said,

"O, my lord, this woman and I dwell
 1 in the same house; and I gave birth to 1 a child while she was in the house.
 Then on the third day after I was delivered, this woman also gave birth to a child and we were together, there being no stranger with us in the house besides us two in the house. But the child of 1 this woman died in the night, because she lay upon it. Then she arose in the 2 middle of the night and took my child from my side while your maidservant slept, and laid it in her bosom and laid her dead child in my bosom. Thus when
 2 I arose toward morning to nurse my child, behold, it was dead; but when I was able to examine it closely in the morning, behold, it was not my child which I had borne."

"No; but the living child is mine and 2 the dead child is your child," the other woman said.

But the first woman was saying at the same time,

"No; but the living child is mine and the dead child is your child."

Thus they spoke before the king.

Then the king said,

"This one declares, 'This is my child, the living one, and your child is dead.' And the other declares, 'No; but your son is the dead and my son is the living!'"

"Get me a sword," said the king.

So they brought in a sword before the king. The king then said,

"Cut the living child in two and give half to one and half to the other."

But the woman to whom the living child belonged spoke to the king—for her motherly tenderness was aroused for her son—and she said,

"O, my lord, give her the living child, and by no means slay it."

But the other interrupted,

"It shall be neither mine nor yours! Divide it!"

Then the king answered and said,

"Give her the living child, and by no means slay it, for she is its mother."

Now when all Israel heard of the judgment that the king had rendered, they stood in awe of the king; for they perceived that the wisdom of God was in him to administer justice.

THE ORGANIZATION OF SOLOMON'S KINGDOM, 4:1-28

Now King Solomon was king over all Israel; and these were the princes whom he had: Azariah, the son of Zadok, was the priest; Elihoreph and Ahijah, the sons of Shisha, were scribes; Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was the recorder; and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was in command of the army; and Zadok and Abiathar were priests; and Azariah, the son of Nathan, was in charge of the officers; and Zabud, the son of Nathan, was priest and the king's friend; and Ahishar was in charge of the house; and Adoniram, the son of Abda, was in charge of the forced labor.

Solomon also had twelve officers over all Israel, and they used to provide food for the king and his household; each man had to make provision for one month in the year.

These were their names: Ben-hur, in the highlands of Ephraim; Ben-deker, in Makaz, and in Shaalbaim, and Beth-Shemesh, and Elonbethhanan; Ben-hesed, in Arubboth; he had Socoh and all the land of Hepher; Ben-abinadab, in all the highland of Dor (he had Taphath the daughter of Solomon as wife); Baanah, the son of Ahilud, in Taanach and Megiddo and all of Beth-shean, which is beside Zarethan, beneath Jezreel, from Beth-shean to Abel-meholah, as far as the other side of Jokneam; Ben-geber in Ramoth-Gilead; he had the villages of Jair, the son of Manasseh, which are in Gilead; he had the region of Argob, which is in Bashan, sixty great cities with walls and bronze bars; Ahinadab, the son of Iddo, at Mahanaïm; Ahimaaz in Naphtali (he also took Basemath, the daughter of Solomon, to wife); Baanah, the son of Hushai, in Asher in Bealoth; Jehoshaphat, the son of Paruah, in Issachar; Shimci, the son of Ela, in Benjamin; Geber, the son of Uri, in the land of Gilead, the land of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and of Og, king of Bashan; and one officer was over all the officials who were in the land.

Judah and Israel were as the sand which is by the sea for multitude; they were continually eating and drinking and making merry. Solomon was the ruler over all the kingdoms from the River even to the land of the Philistines and to the border of Egypt. They brought tribute and continued to serve Solomon all the days of his life.

Solomon's provision for one day was thirty kors of fine flour, and sixty kors of meal, ten fat cattle and twenty pasture fed cattle and a hundred sheep, besides harts and gazelles and roebucks and fatted fowls. For he had dominion over everything beyond the River, from Tiphseh even to Gaza, over all the kings beyond the River. And he had peace on all sides round about him, so that Judah and Israel dwelt in safety from Dan even to Beersheba, every man under his own vine and fig tree, all the days of Solomon. Now Solomon had forty thousand stalls of horses for his chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen.

These officers supplied provisions for King Solomon and for all who came to King Solomon's table, each in his month. They fell short in nothing.

 28 Also barley and straw for the horses and the swift steeds they brought to the place where it should be, each according to his assignment.

THE WISDOM OF SOLOMON,

4:29-34

29 God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding in very exceptional measure, and breadth of mind, like the sand 30 that is on the seashore, so that Solomon's wisdom surpassed the wisdom of all the eastern Arabs and all the wisdom of Egypt. For he was wiser than 31 all men: than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, and Chalcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol; and his fame was in all 32 the neighboring nations. He also spoke three thousand proverbs and his songs 33 were five thousand. He spoke concerning trees, from the cedar which is in Lebanon even to the hyssop that springs out of the wall; he spoke also of 34 beasts, of birds, of reptiles, and of fish; and men came from all peoples to hear the wisdom of Solomon, sent from all the kings of the earth who had heard of his wisdom.

SOLOMON'S PREPARATIONS FOR THE TEMPLE,

5:1-18

6 Now Hiram, king of Tyre, had sent his servants to Solomon when he heard that they had anointed him king in place of his father; for Hiram had always been fond of David.
 2 And Solomon sent to Hiram, saying,
 3 "You yourself knew David my father. how he was unable to build a house for the name of the LORD his God because of the hostile forces that surrounded him until the LORD put 4 them under the soles of his feet. But now the LORD my God has given me rest on all sides, in that there is no adversary and no untoward event. So now I am planning to build a house for the name of the LORD my God, as the LORD spoke to David my father, saying, 'Your son whom I will put in your place upon your throne, he shall build 6 the house for my name.' Now therefore command that they cut for me cedars of Lebanon; and my servants will accompany your servants, and I will pay you wages for your servants exactly as you say; for you know that there is no one among us who knows how to cut timber like the Sidonians."

When Hiram heard the words of Solomon, he was very greatly pleased and said,

"Blessed be the LORD today, who has given David a wise son to be over this great people."

So Hiram sent to Solomon, saying,

"I have heard what you have requested of me; I stand ready to perform all your pleasure in the matter of cedar and cypress timbers. My servants shall bring them down to the sea from Lebanon, and I will make them into rafts to go by sea to the place that you shall direct me, and I will have them broken up there, and you shall take them up. You shall also accomplish my desire by providing food for my household."

So Hiram kept Solomon supplied with cedar and cypress timber to his entire satisfaction. Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand kors of wheat as food for his household, and twenty baths of oil from crushed olives. This much Solomon used to give Hiram annually. And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom as he promised him; and there was peace between Hiram and Solomon, and the two of them ratified a treaty.

King Solomon raised a levy of forced laborers out of all Israel, and the levy consisted of thirty thousand men. He sent them to Lebanon, ten thousand a month in relays; a month they were in Lebanon and two months at home; and Adoniram was in command of the levy. Solomon also had seventy thousand burden bearers and eighty thousand hewers of stone in the mountains, beside Solomon's superior officers who were set over the work, three thousand three hundred, who had charge of the people who were doing the work. And the king commanded that they should hew out great, costly stones, to lay the foundation of the house with cut stone. So Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders and the Gebalites did the hewing and prepared the timbers and the stones to build the house.

THE BUILDING PLANS OF THE TEMPLE, 6:1-38

Now in the four hundred and eightieth year after the exodus of the Israelites from the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of Solomon's reign over Israel, in the month of Ziv, which is the second month, he built the house of the LORD. As for the house which King Solomon built for the LORD, its length was sixty cubits, its breadth twenty cubits, and its height thirty. The porch in front of the temple was twenty cubits in length, corresponding to the breadth of the house, and it was ten cubits wide at the front of the house. He made for the house windows with narrow frames.

He also built inclosed galleries against the wall of the house round about in conformity with the walls of the house round about, both around the temple proper and the inner room, and he made side chambers round about. The lower side chamber was five cubits broad and the middle six cubits broad and the third seven cubits broad; on the outside of the house round about he made offsets in order that the supports should not be inserted into the walls of the house. When the house was built, it was done with stone prepared at the quarry; and neither hammer nor ax nor any iron tool was heard in the temple while it was being built. The entrance into the lower side chamber was on the right side of the house; and by means of a circular trap door they could go up into the middle chamber and from the middle into the third. So he built the house and finished it; and he covered the house with cedar. He also built the inclosed galleries against the whole house, five cubits being the height of each; and they were joined to the house with timbers of cedar.

Now the word of the Lord came to Solomon, saying,

"With regard to this house you are building, if you will walk in my statutes, and carry out my ordinances, and keep all my commands by conforming your conduct to them; then I will confirm my word with you which I spoke to David your father; and I will dwell in the midst of the Israelites and will not forsake my people Israel."

So Solomon built the house and finished it.

He built the walls of the house on the inside with boards of cedar; from the floor of the house to the rafters of the ceiling he covered them on the inside with wood, and he covered the floor of the house with boards of cypress. He built off twenty cubits from the back of the house with boards of cedar from the floor to the rafters; and he built for himself within, an inner room, for the most sacred place. The house, that is, the temple proper, in front of the inner room, was forty cubits long. There was also cedar within the interior of the house carved in the form of gourds and open flowers; the whole was cedar, there was no stone seen. Then he prepared an inner room within the interior of the house to place there the ark of the covenant of the LORD. The inner room was twenty cubits long, twenty cubits wide, and twenty cubits high; and he overlaid it with rare gold. He also made an altar of cedar in front of the inner room and covered it with gold. Then he overlaid the entire house with gold, until the whole house was finished.

He made in the inner room two cherubim of olive wood, ten cubits in height. One wing of the cherub was five cubits and the other wing of the cherub was five cubits—it was ten cubits from the tip of one wing to the tip of the other. The other cherub also measured ten cubits; both cherubim had the same measurement and form. The height of the one cherub was ten cubits, even so was the other cherub. Thus he put the cherubim within the inner part of the house, and they spread out the wings of the cherubim, so that the wing of the one touched the wall, while the wing of the other cherub reached the other wall, and their wings touched each other in the middle of the house. He also overlaid the cherubim with gold.

He carved all the walls of the house round about with carved figures of cherubim and palm trees and open flowers, within and without. The floor of the house he overlaid with gold within and without.

For the entrance of the inner room he made folding doors of olive wood: the pilasters and doorposts formed a pentag-

- 32 onal. The two doors of olive wood he decorated with carvings of cherubim and palm trees and open flowers, and he overlaid them with gold; and he spread the gold upon the cherubim and the palm trees.
- 33 So also he made for the entrance of the temple proper, doorposts of olive wood four square; and two doors of olive wood four square; and two doors of cypress wood; the two leaves of the one door were folding, and the two leaves of the other door were folding. He carved cherubim and palm trees and open flowers, and overlaid them with gold evenly applied to the carved work; and he built the inner court with three courses of hewn stone, and a course of hewn cedar beams.
- 37 In the fourth year was the foundation of the house of the LORD laid, in the month Ziv. In the eleventh year, in the month Bul, which is the eighth month, the house was finished in all its details and according to all its specifications. Thus he was seven years in building it.

DETAILS OF SOLOMON'S BUILDINGS, 7:1-51

- 7 But Solomon was thirteen years building his own house until he had finished his entire house. Thus he built the Forest of Lebanon House; its length was one hundred cubits, and its breadth fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits, upon three rows of cedar columns, with cedar beams upon the columns. Above it was covered with cedar over the forty-five beams that were upon the columns, and the number of the columns was fifteen in a row.
- 4 There were also window-frames in three rows, and window was over against window, in three tiers. All the doorways and windows had square frames; and door was over against door in three tiers. He also made the pillared porch fifty cubits long and thirty cubits broad, and a porch in front of them and columns and a cornice in front of them. And he made the porch of the throne where he might pronounce judgment, even the Porch of Judgment; and it was covered with cedar from floor to rafters.
- 8 His own house, where he was to dwell, belonging to another court farther back from the Porch of Judgment, was of like workmanship. He also made a house for Pharaoh's daughter (whom Solomon had taken to wife) like this porch.

All these were of costly stones, hewn according to measurements, sawed with saws, within and without, even from the foundation to the coping, and from the outside to the great court. The foundation also was of costly, great stones—stones of ten cubits and stones of eight cubits; likewise above were costly stones, hewn according to measurement, as well as cedar; also the great encircling court had three courses of hewn stone and a course of cedar beams, as in the case of the inner court of the house of the LORD and the court of the porch of the house.

Then King Solomon sent and brought Hiram from Tyre. He was the son of a widow of the tribe of Naphtali; and his father was a man of Tyre, a worker in bronze; and he was equipped with skill, understanding, and knowledge to execute any work in bronze. So he came to King Solomon and did all his work. Thus he cast the two columns of bronze for the porch of the temple. Eighteen cubits was the height of one column, and a cord of twelve cubits measured its circumference; the thickness of the column was four fingers; it was hollow, and the second column was similar. He also made two capitals of molten bronze, to set upon the tops of the columns, the height of the one capital being five cubits, and five cubits being the height of the other capital. Then he made two nets (woven work, festoons, chain work) for the capitals which were upon the top of the columns; a net for the one capital, and a net for the other capital. He likewise made the pomegranates; and two rows of bronze pomegranates were upon the one to cover the capitals that were upon the top of the columns; he also treated the other capital in the same manner. Now the capitals that were upon the tops of the columns in the porch were of lily work—four cubits. There were also capitals above upon the two columns close to the rounded projection of the column which was beside the network; and the pomegranates were two hundred, in two rows around the second capital. Thus he set up the columns of the porch of the temple; and he set up the right hand column and called its name Jachin; and he set up the left hand column and called its name Boaz. Now upon the top of the columns was lily work. So he finished the work of the columns.

Then he made the molten sea, ten cubits in diameter from brim to brim, round in form, five cubits high, and thirty cubits in circumference; and under its brim were gourds encircling it for ten cubits, completely surrounding the sea. The gourds were in two rows, cast when it was cast. Now its thickness was a handbreadth, and its brim was in workmanship like the brim of a cup, similar to the flower of a lily. It held two thousand baths. It stood on twelve oxen, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east; and the sea was superimposed upon them, while their haunches were all directed inward.

He made also ten stands of bronze, each stand being four cubits long, four cubits wide and three cubits high. The construction of the stands was as follows: they had border-frames and the border-frames were between the supports; and on the border-frames that were between the supports were lions, oxen, and cherubim; and upon the supports likewise, above and below the lions, oxen, and wreaths, was bevelled work. Moreover each stand had four bronze wheels, and axles of bronze, and the four corners had shoulder-pieces: beneath the bowl the shoulder-pieces were cast, with wreaths at the sides of each. Its mouth within the shoulder-piece was a cubit, and its mouth was round after the work of a pedestal, a cubit and a half, and also upon its mouth were gravings, and its border-frames were square, not round. Also the four wheels were underneath the border-frames; and the axletrees of the wheels were in the stand. The construction of the wheels was like the construction of a chariot wheel: their supports, their felloes, their spokes, and their hubs, were all cast. There were four shoulder-pieces at the four corners of each stand; the shoulder-pieces were a part of the stand.

Now in the top of the stand there was a round opening half a cubit high, and upon the top of the stand were its supports and its border-frames. And on the smooth surface of the supports and border-frames he carved cherubim, lions, and palm trees, according to the clear space on each, with wreaths round about. After this manner he made the 37 ten stands: all of them were of one casting and of one measure and form.

He also made ten lavers of bronze: 38 one laver held forty baths, and one laver measured four cubits; and on each one of the ten stands was a laver. Then 39 he put the stands, five on the right side of the house, and five on the left side of the house; and he put the sea on the right side of the house toward the south.

Hiram also made the pots, the shov- 40 els, and the basins. So Hiram finished all the work that he did for King Solo- mon on the house of the LORD: the two 41 columns, the two bowl-shaped capitals that were on the top of the columns, the two networks to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were on the top of the columns, and the four hundred 42 pomegranates for the two networks, two rows of pomegranates for each network, to cover the two bowl-shaped capitals that were on the tops of the columns, and the ten stands and the ten 43 lavers upon the stands, and the one 44 sea and the twelve oxen underneath the sea.

Now the pots, and the shovels, and 45 the basins, even all these utensils which Hiram made for King Solomon in the house of the LORD, were of burnished bronze. There was no weighing of the 47 bronze from which he made all these utensils because it was so very much; the weight of the bronze could not be determined. In the plain of the Jordan 46 he cast them, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zarethan. So Solo- 48 mon placed all the utensils which he had made in the house of the LORD: the golden altar, and the golden table upon which was the Presence-bread; and the 49 lampstands, five on the right side, and five on the left in front of the inner room, of rare gold; and the flowers, the 50 lamps, and the tongs of gold; and the cups, snuffers, basins, saucers, and fire-pans of rare gold; and the golden hinges, both for the folding doors of the inner house (the most sacred place) and for the folding doors of the temple proper.

Thus all the work was completed that 51

King Solomon performed on the house of the LORD. Solomon also brought in the things which David his father had dedicated, the silver, the gold, and the utensils, placing them in the treasuries of the house of the LORD.

THE DEDICATION OF THE TEMPLE, 8:1-66

- 8 Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, the princes of families of the Israelites, to King Solomon in Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the city of David, that is Zion.
- 2 So all the men of Israel assembled to King Solomon at the feast in the month Ethanim, which is the seventh month. Likewise all the elders of Israel came, and the priests took up the ark; and they brought up the ark of the LORD, and the tent of meeting, and all the holy vessels that were in the tent; the priests and Levites brought them up.
- 5 Then King Solomon and all the assembly of Israel, that were assembled to him, were with him before the ark, sacrificing so many sheep and oxen that they could not be counted or numbered.
- 6 Then the priests brought the ark of the covenant of the LORD to its place in the inner room of the house, in the most sacred place, underneath the wings of the cherubim; for the cherubim had their wings spread over the place of the ark, so that the cherubim made a covering above the ark and its poles.
- 8 But the poles were so long that the ends of the poles were seen from the holy place in front of the inner room, yet they were not seen outside, and there they are to this day. There was nothing in the ark except the two tablets of stone which Moses had placed there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the Israelites at the time they came out of the land of Egypt. Now when the priests came out of the sanctuary, a cloud filled the house of the LORD, so that the priests could not stand to minister because of the cloud; for the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD.
- 12 Then Solomon said,
 "The LORD established the sun in the heavens,
 But he himself said that he would dwell in thick darkness;

" 'Build my house, a house of habitation for me,
 That I may dwell therein forever.'
 Is it not written in the Book of Jashar?"

Then the king faced about and blessed all the assembly of Israel, and all the assembly of Israel stood up; and he said,

"Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who with his own mouth spoke to David my father, and with his own hand has fulfilled it, saying, 'Since the day that I brought forth my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel in which to build a house that my name might be there, but I have chosen David to be over my people Israel.' Now it was in the mind of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel. But the LORD said to David my father, 'Because it was in your mind to build a house for my name, you did well that it was in your mind; nevertheless you yourself shall not build the house; but your son, who shall come forth from your loins, he shall build the house for my name.' Now the LORD has made good his word which he spoke; for I have risen up in the place of David my father and sit on the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel; and there I have provided a place for the ark in which is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with our fathers, when he brought them out of the land of Egypt."

Then Solomon stood up before the altar of the LORD in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel and spread forth his hands toward the heavens, and said,

"O LORD, the God of Israel, there is no God like thee in the heavens above nor upon the earth beneath, who keepest loving faith with thy servants who walk before thee with all their heart, who hast kept with thy servant David, my father, that which thou didst promise him; for thou didst speak with thy lips, and with thy hand thou hast fulfilled it, as it is this day. Now therefore, O LORD, the God of Israel, keep with thy servant David, my father, that which thou didst promise him, saying, 'You shall never lack a man in my sight to sit on the throne of Israel, if only your sons take heed to their way, to walk before me as you have walked before me.' Now therefore, O God of Israel, let thy word be confirmed, I pray thee, which thou hast spoken to thy servant David, my father.

"But can God really dwell with men on the earth? Behold, the heavens and the highest heaven cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I have built! Yet turn thou to the prayer of thy servant and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to listen to the cry and to the prayer which thy servant offers before thee this day, that thine eyes may be open toward this house night and day, even toward the place of which thou hast said, 'My name shall be there,' to listen to the prayer which thy servant shall pray toward this place; and listen thou to the supplication of thy servant and of thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place; yea, hear thou in the heavens, thy dwelling place, and when thou hearest, forgive.

"If a man sin against his neighbor, and an oath be laid upon him compelling him to swear, and he come and swear before thine altar in this house, then hear thou in the heavens; take action and judge thy servants, punishing the wicked by bringing his course of action upon his own head, and vindicating the righteous by rewarding him according to his righteousness.

"When thy people Israel are defeated before the enemy because they have sinned against thee, if they turn again to thee and praise thy name and pray and make supplication to thee in this house, then hear thou in the heavens and forgive the sin of thy people Israel and restore them to the land which thou gavest to their fathers.

"When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against thee, if they pray toward this place and confess thy name and turn from their sin, when thou dost afflict them, then hear thou in the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants and thy people Israel, when thou teachest them the good way in which they should walk, and send rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people as a heritage.

"If there be in the land famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locusts, or caterpillars, if their enemy besiege them in any of their gates, whatever be the plague, whatever be the sickness—whatever prayer, what-<sup>38</sup> ever supplication be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, who knows each his own personal affliction, and stretches out his hand toward this house, then hear thou in the heavens<sup>39</sup> thy dwelling-place and forgive and act and render to each according to all his ways, whose heart thou knowest (for thou, even thou alone, knowest the hearts of all the sons of men), that they<sup>40</sup> may fear thee all the days that they live on the face of the land which thou gavest to our fathers.

"Moreover concerning the resident<sup>41</sup> alien, who is not of thy people Israel, but comes from a far country for thy name's sake (for they shall hear of thy<sup>42</sup> great name and thy mighty hand and thine outstretched arm), when he shall come and pray toward this house, then<sup>43</sup> hear thou in the heavens thy dwelling-place and do just as the alien petitions of thee, that all the peoples of the earth may know thy name, to fear thee, as do thy people Israel, and that they may know that this house which I have built is called by thy name.

"If thy people go out to battle<sup>44</sup> against their enemy, by whatever way thou shalt send them, and they pray to the LORD in the direction of the city which thou hast chosen and the house which I have built for thy name, then<sup>45</sup> hear thou in the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and uphold their cause.

"If they sin against thee (for there is<sup>46</sup> no man who does not sin), and thou be angry with them and deliver them to the enemy, so that they carry them away captive to the land of the enemy, far off or near; yet if they take thought<sup>47</sup> in the land to which they have been carried captive and turn again and make supplication to thee in the land of their captivity, saying, 'We have sinned and have acted perversely and wickedly,' if they return to thee with all their<sup>48</sup> mind and heart in the land of their enemies, who carried them captive, and pray to thee in the direction of their land, which thou gavest to their fathers, and the city which thou has chosen, and the house which I have

49 built for thy name, then hear thou in the heavens thy dwelling-place their prayer and thy supplication, and uphold their cause, and forgive thy people who have sinned against thee, and all their transgressions which they have transgressed against thee, and grant them compassion in the sight of those who carried them captive, that they may have compassion on them (for they are thy people and thy heritage, that thou didst bring forth out of Egypt, 52 from the midst of the iron furnace), that thine eyes may be open to the supplication of thy servant and to the supplication of thy people Israel, to give ear to them whenever they cry to thee. 53 For thou didst separate them from all the peoples of the earth to be thy heritage, as thou didst promise through Moses thy servant, when thou didst bring our fathers out of Egypt, O Lord GOD."

54 Now when Solomon had finished praying all this prayer and supplication to the LORD, he arose from kneeling on his knees before the altar of the LORD with his hands stretched out toward the heavens, and stood, and blessed all the assembly of Israel with a loud voice, saying,

56 "Blessed be the LORD who has given rest to his people Israel, just as he promised. Not one word has failed of all his good promise which he spoke by Moses his servant. The LORD our God be with us, as he was with our fathers; 58 let him not leave us or forsake us, that he may incline our hearts to him, to walk in all his ways and to keep his commands, his statutes, and his ordinances, which he commanded our fathers. Let these words of mine, with which I have made supplication before the LORD, be near to the LORD, our God, day and night, that he maintain the right of his servant and the right of his people Israel, as each day requires; 60 that all the peoples of the earth may know that the LORD is God; there is no other. Let your heart therefore be perfect with the LORD our God, to walk in his statutes and to keep his commands, as at this day."

62 The king and all Israel with him offered sacrifices before the LORD. Solomon moreover offered as the sacrifice of thank-offerings, which he offered to the LORD, twenty-two thousand oxen, and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. Thus the king and all the Israelites dedicated the house of the LORD. The same day the king consecrated the interior of the court that was in front of the house of the LORD; for there he offered the burnt-offering, and the cereal-offering, and the fat pieces of the thank-offerings, because the bronze altar that was before the LORD was too small to receive the burnt-offering and the cereal-offering and the fat pieces of the thank-offerings. So Solomon made a feast at that time and all Israel with him—a great assembly, from the entrance of Hamath to the Brook of Egypt—before the LORD our God, seven days. But on the eighth day he sent the people away; and with a blessing upon the king they went to their homes, joyful and glad of heart for all the goodness that the LORD had shown to David his servant, and to Israel his people.

SOLOMON'S VISION, 9:1-9

Now when Solomon had finished building the house of the LORD and the king's house and all the work of Solomon which he was pleased to do, the LORD appeared to Solomon a second time, as he had appeared to him in Gibeon. The LORD said to him,

"I have heard your prayer and your supplication, which you have made before me. I have sanctified this house which you have built in which to put my name forever; and my eyes and my heart shall be there for all time. If you will indeed walk before me, as David your father walked, in integrity of heart and in uprightness, doing just as I have commanded you, and will keep my statutes and my ordinances, then I will establish the throne of your kingdom over Israel forever, as I promised David your father, saying, 'You shall never lack a man upon the throne of Israel.' But if you shall indeed turn aside from following me, you or your children, and shall not keep my commands and my statutes which I have set before you, but go and serve other gods, and worship them, then I will cut off Israel from the land which I have given them; and the house, which I have sanctified for my name, will I cast away from me, and Israel shall be a proverb and a byword among all peoples. Moreover, this house shall become ruins; every passer-by shall be amazed and shall hiss, and they shall say, 'Why has the LORD done thus to this land and to this house?' Then they shall say, 'Because they forsook the LORD their God, who brought forth their fathers out of the land of Egypt, and took up with other gods and worshiped them and served them; therefore the LORD has brought upon them all this evil.' "

THE ORIGIN OF THE NAME CABUL, 9:10-14

Now at the end of twenty years, during which Solomon had built the two houses, the house of the LORD and the king's house, Hiram king of Tyre having supplied Solomon with cedar and cypress timber and with gold as much as he required, King Solomon at that time proceeded to give to Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee. But when Hiram came out from Tyre to see the cities which Solomon had given him, they were not acceptable in his sight. Therefore he said,

"What are these cities which you have given me, my brother?"

So they are called the land of Cabul even to this day. However, Hiram sent to the king one hundred and twenty talents of gold.

SOLOMON'S VARIED INTER- ESTS, 9:15-10:29

Now this is the account of the levy of forced service which King Solomon raised to build the house of the LORD, his own house, Millo, the wall of Jerusalem, Hazor, Megiddo, and Gezer (Pharaoh king of Egypt had gone up, and captured Gezer, and burned it, and slain the Canaanites who dwelt in the city, and had given it as a dowry to his daughter, Solomon's wife. So Solomon rebuilt Gezer), lower Beth-horon, Baalath, and Tamar in the desert in the land of Judah, and all the store-cities that Solomon had, and cities for his chariots, and the cities for his horsemen, and whatsoever Solomon desired to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and in all the land under his rule. All the people 20 who were left of the Amorites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Hivvites, and the Jebusites, who were not of the Israelites, their descendants who were 21 left after them in the land, whom the Israelites were unable to destroy utterly, of them Solomon raised a forced levy of slaves, as it is to this day. But 22 Solomon made no slave of the Israelites; for they were the soldiers and his attendants, his commanders, his officers of third rank, his chariot commanders, and his horsemen.

These were the chief officers who 23 were over Solomon's work, five hundred and fifty, who had charge of the people who did the work.

But Pharaoh's daughter went up 24 from the city of David to her own house which he had built for her; then he built Millo.

Now Solomon used to offer burnt- 25 offerings and thank-offerings three times a year upon the altar which he built to the LORD, and he used to burn incense before the LORD. So he completed the house.

King Solomon also made a fleet of 26 ships at Ezion-geber, which is near Elath on the shore of the Red Sea in the land of Edom; and Hiram sent with the 27 fleet his servants—seamen, who were familiar with the sea—together with the servants of Solomon. Now they 28 went to Ophir and took from there gold, to the amount of four hundred and twenty talents, and brought it to Solomon.

Now when the queen of Sheba heard 10 of the fame of Solomon through the name of the LORD, she came to test him with hard questions. So she came 2 to Jerusalem with a very large retinue, with camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones; and when she came to Solomon, she conversed with him about all that was in her mind; and Solomon answered all her 3 questions; there was nothing hidden from the king which he could not explain to her. Then when the queen of 4 Sheba had observed all the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, the viands of his table, the appoint- 5 ment of his servants, the attendance of his waiters, their clothing, his cupbearers, and his burnt-offerings which he used to offer at the house of the LORD,

6 there was no more spirit in her. So she said to the king,

7 "The report which I heard in my own land of your affairs and your wisdom was true; but I would not believe the words until I came and saw with my own eyes, and behold, the half was not told me; you surpass in wisdom and prosperity the report which I heard.
8 Happy are your wives; happy are these servants of yours who stand before you continually and hear your wisdom!
9 Blessed be the LORD your God who has delighted in you, to set you on the throne of Israel! Because the LORD loved Israel forever, he has made you king, to administer justice and righteousness."

10 Then she gave the king one hundred and twenty talents of gold and a very great amount of spices and precious stones; never did such a multitude of spices come, as that which the queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon. In addition Hiram's fleet, that brought gold from Ophir, also brought a very great amount of sandalwood and precious stones. Accordingly the king made of the sandalwood pilasters for the house of the LORD and for the king's house, and harps and lyres for the singers. There never had come such sandalwood, nor has it been seen to this day.
13 Now King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all that it pleased her to ask for, besides what he gave her according to his royal bounty. Then she turned and went to her own land, together with her servants.

14 The weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold, besides what came from the traffic of the merchants and from all the kings of the Arabs and from the governors of the land.

16 Now King Solomon made two hundred large shields of beaten gold (six hundred shekels of gold going to each shield) and three hundred shields of beaten gold (three manas of gold going to each shield), and the king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon.
18 The king also made a great throne of ivory and overlaid it with the finest gold. The throne had six steps and at the back of the throne were calves' heads, and on both sides of the seat were arms, and two lions stood beside the arms, while twelve lions stood there on the six steps on each side. The like was never made in any kingdom.

All the drinking vessels of King Solomon were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of rare gold; none were of silver, since it was thought nothing of in the days of Solomon. For the king had at sea a fleet of Tarshish ships with the fleet of Hiram. Once every three years the fleet of Tarshish ships used to come bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks. King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom; and the whole earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear the wisdom which God had put into his mind. They brought each his present: articles of silver and gold, clothing, equipment, spices, horses, and mules, so much year by year.

Moreover Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen; and he had fourteen hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen, that he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem. The king made silver in Jerusalem as common as stone, and he made cedars as plentiful as the sycamore trees that are in the lowland. Solomon's transport of horses was between Egypt and Kuë; the king's traders received them from Kuë at a price, and a chariot could be imported from Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty. In this manner they carried on trade with all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of the Arameans.

SOLOMON'S SINS AND THEIR PENALTIES, 11:1-43

Now King Solomon was a lover of women; and he married many foreign wives—Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Sidonians, and Hittites, from the nations concerning which the LORD had said to the Israelites, "You shall not go among them, neither shall they come among you; for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods"; Solomon clung to these in love.

And he had seven hundred wives, princesses, and three hundred concubines; and his wives turned away his heart. Now when Solomon was old, his heart was not perfect with the LORD

his God, as was the heart of David his father; and his wives turned away his heart after their gods. Solomon also went after Ashtar, the goddess of the Sidonians, and after Milcom, the abomination of the Ammonites. Thus Solomon did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and went not fully after the LORD as David his father had done. Then Solomon built a high place for Chemosh, the god of the Moabites, in the mountain over against Jerusalem, and for Milcom, the god of the Ammonites. Even so he did for all his foreign wives, burning incense and sacrificing to their gods. Thus the LORD was angry with Solomon, because his heart was turned away from the LORD, the God of Israel, who had appeared to him twice, and had commanded him concerning this thing, that he should not go after other gods; but he did not heed that which the LORD had commanded.

Therefore the LORD said to Solomon,

"Inasmuch as this is your attitude and you have not kept my covenant and my statutes, which I have commanded you, I will surely rend the kingdom from you, and will give it to your servant. Nevertheless I will not do it in your days, for David your father's sake; but I will rend it out of the hand of your son. However I will not tear away the whole kingdom; but I will give one tribe to your son, for David my servant's sake and for the sake of Jerusalem which I have chosen."

Accordingly the LORD raised up against Solomon an adversary, Hadad the Edomite, of the royal house that was in Edom; for when David was in Edom, also when Joab, the commander of the army, went up to bury the slain, he slew every male in Edom (for Joab and all Israel remained there six months until he had cut off every male in Edom). Hadad and certain Edomites from the servants of his father fled with him, to go into Egypt, Hadad being a little child. They set out from Midian and came to Paran and took men with them from Paran and came to Egypt to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who gave him a house and appointed him food and gave him land. Thus Hadad found great favor in the sight of Pharaoh, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen. Also the sister of Tahpenes bore him Genubath his son, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's house; and Genubath was in Pharaoh's house among the sons of Pharaoh. Now 21 when Hadad heard in Egypt that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab, the commander of the army, was dead, Hadad said to Pharaoh,

"Send me away and let me go to my own country."

But Pharaoh said to him, 22

"What have you lacked with me that you are now seeking to go to your own country?"

"Do let me go" he said to him.

God also raised up as an adversary to 23 him, Rezon, the son of Eliada, who had fled from his master, Hadadezer, king of Zobah. So he gathered men about 24 him and became leader of a marauding band, and they went to Damascus and dwelt there and reigned in Damascus. He was an adversary of Israel all the 25 days of Solomon besides the evil which Hadad did; and he abhorred Israel and ruled over Edom.

Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, an 26 Ephraimite of Zeredah, a servant of Solomon, whose mother's name was Zeruah, a widow, also lifted up his hand against the king. Now this was 27 the reason why he lifted up his hand against the king: Solomon built Millo and closed up the breach of the city of David his father. Now the man Jero- 28 boam was very able and when Solomon saw that the young man was industrious, he gave him charge of all the forced labor of the house of Joseph.

Thus it happened at that time, when 29 Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, that the prophet Ahijah the Shilonite found him on the road and he turned him aside from the road. Now Ahijah had clad himself with a new garment; and the two of them were alone in the field. Then Ahijah laid hold of the new gar- 30 ment that was on him and tore it into twelve pieces; and he said to Jero- 31 boam,

"Take for yourself ten pieces; for thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Behold, I am about to tear the kingdom from the hand of Solomon and will give you ten tribes; but he shall have 32 one tribe, for my servant David's sake and for the sake of Jerusalem, the city which I have chosen out of all the tribes

 33 of Israel, because he has forsaken me and worshiped Ashtart, the goddess of the Sidonians, Chemosh, the god of Moab, and Milcom, the god of the Ammonites, and has not walked in my ways to do that which is right in my sight, and to keep my statutes and my ordinances, as David his father did.
 34 Nevertheless I will not take the whole kingdom out of his hand; but I will certainly establish him as ruler during his lifetime, for David my servant's sake whom I chose, who kept my commands and my statutes. I will take the kingdom out of his son's hand, and will 35 give to you, even ten tribes. Yet to his son I will give one tribe, that David my servant may always have a lamp before me in Jerusalem, my city, where I
 36 have chosen to put my name. But I will take you and you shall reign over all that you yourself desire, and you
 37 shall be king over Israel; and if you will hearken to all that I command you, and will walk in my ways and do that which is right in my sight, by keeping my statutes and my commands, as David my servant did, then I will be with you and build you a lasting house, as I built for David, and I will give Israel to you.
 38 Thus I will afflict the descendants of David for this, but not forever."
 39 Solomon therefore sought to kill Jeroboam, but Jeroboam arose and fled to Egypt, to Shishak king of Egypt, and was in Egypt till the death of Solomon.
 40 Now the rest of the records of Solomon, and all that he did, and his wisdom, are they not written in the Book of the Records of Solomon? The time that Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all 41 Israel was forty years. Then Solomon slept with his fathers and was buried in the city of David his father; and Rehoboam his son reigned in his stead.

THE DISRUPTION OF THE KINGDOM, 12:1-20

12 Then Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had come to Shechem to make him king. But as soon as Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, heard of it (for he was still in Egypt, where he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king, and he was living in Egypt), he returned to his native city of Zeredah in the highlands of Ephraim. So they sent and called Jeroboam, and he, with all the assembly of Israel, came; and they spoke to Rehoboam, saying,

"Your father made our yoke galling. Now then lighten the galling service of your father and his heavy yoke which he laid upon us, and we will serve you."

Then he said to them,

"Go away for three days, then return to me."

So the people went away.

Then King Rehoboam took counsel with the old men who had stood before Solomon his father, while he was still alive, saying,

"How do you advise me to reply to this people?"

They spoke to him, saying,

"If you will be a servant to this people today and will serve them, and when you answer them, speak kindly to them, then they will be your servants forever."

But he rejected the counsel of the old men which they had given him, and took counsel with the young men, who had grown up with him and who were his companions. So he said to them,

"What do you advise that we reply to this people, who have spoken to me saying, 'Lighten the yoke that your father laid upon us?'"

Then the young men who had grown up with him spoke to him, saying,

"Thus shall you say to this people who have said to you, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, but do you lighten our yoke'; thus shall you say to them: 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins! And now, whereas my father loaded you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions!'"

So when Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the third day, as the king commanded, saying, "Return to me the third day," the king answered them harshly, and rejected the counsel of the old men which they offered him. So he spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying,

"My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions."

15 So the king did not listen to the people, for it was a thing brought about by the LORD to establish his word which the LORD spoke by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam, the son of Nebat.

6 Now when all Israel saw that the king had not listened to them, the people replied to the king, saying,

"What portion have we in David? Yea, we have no heritage in the son of Jesse. To your tents, O Israel! see now to your own house, O David!"

So the Israelites went to their tents.

7 But Rehoboam reigned over the Israelites who dwelt in the cities of Judah. Then King Rehoboam sent Adoram, who was over the forced labor, but all Israel stoned him to death; whereupon King Rehoboam leaped into his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David down to this day.

8 Now as soon as all Israel heard that Jeroboam had returned, they sent and called him to the assembly and made him king over all Israel. None, except the tribe of Judah alone, remained loyal to the house of David.

SHEMAIAH'S PROPHECY,

12:21-24

9 When Rehoboam reached Jerusalem, he assembled all the house of Judah and the tribe of Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand seasoned troops, to fight against the house of Israel to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon. But the word of God came to Shemaiah, a man of God, saying,

"Speak to Rehoboam, son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all the house of Judah and Benjamin, and to the rest of the people, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "You shall not go up to fight against your brothers, the Israelites; return every man to his house, for this thing is from me."'"

So they listened to the word of the LORD, and turned and went away according to the word of the LORD.

THE MAKING OF THE GOLD- EN CALVES, 12:25-13:34

5 Then Jeroboam built Shechem in the highlands of Ephraim and dwelt there.

He also went out from there and built Penuel.

Moreover Jeroboam said to himself, 26

"Now the kingdom will revert to the house of David. If this people go up to 27 make sacrifices in the temple of the LORD in Jerusalem, then will the heart of this people return to their lord, even to Rehoboam, king of Judah; and they will slay me, and return to Rehoboam, king of Judah."

So the king took counsel and made 28 two calves of gold, and said to the people,

"You have gone up to Jerusalem long enough. Behold your gods, O Israel, who brought you up from the land of Egypt!"

So he set up the one in Bethel, and 29 the other he put in Dan; and this thing 30 became a sin to Israel, for the people went to seek the one, even to Dan. He 31 also made sanctuaries at high places, and made priests from among all sorts of people, who were not of the sons of Levi. Jeroboam established a feast in 32 the eighth month, on the fifteenth day of the month, like the feast that is in Judah, and he went up to the altar; so he did in Bethel, sacrificing to the calves that he had made; and he stationed in Bethel the priests of the high places that he had made. And Jero- 33 boam went up on the fifteenth day of the eighth month to the altar which he had made in Bethel, which he had devised of his own accord; and he established a feast for the Israelites and went 13 up to the altar to burn incense. Now at the command of the LORD there came a man of God from Judah to Bethel, just as Jeroboam was standing by the altar to burn incense. The man 2 cried out against the altar at the command of the LORD and said,

"O Altar, altar, thus says the LORD: 'Behold, a son shall be born to the house of David, Josiah by name, and upon you he shall sacrifice the priests of the high places who burn incense upon you, and he shall burn men's bones on you.'"

He also gave a sign the same day, 3 saying,

"This is the sign which the LORD has spoken, 'Behold, the altar shall be rent, and the ashes which are upon it shall be poured out.'"

Now when the king heard the word of 4

the man of God which he cried against the altar in Bethel, Jeroboam put forth his hand from the altar, saying,

"Arrest him."

But his hand which he put forth against him, withered up, so that he could not draw it back to himself. The altar also was rent, and the ashes poured out from the altar in accordance with the sign which the man of God had given at the command of the LORD. Then the king answered and said to the man of God,

"Entreat now the favor of the LORD your God, and pray for me that my hand may be restored to me."

So the man of God entreated the favor of the LORD, and the king's hand was restored to him again and became as it was before. Thereupon the king spoke to the man of God,

"Come home with me and take refreshment and I will give you a reward."

But the man of God said to the king,

"If you were to give me half of your house, I would not go with you, nor would I eat bread or drink water in this place! For so it was charged me by the word of the LORD, saying, 'You shall neither eat bread nor drink water, nor return by the way that you came.'"

So he went another way and did not return by the way that he came to Bethel.

Now a certain aged prophet lived in Bethel; and his sons came and told him all the deeds that the man of God had done that day in Bethel; they also related to their father the words that he had spoken to the king; and their father spoke to them,

"Which way did he go?"

So his sons pointed out which way the man of God who came from Judah had gone. Then he said to his sons,

"Saddle the ass for me."

So they saddled the ass for him and he rode off upon it. Now he went after the man of God, and found him sitting under an oak; and he said to him,

"Are you the man of God who came from Judah?"

"I am" he said.

"Come home with me and eat bread" he said to him.

"I am not permitted to return with you," he said, "nor go in with you, nor may I eat bread or drink water with you in this place; for it was declared unto me by the word of the LORD, 'You shall neither eat bread nor drink water there, nor depart by the way you came.'"

Then he said to him,

"I too am a prophet as you are; and an angel spoke to me at the command of the Lord, saying, 'Bring him back with you to your house, that he may eat bread and drink water.'"

But he lied to him. So he returned with him, and ate bread in his house and drank water.

But while they were sitting at the table, the word of the LORD came to the prophet who brought him back; and he cried to the man of God who came from Judah, saying,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Since you have disobeyed the word of the LORD, and have not kept the command which the LORD your God commanded you, but have returned and eaten bread and drunk water in the place of which he told you, 'Eat no bread, and drink no water,' your body shall not come to the grave of your fathers.'"

Now after he had eaten bread and drunk, he saddled the ass for him and once more he departed. But a lion met him on the way and slew him, and his body was cast upon the road, and the ass stood beside it; the lion also was standing by the body; and thus as men were passing by they saw the body cast upon the road, and the lion standing beside the body; and they came and reported it in the city where the aged prophet dwelt.

So when the prophet who brought him back from the way heard of it, he said,

"It is the man of God who rebelled against the word of the LORD; therefore the LORD gave him to the lion, which has mangled him and slain him, according to the word of the LORD, which he spoke to him."

Then he spoke to his sons, saying,

"Saddle the ass for me."

So they saddled it. Thus he went and found his body cast upon the road and the ass and the lion standing beside the body; the lion had not eaten the body nor torn the ass. Then the aged prophet took up the body of the man of God, and laid it upon the ass, and brought it back to the city that he might mourn and bury him; and he laid his body in his own grave; and they mourned over him,

"Alas, my brother!"

After he had buried him, he said to his sons,

"When I die, bury me in the grave which the man of God is buried; lay my bones beside his bones; for the saying which he cried at the command of the LORD against the altar which is in Bethel, and against all the shrines of the high places which are in the cities of Samaria shall surely come to pass."

After this episode Jeroboam did not turn from his evil way, but made again from among all sorts of people priests of the high places. Whomsoever he would, he installed to be priests of the high places; and this thing became a sin to the house of Jeroboam, even to cut it off and to destroy it from the face of the ground.

JEROBOAM DENOUNCED BY AHIJAH, 14:1-20

At that time Abijah, the son of Jeroboam, fell sick. Then Jeroboam said to his wife,

"Arise, I pray you, and disguise yourself, that you may not be known to be the wife of Jeroboam, and go to Shiloh. There is Ahijah the prophet, who declared to me that I should be king over this people. Take with you ten loaves of bread and cakes and a jar of honey, and go to him; he will tell you what shall become of the child."

Then Jeroboam's wife did so; she arose and went to Shiloh and came to the house of Ahijah. Now Ahijah was unable to see, for his eyes had become dim because of his age; but the LORD had said to Ahijah,

"Behold the wife of Jeroboam is coming to seek a word from you concerning her son, for he is sick; thus and thus shall you speak to her."

When she came in she pretended to be a strange woman.

Now when Ahijah heard the sound of her feet, as she came in at the doorway, he said,

"Come in, wife of Jeroboam, why do you pretend to be another, seeing that I am sent to you with a harsh message? Go, say to Jeroboam, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: "Because I exalted you from the midst of the people Israel, and rent the kingdom away from the house of David and gave it to you, and you have not been like my servant David, who kept my command, and followed me with all his heart to do only that which was right in my sight, and you have done worse than any that were before you, and have gone and made for yourself other gods and molten images, thus provoking me to jealousy, and have cast me behind your back; therefore, behold, I am about to bring evil upon the house of Jeroboam and I will cut off from Jeroboam every male—him that is shut up and him that is left at large in Israel—and I will utterly consume the house of Jeroboam, as a man consumes refuse, until it is gone. Him that dies of Jeroboam in the city shall the dogs eat, and him that dies in the field shall the birds of the air eat; for the LORD has spoken it." ' But do you arise, go to your home; when your feet enter the city, the child shall die; and all Israel shall mourn for him and bury him; for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the grave, because in him there is found some good thing toward the LORD, the God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam. Moreover the LORD will raise up for himself a king over Israel, who shall cut off this house of Jeroboam. Today and from now on the LORD will smite Israel, as a reed is shaken in the water, and he will root up Israel from this good land which he gave to your fathers, and will scatter them beyond the river, because they have made their Ashtarts, provoking the LORD to anger. He will also give up Israel because of the sins which Jeroboam has committed, and with which he has made Israel sin."

Then Jeroboam's wife arose and departed and came to Tirzah—she was just entering over the threshold of the house when the child died; and all Israel buried him and mourned for him according to the word of the LORD which he spoke by his servant Ahijah, the prophet.

Now the rest of the records of Jeroboam, how he made war and how he ruled, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

- 20 The time that Jeroboam reigned was twenty-two years; then he slept with his fathers, and Nadab his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF REHOBOAM IN JUDAH, 14:21-31

- 21 Now Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, reigned in Judah. Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city in which the LORD had chosen out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name; and his mother's name was Naamah, the Ammonitess.
- 22 Judah did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and they aroused him to jealous anger with the sins which they committed, more than all their fathers had done. They also built for themselves high places, sacred pillars, and sacred poles, on every high hill and under every spreading tree; 24 there were also male devotees of the fertility cult in the land. They did according to all the abominations of the nations which the LORD drove out before the Israelites.
- 25 Now in the fifth year of King Rehoboam, Shishak, king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem; and he took away the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house; he took all away. He also took away all the shields of gold which Solomon 27 had made. King Rehoboam made shields of bronze in their stead and intrusted them to the commanders of the guards, who guarded the door of the king's house. Then, as often as the king went into the house of the LORD, the guards would take them up and bring them back to the guard-room.
- 29 Now the rest of the records of Rehoboam and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles 30 of the Kings of Judah? There was war continually between Rehoboam and 31 Jeroboam. So Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and he was buried with his fathers in the city of David; and his mother's name was Naamah, the Ammonitess; and Abijam his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF ABIJAM IN JUDAH, 15:1-8

Now in the eighteenth year of King 1 Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, Abijam became king over Judah. He reigned 2 three years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Maacah, the daughter of Abishalom. But he walked 3 in all the sins of his father, which he had committed before him; and his heart was not perfect with the LORD his God like the heart of David his father. Nevertheless, for David's sake, 4 the LORD his God gave him a lamp in Jerusalem, in that he raised up his son after him and established Jerusalem, because David did that which was right 5 in the sight of the LORD and did not turn aside from anything that he commanded him all the days of his life, except in the matter of Uriah the Hittite. There was war between Rehoboam and 6 Jeroboam all the days of his life.

Now the rest of the records of Abi- 7 jam and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? There was war between Abijam and Jeroboam. So 8 Abijam slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Asa his son became king in his stead.

ASA OF JUDAH AND NADAB OF ISRAEL, 15:9-32

Now in the twentieth year of Jero- 9 boam, king of Israel, Asa became king of Judah, and he reigned forty-one years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Maacah, the daughter of Abishalom. Asa did that which was 11 right in the sight of the LORD, as did David his father. He put away the male devotees of the fertility cult out of the land, and removed all the idols that his fathers had made. He also re- 13 moved Maacah his mother from being queen-mother, because she made an obscene image as an Asherah; and Asa cut down her obscene image, and burned it in the Kidron Valley. But 14 the high places were not removed; nevertheless the heart of Asa was perfect with the LORD all his days. He 15 brought into the house of the LORD the dedicated things of his father and his own dedicated things, silver and gold and utensils.

16 Now there was war between Asa and Baasha, king of Israel, all their days.

17 Baasha, king of Israel, went up against Judah and built Ramah, to prevent anyone from going out or coming in to 18 Asa, king of Judah. Then Asa took all the silver and gold that were left in the treasuries of the house of the LORD and the treasuries of the king's house, and put them in charge of his servants; and King Asa sent them to Ben-hadad, the son of Tabrimmon, the son of Hezion, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying,

19 "There is a league between me and you and between my father and your father. See, I send you a present of silver and gold. Go, break your alliance with Baasha, king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me."

20 Ben-hadad therefore listened to King Asa and sent the commanders of his forces against the cities of Israel, and conquered Ijon, Dan, Abel-beth-Maacah, and all Chinneroth, with all

21 the land of Naphtali. Now when Baasha heard of it, he stopped building

22 Ramah and dwelt in Tirzah. Thereupon King Asa made a proclamation to all Judah—none were exempted—and they carried away the stones of Ramah and its timbers with which Baasha had built. Then King Asa built with them Geba of Benjamin and

23 Mizpeh. Now the rest of all the records of Asa and all his prowess and all that he did, and the cities that he built, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? In the time of his old age he was diseased

24 in his feet. So Asa slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father; and Jehoshaphat his son became king in his stead.

25 Now Nadab, the son of Jeroboam, became king over Israel in the second year of Asa, king of Judah, and he

26 reigned over Israel two years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father, and in his sin with which he

27 made Israel sin. Then Baasha, the son of Ahijah of the house of Issachar, conspired against him, and Baasha struck him down at Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines, while Nadab and all Israel were besieging Gibbethon. So Baasha slew him in the third year of Asa, king of Judah, and reigned in his stead; also as soon as he became

29 king, he struck down all the house of Jeroboam. He did not leave a single person alive to Jeroboam until he had destroyed him, according to the word of the LORD which he spoke by his servant Ahijah the Shilonite, because of the 30 sins of Jeroboam which he committed and with which he made Israel sin, and by his provocation with which he provoked the LORD, the God of Israel, to jealousy. Now the rest of the records of

31 Nadab and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? There was war

32 between Asa and Baasha, king of Israel, all their days.

THE REIGN OF BAASHA OF ISRAEL, 15:33—16:7

In the third year of Asa, king of Ju-

33 dah, Baasha, the son of Ahijah, became king over all Israel in Tirzah, and reigned for twenty-four years. He did 34 that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of Jeroboam and in his sin with which he made Israel sin.

Accordingly the word of the LORD

16 came to Jehu, the son of Hanani, against Baasha, saying,

"Inasmuch as I exalted you out of

2 the dust, and made you prince over my people Israel, and you have walked in the way of Jeroboam and have made my people Israel sin, thus provoking me to jealousy with their sins, behold,

3 I will utterly sweep away Baasha and his house, and I will make your house like the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat. Whoever belonging to Baasha

4 dies in the city, him shall the dogs eat, and whoever belonging to him dies in the field the birds of the air shall eat."

Now the rest of the records of Ba-

5 sha, and what he did and his prowess, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So

6 Baasha slept with his fathers and was buried in Tirzah, and Elah his son became king in his stead. By the prophet

7 Jehu, the son of Hanani, the word of the LORD came against Baasha and his house, both on account of the evil that he did in the sight of the LORD by provoking him to jealousy with the work of hands, in being like the house of Jeroboam, and also because he smote it.

CIVIL STRIFE IN ISRAEL.

16:8-22

- 8 In the twenty-sixth year of Asa, king of Judah, Elah, the son of Baasha, became king over Israel in Tirzah, and he reigned for two years. Then his servant Zimri, captain of half his chariots, conspired against him. He was in Tirzah drinking himself drunk in the house of Arzah, who was over the household in Tirzah; and Zimri went in and struck him down and killed him in the twenty-seventh year of Asa, king of Judah, and reigned in his stead. But when he became king, as soon as he had seated himself upon his throne, he slew all the house of Baasha; he left him not a single male, neither next-of-kin nor friend. Thus Zimri destroyed all the house of Baasha, according to the word of the LORD which he spoke against Baasha by Jehu the prophet, for all the sins of Baasha and the sins of Elah, his son, which they committed and with which they made Israel sin, thus provoking the jealousy of the LORD, the God of Israel, with their vanities. Now the rest of the records of Elah and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?
- 15 In the twenty-seventh year of Asa, king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah. Now the people were encamped against Gibbethon, which belonged to the Philistines. When the people who were encamped heard the report, "Zimri has conspired and also slain the king," then all Israel made Omri, the commander of the army, king over Israel that day in the camp.
- 17 So Omri went up and all Israel with him from Gibbethon, and they besieged Tirzah. But as soon as Zimri saw that the city was taken, he went into the castle of the king's house, and burned the king's house over him, and so died, because of his sins which he committed, by doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, by walking in the way of Jeroboam and by his sins which he did to make Israel sin.
- 20 Now the rest of the records of Zimri, and his conspiracy which he carried out, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

THE REIGN OF OMRI OF ISRAEL, 16:21-28

Then the people of Israel were divided. Half of the people followed Tibni, the son of Ginath, to make him king, and the other half followed Omri. However, the people who followed Omri were stronger than the people who followed Tibni, the son of Ginath. As a result Tibni died and Omri became king. In the thirty-first year of Asa, king of Judah, Omri became king over Israel, and continued twelve years; he reigned six years in Tirzah.

Then he bought the mountain of Samaria from Shemer for two talents of silver; and he built on the hill and named the city which he built Samaria after the name of Shemer, the owner of the hill. But Omri did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and did more wickedly than all those who were before him. For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and in his sins with which he made Israel sin, thus provoking the jealousy of the LORD, the God of Israel, with their vanities. Now the rest of the acts of Omri that he did, and his prowess that he showed, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Omri slept with his fathers and was buried in Samaria; and Ahab his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF AHAB OF ISRAEL, 16:29-34

Ahab, the son of Omri, became king over Israel in the thirty-eighth year of Asa, king of Judah, and Ahab, the son of Omri, reigned over Israel in Samaria twenty-two years. But Ahab, the son of Omri, did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD above all who were before him. Moreover as though it had been a slight thing for him to walk in the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, he took as wife Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal, king of the Sidonians, and went and served the Baal and worshipped him. Thus he erected an altar for the Baal in the house of the Baal, 33 which he built in Samaria. Ahab also made a sacred pole, and Ahab did more to provoke the jealousy of the LORD, the God of Israel, than all the kings of Israel who were before him. In his days Hiel the Bethelite rebuilt Jericho. He laid its foundations upon Abiram his first-born, and he set up its gates upon Segub his youngest son, according to the word of the LORD which he spoke by Joshua, the son of Nun.

ELIJAH AND THE DROUGHT,

17:1—18:46

7 Now Elijah the Tishbite, of Tishbe in Gilead, said to Ahab,

"As the LORD, the God of Israel, lives, before whom I stand, there shall be neither dew nor rain these years, except by my word."

8 Furthermore, the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

9 "Depart from here and turn eastward, and hide yourself by the Brook Cherith, that is east of the Jordan, and you shall drink from the brook; and I have commanded the ravens to feed you there."

10 So he went and did according to the word of the LORD and went and dwelt by the Brook Cherith that is east of Jordan; and the ravens brought him bread and flesh in the morning and bread and flesh in the evening, and he used to drink from the brook. But after a time the brook dried up because there was no rain in the land.

11 Then the word of the LORD came to him, saying,

12 "Arise, go to Zarephath, which belongs to Sidon, and dwell there; see, I have commanded a widow there to provide for you."

13 So he arose and went to Zarephath; and as he came to the gate of the city, there was a widow there gathering sticks, and calling to her, he said,

"Bring me, I pray you, a little water in a vessel that I may drink."

14 But as she was going to bring it, he called to her and said,

"Bring me, I pray you, a morsel of food in your hand."

15 "As the LORD your God lives," she said, "I have nothing but a handful of meal in the jar and a little oil in a cruse; and now I am gathering a few sticks that I may go in and prepare it for myself and my son, that we may eat it and die."

But Elijah said to her,

16 "Fear not; go and do as you have said; but first make me from it a little cake, and bring it to me, and afterward make one for yourself and for your son. For thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'The jar of meal shall not be exhausted nor the cruse of oil spent until the day that the LORD sends rain upon the ground.'"

17 So she went and did according to the word of Elijah; and she and he and her household did eat day after day. The jar of meal was not exhausted, neither did the cruse of oil fail, according to the word of the LORD which he spoke by Elijah.

18 Now after these things, the son of the mistress of the house fell sick; and his illness was so severe that there was no breath left in him. Then she said to Elijah,

"What have I to do with you, O man of God? You have come to me to remind me of my iniquity and to kill my son!"

"Give me your son," he said to her.

19 Then he took him from her bosom and carried him into the upper chamber, where he was staying, and laid him upon his own bed; and he cried to the LORD and said,

"O LORD, my God, hast thou also brought evil upon this widow, with whom I am staying, by slaying her son?"

20 Then he stretched himself upon the child three times, and cried to the LORD and said,

"I pray thee, may this child's life return into him again."

21 So the LORD hearkened to the voice of Elijah; and the life of the child came back to him again, so that he lived. Then Elijah took the child and brought him down from the upper chamber into the house and gave him to his mother.

"See, your son is alive," said Elijah.

22 Then the woman said to Elijah,

23 "Now indeed I know that you are a man of God, and that the word of the LORD is in your mouth."

24 Now after many days the word of the LORD came to Elijah, in the third year, saying,

"Go, show yourself to Ahab; and I will bring rain upon the face of the ground."

2 So Elijah went to show himself to Ahab. The famine was severe in 3 Samaria; and Ahab had called Obadiah who was in charge of the household (now Obadiah deeply revered the 4 LORD; for when Jezebel ordered the prophets of the LORD exterminated, Obadiah had taken a hundred prophets and hidden them by fifties in a cave and supplied them with bread and 5 water); and Ahab said to Obadiah,

"Come, let us go through the land to all the springs of water and to all the brooks; perhaps we shall find grass and so save the horses and mules alive, that we may not lose the beasts."

6 So they divided the land between them to pass through it: Ahab went in one direction by himself, and Obadiah went in another direction by himself.

7 Now while Obadiah was on the way, suddenly Elijah met him, and when he recognized him, he fell on his face and said,

"Is it you, my lord Elijah?"

8 "It is I," he said to him, "go, tell your master, 'Elijah is here.'"

9 "Wherein have I sinned," he said, "that you should deliver your servant 10 into the hand of Ahab, to slay me? As the LORD your God lives, there is no nation or kingdom where my lord has not sent to seek you; and when they said, 'He is not here,' he would put the kingdom and nation under oath that no 11 one could find you; and now you say, 'Go, say to your lord, 'Elijah is here.'"

12 But when I go from you the spirit of the LORD will carry you where I know not; accordingly, when I come and tell Ahab, and he cannot find you, he will slay me, although I, your servant, have 13 feared the LORD from my youth. Has it not been told my lord what I did when Jezebel slew the prophets of the LORD, how I hid a hundred prophets of the LORD by fifties in a cave and supplied them with food and water?

14 Yet now you say, 'Go, tell your lord, 'Elijah is here,' ' that he may slay me!"

15 "As the LORD of hosts lives, before whom I stand," said Elijah, "I will show myself to him today."

16 So Obadiah went to meet Ahab, and told him, and Ahab went to meet Elijah. Now as soon as Ahab saw Elijah, 17 Ahab said to him,

"Is it you, you troubler of Israel?"

"I have not troubled Israel," he said, 18 "but you and your father's house, in that you have forsaken the commands of the LORD and have gone after the Baal. Now therefore send and gather 19 to me all Israel, to Mount Carmel, together with the four hundred and fifty prophets of the Baal and the four hundred prophets of the Asherah, who eat at Jezebel's table."

So Ahab sent to all the Israelites and 20 gathered the prophets together to Mount Carmel. Then Elijah came near 21 to all the people and said,

"How long are you going to limp upon two diverse opinions? If the LORD be God, follow him, but if the Baal, follow him."

But the people gave him no answer. Then Elijah said to the people, 22:

"I, even I only, am left as a prophet of the LORD, but the prophets of the Baal are four hundred and fifty men. Let them therefore give us two bulls, 23 and let them choose one bull for themselves and cut it in pieces and lay it on the wood but make no fire, and I will prepare the other bull and place it on the wood, but I will make no fire. Then 24 call you on the name of your god and I will call on the name of the LORD; and the god who answers by fire, he is God."

Thereupon all the people answered and said,

"It is a fair test!"

So Elijah said to the prophets of the 25 Baal,

"Choose for yourselves a bull and prepare it first, for you are many, and call on the name of your god, but make no fire."

Then they took the bull which he 26 gave them and prepared it, and called on the name of the Baal from morning until noon, saying,

"O Baal, answer us."

But there was no voice and none answered. Then they performed a limping dance around the altar which they had made. But at noon Elijah 27 mocked them, and said,

"Cry with a loud voice, for he is a god; either he is meditating, or he has gone aside, or he is on a journey, or perhaps he is asleep and needs to be awakened!"

28 So they cried with a loud voice, and proceeded to slash one another according to their custom, with swords and with lances until the blood gushed out upon them; and when midday had passed they worked themselves into a prophetic frenzy until the offering of the oblation; but there was no voice, nor answer, and none regarded. Then Elijah said to all the people,

"Come near to me."

So all the people drew near to him; and he repaired the altar of the LORD which had been torn down. Accordingly Elijah took twelve stones, corresponding to the number of the tribes of the sons of Jacob to whom the word of the LORD came, saying,

"Israel shall be your name."

32 With the stones he made an altar in the name of the LORD. Then he made a trench around the altar of the capacity of two homers of seed. He also laid the pieces of wood in order, cut up the bull, and laid it upon the wood; and he said,

"Fill four jars with water and pour it on the burnt-offering and on the wood."

34 "Do it a second time," he said.

So they did it a second time.

"Do it a third time," he said.

35 So they did it a third time, so that the water ran around the altar; and he also filled the trench with water.

36 Then when it was time to offer the oblation, Elijah the prophet came near and said,

37 "O LORD, God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, let it be known today that thou art God in Israel and that I am thy servant, and that at thy command I have done all these things. Answer me, O LORD, answer me, that this people may know that thou, O LORD, art God, and that thou hast turned their heart back again."

38 Then the fire of the LORD fell and consumed the burnt-offering and the wood, the stones and the dust, and licked up the water that was in the trench. So when all the people saw it, they fell upon their faces and said,

"The LORD, he is God; the LORD, he is God."

40 But Elijah said to them,

"Seize the prophets of the Baal; let not a man of them escape."

So they seized them, and Elijah brought them down to the Brook Kishon and slew them there.

Then Elijah said to Ahab, 41

"Go up, eat and drink; for there is the rushing sound of rain."

So Ahab went up to eat and drink, 42 but Elijah went up to the top of Carmel, and crouched down upon the earth, with his face between his knees; and he said to his servant, 43

"Go up now, look toward the sea."

So he went up, and looked and said,

"There is nothing."

"Go back seven times," he said.

So the servant went back seven 44 times. However, the seventh time he said,

"There is a cloud the size of a man's hand, rising out of the sea."

"Go up," he said, "say to Ahab, 'Harness your steeds and go down, so that the rain may not stop you.'"

Moreover, in a very short time the 45 heavens grew black with clouds and wind, and there was a great downpour. But Ahab rode on and arrived at Jezreel. The hand of the LORD also was on 46 Elijah so that he girded up his loins and ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel.

ELIJAH ON MOUNT HOREB,

19:1-18

Now when Ahab told Jezebel all that 19 Elijah had done, and how he had slain all the prophets with the sword, Jezebel 2 sent a messenger to Elijah, saying,

"As surely as you are Elijah and I am Jezebel, so may God requite me and worse, if I do not make your life as the life of one of them by tomorrow about this time."

Then he was afraid and arose and 3 went for his life, and came to Beersheba that belongs to Judah; and there he left his servant. But he himself went 4 into the desert a day's journey, and came and sat down under a broom tree, and he requested for himself that he might die, and he said,

"It is enough; now, O LORD, take away my life, for I am no better than my fathers."

Then he lay down and slept under a 5 broom tree. Suddenly an angel was touching him, and he said to him,

"Arise, eat."

6 And when he looked, behold there was at his head a cake baked on hot stones, and a cruse of water. So he ate 7 and drank and lay down again. But the angel of the LORD returned a second time and touched him and said, "Arise, eat, for the journey is too great for you."

8 So he arose and ate and drank and went in the strength of that food forty days and forty nights to Horeb, the 9 Mount of God; and he came there to a cave and lodged there.

But the word of the LORD came to him, and he said to him,

"What are you doing here, Elijah?"

"I have been very jealous for the 10 LORD, the God of hosts," he said, "for the Israelites have forsaken the covenant with thee, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword; and I, even I only, am left, and they are seeking to take away my life."

11 "Go forth," he said, "and stand upon the mount before the LORD."

Now behold, the LORD was passing by, and a great and mighty wind was rending the mountain and shattering the rocks before the LORD; but the LORD was not in the wind. After the wind came an earthquake, but the 12 LORD was not in the earthquake. After the earthquake a fire; but the LORD was not in the fire, and after the fire 13 the sound of a gentle whisper. Now as soon as Elijah perceived it, he wrapped his face in his mantle and went out and stood at the entrance of the cave. Then there came a voice to him and said,

"What are you doing here, Elijah?"

"I have been very jealous for the 14 LORD, the God of hosts," he said, "because the Israelites have forsaken the covenant with thee, thrown down thine altars, and slain thy prophets with the sword, and I, even I only, am left, and they are seeking to take away my life."

15 But the LORD said to him,

"Go, return on your way to the desert of Damascus, and when you arrive, anoint Hazael to be king over Syria; 16 and Jehu, the son of Nimshi, you shall anoint to be king over Israel; and Elisha, the son of Shaphat of Abel-meholah, you shall anoint to be prophet in 17 your place. It shall be that whoever escapes the sword of Hazael shall Jehu slay; and whoever escapes the sword of Jehu, shall Elisha slay. Yet will I spare seven thousand in Israel—all the knees that have not bowed to the Baal and every mouth that has not kissed him."

THE CALL OF ELISHA,

19:19-21

Now when he departed from there he 1 found Elisha, the son of Shaphat, as he was plowing behind twelve yoke of oxen, he being with the twelfth. Then Elijah came over to him and threw his mantle upon him. Thereupon he left 2 the oxen and ran after Elijah, and he said,

"Let me, I pray you, kiss my father and my mother, and then I will follow you."

"Go back again," he said to him, "for what have I done to you?"

So he returned from following him: 2 and took a yoke of oxen and sacrificed them, and using the ox-yoke to boil their flesh, he gave it to the people and made them a feast; then he arose and went after Elijah and became his attendant.

ISRAEL'S WARS WITH SYRIA,

20:1-43

Now Ben-hadad, king of Syria, as- 20 sembled all his army, and there were thirty-two kings with him, together with horses and chariots. Thereupon he went up and besieged Samaria and fought against it. Moreover, he sent 2 messengers into the city to Ahab, king of Israel and said to him,

"Thus says Ben-hadad: 'Your silver 3 and your gold are mine; your wives also and your children are mine.'"

The king of Israel then answered and 4 said,

"According to your statement, my lord, O king, I am yours, together with all that I possess."

Presently the messengers came again 5 and said,

"Thus says Ben-hadad: 'I sent to you, saying, "You shall deliver to me your silver and your gold, your wives and your children; but about this time 6

tomorrow, I shall send my servants to you and they shall ransack your house and the houses of your servants; and whatever pleases them they shall take in their hands and carry it away." "

7 Then the king of Israel called to all the elders of the land, and said,

"Mark, I pray you, and take note how this man is looking for trouble; for he sent to me for my wives and my children, my silver and gold, and I did not deny him."

8 But all the elders and all the people said to him,

"Obey not, nor consent!"

9 So he said to the messengers of Ben-hadad,

"Say to my lord the king, 'All that you demanded of your servant at the first I was ready to do, but this thing I cannot do.' "

10 So the messengers went away and brought him word again. Thus Ben-hadad sent to him and said,

"May the gods requite me and worse, if the dust of Samaria suffice for handfuls for all the people who follow me."

11 But the king of Israel answered and said,

"Tell him, 'Let not him who is girding on his weapon boast himself as he who is ungirding.' "

12 Now at the time when he heard this message—he was drinking with the kings in the pavilions—he said to his servants,

"Form in line."

So they formed in line against the city.

13 At this juncture a certain prophet drew near to Ahab, king of Israel, and said,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Do you see all this great multitude? Behold, I am about to deliver them into your hand today, and you shall know that I am the LORD.' "

14 But Ahab said,

"By whom?"

"Thus says the LORD: By the young men under the commanders of the provinces," he said,

"Who shall begin the battle?" he said.

"You," he answered.

15 Then he mustered the young men under the commanders of the provinces, and they were two hundred and thirty-two; and after them he mustered all the people, even all the Israelites, seven thousand. And at noon they 16 made the attack, while Ben-hadad was drinking himself drunk in the pavilions, together with the thirty-two kings, his allies. Moreover the young men under 17 the commanders of the provinces went out first. Then they sent to Ben-hadad and reported to him, saying,

"Men have come out from Samaria."

"Whether they have come out for 18 peace, take them alive; or whether they have come out for war, take them alive," he said.

So these (the young men under the 19 commanders of the provinces) and the force which followed them went out of the city. Then they slew each his man, 20 so that the Syrians fled; and Israel pursued them, but Ben-hadad, the king of Syria, escaped on a horse with horsemen. Then the king of Israel went out 21 and captured horses and chariots, and made a great slaughter among the Syrians.

Moreover a prophet approached the 22 king of Israel and said to him,

"Go, strengthen yourself, and mark and see what you will do, for at the return of spring the king of Syria will be coming up against you."

Now the servants of the king of Syria 23 said to him,

"Their gods are mountain gods, therefore they were too strong for us; but let us fight against them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they. Also do this thing: take the 24 kings away, each from his place and put captains in their stead, and do you 25 yourself muster a force like the force you have lost, horse for horse and chariot for chariot; then we shall fight them in the plain, and surely we shall be stronger than they."

So he hearkened to their voice and did accordingly.

It was at the return of spring that 26 Ben-hadad mustered the Syrians and went up to Aphek to fight against Israel. Also the Israelites were mustered 27 and provisioned, and went against them; but the Israelites encamped before them like two small flocks of goats, while the Syrians filled the country. Then a man of God came near and said 28 to the king of Israel,

"Thus says the LORD, 'Because the Syrians say, "The LORD is a god of the mountains and not a god of the valleys," therefore I will deliver all this great multitude into your hand, that you may know that I am the LORD.' "

29 So they encamped facing each other seven days. But on the seventh day the battle was joined; and the Israelites slew of the Syrians a hundred thousand footmen in one day; and the rest fled to Aphek into the city; and the wall fell upon twenty-seven thousand of the men who were left. Ben-hadad also fled, and came into an inner chamber.

31 Then his servants said to him,

"Behold now, we have heard that the kings of the house of Israel are merciful kings; let us therefore, I pray you, put sackcloth on our loins, and ropes about our heads, and go out to the king of Israel; perhaps he will spare your life."

32 So they girded sackcloth on their loins and put ropes about their heads, and went to the king of Israel and said, "Your servant Ben-hadad says, 'I pray you, let me live.' "

"Is he still alive? He is my brother," he said.

33 Now the men were trying to divine his meaning, and they quickly caught it from him and said,

"Ben-hadad is your brother."

"Go, bring him!" he said.

Accordingly when Ben-hadad came to him, he took him up into his chariot.

34 "The cities which my father took from your father I will restore," he said to him, "and you may maintain bazaars of your own in Damascus as my father did in Samaria."

"And I," said Ahab, "will let you go with this understanding."

So he made a covenant with him and he let him go.

35 Now a certain man of the prophetic order said to his neighbor through the word of the LORD,

"I pray you, strike me."

But the man refused to strike him.

36 Then he said to him,

"Because you have not listened to the voice of the LORD, behold, as soon as you take leave of me a lion shall slay you."

So when he departed from him, a lion found him and slew him.

37 Then he found another man and said, "I pray you, strike me."

Accordingly the man struck him so as to wound him. The prophet then went and waited for the king by the way, disguising himself with a bandage over his eyes; and as the king was passing by, he cried to the king, and said,

"Your servant had gone out into the midst of the battle, when suddenly a man turned and brought a man to me and said, 'Keep this man; if by any means he be missing, then your life shall be for his life, or else you shall pay a talent of silver.' But as your servant was turning to look here and there, he was gone."

Wherefore the king of Israel said to him

"Such is your verdict: you yourself have decided it."

Then he hastily took the bandage away from his eyes, and the king of Israel recognized him as one of the prophets. So he said to him,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Because you have let go out of your hand the man under my ban of destruction, therefore your life shall go for his life and your people for his people.' "

Then the king of Israel went to his house vexed and sullen, and entered Samaria.

AHAB SEIZES NABOTH'S VINEYARD, 21:1-29

Now Naboth the Jezreelite had a vineyard in Jezreel beside the palace of Ahab, king of Samaria; and Ahab spoke to Naboth, saying,

"Give me your vineyard that I may have it for a vegetable garden, because it is close beside my house; and I will give you a better vineyard than it, in its stead; or if you prefer, I will gladly give you its value in money."

But Naboth said to Ahab,

"The LORD forbid, that I should give you the inheritance of my fathers."

Whereupon Ahab came into his house vexed and sullen, because of the word which Naboth the Jezreelite had spoken to him; for he had said,

"I will not give you the inheritance of my fathers."

And he lay on his bed and covered his face and refused food. But Jezebel his wife came to him and spoke to him,

"Why is your spirit so vexed that you eat no food?"

16 Accordingly he spoke to her,
 "Because I spoke to Naboth the Jezreelite and said to him, 'Give me your vineyard for money; or if you prefer, I will gladly give you a vineyard in its stead'; but he said, 'I will not give you my vineyard.'"

7 Then Jezebel his wife said to him,
 "Do you now hold sway in Israel? Arise, eat bread, and let your heart be of good cheer. I will get the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite for you."

8 So she wrote letters in Ahab's name and sealed them with his seal, and sent them to the elders and to the nobles who were in his city, who presided with Naboth.

9 Now she had written in the letters, saying,

"Proclaim a fast and seat Naboth in a conspicuous place among the people."

10 Then seat two unscrupulous men before him and let them bear witness, saying, 'You have cursed God and the king.' Then take him out and stone him to death."

11 So the men of his city, the elders and the nobles who presided in his city, did as Jezebel had sent to them. As it was written in the letters which she had sent to them, they proclaimed a fast, and gave Naboth a seat in a conspicuous place among the people. Also two unscrupulous men came in and sat before him, and the rascals bore witness against Naboth in the presence of the people, saying,

"Naboth cursed God and the king."

12 So they took him outside of the city and stoned him to death. Then they sent to Jezebel, saying,

"Naboth has been stoned and is dead."

13 Accordingly, as soon as Jezebel heard that Naboth had been stoned and was dead, Jezebel said to Ahab,

"Arise, take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite, which he refused to sell for money; for Naboth is not alive but dead."

14 Now as soon as Ahab heard that Naboth was dead, Ahab arose to go down to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezreelite to take possession of it.

15 But the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

16 "Arise, go down to meet Ahab, king of Israel, who is in Samaria. See, he is in the vineyard of Naboth, where he has gone down to take possession. Do you speak to him, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Have you killed, and also taken possession?"' And you shall say to him, 'Thus says the LORD: "In the place where the dogs licked up the blood of Naboth will the dogs lick up your own blood."'"

"Have you found me, O my enemy?" so said Ahab to Elijah.

"I have," he said. "Because you have sold yourself to no purpose by doing that which is evil in the sight of the LORD, behold, I am about to bring evil upon you, and I will utterly sweep you away and will cut off from Ahab every male, both him that is shut up and him that is left at large in Israel. I will also make your house like the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah, because of the indignation which you have aroused and because you have caused Israel to sin. Also concerning Jezebel the LORD has spoken, saying, 'The dogs shall eat Jezebel in the district of Jezreel.' Whoever belonging to Ahab dies in the city the dogs shall eat; and whoever dies in the field, the birds of the air shall eat."

There was absolutely no one who sold himself to do evil in the sight of the LORD, as did Ahab, because Jezebel his wife incited him. For he did very abominably in following idols, just as all the Amorites had done whom the LORD dispossessed before the Israelites.

Now as soon as Ahab heard these words he tore his garments and put sackcloth on his flesh and fasted, he also lay in sackcloth, and went about quietly. Then the word of the LORD came to Elijah the Tishbite, saying,

"Have you seen how Ahab has humbled himself before me? Because he has humbled himself before me, I will not bring the evil in his days; in his son's days I will bring the evil upon his house."

AHAB ATTACKS RAMOTH-GILEAD AND IS SLAIN,

22:1-40

Now for three years Syria and Israel continued without war. But in the third year Jehoshaphat, king of Judah,

- 3 came down to the king of Israel, and the king of Israel said to his servants, "Do you know that Ramoth-gilead belongs to us, yet we are inactive instead of taking it from the hand of the king of Syria?"
- 4 Then he said to Jehoshaphat, "Will you go with me to fight against Ramoth-gilead?"
- "I am as you are, my people as your people, my horses as your horses," said Jehoshaphat to the king of Israel.
- 5 Jehoshaphat said further to the king of Israel, "Inquire today, I pray, for the word of the LORD."
- 6 Then the king of Israel assembled the prophets, about four hundred men, and said to them, "Shall I go to battle against Ramoth-gilead, or shall I forbear?"
- "Go up," they said; "for the LORD will deliver it into the hand of the king."
- 7 But Jehoshaphat said, "Is there not here another prophet of the LORD through whom we may inquire?"
- 8 Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, "There is another man through whom we might inquire of the LORD, Micaiah, the son of Imlah, but I hate him; for he never prophesies good concerning me, but only evil."
- "Let not the king say so," said Jehoshaphat.
- 9 So the king of Israel called a eunuch and said, "Bring quickly Micaiah, the son of Imlah."
- 10 Now the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, were sitting each on his throne, arrayed in their robes, at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were engaged in ecstatic prophecy before them.
- 11 Then Zedekiah, the son of Chenaniah, made for himself horns of iron and he said, "Thus says the LORD: 'With these you shall gore the Syrians until they are destroyed.'"
- 12 So all the prophets prophesied, saying, "Go up to Ramoth-gilead and prosper; for the LORD will deliver it into the hand of the king."

Now the messenger who went to call Micaiah spoke to him, saying,

"See, now, the prophets with one accord have spoken good to the king; let your word, I pray you, be like the word of one of them and speak good."

"As the LORD lives," said Micaiah, "what the LORD says to me, that will I speak."

Now when he came to the king, the king said to him,

"Micaiah, shall we go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall we forbear?"

"Go up and prosper," he said to him; "for the LORD will deliver it into the hand of the king!"

But the king said to him,

"How many times must I adjure you that you speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of the LORD?"

"I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains," he said, "like sheep without a shepherd; and the LORD said, 'These have no master; let them return each to his home in peace.'"

Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat,

"Did I not say to you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but only evil?"

But Micaiah said,

"Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting on his throne and all the army of the heavens standing by him on his right hand and on his left; and the LORD said, 'Who will deceive Ahab so that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead?' Then one said one thing and another another, until a spirit came forth and stood before the LORD and said, 'I will deceive him'; and the LORD said to him, 'By 2 what means?' He said, 'I will go forth and become a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.' Thereupon he said, 'You shall deceive him and also succeed! Go forth and do so.' Now there- 2 fore, behold, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouth of all these prophets of yours, since the LORD has spoken evil concerning you."

Then Zedekiah, the son of Chenaniah, approached and struck Micaiah upon the cheek, and said,

"Which way did the Spirit of the LORD go from me to speak with you?"

"Indeed, you shall see on that day 2 when you go into an inner chamber to hide yourself," said Micaiah.

Then the king of Israel said, "Seize Micaiah and take him back to Amon, the governor of the city, and to Joash, the king's son, and say, 'Thus says the king: "Put this fellow in the prison and feed him with bread and water scantily until I return victorious."'"

Whereupon Micaiah said, "If you do indeed return victorious, the LORD has not spoken by me." "Hear, all you peoples!"

So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, went up to Ramoth-gilead. Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat,

"I will disguise myself and go into battle, but do you put on your own robes."

So the king of Israel disguised himself and went into the battle.

Now the king of Syria had charged his thirty-two chariot commanders, saying,

"Fight with neither small nor great, except only with the king of Israel."

Accordingly when the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they said,

"Surely it is the king of Israel."

So they surrounded him to fight against him, but Jehoshaphat cried out.

When the chariot commanders saw that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back from pursuing him. But a man drew a bow at a venture and shot the king of Israel between the jointed pieces and the breast-plate. Therefore he said to his charioteer,

"Wheel about and take me out of the fight; for I am badly wounded."

Now the battle grew fiercer that day, while the king held himself upright in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening, and the blood from the wound ran out into the bottom of the chariot. But at evening he died; and about sunset the cry passed through the army,

"Each to his city and each to his land, for the king is dead!"

So they came to Samaria and buried the king in Samaria; and when they washed off the chariot by the pool of Samaria, the dogs licked up his blood, and the harlots washed in it according to the word which the LORD had spoken. Now the rest of the records of Ahab and all that he did and the ivory house which he built and all the cities that he built, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Ahab slept with his fathers, and Ahaziah his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGNS OF JEHOSEPHAT AND AHAZIAH,

22:41-53

Jehoshaphat, the son of Asa, became king over Judah in the fourth year of Ahab, king of Israel. Jehoshaphat was thirty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi. He walked in all the way of Asa his father; he did not turn aside from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD. Only the high places were not taken away, but the people still continued to sacrifice and burn incense on the high places. Jehoshaphat also made peace with the king of Israel.

Now the rest of the records of Jehoshaphat and his prowess that he showed, and how he made war, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? The rest of the male devotees of the fertility cult who remained in the days of his father Asa, he eradicated from the land.

Now there was no king in Edom. But the deputy of King Jehoshaphat made ships of Tarshish to go to Ophir for gold. However they did not go; for the ships were wrecked at Ezion-geber. Then Ahaziah, the son of Ahab, said to Jehoshaphat,

"Let my servants go with your servants in the ships."

But Jehoshaphat refused. Then Jehoshaphat slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David his father; and Jehoram his son became king in his stead.

Ahaziah, the son of Ahab, became king over Israel in Samaria in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and he reigned over Israel two years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and walked in the way of his father and in the way of his mother and in the way of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, who had caused Israel to sin. Moreover he served Baal and worshipped him, and aroused the jealous anger of the LORD, the God of Israel, just as his father had done.

THE SECOND BOOK OF KINGS

ELIJAH AND THE DEATH OF AHAZIAH, 1:1-18

1 MOAB rebelled against Israel after the death of Ahab.

2 Now Ahaziah had fallen through the lattice in his upper chamber in Samaria, and lay sick. So he sent messengers, and said to them,

"Go, inquire of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, whether I shall recover from this illness."

3 But the angel of the LORD spoke to Elijah the Tishbite,

"Arise, go up to meet the messengers of the king of Samaria and say to them, 'Is it because there is no God in Israel, that you are on your way to inquire of 4 Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron?' Now therefore thus says the LORD: 'You shall not come down from the bed whither you have gone up, but you shall certainly die.'"

Then Elijah passed on.

5 When the messengers returned to him, he said to them,

"Now why have you returned?"

6 "A man came up to meet us," they said to him, "and said to us, 'Go, return to the king who sent you and declare to him, 'Thus says the LORD: 'Is it because there is no God in Israel that you are sending to inquire of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron? Therefore you shall not come down from the bed whither you have gone up, but you shall certainly die.''"

7 Then he said to them,

"What sort of man was he who came up to meet you, and spoke to you these words?"

8 "He was a hairy man and girt with a leathern girdle about his loins," they said to him.

"It was Elijah the Tishbite," he said.

9 Thereupon he sent to him a commander of fifty with his fifty. And when he went up to him—for there he sat on the top of the hill—he said to him.

"O man of God, the king has given the order, 'Come down.'"

Then Elijah answered and said to the captain of fifty,

"If I be a man of God, let fire from heaven come down and consume you and your fifty."

Then fire came down from heaven and consumed him and his fifty. Again he sent to him another commander of fifty with his fifty; and he answered and said to him,

"O man of God, thus says the king: 'Come down quickly.'"

But Elijah answered and said to them,

"If I be a man of God, let fire come down from heaven and consume you and your fifty."

Then the fire of God came down from heaven and consumed him and his fifty. Again he sent a commander of a third fifty with his fifty. But when the commander of the third fifty went up, he came and fell on his knees before Elijah and besought him and said to him,

"O man of God, I pray you, let my life and the lives of these fifty servants of yours be precious in your sight. Behold, fire has already come down from heaven and consumed the two former commanders of fifty with their fifties; but now let my life be precious in your sight."

Then the angel of the LORD said to Elijah,

"Go down with him; do not be afraid of him."

So he arose and went down with him to the king. Thereupon he said to him,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Because, you have sent messengers to inquire of Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron—is it because there is no God in Israel to inquire of his word?—therefore you shall not come down from the bed whither you have gone up, but you shall certainly die.'"

So he died according to the word of the LORD which Elijah had spoken; and Jehoram became king in his stead in the second year of Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, because he had no son. Now the rest of the acts of Ahaziah which he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel?

THE TRANSLATION OF ELIJAH, 2:1-18

Now when the LORD took up Elijah by a whirlwind into the heavens, Elijah and Elisha were on their way from Gilgal, and Elisha said to Elisha,

"I pray you, remain here, for the LORD has sent me to Bethel."

"As the LORD lives," said Elisha, "and as you yourself are alive, I will not leave you."

So they went down to Bethel. Then the members of the prophetic order who were at Bethel came out to Elisha and said to him,

"Do you know that today the LORD is about to take away your master from being your leader?"

"Yes, I know it; hold your peace," he said.

Again Elijah said to him,

"Elisha, remain here, I pray you, for the LORD has sent me to Jericho."

"As the LORD lives and as you yourself are alive, I will not leave you," he said.

So they entered Jericho; and the members of the prophetic order who were in Jericho approached Elisha and said to him,

"Do you know that the LORD is about to take away your master from being your leader today?"

"Yes, I know it. Hold your peace," he said.

Elijah again said to him,

"Remain here, I pray you, for the LORD has sent me to the Jordan."

"As the LORD lives and as you yourself are alive, I will not leave you," he said.

So the two of them went on.

Now fifty men of the prophetic order went and stood opposite them at a distance, while they two stood by the Jordan. Then Elijah took his mantle and rolled it up and struck the waters; and they were divided on either side so that the two of them passed over on dry ground. Now as soon as they had crossed over, Elijah said to Elisha,

"Ask what I shall do for you, before I am taken from you."

"Let there be now a twofold share of your spirit upon me!" said Elisha.

"You have asked a hard thing," he said, "still, if you see me as I am being taken from you, so shall it be with you; but if not, it shall not be so."

Now as they were going along conversing, suddenly a chariot of fire and horses of fire separated the two of them; and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into the heavens.

As Elisha looked, he cried out, "My father, my father! the chariots of Israel and its horsemen!"

But he saw him no more, and he took hold of his own garments and tore them in two pieces. He also took up the mantle of Elijah that had fallen from him and returned and stood by the brink of the Jordan. Then he took the mantle of Elijah that had fallen from him and struck the waters and said,

"Where now is the LORD, the God of Elijah?"

And when he had struck the waters they were divided on either side so that Elisha passed over; and when the members of the prophetic order who were at Jericho opposite him saw him, they said,

"The spirit of Elijah is upon Elisha."

Then they came to meet him and bowed before him to the earth, and said to him,

"Behold now, there are with your servants fifty able-bodied men; let them go, we pray, and let them seek your master, lest the wind of the LORD has taken him up and cast him upon some mountain or into some valley."

"You shall not send," he said.

Yet when they pressed him, until he was ashamed, he said,

"Send."

Accordingly, they sent fifty men; and they searched three days but did not find him. Therefore when they returned to him, while he was staying at Jericho, he said to them,

"Did I not say to you, 'Do not go?'"

ELISHA'S COMMISSION MI- RACULOUSLY ATTESTED,

2:19-3:31

Then the men of the city said to Elisha,

- "See now, the site of the city is pleasant as my lord sees; but the water is bad, and the land is unfruitful."
- 20 "Bring me a new jar," he said, "and put salt in it."
- 21 So they brought it to him. Then he went out to the spring of the water supply and cast salt in it and said, "Thus says the LORD: 'I have rendered these waters pure; neither death nor untimely birth shall be due to them any more.'"
- 22 So the waters have continued pure down to this day, in accordance with the word of Elisha which he spoke.
- 23 Later he went up from there to Beth-el. But while he was going up on the way, some little boys came out of a city and jeered at him, and said, "Go up, you baldhead; go up, baldhead."
- 24 When he turned around and saw them, he cursed them in the name of the LORD. Then two she-bears came out of a wood and mangled forty-two of the boys. But he kept on from there to Mount Carmel, and from there returned to Samaria.
- 3 Now Jehoram, the son of Ahab, became king over Israel in Samaria in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and he reigned twelve years.
- 2 But he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, but not as his father and mother, for he put away the sacred pillar of the Baal which his father had made. Nevertheless he clung to the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin. He did not turn from them.

WAR BETWEEN ISRAEL AND MOAB, 3:4-27

- 4 Now Mesha, king of Moab, was a sheep-breeder. He used to pay to the king of Israel a hundred thousand lambs and the wool of a hundred thousand rams, but as soon as Ahab died, the king of Moab rebelled against the king of Israel.
- 6 Accordingly King Jehoram went out of Samaria at that time and mustered all Israel. He then proceeded to send to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, saying, "The king of Moab has rebelled against me; will you go with me to fight against Moab?"

"I will go up," he said, "I am as you, my people as your people, my horses as your horses."

"Which way shall we go up?" he said.

"By the way of the desert of Edom," he said.

So the king of Israel went with the king of Judah and the king of Edom. But when they had made a circuitous journey of seven days, there was no water for the army nor for the cattle that followed them. Then the king of Israel said,

"Alas! for the LORD has summoned these three kings to give them into the hand of the king of Moab!"

But Jehoshaphat said, "Is there not here a prophet of the LORD, that through him we may seek the LORD?"

Then one of the servants of the king of Israel answered and said,

"Elisha, the son of Shaphat, is here, who poured water on the hands of Elijah."

"The word of the LORD is with him," said Jehoshaphat.

So the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, and the king of Edom went down to him.

"What have I to do with you?" said Elisha to the king of Israel. "Go to the prophets of your father, and the prophets of your mother."

But the king of Israel said to him, "No; for the LORD has summoned these three kings to give them into the hand of Moab."

"As the LORD of hosts lives, whom I serve," said Elisha, "were it not that I respect Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, I would neither look at you nor notice you. Now therefore, bring me a minstrel."

When the minstrel played, the power of the LORD came upon him, and he said,

"Thus says the LORD: 'I will certainly make this dry brook a series of pools.' For thus says the LORD: 'You shall not see wind, neither shall you see rain; yet that dry brook shall be filled with water, so that you yourselves shall drink, together with your army and your cattle. This being a light thing in the sight of the LORD, he shall also give Moab into your hand. You shall conquer every fortified city and every choice city and fell every good tree and stop up all the springs of water and ruin every good piece of land with stones."

Accordingly, in the morning at the time of presenting the offering, suddenly water came from the direction of Edom, so that the land was filled with the water.

Now when all the Moabites had heard that the kings had come up to fight against them, all who were old enough to put on a girdle were called out and drawn up at the frontier. But when they arose early in the morning, and the sun had risen over the water, the Moabites saw the water opposite them as red as blood. Therefore they said,

"This is blood! The kings have surely fought together and have slain one another. Now therefore, Moab to the spoil!"

However, when they came to the camp of Israel, the Israelites arose and attacked the Moabites, so that they fled before them; and they went forward slaughtering the Moabites as they went. Thus they kept on overthrowing the cities and on every good piece of land they cast each his stone, until they filled it, every spring of water also they stopped up, and felled every good tree, and they harried Moab until only the men in Kir-harceseth were left, and the slingers surrounded and attacked it.

Now when the king of Moab saw that the battle was too fierce for him, he took with him seven hundred men, that drew sword, to break through against the king of Edom, but they could not. Then he took his oldest son, who was to reign in his stead, and offered him as a burnt-offering upon the wall. Then there came great wrath upon Israel, so that they departed from him and returned to their own land.

THE MIRACULOUS DEEDS OF ELISHA, 4:1—8:15

Now the wife of one of the members of the prophetic order cried out to Elisha, saying,

"My husband your servant is dead, and you know that your servant feared the LORD; but the creditor has come to take my two children to be his slaves."

"What shall I do for you?" Elisha said to her. "Tell me; what have you in the house?"

"Your maidservant has nothing in the house," she said, "except a flask of oil."

"Go," said he, "borrow vessels abroad of all your neighbors, even empty vessels not a few. Then go in and shut the door upon yourself and your sons, and pour out into all these vessels, and when one is full set it aside."

So she went from him and shut the door upon herself and her sons; they kept bringing the vessels to her while she was pouring out. As soon as the vessels were full, she said to her son,

"Bring me another."

"There is not another vessel!" he said to her.

Then the oil stopped. Whereupon she came and told the man of God.

"Go," said he, "sell the oil and pay your debts, and you and your sons can live on what is left."

Now there came a day when Elisha passed over to Shunem, where there was an influential woman and she persuaded him to eat food, so that afterward as often as he passed by, he would turn aside there to eat food. Accordingly, she said to her husband,

"See here, I am sure that this is a holy man of God who is continually passing by us. Let us make now a little inclosed roof chamber, and let us put a bed for him there, a table, a chair, and a lamp, so that whenever he comes to us, he can go in there."

Now one day he came there and turned aside into the chamber and rested there. Then he said to Gehazi his servant,

"Call this Shunammite woman."

When he had called her she stood before him, and he said to him,

"Say now to her, 'Here you have shown all this anxious care for our comfort; what is to be done for you? Would you be commended to the king or the commander of the army?'"

"I dwell among my own people," she said.

"What then is to be done for her?" said he.

"Verily, she has no son and her husband is old," said Gehazi.

- 15 "Call her," he said.
- 16 When he had called her, she stood in the doorway, and he said,
"At this season, next spring, you shall embrace a son."
"No! my lord!" she said. "O man of God, do not deceive your maidservant."
- 17 But the woman conceived and bore a son about the same time the next spring as Elisha had spoken to her.
- 18 Now when the child was grown, he went out one day to his father to the reapers, and he said to his father,
"My head, my head!"
- 20 "Carry him to his mother," he said to a servant. When he had taken him up and brought him to his mother, he sat upon her lap till noon, and then died.
- 21 Thereupon she took him up and laid him on the bed of the man of God, and she closed the door after him and went out.
- 22 Then she called to her husband and said,
"Send me, now, one of the servants and one of the asses that I may speed to the man of God and return."
- 23 "Why are you about to go to him today," he said, "since it is neither new moon nor sabbath?"
"It is for the best," she said.
- 24 Then she saddled the ass and said to her servant,
"Drive fast; do not slacken the riding for me unless I tell you."
- 25 So she set out and came to Mount Carmel, to the man of God. Now as soon as the man of God saw her at a distance he said to Gehazi his servant,
"Look, there is the Shunammite yonder! Now run, I pray you, to meet her and say to her, 'Is it well with you? Is it well with your husband? Is it well with the child?'"
"It is well," she said.
- 27 But when she came to the Mount, to the man of God, she caught hold of his feet. When Gehazi came near to thrust her away, the man of God said,
"Let her alone, for she has had a bitter experience and the LORD has hidden it from me and has not told me."
- 28 "Did I ask a son of my lord?" she said. "Did I not say, 'Do not deceive me?'"
- 29 At once Elisha said to Gehazi,
"Gird up your loins, and take my staff in your hands, and go! If you meet a man, do not salute him, and if a man salute you, do not reply to him, but lay my staff on the face of the child."

But the child's mother said,
"As the Lord lives, and as you yourself are alive, I will not leave you."

So he arose and went after her. Now Gehazi had gone on before them and laid the staff upon the child's face, but there was neither sound nor response. Therefore he returned to meet him and told him, saying,

"The child has not awakened."

When Elisha came to the house, behold, the boy was lying dead on his bed. He went in, therefore, and closed the door upon the two of them, and prayed to the LORD. Then he went up and lay upon the child and put his mouth upon his mouth and his eyes upon his eyes and his hands upon his hands, and as he crouched upon him, the flesh of the child became warm. Whereupon he withdrew and paced back and forth in the house; then he went up again and crouched upon him, and at this the boy sneezed seven times; and the boy opened his eyes. At once he called to Gehazi and said,

"Call this Shunammite."

So he called her and when she came to him, he said,

"Take up your son."

Then she entered, fell at his feet, and bowed herself to the earth; presently she took up her son and went out.

Now Elisha returned to Gilgal while there was a famine in the land. When the members of the prophetic order were sitting before him, he said to his servant,

"Set on the great pot and make a vegetable stew for the prophets."

Then one of them went out into the field to gather herbs and found a wild vine and gathered from it his lap full of wild gourds, and came and cut them up for the pot of vegetable stew, for they did not know what they were. So they poured out for the men to eat. But while they were still eating of the stew, they cried out and said,

"O man of God, there is death in the pot."

So they could not eat of it.

"Bring meal," he said.

Then he cast it into the pot and said,

"Pour out for the people that they may eat."

There was now no harm in the pot.

12 Then a man came from Baal-shalish-ah and brought the man of God bread of the first fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and fresh vegetables in his sack.

"Give them to the people that they may eat," he said.

13 "What, shall I set this before a hundred men?" said his attendant.

So he repeated,

"Give them to the people that they may eat; for thus says the LORD: 'They shall eat and have some left.'"

14 Then he set it before them, and they ate and left some over according to the word of the LORD.

15 Now Naaman, the commander of the army of the king of Syria, was a great man with his master and highly esteemed, because through him the LORD had given victory to Syria. But, although a valiant man, he was a 2 leper. The Syrians had gone out as marauding bands and had carried off a little girl from the land of Israel, and she waited on Naaman's wife.

3 "Would that my master were with the prophet who is in Samaria!" she said to her mistress. "Then he would cure him of his leprosy."

4 So he went in and told his lord, saying,

"Thus and so spoke the maiden who is from the land of Israel."

5 Then the king of Syria said,

"Go now, and I will send along a letter to the king of Israel."

So he set out, taking with him ten talents of silver and six thousand shekels of gold and ten festal garments; and he brought to the king of Israel the letter which read,

6 "Now when this letter reaches you, be informed that I have sent to you my servant Naaman, that you may cure him of his leprosy."

7 When, however, the king of Israel read the letter he tore his garments and said,

"Am I a god to kill and to make alive, that this man is sending to me to cure a man of his leprosy? Take note and observe how he is seeking occasion against me."

8 But as soon as Elisha the man of God heard that the king of Israel had torn his garments, he sent to the king, saying,

"Why have you torn your garments? I pray you, let him come to me, that he may know that there is a prophet in Israel."

So Naaman came with his horses and with his chariots and halted at the door of Elisha's house. Whereupon Elisha 10 sent a messenger to him, saying,

"Go and wash in the Jordan seven times, and your flesh shall be restored and you shall be clean."

But Naaman was enraged and left, 11 and he said,

"Here I have been saying to myself, 'He will surely come out and stand and call on the name of the LORD his God, and wave his hand toward the place and cure the leper.' Are not Amana 12 and Pharpar, the rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? Could I not wash in them and be clean?"

So he turned and went away in a 13 rage. Then his servants came near and spoke to him, saying,

"My father, if the prophet had demanded of you some great thing, would you not have done it? How much rather then, when he has said to you, 'Wash and be clean?' "

So finally he went down and dipped 14 himself seven times in the Jordan, according to the word of the man of God, and his flesh was restored like the flesh of a little child, and he was clean.

Then he returned to the man of God, 15 with all his retinue, and came and stood before him and said,

"Verily, now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Israel; now therefore, I pray you, accept a present from your servant."

"As the LORD lives whom I serve I 16 will take nothing," he said.

And although he pressed him to take it, he refused.

"If not," said Naaman, "at any rate 17 let there be given to your servant two mules' burden of earth; for your servant will henceforth offer neither burnt-offering nor sacrifice to other gods, but to the LORD. In this matter may the LORD 18 pardon your servant—when my master goes into the house of Rimmon to worship there, leaning on my arm, and I bow myself in the house of Rimmon, when I bow myself in the house of Rimmon, then may the LORD pardon your servant in this matter."

19 "Go in peace," he said to him.

20 But when he had gone from him a short distance, Gehazi, the servant of Elisha the man of God, said,

"See, my master has spared this Syrian, Naaman, without accepting from his hand what he brought! As the LORD lives, I will certainly run after him and get something from him."

21 So Gehazi ran after Naaman, and when Naaman saw someone running after him, he alighted from his chariot to meet him, and said,

"Is it well?"

22 "All is well," he said. "My master sent me saying, 'There have just now come to me two young men of the prophetic order from the highlands of Ephraim. I pray you, give them a talent of silver and two festal garments.'"

23 "Consent to accept two talents," said Naaman.

So he urged him, and tied up two talents of silver in two bags, with two festal garments, and he gave them to two of his servants, and they carried them before him. But when he came to the hill, he took them from their hand and deposited them in the house, and sent the men away and they departed.

25 When he went in and stood before his master, Elisha said to him,

"Where have you been, Gehazi?"

"Your servant has not been away anywhere," he said.

26 "Was I not present in spirit when the man turned from his chariot to meet you?" he said. "Is it a time to accept money, and garments, and olive orchards and vineyards, and sheep and oxen, and menservants and maidservants? The leprosy of Naaman shall fasten upon you and upon your descendants forever."

So he went out from his presence, a leper as white as snow.

6 Now the members of the prophetic order said to Elisha,

"See now, the place before you where we dwell is too limited for us. Let us go now to the Jordan and each take from there a beam and let us make a place for us there, where we may dwell."

"Go," he said.

3 Then a certain one said,

"Be pleased, now, to go with your servants."

"I will go," he said.

So he went with them, and when they came to the Jordan, they cut down the trees, but as one was felling a beam his iron ax fell into the water. At that he cried out, and said,

"Alas, my master! for it was borrowed."

"Where did it fall?" said the man of God.

When he showed him the place, he cut off a stick and threw it in there, and made the iron float.

"Take it up," he said.

So he reached out his hand and took it.

Once when the king of Syria was at war with Israel, he took counsel with his servants, saying,

"In such and such a place let us make an ambush and conceal ourselves."

But the man of God sent to the king of Israel, saying,

"Beware that you do not pass this place, for Syrians have concealed themselves there."

So the king of Israel sent to the place of which the man of God had told him. Thus he used to warn him, so that he could guard himself there, not once or twice.

Therefore the mind of the king of Syria was agitated because of this fact; and he called his servants and said to them,

"Will you not tell me, who of us is for the king of Israel?"

"There is no one, my lord, O king!" said one of his servants, "but Elisha, the prophet who is in Israel, tells the king of Israel the words that you speak in your bedroom."

"Go and see where he is," he said, "that I may send and take him."

Then it was told him, saying,

"Behold he is in Dothan."

Accordingly he sent there horses and chariots and a large force; and they came by night, and surrounded the city. So on the morrow when the man of God arose early in the morning and went out, there was an army of horses and chariots surrounding the city, so that his servant said to him,

"Alas, my master! What shall we do?"

"Fear not," he said, "for they who are with us are more than they who are with them."

7 Then Elisha prayed and said,
"O LORD, open now his eyes that he may see."

The LORD opened the eyes of the lad, and he saw, and behold the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire around Elisha. When they came down to him, Elisha prayed to the LORD and said,

"Smite now this people with blindness."

So he smote them with blindness according to the word of Elisha.

Then Elisha said to them,
"This is neither the way nor the city.
Follow me and I will bring you to the man whom you seek!"

So he brought them to Samaria.

But as soon as they came to Samaria, Elisha said,

"O LORD, open the eyes of these men, that they may see."

So the LORD opened their eyes and they saw, and behold, they were in the midst of Samaria. Thereupon the king of Israel said to Elisha when he saw
them,

"My father, shall I slay them? Shall I slay them?"

"You shall not slay," he said; "would you slay those whom you have not taken prisoner with your sword and with your bow? Set bread and water before them, that they may eat and drink and go to their master."

So he prepared for them a great feast; and when they had eaten and drunk he sent them away, and they went to their master. Then the marauding Syrian bands came no more into the land of Israel.

It was after this that Ben-hadad king of Syria assembled all his army and went up and besieged Samaria. Consequently there was a great famine in Samaria, and there the besiegers continued until an ass's head was sold for eighty shekels of silver, and a pint of dove's dung for five shekels of silver.
Now as the king of Israel was passing along upon the wall, a woman cried out to him saying,

"Help, my lord, O king!"

"Let the LORD help you!" he said to her. "Out of what can I help you? Out of the threshing floor or out of the winepress?"

However, the king said to her,

"What is your trouble?"

Then the woman said,

"This woman said to me, 'Give your son, that we may eat him today, and we will eat my son tomorrow.' So we boiled my son, and ate him, and I said to her on the next day, 'Give your son, that we may eat him'; but she has hidden her son."

Now when the king heard the words of the woman, he tore his garments—and as he was passing along upon the wall, the people saw, and behold, he had sackcloth within on his flesh—and
he said,

"May God requite me and worse, if the head of Elisha, the son of Shaphat, remain in his possession today."

Now Elisha was sitting in his house with the elders sitting beside him. And the king sent a man from his presence.
But before the messenger came to him,
he said to the elders,

"You see how this son of a murderer has sent to remove my head. Look.
When the messenger comes, close the door, and hold the door fast against him. Is not the sound of his master's feet behind him?"

While he was still speaking with them, behold, the king came down to him and said,

"See, this is the evil from the LORD!
Why should I wait for the LORD any longer?"

"Hear the word of the LORD," said Elisha. 'Thus says the LORD: "Tomorrow about this time shall a measure of fine meal be sold for a shekel, and two measures of barley for a shekel at the gate of Samaria."'"

Then the third officer of the king on whose hand the king leaned, answered
the man of God and said,

"If the LORD himself should make windows in the heavens, could this thing be?"

"You, yourself," he said, "shall see it with your own eyes, but you shall not eat of it."

Now there were four men who were lepers at the entrance of the gate; and they said to one another,

"Why do we remain here until we die? If we say, 'Let us enter the city,' the famine is in the city and we shall die there; but if we remain here, we die also. Now therefore come and let us desert to the army of the Syrians. If they save us alive, we shall live; and if they kill us, we shall but die."

5 So they arose at twilight to go to the army of the Syrians. But when they came to the confines of the camp of the Syrians, there was no one there; 6 for the LORD had caused the army of the Syrians to hear a sound of chariots and of horses and of a great army, so that they said one to another,

"Surely the king of Israel has hired against us the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Egypt to come upon us."

7 Therefore they arose and fled in the twilight and forsook their tents, their horses, and their asses, even the camp as it was, and fled for their lives. When these lepers came to the confines of the camp, they entered into a tent and ate and drank and carried away silver and gold and clothing and went and hid them. Then they returned and entered another tent and carried away what was there and went and hid it.

9 Then they said to one another,

"We are not doing right; this is a day of good news, but we are keeping still. If we wait until the morning light, punishment will overtake us. Now therefore, come, let us go and inform the house of the king."

10 So they came and called the gate-keepers of the city and told them, saying,

"We came to the camp of the Syrians, and behold, there was no one there and no sound of man, but the horses were tied and the asses tied, and the tents were as they had been."

11 Then the gate-keepers called out and informed the house of the king within.

12 So the king arose in the night and said to his servants,

"Let me tell you now what the Syrians have done to us. They know that we are hungry; therefore they have gone from the camp to hide themselves in the field, thinking, 'When they come out of the city we shall capture them alive and we shall get into the city.'"

13 But one of his servants answered and said,

"Send men and let them take five of the remaining horses; if they live, behold, they are like all the multitude of Israel that survive here, but if they perish, behold, they are like all the multitude of Israel that are consumed. Therefore let us send and see."

However, they took two mounted 14 men, and the king sent them after the army of the Syrians, saying,

"Go and see."

Accordingly they went after them to 11 the Jordan and behold, all the way was full of garments and equipment which the Syrians had thrown away in their haste, and the messengers returned and told the king.

Then the people went out and plundered 12 the camp of the Syrians. So a homer of fine meal sold for a shekel and two measures of barley for a shekel, according to the word of the LORD. Now 13 the king had appointed the third officer on whose hand he leaned to take charge of the gate; but the people trampled upon him at the gate so that he died, just as the man of God had said when the king came down to him. It also 14 happened just as the man of God had spoken to the king, saying,

"Two measures of barley shall be sold for a shekel, and a measure of fine flour for a shekel, about this time tomorrow at the gate of Samaria."

The third officer had answered the 15 man of God and said,

"If the LORD himself should make windows in the heavens, could this thing be?"

And he had said,

"You yourself shall see it with your own eyes, but you shall not eat of it."

So it happened to him, for the people 20 trampled upon him at the gate so that he died.

Now Elisha spoke to the woman, 8 whose son he restored to life, saying,

"Arise, and depart with your household, and sojourn wherever you are able, for the LORD has called for a famine; and furthermore, it shall come upon the land for seven years."

So the woman arose and did according 2 to the word of the man of God: she went with her household and sojourned in the land of the Philistines seven years; and at the end of seven years 3 the woman returned from the land of the Philistines, she went forth to appeal to the king for her house and her field.

Now at the time, the king was speak- 4 ing to Gehazi, the servant of the man of God, saying,

"Relate to me now all the great things that Elisha has done."

5 While he was still relating to the king how he had restored to life the dead, just then the woman whose son he had restored to life began her appeal to the king about her house and her field.

"My lord, O king," said Gehazi, "this is the woman and this is her son, whom Elisha restored to life."

6 Then when the king asked the woman, she related it to him. So the king put at her disposal an official, saying,

"Restore all that was hers together with all the produce of the field from the day that she left the land until now."

7 Now Elisha came to Damascus; and Ben-hadad, the king of Syria, was sick. So when it was told him, saying,

"The man of God has come here,"

8 the king said to Hazael,

"Take with you a present and go to meet the man of God, and inquire of the LORD through him, saying, 'Shall I recover from this sickness?'"

9 So Hazael went to meet him and took a present with him, even all kinds of goods of Damascus, forty camel loads. When he came he stood before him and said,

"Your son Ben-hadad, king of Syria, has sent me to you, saying, 'Shall I recover from this sickness?'"

10 Then Elisha said to him,

"Go, say to him, 'You shall surely recover,' but the LORD has shown me that he shall certainly die."

1 And he fixed his gaze and stared at him until he was ashamed; but the man of God wept.

2 "Why does my lord weep?" said Hazael.

"Because," he said, "I know the evil that you will do to the Israelites: Their fortresses you will set on fire, their choice young men you will slay with the sword, their little children you will dash in pieces, and their women with child you will disembowel."

3 "But what is your servant—a dead dog—that he should do this great thing?" said Hazael.

"The LORD has shown me that you are to be king over Syria," said Elisha.

4 When he left Elisha and came to his master, he said to him,

"What did Elisha say to you?"

Then he said,

"He said to me that you would certainly live."

But on the morrow he took the covenant and dipped it in water and spread it over his face, so that he died. And Hazael became king in his stead.

JEHORAM AND AHAZIAH OF JUDAH, 8:16-29a

Now in the fifth year of Joram, the son of Ahab, king of Israel, Jehoram, the son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, became king. He was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. He walked in the way of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for the daughter of Ahab became his wife, and he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD. However, the LORD would not destroy Judah because of David his servant, since he had said to him that he would give him a lamp before him always.

In his days Edom revolted from the rule of Judah and established a king of its own. Then Joram passed over to Zair, and all his chariots with him; and he, together with his chariot commanders, rose by night and broke through the Edomites who had surrounded him. So Edom has been in revolt from the rule of Judah to this day. Libnah likewise revolted at the same time. Now the rest of the records of Joram and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Joram slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Ahaziah his son became king in his stead.

In the twelfth year of Joram, the son of Ahab, king of Israel, Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, king of Judah, became king. Ahaziah was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Athaliah, the granddaughter of Omri, king of Israel. He walked in the way of the house of Ahab and did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD as did the house of Ahab, for he was son-in-law to the house of Ahab. Moreover he went with Joram, the son of Ahab, to make war against Hazael, king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead. But the Syrians wounded Joram. Therefore King Joram returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which the Syrians had given him at Ramah, when he fought with Hazael, king of Syria.

THE REVOLT OF JEHU,

8:29b—10:36

Now Ahaziah, the son of Joram, king of Judah, went down to see Joram, the son of Ahab, in Jezreel, because he was sick. Then Elisha the prophet called to one of the members of the prophetic order and said to him,

"Gird up your loins and take this flask of oil in your hand and go to Ramoth-gilead. And when you come there, look there for Jehu, the son of Jehoshaphat, the son of Nimshi, and go in and make him rise up from among his brothers and bring him into an inner chamber. Then take the flask of oil and pour it on his head and say, 'Thus says the LORD: "I have anointed you king over Israel."' Then open the door and flee, and do not wait."

So the young man (the servant of the prophet) went to Ramoth-gilead; and just as he came, the commanders of the army were in session.

"I have a word for you, O commander," he said.

"For which one of us all?" said Jehu.

"For you, O commander," he said.

Then he arose and went into the house; and the servant poured the oil on his head and said to him,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'I have anointed you king over the people of the LORD, even over Israel. And you shall cut off the house of Ahab, your master, that I may avenge the blood of my servants, the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the LORD at the hands of Jezebel. For the whole house of Ahab shall perish and I will cut off from Ahab every male, him who is shut up and him who is at large in Israel. I will make the house of Ahab like the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and like the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah; and the dogs shall eat Jezebel in the territory of Jezreel and none shall bury her.'"

Then he opened the door and fled.

Now when Jehu came out to the servants of his master, they said to him,

"Is all well? Why did this mad man come to you?"

"You know the man and his talk," he said to them.

"It is false! Tell us now," they said.

So he said,

"Thus and thus he said to me, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "I have anointed you king over Israel."' "

Then they quickly took each his garment, and put it under him on the stairway, and blew the trumpet and said,

"Jehu is king!"

Thus Jehu, the son of Jehoshaphat, the son of Nimshi, conspired against Joram, while Joram, together with all Israel, was holding Ramoth-gilead against Hazael, king of Syria; but King Joram had returned to Jezreel to be healed of the wounds which the Syrians had inflicted upon him, when he fought with Hazael, king of Syria. So Jehu said,

"If it be your mind, let no one make his escape from the city to go and tell it in Jezreel."

Then Jehu mounted his chariot and went to Jezreel, for Joram was lying there; and Ahaziah, king of Judah, had gone down to see Joram. Now as the watchman was standing on the tower in Jezreel, he saw the dust cloud raised by Jehu, as he came on, and he said,

"I see a dust cloud."

"Take a horseman and send him to meet them that he may say, 'Is it peace?'" said Joram.

Accordingly the rider of the horse went to meet him and said,

"Thus says the king: 'Is it peace?'"

"What have you to do with peace?" said Jehu. "Rein in behind me."

So the watchman reported, saying, "The messenger came to them, but he does not return."

Then he sent out a second horseman who came to them and said,

"Thus says the king: 'Is it peace?'"

"What have you to do with peace?" said Jehu. "Rein in behind me."

Again the watchman reported, saying,

"He came to them, but he does not return; also the driving is like the driving of Jehu, the son of Nimshi, for he is accustomed to drive furiously."

"Make ready," said Joram.

As soon as they had made ready his chariot, Joram, king of Israel, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, set out each in his chariot. Thus they went to meet Jehu, and they reached him in the field

22 of Naboth the Jezreelite; and when Joram saw Jehu he said,

"Is it peace, Jehu?"

"How can there be peace," he said, "as long as the harlotries of Jezebel your mother and her witchcrafts are so many?"

23 Then Joram reined about and fled, and said to Ahaziah,
"Treachery, Ahaziah!"

24 But Jehu drew his bow and shot Joram between his shoulders, so that the arrow went clear through his body; and he collapsed in his chariot. Then Jehu said to Bidkar, his third officer,

"Take him up and cast him into that portion of field belonging to Naboth the Jezreelite; for I remember how when you and I were riding side by side after Ahab his father, the LORD took up this oracle against him: 'Surely I saw yesterday the blood of Naboth and the blood of his sons,' is the oracle of the LORD; 'and I will requite you in this very field,' is the oracle of the LORD. Now therefore, take him up and cast him into the plot of ground, according to the word of the LORD."

25 Now when Ahaziah, king of Judah, saw this, he fled in the direction of Beth-haggan. But Jehu pursued him, and said,

"Him also! Pin him to the chariot."

So they wounded him at the ascent of Gur, which is by Ibleam. Nevertheless he kept on to Megiddo where he died. Then his servants took him by chariot to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own sepulcher with his fathers in the city of David. Now in the eleventh year of Joram, the son of Ahab, Ahaziah became king over Judah. When Jehu came to Jezreel, Jezebel heard of it, and she painted her eyelashes and adorned her head and peered out at the window.

26 As Jehu was entering the gate, she said, "Is it well, you Zimri, your master's murderer?"

27 But he raised his eyes to the window and said,

"Who is on my side? Who?"

28 At that two or three eunuchs peered out at him.

"Let her drop," he said.

29 So they let her drop, so that some of her blood spattered on the wall and on the horses, and he drove over her. Then he went in and ate and drank.

"Take charge now of this cursed woman, and bury her; for she is a king's daughter," he said.

30 But when they went to bury her, they found no more of her than the skull, the feet, and the palms of the hands.

31 When, therefore, they returned and told him, he said,

"This is the word of the LORD, which he spoke by his servant, Elijah the Tishbite, saying, 'In the territory of Jezreel shall the dogs eat the flesh of Jezebel. And the corpse of Jezebel shall be as dung on the face of the field in the territory of Jezreel, so that they cannot say, "This is Jezebel."'"

32 Now Ahab had seventy descendants in Samaria. So Jehu wrote letters and sent to Samaria to the rulers of the city, to the elders, and those who had charge of the descendants of Ahab, saying,

33 "Now therefore, as soon as this letter comes to you, since your master's sons are with you, as well as chariots and horses, fortified cities and weapons, select the best and fittest of your master's sons, and set him on the throne of his father and fight for your master's house."

34 But they were panic-stricken and said,

"Behold, the two kings could not stand before him; how then shall we ourselves stand?"

35 So he who was over the palace and he who was over the city, together with the elders and the guardians, sent to Jehu, saying,

36 "We are your servants, and all that you tell us we will do; we will make no one king; do whatever is good in your eyes."

37 So he wrote to them a second letter, saying,

38 "If you are on my side and if you are ready to obey me, then take the heads of the men, the sons of your master, and come to me to Jezreel tomorrow at this time."

39 Now the royal princes, seventy in number, were with the great men of the city, who were bringing them up. Accordingly, as soon as the letter came to them, they took the royal princes and slew them, seventy persons, and put their heads in baskets and sent them to him to Jezreel. When the messenger came and told him, saying,

"They have brought the heads of the royal princes,"

he said,

"Put them in two heaps at the entrance of the gate until the morning."

9 Then in the morning when he went out, he stood and said to all the people,

"You are upright; it is true I conspired against my master and slew him, but who killed all these? Know then that there shall fall to the earth nothing of the word of the LORD, which the LORD spoke against the house of Ahab; for the LORD has done what he spoke by his servant Elijah."

11 Thereupon Jehu slew all that were left of the house of Ahab in Jezreel, together with all his kinsmen, and his familiar friends, and his priests, until he left him none remaining. Then he arose and departed for Samaria; and as he was at Beth-eked of the shepherds on the way, Jehu met with the kinsmen of Ahaziah, king of Judah, and said,

"Who are you?"

"We are the kinsmen of Ahaziah," they said, "and we have come down to greet the household of the king and the household of the queen mother."

14 "Take them alive," he said.

Then they took them alive and slew them at the pit of Beth-eked, forty-two persons, so that he spared none of them; and when he set out from there he met with Jonadab, the son of Rechab, coming to meet him. He greeted him and said to him,

"Is your heart in accord with my heart, as mine is with yours?"

"It is," said Jonadab.

"If it be, give me your hand," said Jehu.

So he gave him his hand and he took him up to him into the chariot.

16 "Come with me, and see my zeal for the LORD," he said.

So he induced him to ride in his chariot, and when he came to Samaria, he slew all who remained to Ahab in Samaria, until he had exterminated them according to the word of the LORD which he spoke to Elijah. Then Jehu assembled all the people and said to them,

"Ahab served the Baal a little; Jehu will serve him much. Now therefore, summon to me all the prophets of the Baal, all who serve him, and all his priests; let none be absent; for I have a great sacrifice for the Baal; whoever is absent shall not live."

But Jehu did it with deliberate cunning in order to wipe out the worshippers of the Baal.

"Sanctify a solemn assembly for the 20 Baal," said Jehu.

So they proclaimed it. Moreover Jehu sent through all Israel, and all the worshippers of the Baal came so that there was not a man left who did not come; and when they had entered the house of the Baal, the house of the Baal was filled from one end to the other. Then he said to the one in charge of the 22 wardrobe,

"Bring out garments for all the worshippers of the Baal."

So he brought out the garments for them. Then Jehu together with Jonadab, the son of Rechab, went into the house of the Baal, and said to the worshippers of the Baal,

"Search and see that there may not be here with you any of the servants of the LORD, but only worshippers of the Baal."

Thereupon he proceeded to offer the 24 sacrifices and the burnt-offerings. Now Jehu had stationed eighty men outside and he had said,

"The man who allows any of the men whom I put in your charge to escape, his life shall be for that one's life."

Now as soon as he had made the offering Jehu said to the guards and to the third officers,

"Go in, slay them, let not a man escape."

So they put them to the sword, and the guards and the third officers cast them out, and went into the inner room of the house of the Baal, and brought 26 out the sacred pole from the house of the Baal and burned it. They also demolished the sacred pillar of the Baal and demolished the house of the Baal and made it a lavatory, as it is to this day. Thus Jehu eradicated the Baal 28 from Israel. Nevertheless from the sins of Jeroboam the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin, from these, the golden calves that were in Bethel and in Dan, Jehu turned not aside. But 300 the LORD said to Jehu,

"Because you have done well in performing that which was right in my sight, and have done to the house of Ahab according to all that was in my heart, your sons to the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel."

1 Yet Jehu took no heed to walk in the law of the LORD, the God of Israel, with all his heart: he did not turn from the sins of Jeroboam with which he made Israel sin. In those days the LORD began to be angry with Israel, and Hazael defeated them throughout the territory of Israel, from the Jordan eastward, all the land of Gilead, the Gadites, the Reubenites, and the Manassites, from Aroer which is by the valley of the Arnon, both Gilead and Bashan. Now the rest of the records of Jehu and all that he did and all his prowess, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria; and Jehoahaz his son became king in his stead. The time that Jehu reigned over Israel in Samaria was twenty-eight years.

THE REGENCY OF ATHALIAH,

1 Now when Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, she arose and destroyed all the royal family. 2 But Jehosheba, the daughter of King Joram, the sister of Ahaziah, took Joash, the son of Ahaziah, and stole him away from the king's sons, that were about to be slain, and put him and his nurse in a bed-chamber. Thus she hid him from Athaliah, so that he was not slain. So he was with her, hidden in the house of the LORD six years, while Athaliah reigned over the land. But in the seventh year Jehoiada sent and brought the commanders of hundreds of the Carites and the guards and brought them to him in the house of the LORD. Thereupon he made a covenant with them and made them swear in the house of the LORD, and showed them the king's son. Then he commanded them saying,

"This is the thing that you shall do: one third of you, who enter on the Sabbath and keep guard over the house of the king—a third shall be at the gate Sur, and another third at the gate behind the guards—shall keep watch over the house of the king; and two divisions of you, even all who go forth on the Sabbath to keep watch over the house of the LORD about the king, shall surround the king each with drawn weapons. Whoever comes up to the ranks shall be slain. So be with the king when he goes out and when he comes in."

So the commanders of hundreds did just as Jehoiada the priest had commanded: they brought each his men who were to enter upon the Sabbath, with those who were to go out on the Sabbath, and came to Jehoiada the priest. Then the priest delivered to the commanders of hundreds the spears and shields that had been King David's, which were in the house of the LORD. Accordingly the guards stood each with his weapons in his hand, from the right side of the house to the left side of the house, before the altar and before the temple, by the king round about. Then he brought out the king's son and put the crown and the armlet upon him, and they proclaimed him king and anointed him, and clapped their hands and said,

"Long live the king!"

But when Athaliah heard the noise of the people, she came to the people into the house of the LORD; and when she looked, there was the king standing by the column, as was the custom, and the commanders and the trumpeters beside the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets. Then Athaliah tore her garments and cried,

"Treason! Treason!"

Then Jehoiada the priest gave orders to the commanders of hundreds who were appointed over the army, and said to them,

"Bring her out between the ranks; and whoever follows her slay with the sword!"

For the priest had said,

"Let her not be slain in the house of the LORD."

So they laid hands on her, and as she went through the horses' entrance to the king's house, there she was slain.

Then Jehoiada made a covenant between the LORD and the king and the people, that they should be the LORD'S people; likewise between the king and the people. Then all the people of the land went to the house of the Baal and destroyed it; his altar and his images they completely shattered, and Mattan, the priest of the Baal, they slew before the altars. Then the priest appointed watchmen over the house of the LORD; and he took the commanders of hundreds and the Carites, and the guards and all the people of the land, and they brought down the king from the house of the LORD and entered by way of the gate of the guards to the king's house; and he sat on the throne of the kings. So all the people of the land rejoiced and the city was quiet. Thus they slew Athaliah with the sword in the king's house.

Jehoash of Judah,

11:21—12:21

- 21 Jehoash was seven years old when he became king. In the seventh year of Jehu, Jehoash became king, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Zibiah of Beersheba. Jehoash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD all his days. It was he whom Jehoiada the priest instructed. Nevertheless the high places were not taken away; the people still continued to sacrifice and burn incense on the high places.
- 4 Then Jehoash said to the priests, "All the money of sacred gifts which is brought into the house of the LORD, the money from each man's property assessment, the money from the assessment of persons, and all the money which a man's heart prompts him to bring to the house of the LORD, let the priests take that for themselves, each from his acquaintance. However they shall make the repairs on the house wherever any need of repairs is discovered."
- 6 Nevertheless in the twenty-third year of King Jehoash, the priests had not made the repairs on the house. Therefore King Jehoash summoned Jehoiada the priest and the other priests, and said to them, "Why have you not been keeping up the repairs on the house? Now therefore, take no more money from your acquaintances, but pay it directly for the repairs of the house."
- 8 So the priests agreed that they should neither take more money from the people nor make the repairs on the house.
- 9 Then Jehoiada the priest took a chest, bored a hole in its lid and put it

beside the doorpost at the right side as one entered the house of the LORD; and the priests, who guarded the threshold, used to put in it all the money that was brought into the house of the LORD. As soon as they saw that there was much money in the chest, the king's scribe and the high priest came up, and counted and tied up in bags the money that was found in the house of the LORD. Then they used to give the money that was weighed out into the hands of those who were doing the work, who had the oversight of the house of the LORD; and they paid it out to the carpenters and to the builders, who worked on the house of the LORD, and to the masons and the stone-cutters, and for buying timber and hewn stone for making the repairs on the house of the LORD, and for all that continued to go into the repairs of the house. However, there were not made for the house of the LORD silver cups, snuffers, basins, trumpets, or any vessels of gold or vessels of silver from the money brought into the house of the LORD, but they gave it to those who did the work, and thereby proceeded with the repair of the house of the LORD. Moreover they reckoned not with the men, into whose hand they delivered the money to pay out to those who were doing the work, for they dealt faithfully. The money from the guilt-offering and from the sin-offerings was not brought into the house of the LORD; it belonged to the priests.

Then Hazael, king of Syria, went up and fought against Gath, and took it. But when Hazael set his course to go up to Jerusalem, Jehoash, the king of Judah, took all the consecrated things that Jehoshaphat and Jehoram and Ahaziah, his forbears, the kings of Judah, had dedicated, and his own consecrated gifts and all the gold that was found in the treasuries of the house of the LORD and the house of the king, and sent it to Hazael, king of Syria. Then he went away from Jerusalem.

Now the rest of the records of Joash and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? His servants arose and made a conspiracy and slew Joash in the house of Millo that goes down to Silla; for Jozacar, the son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad, the son of Shomer, his servants, brought about his death; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David; and Amaziah his son became king in his stead.

JEHOAHAZ AND JEHOASH OF ISRAEL, 13:1-13

3 In the twenty-third year of Joash, the son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned 2 seventeen years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, and went after the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin— 3 he did not turn from them. So the anger of the LORD blazed against Israel and he delivered them continually into the hand of Hazael, king of Syria, and into the hand of Ben-hadad, the son of 4 Hazael. When Jehoahaz entreated the favor of the LORD, and the LORD listened to him; for he saw the oppression of Israel, how the king of Syria oppressed them. Therefore the LORD 5 gave Israel a deliverer, so that they escaped from the hand of Syria, and the Israelites dwelt in their habitations as 6 formerly. Nevertheless they did not turn away from the sins of the house of Jeroboam, with which he made Israel sin, but walked therein. Also the sacred 7 pole continued to stand in Samaria. For there was not left to Jehoahaz of the people more than fifty horsemen, ten chariots, and ten thousand footmen, for the king of Syria destroyed them and made them like the dust of the 8 threshing. Now the rest of the records of Jehoahaz and all that he did and his prowess, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of 9 Israel? So Jehoahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria; and Jehoash his son became king in his stead.

10 In the thirty-seventh year of Joash, king of Judah, Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, became king over Israel in 1 Samaria, and reigned sixteen years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD: he did not turn away from all the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin, 2 but he walked therein. Now the rest of the records of Jehoash and all that he did, and his prowess with which he fought against Amaziah king of Judah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So 13 Jehoash slept with his fathers, and Jeroboam sat upon his throne; and Joash was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel.

ELISHA'S DEATH, 13:14-21

Now when Elisha became sick of the 14 illness of which he was to die, Joash, king of Israel, went down to him, and wept over him and said,

"My father, my father! the chariots of Israel and its horsemen!"

"Take bow and arrows," Elisha said 15 to him.

So he took bow and arrows, and he 16 said to the king of Israel,

"Lay your hand upon the bow."

When he had done so, Elisha put his hands upon the king's hands.

"Open the window toward the east," 17 he said.

And when he opened it, Elisha said, "Shoot."

So he shot.

"The LORD'S arrow of victory and the arrow of victory over Syria," he said, "for you are to fight Syria in Aphek to a finish."

"Take the arrows," he said. 18

When he had taken them, he said to the king of Israel,

"Strike on the ground."

He struck three times and stopped.

Then the man of God was enraged at 19 him and said,

"You should have struck five or six times; then you would have fought Syria to a finish. But now you will defeat Syria only three times."

So Elisha died and they buried him. 20 Now bands of Moabites were in the habit of raiding the land at the coming in of the year; and while they were 21 burying a man, suddenly they saw a marauding band. So they cast the man into the grave of Elisha and went on. But when the man touched the bones of Elisha, he revived and arose and stood on his feet.

JEHOASH OF ISRAEL AND AMAZIAH OF JUDAH,

13:22-14:22

Now Hazael, king of Syria, oppressed 22 Israel all the days of Jehoahaz. But the 23

LORD was gracious to them and had compassion on them and turned toward them because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and would not destroy them, nor has he cast them from his presence even until now.

24 But when Hazael, king of Syria, died, Ben-hadad, his son, became king in his stead. Then Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, took again from Ben-hadad, the son of Hazael, the cities which he had taken in the war from Jehoahaz, his father. Three times Jehoash defeated him and recovered the cities of Israel.

14 In the second year of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, became king. He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Jehoaddin of Jerusalem. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, yet not like David his ancestor; he did just as Joash his father had done. However, the high places were not removed; the people still continued to sacrifice and burn incense on the high places.

5 Now when the kingdom was firmly in his grasp, he slew his servants who had murdered the king his father. But the children of the murderers he did not kill according to that which is written in the book of the law of Moses, as the LORD commanded, saying,

"The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers, but everyone shall be put to death for his own sin."

7 He slew of Edom in the Valley of Salt ten thousand men, and took Sela by storm, which has been named Joktheel down to this day.

8 Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, king of Israel, saying,

"Come, let us face each other."

9 But Jehoash, king of Israel, sent to Amaziah, king of Judah, saying,

"The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar which was in Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son as wife.' But a wild beast that was in Lebanon passed by and trampled down the thistle. You have indeed conquered Edom and it has turned your head. Adorn yourself, but remain at home; for why should you court trouble, so that you and Judah with you should fall?"

But Amaziah would not listen. So Jehoash, king of Israel, went up and they faced each other, he and Amaziah, king of Judah, at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah. Judah, however, was defeated by Israel, so that they fled each to his home. Jehoash, king of Israel, captured Amaziah, king of Judah, the son of Jehoash, the son of Ahaziah, at Beth-shemesh; and he came to Jerusalem and tore down the wall of Jerusalem from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate, a distance of four hundred cubits. He also took all the gold and silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of the LORD and in the treasuries of the king's house, and likewise hostages, and returned to Samaria.

Now the rest of the acts of Jehoash that he did and his prowess and how he fought with Amaziah, king of Judah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel; and Jeroboam his son became king in his stead.

Now Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, lived after the death of Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, fifteen years. As for the rest of the records of Amaziah, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? They made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem; and he fled to Lachish, but they sent after him to Lachish and slew him there. Then they brought him upon horses, and he was buried in Jerusalem with his fathers in the city of David. Then all the people of Judah took Azariah, who was sixteen years old, and made him king in the place of Amaziah his father. He built Elath and restored it to Judah after the king slept with his fathers.

JEROBOAM OF ISRAEL,

In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam, the son of Joash, king of Israel, became king in Samaria and reigned forty-one years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from all the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin. He restored the territory of Israel from the entrance of Hamath to the sea of the Arabah, according to the word of the LORD, the God of Israel, which he spoke by his servant Jonah, the son of Amittai, the prophet who was of Gath-hepher. For the LORD saw the very bitter affliction of Israel, that none was shut up nor left at large, and that there was no helper for Israel. But the LORD promised not to blot out the name of Israel from under the heavens; so he saved them by the hand of Jeroboam, the son of Joash.

Now the rest of the records of Jeroboam and all that he did and his prowess, how he fought with Damascus and how he turned away the wrath of the LORD against Israel, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Jeroboam slept with his fathers, even with the kings of Israel, and Zechariah his son became king in his stead.

AZARIAH AND JOTHAM OF JUDAH, 15:1-7

In the twenty-seventh year of Jeroboam, king of Israel, Azariah, the son of Amaziah, king of Judah, became king. He was sixteen years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Jecoliah of Jerusalem. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, just as Amaziah his father had done. Nevertheless, the high places were not taken away; the people still continued to sacrifice and burn incense on the high places. Therefore the LORD afflicted the king, so that he was a leper to the day of his death; and he dwelt in a separate house, while Jotham, the crown prince, was over the household, judging the people of the land. Now the rest of the records of Azariah and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Azariah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David; and Jotham his son became king in his stead.

REVOLT AND COUNTER- REVOLT, 15:8-31

In the thirty-eighth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Zechariah, the son of Jeroboam, became king over Israel in Samaria, and he reigned six months. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, as his fathers had done; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin. Shallum, the son of Jabesh, conspired against him, and attacked him in Ibleam and killed him and became king in his stead.

Now the rest of the records of Zechariah, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

This was the word of the LORD which he spoke to Jehu, saying,

"Thy sons to the fourth generation shall sit upon the throne of Israel."

And so it came about.

Shallum, the son of Jabesh, became king in the thirty-ninth year of Uziah, king of Judah; and he reigned one month in Samaria. Then Menahem, the son of Gadi, went up from Tirzah, and came to Samaria, and defeated Shallum, the son of Jabesh, in Samaria, and slew him and became king in his stead. Now the rest of the records of Shallum and his conspiracy which he made, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

Then Menahem destroyed Tappuah and all who were in it and its territory from Tirzah on; because they did not open it to him, therefore he destroyed it, and all the women in it with child, he disemboweled.

In the thirty-ninth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Menahem, the son of Gadi, became king over Israel, and reigned ten years in Samaria. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin.

In his days Pul, king of Assyria, came against the land. And Menahem gave Pul a thousand talents of silver, that his hand might be with him to establish the kingdom under his rule. So Menahem commanded Israel, even all the men of wealth, to give to the king of Assyria, fifty shekels of silver each. So the king of Assyria withdrew, staying no longer there in the land.

- 21 Now the rest of the records of Menahem and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel? So Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahiah his son became king in his stead.
- 23 In the fiftieth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Pekahiah, the son of Menahem, became king over Israel in Samaria, and reigned two years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin. Pekah, the son of Remaliah, his third officer, conspired against him and slew him in Samaria in the castle of the king's house; and with him were fifty Gileadites; and he slew him and became king in his stead. Now the rest of the records of Pekahiah and all that he did, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.
- 27 In the fifty-second year of Azariah king of Judah, Pekah, the son of Remaliah, became king over Israel in Samaria, and reigned twenty years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD; he did not turn away from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, with which he made Israel sin.
- 29 In the days of Pekah, king of Israel, Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, came and captured Ijon, Abel-beth-maacah, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, and Galilee, all the land of Naphtali, and carried the inhabitants captive to Assyria.
- 30 Then Hoshea, the son of Elah, made a conspiracy against Pekah, the son of Remaliah, and overcame him and slew him and became king in his stead in the twentieth year of Jotham, the son of Uzziah. Now the rest of the records of Pekah and all that he did, behold, they are written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Israel.

JOTHAM OF JUDAH,

15:32-38

- 32 In the second year of Pekah, the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, Jotham, the son of Uzziah, king of Judah, became king. He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Jerusha, the daughter of Zadok. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, just as Uzziah his father had done. Nevertheless the high places were not removed; the people still continued to sacrifice and burn incense on the high places. He built the upper gate of the house of the LORD. Now the rest of the records of Jotham and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

In those days the LORD began to send against Judah Rezin, the king of Syria, and Pekah, the son of Remaliah. So Jotham slept with his fathers and was buried with his fathers in the city of David, his ancestor; and Ahaz his son became king in his stead.

AHAZ OF JUDAH AND THE SYRO-EPHRAIMITISH WAR, 16:1-20

In the seventeenth year of Pekah, the son of Remaliah, Ahaz, the son of Jotham, king of Judah, became king. Ahaz was twenty years old when he became king, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. He did not do that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God, as David his ancestor had done, but walked in the way of the kings of Israel. He also made his son to pass through the fire according to the abominations of the nations, whom the LORD had dispossessed before the Israelites. Moreover he sacrificed and burned incense on the high places and under every spreading tree.

Then Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah, the son of Remaliah, king of Israel, came up to attack Jerusalem; and they besieged Ahaz, but were not able to come to blows with him. At that time the king of Edom recovered Elath for Edom and drove out the Judeans from Elath; and the Edomites came to Elath and have dwelt there to this day.

Now Ahaz had sent messengers to Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, saying, "I am your servant and your son; come up and deliver me from the hand of the king of Syria and from the hand of the king of Israel, who are besieging me."

Ahaz also took the silver and the gold that were found in the house of the LORD and in the treasuries of the king's house, and sent them as a present to the king of Assyria. So the king of Assyria listened to him; and the king of Assyria went up to Damascus and captured it, and carried its inhabitants captive to Kir, and killed Rezin.

Now when King Ahaz went to meet Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, at Damascus, he saw the altar which was in Damascus. Then King Ahaz sent to Urijah the priest a model of the altar and its pattern according to all its workmanship. So Urijah the priest built an altar; according to all the directions that King Ahaz had sent from Damascus, even so did Urijah the priest make it, before King Ahaz came from Damascus. Therefore when the king came from Damascus and saw the altar, the king drew near to the altar and went up on it, and burned his burnt-offering and his cereal-offering, and poured his libation and dashed the blood of his thank-offerings against the altar. But the bronze altar that was before the LORD, he brought from the front of the temple, from between his altar and the house of the LORD, and put it on the north side of his altar. Then King Ahaz commanded Urijah the priest, saying,

"On the great altar burn the morning burnt-offering and the evening cereal-offering and the burnt-offering of the king and his cereal-offering, with the burnt-offerings of all the people of the land, and their cereal-offerings and their libations, and all the blood of the burnt-offering and all the blood of the sacrifice you shall dash against it; but the bronze altar shall be for me to inquire by."

Thus did Urijah the priest, just as King Ahaz commanded.

King Ahaz also cut off the border-frames of the stands and removed the lavers from them; he also took down the sea from the bronze oxen that were under it, and put it upon a stone pedestal. And the foundation of the seat that they had built in the temple, and the outer entrance for the king he caused to turn from the house of the LORD on account of the king of Assyria.

Now the rest of the acts of Ahaz that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Ahaz slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the city of David; and Hezekiah his son became king in his stead.

THE FALL OF SAMARIA,

17:1-41

In the twelfth year of Ahaz, king of Judah, Hoshea, the son of Elah, became king over Israel in Samaria, and reigned nine years. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, yet not as the kings of Israel who were before him. Against him came up Shalmanezar, king of Assyria; and Hoshea became his servant and paid him tribute.

But when the king of Assyria found Hoshea guilty of conspiracy—for he had sent messengers to Sewe, king of Egypt, and did not bring up tribute to the king of Assyria, as he had done year by year—the king of Assyria arrested him and shut him up in prison. Then the king of Assyria came up against the whole land, and went up to Samaria and besieged it three years. In the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyria took Samaria and carried Israel away captive to Assyria and settled them in Halah and on the Habor and the river Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes.

Now this came about because the Israelites had sinned against the LORD their God, who had brought them up from the land of Egypt from the control of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and had feared other gods, and walked in the statutes of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed before the Israelites. The Israelites uttered things that were not right against the LORD their God and built for themselves high places in all their cities, from the watchtower even to the fortified city, and set up for themselves sacred pillars and sacred poles on every high hill and under every spreading tree, and offered sacrifices there on all the high places, as did all the nations whom the LORD had carried away captive before them, and they did evil things, thus provoking the LORD to jealousy. They also served idols in regard to which the LORD had said to them,

"You shall not do this thing."

Yet the LORD warned Israel and Judah by all his prophets and seers, saying,

"Turn from your evil ways and keep my commands and my statutes in accordance with all the law which I commanded your fathers and which I sent to you by my servants, the prophets."

- 14 However, they would not listen, but were wilful, as were their fathers, who did not believe in the LORD their God.
- 15 Moreover they rejected his statutes and his covenant which he made with their fathers, and his decrees which he decreed for them, and followed vanity and became vain in accordance with the nations who were round about them, concerning whom the LORD had commanded them that they should not do
- 16 as they did. They forsook all the commands of the LORD their God and made for themselves molten images, even two calves, and made a sacred pole, and worshiped all the host of the heavens
- 17 and served the Baal. They also made their sons and their daughters pass through the fire, and used divination and sorcery, and sold themselves to do evil in the sight of the LORD, thus provoking him to jealousy. Therefore the LORD was exceedingly angry with Israel and removed them out of his sight; there was nothing left but the tribe of Judah only.
- 19 Also Judah did not keep the commands of the LORD their God, but walked in the statutes of Israel which
- 20 they made, so that the LORD rejected the whole race of Israel and afflicted them and gave them over to plunderers until he had cast them out of his sight.
- 21 When he had torn Israel from the house of David and they had made Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, king, Jeroboam drove Israel from following the LORD and caused them to commit great
- 22 sin. So the Israelites walked in all the sins of Jeroboam which he had committed; they departed not from them,
- 23 until the LORD removed Israel out of his sight, as he spoke by all his servants the prophets. So Israel was carried away out of their own land to Assyria, as it is to this day.
- 24 Moreover the king of Assyria brought people from Babylon, Cuthah, Avva, Hamath, and Sepharvaim and settled them in the cities of Samaria in place of the Israelites. So they took possession of Samaria and dwelt in its cities.
- 25 Now at the beginning of their settling there, they did not fear the LORD.

Therefore the LORD sent lions among them which were constantly killing some of them.

So they told the king of Assyria, saying,

"The nations which you have carried away and settled in the cities of Samaria do not know the custom of the god of the land; therefore he has sent lions among them and behold, they are constantly killing them, because they are not acquainted with the custom of the god of the land."

Then the king of Assyria gave command, saying,

"Send there one of the priests whom I carried away from there; and let him go and dwell there, and let him teach them the custom of the god of the land."

So one of the priests whom they carried away from Samaria came and dwelt in Bethel and taught them how they should fear the LORD. But each of the nations had made gods of their own and had placed them in the temples of the high places which the Samaritans had made, each people in their cities in which they dwelt. The men of Babylon had made Succoth-benoth, and the men of Cuth had made Nergal, and the men of Hamath had made Ashima, and the Avvites had made Nibhaz and Tartak; and the Sepharvites burned their children in the fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim. But when they came to fear the LORD they made for themselves from their own number priests of the high places, who acted for them in the temples of the high places. Thus they came to fear the LORD, but they also continued to serve their own gods, according to the custom of the nations from which they had been carried away. To this day they continue to do according to the earlier custom. They certainly do fear the LORD, but they do not follow his statutes and ordinances, nor the law nor the commands which the LORD commanded the descendants of Jacob whom he named Israel, with whom the LORD made a covenant and commanded them, saying,

"You shall not fear other gods, nor worship them, nor serve them, nor sacrifice to them; but the LORD who brought you up from the land of Egypt with great power and with an outstretched arm, him you shall fear, and him shall you worship and to him shall you sacrifice; and the statutes and the ordinances and the law and the command which he wrote for you, you shall be careful to observe forever, but you shall not fear other gods; and the covenant that I have made with you, you shall not forget, neither shall you fear other gods. But the LORD your God you shall fear; and he will deliver you from the hand of all your enemies."

However, they would not listen, but continued to do according to their earlier custom. So while these peoples came to fear the LORD, they were also serving their carved images; moreover their children and their children's children—as their fathers did, so do they continue to do to this day.

HEZEKIAH OF JUDAH AND SENNACHERIB'S INVASION,

Now in the third year of Hoshea, the son of Elah, king of Israel, Hezekiah, the son of Ahaz, king of Judah, became king. He was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Abi, the daughter of Zechariah. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD just as David his ancestor had done.

He removed the high places and broke down the sacred pillars and cut down the sacred poles. He also broke in pieces the bronze serpent that Moses had made; for as late as those days the Israelites offered sacrifices to it; and they called it Nehushtan. He trusted in the LORD, the God of Israel; so that after him there was none like him among all the kings of Judah, nor among those who were before him. For he was loyal to the LORD, he turned not away from following him, but kept his commands which the LORD had commanded Moses.

Moreover the LORD was with him; in all his ventures he prospered, and he rebelled against the king of Assyria, and no longer served him. He conquered the Philistines as far as Gaza and its territory from the watchtower to the fortified city.

Now in the fourth year of King Hezekiah—that is, the seventh year of Hoshea, the son of Elah—Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, came up against Samaria and besieged it. They took it at the end of three years, in the sixth year of Hezekiah—that is, in the ninth year of Hoshea, king of Israel, was Samaria taken. Then the king of Assyria carried Israel away to Assyria and settled them in Halah and on the Habor and the river Gozan, and in the cities of the Medes, because they did not listen to the voice of the LORD their God, but transgressed his covenant, even all that Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded, and would neither listen nor keep it.

Now in the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib, king of Assyria, came up against all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them. Then Hezekiah, king of Judah, sent to the king of Assyria to Lachish, saying,

"I have offended; withdraw from me; whatever you lay on me I will bear."

So the king of Assyria made Hezekiah, king of Judah, pay three hundred talents of silver and thirty talents of gold. So Hezekiah gave him all the silver that was found in the house of the LORD, and in the treasuries of the king's house. At that time Hezekiah stripped the doors of the temple of the LORD and the columns, which Hezekiah, king of Judah, had overlaid, and gave the gold to the king of Assyria.

Then the king of Assyria sent the commander-in-chief, and the chief of the eunuchs and the field marshal from Lachish with a large army against King Hezekiah at Jerusalem. So they went up, and when they came to Jerusalem, they came and took up their position by the conduit of the upper pool, which is on the highway to the laundrymen's field.

Now when they called for the king, Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, who was the steward of the palace, and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah, the son of Asaph, the recorder, went out to them. Then the field marshal said to them,

"Say now to Hezekiah, 'Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: "What confidence is this in which you trust? Do you think that a mere word of the lips is counsel and strength for war? Now in whom do you trust that you have rebelled against me? You have put your trust evidently in the staff of this broken reed, Egypt, on which if a man lean, it will run into his hand and pierce it. So is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all who trust in him. But if you say to me, 'We trust in the LORD our God,' is not he the one whose high places and altars Hezekiah has taken away, saying to Judah and Jerusalem, 'You shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?' And now, pray make a wager with my master, the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able on your part to set riders upon them. How then can you repulse the attack of one of the least of my master's servants? Yet you trust in Egypt for chariots and horsemen. Now have I come up against this place to destroy it without the LORD'S approval? The LORD himself said to me, 'Go up against this land and destroy it.' "

26 Then Elkanah, the son of Hilkiah, and Shebna and Joah said to the field marshal,

"Speak now to your servants in Aramaic, for we understand it; but do not speak to us in Judean in the hearing of the people who are on the wall."

27 But the field marshal said to them,

"Was it to your master and you that my master sent me to speak these words? Was it not rather to the men who are sitting on the wall, doomed with you to eat their own excrement and drink their own urine?"

28 Then the field marshal stood up and cried with a loud voice in Judean and spoke, saying,

"Hear the word of the great king, the king of Assyria! Thus says the king: 'Do not let Hezekiah deceive you; for he will not be able to deliver you from his hand. Neither let Hezekiah cause you to trust in the LORD by saying, 'The LORD will surely deliver us; this city shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.' Do not listen to Hezekiah; for thus says the king of Assyria: 'Make peace with me and surrender to me; and eat each of you from his own vine and his own fig tree and drink the water of his own cistern, until I come and take you away to a land like your own, a land of grain and wine, a land of bread and vineyards, a land of olive trees and honey, that you may live and not die.' But do not listen to Hezekiah, when he would lure you on by saying, 'The LORD will deliver us.' Has any of the gods of the nations delivered his land from the hand of the king of Assyria? Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim, Hena, and Ivvah? Where are the gods of Samaria? Did they deliver Samaria from my hand? Who were there among all the gods of the lands that delivered their land from my hand, that the LORD should deliver Jerusalem from my hand?" "

Then the people were silent and answered him not a word; for the king's command was, "Do not answer him."

Then Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, who was steward of the palace, and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah, the son of Asaph, the recorder, came to Hezekiah with their garments torn, and told him the words of the field marshal.

As soon as King Hezekiah heard it, he tore his garments, covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. He also sent Eliakim who was steward of the palace and Shebna, the scribe, and the oldest of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to the prophet Isaiah, the son of Amoz. They said to him,

"Thus says Hezekiah: 'This is a day of distress, rebuke, and disgrace; for children have come to the birth, and there is no strength to bear them. It may be that the LORD your God will hear all the words of the field marshal, whom his master, the king of Assyria, has sent to insult the living God, and will rebuke the words which the LORD your God has heard. Therefore lift up a prayer for the remnant that is left.' "

But when the servants of King Hezekiah came to Isaiah, Isaiah said to them,

"Thus shall you say to your master: 'Thus says the LORD: "Do not be afraid of the words that you have heard, with which the menials of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me. Behold, I will put a spirit in him, so that when he hears a certain rumor he shall return to his own land, and I will cause him to fall by the sword in his own land.' "

Then the field marshal returned, and found the king of Assyria warring against Libnah; for he had heard that he had left Lachish. But when he heard concerning Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, "Behold, he has come out to fight against you," he sent messengers again to Hezekiah, saying,

0 "Thus shall you say to Hezekiah, king of Judah: 'Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you, saying, "Jerusalem shall not be given into the hand of the king of Assyria.'" You have surely heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands in completely destroying them, and will you be delivered? Did the gods of the nations which my fathers destroyed deliver them—Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the Edenites who were in Telassar? Where is the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and of Ivvah?" "

1 So Hezekiah received the letter from the hand of the messengers and read it. Then Hezekiah went up to the house of the LORD and spread it out before the LORD; and Hezekiah prayed before the LORD and said,

"O LORD, the God of Israel, who art seated upon the cherubim, thou art God, even thou alone, over all the kingdoms of the earth; thou hast made the heavens and the earth. Incline thine ear, O LORD, and hear; open thine eyes, O LORD, and see, and hear all the words of Sennacherib, which he has sent to insult the living God. Of a truth, O LORD, the kings of Assyria have laid waste the nations and their land, and have cast their gods into the fire, for they were no gods, but the work of men's hands, wood and stone; and so they have destroyed them. But now, O LORD our God, deliver us from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that thou, O LORD, art God alone."

Then Isaiah, the son of Amoz, sent to Hezekiah, saying,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'What you have prayed to me concerning Sennacherib, king of Assyria, I have heard.' This is the word that the LORD has spoken against him: 'She despises you, laughs at you—the virgin daughter of Zion! Behind you she wags the head—the daughter of Jerusalem!

2 Whom have you insulted and blasphemed?

Against whom have you raised your voice,

And lifted up your eyes on high? against the Holy one of Israel!

By the hand of your messengers 23 you have insulted the Lord and have said,

"With the multitude of my chariots I ascended the mountain heights, the recesses of Lebanon;

And I felled its tallest cedars, its choicest cypresses;

And I entered its remotest retreat, its densest thicket.

I dug down, 24 and drank foreign waters;

And with the soles of my feet I dried up all the streams of Egypt."

Have you not heard 25 how I prepared it long ago,

How I planned it in days of old, and now have brought it to pass—

That you should turn fortified cities into ruin heaps,

While their inhabitants, shorn of their 26 strength, are dismayed and confounded, Are become like grass of the field,

like tender green grass, Like grass on the housetops, blasted before it is grown up.

I know your rising and sitting, 27 your going and coming,

and your raging against me.

Because you have raged against me and your arrogance has come 28 up to my ears,

Therefore I will put my hook in your nose and my bridle in your lips,

And I will cause you to return by the way

by which you came."

"And this shall be a sign for you: 29 You shall eat this year that which grows of itself, and in the second year that which springs from the same; but in the third year sow and reap, plant vineyards and eat their fruit. The remnant 30 that survives of the house of Judah shall again take root downward and bear fruit upward; for out of Jerusalem 31 shall go forth a remnant and from Mount Zion an escaped band. The zeal of the LORD shall accomplish this.'

"Therefore thus says the LORD con- 32 cerning the king of Assyria: 'He shall not enter this city, or shoot an arrow there; neither shall he come before it with shield, or cast up a mound against it. By the way that he came, by the 33 same shall he return; but he shall not enter this city,' is the LORD's oracle.

34 'For I will defend and save this city for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David.' "

35 Now that night the angel of the LORD went forth and slew in the camp of the Assyrians one hundred and eighty-five thousand; and when men rose early next morning, they were all dead bodies.

36 Then Sennacherib, king of Assyria, set out and went and returned, and 37 dwelt at Nineveh. But as he was worshipping in the temple of Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sarezer slew him with the sword, and they escaped into the land of Ararat; and Esarhaddon his son became king in his stead.

HEZEKIAH'S SICKNESS AND ISAIAH'S PREDICTION,

20:1-11

20 In those days Hezekiah became dangerously ill; and Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, came to him and said,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Set your house in order for you shall die and not live.' "

2 Then he turned his face to the wall, and prayed to the LORD, saying,

3 "Remember now, O LORD, I pray thee, how I have walked before thee in truth and sincerity of heart, and have done that which was good in thy sight."

4 Hezekiah also wept profusely. Now before Isaiah had gone out of the middle courtyard, the word of the LORD came to him saying,

5 "Return and say to Hezekiah, the prince of my people, 'Thus says the LORD, the God of David your father: "I have heard your prayer, I have seen your tears; see, I will heal you; on the third day you shall go up to the house
6 of the LORD. I will also add fifteen more years to your life, and I will deliver you and this city from the hand of the king of Assyria, and I will defend this city for my own sake and for the sake of my servant David.' "

7 Isaiah also said,

"Let them take a cake of figs, and place it upon the boil that he may recover."

8 Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah,

"What will be the sign that the LORD will heal me, and that I shall go up to the house of the LORD the third day?"

So Isaiah said,

"This will be the sign to you from the LORD, that the LORD will do the thing that he has promised: shall the shadow go forward ten steps, or back ten steps?"

Hezekiah said,

"It is easy for the shadow to go forward ten steps; rather let the shadow turn back ten steps."

So Isaiah the prophet cried to the LORD; and he brought back the shadow the ten steps which it had gone down on the sundial of Ahaz.

THE BABYLONIAN MISSION AND ISAIAH'S DISAPPROVAL,

20:12-21

At that time Merodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent ambassadors with a present to Hezekiah; for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick. Hezekiah was pleased with them, and showed them all his treasure-house, the silver, the gold, the spices, the fine oil, and his armory—all that was found among his treasures; there was nothing in his house or in all his kingdom that Hezekiah did not show them.

Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah and said to him,

"What did these men say, and from where have they come to you?"

"They have come from a distant land, from Babylon," said Hezekiah.

"What did they see in your house?" he said.

"They have seen all that is in my house," said Hezekiah; "there was nothing among my treasures that I did not show them."

Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah,

"Hear the word of the LORD, 'Behold, days are coming when all that is in your house and that which your fathers have stored up to this day shall be carried away to Babylon; nothing shall be left,' says the LORD. 'Also some of your sons who shall be your issue, whom you shall beget, they shall take, and they shall become eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.' "

Then Hezekiah said to Isaiah,

"Good is the word of the LORD which you have spoken."

For he thought,

"Shall it not be so, if there be peace and security in my time?"

Now the rest of the records of Hezekiah and all of his prowess and how he made the pool and the conduit and brought water into the city, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and Manasseh his son became king in his stead.

REACTION UNDER MANASSEH AND AMON, 21:1-26

Manasseh was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Hephzibah. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, according to the abominations of the nations which the LORD dispossessed before the Israelites. For he built again the high places which Hezekiah his father had destroyed, and he erected altars for the Baal, and made a sacred pole as Ahab, king of Israel, had done, and worshiped all the host of the heavens and served them. He also built altars in the house of the LORD of which the LORD had said,

"In Jerusalem will I put my name."

Moreover he built altars for all the host of the heavens in the two courts of the house of the LORD. Likewise he caused his son to pass through the fire and practiced augury and witchcraft and he used to appoint necromancers and wizards. He did much evil in the sight of the LORD, thus provoking him to jealousy.

He also set up the carved image of an Asherah that he had made, in the temple of which the LORD had said to David and to Solomon his son,

"In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I will put my name forever, and I will not cause the feet of Israel to wander any more out of the land which I gave to their fathers, if only they will be careful to do just as I have commanded them, and according to all the law that my servant Moses commanded them."

But they did not listen, and Manasseh seduced them to do evil more than did the nations which the LORD destroyed before the Israelites. Then the LORD spoke by his servants the prophets, saying,

"Because Manasseh, king of Judah, 11 has done these abominations and has done more wickedly than all that the Amorites did who were before him, and has made Judah also sin with his idols, therefore, thus says the LORD, the God 12 of Israel: 'Behold I am about to bring such evil on Jerusalem and Judah, that both ears of him who hears of it shall tingle. I will also stretch over Jerusalem 13 the measuring line of Samaria, and the plummet of the house of Ahab; and I will wipe Jerusalem as one wipes a dish, wiping and turning it upside down. 14 Moreover I will cast off the remnant of 14 my inheritance and deliver them into the hand of their enemies, that they may become a prey and a spoil to all their enemies, because they have done 15 that which was evil in my sight and have aroused me to anger, since the day their fathers came forth from Egypt, even to this day.' "

Furthermore Manasseh shed very 16 much innocent blood until he had filled Jerusalem from one end to the other, besides his sin with which he caused Judah to sin, in doing that which was evil in the sight of the LORD.

Now the rest of the records of Manasseh and all that he did, and his sin which he committed, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Manasseh 16 slept with his fathers and was buried in the garden of his house, in the garden of Uzzah; and Amon his son became king in his stead.

Amon was twenty-two years old 19 when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jobah. He did that which 20 was evil in the sight of the LORD, as Manasseh his father had done. He 21 walked in all the way wherein his father had walked, and served the idols which his father served, and worshiped them. He forsook the LORD, the God of his 22 fathers, and walked not in the way of the LORD.

At length the servants of Amon conspired against him and slew the king in his house. But the people of the land 24 slew all the conspirators against King Amon; and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead. Now the rest of the acts of Amon which he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So they buried him in the grave of his father in the garden of Uzzah; and Josiah his son became king in his stead.

JOSIAH'S REFORM, 22:1—23:30

Josiah was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah of Bozkath. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD and walked in all the way of David his ancestor, turning neither to the right nor the left.

Now in the eighteenth year of King Josiah, the king sent Shaphan, the son of Azaliah, the son of Meshullam the scribe, to the house of the LORD, saying,

"Go up to Hilkiah the high priest, that he may take the sum of the money which has been brought into the house of the LORD, which the keepers of the threshold have collected from the people. Let them deliver it into the hands of the workmen who have the oversight of the house of the LORD, that they may give it to the workmen who are in the house of the LORD, to make the repairs on the temple—to the carpenters and the builders and the masons, also for buying timber and hewn stone to repair the temple."

However, there was no reckoning made with them regarding the money delivered to them, for they dealt faithfully.

At that time Hilkiah the high priest said to Shaphan the scribe,

"I have found a book of law in the house of the LORD."

So Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, and he read it. Then Shaphan the scribe went to the king and reported to the king, saying,

"Your servants have emptied out the money found in the temple and have delivered it into the charge of the workmen who have charge of the house of the LORD."

Shaphan the scribe also told the king, saying,

"Hilkiah the priest gave me a book." Then Shaphan read it before the king.

Now when the king heard the words of the book of law, he tore his garments. Then the king commanded Hilkiah the priest, and Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and Achbor, the son of Michaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah, the king's servant, saying,

"Go, inquire of the LORD for me and for the people and for all Judah, concerning the words of this book that has been found; for great is the wrath of the LORD that is kindled against us, because our fathers have not listened to the words of this book, to conform to all that is written in it concerning us."

So Hilkiah the priest and Ahikam and Achbor and Shaphan and Asaiah went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum, the son of Tikvah, the son of Harhas, keeper of the wardrobe, who dwelt in Jerusalem in the second quarter, and they spoke to her. So she said to them,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Say to the man who sent you to me, "Thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I am about to bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants, namely, all the words of the book which the king of Judah has read. Because they have forsaken me and have sacrificed to other gods, thus provoking me to jealousy with all the work of their hands, therefore my wrath shall be kindled against this place and it shall not be quenched.' " ' But to the king of Judah who sent you to inquire of the LORD, thus shall you say to him: 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: "Regarding the words which you have heard—because your heart was penitent and you humbled yourself before the LORD, when you heard what I spoke against this place and against its inhabitants, that they should become a desolation and a curse, and tore your garments and wept before me, I also have heard you," is the oracle of the LORD. "Therefore behold, I will gather you to your fathers and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace; neither shall your eyes see all the evil which I am about to bring upon this place.' " "

So they brought back word to the king.

Then the king sent, and they gathered to him all the elders of Judah 2 and Jerusalem. Thereupon the king went up to the house of the LORD together with all the men of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests and the prophets, and all the people, both small and great; and he read in their hearing all the words of the book of the covenant which was found in the house of the LORD. Then the king stood by the column and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD and to keep his commands, his decrees, and his statutes with all his mind and heart, to establish the words of this covenant that were written in this book. And all the people confirmed the covenant.

Then the king commanded Hilkiah, the high priest, and the second priest and the keepers of the threshold to bring out of the temple of the LORD all the vessels that were made for the Baal and the Asherah and for all the host of the heavens; and he burned them outside Jerusalem in the limekilns by the Kidron, and carried their ashes to Bethel. He also did away with the idolatrous priests, whom the kings of Judah had ordained to offer sacrifices in the high places in the cities of Judah and in the sanctuaries around Jerusalem; and those who offered sacrifices to the Baal, to the sun, the moon, and the constellations, and all the host of the heavens. Moreover he brought the Asherah from the house of the LORD outside Jerusalem to the Brook Kidron and burned it at the Brook Kidron, and ground it to powder, and cast the powder of it upon the graves of the common people. Furthermore he tore down the houses of the devotees of the fertility cult which were in the house of the LORD, where the women wove tunics for the Asherah. Then he brought all the priests from the cities of Judah and defiled the high places, where the priests offered sacrifices, from Geba to Beersheba. He also tore down the high places of the Satyrs, which stood at the entrance of the gate of Joshua, the governor of the city, which were on the left as one enters the city gate. However, the priests of the high places did not come up to the altar of the LORD in Jerusalem, but ate unleavened cakes among their kinsmen. He also defiled Topheth, which is in the valley of Ben-Hinnom, that no man might make his son or his daughter pass through the fire to Molech. He took away the horses which the kings of Judah had given to the sun, at the entrance of the house of the LORD, by the chamber of Nathan-melech, the eunuch, which was among the summer houses, and he burned the chariots of the sun. The altars which were on the roof, the upper chamber of Ahaz which the kings of Judah had made, and the altars which Manasseh had made in the two courts of the house of the LORD, the king demolished and beat them down there, and cast the dust into the Brook Kidron. Moreover the high places were east of Jerusalem, to the south of the hill of destruction, which Solomon, the king of Israel, had built for Ashtart, the abomination of the Sidonians, and for Chemosh, the abomination of Moab, and for Milcom, the abomination of the Ammonites, the king defiled. He shattered the sacred pillars, and cut down the sacred poles, and filled their places with the bones of men.

Likewise the altar that was at Bethel, and the high place which Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had made, who caused Israel to sin, even that altar and the high place he demolished and shattered its stones, grinding them to powder, and burned the sacred pole.

Now when Josiah turned and saw the graves that were there on the mount, he sent and took the bones out of the graves and burned them on the altar and defiled it according to the word of the LORD which the man of God proclaimed, who proclaimed these things.

"What is yonder tombstone that I see?" he said.

Then the men of the city said to him,

"It is the grave of the man of God, who came from Judah and proclaimed that which you have done against the altar of Bethel."

"Let him be," he said; "let no one move his bones."

So his bones rescued the bones of the prophet who came from Samaria.

Also all the temples of the high places that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made, thus provoking the LORD to jealousy, Josiah took away and did to them just as he had done to Bethel. Moreover all the priests of the high places, who were there, he slew upon the altars and burned men's bones upon them. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

21 Thereupon the king commanded all the people, saying,

"Keep the passover to the LORD your God, as it is written in this book of the covenant."

22 For such a passover as this had not been kept from the days of the judges who judged Israel, and during all the days of the kings of Israel and the kings

23 of Judah; but in the eighteenth year of King Josiah this passover was kept to

24 the LORD in Jerusalem. Moreover the necromancers and the wizards and the teraphim, the idols and all the abominations that were seen in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem Josiah put away, that he might establish the words of the law which were written in the book which Hilkiah the priest found in

25 the house of the LORD. There was no king like him before him, who turned to the LORD with all his mind and all his heart and with all his strength in accordance with all the law of Moses; neither did there arise after him any

26 like him. However the LORD did not turn from the fierceness of his great anger, since his anger was kindled against Judah because of all the provocations with which Manasseh had provoked him. So the LORD said,

"Judah also I will remove from my sight, as I removed Israel, and I will cast off this city which I have chosen, even Jerusalem, and the temple of which I said, 'My name shall be there.'"

28 Now the rest of the records of Josiah and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah?

29 In his days Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt, went up unto the king of Assyria to the River Euphrates; and King Josiah went to meet him; and Pharaoh-necho slew him at Megiddo, as soon as

30 he saw him. Then his servants transported his dead body in a chariot from Megiddo and brought him to Jerusalem, and buried him in his own grave. Thereupon the people of the land took Jehoahaz, the son of Josiah, and anointed him and made him king in place of his father.

THE LAST DAYS OF JUDAH,

Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old 31 when he became king and he reigned three months in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. He 32 did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as his fathers had done. Then Pharaoh-necho imprisoned him 33 in Riblah in the land of Hamath, that he might not reign in Jerusalem, and he put the land under an indemnity of a hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. Pharaoh-necho then made Elikim, the son of Josiah, king in place of Josiah his father, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But he took Jehoahaz 34 and brought him to Egypt, where he died. So Jehoiakim gave the silver and the gold to Pharaoh, but he had to lay a forced levy on the land in order to give the money according to the demand of Pharaoh. From each according to his ability he exacted the silver and the gold of the people of the land to give it to Pharaoh-necho.

Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old 35 when he became king and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Zebidah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah. He did that 36 which was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as his fathers had done.

In his days Nebuchadnezzar, king of 37 Babylon, came up, and Jehoiakim became subject to him for three years; then he turned and rebelled against him. The LORD sent against him 38 raiding bands of Chaldeans, Syrians, Moabites, and Ammonites; thus he sent them against Judah to destroy it, according to the word of the LORD, which he had spoken by his servants the prophets. Surely in the command of the LORD this came upon Judah to remove it out of his sight, because of the sins of Manasseh, in accordance with 39 all that he had done, and also because of the innocent blood which he had shed, for he filled Jerusalem with innocent blood; therefore the LORD would not pardon. Now the rest of the records of Jehoiakim and all that he did, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Judah? So Jehoiakim slept with his fathers, and Jehoiachin his son became king in his 40 41 42 43 44 45 46

7 stead. The king of Egypt came up no more out of his land; for the king of Babylon had taken all that had belonged to the king of Egypt from the Brook of Egypt to the River Euphrates.

8 Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king and he reigned three months in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as his fathers had done.

9 At that time the servants of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came up against Jerusalem, and the city was besieged. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, also came to the city while his servants were besieging it; and Jehoiachin, king of Judah, went out to the king of Babylon, he and his mother, his servants, and his nobles and his eunuchs. The king of Babylon took him captive in the eighth year of his reign.

10 He also took forth from there all the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house and he broke up all the vessels of gold which Solomon, king of Israel, had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORD had said. Moreover he carried away captive all of Jerusalem and all the nobles and all the renowned warriors, even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and the smiths: none were left, except the poorest people of the land. Thus he carried away Jehoiachin to Babylon; and the king's mother and the king's wives, and his eunuchs, and the chief men of the land, he caused to go into captivity from Jerusalem to Babylon. Also all the men of ability, even seven thousand, and the craftsmen and the smiths a thousand, all the strong men fit for war, them the king of Babylon took captive to Babylon. Then the king of Babylon made Mattaniah, Jehoiachin's uncle, king in his stead, and changed his name to Zedekiah.

11 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as Jehoiachin had done. 12 For, in accordance with the anger of the LORD, it continued against Jerusalem and Judah until he had cast them out of his presence. Then Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. Thereupon in the ninth year of his reign, on the tenth day of the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon came, he and all his army, against Jerusalem, encamped against it, and built a siege wall around it; and the city remained under siege until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah. On the ninth day of the fourth month, when the famine was so severe in the city that there was no bread for the common people, the city was breached, and the king and all the soldiers fled by night by way of the gate between the two walls, which was by the king's garden, while the Chaldeans were beleaguering the city, and went in the direction of the Arabah. But the army of the Chaldeans pursued the king and overtook him in the steppes of Jericho, all his army having scattered from him. Then they took the king and brought him up to the king of Babylon at Riblah; and they pronounced judgment against him. They also slew the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes and put out his eyes and bound him in fetters and carried him to Babylon.

13 In the fifth month, on the seventh day of the month—this was in the nineteenth year of King Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon—Nebuzaradan, the commander of the guard, a servant of the king of Babylon, came to Jerusalem and burned the house of the LORD and the king's house; and all the houses of Jerusalem, even every great house he burned. All the army of the Chaldeans, who were with the commander of the guard, broke down the walls of Jerusalem round about. Also the rest of the people who were left in the city and the deserters who had deserted to the king of Babylon and the rest of the rabble, Nebuzaradan, the commander of the guard, carried away captive. But the commander of the guard left some of the poorest of the land as vinedressers and plowmen. Moreover, the bronze pillars of the house of the LORD, the stands, and the bronze sea that were in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke up and carried the bronze from them to Babylon. Also the pots, the shovels, the snuffers, the bowls, and all the vessels of bronze with which the service was conducted, they took away. Likewise 15 the firepans and the basins, what was of gold, the commander of the guard took away as gold, and what was of silver as silver—besides the two columns, the one sea, and the stands which Solomon had made for the house of the LORD, the bronze of all these vessels being beyond weight. The height of each column was eighteen cubits, and a bronze capital surmounted it; and the height of the capital was three cubits, with network and pomegranates round about the capital, all of bronze; and the second column had the same, with network.

18 Then the commander of the guard took Seraiah, the chief priest, and Zephaniah, the second priest, with the three keepers of the threshold. And from the city he took a eunuch who had charge of the soldiers, and five of the personal companions of the king who were found in the city, the scribe of the commander of the army who mustered the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land who were found in the city. Having taken them, Nebuzaradan, the commander of the guard, brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah. Then the king of Babylon struck them down and put them to death at Riblah in the land of Hamath. Thus was Judah carried captive from its land.

22 Now over the people who were left in the land of Judah whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had left, he appointed Gedaliah, the son of Ahikam, the son of Shaphan. When all the commanders of the forces together with their men heard that the king of Babylon had appointed Gedaliah, they came to Gedaliah, to Mizpeh, namely, Ishmael, the son of Nethaniah, Johanan, the son of Kareah, Seraiah, the son of Tanhumeth the Netophathite, and Jazaniah, the son of the Maacathite, together with their men. Thereupon Gedaliah swore to them and to their men, and said to them,

“Fear not because of the servants of the Chaldeans; settle in the land and serve the king of Babylon, and it will be well with you.”

But in the seventh month, Ishmael, the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the royal family, came with ten men, and struck down Gedaliah so that he died, and the Jews and the Chaldeans who were with him at Mizpeh. Then all the people, both small and great, and the commanders of the forces arose and came to Egypt; for they were afraid of the Chaldeans.

In the thirty-seventh year of the captivity of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, in the twelfth month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, Evil-merodach, in the year that he became king, summoned Jehoiachin, king of Judah, from prison. He spoke kindly to him, and set his throne above the throne of the kings who were with him in Babylon. So he changed his prison garb, and Jehoiachin dined in his presence regularly all the days of his life; and for his provision, a regular allowance was given him from the king, a portion for each day, all the days of his life.

25 the father of Sidon, his first-born, then 26 Heth, the Jebusite, the Amorite, and 27 the Gergashite, the Hivvite, the Arkite,
28 and the Sinite, the Arvadite, Zemarite,
29 and the Hamathite.
30 The descendants of Shem were Elam,
31 Assyria, Arphachshad, Lud, Aram, Uz,
32 Hul, Gether, and Meshech. Arphach-33 shad was the father of Shelah, and She-34 lah was the father of Eber. And to Eber 35 were born two sons; the name of the 36 one was Peleg, because in his days the 37 earth was divided, and the name of his 38 brother was Joktan. Joktan was the 39 father of Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarma-40 veth, and Jerah, Hadoram, Uzal, and 41 Diklah, Ebal, Abimael and Sheba, 42 Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these 43 were the descendants of Joktan.
44 Shem, Arphachshad, Shelah, Eber,
45 Peleg, Reu, Serug, Nahor, Terah,
46 Abram, that is Abraham.
47 The descendants of Abraham were 48 Isaac and Ishmael. These are their 49 generations: Ishmael's first-born was

Nebaioth, then Kedar, Adbeel, Mib-sam, Mishma, Dumah, Massa, Hadad, 30 and Tema, Jetur, Naphish and Kede- 31
mah. These are the descendants of Ishmael. The descendants of Keturah, 32
the concubine of Abraham: she bore Zimran, Jokshan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah. The sons of Jokshan were Sheba and Dedan; the sons of Midian were 33 of Keturah.

Abraham was the father of Isaac, and 34
Isaac's sons were Esau and Israel. The 35 sons of Esau were Eliphaz, Reuel, Je-

Shammah, and Mizzah.

The sons of Seir were Lotan, Shobal, 38

Manahath, Ebal, Shephi, and Onam; and the sons of Zibeon were Aiiah and Anah. The descendants of Anah were 41
Dishon, and Dishon's sons were Ham-ran, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran. The 42 sons of Ezer were Belhan, Zaavan, and Jaakan. The sons of Dishon were Uz and Aran.

THE KINGS OF EDOM,

1:43-54

Now these are the kings that reigned 43
in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the Israelites. Bela was the son of Beor, the name of whose city was Dinhabah. When Bela died, Jo- 44 bab, the son of Zerah of Bozrah, became king in his stead. When Jobab 45 died, Husham of the land of the Te-manites became king in his stead.
When Husham died, Hadad, the son of 46 Bedad, who conquered Midian in the country of Moab, became king in his stead, and the name of his city was

- 47 Avith. When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah became king in his stead.
 48 When Samlah died, Shaul of Rehoboth on the River became king in his stead.
 49 When Shaul died, Baalhanan, the son of Achbor, became king in his stead.
 50 When Baalhanan died, Hadad became king in his stead; the name of his city was Pai, and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred.
 51 the daughter of Mezahab. Then Hadad died.

Now the chiefs of Edom were chief 52 Timna, chief Aliah, chief Jetheth, chief Aholibamah, chief Elah, chief Pinon, 53 chief Kenaz, chief Teman, chief Mibzar, chief Magdiel, chief Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom.

THE GENEALOGY OF ISRAEL, 2:1-55

- 2 These are the sons of Israel: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun, Dan, Joseph, Benjamin,
 3 Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. The sons of Judah were Er, Onan, and Shelah, which three were born to him from Bathshua the Canaanitess. Now Er, Judah's first-born, was wicked in the 4 sight of the LORD, so he slew him. His daughter-in-law Tamar also bore him Perez and Zerah—Judah had five sons
 5 in all. The sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul; and the sons of Zerah were Zimri, Ethan, Heman, Chalcol, Darda, 7 a total of five. Karmi's son was Achan, the troubler of Israel who dealt treacherously in the matter of the devoted 8 thing; and Ethan's son was Azariah.
 9 The sons of Hezron, that were born to him were Jerahmeel, Ram, Chelubai.
 10 Ram was the father of Amminadab, and Amminadab was the father of Nahshon, a chieftain of the Judeans. Nahshon was the father of Salma, and Salma of Boaz, Boaz of Obed, Obed of 12 Jesse; Jesse was the father of Eliab, his first-born, Abinadab his second, and 14 Shimei his third, Nathanel the fourth, Raddai the fifth, Ozem the sixth, David the seventh; and their sisters were Zeruiah and Abigail. And the sons of Zeruiah were Abishai, Joab, and Asahel, 17 three; and Abigail bore Amasa, and the father of Amasa was Jether the Ishmaelite.
 18 Now Caleb, the son of Hezron, had children by his wife Azubah, the daughter of Jerioth; and these were her sons, Jeshur, Shobab, and Ardon. When Azubah died, Caleb married Ephrath, who bore him Hur. Hur was the father of Uri, and Uri was the father of Bezalel. Afterward Hezron sought offspring from the daughter of Machir the father of Gilead, whom he married when he was sixty years old; and she bore him Segub; and Segub was the father of Jair, who had twenty-three cities in the land of Gilead. Moreover Geshur and Aram took the towns of Jair from them, and Kenath, with its sixty villages. All these were descendants of Machir, the father of Gilead. Now after the death of Hezron, Caleb sought offspring from Ephratha, the wife of Hezron his father, and she bore him Ashbur, the father of Tekoa.

The sons of Jerahmeel, the first-born of Hezron, were Ram, his first-born, then Bunah, Oren, Ozem, and Ahijah. Jerahmeel also had another wife whose name was Atarah; she was the mother of Onam. The sons of Ram, the first-born of Jerahmeel, were Maaz, Jamin and Eker. Likewise the sons of Onam were Shammai, and Jada; and the sons of Shammai were Nadab and Abishur. The name of Abishur's wife was Abihail, and she bore him Ahban and Molid. Nadab's sons were Seled and Appaim; and Seled died childless. But the son of Appaim was Ishi, the son of Ishi, Sheshan, and the son of Sheshan, Ahlai. The sons also of Jeda, Shammai's brother, were Jether and Jonathan; and Jether died childless, but the sons of Jonathan were Peleth and Zaza. These were the descendants of Jerahmeel. Now Sheshan had sons, only daughters; but Sheshan had an Egyptian slave, whose name was Jarha. Accordingly Sheshan gave his daughter to Jarha his slave in marriage; and she bore him Attai. Attai was the father of Nathan, and Nathan of Zabab. Zabab was the father of Ephlal, and Ephlal of Obed. Obed was the father of Jehu, and Jehu of Azariah. Azariah was the father of Halez, and Halez of Eleasah. Eleasah was the father of Sismai, and Sismai of Shallum. Shallum was the father of Jekamiah, and Jekamiah of Elishama.

The sons of Caleb, the brother of Jerahmeel, were Mareshah his first-born, who was the father of Ziph, and the father of Hebron. The sons of Hebron were Korah, Tappuah, Rekem, and Shema; and Shema was the father of Raham, the father of Jorkeam; and Rekem was the father of Shammai. The son of Shammai was Maon, and Maon was the father of Bethzur. Ephah also, Caleb's concubine, bore Haran, Moza, and Gazez; and Haran was the father of Gazez. The sons of Jahdai were Regem, Jotham, Geshan, Pelet, Ephah, and Shaaph. Maacah, Caleb's concubine, bore Sheber and Tirhanah. She also bore Shaaph, the father of Madmannah, Sheva, the father of Machbenah and the father of Gibeaa; and the daughter of Caleb was Achsah. These were the children of Caleb.

The sons of Hur, the first-born of Ephrathah, were Shobal, the father of Kirjath-jearim, Salma, the father of Bethlehem, and Hareph, the father of Bethgader; Shobal, the father of Kirjath-jearim, had other sons, namely, Haroeh and half of the Menuhites, and of the families of Kirjath-jearim, the Ithrites, the Puthites, the Shumathites, and the Mishraitcs; from these came the Zorathites and the Eshtaolites. The sons of Salma were Bethlehem, and the Netophathites, Atroth-bethjoab, and half of the Manahathites, the Zorites. The families also of the scribes that dwelt at Jabez were the Tirathites, the Shimeathites, and the Sucathites. These are the Kenites who came from Hammath, the father of the house of Rechab.

THE FAMILY OF DAVID,

3:1-24

Now these are the sons of David, that were born to him at Hebron: the first-born was Amnon by Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; the second was Daniel by Abigail the Carmelitess; the third was Absalom, whose mother was Maacah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur; the fourth was Adonijah whose mother was Haggith; the fifth was Shephatiah by Abital; the sixth was Ithream by his wife Eglah; six were born to him in Hebron, where he reigned for seven years and six months. At Jerusalem he reigned thirty-three years. There also were born to him in Jerusalem, Shimea, Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon, four by Bathshua, the daughter of Ammiel; then Ibhaz, Elishama, Eliphelet, Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, Elishama, Eliada, and Eliphelet, nine. All these were David's sons, besides the sons of the concubines; and Tamar was their sister.

The descendants of Solomon were 10 Rehoboam, Abijah his son, Asa his son, Jehoshaphat his son, Joram his son, 11 Ahaziah his son, Joash his son, Amaziah his son, Azariah his son, Jotham his son, Ahaz his son, Hezekiah his son, 13 Manasseh his son, Amnon his son, Josiah his son. The sons of Josiah were Johanan, his first-born, the second, Jehoakim, the third, Zedekiah, the fourth, Shallum. The descendants of Jehoia-kim were Jeconiah his son, Zedekiah his son; and the sons of Jeconiah, who was 17 taken captive, were Shealtiel, Malchiram, Pedaiah, Shenazzar, Jckaniah, Hoshama and Nedabiah; and the sons 19 of Pedaiah were Zerubbabel, and Shimei; and the sons of Zerubbabel were Meshullam, and Hananiah; and Shelomith was their sister; there were 20 also Hashubah, Ohel, Berachiah, Hasadiah, and Jushabhesed, five. The son of 21 Hananiah was Pelatiah, and Jeshaiah was his son, and Rephaiah was his son, Arnan his son, Obadiah his son, and Shecaniah his son. The son of Shecaniah was Shemaiah, and the sons of Shemaiah were Hattush, Igal, Bariah, Neariah, and Shaphat, six. The sons of 23 Neariah were Elioenai, Hezekiah, and Azrikam, three. And the sons of Elioenai were Hodaviah, Eliashib, Pedaiah, Akkub, Johanan, Dalaiah, and Anani, seven.

THE FAMILY OF JUDAH,

4:1-23

The sons of Judah were Perez, Hezron, Carmi, Hur, and Shobal. Also 2 Reaiah, the son of Shobal, was the father of Jahath, and Jahath was the father of Ahumai and Lahad. These are the families of the Zorathites. These are the sons of Etam, Jezreel, 3 Ishma, and Idbash; and the name of their sister was Hazelel-poni; and Penueel was the father of Gedor, and Ezer the father of Hushah. These are the sons of Hur, the first-born of Ephrathah, the father of Bethlehem.

Now Ashur, the father of Tekoa, had 5

6 two wives, Helah and Naarah; Naarah bore him Ahuzzam, Hephher, Temeni, and Haahashtari. These were the sons
7 of Naarah. The sons of Helah were 8 Zereth, Izhar, and Ethnan. Koz was the father of Anub, Zobebeh, and the families of Aharhel, the son of Harum.
9 Jabez was more honorable than his brothers, and his mother called his name Jabez, saying,
"Because I bore him in pain."

10 Now Jabez called on the God of Israel, saying,

"Oh that thou wouldst surely bless me and enlarge my border, and that thy hand might be with me, and that thou wouldst keep me from evil, so that it should not harm me!"

Accordingly God granted what he 11 asked. Chelub, the brother of Shuhah, was the father of Mehri, and the latter 12 was the father of Eshton. Eshton was the father of Bethrapha, Paseah, and Tehinnah, the father of Irnahash.
13 These are the men of Recah. The sons of Kenaz were Othniel and Seraiah, and the son of Othniel was Hathath. Meonothai was the father of Ophrah, and Seraiah was the father of Joab, the father of Ge-harashim [the valley of the craftsmen], for they were craftsmen.
15 The sons of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, were Iru, Elah, and Naam; and the son of Elah was Kenaz. The sons of Jehalelel were Ziph, Ziphah, Tiria, and 17 Asarel. The sons of Ezrah were Jether, Mered, Epher, and Jalon. These are the sons of Bithia, the daughter of Pharaoh, whom Mered married; and Jether was the father of Miriam and Shammai, and Jishbah the father of 18 Eshtemoa. And his Jewish wife bore Jered, the father of Gedor, Heber, the father of Socoh, and Jekuthiel, the father of Zenoah. The sons of the wife of Hodiah, the sister of Naham, were the fathers of Keilah, the Garmite, and 20 Eshtemoa, the Maacathite. The sons of Shimon were Amnon, Rinnah, Benhanan, and Tilon; and the sons of Ishi were Zoheth, and Benzoheth. The sons of Shelah, Judah's son, were Er, the father of Lecah, Laadah, the father of Mareshah, and the families of the house
22 of linen workers at Beth-Ashbea; also Jokim, and the men of Cozoba, Joash, and Saraph who ruled in Moab and returned to Bethlehem, and the records 23 are ancient. These were the potters and inhabitants of Netaim and Gederah; they resided there with the king for his work.

THE DESCENDANTS OF SIMEON, 4:24-43

The sons of Simeon were Nemuel,<sup>24</sup> Jamin, Jarib, Zerah, and Shaul; Shalum was his son, Mibsam his son, and Mishma his son. Mishma's son was<sup>26</sup> Hammuel, Zaccur his son, Shimei his son. Now Shimei had sixteen sons and<sup>27</sup> six daughters; but his brothers had not many sons, nor did all their family multiply as did the Judeans. They lived at<sup>28</sup> Beersheba, Moladah, and Hazarshual, at Bilhah, Ezem, and Tolad, at Bethuel, Hormah, and Ziglag, at Bethmarcaboth, Hazarsusim, Beth-biri, and Shara-<sup>29</sup>aim. These were their cities until David reigned. Their villages were<sup>31</sup> Etam, Ain, Rimmon, Tochen, and Ashan, five cities, along with all their villages that were round about these cities as far as Baal. These were their settlements, and they kept a genealogical enrolment.

Meshobab, Jamlech, Joshah, the son<sup>34</sup> of Amaziah, Joel, Jehu, the son of Josh-<sup>35</sup> ibiah, the son of Seraiah, the son of Asiel, Elieoenai, Jaakobah, Jeshohaiah,<sup>36</sup> Asaiah, Adiel, Jesimiel, Benaiah, Ziza,<sup>37</sup> the son of Shippi, the son of Allon, the son of Jedaiah, the son of Shimri, the son of Shemaiah—these enumerated by<sup>38</sup> name were leaders in their families, and their families increased greatly. They<sup>39</sup> went to the entrance of Gedor, even to the east side of the valley to seek pasture for their flocks, where they found<sup>40</sup> rich, luscious pasture, and the land was broad, quiet, and peaceable; for the inhabitants there formerly belonged to Ham. Also these written by name came<sup>41</sup> in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah, and destroyed their tents and the Meunim who were found there, and exterminated them, as it is to this day, and settled in their place, because there was pasture there for their flocks. More-<sup>42</sup> over from these Simeonites five hundred men went to Mount Seir, having as their leaders, Pelatiah, Neariah, Rephaiah, and Uzziel, the sons of Ishi; and they overcame the remnant of the<sup>43</sup> Amalekites that had escaped, and they have dwelt there to this day.

THE DESCENDANTS OF REUBEN, 5:1-26

15 Now the sons of Reuben, the first-born of Israel—for he was the eldest, but because he polluted his father's marriage bed, his birthright was given to the sons of Joseph, the son of Israel, so that he is not enrolled in the genealogy according to the birthright, and though Judah grew strong among his brothers, and became prince over him, yet the birthright belonged to Joseph—

12 the sons of Reuben, the first-born of Israel, were Enoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. The descendants of Joel were Shemaiah his son, Gog his son, Shimei his son, Micah his son, Reaiah his son, Baal his son, Beerah his son, whom Tiglath-pileser king of Assyria, carried away captive—he was a chieftain of the Reubenites, and his kinsmen, according to their families, when the genealogy of their generations was reckoned, were chief Jeiel, Zechariah, Bela, the son of Azaz, the son of Shema, the son of Joel, who dwelt in Aroer, even to Nebo and Baalmeon. Also eastward he dwelt to the entrance of the desert as far as the Euphrates, because their cattle were so many in the land of Gilead. More over in the days of Saul they made war upon the Hagrites, who fell by their hand so that they dwelt in their tents throughout the territory east of Gilead.

11 Now the Gadites dwelt opposite them in the land of Bashan as far as Salcah. Joel was the chief, Shapham next, then Janai, and Shaphat in Bashan, together with their kinsmen according to their families, Michael, Meshullam, Sheba, Jorai, Jacan, Zia, and Eber, seven. These were the sons of Abihail, the son of Huri, the son of Jaroah, the son of Gilead, the son of Michael, the son of Jeshishai, the son of Jahdo, the son of Buz, Ahi, the son of Abdiel, the son of Guni, chiefs in their families; and they dwelt in Gilead, in Bashan, in its towns, and in all the pasture-lands of Sirion to their limits. All of these were enrolled in the genealogical records in the days of Jotham, king of Judah and in the days of Jeroboam, king of Israel.

18 The Reubenites, the Gadites and the half-tribe of Manasseh, consisting of valiant men, able to carry shield and sword, skilled bowmen, expert in war, amounted to forty-four thousand seven hundred and sixty in active service. They also made war upon the Hagrites, 19 also Jetur, Naphish, and Nodab, and they were helped against them, and the Hagrites and all who were with them were delivered into their hands. They cried to God in the battle, and he was entreated for them because they trusted in him. Moreover they carried off 21 their cattle, fifty thousand of their camels, two hundred and fifty thousand sheep, two thousand asses, and a hundred thousand men alive. For 22 many fell slain, because the war was God's; and they dwelt in their stead until the exile.

The members of the half-tribe of 23 Manasseh dwelt in the land; they increased from Bashan to Baalhamon and Senir and Mount Hermon. These were 24 the heads of their families, Ephraim, Ishi, Eliel, Azriel, Jeremiah, Hodaviah, and Jahdiel, valiant fighters, famous men, heads of their families. But they acted 25 treacherously toward the God of their fathers, and ran wantonly after the alien gods of the peoples of the land whom God had destroyed before them. So the God of Israel stirred up the spirit 26 of Pul, king of Assyria, and the spirit of Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, and he carried them away, even the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, and brought them to Halah, Habor, Hara, and the river Gozan, as it is to this day.

THE DESCENDANTS OF LEVI,
6:1-48

The sons of Levi were Gershom, Kohath, and Merari. The sons of Kohath 2 were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel; and the children of Amram were 3 Aaron, Moses, and Miriam; and the sons of Aaron were Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. Eleazar was the father of Phinehas, Phinehas of Abishua, Abishua of Bukki, Bukki of Uzzi, 5 Uzzi of Zerariah, Zerariah of Meraioth, Meraioth of Amariah, Amariah of 7 Ahitub, Ahitub of Zadok, Zadok of Ahimaaz, Ahimaaz of Azariah, Azariah of 9 Johanan, and Johanan of Azariah (it was he who served as priest in the house which Solomon built in Jerusalem). 12 riah of Ahitub, Ahitub of Zadok, Zadok
 13 of Shallum, Shallum of Hilkiah, Hilkiah 14 of Azariah, Azariah of Seraiah, and 15 Seraiah of Jehozadak; and Jehozadak went along when the LORD caused Judah and Jerusalem to go into captivity
 by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar.
 16 The sons of Levi were Gershom, Ko-17 hath, and Merari; and these are the names of the sons of Gershom: Libni and 18 Shimei; the sons of Kohath were Am-19 ram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi.
 These are the families of the Levites ac-20 cording to their parentage. From Gershom was his son Libni, Jahath was his 21 son, Zimmah his son, Joah his son, Iddo his son, Zerah his son, Jeatherai his son.
 22 The descendants of Kohath were Am-minadab his son, Korah his son, Assir 23 his son, Elkanah his son, Ebiassaph his 24 son, and Assir his son, Tahath his son,
 Uriel his son, Uzziyah his son, and Shaul 25 his son. The sons of Elkanah were 26 Amasai and Ahimoth. As for Elkanah, the descendants of Elkanah were Zo-27 phai his son, and Nahath his son, Eliab his son, Jeroham his son, Elkanah his 28 son; and the sons of Samuel were Joel 29 the first-born, then Abiah. The sons of Merari were Mahli, Libni his son, 30 Shimei his son, Uzzah his son, Shimea his son, Haggiah his son, Asaiah his son.
 31 Now these are those whom David put in charge of the service of song in the house of the LORD, after the ark 32 rested there. They ministered with song before the dwelling of the tent of meeting, until Solomon built the house of the LORD in Jerusalem; and they ful-33 filled their service in due order. Now these are they that served, and their sons. From the sons of the Kohathites were Heman the singer, the son of Joel, 34 the son of Samuel, the son of Elkanah,
 the son of Jeroham, the son of Eliel, 35 the son of Toah, the son of Ziph, the son of Elkanah, the son of Mahath,
 the son of Amasai, the son of Elkanah, the son of Joel, the son of Aza-37 riah, the son of Zephaniah, the son of Tahath, the son of Assir, the son of 38 Ebiassaph, the son of Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of 40 the son of Shimea, the son of Michael, the son of Baaseriah, the son of Malchi-41 jah, the son of Ethni, the son of Zerah, 42 the son of Adaiyah, the son of Ethan, the son of Zimmah, the son of Shimei, the 43 son of Jahath, the son of Gershom, the son of Levi. While on their left were 44 their kinsmen the sons of Merari:

 Ethan, the son of Kishi, the son of Ab-45 di, the son of Malluch, the son of Hash-abiah, the son of Amaziah, the son of Hilkiah, the son of Amzi, the son of 46
 Shemer, the son of Mahli, the son of 47
 Mushi, the son of Merari, the son of Levi; and their kinsmen the Levites 48 were appointed for all the service of the dwelling of the house of God.

THE DESCENDANTS OF AARON, 6:49-81

But Aaron and his sons officiated at 49 the altar of burnt-offering and at the altar of incense for all the work of the most sacred place, and to make atonement for Israel, just as Moses the servant of God had commanded. Now 50 these are the descendants of Aaron,
 Eleazar his son, Phinehas his son,
 Abishua his son, Bukki his son, Uzzi his 51 son, Zerahiah his son, Meraioth his son, 52
 Amariah his son, Ahitub his son,
 Zadok his son, Ahimaaz his son. 53

These also are their dwelling-places 54 according to their encampments within their boundaries. To the descendants of Aaron of the families of the Kohathites—for theirs was the first lot—and 55
 they gave to them Hebron in the land of Judah and its commons round about it, but the fields of the city and its vil- 56 lages they gave to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh. To the descendants of Aar- 57 on they gave the cities of asylum, Hebron, Libnah with its commons, Jattir, Eshtemoa with its commons, Hilel 58 with its commons, Debir with its commons, Ashan with its commons, Beth- 59
 shemesh with its commons; and from 60 the tribe of Benjamin, Geba with its commons, Allemeth with its commons, and Anathoth with its commons. All their cities among their families were thirteen.

The rest of the Kohathites had by lot 61 out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim and of Dan and the half-tribe of Manasseh, ten cities. The Gershom- 62 ites according to their families were allotted thirteen cities out of the tribes of Issachar, Asher, Naphtali, and Man-63 asseh in Bashan. The Merarites according to their families were allotted twelve cities out of the tribes of Reuben, Gad, and Zebulon. So the Israelites gave the Levites the cities with their common lands. They also gave them by lot out of the tribe of the Judeans, Simeonites, and Benjaminites these cities which are mentioned by name.

Also some of the families of the Kohathites had cities allotted them from the tribe of Ephraim. They gave them the cities of asylum, Shechem, with its commons in the highlands of Ephraim, Gezer with its commons, Jokmeam with its commons, Beth-horon with its commons, Aijalon with its commons, Gath-rimmon with its commons, and out of the half-tribe of Manasseh—Aner with its commons, Bileam with its commons, for the rest of the families of the Kohathites; to the Gershomites out of the families of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Golan in Bashan with its commons, and Ashtaroth with its commons; and out of the tribe of Issachar, Kedesh with its commons, Daberath with its commons, Ramoth with its commons, Anem with its commons; out of the tribe of Asher, Mashal with its commons; Abdon with its commons, Hukak with its commons, and Rehob with its commons; out of the tribe of Naphtali, Kedesh in Galilee with its commons, Hammon with its commons, Kiriathaim with its commons. To the Merarites that were left were allotted out of the tribe of Zebulon, Rimmono with its commons, Tabor with its commons, and beyond the Jordan, Jericho, on the east side of the Jordan out of the tribe of Reuben, Bezer in the desert with its commons, Jahzah with its commons, Kedemoth with its commons and Mephaath, with its commons; and out of the tribe of Gad, Ramoth in Gilead with its commons, Mahanaim with its commons, Heshbon with its commons, and Jazer with its commons.

THE DESCENDANTS OF ISSACHAR, BENJAMIN AND NAPHTALI, 7:1-19

The sons of Issachar were four, Tola, Puah, Jashib, and Shimron; the sons of Tola were Uzzi, Rephaiah, Jeriel, Jah-mai, Jibsam, and Samuel, chiefs of their families, namely, of Tola, distinguished warriors of their generations, their number in the days of David being twenty-two thousand six hundred. The son of Uzzi was Izrahiah, and the sons of Izrahiah were Michael, Obadiah, Joel, Isshiah, all five of them being chief men; and along with them, by their generations according to their families, were units of the army for war, thirty-six thousand; for they had many wives and sons. Also their kinsmen belonging to all the families of Issachar were a total of eighty-seven thousand distinguished warriors, reckoned by genealogy.

Likewise the sons of Benjamin were three, Bela, Becher, and Jediel; Bela's sons were five, Ezbon, Uzzi, Uzziel, Jerimoth, and Iri, heads of their families, distinguished warriors; and their reckoning by genealogies was twenty-two thousand and thirty-four. The sons of Becher were Zemirah, Joash, Eliezer, Elioenai, Omri, Jeremoth, Abijah, Anathoth, and Alemeth; all these were the sons of Becher; and their enrollment by genealogies, according to their generations, as heads of their families, distinguished warriors, was twenty thousand and two hundred. The son of Jediel was Bilhan, and the sons of Bilhan were Jeush, Benjamin, Ehud, Chenaanah, Zethan, Tarshish, and Ahishahar. All these were the sons of Jediel according to the heads of their families, distinguished warriors, seventeen thousand two hundred on active service for war. (Also Shuppmi and Huppmi were sons of Ir, Hushim and the son of Aher.)

The sons of Naphtali were Jahziel, Guni, Jezer, and Shallum whose mother was Bilhah. The sons of Manasseh were Asriel, whom his concubine the Aramitess bore; she bore Machir the father of Gilead; and Gilead took a wife whose name was Maacah, and the name of his sister was Hammolecheth and the name of his brother Zelophad, and Zelophad had daughters. Now Maacah, the wife of Machir, bore a son, and she called his name Peresh, and the name of his brother was Sheres; and his sons were Ulam and Rekem. The son of Ulam was Bedan. These are the descendants of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh. Also his sister Hammolecheth bore Ishbod, Abi-19 ezer, and Mahlah. The sons of Shemida were Ahian, Shechem, Likhi, and Aniam.

THE DESCENDANTS OF EPH-RAIM, ASHER AND BEN-JAMIN, 7:20—8:40

20 Now the descendants of Ephraim were Shuthelah, and Bered his son, Tahath his son, Eleada his son, Tahath 21 his son, Zabab his son, Shuthelah his son, and Ezer, and Elead, whom the men of Gath who were born in the land slew, because they came down to raid 22 their cattle. Therefore Ephraim their father mourned many days, and his 23 brothers came to comfort him. Then he had intercourse with his wife, and she conceived and gave birth to a son;
 and he called his name Beriah, because 24 evil had befallen his house. Now his daughter was Sheerah, who built both upper and lower Beth-horon, and Uz-25 zen-sheerah. Rephah was his son, and Resheph, Telah his son, and Tahan his 26 son, Ladan his son, Ammihud his son,
 27 Elishama his son, Nun his son, Joshua 28 his son. Their possessions and settlements were Bethel and its towns, and eastward Naaran, and westward Gezer and its towns, Shechem and its towns, 29 and Azzah and its towns; also along the borders of the Manassites, Beth-shean and its towns, Taanach and its towns, Megiddo and its towns, Dor and its towns. In these dwelt the descendants of Joseph, the son of Israel.
 30 The sons of Asher were Imnah, Ishvah, Ishvi, Beriah, and their sister 31 Serah; and the sons of Beriah were Heber and Malchiel, who was the father of 32 Birzaith; also Heber was the father of Japhlet, Shomer, Hotham, and Shua
 33 their sister; the sons of Japhlet were Pasach, Bimhal, and Ashvath. These 34 are the sons of Japhlet: the sons of Shemer, his brother, were Rohgah, 35 Jehubbah, and Aram; and the sons of Helem were Zophah, Imna, Shelesh, 36 and Amal. The sons of Zophah were Suah, Harnepher, Shual, Beri, Imrah,
 37 Bezer, Hur, Shamma, Shilshah, Ithran, 38 and Beera; and the sons of Jether were 39 Jephunneh, Pispah, and Ara. The sons of Ulla were Arah, Hanniel, and Rizia.
 40 All these were Asherite heads of the families, select, distinguished warriors, foremost of the chieftains. Their number reckoned by genealogies, for active service in war, was twenty-six thousand men.

Benjamin was the father of Bela his 8 first-born, Ashbel the second, and Aharah the third, Nohah the fourth, 2 and Rapha the fifth. The sons of Bela 3 were Addar, Gera, Abihud, Abishua, 4 Naaman, Ahoah, Gera, Shephuphan, 5 and Huram. These are the sons of 6 Ehud, heads of families of the inhabitants of Geba, and they carried them 7 captive to Manahath, Naaman, and 7 Ahijah; and Gera was the one who carried them captive; he was the father of Uzza and Ahihud. Also Shaharaim had 8 sons in the country of Moab after he had sent away Hushim and Baarah his 9 wives. He had offspring by Hodesh his 9 wife, Jobab, Zibia, Meshah, Malcam, Jeuz, Sachia, and Mirmah. These were 10 his sons, heads of families; and he had 11 offspring by Hushim, Abitub and Elpaal. The sons of Elpaal were Eber, 12 Misham, and Shemed, who built Ono and Lod with its towns, and Beriah and 13 Shema (who were heads of families of the inhabitants of Aijalon, who put to flight the inhabitants of Gath); and 14 their brothers were Shashak and Jeremoth, while Zebadiah, Arad, Eder, 15
 Michael, Ishpah, and Joha were the 16 sons of Beriah. Zebadiah, Meshullam, 17
 Hizki, Heber, Ishmerai, Izliah, and Jo- 18
 bab were the sons of Elpaal. Jakim, 19
 Zichri, Zabdi, Elienai, Zillethai, Eliel, 20
 Adaiah, Beriah, and Shimirath were the 21 sons of Shimei. Ishpan, Eber, Eliel, 22
 Abdon, Zichri, Hanan, Hananiah, 23
 Elam, Anathothijah, Iphdeiah, and 24
 Penuel were the sons of Shashak.
 Shamsherai, Shehariah, Athaliah, Jaar- 25 ishiah, Elijah, and Zichri were the sons 26 of Jeroham. These were the heads of 28 the families, according to their generations, leaders, who lived at Jerusalem.

At Gibeon there dwelt the father of 29
 Gibeon, Jeuel, whose wife's name was Maacah. His first-born son was Abdon, 30
 then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, Ge- 31 dor, Ahio, Zechar, and Mikloth (he was 32 the father of Shimeah). Now these also dwelt together opposite their kinsmen in Jerusalem.

Ner was the father of Abner, Kish of 33
 Saul, Saul of Jonathan, Malchishua,
 Abinadab, and Eshbaal; and the son of 34

Jonathan was Meribaal, and Meribaal was the father of Micah. The sons of Micah were Pithon, Melech, Tarea, and Ahaz; and Ahaz was the father of Jehoaddah, and Jehoaddah was the father of Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri; Zimri was the father of Moza. Moza was the father of Binea, Rapha was his son, Eleasah his son, Azel his son. Azel had six sons, whose names were Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah, and Hanan. All these were the sons of Azel. The sons of Eshek his brother were Ulam his first-born, Jeush the second, Eliphelet the third. The sons of Ulam were men who were distinguished warriors, expert bowmen, having many sons and grandsons, a hundred and fifty. All these were Benjaminites.

A LIST OF EXILES RETURNED FROM BABYLON, 9:1-44

So all Israel was registered by genealogies; they are written there in the Book of the Kings of Israel. And Judah was carried captive to Babylon because of their unfaithfulness. Now the first to dwell again in their possessions in their cities, were Israelite laymen, the priests, and the temple servants, while some Judeans, Benjaminites, Ephraimites, and Manassites dwelt in Jerusalem, namely, Uthai, the son of Ammihud, the son of Omri, the son of Imri, the son of Bani, belonging to the descendants of Perez the son of Judah; and of the Shilonites, Asaiah, the oldest member and his sons; of the descendants of Zerach, Jeuel and their kinsmen, six hundred and ninety; of the Benjaminites, Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the son of Hodaviah, the son of Hasenuah, Ibneiah, the son of Jeroham, Elah, the son of Uzzi, the son of Michri, and Meshullam, the son of Shephatiah, the son of Reuel, the son of Ibrijah; and their kinsmen according to their generations, nine hundred and fifty-six. All these men were heads of families according to their fathers' houses.

Also of the priests there were Jedai-ah, Jehoiarib, Jachin, and Azariah, the son of Hilkiah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God; and Adaiah, the son of Jero-ham, the son of Pashhur, the son of Malchijah, and Maasai the son of Adiel, the son of Jahzerah, the son of Meshullam, the son of Meshillemith, the son of Immer; besides their kinsmen, heads of their fathers' houses, one thousand seven hundred and sixty, men of distinguished capabilities, for the work of the service of the house of God.

Of the Levites there were Shemaiah, the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the Merarites; with Bakbakkar, Heresh, Galal, and Mattaniah, the son of Mica, the son of Zichri, the son of Asaph; also Obadiah, the son of Shemaiah, the son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and Berachiah, the son of Asa, the son of Elkanah, who dwelt in the villages of the Netophathites.

The gatekeepers were Shallum, Akub, Talmon, Ahiman, and their kinsmen (Shallum being the chief), stationed till now in the king's gate on the east side. These were the gatekeepers of the camp of the Levites. Shallum, the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, and his kinsmen of his father's house, the Korahites, were over the service, keepers of the thresholds of the tent, as their fathers had been over the camp of the LORD, keepers of the entrance. And Phinchas, the son of Eleazar, was the ruler over them in time past (may the Lord be with him!). Zechariah, the son of Meshel-emiah, was gatekeeper at the entrance of the tent of meeting. All these that were chosen as gatekeepers at the thresholds were two hundred and twelve. They were reckoned by their genealogies in their villages, whom David and Samuel the seer appointed to their office of responsibility. So they and their sons had charge of the gates of the house of the LORD, even the house of the Tent, as guards. The gatekeepers were on the four sides, on the east, the west, the north, and the south; and their kinsmen who were in their villages were obliged to come in every seven days, from time to time, to be with these; for the four most distinguished gatekeepers, who were Levites, were constantly on duty in charge of the chambers and the treasuries of the house of God. They also used to lodge round about the house of God; for upon them rested the duty of watching, and they had charge of opening it every morning.

28 Moreover some of them had charge of the utensils of the service, for they were brought in and taken out. Others of them were appointed over the furniture, and over all the sacred utensils, as well as over the fine flour, the wine, the oil, the incense, and the spices. Others, of the sons of the priests, prepared the mixing of the spices, while Mattethiah a Levite, the first-born of Shallum the Korahite, was responsible for the pastry of flatcakes. And some of their kinsmen of the Kohathites had charge of the bread that is arranged in layers, to prepare it every sabbath.

33 Now these are the singers, the heads of families of the Levites, dwelling in the chambers of the temple free from other service, for they were on duty day and night. These were heads of families of the Levites, according to their generations, leaders, who lived at Jerusalem.

35 At Gibeon dwelt the father of Gibeon, Jeiel, whose wife's name was Maacah; and his first-born son was Abdon, then Zur, Kish, Baal, Ner, Nadab, Gedor, Ahio, Zechariah, and Mikloth, while Mikloth was the father of Shimeam; and they also dwelt together opposite their kinsmen in Jerusalem. Ner was the father of Kish, Kish of Saul, Saul of Jonathan, Malchishua, Abinadab, and Eshbaal; and the son of Jonathan was Meribaal, and Meribaal was the father of Micah. The sons of Micah were Pithon, Melech, and Tahrea; and Ahaz was the father of Jarah, and Jarah of Alemeth, Azmaveth, and Zimri; and Zimri was the father of Moza. Moza was the father of Binea, and Rephaiah was his son, Eleash his son, Azel his son. Also Azel had six sons, whose names are Azrikam, Bocheru, Ishmael, Sheariah, Obadiah, and Hanan; these were the sons of Azel.

SAUL'S DEATH AND BURIAL,

10:1-14

19 Now the Philistines fought against Israel, and the men of Israel fled before the Philistines, and the wounded fell on Mount Gilboa. Moreover the Philistines overtook Saul and his sons;

and the Philistines slew Jonathan and Abinadab and Malchishua, the sons of Saul. The battle raged about Saul, and the archers found their mark, and he was wounded by the archers. Then Saul said to his armor-bearer,

"Draw your sword and run me through with it, lest these uncircumcised men come and make sport of me."

But his armor-bearer would not, for he was terrified. Therefore Saul took his sword and fell upon it; and when his armor-bearer saw that Saul was dead, then he also fell upon his sword and died. Thus Saul and his three sons and all his house died together.

Now when all the men of Israel who were in the valley saw that Israel had fled, and that Saul and his sons were dead, they abandoned their cities and fled, and the Philistines came and occupied them. Then on the morrow when the Philistines came to strip the slain, they found Saul and his three sons fallen on Mount Gilboa; and they stripped him and took away his head and his armor and dispatched them throughout the land of the Philistines to bring good tidings to their idols and to the people. They also put his armor in the house of their gods and his body they impaled on the wall of the temple of Dagon. Now when all the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, all the valiant men arose and took the body of Saul and the bodies of his sons and brought them to Jabesh, and buried their bones under the oak in Jabesh, and they fasted seven days.

Thus Saul died for his faithlessness wherein he was faithless toward the LORD because of the word of the LORD which he did not observe, and also because he consulted a medium, resorting to it and not to the LORD. Therefore he killed him and turned the kingdom over to David, the son of Jesse.

DAVID BECOMES KING AND CAPTURES JERUSALEM,

11:1-9

Then all Israel assembled to David to Hebron, saying,

"See, we are your bone and your flesh. In times past when Saul was king over us, it was you who led out and brought in Israel, and the LORD your God said to you, 'You shall shepherd my people Israel, and you shall be prince over my people Israel.' "

3 So all the elders of Israel came to the king to Hebron, and David made a covenant with them in Hebron before the LORD, and they anointed David king over Israel according to the word of the LORD by Samuel.

4 Then David and all Israel went to Jerusalem (that is Jebus); and the Jebusites, the inhabitants of the land, were there. Then the inhabitants of Jebus said to David,

"You shall not come here."

David nevertheless took the stronghold of Zion (that is, the city of David).

6 "Whoever slays the Jebusites first shall be chief and commander," said David.

Then Joab, the son of Zeruiah, went up first and so became chief. Accordingly David dwelt in the stronghold; therefore they called it the city of David. He also built the city round about from Millo, even round about, and Joab restored the rest of the city. So David kept on becoming greater, for the LORD of hosts was with him.

DAVID'S HEROES, 11:10-47

10 Now these are the chiefs of the heroic men whom David had, who showed themselves strong with him in his kingdom, together with all Israel, to make him king, according to the word of the LORD concerning all Israel. This is the number of the heroes whom David had: Jashobeam, the son of a Hachmonite, the chief of the Thirty who wielded his spear against three hundred whom he slew at one time. After him was Eleazar, the son of Dodo the Ahoite, who was one of the three heroes. He was with David at Pasdammim, when the Philistines were gathered together there for battle, and there was a plot of land full of barley; and when the people fled before the Philistines, they held their ground in the midst of the plot and defended it, and slew the Philistines; so the LORD saved them by a great victory. Now three of the thirty chiefs went down to the rock to David, to the cave of Adullam, while the camp of the Philistines was pitched in the valley of Rephaim. David at the time was in the stronghold, and a garrison of the Philistines was then in Bethlehem. Then David longed and said,

"Oh that someone would give me a drink of water from the well of Bethlehem, that is at the gate!"

So the Three broke through the Philistine lines and drew water from the well of Bethlehem that was at the gate, and took it and brought it to David. But David would not drink of it, but poured it out to the LORD, and said,

"God forbid that I should do this! Am I to drink the blood of these men who went at the risk of their lives? for at the risk of their lives they have brought it."

Therefore he would not drink it. These things did the three heroes.

Abishai also, the brother of Joab, was chief of the Thirty, for he wielded his spear against three hundred whom he slew and won a name among the Thirty. He was the most distinguished of the Thirty and became their chief, but he did not attain to the Three. Benaiah was the son of Jehoiada, the son of a valiant man from Kabzeel, mighty in deeds; he slew the two sons of Ariel of Moab. He also went down and slew a lion in the midst of a pit upon a snowy day. Moreover, he slew an Egyptian, a man of great stature five cubits tall, who had a spear in his hand like a weaver's beam, but he went down to him with a club and wrenched the spear out of the Egyptian's hand, and slew him with his own spear. These things did Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and won a name like the three heroes. He was indeed renowned above the Thirty, but he did not attain to the Three, and David set him over his body-guard.

Now the heroes of the army were Asahel, the brother of Joab; Elhanan, the son of Dodo of Bethlehem, Shammoth the Harorite, Helez the Pelonite, Ira, the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, Abiezer the Anathothite, Sibbecai the Hushathite, Ilai the Ahoite, Maharai the Netophathite, Heled, the son of Baanah the Netophathite, Ithai, the son of Ribai of Gibeah of the Benjaminites, Benaiah the Pirathonite, Hurai of the brooks of Gaash, Abiel the Arabathite, Azmaveth the Baharumite, Eliahba the Shaalbonite; the sons of Hashem the Gizonite, Jonathan, the son of Shagee the Hararite, Ahiam, the son of

Sacar the Hararite, Eliphai, the son of 36 Ur, Hephher the Mecherathite, Ahijah
 37 the Felonite, Hezro the Carmelite, Naar-38 ai the son of Ezbai, Joel, the brother of Nathan, Mibhar, the son of Hagri, 39 Zelek the Ammonite, Naharai the Bero-thite, the armor-bearer of Joab, the son 40 of Zeruiah, Ira the Ithrite, Gareb the 41 Ithrite, Uriah the Hittite, Zabad, the 42 son of Ahlai, Adina, the son of Shiza the Reubenite, a chief of the Reubenites, 43 and thirty with him, Hanan, the son of 44 Maacah, Josphath the Mithnite, Uz-zia the Ashterathite, Shama and Jeiel,
 the sons of Hotham the Aroerite, 45 Jediael the son of Shimri, and Joha, his 46 brother, the Tizite, Eliel the Mahavite, Jeribai and Joshaviah, the sons of 47 Elnaam, Ithmah the Moabite, Eliel, Obed, and Jaasiel the Mezobaite.

DAVID'S ARMY, 12:1-40

12 Now these are they who came to David at Ziklag, while he was still holding himself aloof from Saul, the son of Kish; and they were among the heroes,
 2 his helpers in war. They were expert with the bow and could use both the right hand and the left hand in hurling stones and in shooting arrows from the bow; they were of Saul's kinsmen of Ben-3 jamin. The chief was Ahiezer; then Jo-shab, the sons of Shemaah the Gibe-4 thite, Jeziel and Pelet, the sons of Azmaveth, Beracah, Jehu the Anatho-5 thite, Ishmaiah the Gibeonite, a hero among the Thirty and over the Thirty,
 Jeremiah, Jahaziel, Johanan, Jozabad
 6 the Gederathite, Eluzai, Jerimoth, Bealiah, Shemariah, Shephatiah the 7 Haruphite, Elkanah, Isshiah, Azarel, Joezer, and Jashobeam, the Korahites,
 8 Joelah and Zabadiah, the sons of Jeroham of Gedor.
 9 From the Gadites there withdrew to David, to the stronghold in the desert, intrepid warriors, men trained for war,
 who could handle shield and spear,
 whose faces were like the faces of lions,
 who were like the gazelles on the moun-10 tains for swiftness: Ezer the first, Obadiah the second, Eliab the third, Mish-11 mannah the fourth, Jeremiah the fifth, 12 Attai the sixth, Eliel the seventh, Jo-hanan the eighth, Elzabad the ninth, 13 Jeremiah the tenth, Machbannai the 14 eleventh. These from the Gadites were commanders of the army. The least was equal to a hundred, and the greatest to a thousand. These are they who crossed the Jordan in the first month, when it had overflowed all its banks,

 and they put to flight all the inhabitants of the valleys both toward the east and toward the west.

Then also came some of the Benja- 1.1
 minites and Judeans to the stronghold to David; and David went out to meet 1.
 them, and answered and said to them,

"If you come peaceably to me to help me, my heart shall be ready to become one with yours; but if to betray me to my adversaries, since there is no wrong in my hands, the God of our fathers look thereon and rebuke it."

Then the spirit came upon Amasai, 11
 the chief of the Thirty:

"Yours are we, O David,
 And with you, O son of Jesse!
 Peace, peace to you,
 And peace to your helpers,
 For your God helps you."

Then David received them and made them chiefs of the raiders.

From Manasseh also some deserted 1 to David, when he came with the Philistines against Saul to battle, but they did not help them, for the city rulers of the Philistines after consultation forced him to go away, saying,

"He will desert to his master Saul to the jeopardy of our heads."

As he went to Ziklag there went over 2 to him from Manasseh, Adnah, Jozabad, Jediael, Michael, Jozabad, Elihu, and Zillethai, commanders of thousands, who belonged to Manasseh.
 They also helped David against the 2.
 raiders; for they were all valiant warriors and commanders in the army.
 Thus from day to day they came to 2
 David to help him, until there was a great army, like the army of God. Now 2 these are the numbers of the heads of those equipped for war, who came to David to Hebron, to turn over to him the kingdom of Saul, according to the word of the LORD. The Judeans who 2: bore shield and spear were six thousand eight hundred, equipped for war. Of 2
 the Simeonites, valiant men for war,
 there were seven thousand one hundred.
 Of the Levites there were four thou- 2:
 sand six hundred. Now Jehoiada was 2 the prince of the house of Aaron, and with him were three thousand seven hundred, also Zadok, a youth of nine 2:

usual ability, together with his father's 20 house: twenty-two commanders. Of the Benjaminites, the kinsmen of Saul, there were three thousand; for hitherto the majority of them had remained 30 loyal to the house of Saul. Of the Ephraimites there were twenty thousand eight hundred, valiant warriors, famous men in their fathers' houses.
 31 Of the half-tribe of Manasseh there were eighteen thousand, who were mentioned by name to come and make 32 David king. Of the Issacharites, men who had understanding of the times so that they knew what Israel ought to do, their two hundred chiefs, and all their kinsmen were under their command.
 33 Of Zebulun there were fifty thousand fit to join the army and take the field with all the weapons of war, prepared to give assistance with singleness of 34 purpose. Of Naphtali there were a thousand commanders, and with them thirty-seven thousand with shield and 35 spear. Of the Danites, ready to take the field, there were twenty-eight thousand six hundred. Of Asher, fit to join the army and render assistance in bat-37 tle, there were forty thousand. Also from beyond the Jordan, of the Reu-benites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, there were a hundred and twenty thousand fully equipped for 38 battle with all arms of the service. All these warriors, ready to take the field, moved by a single purpose came to Hebron to make David king over all Israel. All the rest of Israel also had the one purpose of making David king.
 39 They were there with David three days, eating and drinking; for their kinsmen had made preparation for 40 them. Also those who were near them as far as Issachar, Zebulun, and Naph-tali brought food on asses, camels, mules, and oxen—provisions such as meal, cakes of figs, bunches of raisins, wine, oil, oxen, and sheep in abundance;
 for gladness reigned in Israel.

DAVID'S ATTEMPT TO BRING THE ARK OF GOD TO JERU- SALEM, 13:1-14

13 Then David consulted with the commanders of thousands and of hundreds,
 2 even with every leader; and David said to all the assembly of Israel,

"If it seem good to you and acceptable to the LORD our God, let us send to all our remaining kinsmen in all the land of Israel, since the priests and Levites are with them in their cities which have common pasture-lands, that they may be gathered together to us, in order that we may bring back the ark of our God to us, for we did not seek it during the days of Saul."

Then all the assembly voted to do so, 4 for the thing seemed right in the eyes of all the people. So David assembled all 5 Israel from the River of Egypt to the entrance of Hamath, to bring the ark of God from Kirjath-jearim. Then David 6 went up together with all Israel to Ba-lah, that is, to Kirjath-jearim, which belongs to Judah, to bring up from there the ark of God, the LORD who is seated upon the cherubim, that is called by the Name; and they caused the ark of God
 7 to ride in a new cart from the house of Abinadab, with Uzza and Ahio guiding the cart, while David and all Israel 8 played before God with all their might, with songs and harps and lyres and tambourines and cymbals and trumpets.

But when they came to the threshing-9 floor of Chidon, Uzza put out his hand to hold the ark, for the oxen jostled it.
 Then the anger of the LORD blazed 10 against Uzza and he struck him down because he put out his hand to the ark; and he died there before God. David 11 was angry because the LORD had broken forth upon Uzza, therefore that place 12 is called Perez-uzza [Breach of Uzza] to this day. And David was afraid of God that day, saying,

"How can I bring the ark of God home to me?"

So David did not remove the ark to 13 him to the city of David, but carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom, the Gittite. Therefore the ark of God re-14 mained with the family of Obed-edom at his house three months, and the LORD blessed the house of Obed-edom and all that he had.

DAVID'S WIVES, AND HIS WARS WITH THE PHILIS- TINES, 14:1-17

Now Hiram, king of Tyre, sent mes- 14
 sengers to David, and cedar timbers and masons and carpenters to build a house for him. Accordingly David perceived that the LORD had established him as king over Israel, for his kingdom had been exalted for the sake of his people Israel.

Then David took more wives in Jerusalem, and David became the father of more sons and daughters. These are the names of those who were born to him in Jerusalem: Shammua, Shobab, Nathan, Solomon, Ithar, Elishua, Eliphelet, Nogah, Nepheg, Japhia, Elishama, Beeliada, and Eliphelet.

Now when the Philistines heard that David had been anointed king over all Israel, all the Philistines came up in search of David; and when David heard of it he withdrew before them; so the Philistines came on and made a raid in the valley of Rephaim. Therefore David inquired of God, saying,

"Shall I go up against the Philistines, and wilt thou deliver them into my hand?"

Then the LORD said to him,

"Go up, for I will deliver them into your hand."

So they came up to Baal-perazim and there David defeated them; and David said,

"God has broken through my enemies by my hand, like the bursting of water through a dam."

Therefore they called the name of that place Baal-perazim. They also left their gods there, and David gave the command and they were burned.

Then the Philistines made another raid in the valley. Accordingly when David inquired again of God, God said to him,

"Do not go up after them; go around to their rear and come at them opposite the balsam trees; and when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then go out to battle, for God has gone forth before you to overcome the camp of the Philistines."

So David did as God commanded him, and they put to rout the camp of the Philistines from Gibeon as far as Gezer. Thus David's fame went out into all the lands, and the LORD brought the fear of him on all the nations.

DAVID BRINGS THE ARK TO JERUSALEM IN STATE,

15:1—16:43

Thereupon David made for himself houses in the city of David, and prepared a place for the ark of God, and pitched a tent for it. Then David said,

"None ought to carry the ark of God but the Levites; for the LORD chose them to carry the ark of God and to minister to him forever."

So David assembled all Israel to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the LORD to its place, which he had prepared for it; and David gathered together the sons of Aaron, as well as the Levites; of the Kohathites, Uriel the chief, with his kinsmen, a hundred and twenty; of the Merarites, Asaiah the chief, with his kinsmen, two hundred and twenty; of the Gershonites, Joel the chief, with his kinsmen, a hundred and thirty; of the Elizaphanites, Shemaiah the chief, with his kinsmen, two hundred; of the Hebronites, Eliel the chief, with his kinsmen, eighty; of the Uzzielites, Amminadab the chief, with his kinsmen, a hundred and twelve. Then David called for Zadok and Abiathar the priests and for the Levites, Uriel, Asaiah, Joel, Shemaiah, Eliel, and Amminadab, and said to them,

"You are the heads of the families of the Levites; sanctify yourselves, both you and your kinsmen, that you may bring up the ark of the LORD, the God of Israel, to the place that I have prepared for it. Because you were not ready at the first, the LORD our God broke out upon us, for we did not seek him in the proper way."

So the priests and Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the LORD, the God of Israel; and the members of the Levitical order carried the ark of God on their shoulders, with the poles, as Moses commanded according to the word of the LORD.

Then David ordered the chiefs of the Levites to appoint their kinsmen the singers, with instruments of music, lyres, harps, and cymbals who should sound aloud and lift up the voice with gladness. So the Levites appointed Heman, the son of Joel; and of his kinsmen, Asaph, the son of Berechiah; and of the Merarites their kinsmen, Ethan, the son of Kushaiah; and with them their kinsmen of the second rank, Zechariah, Jaaziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattithiah, Eliphehu, Mikneiah, Obed-19 edom, and Jeiel, the doorkeepers. So the singers Heman, Asaph, and Ethan went to sound aloud on bronze cymbals; while Zechariah, Uzziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maaseiah, and Benaiah played with lyres set to Alamoth, 21 and Mattithiah, Eliphehu, Mikneiah, Obed-edom, Jeiel, and Azariah, with harps set to the octave to lead. Moreover Chenaniah, chief of the Levites in carrying, controlled the carrying because he was skilful. And Berechiah and Elkanah were doorkeepers for the 23 ark. Shebanaiah, Joshaphat, Nathaniel, Amasai, Zechariah, Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, blew the trumpets before the ark of God; Obed-edom and Jehiah were also doorkeepers for the 25 ark. So David, with the elders of Israel and the commanders of thousands, went to bring up with gladness the ark from the house of Obed-edom; and as God helped the Levites who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, they sacrificed seven bulls and seven rams.

 27 Now David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites who bore the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah who was in charge of the transport;
 28 David also had on a linen apron. Thus all Israel was bringing up the ark of the covenant of the LORD, with shouting and with the sound of the cornet and trumpets and cymbals sounding aloud, with lyres and harps.
 29 But while the ark of the covenant of the LORD was coming to the city of David, Michal, the daughter of Saul, looked out at the window and saw King David leaping and playing and she despised him in her heart.
 8 When they brought in the ark of God, they set it within the tent that David had pitched for it, and they offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings before God; and when David had finished offering the burnt-offerings and the thank-offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD. He also distributed to every Israelite, both man and woman, a loaf of bread, and a portion of meat, and a bunch of raisins.
 14 Moreover he appointed some of the Levites to minister before the ark of the LORD and to celebrate, thank, and praise the LORD, the God of Israel: Asaph the chief, and second to him

 5 Zechariah, then Uzziel, Shemiramoth, Jehiel, Mattithiah, Eliab, Benaiah, Obed-edom, and Jeiel, with lyres and harps; while Asaph played loudly with cymbals, and Benaiah and Jahaziel, the 6 priests, with trumpets continually before the ark of the covenant of God. Then on that day David for the first 7 time entrusted to Asaph and his kinsmen the giving of thanks to the LORD.

Give thanks to the LORD; call upon his name;
 Make known his deeds among the peoples!
 Sing to him; sing praises to him;
 9 Tell of all his wonders!
 Glory in his holy name!
 10 May the heart of those who seek the LORD rejoice!
 Inquire of the LORD and his might;
 11 Seek his face continually!

Remember his wonders that he has 12 done,
 His portents, and the judgments of
 his mouth,
 O descendants of Israel, his servant,
 13 Children of Jacob, his chosen!
 He is the LORD, our God;
 14 His judgments are in all the earth.
 He remembers his covenant forever, 15 The word he has commanded, to a thousand generations;
 The covenant he made with Abraham,
 16 And his oath to Isaac.

For he confirmed it to Jacob as a statute, 17
 To Israel as an eternal covenant; Saying, "To you I give the land of 18 Canaan
 As your portion and your inheritance."
 While you were but few in number,
 19 Of slight importance and but strangers therein,
 When they went back and forth from 20 one nation to another,
 And from one kingdom to another
 people,
 He permitted no man to oppress them,
 21 And warned kings concerning them,
 "Touch not my anointed, 22 And do my prophets no harm!"

- 23 Sing to the LORD, all the earth, Publish his deliverance abroad from day to day.
- 24 Tell among the nations his glory,
Among all the peoples, his wonders.
- 25 For great is the LORD and greatly to be praised;
Fearful is he above all gods;
26 For all the gods of the peoples are nonentities,
But the LORD made the heavens.
- 27 Honor and majesty are before him;
Strength and beauty are in his sanctuary.
- 28 Ascribe to the LORD, O families of
peoples,
Ascribe to the LORD glory and strength.
- 29 Ascribe to the LORD the glory of his name;
Bring an offering and come into his courts.
Worship the LORD in holy array;
30 Tremble before him all the earth;
The world also is established that it cannot be moved.
- 31 Let the heavens rejoice, and let the earth exult;
And let them say among the nations that the LORD is king.
- 32 Let the sea roar, and its fulness;
Let the field exult and all that is therein.
- 33 Then let all the trees of the wood shout for joy before the LORD,
For he comes to judge the earth.
- 34 Praise the LORD, for he is good;
For his kindness is everlasting.
- 35 Then say, "Save us, O God of our salvation, Assemble us and deliver us from the nations,
To give thanks to thy holy name,
To triumph in thy praise."
- 36 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
From everlasting even to everlasting.
- Then all the people said, "Amen,"
and praised the LORD.
- 37 So he left there, before the ark of the covenant of the LORD, Asaph and his kinsmen to minister before the ark continually, as each day's work required; 38 namely, Obed-edom with their kinsmen, sixty-eight; Obed-edom also, the son of Jeduthun, and Hosah to be door-keepers; Zadok the priest and his kinsmen the priests, before the dwelling of the LORD in the high place that was in Gibeon, to offer burnt-offerings to the LORD upon the altar of burnt-offering continually morning and evening, according to all that is written in the law of the LORD, which he commanded Israel; and with them Heman and Jeduthun, and the rest of those selected, who were mentioned by name to give thanks to the LORD, because his kindness is everlasting; and with them Heman and Jeduthun, trumpets and cymbals, to make music, and instruments for the songs of God, and the sons of Jeduthun for the gate. Then all the people went each to his house, and David returned to greet his family.

DAVID'S DESIRE TO BUILD A TEMPLE, 17:1-27

Now when David dwelt in his house,
David said to Nathan the prophet,

"See, I dwell in a house of cedar,
while the ark of the covenant of God dwells under tent curtains."

Then Nathan said to David,

"Do all that is in your mind, for God is with you."

But that very night the word of God came to Nathan, saying,

"Go and say to my servant David,
Thus says the LORD: 'You shall not build me a house to dwell in; for I have not dwelt in a house since the day I brought up Israel even to this day, but I have gone from tent to tent and from dwelling to dwelling. During all the time that I have gone to and fro with all Israel, did I speak a word to one of the judges of Israel whom I commanded to shepherd my people, saying,
'Why have you not built me a house of cedar?' Now therefore thus shall you say to my servant David: 'Thus the LORD of hosts has said, 'I took you from the pasture, from following the flock, that you should be a leader over my people Israel; and I have been with you wherever you have gone, and have cut off all your enemies from before you; and I will make for you a name, like the name of the great who are in the earth. I will also appoint a place for my people Israel and will plant them that they may dwell in their own place, and be disturbed no more. The wicked shall no more consume them as formerly, even from the day that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel. I will also subdue all your enemies. Moreover I tell you that the LORD will build for you a house; and when your days are finished, to go with your fathers, then I will establish your heir after you, who shall be one of your sons, and I will establish his kingdom. He shall build me a house, and I will establish his throne forever. "I will be a father to him, And he shall be a son to me; And I will not withdraw my kindness from him, As I withdrew it from him who was before you. But I will appoint him in my house and my kingdom forever; And his throne shall be established forever.' "" " In accordance with all these words and all this vision, so did Nathan speak to David. Then King David went in and sat down before the LORD and said, "Who am I, O LORD God, and what is my house, that thou hast brought me thus far? As though this was too small a thing in thy sight, O God, thou hast gone on to speak concerning the house of thy servant for a long time to come. Thou regardest me after the manner of a man, thou who exaltest me, O LORD God! What more can David say to thee concerning the honor done thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant. O LORD, for thy servant's sake, and according to thine own heart hast thou wrought all this greatness, to make known all great things. O LORD, there is none like thee, and there is no God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears. What other nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem for himself as a people, to make for thee a name by great and terrible things, in driving out nations before thy people, whom thou didst redeem out of Egypt? For thy people Israel thou didst make thine own people forever, and thou, O LORD, didst become their God. Now therefore, O LORD, let the word that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant and concerning his house be confirmed forever, and do as thou hast spoken, that thy name may be established and magnified forever, in saying, 'The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, a God to Israel, and the house of David thy servant shall be established before thee.' For thou, O my God, hast revealed to thy servant, that thou wilt build for him a house; therefore thy servant has found courage to pray before thee. And now, O LORD, thou art God, and thou hast spoken this good word to thy servant. Now therefore, it has pleased thee to bless the house of thy servant that it may continue before thee forever! For thou, O LORD, hast blessed, and it is blessed forever."

DAVID'S CONQUESTS, 18:1-17

Now after this David defeated the Philistines and subdued them, and took Gath and its towns from the Philistines. He also defeated Moab, and the Moabites became subject to David and brought tribute. Then David defeated Hadadezer, king of Zobah, at Hamath, as he went to establish his power at the Euphrates river; and David took from him a thousand chariots, seven thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand footmen; and David hamstringed all the chariot horses, but reserved enough of them for one hundred chariots.

Likewise when the Syrians of Damascus came to help Hadadezer, king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians twenty-two thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Damascus Syria, and the Syrians became subject to David and brought tribute. Thus the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went. David also took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to Jerusalem; and from Tibhath and Cun, cities of Hadadezer, David took a very large amount of bronze, with which Solomon made the bronze sea and the columns and the utensils of bronze.

Now when Tou, king of Hamath, heard that David had defeated all the army of Hadadezer, king of Zobah, he sent Hadoram his son to King David to greet him and congratulate him, because he had fought against Hadadezer and defeated him; for Hadadezer had been Tou's opponent in war; and he had

- with him all sorts of vessels of gold, silver, and bronze. These also did King David dedicate to the LORD, together with the silver and gold that he carried away from all the nations—from Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, the Philistines, and Amalek.
- 12 Moreover Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, slew of the Edomites in the Valley of Salt, eighteen thousand men. Then he put garrisons in Edom, and all Edom became subject to David. Thus the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went.
- 14 So David became king over all Israel, and he administered justice and righteousness to all the people. Now Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was in command of the army, and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was recorder, and Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Abimelech, the son of Abiathar, were priests, and Shawsa was scribe; Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was in command of the Cherethites and the Pelethites, and David's sons were chiefs at the side of the king.

DAVID'S VICTORIES, 19:1—20:8

- 19 Now after this, Nahash, the king of the Ammonites, died and his son became king in his stead. Then David said,
- "I will show kindness to Hanun, the son of Nahash, because his father showed kindness to me."
- So David sent messengers to condole with him concerning his father. But when David's servants came to the land of the Ammonites to Hanun to condole with him, the princes of the Ammonites said to Hanun,
- "Do you imagine that David is honoring your father in sending you comforters? Have not his servants come to inspect and to overthrow and to spy out the land?"
- 4 So Hanun took David's servants, and shaved them, cut their garments off at the hips, and sent them away. Then certain ones went and told David concerning the men, and he sent to meet them, for they were greatly ashamed. So the king said,
- "Remain at Jericho until your beards are grown and then return."
- 6 Now when the Ammonites saw that they were in bad odor with David, Hanun and the Ammonites sent a thousand talents of silver to hire chariots and horsemen from Aram-of-the-two-rivers, and Aram-Maacah, and from Zobah. So they hired thirty-two thousand chariots, and the king of Maacah and his people, who came and encamped before Medeba. Then the Ammonites gathered themselves together from their cities and came for battle. When David heard of it, he sent Joab and all the army of seasoned troops. Then the Ammonites came out and drew up in line of battle at the entrance of the city, but the kings who came were by themselves in the open country.

Now when Joab saw that he had to meet both a frontal and rear attack, he made a selection from all the picked men of Israel, and drew them up in line against the Arameans. Then the rest of the people he placed in command of Abishai his brother; and he drew them up in line against the Ammonites. Then he said,

"If the Arameans prove too strong for me, then you shall be my help, but if the Ammonites prove too strong for you, then I will assist you. Be courageous, and let us show ourselves strong for the sake of our people and for the cities of our God; and may the LORD do that which is good in his sight."

Now when Joab and the people who were with him drew near to join battle with the Arameans, they fled before him; and when the Ammonites saw that the Arameans had fled, they likewise fled before Abishai his brother, and entered the city. Then Joab came to Jerusalem.

But when the Arameans saw that they had been defeated by the Israelites, they sent messengers and brought the Arameans who were beyond the river, with Shophach, the commander of the army of Hadadezer, at their head. Now when it was told David, he gathered together all Israel and crossed the Jordan and came upon them; and David drew up the battle line facing the Arameans, and they fought with him. But the Arameans fled before Israel, and David slew of the Arameans seven thousand horsemen and forty thousand footmen. He also slew Shophach, the commander of the army. When the servants of Hadadezer saw that they had been defeated by Israel, they made peace with David and served him. So the Arameans were not willing to succor the Ammonites any more.

Now at the return of spring, at the time when kings go forth, Joab led out the main force of the army and laid waste the land of the Ammonites, and came and besieged Rabbah. But David remained at Jerusalem; and Joab attacked Rabbah and destroyed it. Then David took the crown of their king from his head, and found its weight to be a talent of gold, and in it was a precious stone; and it found a place on David's head. And he brought away a very large amount of spoil of the city. He also brought forth the people who were in it and put them to saws and to iron picks and axes. Thus David did to all the cities of the Ammonites; and David returned with all the people to Jerusalem.

After this a war broke out with the Philistines at Gezer; then Sibbecai the Hushathite slew Sippai of the descendants of the giant, and they were subdued. Again there was war with the Philistines, and Elhanan, the son of Jair, slew Lahmi, the brother of Goliath the Gittite, the staff of whose spear was like a weaver's beam. There was still another war at Gath, where a huge man with six fingers on each hand and six toes on each foot, also a descendant of the giant, defied Israel; but Jonathan, the son of Shimea, David's brother, slew him. These were born to the giant in Gath, and they fell by the hand of David and by the hand of his servants.

DAVID'S CENSUS AND THE PLAGUE, 21:1-30

Then Satan stood up against Israel and moved David to number Israel. So David said to Joab and to the commanders of the people,

"Go number Israel from Beersheba even to Dan; and bring me word that I may know their number."

Then Joab said,

"May the LORD add to his people a hundred times as many as they are! But, my lord, O king, are they not all my lord's servants? Why does my lord seek this thing? Why should he be a cause of guilt to Israel?"

But the king's word prevailed over Joab. Therefore Joab went forth, and went to and fro throughout all Israel and came to Jerusalem. So Joab gave to David the number of the people mustered. All Israel were one million one hundred thousand men that drew sword; and Judah was four hundred and seventy thousand men that drew sword. But Levi and Benjamin he did not count among them, for the king's order was abominable to Joab.

Now this thing was evil in the sight of God, so that he attacked Israel. Therefore David said to God,

"I have sinned greatly, in that I have done this thing. But now, take away, I pray thee, the iniquity of thy servant, for I have done very foolishly."

Then the LORD spoke to Gad, David's seer, saying,

"Go and speak to David saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "Three things I offer you; choose one of them that I may do it to you."'"

So Gad came to David and said to him,

"Thus says the LORD: 'Choose either three years of famine or three months of sweeping defeat at the hands of your foes with the sword of your enemies overtaking you; or else that for three days the sword of the LORD and pestilence be in the land, and the angel of the LORD act as a destroyer throughout all the territory of Israel.' Now therefore consider what answer I shall return to him who sent me."

Then David said to Gad,

"I am in great distress. I would rather fall into the hand of the LORD, for his mercy is very great; but let me not fall into the hand of man."

So the LORD sent a pestilence upon Israel; and there fell of Israel seventy thousand men. And God sent an angel to Jerusalem to destroy it; but as he was about to destroy it, the LORD saw it and repented of the evil, so that he said to the destroying angel,

"It is enough; now stay your hand."

Now the angel of the LORD was standing by the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

So when David lifted up his eyes and saw the angel of the LORD standing between the earth and the heavens, with a drawn sword in his hand stretched out over Jerusalem, then David and the elders, covered with sackcloth, fell upon 17 their faces; and David said to God,

"Is it not I who gave orders to number the people? I am the one who has sinned and done very wickedly; but these sheep, what have they done? O LORD, my God, let thy hand, I pray thee, be against me and against my father's house; but not against thy people that they should be plague-stricken."

18 Then the angel of the LORD told Gad to say to David, that David should go up and rear an altar to the LORD in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite.

19 So David went up at the word of Gad, which he spoke in the name of the 20 LORD; and when Ornan turned and saw the angel, his four sons who were with him hid themselves. Now Ornan was

21 threshing wheat and when David came to Ornan, Ornan looked up and saw David, and came out of the threshing-floor and did obeisance to David with 22 his face to the earth. Then David said to Ornan,

"Give me the place of the threshing-floor that I may build on it an altar to the LORD; for the full price you shall give it to me, that the plague may be stayed from the people."

23 "Take it as your own," said Ornan to David, "and let my lord the king do what is good in his sight. See, I give the oxen for a burnt-offering and the threshing-sledges for wood and the wheat for the cereal-offering—I give it all."

24 But King David said to Ornan, "No, but I will surely buy it for the full price; for I will not take that which is yours for the LORD, or offer a burnt-offering which costs me nothing."

25 So David gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold by weight.

26 Then David built there an altar to the LORD and offered burnt-offerings and thank-offerings. Accordingly when he called to the LORD, he answered him with fire from heaven upon the altar
27 of burnt-offering. Then the LORD spoke to the angel, and he put his sword again in its sheath.

28 At that time, when David saw that the LORD had answered him in the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite, 29 he sacrificed there. Now the dwelling of the LORD, which Moses had made in the desert, and the altar of burnt-offering were at that time in the high place at Gibeon; and David was not able to go before it to inquire of God, for he was afraid because of the sword of the angel of the LORD.

DAVID'S PREPARATIONS FOR THE TEMPLE AND ITS WORSHIP, 22:1—23:32

Then David said,

"This is the house of the LORD God, and this is the altar of burnt-offering for Israel."

Therefore David gave orders to gather together the foreigners who were in the land of Israel, and he set masons to hewing out cut stones to build the house of God. David also prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates and for the clamps, likewise bronze in abundance beyond weight; and innumerable cedar timbers, for the Sidonians and the Tyrians brought cedar timbers in abundance to David. Then David said,

"Solomon my son is young and inexperienced, and the house that is to be built for the LORD must be exceedingly magnificent, far-famed, and glorious throughout all lands. I will therefore prepare for it."

So David made extensive preparations before his death.

Then he called for Solomon his son and commanded him to build a house for the LORD, the God of Israel. Accordingly David said to Solomon his son,

"I myself had in mind to build a house to the name of the LORD my God. But the word of the LORD came to me saying, 'You have shed much blood, and have carried on great wars; you shall not build a house to my name, because you have shed much blood before me upon the earth. Behold, a son shall be born to you, who shall be a man of rest, and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about, for his name shall be Solomon [the peaceful one], and I will give peace and quietness to Israel in his days. He shall build a house to my name, and he shall be my son and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel forever.' Now, my son, the LORD be with you, that you may prosper and build the house of the LORD your God, 12 as he has spoken concerning you. Only the LORD give you discretion and insight when he gives you charge of Israel, that thus you may keep the law of the LORD your God. Then you will prosper, if you are careful to observe the statutes and the ordinances which the LORD commanded Moses concerning Israel. Be strong and courageous, 14 fear not, neither be dismayed. Now, behold, in my poverty, I have prepared for the house of the LORD a hundred thousand talents of gold, a million talents of silver, and bronze and iron so abundant that it cannot be weighed; timber also and stone I have prepared, 15 and you may add thereto. Moreover there are with you workmen in abundance, hewers and workers of stone and timber and all who are skilful in every 16 kind of work. Of the gold, the silver, the bronze, and the iron, there is no end. Arise and be doing, and the LORD be with you."

17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son:

18 "Is not the LORD your God with you, and has he not given you rest on every side? For he has delivered into my hand the inhabitants of the land, and the land is subdued before the 19 LORD and before his people. Now set your heart and your mind to seek the LORD your God; arise therefore, and build the sanctuary of the LORD God, that you may bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD and the holy vessels of God into the house that is to be built to the name of the LORD."

20 Accordingly when David had reached a ripe old age, he made Solomon his son 21 king over Israel. Then he gathered together all the princes of Israel, with the 22 priests and the Levites. Now the Levites were numbered from thirty years old and upward, and their number according to the polls of their males was 23 thirty-eight thousand. Of these twenty-four thousand were to oversee the work of the house of the LORD, and six thousand were recorders and judges, 24 and four thousand were doorkeepers, while four thousand were praising the LORD with instruments which were 25 made, to praise therewith; and David arranged them in divisions, according to the sons of Levi: Gershom, Kohath, and Merari.

Of the Gershonites, Ladan and 7 Shimei. Ladan's three sons were Jehiel 8 the chief, Zetham, and Joel. The three 9 sons of Shimei were Shelomoth, Haziël, and Haran; these were the heads of the families of Ladan. And the sons of 10 Shimei were Jahath, Ziza, Jeush, and Beriah. These four were the sons of Shimei. Jahath was the first and Zizah 11 the second; but Jeush and Beriah did not have many sons; they were therefore regarded as a family for one appointment.

The four sons of Kohath were Am- 12 ram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. The 13 sons of Amram were Aaron and Moses; and Aaron was set apart to be sanctified as most sacred, that he and his sons should burn incense before the LORD forever, to minister and to bless in his name for all time. As for Moses 14 the man of God, his sons were reckoned among the tribe of Levi. The sons of 15 Moses were Gershom and Eliezer. The 16 sons of Gershom were Shebuel the first; and the son of Eliezer was Rehabiah the 17 first; for Eliezer had no other sons, but the sons of Rehabiah were very many. Izhar's son was Shelomith the first. 18 The sons of Hebron were Jahiah, the 19 first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, and Jekameam the fourth. The 20 sons of Uzziel were Micah the first and Isshiah the second. The sons of Merari 21 were Mahli and Mushi, the sons of Mahli, Eleazar and Kish. Now Eleazar 22 died and had no sons, but daughters only; and their kinsmen, the sons of Kish, took them in marriage. The sons 23 of Mushi were three, Mahli, Eder, and Jeremoth.

These were the Levites according to 24 their father's houses, heads of families, according to their registration, by the number of names according to their polls, who did the work for the service of the house of the LORD, from twenty years old and upward. For David said, 25 "The LORD, the God of Israel, has given rest to his people, and he now dwells in Jerusalem for all time. So 26 the Levites shall no more be required to carry the dwelling or any of the utensils for its service."

For by the last words of David, the 27 number of the Levites was from twenty years old and upward. Likewise their 28 function was to attend the sons of Aaron for the service of the house of the LORD, about the courts and chambers, and in the purifying of all the holy things, even the work of the service of the house of God; for the bread that is arranged in layers, also, and for the fine flour for the cereal-offering, whether for unleavened cakes or that which is for the baking pan or what is mixed, and for all measures of capacity and measures of length; and to stand every morning to thank and praise the LORD and likewise at evening; and to offer all burnt-offerings to the LORD on the sabbaths and at the new moons, and at the fixed festivals, in number according to the ordinance concerning them, continually before the LORD; and that they should have charge of the tent of meeting, and the charge of the sanctuary, and the charge of the sons of Aaron their kinsmen, for the service of the house of the LORD.

DAVID'S ORGANIZATION OF THE TEMPLE STAFF,

24:1—26:32

24 Now the sons of Aaron were in divisions. The sons of Aaron were Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. But Nadab and Abihu died before their father and had no children; so Eleazar and Ithamar served as priests. Then David, with the aid of Zadok of the sons of Eleazar and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, divided them according to their appointment in their service. Now there were found to be more chief men of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar; therefore they assigned them thus: of the sons of Eleazar, sixteen heads of families and of the sons of Ithamar, eight according to families. Thus they divided them by lot, one like the other; for there were princes of the sanctuary and of God, both of the sons of Eleazar and of the sons of Ithamar. Moreover Shemaiah, the son of Nethanel the scribe, who was of the Levites, recorded them in the presence of the king and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech, the son of Abiathar, and the heads of families of the priests and of the Levites, one family being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar.

7 Now the first lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedaiah, the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, the fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin, the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah, the ninth to Jeshua, the tenth to Shecaniah, the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim, the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeah, the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer, the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Hapizzez, the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkel, the twenty-first to Jachin, the twenty-second to Gamul, the twenty-third to Delaiah, the twenty-fourth to Maaziah. Such was their appointment for their service to come into the house of the LORD according to the ordinance given them by Aaron their father, as the LORD, the God of Israel, had commanded him.

Also of the rest of the Levites, of the sons of Amram there was Shubael; of the sons of Shubael, Jehdeiah; of Rehabiah, the chief; of the Izharites, Shelomoth; of the sons of Shelomoth, Jahath; and of the sons of Hebron, Jariah the first, Amariah the second, Jahaziel the third, Jekameam the fourth. The son of Uzziel was Micah, of the sons of Micah, Shamir; the brother of Micah, Isshiah; of the sons of Isshiah, Zechariah. The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi; the son of Jaaziah, Beno. The sons of Merari, of Jaaziah, Beno, Shoham, Zaccur, and Ibri; of Mahli, Eleazar, who had no sons; of Kish, the sons of Kish, Jerahmeel; and the sons of Mushi were Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the Levites according to their families. They likewise cast lots, even as did their kinsmen the Aaronites before David the king, Zadok, Ahimelech, and the heads of families of the priests and of the Levites; the fathers of the chief, even as those of his younger brother.

David and the commanders of the army also set apart for the service certain of the sons of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, who should prophesy with lyres, harps, and cymbals; and the numbers of the men who did the work according to their service were: of the sons of Asaph, Zaccur, Joseph, Nethaniah, and Asharelah, the son of Asaph, under the direction of Asaph, who prophesied at the bidding of the king; of Jeduthun, the sons of Jeduthun, Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiah, Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six under the direction of their father Jeduthun with the lyre, who prophesied, thanking and praising the LORD; of Heman, the sons of Heman, Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, Romamtiezer, Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, Mahaziath. All these were the sons of Heman, the king's seer in the affairs of God, to lift up the horn. Moreover God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters. All these were under the direction of their father for song in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, harps, and lyres for the service of the house of God, while Asaph, Jeduthun, and Heman were at the command of the king. Also the number of them together with their kinsmen instructed in singing to the LORD, including all that were skilful, was two hundred and eighty-eight. They cast lots for their duties, the small as well as the great, the teacher as the pupil.

Now the first lot came forth for Asaph to Joseph, the second to Gedaliah, he and his kinsmen and his sons being twelve; the third to Zaccur, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the fourth to Izri, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the fifth to Nathaniah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the sixth to Bukkiah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the seventh to Jesharelah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the eighth to Jeshaiah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the ninth to Mattaniah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the tenth to Shimei, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the eleventh to Azarel, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; the twelfth to Hashabiah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the thirteenth Shubael, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the fourteenth Mattithiah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the fifteenth Jeremoth, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the sixteenth Hananiah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the seventeenth Joshbekashah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the eighteenth Hanani, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the nineteenth Mallothi, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the twentieth Eliathah, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the twenty-first Hothir, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the twenty-second Giddalti, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the twenty-third Mahazioth, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve; for the twenty-fourth Romamti-ezer, his sons and his kinsmen being twelve.

For the divisions of the doorkeepers there was of the Korahites, Meshelemiah, the son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph. Meshelemiah also had sons, Zechariah the first-born, Jedial the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth, Elam the fifth, Jehohanah the sixth, Eliehoenai the seventh. Obed-edom had sons, Shemaiah the first-born, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, Sacar the fourth, Nathanel the fifth, Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peullethai the eighth; for God blessed him. Also to Shemaiah his son were sons born, who ruled over the house of their father; for they were men of ability. The sons of Shemaiah were Othni, Rephael, Obed, and Elzabad, whose kinsmen were men of ability, Elihu and Semachiah. All these were of the sons of Obed-edom: they and their sons and their kinsmen were able men in strength for the service, sixty-two of Obed-edom. And Meshelemiah had sons and kinsmen, men of ability, eighteen in all. Also Hosah of the Merarites had sons, Shimri the chief; for though he was not the first-born, his father made him chief, Hilkiyah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth; all the sons and kinsmen of Hosah were thirteen.

Of these were the divisions of doorkeepers, even of the chief men, having functions like their kinsmen, to minister in the house of the LORD. They also cast lots, the small as well as the great, according to their families, for each gate. Thus the lot eastward fell to Shelemiah. Then for Zechariah his son, a discreet counselor, they cast lots and his lot came out northward; to Obed-edom southward, and to his sons the storehouse; to Hosah westward, to the gate that goes into the ascending highway, watch against watch. Eastward were six Levites, northward four a day, southward four a day, and for the storehouse two by two, for the colonnade westward, four at the high-

19 way and two at the colonnade. These were the divisions of the doorkeepers of the Korahites and the Merarites.

20 Also of the Levites, Ahijah was in charge of the treasures of the house of God, and the treasures of the dedicated

21 things. The sons of Ladan, the descendants of Gershon through Ladan, the heads of families of Ladan the Ger-

22 shonite, Jehieli and his kinsmen, Zetham and Joel, were in charge of the 23 treasures of the house of God. Of the Amramites, Izharites, Hebronites, and 24 Uzzielites was Shebuel, son of Gershon, son of Moses, ruler over the

25 treasures, and his kinsmen through Eliezer were Rehabiah his son, Jeshaiah his son, Joram his son, Zichri his son,

26 and Shelomoth his son. This Shelomoth and his kinsmen were in charge of all the treasures of dedicated things which David the king and the heads of families, the commanders of thousands and hundreds, and the commanders of the 27 army, had dedicated. From wars and from the spoil they dedicated them for the repair of the house of the LORD.

28 Thus all that Samuel the seer had dedicated as well as Saul, the son of Kish, Abner, the son of Ner, and Joab, the son of Zeruiah—whoever dedicated anything, it was under the charge of

29 Shelomoth and his kinsmen. Of the Izharites, Chenaniah and his sons were for the outward business over Israel, as

30 scribes and judges. Of the Hebronites, Hashabiah and his kinsmen, one thousand seven hundred able men, were in charge of Israel beyond the Jordan westward for all the work of the LORD

31 and the service of the king. Jerijah was chief of the Hebronites, even the Hebronites, according to their generations by families. In the fortieth year of the reign of David there were sought out and found among them valiant

32 men, Jazer of Gilead and his kinsmen, men of valor, two thousand seven hundred heads of families; and David the king appointed them over the Reubenites, the Gadites, and the half-tribe of Manasseh for every affair of God and every affair of the king.

DAVID'S ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICERS, 27:1-34

27 Now the Israelites according to their number, heads of families, commanders of thousands and of hundreds, and their scribes that served the king in every matter of the divisions that came in and went out month by month throughout all the months of the year, of every division there were twenty-four thousand. Over the first division for the first month was Jashobeam, the son of Zabdiel, and in his division were twenty-four thousand; he was one of the sons of the descendants of Perez, the chief of all the commanders of the army for the first month. Over the division of the second month, Dodai the Ahohite and his division, and Mikloth the leader; and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The third commander of the army of the third month was Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada the priest, chief; and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The same was Benaiah, a hero of the Thirty, and in charge of the Thirty; and of his division was Ammizabad his son. The fourth for the fourth month was Asahel, the brother of Joab, and Zebadiah his son after him, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The fifth commander for the fifth month was Shammuth the Izrahite, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The sixth for the sixth month was Ira, the son of Ikkesh the Tekoite, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The seventh for the seventh month was Helez the Pelonite of the Ephraimites, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The eighth for the eighth month was Sibbecai the Hushathite of the Zerahites, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The ninth for the ninth month was Abiezer the Anathothite of the Benjaminites, and in his division there were twenty-four thousand. The tenth for the tenth month was Maharai the Netophathite of the Zerahites, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The eleventh for the eleventh month was Benaiah the Pirathonite of the Ephraimites, and in his division were twenty-four thousand. The twelfth for the twelfth month was Heldai the Netophathite of Othniel, and in his division were twenty-four thousand.

Furthermore in command of the tribes of Israel there were Eliezer, the son of Zichri, ruler of the Reubenites

Shephatiah, the son of Maacah of the 17 Simeonites, Hashabiah, the son of Kemuel of the Levites, Zadok of Aaron, 18 Elihu, one of the brothers of David of Judah, Omri, the son of Michael of 19 Issachar, Ishmaiah, the son of Obadiah of Zebulun, Jeremoth, the son of Azriel 20 of Naphtali, Hoshea, the son of Azariah of the Ephraimites, Joel, the son of Pedaiah of the half-tribe of Manasseh
 21 in Gilead, Iddo, the son of Zechariah of the half-tribe of Manasseh, Jaasiel, 22 the son of Abner of Benjamin, Azarel, the son of Jeroham of Dan. These were in command of the tribes of Israel.
 23 Now David did not take the census of those under twenty years of age, because the LORD had said that he would increase Israel like the stars of the 24 heavens. Joab, the son of Zeruiah, began the census but he did not complete it; and since this brought wrath upon Israel, the census was not entered in the records of the Chronicles of King David.

25 Now over the king's stores was Azmaveth, the son of Adiel, and over the stores in the fields, in the cities, in the villages and watchtowers, was Jona-26 than, the son of Uziah. Ezri, the son of Chelub, was overseer of the field 27 workers for tilling the soil. Over the vineyards was Shimei the Ramathite; and over the increase of the vineyards 28 was Zabdi the Shiphmite; over the olive trees and sycamores which were in the lowlands was Baal-hanan the Gedrite, 29 and over the stores of oil Joash; and over the herds that pastured in Sharon was Shitrai the Sharonite, and over the herds that pastured in the valleys was 30 Shaphat, the son of Adlai; over the camels was Obil the Ishmaelite, and over the asses was Jehdeiah the Meron-31 othite; over the flocks was Jaziz the Hagrite. All these were overseers of the property of King David.

2 Also Jonathan, David's uncle, was a counselor, a man of understanding and a scribe; and Jehiel, the son of Hachmoni, was a companion of the king's 3 sons. Ahithophel was also the king's counselor; and Hushai the Archite was the king's friend, and after Ahitho-phel was Jehoiada, the son of Benaiah, and Abiathar; and Joab was commander of the king's army.

DAVID ENTRUSTS TO SOLO- MON THE PLANS FOR THE TEMPLE, 28:1-21

Then David assembled at Jerusalem 28
 all the commanding officers of Israel, the chiefs of the tribes, the heads of the divisions that ministered to the king, the commanders of thousands and the commanders of hundreds, and the overseers of all the property and possessions of the king and of his sons, together with the eunuchs and the heroes, even all the valiant men. Thereupon David 2 rose to his feet and said,

"Hear me, my kinsmen and my people; I had in mind to build a house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD and for a footstool of the feet of our God; and I had prepared to build it, but God said to me, 'You shall not 3 build a house for my name, for you are a man of wars and have shed blood.'
 However, the LORD, the God of Israel, 4 chose me out of all my father's house to be king over Israel forever, for he has chosen Judah to be prince; and from the house of Judah, my father's house, and from my father's sons, he took pleasure in me to make me king over all Israel.
 Now of all my sons—for the LORD has 5 given me many—he has chosen Solomon my son to sit upon the throne of the LORD's kingdom over Israel, and 6
 he has said to me, 'Solomon your son shall build my house and my courts for I have chosen him to be a son to me, and I will be a father to him; I will 7 establish his kingdom even forever, if he be strong to perform my commands, and my ordinances as at this day.'
 Now therefore in the sight of all Israel, 8 the assembly of the LORD, and in the hearing of our God be careful to seek after all the commands of the LORD your God, in order that you may continue to possess this good land, and leave it as an inheritance to your children after you for all time. As for you, 9
 Solomon my son, learn to know the God of your father and serve him with a perfect heart and a willing mind; for the LORD searches all hearts and understands all the imagination of the thoughts. If you seek him, he will be found of you; but if you forsake him, he will reject you forever. Take heed 10 now, for the LORD has chosen you to build a house for the sanctuary; be strong and do it."

- 11 Then David gave to Solomon his son the pattern of the porch, its houses, its treasuries, its upper chambers, and its rooms within, and the house of propitiation; and the pattern of all that he had by the spirit for the courts of the house of the LORD and for all the chambers round about, for the treasuries of the house of God, and for the treasuries of
- 12 the dedicated things; also for the divisions of the priests and the Levites and for all the work of the service of the house of the LORD and for all the utensils of the service of the house of the
- 13 LORD; and of gold by weight for the gold of the utensils of service of every sort, and for all the utensils of silver by weight for all the vessels of service of
- 14 every sort; and the weight for the golden lampstands, and their lamps of gold by weight for every lampstand and their lamps; and for the silver lampstands by weight for every lampstand according to the service of every lamp-
- 15 stand; and the gold by weight for the tables of the bread that is arranged in layers, for every table; and silver for
- 16 the tables of silver; and for the forks, basins, and jars of pure gold, and for the golden bowls by weight for every bowl, and of the silver bowls by weight
- 17 for every bowl; and for the altar of incense of refined gold by weight, and gold for the pattern of the chariot of the cherubim, flying and covering the ark of the covenant of the LORD.
- 18 "The whole in writing is from the hand of the LORD to me, causing me to understand, even all the works of the pattern."
- 19 David also said to Solomon his son, "Be strong and courageous, and do it; fear not, nor be dismayed, for the LORD God, even my God, is with you; he will not fail you nor forsake you until all the work of the service of the house
- 20 of the LORD is finished. Now behold the pattern of the porch and its houses, its treasuries, its upper rooms, and its inner chambers, and of the house of propitiation, even the pattern of the house of the LORD. Behold also the divisions of the priests and the Levites for all the service of the house of God; and there shall be with you for all manner of work every willing man that has
- 21 skill for all manner of service; also the overseers and all the people will be entirely at your command."

THE CLOSING SCENES OF DAVID'S LIFE, 29:1-30

Then David, the king, said to all the assembly,

"Solomon my son, whom alone God has chosen, is still young and inexperienced, and the work is great; for the palace is not for man but for the LORD God. Now I have prepared with all my vigor for the house of my God the gold for the things to be of gold, silver for the silver, bronze for the bronze, iron for the iron, wood for the uses of wood, stones of onyx, and stones to be set, stones of antimony, stones of various colors, and all sorts of precious stones and marble plentifully. Furthermore in my devotion to the house of my God, as I have a private treasure of gold and silver, I give it for the house of my God over and above all that I have prepared for the sanctuary, namely, three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand talents of refined silver, for overlaying the walls of the buildings, gold for the uses of gold, silver for the silver, even for every work by the hands of workmen. Now who will make a voluntary offering today like one consecrating himself to the priesthood?"

Then the heads of families and the princes of the tribes of Israel, the commanders of thousands, the commanders of hundreds, and the overseers of the work of the king made a voluntary offering; they thus gave for the service of the house of God five thousand talents of gold, beside ten thousand darics, ten thousand talents of silver, eighteen thousand talents of bronze, and a hundred thousand talents of iron. Those in possession of stones gave them to the treasure of the house of the LORD, in charge of Jehiel the Gershonite. Then the people rejoiced for they offered willingly, because with a perfect heart they offered voluntary offerings to the LORD; and David the king also rejoiced greatly.

So David blessed the LORD in the sight of all the assembly, and David said,

"Blessed art thou, O LORD God of Israel, our father forever and ever.

1 Thine, O LORD, is the greatness and the power and the glory and the pre-eminence and the majesty, for all that is in the heavens and on the earth is thine; thine is the dominion O LORD, and thou art exalted as the supreme head.

2 Riches and honor come from thee, since thou rulest over all; in thy hand are power and might, and it lies in thy hand to make all great and strong.

3 Now therefore our God we thank thee and praise thy glorious name. Yet who am I and what is my people that we should be able to offer such voluntary offerings? for all things come from thee, and we give thee only what is thine.

4 For we are strangers before thee and passing guests as all our fathers were; our days upon earth are like a shadow and without hope. O LORD our God, all these materials that we have prepared to build thee a house for thy holy name came from thy hand and are all thine own. I know also, O my God, that thou triest the heart and delightest in uprightness. As for me, in the uprightness of my heart I have freely offered all these things, and now I have seen with joy thy people that are present here make a voluntary offering to thee. O LORD, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, our fathers, keep this forever as the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and direct their hearts toward thee; and grant to Solomon my son a perfect heart to keep thy commands, thy decrees, and thy statutes, and to do all these things and to build the palace for which I have made provision."

5 Then David said to all the assembly, "Bless now the LORD your God."

Thereupon all the assembly blessed the LORD, the God of their fathers, and bowed down and did obeisance before the LORD and before the king. On the next day they also sacrificed sacrifices and offered burnt-offerings to the LORD, a thousand bulls, a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs with their libations, and sacrifices in abundance for all Israel, and ate and drank before the LORD that day with great rejoicing.

Then they made Solomon, the son of David, king the second time, and anointed him to be the prince of the LORD, and Zadok to be priest. So Solomon sat on the throne of the LORD as king in place of David his father, and prospered; and all Israel obeyed him. Accordingly all the princes and heroes, as well as all the sons of King David, submitted to Solomon the king. Moreover the LORD exalted Solomon greatly in the sight of all Israel, bestowing upon him such royal majesty as no king before him in Israel had enjoyed.

Now David, the son of Jesse, ruled over all Israel. The time that he ruled over Israel was forty years; he reigned seven years in Hebron, and thirty-three years in Jerusalem. At length he died at a ripe old age, wealthy and honored, and Solomon his son became king in his stead. Now the records of David the king from first to last, behold, they are written in the Records of Samuel the seer and the Records of Nathan the prophet and the Records of Gad the seer, with all his reign and his prowess and the times through which he and Israel passed, and likewise all the kingdoms of the other countries.

THE SECOND BOOK OF CHRONICLES

SOLOMON'S PRAYER AND ITS ANSWER, 1:1-17

- 1 NOW Solomon, the son of David, established himself over his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him and
- 2 greatly exalted him. Accordingly Solomon spoke to all Israel, to the commanders of thousands and of hundreds, to the judges and to every prince in all
- 3 Israel, heads of families. Then Solomon accompanied by the whole assembly went to the high place that was at Gibeon, for there was the tent of meeting of God, which Moses, the servant of the LORD, had made in the desert.
- 4 But David had brought up the ark of God from Kirjathjearim to the place that David had prepared for it, for he had pitched a tent for it at Jerusalem.
- 5 Moreover the bronze altar, that Bezalel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made, was there before the dwelling
- 6 of the LORD, and Solomon and the assembly resorted to it. Solomon accordingly made an offering there on the bronze altar before the LORD which was at the tent of meeting, and offered upon it a thousand burnt-offerings.
- 7 The following night God appeared to Solomon, and said to him, "Ask what I shall do for you."
- 8 Then Solomon said to God, "Thou hast shown great kindness to David my father and hast made me king in his stead. Now O LORD God, let thy promise to David my father be established; for thou hast made me king over a people as numerous as the
- 10 dust of the earth. Give me now wisdom and knowledge, that I may go out and come in before this people; for who can judge this great people of thine?"
- 11 Then God said to Solomon, "Because this was in your mind and you have not asked for riches, wealth, or honor, nor the life of those who hate you, and have not asked for long life, but have asked wisdom and knowledge for yourself, that you may judge my people over whom I have made you king, wisdom and knowledge are granted to you, and I will give you riches and wealth and honor, such as none of the kings have had who have been before you, nor shall any after you have the like."

So Solomon came from the high place which was at Gibeon from before the tent of meeting to Jerusalem; and he reigned over Israel.

Now Solomon gathered together chariots and horsemen until he had fourteen hundred chariots and twelve thousand horsemen that he placed in the chariot cities and with the king at Jerusalem. Likewise the king made silver and gold as common in Jerusalem as stones, and cedar as plentiful as sycamores in the lowland. Now Solomon's import of horses was from Egypt and from Kue, the king's dealers being accustomed to receive them for a price. Also they brought up and took from Egypt a chariot for six hundred shekels of silver and a horse for a hundred and fifty; and so for all the kings of the Hittites and the kings of Aram, they were brought out through their agency.

SOLOMON PREPARES TO BUILD THE TEMPLE, 2:1-18

Now Solomon directed that a house be built for the name of the LORD, and a house for his kingdom. So Solomon told off seventy thousand men as forced laborers, and eighty thousand woodcutters in the mountains, besides three thousand six hundred to oversee them. Moreover Solomon sent to Hiram, king of Tyre, saying,

"As you dealt with David my father when you sent him cedars to build himself a house for his residence, so now I am about to build a house for the name of the LORD my God, to dedicate it to him, and to burn before him incense of sweet spices, and for the continual array of layers of bread and for the burnt-offering morning and evening, on the sabbaths and at the new moons, and fixed festivals of the LORD our God (which are perpetually binding upon Israel). Moreover the house which I am about to build is to be great, for our God is greater than all gods. But who is able to build him a house, since the heavens and the very highest heavens cannot contain him? Who am I then, that I should build him a house, to burn incense before it? Now therefore, send me a man skilled to work in gold and silver, in bronze and iron, in purple, crimson, and violet stuffs, and who knows how to engrave engravings in conjunction with the skilled men who are with me in Judah and Jerusalem, whom David my father provided. Send me also cedars, firs, and sandalwood from Lebanon, for I know that your servants understand how to cut timber in Lebanon, and, behold, my servants will join with your servants to prepare the timber in abundance, for the house which I am about to build is to be great and wonderful. See now, I will indeed give your servants the cutters that cut the timber twenty thousand kors of crushed wheat, twenty thousand kors of barley, twenty thousand baths of wine, and twenty thousand baths of oil."

Then Hiram, king of Tyre, answered in writing and sent it to Solomon,

"Because the LORD loves his people he has made you king over them."

Moreover Hiram said,

"Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who made the heavens and the earth, who has given to David the king a wise son, endued with discretion and understanding, who should build a house for the LORD and a house for his kingdom. Now then I have sent a skilful man, endued with understanding, Huram-abi, the son of a Danite woman, but his father was a Tyrian, who knows how to work in gold, silver, bronze, iron, stone, and wood, in purple, violet, and fine linen, and in crimson, also to perform all manner of engraving and to sketch any artistic device that may be assigned to him, together with your skilled workmen and the skilled workmen of my lord David, your father. Therefore the wheat and the barley, the oil and the wine, of which my lord has spoken, let him send to his servants, and we will cut the timber out of Lebanon according to all your requirement, and we will bring it to you by sea to Joppa, and you shall take it up to Jerusalem."

Then Solomon took a census of all the resident aliens who were in the land of Israel, according to the census which David his father had made; and there were found a hundred and fifty-three thousand six hundred. Accordingly he made seventy thousand of them laborers, and eighty thousand hewers in the mountains, and three thousand six hundred overseers to see that the people worked.

PLANS AND SPECIFICATIONS FOR THE TEMPLE, 3:1-17

Then Solomon began to build the house of the LORD at Jerusalem on Mount Moriah where the LORD had appeared to David his father, in the place which David had prepared, on the threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. He began to build on the second day of the second month in the fourth year of his reign. Now these are the foundations which Solomon laid for the building of the house of God. The length according to the old measure was sixty cubits and the breadth twenty cubits. Also the porch that was in front—its length, corresponding to the breadth of the house, was twenty cubits, and the height one hundred and twenty; and he overlaid it within with pure gold. And the large room he ceiled with cypress wood which he overlaid with fine gold and worked on it palm trees and chains. He adorned the house with exquisite precious stones, and the gold was gold of Parvaim. He also covered the house, the beams, the thresholds, the walls, and the doors with gold, and engraved cherubim on the walls. Likewise he made the most sacred room: its length, corresponding to the breadth of the house, was twenty cubits and its breadth twenty cubits, and he covered it with fine gold, amounting to six hundred talents. Moreover the weight of the nails was fifty shekels of gold each, and he covered the upper chambers with gold. In the most sacred room he made two cherubim of image work and they overlaid them with gold. The wings of the cherubim were twenty cu-

- bits in length; the wing of the one cherub extended five cubits to the wall of the house, and the other wing likewise extended five cubits to the wing of the other cherub; and the one wing of the other cherub extended five cubits to the wall of the house, while the other wing joined the wing of the other cherub. The wings of these cherubim as they flew were twenty cubits, though they stood on their feet with their faces toward the house.
- 14 He also made a veil of violet, purple, crimson, and fine linen, and worked cherubim on it.
- 15 Moreover he made in front of the house two columns thirty-four and two thirds cubits high, with a capital five cubits in height on the top of each. He also made chains in the inner room and put them on the top of the columns; and he made a hundred pomegranates
- 17 and put them on the chains. So he set up the columns in front of the temple, one on the right hand and the other on the left; and he called the name of the one on the right hand Jachin, and the name of the one on the left Boaz.

THE EQUIPMENT OF THE TEMPLE, 4:1-22

- 4 Moreover he made an altar of bronze twenty cubits long, twenty cubits broad, and ten cubits high. He also made the molten sea, ten cubits in diameter from brim to brim, round in form, five cubits high, and thirty cubits in circumference; and underneath it were the figures of bulls encircling it for ten cubits, completely surrounding the sea. The bulls were in two rows,
- 4 cast when it was cast. It stood on twelve bulls, three facing north, three facing west, three facing south, and three facing east; and the sea was superimposed upon them, while their
- 5 haunches were all directed inward. It was about four inches thick and the brim was made like the brim of a cup, like a lily bud, and it had a capacity of
- 6 three thousand baths. He also made ten lavers, and put five on the right side and five on the left, for use in washing; such things as the burnt-offering they washed in them; but the sea was for the
- 7 priests to wash in. He made ten lampstands of gold according to their pattern and he placed them in the temple, five on the right side and five on the left. He also made ten tables and set them in the temple, five on the right side and five on the left; and he made a hundred basins of gold. Furthermore he made the court of the priests, and the great court, and the doors for the court, and he overlaid the doors with bronze. He put the sea on the right side of the house facing the southeast. Hiram also made the pots, the shovels, and the basins. So Hiram completed the work which he did for King Solomon in the house of God: two columns, the two bowl-shaped capitals that were on the top of the columns, the two networks to cover the two bowls of the capitals that were on the top of the columns, and the four hundred pomegranates for the two networks, two rows of pomegranates for each network, to cover the two bowl-shaped capitals that were on the top of the columns. He also made stands and he made lavers upon the stands; the one sea, with the twelve bulls under it, the pots, the shovels, the forks, and all their utensils did Hiram his father make for King Solomon, for the house of the LORD, of burnished bronze.

The king cast them in the plain of the Jordan, in the clay ground between Succoth and Zeredah. Thus Solomon made an enormous amount of these utensils, for the weight of the bronze was beyond reckoning. Likewise Solomon made all the utensils that were in the house of God, also the golden altar, the tables, upon which was the Presence-bread, the lampstands with their lamps to burn according to the prescription before the inner room, of rare gold, the flowers, the lamps, and the tongs of gold, and that purest gold, the snuffers, basins, cups, and the fire pans of rare gold. Even the entrance of the house and its doors in front of the sacred place and the doors of the house, that is, for the temple, were of gold.

THE DEDICATION OF THE TEMPLE, 5:1-7:10

Thus all the work which Solomon performed for the house of the LORD was completed, and Solomon brought in the things which David his father had dedicated; and the silver and gold and all the utensils he put in the treasures of the house of God. Then Solomon assembled the elders of Israel and all the heads of the tribes, the princes of families of the Israelites, to Jerusalem, to bring up the ark of the covenant of the LORD from the city of David, that is Zion. So all the men of Israel assembled to the king at the feast in the seventh month. Likewise all the elders of Israel came, and the Levites took up the ark; and they brought up the ark of meeting and all the holy utensils that were in the ark; the priests and the Levites brought these up. Then King Solomon and all the assembly of Israel, that were assembled to him, were before the ark sacrificing so many sheep and oxen that they could not be counted or numbered. Then the priests brought the ark of the covenant of the LORD to its place in the inner room of the house, in the most holy place, beneath the wings of the cherubim, for the cherubim had their wings spread over the place of the ark, so that the cherubim made a covering above the ark and its poles. But the poles were so long that the ends of the poles were seen from the ark in front of the inner room, yet they were not seen outside, and there they are to this day. There was nothing in the ark except the two tablets which Moses had placed there at Horeb, when the LORD made a covenant with the Israelites at the time they came out of Egypt.

Now when the priests came out of the sanctuary (for all the priests who were present sanctified themselves), there was no attempt to keep their divisions. The Levites who were singers, all of them, Asaph, Heman, Jeduthun, their sons, and their kinsmen, clothed in fine linen, with cymbals, lyres, and harps, stood at the east side of the altar and with them a hundred and twenty priests blowing upon trumpets. Now when the trumpeters and singers joined in unison to make a great volume of sound in praising and thanking the LORD, and when they raised a sound with trumpets and with cymbals and with instruments of song, and when they praised the LORD, saying, "For he is good;

For his kindness is everlasting," then the house was filled with a cloud, even the house of the LORD; so that the priests were not able to stand to minister because of the cloud; for the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD.

Then Solomon said,

"The LORD has said that he would dwell in thick darkness, but I have built thee a house of lofty abode and a fixed place for thee to dwell in forever."

Then the king faced about and blessed all the assembly of Israel, and all the assembly of Israel stood up; and he said,

"Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel, who spoke with his own mouth to David my father, and with his own hands has fulfilled it, saying, 'Since the day that I brought forth my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no city out of all the tribes of Israel in which to build a house that my name might be there, neither did I choose any man to be a ruler over my people Israel; but I have chosen Jerusalem that my name might be there, and I chose David to be over my people Israel.' Now it was in the mind of David my father to build a house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel, but the LORD said to David my father, 'Because it was in your mind to build a house for my name, you did well that it was in your mind; nevertheless you yourself shall not build the house but your son, who shall come forth from your loins, he shall build the house for my name.' Now the LORD has made good his word that he spoke; for I have risen up in the place of David my father and sit upon the throne of Israel, as the LORD promised, and I have built the house for the name of the LORD, the God of Israel; and there I have put the ark in which is the covenant of the LORD, which he made with the Israelites."

Then he stood up before the altar of the LORD in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel and spread forth his hands. For Solomon had made a bronze platform five cubits long, five cubits wide, and three cubits high, and had set it in the midst of the court; and he stood upon it, and kneeled upon his knees before all the assembly of Israel, and stretched out his hands toward the heavens, and said,

"O LORD, the God of Israel, there is no God like thee in the heavens or on the earth, who keepest loving faith with thy servants who walk before thee 15 with all their heart, who hast kept with thy servant David my father that which thou didst promise him; for thou didst speak with thy mouth and with thy hand thou hast fulfilled it, as it is 16 this day. Now therefore, O LORD, the God of Israel, keep with thy servant

 David my father that which thou didst promise him, saying, 'You shall never lack a man in my sight to sit upon the throne of Israel, if only your sons take heed to their way, to walk in my law as 17 you have walked before me.' Now therefore, O LORD, the God of Israel, let thy word be confirmed which thou hast spoken to thy servant David.

18 "But can God really dwell with man upon the earth? Behold, the heavens and the highest heavens cannot contain thee; how much less this house which I 19 have built! Yet turn thou to the prayer of thy servant and to his supplication, O LORD my God, to listen to the cry and to the prayer which thy servant 20 offers before thee, that thine eyes may be open toward this house day and night, even toward the place of which thou hast said thou wouldst put thy name there; to listen to the prayer which thy servant shall pray toward 21 this place; and listen thou to the sup-plications of thy servant and thy people Israel, when they shall pray toward this place; yea, hear thou from thy dwelling-place, even from the heavens, and when thou hearest forgive.

22 "If a man sin against his neighbor, and an oath be laid on him compelling him to swear, and he come and swear 23 before thine altar in this house, then do thou hear from the heavens; take action and judge thy servants, punishing the wicked by bringing his course of action upon his own head, and vindicating the righteous by rewarding him according to his righteousness.

24 "Moreover if thy people Israel be defeated before the enemy because they have sinned against thee, if they turn and confess thy name and pray and make supplication before thee in this 25 house, then hear thou from the heavens and forgive the sin of thy people Israel and restore them to the land which thou gavest to them and to their fathers.

26 "When the heavens are shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against thee, if they pray toward this place and confess thy name and turn from their sin, when thou dost afflict them, then hear thou from the heavens and forgive the sin of thy servants and thy people Israel, when thou teachest them the good way in which they should walk, and send rain upon thy land, which thou hast given to thy people as a heritage.

"If there be in the land a famine, if there be pestilence, blasting, mildew, locusts, or caterpillars, if their enemies besiege them in any of their gates, whatever be the plague, whatever be the sickness—whatever prayer, whatever supplication be made by any man, or by all thy people Israel, who knows each his own affliction and his own sorrow, and stretches out his hands toward this house, then hear thou from the heavens thy dwelling-place and forgive and render to every man according to all his ways, whose heart thou know-est (for thou, even thou alone, knowest the hearts of the sons of men), that in fear of thee they may walk in thy ways as long as they live in the land which thou gavest to our fathers.

"Moreover concerning the resident alien, who is not of thy people Israel, but comes from a far country for thy great name's sake and thy mighty hand and thy outstretched arm, when they shall come and pray toward this house, then hear thou from the heavens thy dwelling-place and do in accordance with all that the alien petitions of thee, that all the peoples of the earth may know thy name and fear thee, as do thy people Israel, and that they may know that this house which I have built is called by thy name.

"If thy people go out to battle against their enemies, by whatever way thou shalt send them, and they pray to thee in the direction of this city which thou hast chosen and the house which I have built for thy name, then hear thou from 24 the heavens their prayer and their supplication, and uphold their cause.

"If they sin against thee (for there is no man who does not sin), and thou be angry with them and deliver them to the enemy, so that they carry them away captive to a land far off or near;
 yet if they take thought in the land to which they have been carried captive, and turn again and make supplication to thee in the land of their captivity, saying, 'We have sinned, we have acted 88 perversely and wickedly,' if they return to thee with all their mind and heart, in the land of their captivity to which they have been carried captive, and pray in the direction of their land, which thou gavest to their fathers, and the city which thou hast chosen, and the house which I have built for thy 19 name, then hear thou from the heavens thy dwelling-place their prayer and their supplication, and uphold their cause and forgive thy people who have sinned against thee.

0 "Now O my God, let, I pray thee, thine eyes be open and thine ears attentive to the prayer made in this place.
 1 Now therefore O LORD God, arise to thy resting place, thou and the ark of thy strength; let thy priests O LORD God, be clothed with salvation and let thy pious ones rejoice in prosperity.
 2 O LORD God, turn not away the face of thine anointed; remember thy kindness toward David thy servant."

Now when Solomon had finished praying, the fire came down from the heavens and consumed the burnt-offering and the sacrifices, and the glory
 2 of the LORD filled the temple, so that the priests could not enter the house of the LORD, for the glory of the LORD filled the house of the LORD; and all the Israelites looked on, when the fire came down and the glory of the LORD was upon the temple; then they bowed
 3 down with their faces to the earth upon the pavement, and worshiped and gave thanks to the LORD:

"For he is good;

For his kindness is everlasting."

Then the king and all the people offered sacrifices before the LORD. King Solomon made a sacrifice of twenty-two thousand cattle and a hundred and twenty thousand sheep. So the king and all the people dedicated the house of God. Moreover the priests stood according to their appointed stations, the Levites also with instruments for the song of the LORD, which David the king had made to give thanks to the LORD (for his kindness is everlasting), when David offered praise by their aid; and the priests blew the trumpets before them, and all Israel stood up. Solomon also sanctified the interior of the court that was before the house of the LORD; for there he offered the burnt-offerings and the fat pieces of the thank-offerings, because the bronze altar which Solomon had made was unable to contain the burnt-offering, the cereal-offering, and the fat pieces.

Thus Solomon held the feast at that time seven days, and all Israel with him, a very great assembly from the Pass of Hamath to the Brook of Egypt. Then on the eighth day they held a closing celebration; for they gave seven days to the dedication of the altar and seven days to the feast. So on the 10 twenty-third day of the seventh month he sent the people away to their homes, rejoicing and glad of heart, because of the goodness which the LORD had shown to David and Solomon, and to Israel his people.

SOLOMON'S VISION, 7:11-22

Thus Solomon finished the house of 11 the LORD and the king's house, and all that came into Solomon's mind to make in the house of the LORD and in his own house he carried out successfully. Then 12 the LORD appeared to Solomon by night and said to him,

"I have heard your prayer and have chosen this place as my house of sacrifice. If I shut up the heavens so that 13 there is no rain, if I command the locust to devour the land, and if I send a pestilence among my people, then if my 14 people who are called by my name humble themselves and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, I also will hear from the heavens and will forgive their sins and heal their land. Now my eyes shall be open and 15 my ears attentive to the prayer offered in this place. Therefore I have chosen 16 and sanctified this house that my name may be there forever, and my eyes and my heart shall be there always. As for 17 you, if you will conduct yourself before me as did David your father and do just as I have commanded you and keep my statutes and my ordinances, then will 18 I establish the throne of your kingdom as I covenanted with David your father, saying, 'You shall never lack a man to rule over Israel.' But if you
 19 turn and forsake my statutes and my commands which I have set before you and go and serve other gods and worship them, then will I uproot them out 20 of my land which I gave to them, and this house which I have sanctified for myself I will cast out of my sight, and I will make it a proverb and a byword 21 among all peoples. And as for this house which is so exalted, every passer-by shall be amazed and say, 'Why has the LORD done thus to this land and to 22 this house?' Then they shall say, 'Because they forsook the LORD, the God of their fathers, who brought them out of the land of Egypt, and took up with other gods and worshiped them and served them; therefore he has brought upon them all this evil.' "

SOLOMON'S ADMINISTRATION,

8 Now at the end of twenty years, during which Solomon had built the house 2 of the LORD and his own house, Solomon built up the cities which Hiram had given to Solomon and caused the Israelites to dwell there.

3 Then Solomon went against Hamath-zobah and conquered it. He also built 4 Tadmor in the desert and all the store-cities which he built in Hamath. Moreover he built Beth-horon the upper and 5 Beth-horon the lower, fortified cities 6 with walls, double gates, and bars, and Baalath and all the store-cities that Solomon had and all the cities for chariots and the cities for horsemen, and all that Solomon was pleased to build in Jerusalem, in Lebanon, and throughout all his realm.

7 As for all the people who were left of the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Hivvites, and the Jebusites, 8 who were not of Israel, of their descendants who were left after them in the land, whom the Israelites did not wipe out, Solomon raised a forced levy of 9 slaves, as it is to this day. But of the Israelites Solomon made no slaves for his work, but they were his soldiers, the commanders of his officers, and the commanders of his chariots and his horsemen. Now these were the garrison commanders whom King Solomon had, 10 even two hundred and fifty who exercised authority over the people. Solomon brought up the daughter of Pharaoh from the city of David to the house which he had built for her, for he 11 said,

"My wife shall not dwell in the house of David, king of Israel, because the places are holy wherever the ark of God has come."

Then Solomon offered burnt-offerings to the LORD upon the altar of the LORD, which he had built in front of the porch, according to the prescription for each day, offering according to the command of Moses, on the sabbath, at the new moons, and the fixed festivals, three times a year, the feast of unleavened cakes, the feast of weeks, and the feast of booths. According to the ordinance of David his father he appointed the divisions of the priests for their service, and the Levites to their functions, to praise and to minister before the priests according to the requirement of each day, and the doorkeepers by their divisions at each gate, for such was the command of David, the man of God; and they did not turn 1 from the commands of the king concerning the priests and the Levites in any respect nor concerning the treasures. Thus all the work of Solomon 1 was accomplished from the day of the foundation of the house of the LORD to the completion of the house of the LORD by Solomon.

Then Solomon went to Ezion-geber, 1 and to Eloth on the seashore in the land of Elam; and Hiram sent him by the 1 hands of his servants ships and servants that had knowledge of the sea; and they came with the servants of Solomon to Ophir, and brought from there four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and brought them to King Solomon.

THE VISIT OF THE QUEEN OF SHEBA, 9:1-12

Now when the queen of Sheba heard 1 of the fame of Solomon, she came to test him with hard questions at Jerusalem, accompanied by a very large retinue, with camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones, and when she came to Solomon, she conversed with him about all that was in her mind; and Solomon answered all 2 her questions; there was nothing hidden from Solomon which he could not explain to her. Then when the queen of Sheba had seen the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, the viands 3 of his table, the appointment of his servants, the attendance of his waiters, their clothing, his cupbearers, their clothing, and the burnt-offerings which he used to offer at the house of the LORD, there was no more spirit in her.

5 So she said to the king,

"The report which I heard in my own land of your affairs and your wisdom was true; but I would not believe their words until I came and saw with my own eyes, and behold, the half was not told me about your great wisdom; you surpass the report which I heard. Happy are your wives, and happy are these servants of yours who stand before you continually and hear your wisdom! Blessed be the LORD your God who delighted in you, to set you on his throne to be king for the LORD your God. Because your God loved Israel to establish them forever, he has made you king over them, to administer justice and righteousness."

9 Then she gave the king five and a half talents of gold, a very great amount of spices and precious stones; there never were such spices as the queen of Sheba gave to Solomon. Also the servants of Hiram, and the servants of Solomon who brought gold from Ophir, brought sandalwood and precious stones. Accordingly the king made of the sandalwood raised platforms for the house of the LORD and for the house of the king, and lyres and harps for the singers, the like of which were not seen before in the land of Judah.

2 Now King Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all that it pleased her to ask for, besides the value of what she had brought to the king. Then she turned and went to her own land, together with her servants.

SOLOMON'S WEALTH, 9:13-31

3 The weight of gold that came to Solomon in one year was six hundred and sixty-six talents, besides what came from the traffic of the merchants and from all the kings of Arabia and from the governors of the land, who brought gold and silver to Solomon.

5 Now King Solomon made two hundred large shields of beaten gold (six hundred shekels of gold going to each shield), and three hundred shields of beaten gold (three hundred shekels of gold going to each shield), and the king put them in the House of the Forest of Lebanon. The king also made a great throne of ivory and overlaid it with pure gold. The throne had six steps and a footstool of gold fixed to the throne, with arms on each side of the place of the seat and two lions standing beside the arms, while twelve lions stood there on the six steps on each side. The like was never made in any kingdom.

All King Solomon's drinking vessels were of gold, and all the vessels of the House of the Forest of Lebanon were of rare gold. Silver was thought nothing of in the days of Solomon. For the king had ships that went to Tarshish with the servants of Hiram. Once every three years the ships of Tarshish used to come bringing gold, silver, ivory, apes, and peacocks. So King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and wisdom; and all the kings of the earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put into his mind. They brought each his present: articles of silver and gold, clothing, equipment, spices, horses, and mules, so much year by year.

Moreover Solomon had four thousand stalls for horses and chariots, and twelve thousand horsemen, that he stationed in the chariot cities and with the king in Jerusalem; and he ruled over all the kings from the River to the land of the Philistines and as far as the border of Egypt. The king made silver as common in Jerusalem as stone, and he made cedars as plentiful as sycamore trees that are in the lowland. Horses were brought to Solomon from Egypt and from all lands.

Now the rest of the records of Solomon from first to last are they not written in the Records of Nathan the prophet, and in the Prophecy of Ahijah the Shilonite, and in the Visions of Iddo the seer regarding Jeroboam, the son of Nebat? Thus Solomon reigned in Jerusalem over all Israel forty years. Then Solomon slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David his father, and Rehoboam his son became king in his stead.

THE DISRUPTION OF THE KINGDOM, 10:1-19

Then Rehoboam went to Shechem, for all Israel had come to Shechem to make him king. But as soon as Jeroboam

boam, the son of Nebat, heard of it (for he was in Egypt where he had fled from the presence of Solomon the king),

3 Jeroboam returned from Egypt. So they sent and called him, and Jeroboam and all Israel came; and they spoke to Rehoboam, saying,

4 "Your father made our yoke galling. Now then lighten the galling service of your father and his heavy yoke which he laid upon us, and we will serve you."

5 Then he said to them, "Go away and after three days return to me."

So the people went away.

6 Then King Rehoboam took council with the old men who had stood before Solomon his father, while he was still alive, saying,

"How do you advise me to reply to this people?"

7 They spoke to him, saying, "If you will be kind to this people and please them and speak kind words to them, then they will be your servants forever."

8 But he rejected the counsel of the old men which they had given him, and took counsel with the young men, who had grown up with him and who were

9 his companions. So he said to them, "What do you advise that we reply to this people, who have spoken to me, saying, 'Lighten the yoke which your father laid upon us?'"

10 Then the young men who had grown up with him spoke to him, saying,

"Thus you shall say to the people who have spoken to you, saying, 'Your father made our yoke heavy, now do you lighten our yoke'; thus shall you say to them: 'My little finger is thicker 11 than my father's loins! And now, whereas my father loaded you with a heavy yoke, I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions!'"

12 So when Jeroboam and all Israel came to Rehoboam on the third day as the king commanded, saying, "Return to me the third day," the king answered them harshly, and King Rehoboam rejected the counsel of the old

14 men. So he spoke to them according to the counsel of the young men, saying, "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to it. My father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions."

So the king did not listen to the people, for it was brought about by God, that the LORD might establish his word which he spoke by Ahijah the Shilonite to Jeroboam, the son of Nebat.

Now when all Israel saw that the king had not listened to them, the people replied to the king, saying,

"What portion have we in David? Yea, we have no heritage in the son of Jesse. All to your tents, O Israel! See now to your own house, O David!"

So all Israel departed to their tents. But as for the Israelites who dwelt in the cities of Judah, Rehoboam reigned over them. Then King Rehoboam sent Hadoram who was in charge of the forced labor, but the Israelites stoned him to death with stones; whereupon King Rehoboam hastily leaped into his chariot, to flee to Jerusalem. So Israel has been in rebellion against the house of David down to this day.

THE ADMINISTRATION OF REHOBOAM, 11:1-23

When Rehoboam reached Jerusalem, he assembled the house of Judah and Benjamin, a hundred and eighty thousand picked warriors, to fight against Israel to bring back the kingdom to Rehoboam. But the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, a man of God, saying,

"Speak to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all Israel in Judah and in Benjamin, saying, 'Thus says the LORD: "You shall not go up or fight against your kinsmen. Return every man to his house, for this thing is from me."'"

So they listened to the words of the LORD and gave up the expedition against Jeroboam.

Accordingly Rehoboam dwelt in Jerusalem, and built cities for defense in Judah. Thus he built Bethlehem, Etani, Tekoa, Beth-zur, Soco, Adullam, Gath, Mareshah, Ziph, Adoraim, Lachish, Azekah, Zorah, Aijalon, and Hebron, which are in Judah and Benjamin, fortified cities. He also strengthened the fortresses and put commanders in them and stores of provisions, oil and wine. Also in each city he put shields and spears, and thus he made them very strong indeed. So he retained Judah and Benjamin.

Moreover the priests and the Levites who were in all Israel resorted to him from all their localities. For the Levites left their common lands and their possessions and went to Judah and to Jerusalem, because Jeroboam and his descendants had barred them from acting as priests to the LORD. But he appointed for himself priests for the high places, for the satyrs, and for the calves which he had made. And after them there came to Jerusalem from all the tribes of Israel those who had set their minds to seek the LORD, the God of Israel, and to sacrifice to the LORD, the God of their fathers. So they strengthened the kingdom of Judah, and made Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, strong for three years; for they walked three years in the way of David and Solomon.

Now Rehoboam took as wife Mahalath, the daughter of Jerimoth, the son of David, and of Abihail, the daughter of Eliab, the son of Jesse. She bore him sons: Jcush, Shemariah, and Zaham. Then after her he married Maacah, the daughter of Absalom, and she bore him Abijah, Attai, Ziza, and Shelomith. But Rehoboam loved Maacah, the daughter of Absalom, more than all his wives and concubines (for he took eighteen wives and sixty concubines, and he became the father of twenty-eight sons and sixty daughters). Moreover Rehoboam appointed Abijah, the son of Maacah, at the head as the crown prince among his brothers, for his purpose was to make him king. He also had the wisdom to distribute all his sons throughout all the districts of Judah and Benjamin and to all the fortified cities, and he gave them abundant provisions and sought for them a great number of wives.

THE INVASION OF JUDAH BY SHISHAK OF EGYPT, 12:1-16

Now when the kingdom of Rehoboam was established and he was strong, he forsook the law of the LORD and all Israel with him. In the fifth year of King Rehoboam, Shishak, king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem, because they had acted treacherously toward the LORD, with twelve hundred chariots, and sixty thousand horsemen, and the people who came with him out of Egypt were without number: Libians, Sukkiites, and Ethiopians. Moreover he took the fortified cities which belonged to Judah and came to Jerusalem.

Then Shemaiah the prophet came to Rehoboam and the princes of Judah who were gathered together to Jerusalem because of Shishak, and said to them,

"Thus says the LORD: 'You have abandoned me, therefore I also have abandoned you to Shishak.'"

Then the princes of Israel and the king humbled themselves and said,

"The LORD is righteous."

But when the LORD saw that they humbled themselves, the word of the LORD came to Shemaiah, saying,

"They have humbled themselves. I will not destroy them, but I will give them some deliverance and my wrath shall not be poured out upon Jerusalem by Shishak. Nevertheless they shall be his servants that they may know my service from the service of the kingdoms of the lands."

So Shishak, king of Egypt, came up against Jerusalem and took away the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king's house, taking all away. He also took away the shields of gold which Solomon had made. Then King Rehoboam made in their stead shields of bronze and intrusted them to the commanders of the guard, who guarded the door of the king's house. Then as often as the king came to the house of the LORD, the guards would come and take them up and bring them back into the guard-room. But because he humbled himself, the wrath of the LORD turned from him, so as not to destroy him completely, and besides in Judah good conditions persisted. So King Rehoboam strengthened himself in Jerusalem and reigned; for Rehoboam was forty-one years old when he became king and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the LORD chose out of all the tribes of Israel to put his name there; and his mother's name was Naamah the Ammonitess. But he did that which was evil, for he did not set his mind to seek the LORD.

Now the records of Rehoboam from first to last are they not written in the Records of Shemaiah the prophet and Iddo the seer, according to genealogical enrolment? There were wars continually between Rehoboam and Jeroboam. So Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and he was buried in the city of David; and Abijah his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF ABIJAH OF JUDAH, 13: 1-22

13 In the eighteenth year of King Jeroboam Abijah became king over Judah.
 2 He reigned three years in Jerusalem, and his mother's name was Micaiah, the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah. There was war between Abijah and Jeroboam;
 3 and Abijah joined battle with an army of distinguished warriors, composed of four hundred thousand picked men, and Jeroboam drew up the battle line against him with eight hundred thousand picked men who were of distinguished prowess.
 4 Then Abijah drew up on Mount Zemaraim, which is in the highlands of Ephraim, and said,
 "Hear me, O Jeroboam and all Israel: Ought you not to know that the LORD, the God of Israel, gave the kingdom over Israel to David forever, even to him and his sons by a covenant of salt? Yet Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon, the son of David, rose up and rebelled against his lord, and there were gathered to him worthless men, base scoundrels, who strengthened themselves against Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, when Rehoboam was a youth and inexperienced, and could not withstand them. Now you think to withstand the kingdom of the LORD under the sons of David; and you are a great multitude, and with you are the golden bulls which Jeroboam made for you as gods. Have you not driven out the priests of the LORD, the sons of Aaron, and the Levites, and made for yourselves priests like the peoples of other lands? Whoever comes to consecrate himself with a young bull and seven rams, even he may become a priest of the no-gods. But as for us, the LORD is our God, and we have not forsaken him; the sons of Aaron minister to the LORD as priests, and the Levites with their work; and they burn to the LORD every morning and every evening burnt-offerings and sweet incense, and bread is set in layers upon a clean table and the golden lampstand with its lamps to burn every evening, for we keep the charge of the LORD our God; but you have forsaken him. See, God is with us at our head, and his priests with the trumpets of alarm to sound the alarm against you. O Israelites, do not fight against the LORD, the God of your fathers; for you will not succeed."

However, Jeroboam laid an ambush to come at their rear, so that they were in front of Judah and the ambush was behind them. Therefore when Judah faced them, behold, the battle was in front and rear. Then they cried out to the LORD and the priests sounded with the trumpets, and the men of Judah gave a shout. Now when the men of Judah shouted, God routed Jeroboam and all Israel before Abijah and Judah; and when the Israelites fled before Judah, God delivered them into their hand, so that Abijah and his people made a great slaughter among them, and the slain of Israel who fell were five hundred thousand picked men. Thus the Israelites were humbled at that time, and the Judeans prevailed, because they relied on the LORD, the God of their fathers. Then Abijah pursued Jeroboam, and took certain cities from him, Bethel with its towns, Jeshanah with its towns, and Ephron with its towns. Jeroboam did not recover strength again in the days of Abijah, but the LORD struck him down and he died.

But Abijah made himself strong and took for himself fourteen wives and became the father of twenty-two sons and sixteen daughters. Now the rest of the records of Abijah, his ways and his words, are written in the Midrash of the Prophet Iddo.

THE REIGN OF ASA OF JUDAH, 14:1-16:14

So Abijah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Asa his son became king in his stead. In his days the land was quiet for ten years. Asa did that which was right in the sight of the LORD his God; for he removed the foreign altars and the high places, and broke down the sacred pillars and cut down the sacred 4 poles; and he told Judah to seek the LORD, the God of their fathers, and to 5 obey the law and the command. He also removed out of all the cities of Judah

 the high places and the incense altars;
 and the kingdom was quiet under him.
 6 Furthermore he built fortified cities in Judah, for the land was quiet, and he had no war in those years, for the LORD 7 had granted him rest; and he said to Judah,

"Let us build these cities and surround them with walls and towers, gates and bars; the land is still at our disposal because we have sought the LORD our God; we have sought him, and he has given us rest on every side."

So they built and prospered.

8 Now Asa had an army equipped with shields and spears: out of Judah three hundred thousand, and out of Benjamin, that carried shields and drew bows, two hundred and eighty thousand—all of them distinguished warriors.
 9 Now Zerah, the Ethiopian, came out against them with an army of a million men and three hundred chari-10 ots, and advanced to Mareshah. Then Asa went out to meet him, and they drew up the battle line in the valley of 11 Zephathah at Mareshah. Asa cried to the LORD his god and said,

"O LORD there is none besides thee to help,

As between the mighty and him that is without strength.

Help us, O LORD, our God;

For we rely on thee,

And in thy name we have come against this multitude.

O LORD thou art our God;

Let not man prevail against thee."

12 Then the LORD routed the Ethiopians before Asa and before Judah, so 13 that the Ethiopians fled. Thereupon Asa and the people who were with him pursued them to Gerar; so that there fell of the Ethiopians so many that there were none left alive, for they were shattered before the LORD and before his army. They took a very large 14 amount of booty; they also conquered all the cities in the neighborhood of Gerar, for a panic from the LORD was upon them, and they plundered all the cities, for there was rich plunder in 15 them. In addition they captured the tents of cattle and drove away a very great number of sheep and camels;

 then they returned to Jerusalem.

At that time the spirit of God came 15 upon Azariah, the son of Oded, so that 2 he went out to meet Asa, and said to
 him,

"Listen to me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin. The LORD has been with you, because you have been true to him; and if you seek him, he will be found by you; but if you forsake him, he will forsake you. Now for a long 3 time Israel has been without the true God and without priestly instruction and without law; but when in their dis- 4 tress they turned to the LORD, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found by them. Now in those times there was 5 no peace to him that went out or to him that came in, but great turmoils came upon all the inhabitants of the lands; and they were dashed in pieces, nation 6 against nation, and city against city, for God discomfited them with all kinds of distress. But be strong and let not 7 your hands slacken, for your work shall be rewarded."

Now when Asa heard these words 8 and the prophecy of Oded the prophet, he took courage and put away the abominations from all the land of Judah and Benjamin and from the cities which he had taken from the highlands of Ephraim, and he repaired the altar of the LORD that was in front of the porch of the LORD. Then he assembled 9 all Judah and Benjamin together with those who sojourned with them out of Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon; for a very great number came over to him from Israel, when they saw that the LORD his God was with him. So 10 they assembled at Jerusalem in the third month in the fifteenth year of the reign of Asa; and they sacrificed to the 11 LORD on that day, of the booty which they had brought, seven hundred cattle and seven thousand sheep. Then 12 they entered into a covenant to seek the LORD, the God of their fathers, with all their mind and with full determination, and that whoever would not 13 seek the LORD, the God of Israel, should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman. They 14 also took oath to the LORD with a loud voice and with shouting and the blasts of trumpets, and rams' horns. Thus all 15 Judah rejoiced at the oath, for they had

- sworn with all their heart and with all their will, so that he was found by them; and the LORD gave them rest on every side.
- 16 Moreover Maacah, the mother of Asa the king, he deposed from being queen-mother, because she had made an obscene image as an Asherah; and Asa cut down her obscene image and ground it to powder and burned it in the Kidron valley. But the high places were not removed from Israel; however
- 18 Asa's heart was perfect all his days. He brought into the house of God the dedicated things of his father and his own dedicated things, silver and gold and utensils; and there was no more war until the thirty-fifth year of the reign of Asa.
- 16 In the thirty-sixth year of Asa's reign, Baasha, king of Israel, came up against Judah and built Ramah, to prevent anyone from going out or coming in to Asa king of Judah. Then Asa brought out silver and gold from the treasuries of the house of the LORD and the king's house and sent them to Ben-hadad, king of Syria, who dwelt in Damascus, saying,
- 3 "There is an alliance between me and you, as there was between my father and your father. See, I send you silver and gold. Go, break your alliance with Baasha, king of Israel, that he may withdraw from me."
- 6 Accordingly Ben-hadad listened to King Asa, and sent the commanders of his forces against the cities of Israel, and they conquered Ijon, Dan, and Abel-maim, and all the store-cities of
- 5 Naphtali. Now when Baasha heard of it, he stopped building Ramah, and brought his work to an end. Then Asa the king took all Judah and they carried away the stones of Ramah and its timber with which Baasha had built, and with them he built Geba and Mizpeh.
- 7 At that time Hanani the seer came to Asa, king of Judah, and said to him,
- "Because you have relied on the king of Syria, and have not relied on the LORD your God, therefore the army of the king of Syria has escaped out of
- 8 your hand. Were not the Ethiopians and the Lubians a vast army with an enormous number of chariots and horsemen? Yet because you relied on the LORD he delivered them into your hand. For the eyes of the LORD range the whole earth to exert his strength in behalf of those who are devoted to him. You have acted foolishly in this matter, for from now on you shall have wars."

Then Asa was vexed at the seer and put him in the prison-house, for he was in a rage with him because of this thing. Asa also tortured some of the people at the same time.

Now the records of Asa from first to last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. In the thirty-ninth year of his reign, Asa became diseased in his feet; the disease was exceedingly painful; nevertheless in his disease he did not seek the LORD, but the physicians. So Asa slept with his fathers, having died in the forty-first year of his reign; and they buried him in his own tomb which he had cut out for himself in the city of David, and they laid him in the bed which had been filled with all kinds of spices, skilfully mixed; and they burned for him a very great sacrifice.

THE PROSPERITY OF JEHOSHAPHAT, 17:1-19

Now Jehoshaphat his son became king in his stead and strengthened himself against Israel; and he placed troops in all the fortified cities of Judah and put garrisons in the land of Judah and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa his father had taken. Moreover the LORD was with Jehoshaphat because he walked in the earlier ways of David his ancestor and did not seek the Baals, but sought the God of his ancestor, and walked in his commands, and not according to the works of Israel. Therefore the LORD established the kingdom in his hand, and all Judah brought gifts to Jehoshaphat so that he had abundant wealth and honor. Then his heart was exalted in the ways of the LORD, and besides he put away the high places and the sacred poles out of Judah.

Also in the third year of his reign, he sent his princes Ben-hail, Obadiah, Zechariah, Nethanel, and Micaiah to teach in the cities of Judah; and with them the Levites, Shemaiah, Nethaniah, Zebadiah, Asahel, Shemiramoth, Jehonathan, Adonijah, Tobijah, and Tobadonijah, the Levites; together with Elishama and Jehoram, the priests. Thus they taught in Judah, having with them the book of the law of the LORD; and they went about throughout all the cities of Judah and taught among the people.

Now the terror of the LORD was on all the kingdoms of the lands that were round about Judah, so that they did not make war on Jehoshaphat. Also some of the Philistines brought Jehoshaphat tribute, even a mass of silver; likewise the Arabs brought him flocks: seven thousand seven hundred rams, and seven thousand seven hundred he-goats. Thus Jehoshaphat kept on becoming more and more powerful, so that he built in Judah castles and store-cities. Moreover he had a large amount of stores in the cities of Judah, and soldiers, distinguished warriors, in Jerusalem. This was their roster according to their families: of Judah, the commanders of thousands, Adnah the commander, and with him three hundred thousand distinguished warriors; and next to him Jehohanan the commander, and with him two hundred and eighty thousand; and next to him Amasiah, the son of Zichri, who had volunteered for the service of the LORD, and with him two hundred thousand distinguished warriors. Also of Benjamin: Eliada a distinguished warrior, and with him two hundred thousand furnished with bow and shield, and next to him Jehozabad, and with him a hundred and eighty thousand, equipped for war. These were those who served the king, besides those whom the king placed in the fortified cities throughout Judah.

THE CAMPAIGN OF JEHOSEPHAT AND AHAH AGAINST RAMOTH-GILEAD, 18:1-34

Now when Jehoshaphat had attained very great riches and honor, he made a marriage alliance with Ahab; and after some years he went down to Ahab to Samaria. Ahab killed a great number of sheep and cattle for him and those who accompanied him, and he induced him to go up with him to Ramoth-gilead. Accordingly Ahab, king of Israel, said to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah,

"Will you go with me to Ramoth-gilead?"

"I am as you are, and my people as your people; I will join you in the war," he said to him.

Jehoshaphat said further to the king of Israel,

"Inquire today, I pray, for the word of the LORD."

Then the king of Israel assembled the prophets, four hundred men, and said to them,

"Shall I go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?"

"Go up," they said; "for God will deliver it into the hand of the king."

But Jehoshaphat said,

"Is there not here another prophet of the LORD through whom we may inquire of him?"

Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat,

"There is another man through whom we might inquire of the LORD, but I hate him; for he never prophesies good concerning me, but always evil: that is Micaiah, the son of Imla."

"Let not the king say so," said Jehoshaphat.

So the king of Israel called one of the eunuchs and said,

"Bring quickly Micaiah, the son of Imla."

Now the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, were sitting each on his throne, arrayed in their robes, and they were sitting at the entrance of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophets were engaged in ecstatic prophecy before them. Then Zedekiah, the son of Chenaanah, made for himself horns of iron and he said,

"Thus says the LORD: 'With these you shall gore the Syrians until they are destroyed.'"

So all the prophets prophesied, saying,

"Go up to Ramoth-gilead and prosper; for the LORD will deliver it into the hand of the king."

Now the messenger who went to call Micaiah spoke to him, saying,

"See, the prophets with one accord have spoken good to the king. Now, I pray you, let your word be like one of theirs and speak good."

"As the LORD lives," said Micaiah, "what my God says, that will I speak."

- 14 Now when he came to the king, the king said to him,
 "Micaiah, shall I go to Ramoth-gilead to battle, or shall I forbear?"
 "Go up and prosper," he said; "for the LORD will give it into your hand."
- 15 But the king said to him,
 "How many times must I adjure you that you speak to me nothing but the truth in the name of the LORD?"
- 16 "I saw all Israel scattered on the mountains," said he, "like sheep without a shepherd; and the LORD said, 'These have no master; let them return each to his house in peace.'"
- 17 Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat,
 "Did I not say to you that he would not prophesy good concerning me, but only evil?"
- 18 But Micaiah said,
 "Therefore hear the word of the LORD: I saw the LORD sitting upon his throne and all the army of the heavens standing on his right hand and on his left; and the LORD said, 'Who will deceive Ahab, king of Israel, so that he may go up and fall at Ramoth-gilead?' Then one said one thing and another another, until a spirit came forth and stood before the LORD and said, 'I will deceive him,' and the LORD said to him, 'By what means?' He said, 'I will go forth and become a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets.' Now therefore, behold, the LORD has put a lying spirit in the mouth of these prophets of yours, since the LORD has spoken evil concerning you."
- 23 Then Zedekiah, the son of Chenaanah, approached and struck Micaiah on the cheek, and said,
 "Which way did the spirit of the LORD go from me to speak to you?"
- 24 "Indeed, you shall see on the day when you go into an inner chamber to hide yourself," said Micaiah.
- 25 Then the king of Israel said,
 "Seize Micaiah and take him back to Amon, the governor of the city, and to Joash, the king's son, and say, 'Thus says the king: "Put this fellow in the prison and feed him on bread and water scantily until I return victorious."'"
- 27 Whereupon Micaiah said,
 "If you do indeed return victorious, the LORD has not spoken by me. Hear, all you peoples!" he said.

So the king of Israel and Jehoshaphat, the king of Judah, went up to Ramoth-gilead. Then the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat,

"I will disguise myself and go into the battle, but do you put on your own robes."

So the king of Israel disguised himself and went into the battle. Now the king of Syria had charged his chariot commanders, saying,

"Fight neither with small nor great, except only with the king of Israel."

Accordingly when the chariot commanders saw Jehoshaphat, they said,
 "It is the king of Israel."

So they surrounded him to fight against him, but Jehoshaphat cried out, and the LORD helped him, in that God diverted them from him. When the chariot commanders saw that it was not the king of Israel, they turned back from pursuing him. But a man drew his bow at a venture and shot the king of Israel between the jointed pieces and the breastplate; then he said to the charioteer,

"Wheel about and take me out of the army; for I am badly wounded."

Now the battle grew fiercer that day, while the king of Israel held himself upright in his chariot facing the Syrians until evening; but about sunset he died.

JHOSHAPHAT'S PIETY AND ITS VINDICATION,

19:1—21:1

Then Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, returned to his house in Jerusalem in peace. Whereupon Jehu, the son of Hanani, the seer, went out to meet him and said to King Jehoshaphat,

"Should you help the wicked, and love those who hate the LORD? For this reason wrath has come upon you from the LORD. Nevertheless there is still some good in you, in that you have put away the sacred poles from the land and have made up your mind to seek God."

Now Jehoshaphat dwelt at Jerusalem and again he went forth among the people from Beersheba to the highlands of Ephraim and brought them back to the LORD, the God of their fathers. He also appointed judges in the land in all the fortified cities of Judah, city by city; and he said to the judges,

1 "Consider what you do; for you do not judge for man but for the LORD, who is with you in the pronouncing of judgment. Now therefore let the fear of the LORD be upon you; take heed and act; for there is no injustice with the LORD our God, nor respect of persons, nor taking of bribes."

2 Moreover Jehoshaphat established in Jerusalem some of the Levites, priests, and heads of families of Israel for the judgment of the LORD, and for civil disputes. Then they returned to Jerusalem, and he commanded them, saying,

3 "Thus you shall act in the fear of the LORD, in faithfulness and with singleness of mind. Every case which comes to you from your kinsmen who dwell in their cities, between law and command, statutes and ordinances, you shall warn them that they be not guilty towards the LORD, and thus wrath come upon you and upon your kinsmen; do thus and you shall not be guilty. Behold, Amariah the priest is in authority over you in every matter of the LORD, and Zebadiah, the son of Ishmael, is the prince of the house of Judah in all the king's matters; the Levites are notaries before you. Be strong and act, and the LORD be with the upright."

4 Now afterwards when the Moabites and the Ammonites and some of the Meunites came against Jehoshaphat to battle, some came and told Jehoshaphat, saying,

5 "A great multitude is coming against you from beyond the sea from Edom; and behold they are in Hazazon-tamar (that is, Engedi)."

6 Then Jehoshaphat was afraid and set himself to seek the LORD and proclaimed a fast throughout all Judah.

7 Accordingly Judah assembled to seek the LORD; out of all the cities of Judah they came to seek the LORD.

8 Thereupon Jehoshaphat stood up in the assembly of Judah and Jerusalem in the house of the LORD, in front of the new court, and said,

9 "O LORD, the God of our fathers, art thou not God in the heavens? and thou art ruler over all the kingdoms of the nations, and in thy hand is power and might, so that none is able to withstand thee. Didst not thou, O our God, dispossess the inhabitants of this land before thy people Israel, and give it to the descendants of Abraham thy friend

10 forever? So they have dwelt in it and built for thee a sanctuary in it for thy name, saying, 'If evil come upon us, the sword in judgment, pestilence, or famine, we will stand before this house and before thee (for thy name is in this house), and cry out to thee in our affliction, and thou wilt hear and save.' Now, behold, the Ammonites, the Moabites, and the people of Mount Seir, whom thou wouldst not let Israel invade when they came out of the land of Egypt, for they turned aside from them and did not destroy them; now, how they reward us, by coming to drive us out of thy possessions, which thou hast caused us to possess. O our God, wilt thou not judge them? For we have no strength before this vast multitude that is coming against us, nor do we know what to do, but our eyes are upon thee!"

12 Then upon Jahaziel, the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, the Levite of the descendants of Asaph, came the spirit of the LORD in the midst of the assembly, and he said,

13 "Give attention, all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem and you King Jehoshaphat; 'Thus says the LORD to you: 'Fear not, nor be dismayed before this vast multitude; for the battle is not yours, but God's. Tomorrow go down against them. See, they are coming up by the ascent; and you shall find them at the end of the valley in front of the desert of Jeruel. It is not for you to fight in this battle; take up your position, stand still and see the deliverance of the LORD, who is on your side, O Judah and Jerusalem. Fear not, neither be dismayed; tomorrow go forth against them, for the LORD is with you.'"

14 Then Jehoshaphat bowed his face to the earth, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem fell down before the LORD to worship the LORD. Thereupon the Levites, of the descendants of the Kohathites, and of the descendants of the Korahites, stood up to praise the LORD, the God of Israel, with an exceedingly loud voice.

15 So they rose up early the next morning and went forth to the desert of Tekoa; and as they went forth, Jehoshaphat halted and said,

"Hear me, O Judah and you inhabitants of Jerusalem; believe in the LORD your God, and then you shall be established. Believe in his prophets, and then you shall prosper."

21 When he had taken counsel with the people, he appointed singers to praise the LORD in holy array, as they went before the troops, and to say, "Give thanks to the LORD; For his kindness is everlasting."

22 Now when they began to sing and praise, the LORD set an ambush against the Ammonites, Moabites, and the people of Mount Seir, who had come against Judah, so that they destroyed 23 themselves. For the Ammonites and Moabites took up a position against the inhabitants of Mount Seir to wipe out and completely destroy them; and when they had made an end of the inhabitants of Seir, each helped to destroy his neighbor.

24 So when Judah came to the Watch Tower of the Desert and looked for the multitude, there were only dead bodies fallen to the earth, and none had 25 escaped. Accordingly when Jehoshaphat and his people came to carry off the spoil they found a very large number of cattle, goods, garments, and precious jewels, which they stripped off for themselves, more than they could carry; and they were three days taking away the spoil, it was so much.

26 At length on the fourth day they assembled in the Valley of Beracah, for there they blessed the LORD; therefore the name of that place has been called the Valley of Beracah [blessing] to this 27 day. Then all the men of Judah and Jerusalem, with Jehoshaphat at their head, returned to re-enter Jerusalem with joy; for the LORD had made them 28 rejoice over their enemies. So they came to Jerusalem with harps, lyres, and trumpets, to the house of the 29 LORD. Then a terror from God came upon all the kingdoms of the countries, when they heard that the LORD fought 30 against the enemies of Israel. So the realm of Jehoshaphat was quiet, for his God gave him rest on all sides.

31 Now Jehoshaphat reigned over Judah. He was thirty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-five years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi. He walked in the way of his fa- 32 ther Asa, and did not turn from it, doing that which was right in the sight of the LORD. However, the high places 33 were not removed nor had the people as yet directed their hearts to the God of their fathers. Now the rest of the 34 records of Jehoshaphat from first to last, behold, they are written in the Records of Jehu, the son of Hanani, which are inserted in the Book of the Kings of Israel.

Now later Jehoshaphat, king of Ju- 35 dah, allied himself with Ahaziah, king of Israel, who did very wickedly. For 36 he united with him to make ships to go to Tarshish, and they made the ships in Ezion-geber. But Eliezer, the son of 37 Dodavahu of Maresah, prophesied against Jehoshaphat, saying,

"Because you have allied yourself with Ahaziah, the LORD will surely break up your enterprise."

Accordingly the ships were wrecked so that they were not able to go to Tarshish.

Then Jehoshaphat slept with his fa- 21 thers and he was buried with his fathers in the city of David, and Jehoram his son became king in his stead.

THE MISFORTUNES OF JEHORAM, 21:2-20

Now Jehoram had brothers, the sons 2 of Jehoshaphat: Azariah, Jehiel, Zechariah, Michael, and Shephatiah; all these were sons of Jehoshaphat, king of Israel. Moreover their father gave 3 them rich gifts of silver, gold, and precious things, with fortified cities in Judah, but the kingdom he gave to Jehoram, because he was the first-born. 4 Now when Jehoram had become established over the kingdom of his father, and had made himself strong, he put all his brothers to the sword, together with certain of the nobles of Israel. Jehoram 5 was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem. He walked in the way of 6 the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for his wife was Ahab's daughter; accordingly he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD. 7 However the LORD would not destroy the house of David, because of the covenant that he made with David, and because he promised to give a lamp to him and to his sons for all time.

8 In his days Edom revolted from the rule of Judah, and set up a king of its own. Then Jehoram passed over with his commanders, and all his chariots with him; and he, together with the chariot commanders, rose by night and defeated the Edomites that surrounded him. So Edom has been in revolt from the rule of Judah to this day. Likewise Libnah revolted at the same time from his rule, because he had forsaken the LORD, the God of his fathers.

11 He also made high places in the mountains of Judah, and led the inhabitants of Jerusalem into unfaithfulness, and led Judah astray. Then there came to him a writing from Elijah the prophet, saying,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of David your ancestor: 'Because you have not walked in the ways of Jehoshaphat your father, nor in the ways of 13 Asa, king of Judah, but have walked in the way of the kings of Israel and have led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem into unfaithfulness, as did the house of Ahab, and also have slain your brothers of your father's house who 14 are better than yourself, now the LORD will strike down with a great plague your people, your children, your 15 wives, and all your property; and you yourself shall suffer severely from a disease of your bowels, until your bowels shall waste away from day to day because of the disease.'"

16 Then the LORD stirred up against Jehoram the spirit of the Philistines and the Arabs, who live beside the 17 Ethiopians, so that they came up against Judah, and invaded it, and carried away all the possessions that were found in the house of the king, together with his sons and his wives, so that no son was left to him, except 18 Jehoahaz his youngest. Then after all this the LORD afflicted him with an incurable disease of the bowels, so that 19 gradually as time went on, at the end of two years, his bowels had wasted away because of his disease and he died in great pain. His people burned for him no sacrifice to compare with the 20 sacrifice for his fathers. He was thirty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

He departed without being lamented, and they buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulcher of the kings.

AHAZIAH AND ATHALIAH,

22:1-12

Then the inhabitants of Jerusalem, 22 made Ahaziah, his youngest son, king in his stead; for the marauding band that came with the Arabs to the camp had slain all the older sons. So Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, became king of Judah. Forty-two years old was Ahaziah 2 when he became king, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri. He walked in the ways of the house of Ahab, for his mother was his 3 counsellor in doing wickedness. Moreover he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD as did the house of 4 Ahab, for they were his counsellors, after the death of his father, to his destruction. He also followed their counsel 5 and went with Jehoram, the son of Ahab, king of Israel, to make war on Hazael, king of Syria, at Ramoth-gilead. But the Syrians wounded Joram. 6 Accordingly he returned to be healed in Jezreel of the wounds which they had given him at Ramah, when he fought against Hazael, king of Syria; and Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, king of Judah, went down to see Jehoram, the son of Ahab, in Jezreel, because he was 7 sick. Now the destruction of Ahaziah was purposed by God, in that he went to Joram, and after his arrival he went out with Jehoram to meet Jehu, the son of Nimshi, whom the LORD had anointed to cut off the house of Ahab. 8 Now when Jehu was executing judgment on the house of Ahab, he found the princes of Judah and the sons of the kinsmen of Ahaziah ministering to Ahaziah and slew them. Then he sought 9 Ahaziah. They caught him, while he was hiding himself in Samaria, and they brought him to Jehu and slew him and buried him; for they said,

"He was the son of Jehoshaphat who sought the LORD with all his heart."

So the house of Ahaziah had no one who had sufficient strength to rule.

Now when Athaliah, the mother of 10 Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead she arose and drove out all the royal family 11 of the house of Judah. But Jehosha-beath, the daughter of the king, took Joash, the son of Ahaziah, and stole him away from among the sons of the king who were about to be slain, and put him and his nurse in a bedchamber.

 Thus Jehoshabath, the daughter of King Jehoram, the wife of Jehoiaada the priest (for she was the sister of Ahazi-ah), hid him from Athaliah, so that she 12 did not slay him. Accordingly he was with them in the house of God six years, while Athaliah reigned over the land.

JEOIADA'S REVOLT AGAINST ATHALIAH, 23:1-21

23 But in the seventh year, when Jehoiada felt himself strong enough, he took the commanders of hundreds, Azariah, the son of Jeroham, Ishmael, the son of Jehohanan, Azariah, the son of Obed, Maaseiah, the son of Adaiah, and 2 Elishaphat, the son of Zichri; and they went about Judah, and assembled the Levites from all the cities of Judah, and the heads of the Israelite families, and 3 came to Jerusalem. Then all the assembly made a covenant with the king in the house of God, and he said to them,
 "Behold, the king's son shall reign, as the LORD spoke concerning the sons of 4 David. This is the thing that you shall do: a third of you, the priests and Levites, who come in on the sabbath shall be keepers of the thresholds, and 5 a third shall be in the king's house, and a third at the Gate Jesod; and all the people shall be in the courts of the 6 house of the LORD. But let none enter the house of the LORD except the priests and the ministering Levites;
 they shall enter, for they are holy; but all the people shall keep the charge of 7 the LORD. Moreover the Levites shall surround the king, each with his weapons in his hand; and whoever enters the house let him be slain. Thus they shall be with the king when he comes in and when he goes out."
 8 So the Levites and all Judah did just as Jehoiada the priest commanded; each brought his men, both those who were to enter on the sabbath, and those who were to go out on the sabbath; for Jehoiada the priest did not dismiss the 9 divisions. Then Jehoiada the priest delivered to the commanders of hundreds the spears, bucklers, and shields that had belonged to King David, which were in the house of God. Moreover he 10 stationed all the people, each with his weapon in his hand from the right side of the house to the left side of the house, by the altar and by the house around the king. Then they brought out the 11 king's son and put the crown and the armlet upon him and declared him king, and Jehoiaada and his sons anointed

 him and said,

"Long live the king!"

But when Athaliah heard the noise of 12 the people running and praising the king, she came to the people to the house of the LORD; and when she 13 looked, there was the king standing by his column at the entrance, and the commanders and the trumpeters beside the king, and all the people of the land rejoicing and blowing trumpets, and the singers with musical instruments, leading the praise. Then Athaliah tore her garments and said,

"Treason! Treason!"

Then Jehoiada the priest brought out 14 the commanders of hundreds who were over the army and said to them,

"Bring her out between the ranks;
 and whoever follows her, let him be slain with the sword."

For the priest had said,

"Do not slay her in the house of the LORD."

So they laid hands on her, and as she 15 came to the entrance of the horse-gate to the king's house, they slew her there.

Then Jehoiada made a covenant be-16 tween himself and all the people and the king, that they should be the LORD'S people. Accordingly all the 17 people went to the house of the Baal and destroyed it; his altars and his images they completely shattered, and Mattan, the priest of the Baal, they slew before the altars.

Then Jehoiada appointed watchmen 18 over the house of the LORD under the authority of the priests and the Levites whom David had apportioned over the house of the LORD, to offer the burnt-offerings of the LORD, as it is written in the law of Moses, with gladness and with song, according to the direction of David. Moreover he stationed the 19 gatekeepers over the gates of the house of the LORD, that no one who was unclean in any respect should enter.

 20 Then he took the commanders of hundreds and the nobles and those who ruled the people and all the people of the land, and brought down the king from the house of the LORD. When they had come through the upper gate to the house of the king, they placed the king upon the throne of the kingdom.
 11 Then all the people of the land rejoiced and the city was quiet. Thus they slew Athaliah with the sword.

JOASH GUIDED ARIGHT BY JEHOIADA, 24:1-16

4 Joash was seven years old when he became king, and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem; and his mother's 2 name was Zibiah, of Beersheba. Joash did that which was right in the sight of the LORD all the days of Jehoiada the 3 priest. Jehoiada took for himself two wives, and he became the father of sons and daughters.
 4 Now after this it occurred to Joash to 5 restore the house of the LORD. Accordingly he assembled the priests and the Levites, and said to them,
 "Go out to the cities of Judah and collect from all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year; but do you hasten the matter."
 6 However, the Levites did not hasten. Then the king summoned Jehoiada the chief and said to him,
 "Why have you not required the Levites to bring in from Judah and Jerusalem the tax of Moses the servant of the LORD, and of the assembly of Israel for the tent of the decrees?"
 7 For the wicked Athaliah and her sons had wrought havoc in the house of God, and had made use of all the consecrated things of the house of the LORD for 8 the Baals. So the king gave command and they made a chest and set it outside at the gate of the house of the 9 LORD. Then they made a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem that they should bring in for the LORD the tax that Moses the servant of God
 10 laid upon Israel in the desert. Accordingly all the princes and all the people were glad and brought in and cast into 11 the chest until it was full. Moreover at whatever time the chest was brought to the appointed officials of the king by the Levites and they saw that there was much money, the king's scribe came and the deputy of the chief priest and emptied the chest and took it up and returned it to its place. Thus they did day by day and took in a very large amount of money. Then the king and 12 Jehoiada gave it to those who carried out the work of construction on the house of the LORD, and they hired masons and carpenters to restore the house of the LORD and also workers in iron and bronze to repair the house of the LORD. So the workmen toiled and 13 thus the work of restoration went forward in their hands; and they set up the house of God according to its design, and strengthened it. Then when 14 they had finished, they brought the rest of the money before the king and Jehoiada, who used it to make utensils for the house of the LORD, utensils for the service and for making the offerings, and spoons and vessels of gold and silver. So they offered burnt-offerings in the house of the LORD continually all the days of Jehoiada.

But when Jehoiada became old after 15 a long life, he died. A hundred and thirty years old was he when he died; and they buried him in the city of David with the kings, because he had done good to Israel and toward God and his house.

THE WICKEDNESS OF JOASH, 24:17-27

Now after the death of Jehoiada, the 17 princes of Judah came in and did obedience to the king, and the king listened to them. Then they forsook the house
 18 of the LORD, the God of their fathers, and served the sacred poles and the idols, and wrath came upon Judah and Jerusalem for this guilt of theirs. Yet 19 he sent prophets to them to bring them back to the LORD, who testified against them; but they would not listen.

Then the spirit of God took possession of Zechariah, the son of Jehoiada the priest, so that he stood above the people and said to them,

"Thus says God: 'Why have you transgressed the commands of the LORD, so that you cannot prosper? Because you have forsaken the LORD, he has also forsaken you.' "

21 But they conspired against him, and at the command of the king they stoned him to death in the court of the house
 22 of the LORD. Thus Joash the king did not remember the kindness which Jehoiada his father had done him, but slew his son! And when he died, he said,

"May the LORD see and punish!"

23 It was a year later that the army of the Syrians came up against him and penetrated Judah and Jerusalem and destroyed all the princes of the people from among the people, and all their spoil they sent to the king of Damascus.

24 For with few men the army of the Syrians came, but the Lord delivered a very great army into their hands, because they had forsaken the LORD, the God of their fathers. So they executed judgment upon Joash. Accordingly when

25 they departed from him (for they left him in very great suffering), his own servants conspired against him, because of the murder of the son of Jehoiada the priest, and slew him on his bed. Thus he died, and they buried him in the city of David, but they did not bury him in 26 the sepulchers of the kings. These were the conspirators against him: Zabad, the son of Shimeath, the Ammonitess, and Jehozabad, the son of Shimrith, the 27 Moabitess. Now about his sons and the many oracles against him, and the rebuilding of the house of God, behold, it is written in the Midrash of the Book of Kings. Then Amaziah, his son, became king in his stead.

AMAZIAH'S MISDEEDS,

25:1-28

25 Amaziah was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, yet not with a
 3 perfect heart. Now when the kingdom was firmly in his grasp, he slew his servants who had murdered the king
 4 his father. However, he did not kill their children, but did according to that which is written in the law of the books of Moses, as the LORD commanded, saying,

"The fathers shall not be put to death for the children, nor the children be put to death for the fathers, but everyone shall be put to death for his own sin."

Then Amaziah assembled Judah, and appointed them according to their families under commanders of thousands and commanders of hundreds, even all Judah and Benjamin, and numbered them from twenty years old and upward, and found them to be three hundred thousand picked men fit for the army, able to handle spear and shield. He also hired a hundred thousand seasoned warriors from Israel for one hundred talents of silver. But a 7 man of God came to him, saying,

"O king, let not the army of Israel go with you; for the LORD is not with Israel, even all the Ephraimites. But go 8 by yourself, take the initiative, be courageous for battle; for God will not allow you to fall before the enemy, for God has power to help and to cast down."

Then Amaziah said to the man of God,

"But what shall I do about the hundred talents I have given to the armed band of Israel?"

"The LORD is able to give you much more than this," said the man of God.

Then Amaziah separated them, 10 namely, the armed band that came to him out of Ephraim, that they might return home. But their anger burned fiercely against Judah, and they returned home in hot anger. Amaziah, 11 however, strengthened himself and led forth his people to the Valley of Salt and slew ten thousand of the men of Seir.

And ten thousand others did the 12 deans carry away alive, and they brought them to the top of a crag, and cast them down from the top of the crag, so that all of them were dashed to pieces. But the men of the band whom 13 Amaziah had sent back without allowing them to go with him to battle fell upon the cities of Judah from Samaria to Bethhoron, and slew of them three thousand and took a large amount of spoil.

Now after Amaziah returned from 14 the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the gods of the people of Seir and set them up to be his gods, and bowed down to them and sacrificed to them. Therefore the anger of the LORD 15 was kindled against Amaziah and he sent to him a prophet, who said to him,

"Why have you sought after the gods of the people who have not delivered their own people out of your hand?"

46 Now as he spoke to him, he said to him,

"Have we made you the king's counsellor? Desist; why should they strike you down?"

Then the prophet desisted and said, "I know that God has determined to destroy you, because you have done this and have not listened to my counsel."

17 Then Amaziah, king of Judah, took advice and sent to Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, the king of Israel, saying,

"Come, let us face each other."

18 But Joash, king of Israel, sent to Amaziah, king of Judah, saying,

"The thistle that was in Lebanon sent to the cedar that was in Lebanon, saying, 'Give your daughter to my son as wife.' But a wild beast that was in Lebanon passed by and trampled down 19 the thistle. You say to yourself, you have indeed conquered Edom; and now your heart has stirred you up to seek renown. Remain at home; why should you court disaster, so that you should fall and Judah with you?"

20 But Amaziah would not listen, for it was purposed by God to deliver them into the hand of the enemy, because they had sought after the gods of 21 Edom. Then Joash, king of Israel, went up and they faced each other at Beth-shemesh, which belongs to Judah.

22 Judah, however, was defeated by Israel, so that they fled each to his home.

23 Joash, king of Israel, captured Amaziah, king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, at Beth-shemesh, and brought him to Jerusalem; and tore down the wall of Jerusalem from the Gate of Ephraim to the Corner Gate, a distance of four hundred cubits. He also took all the gold and silver and all the utensils that were found in the house of God with Obed-edom, together with the treasures of the king's house and the hostages, and returned to Samaria.

25 Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, lived after the death of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, fifteen years. Now the rest of the records of Amaziah from first to last are they not written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel? Also from the time 27 that Amaziah turned away from following the LORD, they made a conspiracy against him in Jerusalem, and he fled to Lachish; but they sent after him to Lachish and slew him there. Then 28 they brought his body upon horseback, and buried him with his fathers in the city of Judah.

UZZIAH'S VICTORIES, 26:1-15

Then all the people of Judah took 26 Uzziah who was sixteen years old and made him king in the place of his father Amaziah. He built Eloth and restored 2 it to Judah after the king slept with his fathers. Uzziah was sixteen years old 3 when he became king, and he reigned fifty-two years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Jechiliah of Jerusalem. He did that which was right 4 in the sight of the LORD, just as Amaziah his father did. He proceeded to seek 5 God in the days of Zechariah who instructed him in the fear of God; and in the days that he sought the LORD, God prospered him.

Moreover he went out and fought 6 against the Philistines, and broke down the wall of Gath and the wall of Jabneh and the wall of Ashdod and built cities among the Philistines; for God helped 7 him against the Philistines and against the Arabs who dwell in Gurbaal, and the Meunites. The Ammonites also 8 gave tribute to Uzziah; and his fame extended even to the entrance to Egypt; for he became increasingly strong.

Moreover Uzziah built towers in Jerusalem at the Corner Gate and at the Valley Gate and at the angles of the wall and fortified them. He also built 10 towers in the desert and hewed out many cisterns; for he had large herds, both in the lowland and in the plain, and he had farmers and vinedressers in the hills and in the fruitful fields, for he was a lover of the soil.

Furthermore Uzziah had a force of 11 fighting men trained in the army by detachments according to the number of their reckoning made by Jeiel the scribe and Maaseiah the notary, under the direction of Hananiah, one of the king's commanders. The entire number of 12 heads of families, seasoned warriors, 13 was two thousand six hundred, and under their command was a powerful army of three hundred and seven thousand five hundred fighting men of great strength, to help the king against 14 the enemy. Moreover Uzziah equipped them, even the entire army, with shields, spears, helmets, coats of mail, 15 bows, and stones for slinging. Also he made in Jerusalem machines skillfully devised, which were placed upon the towers and on the corners, with which to shoot arrows and great stones; and his fame spread far and wide, for he was marvelously helped until he became strong.

UZZIAH'S SIN, 26:16-23

16 But as soon as he was strong, he became so puffed up that it ruined him.
 And he trespassed against the LORD his God, for he went into the temple of the LORD to burn incense on the altar 17 of incense. Then Azariah the priest went in after him with eighty priests of 18 the LORD, men of courage, who opposed Uzziah the king and said to him,
 "It is not for you Uzziah, to burn incense of the LORD, but for the priests, the sons of Aaron, who have been consecrated to burn incense. Withdraw from the sanctuary, for you have trespassed and that shall not be to your honor before the LORD God." 19 Then Uzziah was enraged, and he had a censer in his hand to burn incense. And while he was enraged with the priests, the leprosy broke out on his forehead before the priests in the house of the LORD beside the altar of incense.
 20 When Azariah the high priest together with all the priests faced him, behold, he was leprous on his forehead. So they hurried him from there, as he also made haste to go out, because the LORD had 21 smitten him. So Uzziah the king was a leper to the day of his death and dwelt in a house apart, being a leper, for he was cut off from the house of the LORD, while Jotham his son took charge of the king's household, ruling 22 the people of the land. Now the rest of the records of Uzziah, from first to last,
 Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, 23 has written. So Uzziah slept with his fathers, and they buried him with his fathers in the cemetery which belonged to the kings, for they said,

"He is a leper."

Then Jotham his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF JOTHAM,

27:1-9

Jotham was twenty-five years old 27
 when he became king and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; and his mother's name was Jerushah, the daughter of Zadok. He did that which 21 was right in the sight of the LORD, just as Uzziah his father had done. However, he did not enter into the temple of the LORD; and the people were still perverse. He built the upper gate of the 3 house of the LORD; also on the wall of Ophel he built extensively. Moreover 4
 he built cities in the highlands of Judah, and in the forests he built castles and towers. He fought also with the king of 5
 the Ammonites and conquered them;
 and the Ammonites gave him that year a hundred talents of silver and ten thousand kors of wheat and ten thousand kors of barley. The Ammonites rendered to him the same amount the 6 second year and the third year. So Jotham became powerful, because he established his ways in the sight of the 7 LORD his God. Now the rest of the records of Jotham and all his wars and his doings, behold, they are written in the 8
 Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.
 He was twenty-five years old when he 9 became king and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. So Jotham slept 9 with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David, and Ahaz his son became king in his stead.

THE REIGN OF AHAZ,

28:1-27

Ahaz was twenty years old when he 28
 became king and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem. However, he did not do that which was right in the sight of the LORD, like David his ancestor;
 but he walked in the ways of the kings 2
 of Israel, and also made molten images for the Baals. Moreover he burned in- 3 cense in the valley of Ben-Hinnom, and burned his sons in the fire according to the abominable practices of the nations whom the LORD had dispossessed before the Israelites. He sacrificed and burned incense on the high places and on the hill-tops and under every spreading tree.

5 Therefore the LORD his God delivered him into the hand of the king of Syria, and he defeated him and carried away a great multitude of his people as captives, and brought them to Damascus. He was also delivered into the hand of the king of Israel, who defeated him with great slaughter; for Pekah, the son of Remaliah, slew in Judah a hundred and twenty thousand in one day, all of them valiant men, because they had forsaken the LORD, the God of their fathers. Moreover Zichri, an Ephraimite hero, slew Maaseiah, the king's son, and Azrikam, the commander of the palace, and Elkanah, who was next to the king.

3 Now the Israelites carried away captive of their kinsmen two hundred thousand, women, sons, and daughters; they also took from them an immense amount of spoil, and brought the spoil to Samaria. But a prophet of the LORD was there, Obed by name; and he went out to meet the army that was coming to Samaria, and he said to them,

"See, because of the wrath of the LORD, the God of your fathers, against Judah, he has delivered them into your hand; and you have slain them with a fury that has reached up to the heavens. But now you think to subdue the Judeans and Jerusalem to be bondmen and bondwomen to you; but are not you yourselves guilty of crimes against the LORD your God? Now therefore, listen to me and restore the captives whom you have taken of your kinsmen; for the fierce wrath of the LORD is upon you."

2 Then some of the chiefs of the Ephraimites, Azariah, the son of Johanan, Berechiah, the son of Meshillemoth, Jehizkiah, the son of Shallum, Amasa, the son of Hadlai, stood up to oppose those who came from the war. They said to them,

"You shall not bring the captives here; for what you purpose will bring upon us guilt against the LORD, to add to our sins and our guilt, for our guilt is very great, and there is fierce wrath against Israel."

So the armed men left the captives and the spoil before the princes and the whole assembly. Then the men already mentioned by name arose and took the captives and clothed all the naked from the spoil, and having clothed them, provided them with sandals, gave them something to eat and drink, anointed them, and carried all of them who were feeble on asses, and brought them to Jericho, the city of palm trees, to their kinsmen, and then they returned to Samaria.

At that time King Ahaz sent for the king of Assyria to help him, for the Edomites had come again and attacked Judah and carried away captives. The Philistines also had raided the cities of the lowland and the South of Judah and had captured Beth-shemesh, Aijalon, Gederoth, Socco with its towns, Timnah with its towns, and Gimzo with its towns, and were living there. For the LORD brought Judah low because of Ahaz, king of Israel, because he had acted wantonly with Judah and had behaved very treacherously toward the LORD. So Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, came to him, but he proved a burden to him instead of giving him strength; for Ahaz plundered the house of the LORD and the house of the king and the princes and gave it to the king of Assyria, but it failed to help him. In the time of his distress he acted still more treacherously against the LORD—this same King Ahaz, for he sacrificed to the gods of Damascus who overcame him, and he said,

"Because the gods of the kings of Syria helped them, I will sacrifice to them, that they may help me."

But they were the ruin of him and of all Israel. Ahaz gathered up all the utensils of the house of God and cut them in pieces and closed the doors of the house of the LORD and made for himself altars in every corner of Jerusalem. In every city of Judah he made high places to burn incense to alien gods and provoked the anger of the LORD, the God of their fathers. Now the rest of his records, and all his doings from first to last, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. So Ahaz slept with his fathers and they buried him in the city, in Jerusalem, for they did not bring him to the sepulchers of the kings of Israel; and Hezekiah, his son, became king in his stead.

HEZEKIAH'S CLEANSING OF THE TEMPLE, 29:1-36

29 Hezekiah became king at twenty-five years of age and reigned twenty-nine years in Jerusalem, and his mother's name was Abijah, the daughter of 2 Zechariah. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD, just as David 3 his ancestor had done. In the first year of his reign in the first month, he opened the doors of the house of the 4 LORD and repaired them. He also brought in the priests and the Levites, and assembled them in the open square 5 on the east. Then he said to them,

"Listen to me, O Levites; sanctify yourselves and reconsecrate the house of the LORD, the God of your fathers, and carry out the filth from the holy 6 place. For our fathers acted treacherously and did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD our God, and forsook him and turned away their faces from the habitation of the LORD and turned 7 their backs. They have also closed the doors of the porch and put out the lamps, and have not burned incense or offered burnt-offerings in the sanctuary 8 of the God of Israel. Therefore the wrath of the LORD was against Judah and Jerusalem, and he has delivered them to be an object of terror, astonishment, and derision, as you see with 9 your own eyes. For now our fathers have fallen by the sword; our sons, our daughters, and our wives are in captivity 10 for this. Now it is in my heart to make a covenant with the LORD, the God of Israel, that his fierce anger may 11 turn away from us. My sons, do not now be negligent; for the LORD has chosen you to stand before him to minister to him, and that you should be his ministers and burn incense."

12 Then the Levites arose, Mahath, the son of Amasai, and Joel, the son of Azariah, of the sons of the Kohathites and of the Merarites, Kish, the son of Abdi, and Azariah, the son of Jehallelel, and of the Gershonites Joah, the son of Zimmah, and Eden, the son of Joah; 13 also of the sons of Elizaphan, Shimri and Jeuel; and of the sons of Asaph,

Zechariah and Mattaniah; and of the 1 sons of Heman, Jehuel and Shimei; and of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah and Uzziel. Then they assembled their 1 kinsmen and sanctified themselves and went in according to the command of the king by the words of the LORD to cleanse the house of the LORD. The 1 priests also went into the inner court of the house of the LORD to cleanse it and brought out all the uncleanness that they found in the temple of the LORD into the court of the house of the LORD; and the Levites took it up to carry it outside to the Brook Kidron. Now they 1 began on the first day of the first month the work of sanctifying, and on the eighth day of the month they came to the porch of the LORD, and they sanctified the house of the LORD in eight days; and on the sixteenth day of the first month they completed the work. Then they came to Hezekiah, the king, 11 within the palace and said,

"We have cleansed the entire house of the LORD, and the altar of burnt-offering with all its utensils, and the table for the bread that is arranged in layers, with all its utensils. Moreover 15 all the utensils, which King Ahaz in his reign had cast aside when he acted faithlessly, we have restored and sanctified, and they are now before the altar of the LORD."

Thereupon Hezekiah the king rose up 20 early in the morning and assembled the princes of the city, and went up to the house of the LORD. Then they brought 21 seven bulls, seven rams, seven lambs, and seven he-goats for a sin-offering on behalf of the kingdom and the sanctuary and Judah; and he ordered the sons of Aaron the priests to offer them on the altar of the LORD. So they 22 slaughtered the bulls, and the priests received the blood and dashed it against the altar, and they slaughtered the rams and dashed the blood against the altar; they also slaughtered the lambs and dashed the blood against the altar. Moreover they brought up the he-goats 23 for the sin-offering before the king and the assembly, and they laid their hands upon them. Then the priests slaugh- 24 tered them and made a sin-offering with their blood on the altar to make atonement for all Israel; for the king ordered the burnt-offering and the sin-offering for all Israel.

25 He stationed the Levites in the house of the LORD, with cymbals, harps, and lyres, according to the command of David and Gad, the king's seer, and of Nathan the prophet; for the command was from the LORD by his prophets.

26 Thus the Levites stood with the instruments of David, and the priests with the trumpets. Thereupon Hezekiah commanded them to offer the burnt-offering upon the altar; and when the burnt-offering began, the song in honor of the LORD began also, and the trumpets, accompanied by the instruments of David, king of Israel. Then all the assembly bowed themselves, and the singers sang, and the trumpeters sounded; all this continued until the burnt-offering was finished; and when they had made an end of offering, the king and all who were present with him bowed themselves and worshiped.

10 Then, Hezekiah the king and the princes commanded the Levites to praise the LORD with the words of David and Asaph the seer. So they sang praises with gladness and bowed their heads and worshiped.

11 Then Hezekiah spoke up and said, "Now that you have consecrated yourselves to the LORD, come near and bring sacrifices and thank-offerings, and every generous-minded man burnt-offerings."

12 And the number of burnt-offerings which the assembly brought in was seventy bulls, a hundred rams, two hundred lambs; all these were for a burnt-offering to the LORD. The consecrated things were six hundred bulls and three thousand sheep. But the priests were too few to prepare all the burnt-offerings. Therefore their kinsmen, the Levites, helped them till the work was completed and the priests had sanctified themselves; for the Levites were more upright in heart to sanctify themselves than the priests.

15 There were also burnt-offerings in abundance, together with the fat of the thank-offerings and the libations for every burnt-offering. So the service of the house of the LORD was set in order.

16 Thus Hezekiah and all the people rejoiced, because of that which God had prepared for the people; for the thing was done suddenly.

HEZEKIAH'S PASSOVER,

30:1-27

Then Hezekiah sent to all Israel and Judah and also wrote letters to Ephraim and Manasseh, that they should come to the house of the LORD at Jerusalem, to keep the passover of the LORD, the God of Israel; for the king and his princes and all the assembly in Jerusalem had decided to keep the passover in the second month, since they could not keep it at that time because the priests had not sanctified themselves in sufficient numbers, neither had the people gathered themselves together to Jerusalem. Accordingly the thing seemed good in the eyes of the king and all the assembly. So they passed a decree to send a proclamation throughout all Israel, from Beersheba even to Dan, that they should come and keep the passover in honor of the LORD, the God of Israel in Jerusalem; for they had not kept it in such great numbers, according to the record. So the couriers went with the letters from the king and his princes through all Israel and Judah, according to the command of the king, saying,

"O Israelites! turn again to the LORD, the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, that he may turn to the remnant which is left of you from the hand of the kings of Assyria. Also be not like your ancestors and your kinsmen who acted unfaithfully toward the LORD, the God of their fathers, so that he gave them over to devastations, as you see. Now be not stubborn, as were your fathers, but yield yourselves to the LORD, and enter into his sanctuary which he has sanctified forever, and serve the LORD your God, that he may turn his fierce anger from you. For by your returning to the LORD, your kinsmen and your sons shall find compassion in the presence of their captors so that they shall be allowed to return to this land; for the LORD your God is gracious and merciful, and will not turn away his face from you if you return to him."

So the couriers passed from city to city through the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, even to Zebulun, but they laughed them to scorn and mocked them. Nevertheless some men from Asher and Manasseh and Zebulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem. Also the hand of God was upon Judah to give them one heart, to do the bidding of the king and the princes by the word of the LORD.

13 So a great crowd of people assembled at Jerusalem to keep the feast of unleavened cakes in the second month—

14 a very great assembly. Then they rose up and took away the altars that were in Jerusalem, and all the altars for incense they took away and cast into the

15 Brook Kidron. They slaughtered the passover on the fourteenth day of the second month; and the priests and the Levites were ashamed and sanctified themselves, and brought burnt-offerings

16 into the house of the LORD. Moreover they stood in their place as was their custom, according to the law of Moses the man of God; the priests dashed the blood received from the hand of the

17 Levites, for there was a large number in the assembly who had not sanctified themselves; therefore the Levites had charge of the slaughtering of the passover lambs for everyone who was not clean in order to consecrate them to the

18 LORD. For a great number of people, chiefly from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not purified themselves, yet they ate the passover otherwise than it is written, for Hezekiah had prayed for them, saying,

19 "The kind LORD pardon everyone who has set his heart to seek God, the LORD, the God of his fathers, though he be not clean according to the purification of the sanctuary."

20 Now the LORD listened to Hezekiah and healed the people, so the Israelites that were found in Jerusalem kept the feast of unleavened cakes seven days with great gladness; and the Levites and the priests praised the LORD day

22 by day, with all their might. Accordingly Hezekiah spoke encouragingly to all the Levites who had shown good skill in the service of the LORD; and they ate the offerings of the sacred season seven days, offering sacrifices of thank-offerings, and giving thanks to the LORD, the God of their fathers.

23 Then the whole assembly decided to keep another seven days, and so they kept seven days more with gladness;

24 for Hezekiah, king of Judah, presented to the assembly a thousand bulls and presented to the assembly a thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep; and a great number of priests sanctified themselves. Then all the assembly of Judah together with the priests and the Levites and all the assembly, that came out of Israel, and the resident aliens, who came out of Israel, and who dwelt in Judah, rejoiced. So there was great joy in Jerusalem; for since the time of Solomon, the son of David, king of Israel, there had been nothing like this in Jerusalem. Then the priests and the Levites arose and blessed the people; and their voice was heard and their prayer came up to his holy habitation, even to the heavens.

HEZEKIAH'S WORK OF REFORM,

31:1-21

Now when all this was finished, all Israel who were present went out to the cities of Judah and broke in pieces the sacred pillars and cut down the sacred poles and broke down the high places and the altars throughout all Judah and Benjamin, also in Ephraim and Manasseh, until they had made an end of them. Then all the Israelites returned to their cities, each to his own possession.

Hezekiah appointed the divisions of the priests and the Levites according to their divisions—each of the priests and the Levites according to his service—for burnt-offering and for thank-offerings, to minister and to give thanks and praise in the gates of the camp of the LORD. The king's portion from his possessions was for burnt-offerings, for the morning and evening burnt-offerings, as well as for the burnt-offerings of the sabbaths, the new moons, and the fixed festivals, as it is written in the law of the LORD. Moreover he charged the people who dwelt in Jerusalem to provide the portion of the priests and the Levites, that they might devote themselves to the law of the LORD. Now as soon as the order was known, the Israelites gave generously the first-fruits of grain, wine, oil, honey, and all the produce of the field; and the tithe of everything they brought in abundantly. The Israelites and Judeans who dwelt in the cities of Judah, they also brought in the tithe of cattle and sheep, and the tithe of the dedicated things, which were consecrated to the LORD their God, and laid them in heaps. In the third month they began the foundations of the heaps and finished them in the seventh month; and when Hezekiah and the princes came and saw the heaps, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel. Then Hezekiah questioned the priests and the Levites concerning the heaps. So Azariah, the chief priest of the house of Zadok, answered him and said,

"Since they began to bring the contribution to the house of the LORD, there has been sufficient and there has been a large amount left, for the LORD has blessed his people; and there has been left this great store."

Then Hezekiah gave orders to prepare chambers in the house of the LORD; and they prepared them. Then they faithfully brought in the contribution and the tithe and the dedicated things, and Conaniah the Levite was the overseer in charge of them, and Shimei his brother was next to him in authority. Jehiel, Azariah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah, were overseers under the authority of Conaniah and Shimei his brother, by the appointment of Hezekiah the king and Azariah, the ruler of the house of God. Kore, the son of Imnah, the Levite, the keeper of the east gate, was in charge of the voluntary contributions to God, to distribute the oblations of the LORD and the most sacred things. Also under him were Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, Shecaniah, in the cities of the priests, faithfully to distribute to their kinsmen by divisions to great and small alike, with the exception of those males registered from three years old and upward—that is, to everyone who entered the house of the LORD for his daily portion of their service in their offices according to their divisions. Now in regard to the registration of the priests, it was according to their families; moreover the Levites from twenty years old and upward were registered in their offices by their divisions. There was also the purpose of registering all their children, their wives, their sons, and daughters throughout all the assembly, for they devoted themselves faithfully to the holy things. But for the sons of Aaron the priests, who were in the territory of the common lands of their cities—in every city there were men who were designated by name to distribute portions to every male among the priests and to everyone registered among the Levites.

Thus Hezekiah did throughout all 20 Judah; and he did that which was good and right and true before the LORD his God. Moreover every work that he began in the service of the house of God, both in the law and the commands, in order to seek his God, he did with all his heart and prospered.

SENNACHERIB'S INVASION,

32:1-23

It was after these things and this 32 loyalty, that Sennacherib, king of Assyria, came and invaded Judah, and besieged the fortified cities and expected to take them. When Hezekiah 2 saw that Sennacherib had come determined to attack Jerusalem, he decided in council with his princes and his leading men to stop the water of the fountains that were outside the city, and they helped him. Indeed a great 4 crowd of people collected and stopped up all the fountains and the torrent that coursed through the midst of the land, saying,

"Why should the kings of Assyria come and find abundant water?"

He also took courage and built up all 5 the wall that had been broken down, raised up towers on it, and reared another outside wall, and strengthened Millo in the city of David, and made weapons and shields in great quantity. Then he set commanders of war over 6 the people and gathered them to him in the open square at the gate of the city and spoke reassuringly, saying,

"Be strong and courageous, fear not, 7 neither be dismayed because of the king of Assyria, nor because of all the multitude that is with him; for there is greater with us than with him. With 8 him is an arm of flesh, but with us is the LORD our God to help us and to fight our battles." And the people were reassured by the words of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

After this Sennacherib, the king of 9

Assyria, while he himself with all his forces was before Lachish, sent his servants to Jerusalem, to Hezekiah king of Judah and to all Judah who were at Jerusalem, saying,

- 10 "Thus says Sennacherib, the king of Assyria: 'On what are you trusting that you are awaiting the siege in Jerusalem? 11 Is not Hezekiah leading you on in order to give you over to die by hunger and thirst, saying, "The LORD our God will deliver us out of the hand of the king of Assyria?" Has not the same Hezekiah taken away his high places and his altars, and said to Judah and Jerusalem, "You shall worship before one altar, and upon it you shall sacrifice." 13 Do you not know what I and my fathers have done to all the peoples of the lands? Were the gods of the nations of the lands able to deliver their lands 14 out of my hand? Who was there among all the gods of those nations which my fathers put under the ban who was able to deliver his people from my hand, that your god should be able to deliver 15 you out of my hand? Now therefore, let not Hezekiah deceive you nor mislead you in this way, and do not believe him; for since no god of any nation or kingdom has been able to deliver his people from my hand and from the hand of my fathers, how much less shall your gods deliver you out of my hand.' "
- 16 His servants spoke still more against the LORD God, and against his servant 17 Hezekiah, while he wrote letters insulting the LORD, the God of Israel, and inveighing against him as follows:
- "As the gods of the nations of the lands have not delivered their people out of my hand, so the God of Hezekiah shall not be able to deliver his people out of my hand."
- 18 Then they shouted with a loud voice in the Jewish language to the people of Jerusalem who were on the wall to frighten and terrify them, that they 19 might take the city. Moreover they spoke of the God of Jerusalem as of the gods of the peoples of the earth, that are the work of men's hands.
- 20 Then Hezekiah the king and Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, prayed concerning this and cried to the 21 heavens. Therefore the LORD sent an angel who destroyed all the seasoned warriors, together with the leaders and commanders, in the camp of the king of Assyria, so that he returned in disgrace to his own land; and when he went into the house of his god, they who were his own offspring slew him there with the sword. Thus the LORD 2 saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib, king of Assyria, and from the hand of all their enemies, and gave them rest on every side. Many brought gifts to 2 the LORD to Jerusalem and precious things to Hezekiah, king of Judah, so that from that time on he was exalted in the eyes of all the nations.

A FINAL ESTIMATE OF HEZEKIAH, 32:24-33

In those days Hezekiah became dan- 2 gerously ill, and he prayed to the LORD, and when he was entreated by him, he gave him a sign. But Hezekiah made 25 no return according to the benefit bestowed on him, for his heart was lifted up; therefore wrath came upon him and upon Judah and Jerusalem. However, 26 Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD did not come upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

Now Hezekiah had enormous wealth 27 and honor, and he provided himself with treasuries for silver, gold, precious stones, spices, shields, and all kinds of artistic articles, storehouses also for the 28 increase of grain, wine, and oil, and inclosures for all kinds of cattle and for flocks. Moreover he made for himself 29 cities and had vast possessions of sheep and cattle; for God gave him very great riches. It was Hezekiah who stopped 30 the upper springs of Gihon and directed the waters straight down on the west side of the city of David. So Hezekiah prospered in all his works. However, in 31 the case of the ambassadors of the princes of Babylon who were sent to him to inquire about the sign that was done in the land, God forsook him in order to test him, that he might find out all that was in his heart.

Now the rest of the records of Heze- 32 kiah and his good deeds, behold, they are written in the Vision of Isaiah the prophet, the son of Amoz, in the Book of the Kings of Judah and Israel. So 33

Hezekiah slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the ascent of the sepulchers of the descendants of David, and all Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem paid him honor when he died; and Manasseh his son became king in his stead.

THE REACTION UNDER MANASSEH AND AMON,

33:1-25

Manasseh was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD according to the abominations of the nations which the LORD had dispossessed before the Israelites. He also re-built the high places which Hezekiah his father had torn down, and he set up altars for the Baals and made sacred poles, and worshipped all the host of the heavens and served them; and he built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said,

"In Jerusalem shall my name be forever."

He built altars to all the host of the heavens in the two courts of the house of the LORD. He also burned his children in the fire in the Valley of Ben-Hinnom, and practiced augury and sorcery, and appointed mediums and wizards. He did great evil in the sight of the LORD, thus provoking him to jealousy. Moreover he set the carved image of an idol which he had made in the house of God, of which God had said to David and to Solomon his son,

"In this house and in Jerusalem which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel I will put my name forever. I will never again remove the feet of Israel from the land which I have appointed for your fathers, if only they will be careful to do all that I have commanded them by the hand of Moses, even all the law and the statutes and the ordinances."

But Manasseh seduced Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem to do evil more than the nations which the LORD had destroyed before the Israelites.

The LORD spoke to Manasseh and to his people, but they gave no heed. So the LORD brought against them the commanders of the army of the king of Assyria, and they took Manasseh in chains and bound him in fetters and brought him to Babylon. But when he was in distress, he besought the LORD his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. He also prayed to him, so that he was entreated by him and heard his supplication and restored him to his kingdom in Jerusalem. Then Manasseh knew that the LORD was indeed God.

Now after this he built an outer wall of the city of David on the west side of Gihon in the valley, even to the entrance at the Fish Gate, so that it inclosed Ophel; and he raised it up to a very great height. He also placed competent commanders in all the fortified cities of Judah.

Moreover he put away the foreign gods and the idol out of the house of the LORD and all the altars which he had built in the mount of the house of the LORD and in Jerusalem and cast them out of the city. Then he rebuilt the altar of the LORD and sacrificed upon it sacrifices of thank-offerings and of thanksgiving, and ordered Judah to serve the LORD, the God of Israel. Nevertheless the people still sacrificed on the high places, but only to the LORD their God.

Now the rest of the records of Manasseh and his prayer to God, as well as the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the LORD, the God of Israel, behold, they are among the Records of the Kings of Israel. His prayer also, and how God was entreated by him, and all his sin and his guilt, and the sites on which he built the high places and set up the sacred poles and the carved images, before he humbled himself, behold, they are written in the Records of the Seers. So Manasseh slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the garden of his house; and Amon his son became king in his stead.

Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD as Manasseh his father had done; for Amon sacrificed to all the carved images which Manasseh his father had made, and served them. Moreover he did not humble himself before the LORD as Manasseh his father humbled himself; but Amon multiplied offenses. Therefore his servants conspired against him and murdered him in his own house.

- 25 But the people of the land slew all the conspirators against King Amon; and the people of the land made Josiah his son king in his stead.

THE DEUTERONOMIC REFORM, 34:1-33

- 34 Josiah was eight years old when he became king and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. He did that which was right in the sight of the LORD and walked in the ways of David his ancestor, turning neither to the right nor the left.

3 Now in the eighth year of his reign, while he was still a lad, he began to seek after the God of David his ancestor, and in the twelfth year he began to purge Judah and Jerusalem of the high places, the sacred poles, the carved

4 images, and the molten images. Thus at his direction they broke down the altars of the Baals, and the incense altars that stood high above them he hewed down, and the sacred poles, the carved images, and the molten images, he demolished and ground to powder, and scattered it on the graves of those

5 who had sacrificed to them. Also he burned the bones of the priests upon their altars, and purged Judah and Jerusalem. Likewise in the cities of Manasseh and Ephraim and Simeon and as far as Naphtali, in their ruins round

7 about, he destroyed the altars and ground the sacred poles and the carved images to powder and hewed down all the incense altars throughout all the land of Israel, and then he returned to Jerusalem.

8 Now in the eighteenth year of his reign, in order to purge the land and the temple, he sent Shaphan, the son of Azaliah, and Maaseiah, the commander of the city, and Joah, the son of Joahaz, the recorder, to repair the house of the

- 9 LORD his God. So they came to Hilkiah the high priest, and gave the money that was brought into the house of God, which the Levites, the keepers of the threshold, had gathered from Manasseh and Ephraim and from all the remnant of Israel, and from all Judah and Benjamin, and had returned
- 10 to Jerusalem. They in turn gave it to the workmen who were responsible for the house of the LORD; and the workmen who did the actual work on the house of the LORD dispensed it to restore and repair the temple; to the carpenters they gave it and to the builders, that they might buy hewn stone and timber for framing and for beams for the structures which the kings of Judah had destroyed. The men worked faithfully on the task; and the overseers over them were Jahath and Obadiah, the Levites, of the descendants of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshuillam, of the sons of the Kohathites to direct it. The Levites—all who were skilful with instruments of music—were over the burden-bearers, and directed all the workmen in every sort of service; and some of the Levites were scribes, notaries, and gate-keepers.

Now when they brought out the money that had been brought to the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest found a book of the law of the LORD given by Moses. Accordingly Hilkiah spoke up and said to Shaphan the scribe,

"I have found a book of law in the house of the LORD."

So Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan. Then Shaphan brought the book to the king and also reported to the king, saying,

"All that has been committed to your servants, they are doing, and they have emptied out the money that was found in the house of the LORD and have delivered it into the charge of the overseers and the workmen."

Shaphan the scribe also told the king, saying,

"Hilkiah the priest has given me a book."

Then Shaphan read out of it before the king.

Now when the king heard the words of the law, he tore his garments. Then the king commanded Hilkiah, and Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and Achbor, the son of Micaiah, and Shaphan the scribe, and Asaiah, the king's servant, saying,

"Go, inquire of the LORD for me and for those who are left in Israel and Judah, concerning the words of the book that has been found; for great is the wrath of the LORD that is poured out upon us, because our fathers have not kept the word of the LORD, to conform to all that is written in this book."

So Hilkiah and those whom the king mentioned went to Huldah the prophetess, the wife of Shallum, the son of Tokhath, the son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe, who dwelt in Jerusalem in the second quarter, and they spoke to her about this. So she said to them,

"Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: 'Say to the man who sent you to me, "Thus says the LORD: 'Behold, I am about to bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants, namely, all the curses that are written in the book which they have read before the king of Judah. Because they have forsaken me and have sacrificed to other gods, thus provoking me to jealousy with all the work of their hands; therefore my wrath shall be poured out upon this place and it shall not be quenched.' "

"But to the king of Judah who sent you to inquire of the LORD, thus shall you say to him: 'Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: "Regarding the words which you have heard—because your heart was penitent and you humbled yourself before the LORD, when you heard my words against this place and against its inhabitants, and have humbled yourself before me, and have torn your garments and wept before me, I also have heard you," "' is the oracle of the LORD. " "Behold, I will gather you to your fathers and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, neither shall your eyes see all the evil which I am about to bring upon this place and upon its inhabitants." "' "

So they brought back word to the king.

Then the king sent and gathered together all the elders of Judah and Jerusalem. Thereupon the king went up to the house of the LORD together with all the men of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the priests and the Levites, and all the people, both small and great; and he read in their hearing all the words of the book of the covenant that was found in the house of the LORD. Then the king stood in his place and made a covenant before the LORD, to walk after the LORD and to keep his commands, his decrees, and his statutes with all his mind and heart, to perform the words of the covenant that were written in this book. Then he caused all who were found in Jerusalem and Benjamin to adhere to the covenant; and the inhabitants of Jerusalem did according to the covenant of God, the God of their fathers. Moreover Josiah put away all the abominations out of all the lands that belonged to the Israelites, and made all who were found in Israel to serve, even to serve the LORD their God. All his days they did not depart from following the LORD, the God of their fathers.

JOSIAH'S PASSOVER, 35:1-19

Now Josiah kept a passover to the LORD in Jerusalem; and they slew the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month. Accordingly he set the priests in their offices and encouraged them for the service of the house of the LORD. He said to the Levites who taught all Israel, who were holy to the LORD,

"Put the holy ark in the house which Solomon, the son of David, king of Israel, built. It shall no more be a burden on your shoulders. Now serve the LORD your God and his people Israel, and prepare yourselves after your fathers' houses by your divisions, according to the prescription of David, king of Israel, and according to the prescription of Solomon his son; and stand in the holy place according to the divisions of the families of your kinsmen the common people, and for each a part of a Levitical family. Then slay the passover and sanctify yourselves and prepare it for your kinsmen to keep it according to the word of the LORD by Moses."

Then Josiah presented to the common people flocks, lambs, and kids—all of them for the passover offerings to all who were present, to the number of thirty thousand, and three thousand bulls, these being from the king's property. His princes also gave as a voluntary gift to the people, to the priests, and to the Levites—Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, the rulers of the house of God, gave to the priests for the passover offerings—two thousand and six hundred lambs and three hundred cattle. Conaniah also, and Shemaiah and Nathanel his kinsmen, and Hashabiah, Meiel, and Jozabad, the chiefs of the Levites, gave to the Levites for the passover-offerings, five thousand lambs and five hundred cattle.

- 10 So the service was established and the priests stood at their posts, and the Levites by their divisions, according to the king's command. Thus they slew the passover, and the priests sprinkled the blood from their hands, while the
- 11 Levites skinned the victims. Then they removed the burnt-offerings that they might distribute them according to the divisions of the families of the common people, to offer to the LORD as it is prescribed in the book of Moses; and so
- 12 they did with the cattle. Moreover they boiled the passover on the fire according to the ordinance, while they boiled the holy offerings in pots, in caldrons, and in pans, and carried them quickly to all
- 13 the common people. Afterward they prepared some for themselves and for the priests, because the priests, the sons of Aaron, were occupied in offering up the burnt-offerings and the fat pieces until night; therefore the Levites prepared it for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron.
- 14 The singers, the sons of Asaph, were at their posts according to the command of David, Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, the king's seer, and the gatekeepers were at each gate; they had no need to depart from their service, for their kinsmen the Levites prepared it
- 15 for them. So all the service of the LORD was established the same day that they kept the passover and offered burnt-offerings upon the altar of the LORD according to the command of King Josiah. Thus the Israelites who were
- 16 present kept the passover at that time and the feast of unleavened cakes seven
- 17 days. Indeed there was no passover like that kept in Israel since the days of Samuel the prophet; neither did any of the kings of Israel keep such a passover as did Josiah; and the priests and the Levites and all Judah and Israel were present, together with the inhabitants
- 18 of Jerusalem. In the eighteenth year of Josiah's reign was this passover kept.

THE DEATH OF JOSIAH, 35:20-27

- 20 After all this, when Josiah had restored the temple, Necho king of Egypt went up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates; and Josiah went out to intercept him. But he sent messengers to him, saying,

"What have we to do with each other, king of Judah? I come not against you this day, but to fight with another house, and God has said to me to make haste; cease then to provoke God who is with me, that he do not destroy you."

Nevertheless Josiah refused to turn away his face from him, but presumed to wage war with him and would not listen to the words of Necho from the mouth of God. So he went to fight in the valley of Megiddo. Then the archers shot at King Josiah, and the king said to his servants,

"Take me away, for I am badly wounded."

So his servants took him out of the chariot and made him ride in the second chariot that he had and brought him to Jerusalem where he died, and he was buried in the sepulchers of his fathers, and all Judah and Jerusalem mourned for Josiah. Jeremiah also chanted a dirge for Josiah and all the singing men and women speak of Josiah in their chants down to this day; and they made them a custom in Israel; and behold, they are written in the Lamentations.

Now the rest of the records of Josiah and his good deeds, according to that which is prescribed in the law of the LORD, and his acts from first to last are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah.

THE LAST DAYS OF THE KING- DOM OF JUDAH, 36:1-23

Then the people of the land took Jehoahaz, the son of Josiah, and made him king in his father's stead in Jerusalem. Joahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. Then the king of Egypt deposed him at Jerusalem, and he fined the land a hundred talents of silver and a hundred talents of gold. The king of Egypt then made Eliakim, his brother, king over Judah and Jerusalem, and changed his name to Jehoiakim. But Necho took Joahaz his brother and brought him to Egypt. Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king and he reigned in Jerusalem eleven years; and he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD his God. Against him came up Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and bound him in fetters to bring him to Babylon. Nebuchadnezzar also carried some of the utensils of the house of the LORD to Babylon and put them in his temple in Babylon. Now the rest of the records of Jehoiakim and his abominations which he did and that which was found in him, behold, they are written in the Book of the Kings of Israel and Judah; and Jehoiachin his son became king in his stead.

Jehoiachin was eight years old when he became king and he reigned in Jerusalem three months and ten days; and he did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD. Then at the return of spring King Nebuchadnezzar sent and brought him to Babylon, with the choice vessels of the house of the LORD, and he made Zedekiah, his brother, king over Judah and Jerusalem.

Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. He did that which was evil in the sight of the LORD his God, and did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet at the word of the LORD. He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear by God. But he became obstinate and stubbornly refused to turn to the LORD, the God of Israel.

Also all the chiefs of the priests and the people proved utterly faithless, in accordance with all the abominations of the nations, and they polluted the house of the LORD which he had sanctified in Jerusalem. Still the LORD, the God of their fathers, eagerly sent to them by his messengers, because he had compassion on his people and on his dwelling-place, but they mocked God's messengers and despised his words and derided his prophets, until the wrath of the LORD arose against his people till there was no remedy. So he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans who slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and spared neither youths nor maidens, neither the aged nor the decrepit. He delivered them all into his hand. Also all the utensils of the house of God both large and small, together with the treasures of the house of the LORD and the treasures of the king and his princes—all these he brought to Babylon. Moreover they burned the house of God, and broke down the wall of Jerusalem, and all its palaces they burned with fire, and all its choice vessels were given to destruction. Those who escaped the sword he carried captive to Babylon, where they became slaves to him and to his sons until the dominance of the kingdom of Persia, in order that the words of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be fulfilled, until the land had enjoyed its sabbaths. All the days of the desolation it kept sabbath, to complete the seventy years.

In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, so that he issued a proclamation throughout his kingdom and also put it in writing, as follows:

"Thus says Cyrus, king of Persia: 23 'The LORD, the God of the heavens, has given me all the kingdoms of the earth, and he has commissioned me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Whosoever there is among you of all his people, the LORD his God be with him; let him go up.' "

THE BOOK OF EZRA

THE DECREE OF CYRUS AND THE RETURN, 1:1-11

1 NOW in the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, that the word of the LORD by the mouth of Jeremiah might be accomplished, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus, king of Persia, to issue a proclamation throughout all his kingdom and also to put it in writing, as follows:

2 "Thus says Cyrus, king of Persia: 'All the kingdoms of the earth has the LORD, the God of the heavens, given me, and he has commissioned me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. Whoever there is among you of all his people who desires to go, his God be with him; let him go up to Jerusalem, which is in Judah, and build the house of the LORD, the God of Israel, since he is the God who is in Jerusalem. Whoever is left in any place where he resides as an alien, let the men of his place aid him with silver and gold and goods and beasts of burden, as well as with voluntary offerings for the house of God which is in Jerusalem.' "

5 Then the heads of families of Judah and Benjamin, and the priests and the Levites, even all whose spirit God had roused to go up to build the house of the LORD which is in Jerusalem, arose; and all those who were about them supplied them with utensils of silver, with gold, with goods, and with beasts, and with precious things, besides all that was voluntarily offered. Also King Cyrus brought forth the utensils of the house of the LORD, which Nebuchadnezzar had brought from Jerusalem and had put in the house of his gods. So Cyrus, king of Persia, brought them out under the charge of Mithredath the treasurer, and counted them out to Sheshbazzar, the prince of Judah; and this is the number of them: thirty golden basins, a thousand silver basins, twenty-nine censers, thirty golden bowls, two thousand four hundred and ten silver bowls, and a thousand other vessels. All the vessels of gold and silver were five thousand four hundred. All these Sheshbazzar brought up, when the exiles were brought up from Babylon to Jerusalem.

LISTS OF THE RETURNING EXILES, 2:1-70

Now these belonged to the province, that went up out of the captivity, who had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had carried away to Babylon; and they returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each to his city, those who came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Scariah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, Baanah.

 50 fifty-two; the descendants of Pashhur,
 51 one thousand two hundred and forty-

 53 thousand and seventeen.

54 The Levites: the descendants of 55 Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the descend-56 ants of Hodaviah, seventy-four; the 57 singers of the descendants of Asaph, one 58 hundred and twenty-eight; the descend-59 ants of the gatekeepers were: the 60 descendants of Shallum, the descend-
 61 ants of Ater, the descendants of Talamon,
 62 the descendants of Akkub, the descend-
 63 ants of Hatita, the descendants of Shobai, 64 in all one hundred and thirty-65 nine.

66 The temple servants were: the descend-67 ants of Ziha, the descendants of 68 Hasupha, the descendants of Tab-69 baoth, the descendants of Keros, the

 72 Lebanah, the descendants of Hagab-73 bah, the descendants of Akkub, the de-74 scendants of Hagab, the descendants of 75 Shamlai, the descendants of Hanan,
 76 the descendants of Giddel, the descend-
 77 ants of Gahar, the descendants of Rea-78 iah, the descendants of Rezin, the de-79 scendants of Nekoda, the descendants
 80 of Gazzan, the descendants of Uzza, the

81 descendants of Paseah, the descendants 82 of Besai, the descendants of Asnah, the 83 descendants of the Meunites, the de-84 scendants of Nephisim, the descend-85 ants of Bakbuk, the descendants of

93 The descendants of Solomon's serv-

 97 of Jaalah, the descendants of Dar'ion,
 98 the descendants of Giddel, the de-
 99 scendants of Shephatiah, the descend-
 100 ants of Hattil, the descendants of Po-101 chereth-Hazzabaim, the descendants 102 of Ami, all the temple servants, and the 103 descendants of Solomon's servants,
 104 were three hundred and ninety-two.

105 Now these were those who went up
 106 from Telmelah, Telharsha, Cherub,
 107 Addan, and Immer; but they could not 108 show their fathers' lineage nor their 109 descent, whether they were of Israel:
 110 the descendants of Delaiah, the de-
 111 scendants of Tobiah, the descendants
 112 of Nekoda, six hundred and fifty-two;
 113 also of the priests: the descendants of 114 Habaiah, the descendants of Hakkoz,
 115 the descendants of Barzillai, who took a
 116 wife from the daughters of Barzillai,
 117 the Gileadite, and was called by their 118 name. These sought their register
 119 among those reckoned by genealogy,
 120 but it was not found; therefore they 121 were excluded from the priesthood as
 122 polluted. Also the governor told them
 123 that they should not eat of the most
 124 sacred things, until there should stand
 125 a priest with the Urim and Thummim.

126 The whole assembly together was 127 forty-two thousand three hundred and 128 sixty, besides their male and female
 129 slaves, of whom there were seven thou-
 130 sand three hundred and thirty-seven.
 131 Their horses were seven hundred and 132 thirty-six; their mules, two hundred
 133 and forty-five; their camels, four hun-134 dred and thirty-five; their asses, six 135 thousand seven hundred and twenty.

136 Now some of the heads of families,
 137 when they came to the house of the 138 LORD which is in Jerusalem, made 139 voluntary gifts to the house of God to

69 set it up in its place. They gave according to their ability into the treasury of the work sixty-one thousand darics of gold, and five thousand manas of silver, and one hundred priests' garments. So the priests, the Levites, some of the people, the porters, the singers, and the temple servants dwelt in their cities, and all Israel in their cities.

THE RENEWAL OF WORSHIP AT JERUSALEM, 3:1-6

3 Now when the seventh month arrived, and the Israelites were in their cities, the people assembled as one man 2 to Jerusalem. Then Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and his kinsmen the priests, and Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, and his kinsmen arose and built the altar of the God of Israel to offer burnt-offerings on it, as prescribed in the law 3 of Moses, the man of God. So they set up the altar in its place, for fear was upon them, because of the peoples of the lands, and they offered upon it burnt-offerings to the LORD, even burnt-offerings morning and evening. 4 Moreover they kept the feast of booths as it is written, and offered the fixed number of burnt-offerings day by day according to the direction for each day; 5 and afterward the regular burnt-offerings and the offerings at the new moons, and those of all the fixed festivals of the LORD, that were consecrated, and those of everyone who offered a voluntary offering to the LORD. From the first day of the seventh month they began to offer burnt-offerings to the LORD, although the foundation of the temple of the LORD was not yet laid.

THE FOUNDATION OF THE TEMPLE LAID, 3:7-13

7 They gave money to the masons and to the carpenters, and food, and drink, and oil to the Sidonians and the Tyrians to bring cedar trees from Lebanon by sea to Joppa, according to the grant that they had from Cyrus, king of Persia. 8 Now in the second year of their coming to the house of God at Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and the rest of their kinsmen the priests and the Levites, and all who came from the captivity to Jerusalem, made a beginning and appointed the Levites from twenty years old and upward to have the oversight of the work of the house of the LORD. Then Jeshua 5 stood up with his sons and his kinsmen, Kadmiel and his sons, Judeans, to have together direction over the execution of the work in the house of God; the sons of Henadad also, with their sons and their kinsmen the Levites. Now 10 when the builders had laid the foundation of the temple of the LORD, they stationed the priests in their official robes with trumpets and the Levites, the sons of Asaph, with cymbals to praise the LORD according to the directions of David, king of Israel; and they 11 sang responsively in praising and giving thanks to the LORD, saying,

"For he is good,
For his kindness over Israel is everlasting."

Then all the people raised a great shout when they praised the LORD, because the foundation of the house of the LORD had been laid. But many of 12 the priests and the Levites and heads of families and the old men, who had seen the first house, when the foundation of this house was laid before their eyes, wept with a loud voice, while many shouted aloud for joy, so that the people 13 could not distinguish the sound of the shout of joy from the sound of the weeping of the people, for the people shouted with a great shout, and the sound was heard a great distance away.

OPPOSITION TO THE RE- BUILDING, 4:1-24

Now when the adversaries of Judah 4 and Benjamin heard that the exiles were building a temple for the LORD, the God of Israel, they approached 2 Zerubbabel and the heads of families, and said to them,

"Let us build with you; for we seek your God, as you do, and we have been sacrificing to him since the days of Esarhaddon, king of Assyria, who brought us up here."

But Zerubbabel and Jeshua and the 3 rest of the heads of families of Israel said to them,

"You have nothing in common with us in building a house to our God; but we ourselves will together build to the LORD, the God of Israel, as King Cyrus, the king of Persia, has commanded us."

- 4 Then the people of the land continued to weaken the hands of the people of Judah, and terrorize them out of building, and hire counselors against them to frustrate their counsel, all the days of Cyrus, king of Persia, even until the reign of Darius, king of Persia.
- 6 Moreover in the reign of Xerxes, in the beginning of his reign, they wrote an accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.
- 7 Now in the days of Artaxerxes wrote Bishlam, Mithredath, Tabeel, and the rest of his companions to Artaxerxes, the king of Persia; and the script of the letter was written in Aramaic and interpreted in Aramaic. Rehum, the commander, and Shimshai, the scribe, wrote a letter against Jerusalem to Artaxerxes the king as follows. Then wrote Rehum, the commander, and Shimshai, the scribe, and the rest of their associates, the Dinaites and the Apharsathchites, the Tarpelites, the Apharsites, the Archevites, the Babylonians, the people of Susa, the Dehahonites, the Elamites, and the rest of the peoples whom the great and noble Ashurbanipal transported and settled in the city of Samaria and in the rest of the province beyond the River. Now—
- 11 this is a copy of the letter that they sent to Artaxerxes the king:
- 12 "Your servants, the men of the province beyond the River. Now be it known to the king that the Jews who came up from you to us have reached Jerusalem. This rebellious and bad city they are rebuilding and have completed its walls and cleared the foundations.
- 13 Therefore be it known to the king, that if this city be rebuilt and its walls finished, they will not pay tribute, custom, or toll, and immediately it will injure the revenue of the kings. Now because we eat the salt of the palace and it is not fitting for us to behold the king's dishonor, therefore we have sent and informed the king, that search be made in the book of the records of your fathers; for you will find in the book of the records and learn that this city is a rebellious city and one that causes damage to kings and provinces and that the Jews have stirred up sedition in it from ancient times, for which cause this city was laid waste. We make known to the king that, if this city is rebuilt and its walls finished, you will have as a result no portion in the lands beyond the River."

The king sent a message to Rehum, the commander, and to Shimshai, the scribe, and to the rest of their associates who dwelt in Samaria and in the rest of the province beyond the River:

"Greeting, and as follows: The letter which you sent to us has been plainly read before me. I gave command search has been made, and it has been found that this city from ancient times has been rebellious against kings and that rebellion and sedition have taken place in it. Moreover there have been mighty kings over Jerusalem who have ruled over all the country beyond the River and tribute, custom, and toll were paid to them. Now give command that these men cease and that this city be not rebuilt until a decree shall be issued by me. Also be careful that there be no neglect about this; why should the damage increase to the detriment of the kings?"

When the copy of King Artaxerxes' letter had been read to Rehum and Shimshai, the scribe, and their associates, they went in haste to Jerusalem to the Jews, and by force and compulsion made them stop. Thus the work on the house of God which is in Jerusalem came to an end, and it ceased until the second year of the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

THE TEMPLE REBUILT AND DEDICATED, 5:1—6:22

Now the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, the son of Iddo, prophesied to the Jews who were in Judah and Jerusalem, in the name of the God of Israel who was over them. Then Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, arose and began to build the house which is at Jerusalem; and with them were the prophets of God supporting them.

At that time Tattenai, the governor of the province beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai and their associates came to them, and spoke to them thus,

"Who gave you a permit to build this house and finish this sanctuary? And who are the builders who are doing this work?"

- 4 Accordingly we told them what the names of the men were, who were building this structure. But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, so that they did not make them cease until a report should come to Darius, and then a written reply be returned concerning it.
- 6 The copy of the letter that Tattenai, the governor beyond the River, and Shethar-bozenai and his associates the Apharsachites, who were beyond the River, sent to Darius, the king. They sent a dispatch to him, wherein was written as follows:
- 8 "To Darius, the king, all hail! Be it known to the king that we have gone into the province of Judah, to the house of the great God, which was built with huge stones and timber laid on the walls; this work is being thoroughly done and is prospering in their hands.
- 9 Then we asked those elders, and said to them thus, 'Who gave you a permit to build this house and to complete this building?' We also asked them their names, in order to inform you, that we might write the names of the men who were at their head; and they returned us answer as follows: "We are the servants of the God of the heavens and the earth, and we are rebuilding this house that was built many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and finished, but after our fathers had roused the wrath of the God of the heavens, he gave them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, the Chaldean, who destroyed this house and carried the people away to Babylon. However in the first year of Cyrus, king of Babylon, Cyrus, the king, made a decree that this house of God be rebuilt. The gold and silver utensils also of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple that was at Jerusalem and brought to the temple in Babylon, those Cyrus, the king, took out of the temple in Babylon, and they were delivered to one Sheshbazzar by name, whom he had made governor; and he said to him, "Take these vessels, go, put them in the temple that is in Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt in its place."
- 16 Then this Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the house of God which is in Jerusalem. Since that time even until now it has been building, and it is not yet finished.' Now therefore, if it please the king, let search be made in the king's treasure-house there at Babylon, whether it be so, that a decree was issued by Cyrus the king to rebuild this house of God at Jerusalem; and let the king send to us his good pleasure concerning this matter."

Accordingly Darius, the king, issued a decree, and search was made in the house of the archives where the treasures were stored there at Babylon. And at Ecbatana, in the castle that is in the province of Media, a roll was found and in it was written:

"A record: In the first year of Cyrus, the king, Cyrus, the king, issued a decree: 'Concerning the house of God at Jerusalem, let the house, the place where sacrifices are offered, be rebuilt, and let its foundations be prepared; its height shall be sixty cubits and its breadth sixty cubits, with three courses of huge stones and a course of new timber, the expenses to be paid out of the king's treasury. Also let the gold and silver utensils of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple at Jerusalem and brought to Babylon, be restored and brought to the temple which is in Jerusalem, each to its place; and you shall put them in the house of God.'

"Now therefore, Tattenai, governor of the province beyond the River, Shethar-bozenai, and their associates the Apharsachites, who are beyond the River, withdraw from there. Let the work of this house of God alone; let the governor of the Jews and the elders of the Jews rebuild this house of God in its place. Moreover I make a decree in regard to what you shall do for these elders of the Jews for the building of this house of God: that out of the king's funds from the tribute of the province beyond the River the expenses be paid in full to these men, and that without delay. Whatever is needed, both young bulls and rams and lambs for burnt-offerings to the God of the heavens, wheat, salt, wine, and oil according to the word of the priests at Jerusalem, let it be given to them day by day without fail, that they may offer sacrifices of a soothing odor to the God of the heavens; and pray for the life of 1 the king and his sons. Also I make a decree that any man who alters this command, a beam shall be pulled out from his house and he shall be impaled upon it, and his house shall be made a 2 refuse-heap for this. The God who has caused his name to dwell there shall overthrow any king or people who shall put forth his hand to alter this, or to destroy this house of God, which is in Jerusalem. I, Darius, have issued a decree, let it be executed to the letter."

3 Then Tattenai, the governor of the province beyond the River, and She-thar-bozenai, and their associates did precisely as Darius, the king, had di-4 rected. So the elders of the Jews built and prospered, through the prophesying of Haggai, the prophet, and Zechariah, the son of Iddo. Thus they built and finished it, according to the command of the God of Israel and according to the decree of Cyrus and Darius 5 and Artaxerxes, the king of Persia. So this house was finished on the third day of the month Adar, which was in the sixth year of the reign of Darius the king.

6 Then the Israelites, the priests, the Levites, and the rest of the returned exiles, celebrated the dedication of this 7 house of God with joy. They offered at the dedication of this house of God a hundred bulls, two hundred rams, four hundred lambs, and twelve he-goats as a sin-offering for all Israel, according to 8 the number of the tribes of Israel. They also set the priests in their divisions and the Levites in their courses, for the service of God at Jerusalem, as it is prescribed in the book of Moses.

9 Moreover the returned exiles kept the passover upon the fourteenth day 10 of the first month. For the priests and the Levites had purified themselves to a man, all of them being ceremonially clean. They slaughtered the passover for all the returned exiles, both for their kinsmen the priests and for them-11 selves. Then the Israelites who had returned from the captivity, and everyone who separated himself from the un-cleanness of the peoples of the land to join them in order to seek the LORD, 12 the God of Israel, ate, and kept the feast of unleavened cakes seven days with gladness; for the LORD had made them joyful, and had turned the heart of the king of Persia to them, to strengthen their hands in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERU- SALEM, 7:1-28

Now after these things, in the reign 7 of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, there went up Ezra, the son of Seraiah, the son of Azariah, the son of Hilkiah, the 2 son of Shallum, the son of Zadok, the son of Ahitub, the son of Amariah, 3
 the son of Azariah, the son of Meraioth, the son of Zeremiah, the son of Uzzi, 4
 the son of Bukki, the son of Abishua, 5
 the son of Phineas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the chief priest.
 This Ezra went up from Babylon; 6 and he was a scribe skilled in the law of Moses, which the LORD, the God of Israel, had given; and the king granted him all his request, because the hand of the Lord his God was upon him. Moreover some of the Israelites 7 and the priests, the Levites, the singers, the doorkeepers, and the temple servants went up to Jerusalem in the seventh year of Artaxerxes the king. 8
 He came to Jerusalem in the fifth month, which was in the seventh year of the king; for on the first day of the first 9 month he began the journey up from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month he arrived at Jerusalem, since the good hand of his God was upon him. For Ezra had set his heart 10 to seek the law of the Lord, to keep it, and to teach in Israel statutes and ordinances.

Now this is a copy of the letter 11 which King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest, the scribe, learned in matters of the commands of the LORD and his statutes in Israel:

"Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra 12
 the priest, learned in the law of the God of the heavens, heartiest greetings. I 13 now make a decree that anyone of the people of Israel, or their priests or Levites in my realm, who is willing to go to Jerusalem, shall go with you. Be 14 cause you have been sent by the king and his seven counselors to make investigations concerning Judah and Jerusalem in accordance with the law of your God which is in your hand, and 15 to carry the silver and gold which the king and his counselors have freely offered to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, with all the silver and gold that you shall find in all the province of Babylon, together with the voluntary offerings of the people and the priests, offered willingly for the house of their God, which is in Jerusalem; accordingly with this money you shall faithfully buy bulls, rams, lambs, with their cereal-offerings and their libations, and shall offer them on the altar of the house of your God, which is in Jerusalem. Moreover whatever shall seem good to you and to your kinsmen to do with the rest of the silver and the gold, so do according to the will of your God. The utensils that have been given you for the service of the house of your God, deliver before the God of Jerusalem; and whatever things besides are required for the house of your God, which you shall have occasion to bestow, you shall give it out of the king's treasure-house.

21 "Moreover I, even I, Artaxerxes, the king, do make a decree to all the treasurers of the province beyond the River, that whatever Ezra the priest, learned in the law of the God of the heavens, shall require of you, let it be faithfully done, up to a hundred talents of silver, a thousand measures of wheat, a hundred baths of wine, a hundred baths of oil, and salt without reckoning. 23 Whatever is commanded by the God of the heavens, let it be faithfully done for the house of the God of the heavens; for why should there be wrath against the realm of the king and his sons? Also be it known to you that it is unlawful for you to impose tax, tribute, or toll on any priests, Levites, singers, doorkeepers, temple servants, or menials of this house of God. Moreover do you Ezra, according to the wisdom of your God that is in your grasp, appoint governors and judges who may judge all the people beyond the River, all such as know the laws of your God, and instruct any who do not know them. Whoever will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king, let strict judgment be executed upon him, whether it be death, or punishment, or confiscation of goods, or imprisonment."

27 Blessed be the LORD, the God of our fathers, who has put such a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the house of the LORD, which is in Jerusalem, and has extended grace to me before the king and his counselors and all the distinguished princes of the king. Thus I was strengthened, since the hand of the LORD my God was with me, and I gathered leading men from Israel to go up with me.

EZRA'S COMPANY AND EQUIPMENT, 8:1-36

Now these are the heads of families, and this is the genealogy of those who came up with me from Babylon in the reign of Artaxerxes, the king: Of the descendants of Phinehas, Gershom; of the descendants of Ithamar, Daniel; of the descendants of David, Hattush, the son of Shecaniah; of the descendants of Perosh, Zechariah, and with him were reckoned by genealogy a hundred and fifty males; of the descendants of Pahath-moab, Eliohenai, the son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred males; of the descendants of Shecaniah, the son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males; and of the descendants of Adin, Ebed, the son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males; of the descendants of Elam, Jeshaiah, the son of Athaliah, and with him seventy males; of the descendants of Shephathiah, Zebadiah, the son of Michael, and with him eighty males; of the descendants of Joab, Obadiah, the son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males; of the descendants of Bani, Shelomith, the son of Josphiah, and with him a hundred and sixty males; of the descendants of Bebai, Zechariah, the son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight males; of the descendants of Azgad, Johanan, the son of Hakkatan, and with him a hundred and ten males; of the descendants of Adonikam, those who came last, and these are their names: Eliphelet, Jeuel, and Shemaiah, and with them sixty males; and of the descendants of Bigvai, Uthai and Zabbub, and with them seventy males.

Accordingly I gathered them together to the river that flows toward Ahava, and there we encamped three days, while I inspected the people and the priests and found there none of the descendants of Levi. Then I sent for Eleazer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Elnathan, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, leading men; also for Joiarib and Elnathan, who were teachers; and I sent them to Iddo, the chief of the place Casiphia. I put in their mouths the words they were to speak to Iddo and his kinsmen the temple servants at the place Casiphia, namely, that they should bring us ministrants for the house of our God. And because the good hand of our God was with us, they brought us a man of discretion, of the descendants of Mahli, the son of Levi, the son of Israel, and Sherebiah, with his sons and his kinsmen, eighteen; and Hashabiah and Jeshaiah of the descendants of Merari, their kinsmen and their sons, twenty; and of the temple servants, whom David and the princes had given for the service of the Levites, two hundred and twenty temple servants; all of them were mentioned by name. Then I proclaimed there a fast at the river Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God to seek from him a safe journey for us and for our little ones and for all our possessions. For I was ashamed to ask of the king an armed force and horsemen to help us against the enemy on the way, because we had said to the king,

"The hand of our God is with all who seek him for good, but his power and his wrath are against all who forsake him."

So we fasted and besought our God for this; and he was entreated by us.

Then I set apart twelve of the chiefs of the priests, even Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their kinsmen with them, and weighed to them the silver, and the gold, and the utensils, even the contribution to the house of our God, which the king and his counselors, and his princes and all Israel there present had offered. Thus I weighed into their hands six hundred and fifty talents of silver, and utensils of silver a hundred talents, of gold one hundred talents; and twenty bowls of gold of a thousand darics, and two vessels of fine burnished bronze, precious as gold; and I said to them,

"You are holy to the LORD, and the vessels are holy, and the silver and gold are a voluntary offering to the LORD, the God of your fathers. Watch and keep them until you weigh them before the chiefs of the priests and the Levites and the chiefs of the families of Israel at Jerusalem in the chambers of the house of the LORD."

So the priests and the Levites received the weight of the silver and the gold and the utensils, to bring them to Jerusalem to the house of our God. Then we departed from the river Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month to go to Jerusalem.

The hand of our God was upon us and he delivered us from the hand of the enemy and the lier-in-wait by the way; and when we arrived at Jerusalem, we remained there three days. Then on the fourth day the silver, the gold, and the utensils were weighed in the house of our God into the hands of Meremoth, the son of Uriah, the priest; and with him was Eleazar, the son of Phinehas, and with them were Jozabad, the son of Jeshua, and Noadiah, the son of Binnui, the Levites. The whole was numbered and weighed, and the weight of everything was recorded. At that time those who had come from the captivity, the returned exiles, offered burnt-offerings to the God of Israel, twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, twelve he-goats as a sin-offering, the whole being a burnt-offering to the LORD. Moreover they delivered the king's commission to the king's satraps and to the governors of the provinces beyond the River; and they gave support to the people and the house of God.

THE EXPULSION OF FOREIGN WIVES, 9:1—10:17

Now when these things had been completed, the princes approached me and said,

"The people of Israel and the priests and the Levites have not separated themselves from the peoples of the lands, from their abominations, even from the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Ammonites, the Moabites, the Egyptians, and the Amorites. For they have taken wives from their daughters for themselves and their sons, so that the holy race has mixed itself with the peoples of the lands, and the hands of the princes and the rulers have been foremost in this inconsistency."

3 Now when I heard this thing, I tore my garment and my mantle, and pulled the hair from my head and my beard, and sat down appalled. Then were assembled to me all who trembled at the words of the God of Israel because of the inconstancy of the exiles, and I sat appalled until the evening oblation.

5 But at the evening oblation I arose from my self-abasement, and having torn my garment and my mantle, I fell upon my knees and spread out my hands to the LORD my God and said, "O my God, I am ashamed and blush to lift up my face to thee, my God, for our iniquities have risen higher than our heads and our guilt has grown even to the heavens. Since the days of our fathers even to this day we have been involved in great guilt, and for our iniquities we, our kings, and our priests have been delivered into the hand of the kings of the lands, to the sword, captivity, plunder, and confusion of face, as it is this day. Now for a little while there has been favor from the LORD our God, in that he has left us an escaped remnant and given us a stake in his holy place, that our God may lighten our eyes and give us a little reinvigoration in our bondage. For we are slaves; yet in our bondage our God hast not forsaken us, but has extended to us kindness in the sight of the kings of Persia, to give us a reinvigoration to raise up the house of our God, to repair its ruins, and to give us a wall in Judah and Jerusalem. Now, O our God, what shall we say after this? For we have forsaken thy commands, which thou has commanded by thy servants the prophets, saying, 'The land to which you go for conquest is an unclean land because of the uncleanness of the peoples of the lands, through their abominable rites, which have filled it from one end to the other with their uncleanness. Therefore do not give your daughters to their sons, nor take their daughters as wives for your sons, and never seek their peace or prosperity, that you may be strong and enjoy the good of the land, and cause your children to inherit it forever.' Now after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and our great guilt, inasmuch as thou, O our God, hast punished us less than our iniquities deserve, and hast given us a remnant such as this, shall we again break thy commands, and make marriage alliances with the peoples who perform these abominable rites? Wouldst thou not be enraged at us until thou hadst consumed us, until neither remnant nor survivor was left? O LORD, the God of Israel, thou art righteous; for we are left a remnant that has escaped, as it is this day. Behold, we are before thee in our guilt, for none can stand before thee because of this."

Now while Ezra was praying and making confession, weeping and casting himself down before the house of God, there was assembled to him out of Israel a very great assembly of men, women, and children; for the people wept bitterly. Then Shecaniah, the son of Jehiel, one of the sons of Elam, spoke up and said to Ezra,

"We have broken faith with our God and have married foreign women of the people of the land, yet now there is hope for Israel concerning this matter. Now therefore let us make a covenant with our God to put away all the wives and those born of them, according to the counsel of my lord and of those who tremble at the command of our God, and let it be done according to the law. Arise, for it is your task, and we are with you; be strong and act."

Then Ezra arose and made the chiefs of the priests, the Levites and all Israel swear that they would do according to this proposal. So they took oath. Thereupon Ezra rose up from before the house of God and went into the chamber of Jehohanan, the son of Elia-shib, and when he came there he neither ate bread nor drank water, for he continued to mourn because of the unfaithfulness of the exiles. Then they issued a proclamation throughout Judah and Jerusalem to all the returned exiles to assemble at Jerusalem; and that who ever did not come within three days, according to the counsel of the princes and the elders, all his property should be confiscated and he himself be excluded from the assembly of the exiles.

Then all the men of Judah and Benjamin assembled at Jerusalem within the three days (this was in the twentieth day of the ninth month); and all the people sat in the open square in front of the house of God, trembling on account of the occasion itself and also because of 10 the pouring rain. Thereupon Ezra the priest arose and said to them,

"You have broken faith and have married foreign women to increase the guilt of Israel. Now therefore make confession to the LORD, the God of your fathers, and do his will and separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from the foreign wives."

12 Then all the assembly answered and said with a loud voice,

13 "We must do as you have said. But the people are many, and it is the rainy season, and we cannot stand outside, and this is not a task of one day or two for we have lamentably transgressed

14 in this matter. Let now our princes represent the whole assembly and let all those in our cities who have married foreign women come at appointed times, with the elders of each city and its judges, in order to turn aside the fierce wrath of our God from us because of this matter."

15 Only Jonathan, the son of Asahel, and Jahzeiah, the son of Tikvah, opposed this, and Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite supported them.

16 Then the returned exiles took action thus: Ezra the priest and certain heads of families according to their fathers' houses, and all of them by their names, were selected; and they held a sitting on the first day of the tenth month to 17 examine the matter. Accordingly they finished dealing with all the men who had married foreign women by the first day of the first month.

LISTS OF MEN MARRIED TO FOREIGNERS, 10:18-44

18 Now among the descendants of the priests who had married foreign women were found the sons of Jeshua, the sons of Jozadak, and his clansmen: Maase-

iah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah. They 19 gave their hand that they would divorce their wives; and their guilt-offering was a ram of the flock for their guilt. Also 20 the sons of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah; of the sons of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel, and Uzziyah; of the sons of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasa; of the Levites: Jozabad, Shimei, Kelaiah (the same is Kelita), Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer; of the 24 singers: Eliashib and Zaccur; and of the doorkeepers, Shallum, Telem, and Uri.

Finally of Israel: of the sons of Pa- 25 rosh: Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eleazer, Malchijah, and Benaiah; of the sons of Elam: Mattaniah, 26 Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth, and Elijah; of the sons of Zattu: Elioenai, 27 Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad, and Aziza; of the sons of Bebai: Jeho- 28 hanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, Athlai; of 29 the sons of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiyah, Jashub, Sheal, and Jeremoth; of the sons of Pahath-moab: Adna, 30 Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui, and Manasseh; of the 31 sons of Harim: Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Shimeon, Benjamin, 32 Malluch, Shemariah; of the sons of 33 Hashum: Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, Shimei; of the sons of Bani: Maadai, 34 Amram, Joel, Benaiah, Bedeiah, Che- 35 luhi, Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, 36 Mattaniah, Mattenai, Jaasu; of the 37 sons of Binnui: Shimei, Shelemiah, 38 Nathan, Adaiyah, Machnadebai, Sha- 39 shai, Sharai, Azarel, Shelemiah, She- 40 mariah, Shallum, Amariah, Joseph; of 41 the sons of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, 42 Zabad, Zebina, Iddo, Joel, Benaiah. 43 All these had married foreign women; 44 and they cast off the wives and the children.

THE BOOK OF NEHEMIAH

NEHEMIAH'S PRAYER FOR JERUSALEM, 1:1-11

1 THE account of Nehemiah, the son of Hacaliah.

Now it happened in the month of Chislev, in the twentieth year, as I was in the citadel of Shushan, that Hanani, one of my kinsmen, came, together with certain men from Judah, and I asked them concerning the Jews who had escaped, who were left from the captivity, and concerning Jerusalem. So they said to me,

"The survivors who are left from the captivity there in the province are in great misery and reproach, and the wall of Jerusalem is broken down and its gates have been destroyed by fire."

4 Now when I heard these words, I sat down and wept and mourned certain days; and I fasted and prayed before the God of the heavens, and I said,

"I beseech thee, O LORD, the God of the heavens, the great and terrible God, who keeps loving faith with those who love him and keep his commands. Let 6 thy ears now be attentive and thine eyes open, to hear the prayer of thy servant, which I am making before thee day and night for the Israelites thy servants, while I confess the sins of the Israelites, which we have sinned against thee, as I myself also and my father's 7 family have sinned. We have acted very wickedly against thee, and have not kept the commands, or statutes, or ordinances, which thou didst command 8 Moses, thy servant. Remember now the word which thou didst command Moses, thy servant, saying, 'If you trespass, I will scatter you among the 9 peoples; but if you return to me, and keep my commands and do them, though your outcasts be under the remotest skies, yet will I gather them from there and bring them to the place that I have chosen, to cause my name 10 to dwell there.' Now these are thy servants and thy people, whom thou hast redeemed by thy great power and by thy mighty hand. O LORD, I beseech thee, let thine ear now be attentive to the prayer of thy servant and to the prayer of thy servants, who delight to fear thy name; and prosper, I pray thee, thy servant this day, and grant him mercy in the sight of this man."

NEHEMIAH SENT TO JERUSALEM AS ROYAL COMMISSIONER,

1:11b-2:10

Now I was cupbearer to the king. Accordingly it happened in the month 2 Nisan in the twentieth year of Artaxerxes the king, when the wine was served, that I took up the wine and gave it to the king; and I had not formerly been sad. So the king said to me,

"Why is your countenance sad, since you are not ill? This is nothing else but sorrow of heart."

Then I was exceedingly frightened, and I said to the king,

"Let the king live forever! Why should not my countenance be sad, when the city, the place of my father's sepulchers is desolate, and its gates have been destroyed by fire."

"For what then do you make request?" the king said to me.

So I prayed to the God of the heavens; and I said to the king,

"If it please the king, and if your servant be acceptable in your sight, that you would send me to Judah to the city of my fathers' sepulchers, that I may rebuild it."

Then the king said to me, the queen also being seated beside him,

"For how long will your journey be? And when will you return?"

However it pleased the king to let me go; for I proposed to him a time limit. Moreover I said to the king,

"If it please the king, let letters be given me to the governors of the provinces beyond the River, that they may let me pass through until I come to Judah, and a letter to Asaph, the keeper of the king's park, that he may give me timber to furnish the beams for the gates of the citadel, which belongs to the temple, and for the walls of the city, and for the house that I shall enter."

So the king granted my request, according to the good hand of my God upon me.

9 Then I came to the governors of the provinces beyond the River, and gave them the king's letters. Moreover the king had sent with me army officers and horsemen. But when Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite slave heard of it, it caused them great irritation that a man had come to seek the welfare of the Israelites.

NEHEMIAH BEGINS REBUILDING THE CITY WALLS, 2:11-20

11 So I came to Jerusalem and was there 12 three days. Then I arose in the night, I and a few men with me, but I told no man what my God had put in my heart to do for Jerusalem, neither was there any beast with me except the beast on 13 which I rode. Accordingly I went out by night through the Valley Gate, even toward the Serpent's Well and to the Refuse Gate, and I examined in detail the walls of Jerusalem, which were broken down, and its gates destroyed 14 by fire. So I passed on to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool, but there was no place for the beast that was 15 under me to pass. Then I went on up in the night along the valley, examining the wall, whereupon I turned back and entered by the Valley Gate, and so returned; and the rulers did not know 16 where I had gone or what I had been doing, neither had I as yet told it to the Jews, nor to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the rulers, nor to the rest who did the work.

17 Then I said to them, "You see the serious condition in which we are, how Jerusalem is desolate and its gates are destroyed by fire. Come, let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem, that we may no longer be an object of reproach."

18 Then I told them of the good hand of my God that was with me, and also of the king's words that he had spoken to me. Whereupon they said,

"Let us arise and build."

So they took courage for the good work. But when Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite slave, and Geshem the Arabian heard of it, they derided and despised us, and said,

"What is this thing that you are doing? Are you about to rebel against the king?"

Then I answered and said to them, 20

"The God of the heavens, he will prosper us; therefore we his servants will arise and build; but you have no portion or right or memorial in Jerusalem."

THE DISTRIBUTION OF THE WORK, 3:1-32

Then Eliashib the high priest arose 3 with his kinsmen the priests and built the Sheep Gate; they sanctified it and set up its doors; even to the Tower of the Hundred they sanctified it, and to the Tower of Hananel; and next to him 1 the men of Jericho built; and next to them Zaccur, the son of Imri, built.

The sons of Hassenaah built the Fish 3 Gate; they laid its beams and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. Next to 4 them Meremoth, the son of Uriah, the son of Hakkoz, made repairs; and next to them Meshullam, the son of Bera- 5 chiah, the son of Meshezabel, made repairs; and next to them Zadok, the son of Baana, made repairs. Next to them the Tekoites made repairs; but their nobles did not bend their necks in the service of their lords.

The Old Gate Joiada, the son of Pa- 6 seah, and Meshullam, the son of Besodeiah, repaired. They laid its beams and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. Next to them Malatiah the Gibe- 7 onite made repairs, and Jadon the Merothite, the men of Gibeon and Mizpeh belonging to the throne of the governor beyond the River; and next to him Hananiah, one of the perfumers, 8 repaired. Next to them Uzziel, the son of Harhaiah, one of the goldsmiths made repairs; and next to him Hananiah, one of the perfumers, made repairs. Thus they fortified Jerusalem even to the broad wall. Next to them Pephiah, 9 the son of Hur, the ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, made repairs. Next 10 to them Jedaiah, the son of Harumaph, made repairs opposite his house; and

- next to him Hattush, the son of 11 Hashabneiah, made repairs. Malchijah, the son of Harim, and Hasshub, the son of Pahath-moab, repaired another section even to the Tower of the Furnaces.
 12 Next to him Shallum, the son of Holoresh, the ruler of half the district of Jerusalem, together with his daughters, 13 made repairs. The Valley Gate Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah repaired; they built it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars, as well as one thousand cubits of the wall to the 14 Refuse Gate. The Refuse Gate itself Malchijah, the son of Rechab, the ruler of the district of Beth-cherem, repaired; he built it and set up its gates, its bolts, and its bars.
 15 The Fountain Gate Shallum, the son of Colhozeh, the ruler of the district of Mizpeh repaired; he built it and covered it, and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars; he also built the wall of the pool of Siloam by the King's Garden, even to the stairs that go down from 16 the city of David. After him Nehemiah, the son of Azbuk, the ruler of half the district of Bethzur, repaired to the place opposite the sepulchers of David, even to the artificial pool and the House
 17 of the Heroes. After him the Levites, including Rehum, the son of Bani, made repairs; next to him Hashabiah, the ruler of half the district of Keilah, made 18 repairs for his district. After him their kinsmen, Benui, the son of Henadad, the ruler of half the district of Keilah, 19 made repairs. Ezer, the son of Jeshua, the ruler of Mizpeh, repaired next to him another section, opposite the ascent to the armory at the corner buttress.
 20 After him Baruch, the son of Zabbai, repaired in the direction of the hill another section, from the corner buttress to the entrance of the house of 21 Eliashib, the high priest. After him Meremoth, the son of Uriah, the son of Hakkoz, repaired another section, from the entrance of the house of Eliashib even to the end of the house of Eliashib.
 22 After him the priests, the men of the 23 Plain, made repairs. After them Benjamin and Hasshub made repairs opposite their house; and after them Azariah, the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ananiah, made repairs beside his house.
 24 After him Binnui, the son of Henadad, repaired another section, from the house of Azariah to the corner buttress and to the corner. Palal, the son of Uzai, made repairs opposite the corner buttress and the upper tower that extends from the king's house, which is toward the court of the guard. After him Pedaiah, the son of Parosh, made repairs. (Now the temple servants were dwelling in Ophel as far as the place over the Water Gate eastward and the projecting tower.) After him the Tekoites repaired another section opposite the great projecting tower as far as the wall of Ophel.

The priests made repairs above the Horse Gate, each one opposite his own house. After them Zadok, the son of Immer, made repairs opposite his house. After him Shemaiah, the son of Shechaniah, the keeper of the East Gate, made repairs. After him Hananiah, the son of Shelemiah, and Hanun, the sixth son of Zalaph, repaired another section. After him Meshullam, the son of Berachiah, made repairs opposite his chamber. After him Malchijah, one of the goldsmiths, made repairs as far as the house of the temple servants and the merchants, opposite the Gate of the Muster and the ascent of the corner; and between the ascent of the corner and the Sheep Gate the goldsmiths and the merchants made repairs.

OPPOSITION TO THE BUILDING ENTERPRISE, 4:1-9

Now when Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, he was enraged and very indignant and derided the Jews. Accordingly he spoke before his kinsmen and the army of Samaria and said,

"What are these feeble Jews doing? Will they fortify themselves? Will they sacrifice? Will they finish it in a day? Will they revive the stones out of the rubbish heaps, now that they are burned?"

Now Tobiah the Ammonite was with him, and he said,

"If a fox should go up he would break down their stone wall, even that which they are building."

"Hear, O our God—for we are despised—and turn back their reproach upon their own head, and make them an object of plunder in a land of captivity; and cover not their iniquity and let not their sin be blotted out from thy sight; for they have provoked thee to anger before the builders."

6 So we built the wall; and all the wall was joined together to half its height, 7 for the people had a mind to work. But when Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites heard that the restoration of the walls of Jerusalem was going forward so that the breaches began to be stopped, they 8 were in a great rage. Accordingly, all of them conspired together to come and make war on Jerusalem, and make confusion in it. But we made supplication to our God, and set a watch as a protection against them day and night.

MEASURES OF PROTECTION,

4:10-23

10 Then Judah said, "The strength of the burden-bearers is overtaxed, for there is much rubbish, so that we are not able to go on with the wall."

11 Moreover our adversaries said, "They shall neither know nor see, until we come into their midst, and slay them and cause the work to cease."

12 When the Jews came who dwelt beside them, they said to us ten times, "From all the places where they dwell they will come up against us."

13 Therefore I assigned some of the lowest parts of the space behind the wall in the exposed places, and appointed the people according to families with their swords, their spears, and their 14 bows; and when I saw them, I arose and said to the nobles and to the rulers and to the rest of the people,

"Be not afraid of them. Remember the LORD, who is great and terrible, and fight for your kinsmen, your sons and your daughters, your wives and your houses."

15 Now when our enemies heard that it was known to us, and that God had frustrated their counsel, we all returned 16 to the wall, each to his own task. Moreover from that day forth while half of my men went on with the work half of them held the spears, the shields, the bows, and the coats of mail; and the rulers supported all the house of Judah. 17 The builders on the wall and those who bore burdens were also armed, each carrying on the work with one hand and 18 with the other holding his weapon; and each of the builders had his sword girded by his side as he built; and the 19 trumpeter was beside me. Then I said to the nobles and to the rulers and to the rest of the people,

"The work is great and far-extended, and we upon the wall are separated far from each other. In whatever place you 20 hear the sound of the trumpet, rally to us there; our God will fight for us."

Thus we went on with the work, 21 while half of them held the spears from the beginning of dawn until the stars came out. Also at that time I said to 22 the people,

"Let each man with his servant lodge within Jerusalem, that they may be a guard to us by night and ready for the work by day."

So neither I, nor my kinsmen, nor my 23 servants, nor the men of the guard who escorted me, none of us took off our clothes; each kept his weapon in his hand.

NEHEMIAH REBUKES THE RICH OPPRESSORS BY PRECEPT AND EXAMPLE, 5:1-19

Now there arose a great outcry of the 5 people and their wives against their Jewish kinsmen. For there were those 2 who said,

"We are giving our sons and our daughters in pledge to secure grain that we may eat and live."

There were also those who were say- 3 ing,

"We are giving our fields, our vineyards, and our houses in pledge that we may secure grain because of the famine."

There were those too who were say- 4 ing,

"We have borrowed money for the king's tribute. Now our flesh is as the 5 flesh of our kinsmen, our children are as their children; but here we are bringing our sons and our daughters into slavery, and some of our daughters are already enslaved; neither is it in our power to help it, for others possess our fields and our vineyards."

I was exceedingly angry when I heard 6 their complaint and these assertions. So after thinking it over, I contended 7 with the nobles and governors and said to them,

"You are taking interest each of his own kinsmen."

So I held a great assembly against them; and I said to them,

"We have, according to our ability, redeemed our Jewish kinsmen who have been sold to the nations; and would you yourselves nevertheless sell your kinsmen, and should they sell themselves to us?"

Then they were silent and had nothing to say. So I said,

"The thing that you are doing is not good. Ought you not to walk in the fear of our God, because of the reproach of the nations our enemies? For I also, my kinsmen and my servants, lend them money and grain. Let us, I pray you, leave off this interest. Restore now to them at once their fields, their vineyards, their olive orchards, and their houses, the hundredth part of the money, the grain, the wine, and the oil that you exact of them."

Then they said,

"We will make restitution and will require nothing of them; we will do precisely as you say."

Then I called the priests and made them take oath to do according to this promise. Also I shook out the bosom of my garment, and said,

"So may God shake out every man from his house and from the fruit of his labor who does not keep this promise; even thus may he be shaken out and emptied!"

And all the assembly said,

"So be it."

And they praised the LORD, and the people did according to this promise.

From the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth year even to the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, the king, that is, for twelve years, neither I nor my kinsmen had eaten the bread due the governor. But the former governors who were before me laid a heavy burden on the people, and took from them bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver; also their servants domineered over the people. But I did not do so, because of the fear of God. Also I was occupied with the work of this wall, and we bought no land; and all my servants gathered there for the work. Moreover the Jews and the rulers, a hundred and fifty men, besides those who came to us from the surrounding nations, were at my table. Now that which was prepared for each day was one ox and six choice sheep and fowls. They were prepared for me, and once in ten days skins of wine in abundance. But even so I did not exact the bread due the governor, because the service was burdensome upon this people. Remember to my credit, O my God, all that I have done for this people.

FUTILE EFFORTS TO FRUSTRATE NEHEMIAH, 6:1-19

Now when it was reported to Sanballat and Tobiah, and to Geshem, the Arabian, and to the rest of our enemies, that I had rebuilt the wall and that there was no breach left in it—though even at that time I had not set up the doors in the gates—Sanballat and Geshem sent to me, saying,

"Come, let us meet together in one of the villages in the plain of Ono."

But they intended me harm. So I sent messengers to them, saying,

"I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down; why should the work cease, while I leave it and come down to you?"

But they sent to me four times in this manner, and I replied in the same way. Then Sanballat sent his servant to me in the same manner a fifth time with an open letter in his hand, in which was written,

"It is reported among the nations, and Geshem affirms it, that you and the Jews are planning to rebel, and so are rebuilding the wall, and that you would be their king, and that you have also appointed prophets to preach of you at Jerusalem, saying, 'There is a king in Judah.' Now it will be reported to the king according to these words. Come now, therefore, and let us take counsel together."

Then I sent to him, saying,

"No such things as you say have been done, but you have invented them in your own mind."

For they all would terrify us, saying, "Their hands shall be weakened from the work, that it may not be done."

But do thou strengthen my hands.

10 Moreover when I went to the house of Shemaiah, the son of Delaiah, the son of Mehetabel, who was confined at home, he said,

"Let us meet together in the house of God, within the temple, and let us shut the doors of the temple, for they are coming to slay you, and they are going to slay you by night."

11 But I said,

"Should a man like me flee? How can any one like me enter the temple to save his life? I will not enter."

12 Then I perceived clearly that God had not sent him; but he declared his prophecy concerning me because Tobiah

13 and Sanballat had hired him, that I might be afraid and act accordingly and sin, so that he might furnish them an evil report, in order that they might re-

14 proach me. Remember, O my God, Tobiah and Sanballat according to these works of theirs, and also the prophetess, Noadiah, and the rest of the 15 prophets who would have frightened me.

16 So the wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of Elul, in fifty-two days.

17 When all our enemies heard of it, all the nations round about us feared and fell decidedly in their own esteem; for they perceived that this work had been done with the help of our God.

18 Moreover in those days the nobles of Judah sent many letters to Tobiah, and 19 those of Tobiah came to them. For many in Judah were under oath to him, because he was the son-in-law of Shech-20 aniah, the son of Arah, and his son Je-hohanan had married the daughter of 21 Meshullam, the son of Berachiah. Also they were praising his good deeds before me and reporting my words to him. Then Tobiah sent letters to frighten me.

LISTS OF THE POPULATION

OF JUDEA, 7:1-73

7 Now when the wall had been rebuilt and I had set up the doors, and the doorkeepers and the singers and the 12 Levites had been appointed, I put Hanani my brother and Hananiah, the commander of the castle, in charge of Jerusalem; for he was a faithful man

13 and feared God more than many. Then I said to them,

"Let not the gates of Jerusalem be opened until the sun is hot, and while they are still on guard, let them shut the doors and bar them; and appoint watches of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, each to his watch and each opposite his own house."

Now the city was wide and large; the 4 people in it were few and the houses were not built. Accordingly my God

5 put it into my mind to gather together the nobles and the rulers and the people, in order to reckon them by genealogies. Then I found the book of the genealogy of those who came up first; and I found written therein:

These are the inhabitants of the 6 province, who went up out of the captivity of those who had been carried away, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of

Babylon, had carried away, and who returned to Jerusalem and Judah, each

7 to his city, who came with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispere-

8 reth, Bigvai, Nehum, Baanah. The number of men of the people of Israel was:

The descendants of Parosh, two

9 thousand one hundred and seventy-two; the descendants of Shephetaiah,

10 three hundred and seventy-two; the descendants of Arah, six hundred and

11 fifty-two; the descendants of Pahath moab, of the descendants of Jeshua and

12 Joab, two thousand eight hundred and eighteen; the descendants of Elam, one

13 thousand two hundred and fifty-four; the descendants of Zattu, eight hun-

14 dred and forty-five; the descendants of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; the 15 descendants of Binnui, six hundred and forty-eight; the descendants of Bebai,

16 six hundred and twenty-eight; the descendants of Azgad, two thousand

17 three hundred and twenty-two; the descendants of Adonikam, six hundred

18 and sixty-seven; the descendants of Bigvai, two thousand and sixty-seven;

20 the descendants of Adin, six hundred and fifty-five; the descendants of Ater, of 21 Hezekiah, ninety-eight; the descendants of Hashum, three hundred and

22 twenty-eight; the descendants of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-four; the 23 descendants of Hariph, one hundred and twelve; the descendants of Gibeon,

25 ninety-five; the men of Bethlehem and Netophah, one hundred and eighty-

27 eight; the men of Anathoth, one hun-

28 dred and twenty-eight; the men of 29 Beth-azmaveth, forty-two; the men of Kirjath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beer-roth, seven hundred and forty-three;
 30 the men of Rama and Geba, six hun-
 31 dred and twenty-one; the men of Mich-32 mas, one hundred and twenty-two; the men of Bethel and Ai, one hundred and 33 twenty-three; the men of the other 34 Nebo, fifty-two; the descendants of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred 35 and fifty-four; the descendants of Ha-36 rim, three hundred and twenty; the men of Jericho, three hundred and for-37 ty-five; the men of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-one;
 38 the descendants of Senaah, three thousand nine hundred and thirty.
 39 The priests were: the descendants of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine 40 hundred and seventy-three; the descendants of Immer, one thousand and 41 fifty-two; the descendants of Pashhur,
 one thousand two hundred and forty-42 seven; the descendants of Harim, one thousand and seventeen.
 43 The Levites were: the descendants of Jeshua, namely, of Kadmiel of the descendants of Hodevah, seventy-four;
 44 the singers: the descendants of Asaph, 45 one hundred and forty-eight; the door-keepers: the descendants of Shallum, the descendants of Ater, the descendants of Talmon, the descendants of Akkub, the descendants of Hatita, the descendants of Shobai, one hundred and thirty-eight.
 46 The temple servants were: the descendants of Ziha, the descendants of Hasupha, the descendants of Tabba-47 oth, the descendants of Keros, the descendants of Sia, the descendants of 48 Padon, the descendants of Lebana, the descendants of Hagaba, the descen-49 dants of Salmal, the descendants of Hannan, the descendants of Giddel, the de-50 scendants of Gahar, the descendants of Reaiah, the descendants of Rezin, the 51 descendants of Nekoda, the descendants of Gazzam, the descendants of 52 Uzza, the descendants of Paseah, the descendants of Besai, the descendants of the Meunites, the descendants of 53 Nephushesim, the descendants of Bak-buk, the descendants of Hakupha, the 54 descendants of Harhur, the descendants of Bozlith, the descendants of Me-55 hida, the descendants of Harsha, the descendants of Barkos, the descendants of Sisera, the descendants of Temah, the descendants of Neziah, the descendants of Hatipha.

The descendants of Solomon's servants were: the descendants of Sotai, the descendants of Sophereth, the descendants of Perida, the descendants of Jaala, the descendants of Darkon, the descendants of Giddel, the descendants of Shephathiah, the descendants of Hat-til, the descendants of Pochereth-hazzebaim, the descendants of Amon.
 All the temple servants and the descendants of Solomon's servants were three hundred and ninety-two. These were they who went up from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer; but they could not show their fathers' lineage nor their descent, whether they were of Israel. These were the descendants of Delaiah, the descendants of Tobiah, the descendants of Ne-koda, six hundred and forty-two; also of the priests: the descendants of Hobaiah, the descendants of Hakkoz, the descendants of Barzillai, who took a wife from the daughters of Barzillai,
 the Gileadite, and was called by their name. These sought their register
 among those reckoned by genealogy,
 but it was not found; therefore they
 were excluded from the priesthood as polluted. Also the governor told them that they should not eat of the most sacred things, until there should stand
 a priest with the Urim and Thummim.

The whole assembly together was forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, besides their male and female
 slaves, of whom there were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven.
 They also had two hundred and forty-five singing men and singing women.
 Their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six; their mules, two hundred and forty-five; camels, four hundred and thirty-five; asses, six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

Now some of the heads of families made gifts to the work. The governor gave to the treasury a thousand darics of gold, fifty basins, five hundred manas of silver, and thirty priests' garments.
 Some of the heads of families gave into the treasury for the work twenty-two thousand darics of gold and two thousand two hundred manas of silver; and that which the rest of the people gave was twenty-two thousand darics of gold, and two thousand manas of silver, and sixty-seven priests' garments. So the priests, the Levites, the doorkeepers, the singers, some of the people, the temple servants, and all Israel dwelt in their cities.

THE JEWS BIND THEMSELVES TO THE OBSERVANCE OF EZRA'S LAW, 8:1—10:39

- 8 Now when the seventh month drew near, the Israelites were in their cities, and all the people assembled as one man to the open square that was in front of the Water Gate, and they told Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the LORD had commanded Israel. Then Ezra the priest brought the law before the assembly, both men and women, and all that could hear discerningly, on the first day of the seventh month. He read from it before the open square that was in front of the Water Gate from daylight until midday, in the presence of the men and women and those who could understand; and the ears of all the people were attentive to the book of the law. Now Ezra the scribe stood upon a raised wooden platform which they made for the purpose; and beside him stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah, on his right hand, and on his left Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, and Meshullam.
- 5 Then Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people—for he was above all the people—and when he opened it all the people stood up. Thereupon Ezra blessed the LORD, the great God; and all the people answered, "Amen, Amen," with uplifted hands as they bowed with their faces to the ground and worshiped the LORD. Also Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Masseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaiah, and the Levites instructed the people in the law, and the people remained in their place. Thus they read in the book of the law of God distinctly, and gave the sense, so that they understood the reading.
- 9 Then Nehemiah, who was the governor, and Ezra the priest, the scribe, and the Levites who taught the people said to all the people,

"This day is holy to the LORD your God; do not mourn or weep."

For all the people wept when they heard the words of the law. Then he said to them,

"Go your way, eat the fat and drink the sweet, and send portions to him for whom nothing is prepared, for this day is holy to the LORD; and do not be depressed, for the joy of the LORD is your refuge."

So the Levites quieted all the people, saying,

"Be still, for the day is holy, and do not be depressed."

Then all the people departed to eat and drink and to send portions and to make a great celebration; for they had understood the words which had been made known to them.

Now on the second day the heads of families of all the people, the priests, and the Levites were assembled to Ezra the scribe, in order to comprehend the words of the law. They found written in the law how the LORD had given command by Moses that the Israelites should dwell in booths at the feast of the seventh month; and that they should announce and make a proclamation throughout all their cities as well as in Jerusalem, saying,

"Go forth to the mountain and bring olive foliage and leafy branches of wild olive and myrtle and palm branches and branches of thick trees to make booths, as it is written."

So the people went forth and brought them and made for themselves booths, each upon the roof of his house and in their courts and in the courts of the house of God and in the open square at the Water Gate and in the open square at the Gate of Ephraim. Thus all the assembly of returned exiles made booths and lived in the booths; for since the days of Joshua, the son of Nun, to that day the Israelites had not done so, and there was very great gladness. Accordingly, day by day, from the first to the last day, he read in the book of the law of God. They kept the feast seven days, and on the eighth day, there was a sacred assembly according to the ordinance.

Now on the twenty-fourth day of this month, the Israelites were assembled with fasting, and with sackcloth and earth upon their heads. Moreover the descendants of Israel separated themselves from all foreigners, and stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers. They stood up in their place and read in the book of the law of the LORD their God a fourth part of the day; and a fourth part they confessed and worshiped the LORD their God.

4 Then Jeshua, Bani, Kadmiel, Shebani-ah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani stood on the stairs of the Levites and cried with a loud voice to the LORD their God. Also the Levites Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah said,

"Arise and bless the LORD your God from everlasting to everlasting; and blessed be thy glorious name which is exalted above all blessing and praise."

And Ezra said,

6 "Thou art the LORD, even thou alone; thou hast made the heavens and the heavens of heavens, with all their host, the earth and all things upon it, the seas and all that is in them, and thou preservest them all and the host of the heavens worship thee. Thou art the LORD God, who didst choose Abraham and didst bring him out of Ur of the Chaldees, and didst give him the name of Abraham, and didst find his heart faithful before thee and madest a covenant with him to give the land of the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Amorites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, and the Girgashites, to give it to his descendants, and hast fulfilled thy words, for thou art righteous.

9 "Moreover thou didst see the affliction of our fathers in Egypt and didst hear their cry by the Red Sea, and didst show signs and wonders upon Pharaoh and upon all his servants and upon all the people of his land; for thou knewest that they acted insolently toward them; and so thou didst get for thyself a name, as it is this day. Thou didst also divide the sea before them, so that they passed through the sea on the dry land; and thou didst cast their pursuers into the depths as a stone into the mighty waters.

12 "Furthermore by a column of cloud by day thou leddest them, and by a column of fire by night thou didst illumine the way in which they should go. Thou camest down also upon Mount Sinai, and spakest with them from the heavens, and gavest them right ordinances and true laws, good statutes and commands, and madest known to them thy holy sabbath, and gavest them commands and statutes and a law by Moses thy servant, and gavest them bread from the heaven for their hunger, and broughtest forth water for them out of the rock for their thirst, and commandest them that they should go in to take possession of the land which thou hadst sworn to give them.

"But they and our fathers acted arrogantly and stubbornly and heeded not thy commands, and refused to listen; neither were they mindful of thy wonders which thou didst among them, but acted stubbornly, and set their head to return to their bondage in Egypt. But thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and abounding in kindness, and thou didst not forsake them. Yea, when they had made for themselves a molten bull and said, 'This is your God who brought you out of Egypt,' and committed great blasphemies, yet thou in thy great mercy didst not forsake them in the desert; the column of cloud did not depart from over them by day to lead them in the way, nor the column of fire by night to illumine the way on which they should go. Thou gavest also thy good spirit to instruct them, and withheldst not thy manna from their mouth, and gavest them water for their thirst. Yea, forty years didst thou sustain them in the desert, and they lacked nothing; their clothes did not wear out, nor did their feet blister.

"Moreover thou gavest them kingdoms and peoples, which thou didst allot according to their territory, so they took possession of the land of Sihon, king of Hesbon, and the land of Og, king of Bashan. Thou didst also increase their children as the stars of the heavens, and broughtest them into the land concerning which thou didst say to their fathers, that they should go in to take possession of it. So the children went in and took possession of the land, and thou didst subdue before them the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, and didst give them into their hand, with their kings and the peoples of the land, that they might do with them as they would. Accordingly they took fortified cities and a fertile land, and took possession of houses full of all good things, and cisterns hewn out, vineyards, olive orchards, and fruit trees in abundance. So they ate and were filled, and became fat and lived bountifully in thy great goodness.

26 Nevertheless they were disobedient and rebelled against thee and cast thy law behind their back and slew thy prophets, who testified against them to turn them again to thee, and committed

27 great blasphemies. Therefore thou didst deliver them into the hands of their adversaries, who tormented them. Then in the time of their distress, when they cried to thee, thou hearest from the heavens and according to thine abundant mercy thou didst give them deliverers who saved them out of the

28 hand of their adversaries. But as soon as they had rest, they did evil again before thee; therefore thou didst leave them in the hands of their enemies, so that they ruled over them; yet when they again cried to thee, thou didst hear from the heavens, and many times didst thou deliver them in accordance

29 with thy mercy, and didst testify against them, in order to restore them to thy law. Yet they acted insolently and did not heed thy commands, but sinned against thine ordinances—which if a man keep he shall live—and turned a stubborn shoulder and acted obstinately and would not listen. For many

30 years thou didst bear with them, and didst testify against them by thy spirit through thy prophets; still they would not listen. Therefore thou gavest them into the hands of the peoples of the

31 lands. Nevertheless in thine abundant mercy thou didst not annihilate them or forsake them; for thou art a gracious and merciful God.

32 "Now therefore, our God, the great, the mighty, and the terrible God, who keepest loving faith, let not all the distress seem insignificant before thee, that has come on us, our kings, our princes, our priests, our prophets, our fathers, and on all thy people, since the days of the kings of Assyria to this day.

33 However thou art just in all that has come upon us; for thou hast exemplified the truth, but we have done wickedly;

34 neither have our kings, our princes, our priests, nor our fathers kept thy law or observed thy commands and thy decrees which thou didst decree against them. For they did not serve thee in 35 their kingdom, and in spite of thy great goodness which thou didst bestow on them, and the large and fat land which thou gavest them, they have not turned from their evil deeds. Behold, we are 36 slaves this day, and as for the land that thou gavest to our fathers to enjoy its fruit and its good gifts, we are only slaves in it. But it yields a large income 37 to the kings whom thou hast set over us because of our sins; also they have power over our bodies and over our cattle according to their pleasure, and we are in great distress.

"Now in view of all this we make and 38 sign a binding covenant, and our nobles, our Levites, and our priests are enrolled upon the sealed document."

Those included in the sealed docu- 10
ment were Nehemiah, the governor, the son of Hachaliah, and Zedekiah, 2
Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, Pashhur, 3 Amariah, Malchijah, Hattush, Sheba- 4
niah, Malluch, Harim, Meremoth, Oba- 5
diah, Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, 6 Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, Maazi- 7
ah, Bilgai, Shemaiah; these were the 8 priests. And the Levites were: Jeshua 9 the son of Azaniah, Binnui of the sons of Henadad, Kadmiel; also their kins- 10 men, Shechaniah, Hodaviah, Kelita, 11 Pelaiah, Hanan, Mica, Rehob, Hasha- 12
biah, Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, 13 Hodijah, Bani, Beninu. The chiefs of 14
the people were: Parosh, Pahath-moab, 15
Elam, Zattu, Bani, Bunni, Azgad, Be- 16
bai, Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, Ater, Hez- 17
ekiah, Azzur, Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, 18
Hariph, Anathoth, Nobai, Magpiash, 19
Meshullam, Herzir, Meshezabel, Zi- 20
dod, Jaddua, Pelatiah, Hanan, Anai- 21
ah, Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, Hallo- 22
hesh, Pilha, Shobek, Rehum, Hashab- 23
nah, Maaseiah, Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, 24
Malluch, Harim, Baanah. 25

"Moreover the rest of the people, the 28 priests, the Levites, the doorkeepers, the singers, the temple servants, and all those who separated themselves from the peoples of the lands to the law of God, their wives, their sons, and their daughters, everyone who had knowl- 29 edge and insight, are supporting their kinsmen, their nobles, and take oath, under penalty of a curse, to walk in the law of God which was given by Moses the servant of God, and to be careful to observe all the commands of the LORD our Lord, and his ordinances and his statutes; and that we will not give our daughters to the peoples of the land or take their daughters as wives for our sons; and that, if the peoples of the land bring wares or any grain on the Sabbath day to sell, we will not buy from them on the sabbath or on a holy day; and that in the seventh year we will leave the land fallow and refrain from the exaction of any debt.

"We also lay upon ourselves the charge to give the third part of a shekel yearly for the service of the house of our God, for the bread that is arranged in layers, and for the regular burnt-offering, for the sabbaths, the new moons, the fixed festivals, and the holy things, and for the sin-offerings to make atonement for Israel, and for all the work of the house of our God. Moreover we will cast lots, the priests, the Levites, and the people, concerning the wood-offering, to bring it into the house of our God, according to our fathers' houses, at appointed times year by year, to burn upon the altar of the LORD our God, as it is written in the law; and to bring the first produce of our ground and the first of all fruit of every kind of tree year by year to the house of the LORD; also the first-born of our sons and of our cattle, as it is written in the law, and the firstlings of our herds and our flocks, to bring to the house of our God to the priests who minister in the house of our God; and to bring our first batch of baking, our contributions, the fruit of every kind of tree, the wine, and the oil, to the priests in the chambers of the house of our God; and the tithes of our ground to the Levites, since they, the Levites, take the tithes in all the cities dependent on our agriculture. Now the priest, the son of Aaron, shall be with the Levites, when the Levites tithe, and the Levites shall bring up the tithe of the tithes to the house of our God, to the chambers into the treasure-house. For the Israelites and the members of the Levites shall bring the contributions of grain, wine, and oil into the chambers, where the vessels of the sanctuary are, and the priests who minister, the doorkeepers, and the singers. So we will not neglect the house of our God."

THE POPULATION OF JERUSALEM, 11:1—12:26

The princes of the people dwelt in Jerusalem, and the rest of the people cast lots, to bring one out of every ten to dwell in Jerusalem the holy city, while nine-tenths remained in the other cities. The people also blessed all the men who volunteered to dwell in Jerusalem.

Now these are the chief men of the provinces who dwell in Jerusalem; but in the cities of Judah they dwelt each on his own property in their respective cities: Israel, the priests, the Levites, the temple servants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants. In Jerusalem there dwelt some Judeans and some Benjaminites. Of the Judeans: Athai-ah, the son of Uzziah, the son of Zechariah, the son of Amariah, the son of Shephatiah, the son of Mahalalel; of the descendants of Perez, all the descendants of Perez who dwell in Jerusalem were four hundred and sixty-eight able men; and Maaseiah, the son of Baruch, the son of Col-hozeh, the son of Hazaiah, the son of Adaiah, the son of Joiarib, the son of Zechariah, the son of the Shilonite.

These are the Benjaminites: Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the son of Joed, the son of Pedaiah, the son of Kolaiah, the son of Maaseiah, the son of Ithiel, the son of Jeshai-ah. His kinsmen were able-bodied warriors, nine hundred and twenty-eight; and Joel, the son of Zichri, was appointed over them; and Judah, the son of Hassenuah, was second in charge of the city.

Of the priests: Jedaiah, the son of Joiarib, Jachin, and Seraiah, the son of Hilkiah, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, the son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God, and their kinsmen who did the work of the house, eight hundred and twenty-two; and Adaiah, the son of Jeroham, the son of Pelaliah, the son of Amzi, the son of Zechariah, the son of Pashhur, the son of Malchijah, and his kinsmen, chief men of families, two hundred and forty-two; and Amasai, the son of Azarel, the son of Ahzai, the son of Meshillemoth, the son of Immer, and his kinsmen, able-bodied warriors, one hundred and twenty-eight; and Zabdai, the son of Hagedolim, was appointed over them.

15 And of the Levites: Shemaiah, the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son 16 of Hashabiah, the son of Bunni; and Shabbethai and Jozabad, of the chief men of the Levites, who were in charge of the outside work of the house of God; 17 and Mattaniah, the son of Mica, the son of Zabdi, the son of Asaph, was the chief who led the song of praise for the prayer, and Bakkukiah was second among his kinsmen; and Abda, the son of Shammua, the son of Galal, the son 18 of Jeduthun. All the Levites in the holy city were two hundred and eighty-four.

19 Also the doorkeepers, Akkub, Tal-mon, and their kinsmen, who kept the watch at the gates, were one hundred 20 and seventy-two. And the rest of Israel, the priests, and the Levites, were in all the cities of Judah, each man in 21 his own heritage. Moreover the temple servants dwelt in Ophel; and Ziha and Gishpa were over the temple servants.

22 Now the overseer of the Levites at Jerusalem was Uzzi, the son of Bani, the son of Hashabiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Mica, of the sons of Asaph, the singers, over the work of the 23 house of God. For there was a command from the king concerning them, and a fixed provision for the singers, as 24 each day required. Moreover Pethahiah, the son of Meshhezabel, of the descendants of Zerah, the son of Judah, was the king's agent in all matters concerning the people.

25 Now as for the villages with their fields, some of the Judeans dwelt in Kir-jath-arba and its dependencies, in Dibon and its dependencies, in Jekabzeel and 26 its villages, in Jeshua, in Moladah, in Bethpelct, in Hazar-shual, and in Beersheba and its dependencies, and in Zik-lag and in Meconah and its dependen-27 cies, in En-rimmon, in Zorah, in Jar-muth, Zanoah, Adullam and their villages, Lachish and its fields, Azekah and its dependencies. So they encamped in the region between Beersheba and the valley of Hinnom. The Benjaminites dwelt at Geba, Mich-mash, Aija, Bethel, and its dependen-28 cies, at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramath, Gittaim, Hadid, Zeboim, 29 Naballat, Lod, and Ono, the valley of the craftsmen. And of the Levites, certain divisions belonged to Judah and to Benjamin.

30 Now these are the priests and the Levites who came up with Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel and Jeshua, Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, Amariah, Mal-

 2 luch, Hattush, Shecaniah, Rehun,
 3 Meremoth, Iddo, Ginnethoi, Abijah,
 4 Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, Shemai-
 5 ah and Joiarib, Zedaiah, Sallu, Amok, 6 Hilkiyah, Jedaiah. These were the chief men of the priests and of their kinsmen in the days of Jeshua.

Moreover the Levites: Jeshua, Bin-8 nui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah and Mattaniah, he and his kinsmen were in charge of the thanksgiving. Also Bak-9 bukiah and Unno, their kinsmen, stood opposite them in the execution of their official duties.

Now Jeshua was the father of Joi-10 akim, and Joiakim was the father of Eliashib, and Eliashib was the father of Joiada, and Joiada was the father of 11 Jonathan, and Jonathan was the father of Jaddua.

In the days of Joiakim the priests,
 12 the heads of families, were: of Seraiah,
 Meraiah; of Jeremiah, Hananiah; of 13
 Ezra, Meshullam; of Amariah, Jehohanan; of Malluchi, Jonathan; of Sheba-14 niah, Joseph; of Harim, Adna; of Mer-15 aioth, Helkai; of Iddo, Zechariah; of 16 Ginnethon, Meshullam; of Abijah, 17 Zichri; of Miniamin, of Moadiah, Piltai; of Bilgah, Shammua; of Shemaiah, 18 Jehonathan; of Joiarib, Mattenai; of 19 Jedaiah, Uzzi; of Sallai, Kallai; of 20 Amok, Eber; of Hilkiyah, Hashabiah; of 21 Jedaiah, Nethanel.

As for the Levites, in the days of Eli-22 ash, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua were recorded as heads of families, also the priests until the reign of Darius the Persian. The descendants of Levi, 23 heads of families, were recorded in the Book of Chronicles, even until the days of Johanan, the son of Eliashib. Also 24 the chief men of the Levites were:
 Hashabiah, Sherebiah, Jeshua, Benui, and Kadmiel and their kinsmen opposite them to praise and give thanks, according to the command of David, the man of God, watch succeeding watch.
 Mattaniah, and Bakkukiah, Obadiah, 25 Meshullam, Talmon, Akkub were porters keeping watch at the stores of the gates. These were in the days of Joi-26 akim, the son of Jeshua, the son of Jozadak, and in the days of Nehemiah the governor, and of Ezra the priest, the scribe.

THE DEDICATION OF THE CITY WALL, 12:27-47

- 27 Now at the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem they sought the Levites out of all their places, to bring them to Jerusalem to celebrate the dedication with all gladness, with thanksgiving and song, 28 with cymbals, harps, and lyres. So the members of the guilds of singers were assembled from the plains of the Jordan and from the environs of Jerusalem and from the villages of the Netophathites, also from Beth-gilgal and from the fields of Geba and Azmaveth; for the singers had built for themselves villages round about Jerusalem. Accordingly the priests and the Levites purified themselves; and they purified the people and the gates and the wall.
- 31 Then I brought up the princes of Judah upon the wall, and I appointed two great companies that gave thanks, and the one went to the right upon the 32 wall to the Refuse Gate; and behind them went Hoshaiah and half of the 33 princes of Judah, and Azariah, Ezra, 34 Meshullam, Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, Jeremiah, and certain of the priests' sons with trumpets: Zechariah, the son of Jonathan, the son of Shemaiah, the son of Mattaniah, the son of Micaiah, the son of Zaccur, the son of 36 Asaph, and his kinsmen, Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David, the man of God. Ezra the scribe was in front of 37 them; and by the Fountain Gate, they went straight up the stairs of the city of David at the ascent of the wall above the house of David, even to the Water Gate on the east.
- 38 Now the other company that gave thanks went to the left, and I after them, with half of the people upon the wall, above the Tower of the Furnaces, 39 even to the Broad Wall, and above the Gate of Ephraim and by the Old Gate and by the Fish Gate and the Tower of Hananel and the Tower of the Hundred, even to the Sheep Gate; and they 40 halted in the Gate of the Guard. So both companies that gave thanks halted at the house of God, and I, and the 41 half of the officials with me; and the priests, Eliakim, Maaseiah, Miniamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, and 42 Hananiah, with trumpets; and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer, and the singers raised their voices following Jezrahiah their leader. They offered 43 great sacrifices that day and rejoiced; for God had made them rejoice with great joy; and the women also and the children rejoiced, so that the joy of Jerusalem was heard far way.

Moreover on that day men were ap- 44 pointed over the chambers for the treasures, the contributions, the first fruits, and the tithes, to gather them into them, for the chiefs of the cities, the legal apportionments for the priests and the Levites. For Judah rejoiced in the priests and the Levites who served; and they kept the charge of 45 their God, and the charge of the purification, as did the singers and the gatekeepers, according to the command of David and of Solomon his son. For in 46 the days of David and Asaph of old there was a chief of the singers, and songs of praise and thanksgiving to God. Moreover all Israel, in the days 47 of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah, gave the portions of the singers and the gatekeepers, as each day required; and they set apart what was for the Levites, and the Levites set apart what was for the sons of Aaron.

NEHEMIAH'S REFORM MEASURES, 13:1-31

On that day they read in the book of 1 Moses in the hearing of the people, and it was found written in it that no Ammonite or Moabite should ever marry 2 into the assembly of God; for they did not meet the Israelites with bread and water, but hired Balaam against them to curse them; but our God turned the 3 curse into a blessing. Accordingly when they heard the law they separated from Israel all the alien mixture.

Now before this, Eliashib the priest, 4 who was appointed over the chambers of the house of our God, being related to Tobiah, had prepared for him a great 5 chamber, where formerly they had put the cereal-offerings, the incense, the vessels, the tithes of grain, the wine, and the oil, which were given by command to the Levites, the singers, and the gatekeepers, and the contributions for the priests. But during all this time 6

I had not been at Jerusalem; for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, king of Babylon, I went to the king. But after some time, I asked leave of the king; and I came to Jerusalem and discovered the evil that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, in preparing for him a chamber in the court of the house of God; and it greatly displeased me; so I cast all of Tobiah's household property out of the chamber. Then I spoke, and they cleansed the chambers, and I brought back there the vessels of the house of God, with the cereal-offerings and the incense.

I also learned that the portions of the Levites had not been given them; so that the Levites and the singers who conducted the service had fled each to his own field. Then I contended with the rulers and said,

"Why is the house of God forsaken?"

So I gathered them together and restored them to their posts. Thereupon all Judah brought the tithe of the grain and the wine and the oil to the treasuries. Moreover I appointed in charge of the treasuries: Shelemiah the priest and Zadok the scribe, and of the Levites, Pedaiah; and next to them was Hanan, the son of Zaccur, the son of Mattaniah; for they were considered faithful, and it was their task to distribute to their kinsmen. Remember me, O my God, concerning this, and do not wipe out my good deeds that I have done for the house of my God and for its services.

In these days I saw in Judah men treading wine presses on the sabbath and bringing in heaps of grain loaded on asses, also wine, grapes, figs, and all kinds of burdens which they brought into Jerusalem on the sabbath day; and I protested on the day when they sold provisions. Tyrians also dwelt therein, who brought in fish and all kinds of wares, and sold them on the sabbath to the Judeans and in Jerusalem. Then I contended with the nobles of Judah and said to them,

"What evil thing is this that you are doing, and so profaning the sabbath day? Did not your fathers do this, and did not our God bring all this misfortune upon us and upon this city? Yet you are bringing more wrath upon Israel by profaning the sabbath."

Accordingly when the gates of Jerusalem began to be in darkness, before the sabbath, I commanded that the gates be shut; and I gave orders that they should not be opened until after the sabbath. Also I put some of my servants in charge of the gates, that none should bring in a burden on the sabbath day. Then the traders and sellers of all kinds of wares lodged once or twice outside Jerusalem. So I warned them and said to them,

"Why do you lodge in front of the wall? If you repeat it, I shall arrest you."

From that time on they came no more on the sabbath. Then I gave orders to the Levites that they should purify themselves and that they should come and guard the gates, to keep the sabbath day holy. Remember, O my God, this also to my account and have compassion upon me according to thine abundant kindness.

In those days also I saw the Jews who had married women of Ashdod, of Ammon, and of Moab, and their children spoke half in the language of Ashdod, and none of them could speak in the Jews' language, but according to the language of each people. Therefore I contended with them and cursed them and beat some of them and pulled out their hair and made them swear by God, saying,

"You shall neither give your daughters to their sons nor take their daughters as wives for your sons or for yourselves. Did not Solomon, king of Israel, sin by these means? Yet among many nations there was no king like him, and he was beloved by his God, and God made him king over all Israel; nevertheless foreign wives were the cause of his sin; and shall it be reported of you that you do all this great evil, and break faith with our God in marrying foreign women?"

Now one of the sons of Joiada, the son of Eliashib, the high priest, was the son-in-law of Sanballat, the Horonite; so I chased him from me. Remember them, O my God, because they have defiled the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Levites. Thus I cleansed them from all foreigners and established the duties for the priests and the Levites, each for his own task, and for the wood-offering at appointed times, and for the firstfruits. Remember it, O my God, to my credit.

THE BOOK OF ESTHER

QUEEN VASHTI'S DISMISSAL,

1:1-22

NOW in the days of Xerxes—that is, the Xerxes who reigned from India even to Ethiopia, over a hundred and twenty-seven provinces—it happened in those days when King Xerxes sat on his royal throne, which was in the castle at Shushan, in the third year of his reign, that he made a feast for all his princes and his servants. The commanders of the army of Persia and Media, the nobles and rulers of the provinces were before him, while he showed the riches of his glorious kingdom and the precious things of his great majesty many days, even a hundred and eighty days. When these days were completed, the king made for all the people who were present in the castle at Shushan, both great and small, a seven days' feast in the court of the garden of the king's palace. There was white stuff of cotton, and there were blue hangings, fastened with cords of fine linen and purple to silver rings and columns of marble; couches of gold and silver were upon a pavement of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and precious stones. They served wine in golden beakers, with no two alike, and the royal wine was abundant according to the liberality of the king. The drinking also was according to the law; none could compel, for so the king had decreed to all the officers of his house, to do according to each man's pleasure.

Also Vashti the queen made a feast for the women in the royal palace which belonged to King Xerxes. On the seventh day, when the king's heart was joyous with wine, he commanded Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, and Abagtha, Zethar, and Carcas, the seven eunuchs who ministered in the presence of Xerxes the king, to bring Vashti the queen before the king with the royal crown, to show the peoples and the princes her beauty, for she was beautiful. But Queen Vashti refused to come at the king's command by the eunuchs; therefore the king was greatly enraged and his anger burned within him.

Then the king said to the wise men who knew the times—for so the king was accustomed to speak before all who knew law and government; and those next to him were Carshena, Sethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven princes of Persia and Media who saw the king's face and held the first place in the kingdom—

"What shall we do to Queen Vashti according to law, because she has not done the bidding of King Xerxes by the eunuchs?"

Then Memucan said before the king and the princes,

"Vashti the queen has not done wrong to the king only, but also to all the princes and to all the peoples, that are in all the provinces of King Xerxes. For this behavior of the queen will be reported to all women, making their husbands contemptible in their sight, when it shall be said, 'King Xerxes commanded that Vashti the queen be brought before him; but she did not come.' Even this day the princesses of Persia and Media who have heard of the queen's behavior will relate it to all the king's princes and there will be a surfeit of contempt and rage. If it please the king, let there go forth from him, and let it be written among the laws of the Persians and the Medes so that it may not be altered, that Vashti the queen come no more before King Xerxes, and that the king give her royal position to another who is better than she. So when the king's decree which he shall make shall be published throughout all his kingdom—great though it is—all the women will give honor to their husbands, both high and low."

The proposal pleased the king and the princes, and the king did according to the counsel of Memucan; and he sent letters to all the royal provinces, into every province according to its form of script and to every people according to its language, that every man should be master in his own house and should speak whatever seemed proper to him.

ESTHER, THE JEWESS, CHOSEN QUEEN,

2:1-18

2 After these things, when the wrath of King Xerxes was pacified, he remembered Vashti and what she had done and what was decreed against her.
12 Then the king's servants who ministered to him said,

"Let beautiful young maidens be sought out for the king, and let the king appoint officers in all the provinces of his kingdom that they may gather together all the beautiful young maidens to the castle at Shushan, to the harem under the custody of Hegai, the king's eunuch, keeper of the women, and let the cosmetics for their beautifying be given them. Then let the maiden who pleases the king be queen instead of Vashti."

The proposal pleased the king, and he did so.

15 Now there was a certain Jew in the castle at Shushan whose name was Mordecai, the son of Jair, the son of Shimei, the son of Kish, a Benjaminite, who had been carried away from Jerusalem with the captives who had been carried away with Jeconiah, king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had carried away. He had brought up Hadassah, that is, Esther, his uncle's daughter, for she had neither father nor mother; and the maiden was fair and beautiful, and when her father and mother died, Mordecai took her as his own daughter.

18 So when the king's command and his decrees were reported, and when many maidens were gathered together to the castle at Shushan under the custody of Hegai, Esther was also taken into the king's palace under the custody of Hegai, keeper of the women. Moreover the maiden pleased him and she met with kindness at his hands, and he hastened to give her cosmetics for beautifying herself, with her portions, and seven picked maidens who were to be given her from the king's palace; and he removed her and her maidens to the best apartments in the harem. Esther had not made known her people or her kindred; for Mordecai had charged her that she should not make it known. Moreover Mordecai used to walk to and fro every day in front of the court of the harem, to learn how Esther was and how she was faring.

Now when the turn of each maiden came to visit King Xerxes, after it had been done to her according to the law for the women twelve months—for so long the days of their beautifying lasted, six months with oil of myrrh, and six months with spices and with preparations for the beautifying of the women—in this way the maiden came to the king: whatever she mentioned was given to her to go with her from the harem to the king's palace. In the evening she went in and in the morning she returned to the second harem to the custody of Shaashgaz, the king's eunuch, who kept the concubines. She did not again visit the king, unless the king delighted in her and she was summoned by name. Now when the turn of Esther, the daughter of Abihail, the uncle of Mordecai, who had taken her for his own daughter, came to visit the king, she asked for nothing except what Hegai, the king's eunuch, the keeper of the women, prescribed. Thus Esther won favor in the sight of all who saw her.

So Esther was taken to King Xerxes into his royal palace in the tenth month, that is, the month Tebet, in the seventh year of his reign. Then the king loved Esther more than all the women, and she won favor and kindness in his presence more than all the maidens; so that he set the royal crown upon her head and made her queen instead of Vashti. Then the king made a great feast for all his princes and his servants, even Esther's feast; and he made it a holiday for the provinces and gave gifts, according to the liberality of the king.

MORDECAI'S OPPORTUNITY,

2:19-23

Now when the maidens were gathered together a second time Mordecai was sitting in the gate of the king. 20 Esther had not as yet made known her kindred or her people, as Mordecai had charged her; for Esther kept the command of Mordecai just as when she was 21 being reared by him. In those days, as Mordecai was sitting at the king's gate, two of the king's eunuchs who guarded the threshold, Bigthan and Teresh, became enraged and sought to do violence 22 to King Xerxes, but the plot became known to Mordecai, who revealed it to Esther the queen; and Esther told the 23 king in Mordecai's name. Accordingly the matter was investigated and when it was found to be so, they were both hanged on a tree; and it was written in the book of the chronicles in the king's presence.

HAMAN'S CRUEL PURPOSE,

3:1-15

3 After these things King Xerxes promoted Haman, the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, and advanced him and placed his seat above all the 2 princes who were with him. Thus all the king's servants who were at the king's gate bowed down and did obeisance to Haman; for the king had so commanded concerning him. But Mordecai would not bow down or do obeisance. 3 Then the king's servants who were at the king's gate, said to Mordecai,

"Why do you transgress the king's command?"

4 Now when they thus spoke to him daily and he did not listen to them, they told Haman, to see whether Mordecai's conduct would stand; for he had 5 told them that he was a Jew. So when Haman saw that Mordecai did not bow down or do obeisance to him, Haman 6 was filled with rage. But he thought it beneath him to lay hands on Mordecai alone; for they had told him Mordecai's race. So Haman sought to destroy all the Jews who were throughout the whole kingdom of Xerxes, even the people of Mordecai.

7 In the first month, which is the month Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Xerxes, one cast Pur, that is, the lot, before Haman from day to day and from month to month, to the twelfth 8 month, which is the month Adar. Then Haman said to King Xerxes,

"There is a certain people scattered abroad and dispersed among the peoples throughout all the provinces of your kingdom, and their laws are different from every other people; neither do they observe the king's laws; therefore it is not fitting to leave them alone. 9 If it please the king, let it be prescribed that they be destroyed; and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the accounting, that they may bring it into the king's treasuries."

Then the king took his signet ring 10 from his hand and gave it to Haman, the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the Jews' enemy. The king also said to 11 Haman,

"The silver is yours and the people too, to do with them as seems good to you."

Then the king's scribes were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month, and it was written just as Haman commanded to the king's satraps and to the governors who were over every province and to the princes of every people, to every province according to its script, and to every people according to their language. In the name of King Xerxes it was written and it was sealed with the king's signet. These letters were sent by couriers into 13 all the king's provinces, to wipe out, to slay, and to destroy all the Jews, both young and old, infants and women in one day, even upon the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, and to take the spoil of 14 them as plunder. A copy of the writings to be given out as a decree in every province was published to all the peoples that they should be ready for that day. The couriers went forth in haste 15 at the king's command, and the decree was given out in the castle at Shushan. Then the king and Haman sat down to drink; but the city of Shushan was perplexed.

MORDECAI'S APPEAL TO

ESTHER, 4:1-17

Now when Mordecai learned all that 4 had been done, Mordecai tore his garments and put on sackcloth with ashes, and went out into the midst of the city and cried out with a loud and bitter

2 lamentation. He even came before the king's gate; for none might enter the king's gate clothed with sackcloth.

3 Moreover in every province wherever the king's command and his decree came, there was great mourning among the Jews, and fasting, weeping, and wailing; and many lay in sackcloth and ashes.

4 When Esther's maidens and her eunuchs came and told her, the queen was exceedingly distressed, and she sent garments to clothe Mordecai that he might take off his sackcloth; but he did not accept them.

5 Then Esther called for Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs, who had been appointed to attend her, and ordered him to go to Mordecai, to learn what this was and why it was.

6 So Hathach went forth to Mordecai to the open square of the city which was in front of the king's gate.

7 Then Mordecai told him all that had happened to him and the exact sum of money that Haman had promised to pay to the king's treasuries for the destruction of the Jews.

8 He also gave him a copy of the writing of the decree that was given out in Shushan to destroy them, that he might show it to Esther and inform her and charge her to go in to the king to implore him and to make request before him for her people.

9 So Hathach came and told Esther the words of Mordecai.

10 Then Esther spoke to Hathach, and gave him a message to Mordecai, saying,

11 "All the king's servants and the people of the king's provinces know that whoever, whether man or woman, comes to the king into the inner court who is not summoned, there is one law for him, that he be put to death, except those to whom the king shall hold out the golden scepter that he may live; but I have not been summoned to come to the king these thirty days."

12 So they told Mordecai Esther's words.

13 Then Mordecai told them to return answer to Esther,

14 "Think not to yourself that you will escape inside the royal palace any more than all the rest of the Jews. For if you remain altogether silent at this time, then relief and deliverance will rise up for the Jews from another quarter, but you and your father's house will perish; and who knows whether you have not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

Thereupon Esther told them to return answer to Mordecai,

"Go, assemble all the Jews that are to be found in Shushan and fast for me, and neither eat nor drink for three days, night or day. I also and my maidens will likewise fast, and then I will go to the king, which is not according to the law; and if I perish, I perish."

So Mordecai went his way and did just as Esther commanded him.

HAMAN'S RISE AND FALL,

5:1—7:10

So it came about on the third day that Esther put on her royal robes, and stood in the inner court of the king's palace directly opposite the king's apartment; and the king was sitting upon his royal throne in the royal palace opposite the entrance of the palace.

When the king saw Esther the queen standing in the court, she met with favor in his sight, and the king extended to Esther the golden scepter that was in his hand.

So Esther drew near and touched the top of the scepter.

Then the king said to her,

"What is your wish, Queen Esther, and what is your request? It shall be given you even to the half of the kingdom."

"If it please the king," said Esther, "let the king and Haman come today to a banquet that I have prepared for him."

"Bring Haman in haste that he may fulfil Esther's wish," said the king.

So the king and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

Then the king said to Esther at the banquet of wine,

"Whatever your petition, it shall be granted you; and whatever your request, even to the half of the kingdom, it shall be performed."

So Esther answered and said,

"My petition and my request is: If I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it please the king to grant my petition, and to perform my request, let the king and Haman come to my banquet that I shall prepare for them, and tomorrow I will do as the king has said."

- 9 Then Haman went out that day joyful and glad of heart. But when Haman saw Mordecai at the king's gate, and he neither stood up nor moved for him, Haman was filled with wrath against
- 10 Mordecai. Nevertheless Haman restrained himself and returned home, and sent and brought in his friends and
- 11 Zeresh his wife. Thereupon Haman recounted to them the glory of his riches and the multitude of his children and every instance where the king had promoted him, and how he had advanced him above the princes and the servants of the king.
- 12 "Even Esther the queen," said Haman, "has permitted no man but me to come in with the king to the banquet that she has prepared, and tomorrow also I am invited by her together with
- 13 the king. Yet all this does not satisfy me so long as I see Mordecai the Jew sitting at the king's gate."
- 14 Then Zeresh his wife and all his friends said to him,
"Let a gallows fifty cubits high be erected and in the morning speak to the king that Mordecai may be hanged on it. Then go in merrily with the king to the banquet."
- The idea pleased Haman, and he had the gallows made.
- 6 On that night sleep deserted the king, and he gave orders to bring the book of records of the chronicles, and they were read before the king; and there was found written what Mordecai had told concerning Bigthana and Teresh, two of the king's eunuchs, of those who guarded the threshold, who had sought
- 3 to lay hands on King Xerxes. Whereupon the king said,
"What honor and dignity have been bestowed on Mordecai for this?"
- Then the king's servants who ministered to him said,
"Nothing has been done for him."
- 4 "Who is in the court?" said the king. Now Haman had entered the outer court of the king's house to request the king to hang Mordecai on the gallows
- 5 that he had prepared for him. So the king's servants said to him,
"Behold, Haman is standing in the court."
- "Let him enter," said the king.
- 6 So Haman came in, and the king said to him,

"What shall be done to the man whom the king delights to honor?"

Now Haman said to himself,
"Whom would the king delight to honor more than myself?"

So Haman said to the king,
"For the man whom the king delights to honor, let royal garments be brought, which the king has worn, and a horse which the king has ridden, on the head of which a royal crown is set. Let the garments and the horse be delivered to one of the king's most noble princes, and let them clothe the man whom the king delights to honor and cause him to ride on horseback through the open square of the city, and proclaim before him, 'Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor.'"

Then the king said to Haman,
"Make haste, and take the garments and the horse, as you have said, and do even so to Mordecai the Jew who sits at the king's gate. Let nothing fail of all that you have spoken."

So Haman took the garments and the horse and clothed Mordecai and caused him to ride through the open square of the city and proclaimed before him,

"Thus shall it be done to the man whom the king delights to honor."

Then Mordecai returned to the king's gate. But Haman hurried home, mourning and with his head covered. When Haman had related to Zeresh his wife and to all his friends all that had befallen him, his wise men and Zeresh his wife said to him,

"If Mordecai, before whom you have begun to fall, be of the Jewish race, you will make no headway against him, but will surely fall before him."

While they were still speaking with him, the king's eunuch arrived and hurriedly brought Haman to the banquet that Esther had prepared.

So the king and Haman went in to drink with Esther the queen; and the king said again to Esther on the second day of the banquet of wine,

"Whatever your petition, Queen Esther, it shall be granted you; and whatever your request, even to the half of the kingdom, it shall be performed."

Then Esther the queen answered, saying,

"If I have found favor in the sight of the king, and if it please the king, let my life be given me at my petition and 4 my people at my request; for we are sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slain, and to perish. But if we had been sold as male and female slaves, I would have held my peace, since the distress would not have been worth disturbing the king."

5 Then King Xerxes spoke and said to Esther the queen,

"Who is he, and where is he who dares presume in his heart to do so?"

6 "An adversary and an enemy, this wicked Haman," said Esther.

7 Then Haman was terrified before the king and queen; and when the king arose in his wrath from the banquet of wine and went into the palace garden, Haman stood up to beg for his life from Esther the queen, for he saw that evil was determined against him by the 8 king. Accordingly when the king returned from the palace garden to the apartment of the banquet of wine, Haman was prostrate upon the couch upon which Esther was.

"Will he violate the queen in my presence in the house?" said the king.

9 As the words left the mouth of the king, they covered Haman's face. Then Harbonah, one of the eunuchs in attendance on the king said,

"There is indeed the gallows fifty cubits high standing in the house of Haman, which Haman has made for Mordecai, who spoke good in behalf of the king."

"Hang him on it," said the king.

10 So they hanged Haman on the gallows that he had prepared for Mordecai. Then the king's wrath abated.

THE TRIUMPH OF ESTHER AND MORDECAI, 8:1-17

11 On that day King Xerxes gave the house of Haman, the Jews' enemy, to Esther the queen; and Mordecai came before the king, for Esther had told 12 what he was to her. Then the king took off his ring, which he had taken from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai; and Esther set Mordecai over the house of 13 Haman. Again Esther spoke before the king, and fell at his feet and besought him with tears to avert the evil plan of Haman, the Agagite, and his scheme 14 which he had against the Jews. Thereupon the king held out to Esther the golden scepter. So Esther arose, and stood before the king; and she said, 5

"If it please the king, and if I have found favor in his sight, and the thing seem right before the king, and I am pleasing in his sight, let it be written to reverse the letters devised by Haman, the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, which he wrote that the Jews who are in all the king's provinces might be destroyed. For how can I endure to see the calamity that will come upon my people, or how can I endure to see the destruction of my kindred?"

Then King Xerxes said to Esther the 7 queen and to Mordecai the Jew,

"Behold, I have given Esther the house of Haman, and him they have hanged upon the gallows, because he laid his hands upon the Jews. Write 8 also concerning the Jews as it please you, in the king's name and seal it with the king's signet; for the writing which is written in the king's name and sealed with the king's signet, may no man reverse."

So the king's scribes were called at 9 that time in the third month, which is the month Sivan, on the twenty-third day; and it was written just as Mordecai commanded to the Jews, the satraps, the governors, and princes of the provinces which are from India to Ethiopia, a hundred and twenty-seven provinces, to every province according to its script and to every people according to its language, and to the Jews according to their script and according to their language. He wrote in the name 10 of King Xerxes, and sealed it with the king's signet and sent the letters by swift couriers on horseback, riding on steeds bred of the royal stud; wherein 11 the king allowed the Jews who were in every city to assemble and fight for their lives, to wipe out, to slay, and to destroy all the armed forces of the people and the provinces that might attack them, their little ones and women, and to take the spoil of them as plunder upon one day in all the prov- 12 inces of King Xerxes, namely, on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, which is the month Adar. A copy of the 13 writing, to be given out as a decree in every province, was published to all the peoples, that the Jews should be ready on that day to avenge themselves on their enemies. So the couriers riding on 14

the royal steeds went out, being hastened and pressed on by the king's command; and the decree was given out in the castle at Shushan.

- 15 Then Mordecai went from the presence of the king in royal garments of blue and white stuff, and with a great crown of gold, and with a robe of fine linen and purple; and the city of Shushan shouted and was glad. The Jews had light and gladness and joy and honor. Likewise in every province and in every city, wherever the king's command and his decree came, there was gladness and joy for the Jews, a feast and a holiday, and many from among the peoples of the land became Jews; for the fear of the Jews had fallen upon them.

THE JEWS TURN UPON THEIR FOES, 9:1-16

- 9 Now in the twelfth month, which is the month Adar, on the thirteenth day of the same, when the king's command and his decree was about to be enforced, on the day that the enemies of the Jews hoped to lord it over them, whereas the contrary happened so that the Jews themselves got the mastery over those who hated them, the Jews assembled in their cities throughout all the provinces of King Xerxes, to lay hands on such as sought their hurt; and no one could stand before them; for the fear of them had fallen upon all the peoples. Moreover all the princes of the provinces and the satraps and the governors and they who did the king's business aided the Jews, because the fear of Mordecai had fallen upon them. For Mordecai was great in the king's palace and his fame spread throughout all the provinces; for the man Mordecai constantly grew more powerful. So the Jews vanquished all their enemies with the drawn sword and with slaughter and destruction, and had their own way with those who hated them. Likewise in the castle at Shushan the Jews slew and destroyed five hundred men. They also slew Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai and Vaizatha, the ten sons of Haman, the son of Hammedatha, the Jews' enemy; but they did not lay their hand on any spoil. On that day the number of those that were slain in the castle at Shushan was reported to the king; and the king said to Esther the queen,

"The Jews have slain and destroyed in the castle at Shushan five hundred men and the ten sons of Haman; what must they have done in the rest of the king's provinces! Now whatever your petition, it shall be granted you; and whatever your request further, it shall be performed."

Then Esther said,

"If it please the king, let it be allowed the Jews who are in Shushan to act tomorrow also according to this day's decree, and let Haman's ten sons be hanged upon the gallows."

Accordingly the king ordered it so to be done; and a decree was given out in Shushan; and they hanged Haman's ten sons. Likewise the Jews who were in Shushan assembled on the fourteenth day of the month Adar, and slew three hundred men in Shushan; but they did not lay their hands on the spoil. Also the other Jews who were in the king's provinces assembled and fought for their lives, and had relief from their enemies, and slew of those who hated them seventy-five thousand; but they did not lay hands on the spoil.

THE FEAST OF PURIM, 9:17-31

On the thirteenth day of the month Adar and the fourteenth day of the same, they rested and made a day of feasting and gladness. But the Jews who were in Shushan assembled on the thirteenth and on the fourteenth, and on the fifteenth day of the same they rested and made it a day of feasting and gladness. Therefore the Jews who are village dwellers, who live in the un-walled towns, make the fourteenth day of the month Adar an occasion of gladness and feasting and holiday-making, and a day in which they send portions of food to one another.

Then Mordecai wrote down these things and sent letters to all the Jews who were in all the provinces of King Xerxes, both near and far, to enjoin them that they should keep the fourteenth day of the month Adar and the fifteenth day of the same yearly, as the days on which the Jews had rest from their enemies, and the month which was changed for them from sorrow to gladness and from mourning to a holiday, that they should make them days of feasting and gladness and of sending portions to one another, and of gifts to the poor.

23 So the Jews adopted as a custom what they had begun to do, and what
 24 Mordecai had written to them. For Haman, the son of Hammedatha, the Agagite, the enemy of all the Jews, had plotted against the Jews to destroy them, and had cast Pur, that is, the lot,
 25 to consume and to destroy them. But when the matter came before the king, he commanded by letters that his wicked scheme which he had devised against the Jews should come upon his own head, and that he and his sons
 26 should be hanged on the gallows. Hence they called these days Purim, after the name of Pur. Therefore because of all the words of this letter, and of that which they had seen concerning this matter, and that which had come to 27 them, the Jews ordained and took upon them and upon their descendants and upon all those who joined themselves to them, so that it should not fail, that they should observe these two days as feasts according to the written command and according to the time appointed every year, and that these days
 28 should be remembered and kept throughout every generation, every family, every province, and every city; and that these days of Purim should not lapse among the Jews nor the remembrance of them be cut off from their descendants. Then Esther, the 29 queen, the daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai, the Jew, wrote with all authority to confirm this second letter of Purim. Also the latter sent letters to 30 all the Jews, to the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of the kingdom of Xerxes, containing words of peace and truth, to confirm these days of Purim 31 in their appointed times, as Mordecai, the Jew, and Esther, the queen, had imposed them upon them, and as they had ordained for themselves and for their descendants, in the matter of the fastings and their cry of lamentation. The command of Esther also confirmed 32 these matters of Purim; and it was written in a book.

THE POWER OF MORDECAI,

10:1-3

Now King Xerxes laid a tribute on 10 the land and the coast-lands of the sea. All the acts of his power and of his 2 might, and the full account of the greatness of Mordecai to which the king advanced him, are they not written in the Book of the Chronicles of the Kings of Media and Persia? For Mor- 3 decai, the Jew, was next in rank to King Xerxes, and great among the Jews, and a favorite with the mass of his fellow-countrymen; for he sought the good of his people and voiced the welfare of his entire race.

THE BOOK OF JOB

JOB'S CALAMITIES, 1:1—3:1

1 THERE was a man in the land of Uz whose name was Job; and that man was perfect and upright, and he feared God and shunned wickedness. Now there were 2 born to him seven sons and three 3 daughters. And his property was seven thousand sheep and three thousand camels and five hundred yoke of oxen and five hundred she-asses and a very large number of slaves. So that man was the greatest of all the people of the 4 East. His sons would go and hold a feast in the house of each one on his day; and they would send and invite their three sisters to eat and drink with 5 them. When the days of feasting had gone round, Job would send and sanctify them, and he would get up early in the morning and offer sacrifices according to the number of them all; for Job said,

"Perhaps my children have sinned, And cursed God in their thoughts."

Thus would Job do always.

6 Now one day when the heavenly beings had come to stand in the presence of the LORD, and the Satan too had come among them, the LORD said to the Satan,

"Whence do you come?"

And the Satan answered the LORD, 7 saying,

"From roaming in the earth and from going to and fro therein."

8 Then the LORD said to the Satan,

9 "Have you noticed my servant Job, That there is none like him in the earth,

A man perfect and upright, who fears God and shuns wickedness?"

10 But the Satan answered the LORD, 11 saying,

12 "Has Job feared God for nothing?

13 Hast thou not hedged him round about,

And his house and all that belongs to him?

Thou hast blessed the labor of his hands;

And his wealth has spread abroad in the land.

But now, put forth thy hand, 11 And touch whatsoever he has: He will curse thee to thy face!"

12 So the LORD said to the Satan, "Behold, all that he has is in your power;

Only upon himself you shall not lay your hand."

Then the Satan went out from the presence of the LORD.

Now one day when his sons and 13 daughters were eating and were drinking wine in the house of their oldest brother, a messenger came to Job, say- 14 ing,

"While the oxen were plowing, And the she-asses grazing close by, The Sabeans fell upon them and seized 15 them,

And put the servants to the sword; And I only have escaped alone to tell you."

While he was still speaking, another 16 came, saying,

"The fire of God fell down from the heavens,

And burned up the flocks and the servants and consumed them;

And I only have escaped alone to tell you."

While he was still speaking, another 17 came, saying,

"The Chaldeans formed three divisions, And swooped down upon the camels and seized them,

And put the servants to the sword; And I only have escaped alone to tell you."

While he was still speaking, another 18 came, saying,

"As your sons and your daughters were eating

And were drinking wine in the house of their oldest brother,

A mighty wind came from beyond the 19 wilderness,

And smote the four corners of the house,

So that it fell upon the young folks and they died.

- And I only have escaped alone to tell you."
- 20 Then Job arose and tore his mantle and shaved his head and fell to the
- 21 earth and worshiped; and he said, "Naked did I come forth from my mother's womb,
And naked shall I return thither.
The LORD gave and the LORD has taken away;
Blessed be the name of the LORD."
- 22 Notwithstanding all this, Job did not sin; nor did he charge anything unseemly against God.
- 2 One day when the heavenly beings had come to present themselves before the LORD, and when the Satan too had come among them to present himself
- 2 before the LORD, the LORD said to the Satan,
"Whence do you come?"
The Satan answered the LORD, saying,
"From roaming in the earth and from going to and fro therein."
- 3 Then the LORD said to the Satan,
"Have you noticed my servant Job,
That there is none like him in the earth,
A perfect and upright man, who fears God and shuns wickedness?
He still holds fast to his integrity,
Though you incited me against him,
to ruin him without cause."
- 4 Then the Satan answered the LORD, saying,
"Skin for skin!
All that a man has will he give for his life.
- 5 Now, just put forth thy hand,
And touch his bone and his flesh:
He will curse thee to thy face!"
- 6 So the LORD said to the Satan,
"Behold, he is in your power; but preserve his life."
- 7 Then the Satan went forth from the presence of the LORD, and smote Job with severe leprosy from the sole of his
- 8 foot to the crown of his head; so that he took a potsherd with which to scrape himself as he sat in the midst of the ash-
- 9 heap. So his wife said to him,
"Do you still hold fast to your integrity? Curse God and die!"
- 10 But he said to her,
"You speak as one of the foolish women might speak.
Should we, indeed, receive good from God,

And should we not receive evil?"
Notwithstanding all this, Job did not sin with his lips.

When the three friends of Job heard all this disaster that had befallen him, they came each from his place, Eliphaz the Temanite, Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite; for they had arranged together to come to condole with him and to comfort him. When they lifted up their eyes from afar, they did not recognize him; so they raised their voices and wept. Then they tore, each his mantle, and they cast dust over their heads toward the heavens. Then they sat down with him upon the ground for seven days and seven nights; and no one spoke a word to him, for they saw that his affliction was very severe. Afterward Job opened his mouth and cursed his day.

JOB'S LAMENT THAT HE WAS EVER BORN, 3:2-26

- Then Job spoke, saying,
"Perish the day wherein I was born,
And the night which said, 'A man is conceived.'
May that day be darkness;
May God on high not search for it;
May light not shine upon it;
May the blackest darkness reclaim it;
May a cloud drop down thereon;
May the blackening of the day terrify it.
That night—may blackness seize it;
May it not rejoice among the days of the year;
Into the number of the months may it not come.
As for that night—may it be barren;
May no sound of joy enter it.
May they curse it who curse the day,
Who are skilled in arousing Leviathan.
May the stars of its twilight be darkened;
May it wait for light and there be none;
And may it not see the eyelids of the dawn.
Because it did not shut the doors of my mother's womb,
And so conceal trouble from my eyes.
"Why did I not die at birth,
Come forth from the womb and expire?
Why did the knees receive me?
Or why the breasts, that I should suck?"

- 13 For then I had lain down and been quiet,
I had slept; then were I at rest 14 With kings and counselors of the earth,
Who rebuild ruins for themselves;
15 Or with nobles who have gold,
Who fill their houses with silver.
16 Or like a hidden untimely birth I should not be,
Like babes that never saw light.
17 There the wicked cease from troubling;
There the weary are at rest.
18 The prisoners also are at ease;
They hear not the voice of the overseer.
19 The small and the great are there,
And the slave is free from his master.
20 "Why is light given to the wretched,
And life to the bitter of spirit;
21 Who long for death, but it comes not,
And hunt for it more than for buried treasures,
22 Those who would rejoice exultingly,
And would be glad, if they could find the grave?
23 To a man whose way is hidden,
Whom God has fenced in?
24 For my sighing comes in place of my food,
And my groans are poured forth like water.
25 If I entertain a fear, then it comes upon me;
And what I was afraid of befalls me.
26 I am not at ease, nor am I quiet, Nor am I at rest; for trouble keeps coming."

THE DEBATE BETWEEN THE FRIENDS AND JOB,

4:1—31:40

THE FIRST CYCLE, 4:1—14:22

The Speech of Eliphaz, 4:1—5:27

- 1 Then Eliphaz, the Temanite, replied,
saying,
2 "If one should venture a word with you,
would you be bored?
Yet who can refrain from speech?
3 Verily, you have instructed many,
And you have strengthened drooping
hands.
4 Your words have upheld the one who was falling,

- And you have supported the bending knees.
But now that it comes upon you, you lose heart;
It touches you and you are dismayed.
Is not your religion your confidence, 6 And the integrity of your ways, your hope?
Recall now—who ever perished that 7 was innocent?
Or where were the upright cut off?
As I have seen, those who plow guilt
8 And sow sorrow reap it.
Through the breath of God they perish, 9 And through his angered spirit they are destroyed.
The roar of the lion and the voice of 10 the roarer—
And the teeth of the young lion are knocked out.
The lion perishes for lack of prey, 11 And the cubs of the lioness are scattered.

- "Now to me there came a word stealth-12 ily,
So that my ear caught just a whisper
from it,
In thoughts, from visions of the night,
13 When sound sleep falls upon men;
Fear fell upon me, and trembling,
14 And filled all my bones with dread,
And a breath swept over my face;
15 The hair of my flesh stood on end.
It stood; but I could not discern its ap-16 pearance;
A form was before my eyes;
I heard a gentle voice:
'Can a mortal be righteous before God,
17 Or a man be pure before his Maker?
Even in his servants he does not trust,
18 And his angels he charges with error.
How much less them that dwell in 19 houses of clay,
Whose foundation is in the dust,
Who are crushed before the moth!
Between morning and evening they 20 are crushed;
Without anyone noticing it, they perish forever.
If their tent-rope is torn up within 21 them,
Do they not die, and that without wisdom?'
- "Call now; is there anybody to answer
5 you?
Or to which of the holy ones will you turn?

- 2 Indeed, vexation slays the fool;
And passion kills the simpleton.
- 3 I have observed the fool taking root;
But I cursed his habitation suddenly.
- 4 His children were far from safety,
And were crushed in the gate with none to rescue them.
- 5 Their harvest, the hungry did eat,
And even from thorns he took it,
And snares gaped for their wealth.
- 6 Surely misfortune does not come forth from the dust,
Nor does trouble sprout forth from the ground;
- 7 But man is born for trouble,
Even as sparks fly upward.
- 8 "I, however, would seek for God,
And to God I would state my case,
- 9 Who does great things past searching
out,
Wonders beyond number;
- 10 Who sends rain upon the surface of the
earth,
And sends forth water upon the surface of the fields;
- 11 Setting the lowly on high,
While mourners are exalted to safety;
- 12 Who frustrates the plans of the crafty,
So that their hands accomplish no success;
- 13 Who catches the wise in their own tricks,
So that the counsel of schemers is confused;
- 14 In the daytime they meet with dark-
ness,
And at noon they grope as in the night;
- 15 So that he saves the needy from the sword of their mouth,
And from the hand of the strong.
- 16 Then there is hope for the poor,
And iniquity shuts its mouth.
- 17 "Happy, indeed, is the man whom God
reproves;
So do not reject the instruction of the Almighty.
- 18 For he wounds, but he binds up;
He smites, but his hands heal.
- 19 In six dangers he will rescue you,
And in seven, evil will not touch you.
- 20 In famine, he will redeem you from death;
And in war, from the power of the sword.
- 21 During the scourge of the tongue you will be concealed,

And you will not be afraid of destruction when it comes.
At destruction and at famine you will laugh,
And you will not fear the beasts of the
earth;
For you will have a covenant with the stones of the field,
And the beasts of the field will be at peace with you.
And you will know that your tent is prosperous;
And when you inspect your homestead, you will miss nothing.
You will know also that your descendants are many,
And your progeny like the grass of the earth.
You will come to the grave in ripe old age,
As a shock of grain comes up in its season.

"There it is! We have investigated it;
it is so!
Hear it, and know it for your very self!"

JOB'S REPLY TO ELIPHAZ,

6:1—7:21

Then Job replied, saying,
"O that my vexation were carefully weighed,
And that my calamity were also laid on the scales!
For then it would be heavier than the sand of the seas;
Therefore have my words been rash.
For the arrows of the Almighty are with me,
And their poison my spirit is drinking;
The terrors of God beset me.
Does the wild ass bray over grass?
Or does the ox low over his fodder?
Is a tasteless thing eaten without salt?
Or is there taste in the slime of pur-lain?
My appetite refuses to touch them!
They are like uncleanness in my food.

"O that my request might come to pass,
And that God would grant my hope!
O that God would consent to crush me,
That he would let loose his hand and cut me off!
Then I should still have the consolation—
And I would exult in pain unsparing—

- That I had not hidden the words of the Holy One.
- 11 What is my strength that I should wait?
And what is my end that I should be patient?
- 12 Is my strength the strength of stones?
Is my flesh bronze?
- 13 Verily, there is no help in me,
And effective aid is removed far from
me.
- 14 "To him who is faint there should be kindness from his friend, Though he forsake the fear of the Almighty.
- 15 My friends have been faithless like a torrent,
Like the bed of rivers which pass away,
16 That run black because of ice,
Wherein the snow hides itself.
- 17 When it becomes hot, they are cut off;
When it warms up, they dry up from their place.
- 18 The caravans divert their route;
They go up into the waste and perish.
- 19 The caravans of Tema look,
The companies of Sheba wait for them;
20 They are ashamed because they trusted;
They come to them and they are disappointed.
- 21 Such now have you become to me;
You see a terror, and you are afraid.
- 22 Have I said, 'Give to me,'
Or 'From your substance offer a bribe for me,'
- 23 Or 'Rescue me from the hand of an enemy,'
Or 'From the hand of brigands ransom
me'?
- 24 Teach me, and I will be silent;
Make clear to me wherein I have erred.
- 25 How forceful are honest words!
But what does your reproving reprove?
- 26 Do you mean to reprove words?
But for wind are the words of one in despair.
- 27 Even upon an orphan you would cast
lots,
And you would bargain over your friend!
- 28 "Now, be pleased to look me in the face,
And to your faces, I will not lie!
- 29 Turn back, now; let there be no injustice.
30 Turn again! My justification is in it.
- Is there injustice in my tongue? 30
Or is my palate insensible to calamities?
Is there not hard labor for man upon 7
earth,
And are not his days like the days of a hireling?
Like a slave who longs for the evening, 2
And like a hireling who waits for his wages,
So I am made to possess months of 3
emptiness,
And nights of trouble are allotted me.
When I lie down, I say, 'When can I 4 arise?'
But the evening is prolonged;
And I am satiated with tossings until dawn.
- My flesh is clothed with worms and 5
clods of dust;
My skin hardens and then runs.
My days are swifter than a weaver's 6
shuttle,
And they come to an end without hope.
- Remember that my life is a breath; 7
My eye will not again see good.
The eye of him who looks at me will 8
not see me;
Thine eye will be upon me, but I shall not be.
- A cloud dissolves and it is gone; 9
So is the one who descends to Sheol;
he will not ascend.
- He will not return again to his house; 10
Nor will his place know him again.
I, then, will not restrain my mouth; 11
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will complain in the bitterness of my being.
- Am I the sea, or a dragon, 12
That thou appointest a watch over me?
When I think my couch may comfort 13
me,
Or my bed relieve my complaint,
Then thou dost terrify me with 14
dreams,
Thou dost startle me by nightmares;
So that I prefer strangling, 15
Death rather than my bones.
I refuse; I shall not live forever. 16
Let me alone! For my days are but a breath.
- What is man that thou shouldst mag- 17
nify him,
And shouldst set thy mind upon him,
And shouldst inspect him every morn- 18
ing,

- And test him every moment?
 19 How long wilt thou not look away from me,
 Nor let me alone till I swallow my saliva?
 20 Have I sinned? What do I unto thee,
 O thou keeper of man?
 Why dost thou make me a target for thyself,
 So that I am become a burden to thee?
 21 Why dost thou not forgive my transgression,
 And make my guilt to pass away?
 For soon I shall lie down in the dust;
 And thou wilt search for me, but I shall not be."

THE SPEECH OF BILDAD,

8:1-22

- 8 Then Bildad, the Shuhite, replied, saying,
 2 "How long will you utter such things,
 And the words of your mouth be a strong wind?
 3 Does God pervert justice?
 Or the Almighty pervert the right?
 4 If your sons have sinned against him,
 He has but delivered them into the power of their transgression.
 5 If you yourself would seek God,
 And make supplication to the Almighty—
 6 If you were but pure and straight,
 Then, indeed, he would bestir himself in your behalf,
 And he would protect your righteous dwelling;
 7 And though your beginning were small,
 He would make your end very great.
 8 But inquire now of the previous generation,
 And apply yourself to what their fathers discovered—
 9 For we are of yesterday, and we know nothing;
 For our days upon the earth are but a shadow—
 10 Will they not teach you and speak to you,
 And bring forth words from their minds?
 11 "Will papyrus grow where there is no mire,
 Or the rush grow tall without water?"

While it is still in its greenness and not plucked,
 Before any other herb, it withers.
 So are the paths of all who forget God,
 And the hope of the irreligious man perishes;
 For his confidence breaks,
 And the object of his trust is a spider's house.
 If he leans upon his house, it will not stand;
 If he lays hold of it, it will not endure.
 Green is he before the sun;
 And over his garden his shoots go forth;
 Over the roof his roots are inter-twined;
 He penetrates between the stones;
 If he be destroyed from his place,
 Then it will repudiate him, 'I have not seen you.'
 That, then, is the joy of his way!
 And from the dust another springs forth.
 Verily, God will not reject a perfect man,
 Nor will he lay hold of the hand of evil-doers.
 He will yet fill your mouth with laughter,
 And your lips with shouting.
 Those who hate you will be clothed with shame;
 And the tent of the wicked will not be."

JOB'S REPLY TO BILDAD,

9:1-10:22

Then Job replied, saying,
 "Of course, I know that it is so.
 But how can a man be right with God?
 If he should be willing to debate with him,
 He could not answer him once in a thousand times.
 The wisest of mind and stoutest in strength—
 Who ever resisted him and succeeded?—
 Him, who removes mountains, they know not how,
 Who overturns them in his anger;
 Who shakes the earth from its place,
 And its pillars are shattered;
 Who speaks to the sun, and it does not rise;

8 And he seals up the stars;
 Who stretched out the heavens by himself,
 And treads upon the billows of the sea;
 9 Who made the Bear, Orion,
 The Pleiades, and the Chambers of the South;
 10 Who does great things past finding out,
 And wonders without number.
 11 "Lo, he passes by me and I see him not,
 And he glides past and I do not perceive him.
 12 If he should break through, who could turn him back?
 Who could say to him, 'What are you doing?'
 13 God will not turn back his anger.
 Under him the helpers of Rahab bowed;
 14 How much less could I answer him,
 Or choose my words with him,
 15 Whom, though I be innocent, I could not answer?
 I should be making entreaty to my judge!
 16 Were I to call and he to answer me,
 I could not believe that he would give ear to my voice;
 17 For he crushes me with a tempest,
 And multiplies my wounds without cause.
 18 He does not let me draw my breath,
 But surfeits me with bitterness.
 19 If it were a question of the strength of the mighty, there is he!
 And if of judgment, who could summon me?
 20 Though I be innocent, my mouth would declare me guilty;
 Though I be perfect, he would declare me crooked.
 21 I am perfect; I do not know myself;
 I loathe my life.
 22 It is all one—therefore I say,
 The perfect and the wicked he destroys.
 23 If the scourge kills instantly,
 He mocks at the despair of the guiltless.
 24 The earth is given into the hand of the wicked;
 He covers the faces of its judges.
 If it is not he—who then is it?
 25 My days are swifter than a runner;

They speed away; they see no good thing.
 They follow one another like boats 26 of papyrus,
 Like a vulture swooping upon prey.
 If I say, 'I will forget my complaint,
 27 I will change my appearance and be cheerful';
 I fear all my pains. 28
 I know that thou dost not hold me
 guiltless;
 I am declared guilty. 29
 Why, then, should I toil in vain?
 If I should wash myself in snow, 30
 And clean my hands with lye,
 Then thou wouldst plunge me into 31
 the cesspool,
 And my clothes would abhor me.
 For he is not a man like myself whom 32
 I could answer,
 That we could come together in the court.
 O that there were an umpire between 33
 us,
 That he might lay his hand upon both of us,
 That he might turn aside his rod 34
 from upon me,
 And that fear of him might not ter-
 rify me;
 That I might speak and not be afraid 35
 of him.
 For I am not so with myself.
 "I myself loathe my life. 10
 I will make complaint freely;
 I will speak of my own bitterness,
 I will say unto God, 'Do not con- 2
 demn me;
 Tell me why thou dost quarrel with
 me.
 Does it seem good to thee that thou 3
 shouldst oppress,
 That thou shouldst reject the work
 of thine own hands,
 And shine upon the counsel of the wicked?
 Hast thou eyes of flesh, 4
 Or dost thou see as men see?
 Are thy days like the days of a mor- 5
 tal,
 Or thy years like the years of a man,
 That thou seekest for my guilt, 6
 And searchest for my sin,
 Although thou knowest that I am 7
 not guilty,
 And none can deliver from thy hand?
 Thy hands did form me and make 8
 me;

And afterward wouldst thou turn and destroy me?
9 Recall, now, that thou didst make me like clay;
And wilt thou return me to the dust?
10 Didst thou not pour me out like milk,
And curdle me like cheese?
11 With skin and flesh thou didst clothe
me,
And with bones and muscles thou didst knit me together.
12 Life and kindness hast thou exercised
with me,
And thy solicitude has preserved my
spirit;
13 While these things thou didst hide in thy heart.
I know that this is in thy mind:
14 If I sin, then thou wilt watch me,
And wilt not absolve me from my guilt.
15 "If I be guilty, woe is me;
And if I be innocent, I may not lift up my head,
Being sated with shame and drenched with misery.
16 Should it lift itself up, thou wouldst
hunt me like the lion,
And thou wouldst again deal wondrously with me.
17 Thou wouldst renew thy witnesses before me.
And thou wouldst increase thine
anger with me,
And new hardships for me.
18 Why didst thou bring me forth from the womb?
I should have expired and no eye
have seen me;
19 I should have been as though I had not been;
From the womb to the grave I should have been carried.
20 Are not the days of my life few?
Let him leave me alone, that I may brighten up a little,
21 Before I go, never to return,
To a land of darkness and blackness,
22 A land of shadow, like gloom,
Of blackness without order,
And when it shines, it is like gloom."

THE SPEECH OF ZOPHAR,

11:1-20

11 Then Zophar, the Naamathite, replied, saying,

"Should not one of many words be answered?
Or is a man of ready lips in the right?
Shall your boastings put men to silence?
And when you scoff, is no one to rebuke you?
For you have said, 'My teaching is pure,
And I am clean in thy sight.'
But would that God might speak,
That he might open his lips with you,
And tell you the secrets of wisdom;
For insight is a wonderful thing.
Know then that God reckons not against you all of your guilt.
Can you find out the limits of God?
Or can you attain unto the boundary of the Almighty?
It is higher than the heavens—what can you do?
Deeper than Sheol—what can you know?
Longer than the earth is its extent,
And broader than the sea.
If he glide by and deliver up,
And call an assembly, who can turn
him back?
For he knows worthless men;
And he sees iniquity and gives heed to it.
But an inane man will get intelligence,
When a wild ass's colt is born a man.
"If you would only apply your mind,
And spread out your hands unto him!
If iniquity be in your hand, put it far away;
Let not perversity dwell in your tent.
Then, indeed, you might lift up your face without blemish,
And you would be steadfast, and would not fear.
For then you would forget trouble,
You would recall it like waters that have passed on.
And life would rise up brighter than the noon-day;
Darkness would be like the morning;
And you would trust because there was hope,
And you would search and in confidence go to rest;
You would lie down, with none to disturb.
Many would pay court to you.
But the eyes of the wicked will grow dim;
And refuge will fail them;
And their hope is an expiring breath."

JOB'S REPLY TO ZOPHAR,

12:1—14:22

- 12 Then Job replied, saying,
 2 "No doubt but you are the people,
 And wisdom will die with you!
 3 But I too have a mind as well as you,
 I am not inferior to you!
 Who has not experienced such things as these?
 4 I am become 'a laughing-stock to his friend,'
 One whom God answered when he called;
 A laughing-stock is the righteous, the perfect one.
 5 For the unfortunate there is contempt in the thought of him who is prosperous,
 Ready for those whose feet slip.
 6 The households of spoilers prosper,
 And those who provoke God are secure,
 Those whom God brings into his power.
 7 "But now ask the beasts and let them teach you,
 And the birds of the air and let them
 tell you,
 8 Or speak to the earth and let it teach
 you,
 And let the fish of the sea recount to
 you.
 9 Which among all these does not know That the hand of the LORD has done
 this,
 10 In whose hand is the life of every living thing,
 And the breath of all human beings.
 11 Does not the ear try words,
 And the palate taste its own food?
 12 'With the aged is wisdom,
 And length of days is understanding.'
 13 With Him are wisdom and power,
 He has counsel and understanding.
 14 If he destroys, it cannot be rebuilt;
 When he shuts up a man, it cannot be reopened.
 15 If he restrains the waters, they dry up;
 If he send them forth, they overturn
 the earth.
 16 With him are strength and sure insight;
 The misled and the misleader are his;
 17 Who makes counselors walk barefoot,
 And renders judges foolish.
 18 He looses the bond of kings,
 And binds a waist-cloth on their loins.

- He makes priests walk barefoot, 19
 And overthrows them that are firmly established.
 He deprives the self-confident of 20
 speech,
 And takes away the discretion of elders.
 He pours contempt upon nobles, 21
 And he brings low the pride of the learned.
 He uncovers the depths of darkness, 22
 And brings forth dense darkness to the light.
 He makes the nations great, and he 23
 destroys them,
 He expands the nations, and leads them away.
 He takes away the intelligence of the 24
 chiefs of the people of the earth,
 And makes them wander in a pathless waste.
 They grope in darkness with no light, 25
 And he makes them wander like a drunken man.
 "Lo, my eye has seen it all; 13
 My ear has heard and understood it.
 I too know just as much as you; 2
 I am not inferior to you.
 But I would speak to the Almighty, 3
 And I desire to argue with God.
 But you—forgers of lies, 4
 Worthless physicians are you all.
 O that you would keep strict silence, 5
 And that it might be your wisdom!
 Hear, now, my argument; 6
 And listen to the pleadings of my lips.
 Is it for God that you speak false- 7
 hood,
 And for him do you speak deceit?
 Will you be partial toward him? 8
 Or will you strive for God?
 Will it be well when he examines you? 9
 Or will you deceive him as one de-ceives a man?
 He will severely rebuke you, 10
 If you are secretly partial.
 Should not his majesty terrify you, 11
 And awe of him fall upon you?
 Your maxims are proverbs of ashes; 12
 Your defenses are become defenses of clay.
 Keep silent before me, that I myself 13
 may speak,
 Whatever may befall me.
 I will take my flesh in my teeth, 14
 And my life I will take in my hand.
 Lo, he will slay me; I have no hope: 15

Yet I will defend my ways to his face.
 16 But this will be my deliverance,
 That an impious man would not come before him.
 17 Listen closely to my speech,
 And my declaration in your hearing.
 18 See, now, I draw up my case;
 I know that I am innocent.
 19 Who is there to contend with me?
 For then I would keep silence and die.
 20 Yet two things do not do to me—Then I will not conceal myself from before thee.
 21 Remove thy hand from upon me,
 And let not the dread of thee terrify me!
 22 But call, and I will reply;
 Or I will speak, and do thou answer me.
 23 How many are my iniquities and sins?
 Tell me my offense and my sin.
 24 Why dost thou hide thy face,
 And reckon me as thy foe?
 25 Wilt thou scare a driven leaf,
 And chase the dry stubble, 26 That thou writest bitter charges against me,
 And dost make me inherit the faults
 of my youth,
 27 And puttest my feet in the stocks,
 And watchest all my paths?
 Thou drawest a line about the soles of my feet.

14 "Man, that is born of woman,
 Is of few days and full of trouble.
 2 Like a blossom he comes forth and is withered,
 And he flees like the shadow and does not endure.
 28<sup>1</sup> And he wastes away like a rotten thing,
 Like a garment which the moth has eaten.
 3 Yet upon such an one thou openest thine eye,
 And bringest me into judgment with thyself.
 4 O that there were a pure one among the impure! There is not one.
 5 If his days are decreed,
 And the number of his months is with thee;
 If thou hast established his bounds so that he may not pass over, 6 Look away from him that he may cease,
 Until he enjoy, like a hireling, his day.

<sup>1</sup>This verse does not belong in chap. 13
 where it is placed in the Hebrew text.

"For there is hope for the tree;
 If it be cut down, then it will sprout again,
 And its shoots will not cease.
 If its root becomes old in the ground,
 And its trunk dies in the soil,
 At the scent of water it will bud,
 And put forth shoots like a young plant.
 But man dies, and is powerless.
 And man expires, and where is he?
 Water departs from the lake,
 And a stream parches and dries up;
 So man lies down and does not rise.
 Until the heavens are no more they will not awake,
 Nor will they be roused from their sleep.
 O that thou wouldst hide me in Sheol, That thou wouldst conceal me until thy wrath turn,
 That thou wouldst set me a time and remember me!
 If a man dies, does he live?
 All the days of my service I would wait
 Until my turn should come;
 Thou wouldst call and I would answer
 thee;
 Thou wouldst yearn for the work of thy hands.
 But now thou dost number my steps;
 Dost thou not watch over my sin?
 My transgression is sealed up in a bag,
 And thou dost plaster over my guilt.
 But if a mountain falls, it crumbles
 away;
 And a rock moves from its place;
 Water wears away stones;
 Its torrent sweeps away the soil of the
 earth;
 So thou destroyest the hope of man.
 Thou dost overpower him forever and he passes on;
 Thou dost change his looks and send him away.
 His children come to honor, but he does not know it;
 And they sink into insignificance, but he does not perceive them.
 But he grieves over himself,
 And he mourns over himself."

THE SECOND CYCLE,

15:1—21:34

The Speech of Eliphaz 15:1-35

Then Eliphaz, the Temanite, re-plied, saying,

2 "Should a wise man answer with windy knowledge,
And fill his breast with the east wind?
3 Should he argue with speech that is not profitable,
And words which are of no value?
4 Yet you destroy reverence,
And you do away with meditation before God.
5 For your guilt instructs your mouth,
And you choose the tongue of the crafty.
6 Your own mouth condemns you, and not I;
And your own lips witness against you.
7 Were you the first one that was born a man?
Were you brought forth before the hills?
8 Do you listen in the secret council of God?
And have you a monopoly of wisdom?
9 What do you know that we do not?
What do you understand that is not ours?
10 The gray-headed and aged are with us,
Older than your father in days.
11 Are the consolations of God too slight a thing for you,
And a word that deals gently with you?
12 Why does your heart carry you away,
And what do your eyes suggest,
13 That you turn your breath against God,
And send forth words from your mouth?
14 "What is man, that he should be pure,
And the child of a woman, that he should be innocent?
15 Lo, he puts no trust in his holy ones,
And the heavens are not pure in his eyes;
16 How much less one who is loathsome and foul,
A man who drinks down wickedness like water!
17 I will tell you; listen to me!
And this that I have seen I will relate,
18 What the wise declare,
Without hiding it, from their fathers,
19 To whom alone the land was given,
And no alien passed among them.
20 All the days of the wicked he writhes in pain;

And but few years are in store for the tyrant.
Dreadful sounds are in his ears; 21
In the midst of peace, the spoiler comes upon him.
He does not believe that he will return from darkness;
And he is watched for by the sword.
He wanders about for bread; 'Where 23 is it?'
He knows that a day of darkness is ready at hand.
Distress and anguish terrify him; 24
They overpower him like a king ready for the fray,
Because he has stretched out his hand 25 against God,
And conducts himself arrogantly toward the Almighty.
He runs upon him with a stubborn 26 neck,
With the thick bosses of his shields.
For he has covered his face with his 27 fat,
And amassed fat upon his loins.
And he has dwelt in ruined cities, 28
In houses wherein no one lives,
Which are destined for ruins.
He will not get rich, nor will his wealth 29 endure,
Nor will he strike root in the earth.
He will not turn aside from darkness; 30
The flame will shrivel his shoots,
And his blossom will be blown away by the wind.
Let him not trust in emptiness, being 31 misled,
For his reward will be emptiness.
Before his time it will be fulfilled, 32
And his palm-branch will not be fresh.
He will mar, like a vine, his green 33 grapes,
And he will cast, like an olive, his blossom.
For the assembly of the godless is barren, 34
And fire devours the tents of bribery.
They conceive trouble and bring forth 35 misery,
And their womb prepares deception."

JOB'S REPLY TO ELIPHAZ,

16:1—17:16

Then Job replied, saying, 16
"I have heard many things like these. 2
Troublesome comforters are you all!
Is there any end to words of wind? 3

- Or what provokes you that you answer?
- 4 I too could speak like you,
If you were in my place.
I could compose words against you,
And I could shake my head at you.
- 5 I could strengthen you with my mouth,
And the comfort of my lips would assuage.
- 6 If I speak, my suffering is not restrained;
And if I am silent, what departs from me?
- 7 But now, he has tired me out.
Thou hast laid waste all my company,
- 8 And thou hast shrivelled me up; it has become a witness!
Yea, my leanness has risen against me;
it testifies to my face.
- 9 His wrath has torn and attacked me;
He has gnashed upon me with his teeth.
My enemy looks daggers at me.
- 10 They gape upon me with their mouths;
In scorn they smite my cheeks;
They mass themselves together against me.
- 11 God delivers me over to the unjust,
And 'into the hands of the wicked he surrenders me.
- 12 I was at ease, but he shattered me.
And he seized me by the neck and smashed me.
He set me up as his target;
- 13 His arrows encircle me about;
He splits my kidneys without mercy;
He pours my gall on the ground.
- 14 He breaks me with breach upon breach;
He runs upon me like a warrior.
- 15 I have sewed sackcloth upon my sores;
And I have laid my horn in the dust.
- 16 My face is flushed from weeping,
And black shadows are on my eyelids;
- 17 Although there is no violence on my hands,
And my prayer is pure.
- 18 O earth, cover not my blood,
That there be no place for my cry.
- 19 Yet now; lo, my witness is in the heavens,
And he who testifies for me is on high.
- 20 My thoughts are my intercessors;
Unto God my eye weeps,
- 21 That one might plead for a man with God,
Even as with a man for one's friend.

- For a few years will come. 21:
And I shall go the way that I shall not return.
- My spirit is broken, my days are 17
snuffed out;
The grave is mine.
Surely mockery is with me, 2
And my eye dwells on their obstinacy.
Give surety for me, now, with thyself. 3
Who is there that will strike hand in mine?
- Because thou hast closed their mind 4 against reason,
Therefore thou wilt not exalt them.
He who denounces friends for a portion— 5
The eyes of his children will fail.
He has made me a byword of the people, 6
And one before whom men spit am I become.
- My eye is dim because of grief, 7
And all my members are like a shadow.
The upright are amazed at this, 8
And the innocent bestirs himself against the goddess;
But the righteous will hold to his way, 9
And the clean-handed will grow stronger.
- But all of you, return and come now: 10
I shall not find a wise man among you!
My days have passed on; my plans are 11 broken,
The desires of my heart. 12
They turn night into day,
And declare light near in the face of darkness.
- If I wait for Sheol as my home, 13
If I spread out my couch in darkness,
If I address the Pit, 'You are my father,' 14
And say to the worm, 'My mother and my sister,'
Where then is my hope? 15
And who will see my prosperity?
Will they go down to Sheol with me? 16
Or shall we descend together to the dust?"

THE SPEECH OF BILDAD,

18:1-21

- Then Bildad, the Shuhite, replied, 18
saying,
"How long will you set snares for 21 words?"

Understand, and afterward we will speak.

3 Why are we accounted as beasts?
Why are we stupid in your eyes?

4 You who tear yourself in your anger—
Is the land to be forsaken on your account,
Or the rock to be moved from its place?

5 "Now, the light of the wicked goes out,
And the flame of his fire does not shine.

6 The light grows dark in his tent,
And his lamp goes out above him.

7 His strong steps are narrowed,
And his own counsel casts him out.

8 For he is hurled into the net by his own feet,
And he walks upon a pit-fall.

9 A trap seizes him by the heel;
A snare lays hold upon him.

10 A noose is concealed for him in the ground,
And a springe for him upon the path.

11 All around terrors startle him,
And dog his footsteps.

12 His strength is famished,
And calamity is ready at his side.

13 By sickness his skin is consumed;
The first-born of death devours his limbs.

14 He is snatched away from his tent in which he trusted,
And thou dost march him to the king of terrors.

15 There dwells in his tent nothing of his;
Brimstone is strewn upon his habitation.

16 His roots dry up under him,
And his branches are cut off from above.

17 Memory of him perishes from the land,
And he has no name upon the surface of the plain.

18 They drive him from light into darkness,
And chase him from the world.

19 He has no kith or kin among his people,
Nor is there a survivor in his haunts.

20 At his day younger men will be appalled,
And horror will seize upon older ones.

21 But such are the dwellings of the wicked,
And such is the place of him who knows not God."

JOB'S REPLY TO BILDAD,

19:1-29

Then Job replied, saying, 19

"How long will you torment me; 2
And crush me with words?
Now ten times you abuse me; 3
You wrong me shamelessly.
But suppose, indeed, I have erred; 4
With myself my error dwells.
If, indeed, you magnify yourselves 5
against me,
And argue my disgrace against me,
Know, then, that God has overturned 6
me,
And has inclosed me in his net.
Lo, I cry 'Murder,' but I am not an- 7
swered;
I call for help, but there is no justice.
My way he has walled up that I may 8
not pass on;
And upon my paths he sets darkness.
My glory he has stripped from upon 9
me,
And has taken the crown off my head.
He has broken me down on every 10
side, and I am gone;
And he has torn up my hope like a tree.
His anger burns against me, 11
And he reckons me as one of his foes.
His troops also come, 12
They cast up their way against me,
And they have encamped around my tent.
He has put my brothers far from me; 13
And my friends are wholly estranged from me.
My relatives have disappeared, 14
And my intimates have forgotten me.
The guests of my house and my maids 15
reckon me a stranger;
An alien am I become in their eyes.
I call my servant, but he will not an- 16
swer;
With my mouth I must implore him.
My breath is offensive to my wife, 17
And I am loathsome to my brothers.
Even the urchins despise me; 18
When I arise, they turn their backs upon me.
All the men of my circle abhor me; 19
And those whom I have loved have turned against me.
My bone cleaves to my skin, 20
And I am escaped with my flesh in my teeth.
"Have pity on me, have pity on me, O 21
you, my friends,

For the hand of God has struck me!
 22 Why do you pursue me like God,
 And are not satisfied with my flesh?
 23 Would, then, that my words were written!
 Would that they were inscribed in a scroll!
 24 That with an iron pen and lead
 They were hewn in the rock forever!
 25 But as for me, I know that my Vindicator lives;
 And as the next-of-kin he will stand upon my dust;
 26 And as the next-of-kin he will rise as my witness,
 And I shall see God as my defender;
 27 Whom I shall see on my side,
 And my eyes will see to be no stranger.
 My emotions are spent within me!
 28 If you say, 'How we will persecute
 him,
 Since the root of the matter is found in
 him!'
 29 Tremble for yourselves before the sword;
 For such things are crimes deserving the sword,
 That you may know that there is judgment."

THE SPEECH OF ZOPHAR,

20:1-29

20 Then Zophar, the Naamathite, replied, saying,
 2 "Therefore, my thoughts answer me;
 And because of the agitation within
 me,
 3 I hear the rebuke that would put me
 to shame,
 And my intelligent spirit replies to me.
 4 "Do you know this as from of old,
 Since man was placed upon the earth,
 5 That the triumph of the wicked is but short,
 And the mirth of the ungodly is but for a moment?
 6 If his pride mount up to the heavens,
 And his head touch the clouds,
 7 He will perish forever like his own dung;
 Those that saw him will say, 'Where is he?'
 8 Like a dream he will fly away and they will not find him,
 And he will flee like a vision of the
 night;

The eye that saw him will see him no
 more,
 Nor will his place see him again.
 His sons will conciliate the poor,
 1 And his own hands will give back his wealth.
 While his bones are full of his youth, 1
 With him it will lie down in the dust.
 "If wickedness be sweet in his mouth, 1
 If he hide it under his tongue;
 If he be sparing of it and will not let it 1
 go,
 But withhold it in his palate;
 His food in his bowels is turned 1
 Into the gall of asps within him.
 He swallows down riches but vomits 1
 them up;
 God drives them forth from his belly.
 He sucks the poison of asps;
 The tongue of the adder slays him.
 Never shall he gaze upon rich mead- 1
 ows,
 Upon valleys of honey and curds.
 He gives back the product of toil and 1 cannot consume it;
 He does not rejoice in proportion to the wealth he gains by trade.
 Because he has oppressed and for- 1
 saken the poor,
 And has seized a house that he did not build;
 Because he knew no peace of mind, 2
 But in his greed spared none,
 And there is nothing left of his meal; 2
 Therefore his prosperity will not endure.
 In the fulness of his abundance he will 2
 be in straits;
 All the weight of trouble will come upon him;
 May his belly be filled! 2
 He will send forth upon him the heat of his anger,
 And rain down his war upon him.
 He will flee from the weapon of iron, 2
 And the bow of bronze will pierce him;
 He draws it forth and it comes out of 2
 his back,
 And the glittering sword out of his gall.
 Terror comes upon him;
 All darkness is stored up for his treas- 2
 ures.
 A fire that is not blown will devour
 him;
 It will feed on what is left in his tent.
 The heavens will disclose his guilt, 2
 And the earth will rise up against him.

8 The increase of his house will go into exile,
Like things melting away on the day of his wrath.

9 "This is the lot of a wicked man from God,
And the inheritance allotted him from God."

JOB'S REPLY TO ZOPHAR,

21:1-34

1 Then Job replied, saying,
2 "Listen closely to my speech,
And let this be your consolation to
me.
3 Suffer me while I speak,
And after I have spoken, you may jeer.
4 "Is my complaint regarding man?
Or why should I not be impatient?
5 Look at me and be dumbfounded, And lay your hand upon your mouth.
6 "When I think of it, I am amazed;
And shuddering lays hold of my flesh.
7 Why do the wicked live,
Grow old, and amass wealth?
8 "Their descendants are established in their presence with them,
And their offspring before their very eyes.
9 Their houses are safe from terror;
And the rod of God is not upon them.
10 "His bull genders without fail,
His cow brings forth without miscarriage.
11 They send forth their little ones like a flock,
And their children skip about.
12 "They sing to the timbrel and harp,
And they make merry to the sound of the flute.
13 They complete their days in prosperity,
And in a moment they go down to Sheol.
14 "Yet they say to God, 'Depart from
us;
We do not want to know thy ways.

What is the Almighty, that we 15 should serve him?
And what does it profit us that we pray to him?'

"Behold, their prosperity is not in 16
their power;
The counsel of the wicked is far from me.

"How often is it that the lamp of the 17
wicked is put out,
Or that their calamity comes upon
them?
That he apportioned snares in his anger,
That they are like straw before the 18
wind,
Or like chaff that the whirlwind carries away?

"God stores up his trouble for his 19 sons!
Let him requite it unto him himself that he may know,
That his own eyes may see his ruin, 20
And that he may drink of the wrath
of the Almighty.
For what does he care about his 21
house after him,
When the number of his months is reckoned up?

"Can anyone teach God knowledge? 22
He judges the highest!
One man dies at the height of his 23
powers,
Wholly at ease and satisfied;
His vessels are full of milk, 24
And the marrow of his bones is moistened.
Another dies in a mood of bitterness, 25
Never having enjoyed good.
They both lie down in the dust, 26
And the worm covers them over.

"Indeed I know your plans, 27
And the purposes you meditate against me.
For you say, 'Where is the house of 28
the noble?
And where is the tent in which the wicked dwell?'

"Have you not asked those that pass 29
by on the road?
And do you not recognize their evidence,

- 30 That the wicked is spared in the day
of disaster,
That they are led away on the day
of wrath?
- 31 "Who declares his way to his face?
And who requites to him what he has done?
- 32 He is led along to the grave,
And watch is kept over the tomb.
- 33 The clods of the valley are sweet to
him,
And all men follow after him,
Even as they are innumerable before
him.
- 34 "How then do you offer me empty comfort?
For your answers are nothing but pretexts."

THE THIRD CYCLE, 22:1—31:40

The Speech of Eliphaz, 22:1-30

- 22 Then Eliphaz, the Temanite, replied,
saying,
- 2 "Can man be of value to God,
That a wise man should be of value to
him?
- 3 Is it of any concern to the Almighty that you are righteous?
Or is it of any gain to him that you should make your ways perfect?
- 4 Is it because of your piety that he chastens you,
And enters into judgment with you?
- 5 Is not your wickedness great?
There is no end to your guilt.
- 6 For you take pledges of your brothers for nothing;
You strip the clothes off the naked;
7 You do not give the thirsty water to drink;
And you withhold food from the hungry;
- 8 But the man of power may have the
earth,
And the favored man may dwell therein.
- 9 Widows you have sent empty away,
And the arms of the orphans are crushed.
- 10 Therefore snares are round about you,
And terror will suddenly overwhelm
you;
- 11 Or darkness so that you cannot see,
And a flood of water will cover you.
- 12 "Is not God as high as the heavens?

- And see the topmost stars, how high they are.
Yet you say, 'What does God know? 12
Can he judge through deep darkness?
Thick clouds conceal him so that he 14 cannot see,
And he walks upon the vault of the heavens.'
- Will you keep to the old path, 18
Which wicked men have trodden,
Who were snatched away before their 18
time,
Whose foundation was poured out
like a river;
Who said to God, 'Depart from us,' 17
And, 'What does the Almighty do for us?'
- Yet it was he who filled their houses 18
with good things.
The counsel of the wicked be far from
me!
The righteous see and are glad, 18
And the innocent scoffs at them:
'Surely our enemies are destroyed, 20
And their surplus the fire has devoured.'
- "Acquaint yourself, now, with him and 21
be at peace;
Thereby will your increase be good.
Receive instruction, now, from his 22
mouth,
And place his words in your heart.
If you return to the Almighty and 23
humble yourself,
If you put injustice far from your tent,
And lay gold in the dust, 24
And gold of Ophir among the stones of the brooks;
The Almighty will be your gold, 25
And your shining silver.
For then you will delight yourself in 26
the Almighty,
And you will lift up your face unto God.
You will pray to him and he will hear 27
you,
And you will fulfil your vows.
You will decide a matter, and it will 28
stand for you;
And light will shine upon your ways.
For God will abase the high and 29 proud,
And will deliver him that is lowly of eye.
He will free the innocent man, 30
And he will be freed through the purity of his hands."

JOB'S REPLY TO ELIPHAZ,

23:1—24:25

1 Then Job replied, saying,
 2 "Today also is my complaint defiant,
 His hand is heavy upon my groaning.
 3 O that I knew where I might find
 him,
 That I might come to his dwelling!
 4 I would set my case in order before
 him,
 And I would fill my mouth with arguments.
 5 I would know the words he would answer me,
 And understand what he would say
 to me.
 6 Would he contend with me in his great strength?
 No; but he would pay heed to me.
 7 Then an upright man would argue with him;
 And I should deliver myself forever
 from my judge.
 8 Lo, I go forward, but he is not;
 And backward, but I perceive him not;
 9 On the left I seek him, but cannot see
 him;
 I turn to the right, and do not behold
 him.
 10 When he knows my manner of life,
 When he has tested me, I shall come forth like gold.
 My foot has held fast to his step;
 I have kept to his way, and not turned aside, 11 To the command of his lips, and do not recede;
 I have treasured up in my breast the words of his mouth.
 12 But he has chosen and who can turn
 him back?
 And what he himself desires, he does.
 13 For he will complete what he has decreed for me;
 And many such things are in his mind.
 14 Therefore I am dismayed before him;
 When I consider, I am in terror of him.
 15 But God has weakened my heart;
 And the Almighty has overwhelmed
 me;
 17 For I am overcome because of dark-
 ness,
 And blackness has covered my face.
 18 "Why are not times stored up by the Almighty?

And why have not those who know him seen his days?
 Men remove boundaries; 2
 They steal flocks and pasture them;
 They lead away the ass of the or- 3 phan;
 They take as a pledge the ox of the widow;
 They turn aside the needy from the 4
 way;
 Moreover the needy of the land hide themselves.
 "Indeed, like wild-asses in the wilder- 5
 ness,
 They go forth to their work, seeking for food;
 The steppe furnishes them bread for the children.
 They make harvest in the field by 6 night;
 And they glean the vineyard of the wicked.
 Naked they pass the night without 7
 clothing,
 And they have no covering against the cold.
 They are drenched by the rain from 8
 the mountains,
 And for lack of refuge they cleave to the rocks.
 They snatch the orphan from the 9
 breast,
 And they take the infant of the poor
 as security.
 Naked they go about, without cloth- 10
 ing,
 And hungry, they carry sheaves.
 Within walls they make oil; 11
 They tread the wine-presses, but are thirsty.
 From the city the dying groan, 12
 And those who are wounded call for help;
 But God does not hear their prayer.
 "They are enemies of the light; 13
 They do not know its ways;
 Nor do they dwell in its paths.
 At daylight the murderer arises, 14
 That he may kill the poor and needy;
 And in the night he is like the thief.
 The eye of the adulterer watches for 15
 the twilight,
 Saying, 'No eye shall see me';
 And he puts a veil over his face.
 He digs through houses in the dark- 16
 ness;
 By day they shut themselves up;
 They do not know light.

- 17 Furthermore, midnight is morning to them,
For they are acquainted with the terrors of midnight.
- 18 ["They are accursed in the sight of the heavens;
Cursed is their portion in the earth.
No treader turns toward their vineyard.
- 19 Drought and heat snatch away snow water;
So does Sheol those who have sinned.
- 20 The womb forgets him; the worm sucks him;
He is no longer remembered;
And untruth is broken like a tree."]
- 21 "He feeds on the barren woman with no child,
And he does no good to the widow.
- 22 He prolongs the life of the mighty by his power;
He arises with no hope of life;
- 23 But he gives him confidence and he is sustained;
And his eyes are upon their ways.
- 24 ["They are exalted for a little, and then they are not;
They are brought low and like all things they are plucked off;
And like the top of the ear of grain they are cut off.]
- 25 If it is not so, then who will prove me wrong,
And show my speech to be nothing?"

THE SPEECH OF BILDAD,

25:1-6; 26:5-14

- 25 Then Bildad, the Shuhite, replied, saying,
- 2 "Dominion and fear are with him;
He dispenses prosperity in his high places.
- 3 Is there any limit to his troops?
And upon whom does not his light arise?
- 4 How can a man be justified with God?
Or how can he be pure that is born of a woman?
- 5 Verily, even the moon does not shine brightly,
Nor are the stars bright in his eyes.

How much less man that is a maggot,
And the son of man that is a worm.

"The shades quake,
The waters and their inhabitants underneath;
Sheol lies bare before him,
And Abaddon has no covering.
He stretches out the north over the void;
He hangs the earth upon nothing.
He binds up the water in his clouds,
And the cloud is not split under its weight.
He enclosed the front of his throne,
Spreading out his cloud over it.
He inscribed a circle upon the surface of the water,
Unto the limits of light and darkness.
The pillars of the heavens tottered,
And were dazed at his rebuke.
Through his power the sea was stilled,
And by his skill he smote through Rahab.
By his wind the skies were cleared;
His hand slew the fleeing serpent.

"Behold these are the outskirts of his way;
And how slight a whisper do we hear of him!
But the thunder of his power, who could comprehend?"

JOB'S REPLY TO BILDAD,

26:1-4; 27:1-6

Then Job replied, saying,

"How you have helped him that was powerless,
And saved the arm that was not strong!
How you have counselled him that was without wisdom,
And abundantly made known sound wisdom!
Whom have you told mere words,
And whose breath issued from you?"<sup>1</sup>
Then Job again took up his discourse, saying,
"As God lives, who has put away my right;
And the Almighty, who has embittered my spirit—
For all my breath is still in me,

<sup>1</sup> For 26:5-14, see on this page after 25:6.

And the breath of God is in my nostrils—
 My lips do not speak untruth,
 Nor my tongue utter deceit.
 Far be it from me that I should justify
 you;
 Till I die I will not put my integrity
 from me.
 I will hold on to my innocence and will not let it go.
 My conscience does not reproach any of my days."

THE SPEECH OF ZOPHAR (?),
 27:7-23

"May my enemy be like the wicked,
 And my adversary like the unjust.
 For what is the hope of the irreligious
 when he cuts off,
 When God takes away his life?
 Will God hear his request,
 When trouble comes upon him?
 Does he delight in the Almighty?
 Does he call upon God at all times?
 I will teach you concerning the power
 of God;
 What is with the Almighty I will not hide.
 Indeed you yourselves have all seen;
 Why, then, are you altogether vain?
 This is the lot of a wicked man with God,
 And the heritage which tyrants receive from the Almighty.
 If his sons be many, they are for the
 sword;
 And his offspring have not enough bread.
 Those who survive him are buried in death,
 And there will be no widows to weep.
 Though he heap up silver like dust,
 And prepare clothes like the clay;
 He may prepare—but the righteous will wear it;
 And silver—the pure will divide it.
 He has built his house like a spider's web,
 And like a booth that the watchman makes.
 He lies down rich, but does so no
 more;
 He opens his eyes, and it is gone.
 Terrors overtake him like water;
 A storm snatches him away in the night.
 The sirocco picks him up and he goes,

And it whirls him away from his place;
 Yea, it hurls itself at him unsparingly; 22
 From its grasp he flees precipitately.
 Men clench their fists at him, 23
 And hiss him from his place."

THE PRAISE OF WISDOM,

28:1-28

"Surely there is a mine for silver, 28
 And a place where they refine gold.
 Iron is taken from the dust, 2
 And from the stone copper is smelted.
 Man sets an end to darkness, 3
 And to the furthest bound he searches
 out
 The ore from the blackness and dense darkness.
 He breaks open a shaft far from the 4 traveler;
 In places forgotten by men's feet,
 They hang far from men, they swing to and fro.
 The earth—bread comes forth from it, 5
 But underneath it is turned into what looks like fire.
 Its stones are the source of sapphires, 6
 And it has dust of gold.
 The path to it no bird of prey knows, 7
 Nor has the vulture's eye seen it.
 The beasts of prey have not trodden 8
 it,
 Nor has the lion passed over it.
 Man puts forth his hand to the rocks; 9
 He turns the mountains upside down.
 He cleaves rivers in the rocks; 10
 And all precious things his eye sees.
 He binds up the streams that they do 11
 not flow,
 And what is hidden he brings forth to
 the light.
 "But where can wisdom be found? 12
 And where is the place of understanding?
 Man knows not the way of it, 13
 Nor is it found in the land of the living.
 The abyss says, 'It is not in me'; 14
 And the sea says, 'It is not with me.'
 Pure gold cannot be given for it, 15 Nor can silver be weighed out as its price.
 It cannot be bought with gold of 16
 Ophir,
 With precious onyx and sapphires.
 Gold and glass cannot equal it, 17

- Nor can articles of fine gold be exchanged for it.
- 18 No mention may be made of coral and crystal;
The acquisition of wisdom is above that of corals.
- 19 The topaz of Ethiopia does not equal it;
Nor can it be valued in terms of pure gold.
- 20 "Whence does wisdom come?
And where is the place of understanding?"
- 21 It is hidden from the eyes of all the living,
And from the birds of the air it is concealed.
- 22 Abaddon and Death say,
'With our ears we have but heard the report of it.'
- 23 God understands its way,
And he knows its location.
- 24 For he looks to the ends of the earth;
Beneath the whole heavens he sees.
- 25 When he made a weight for the wind,
And meted out the waters by measure;
- 26 When he made a law for the rain,
And a way for the thunderbolt;
- 27 Then did he see it and declare it;
He established it and investigated it.
- 28 Then he said to man:
'Behold the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom;
And to depart from evil is understanding.'

JOB'S REPLY TO ZOPHAR,

29:1—31:40

- 29 Then Job again took up his discourse and said:
- 2 "O that I were as in months of old,
As in the days when God guarded me;
- 3 When his lamp shone over my head,
And by its light I walked in darkness;
- 4 Even as I was in the days of my prime,
When the friendship of God was over my tent;
- 5 When the Almighty was still with me,
And my young ones were around me;
- 6 When my goings were bathed in curds,
And the rock poured out for me streams of oil.
- 7 When I went forth from my gate up to the city,
And prepared my seat in the square;
- 8 Young men saw me and withdrew,

- And old men arose and stood;
Princes stopped talking,
And placed their hands upon their mouths;
- The voice of the nobles was silent, 1
And their tongues clove to their palates.
- For when the ear heard, it called me 11
happy;
And when the eye saw, it testified for me:
- That I delivered the poor who cried 11
for help,
And the orphan, and him that had no helper.
- The blessing of him that was ready to 11 perish came upon me,
And the heart of the widow I made glad.
- I put on righteousness, and it clothed 11
me;
Like a robe and a turban was my justice.
- Eyes was I to the blind, 11
And feet was I to the lame.
- I was a father to the needy, 11
And I investigated the cause which I did not know.
- I broke the talons of the wicked, 11
And I drew the prey out of his teeth.
- And I said, 'I shall die with my nest- 11
lings,
And make my days as many as the sand;
- My root open to the water, 11
And dew lying on my boughs,
My glory new with me, 20
And my bow renewed in my hand.'
- For me men listened and waited, 21
And kept silence for my counsel;
After my speech, they did not reply, 22
And my word dropped upon them.
- They waited for me as for the rain, 22
And opened their mouths as for the spring rain.
- I laughed at them when they did not 24 believe,
And the light of my countenance they could not cast down.
- I chose their way and sat as chief, 25
And I dwelt like a king in a host,
Like one who comforts mourners.
- "But now they laugh at me, 30
Those who are younger than I,
Whose fathers I disdained
To set with the dogs of my flock.
The strength of their hands, too—of 21
what use is it to me?"

Among them manly vigor has perished;
 3 With want and hunger they are spent;
 They gnaw the dry ground,
 The source of death and desolation;
 4 They pluck salt-wort by the bushes,
 And their food is the root of the broom:
 5 From the community they are driven forth—
 Men cry out against them as against the thief—
 6 To dwell in a gully of the valleys,
 In holes of the earth and rocks;
 7 Among the bushes they howl,
 Beneath the scrub they huddle together.
 8 Worthless and nameless,
 They are scourged out of the land.
 9 "And now, I am become their song,
 And I am a by-word unto them.
 10 They loathe me, they stay far from me,
 They do not refrain from spitting in my face.
 11 Because he has loosened my bowstring and humiliated me,
 They have cast off restraint in my presence.
 12 On the right they rise up in swarms,
 And they grade up against me their ways of destruction.
 13 They break up my path,
 They help on my ruin—
 Men who have no helper.
 14 As through a wide breach they advance;
 Under the crash they roll on.
 15 Terrors are turned upon me;
 My honor flees like the wind,
 And like a cloud my welfare has passed away.
 16 But now my grief pours itself out
 upon me;
 The days of my trouble lay hold of me.
 17 The night racks my bones from upon me;
 And my bare bones cannot lie down.
 18 With great force he seizes me by the clothing;
 He lays hold of me by the neck of my tunic;
 19 He hurls me into the mire;
 And I am made like dust and ashes.
 20 "I cry to thee for help, but thou dost not answer me;
 I stand, and thou dost not heed me.

Thou art turned into one that is cruel 21
 to me;
 With the strength of thy hand thou dost attack me.
 Thou dost pick me up, on the wind 22
 thou dost cause me to ride,
 And thou dost dissolve me in the uproar.
 For I know that thou wilt turn me 23
 over to Death,
 And to the house of assembly for all living.
 Yet will not a man in trouble stretch 24
 forth his hand,
 Or in his misfortune utter a cry for help because of such things?
 I have certainly wept for him whose 25 times were hard;
 I was grieved for the needy.
 But I hoped for good, and evil came, 26
 And I waited for light, but darkness came.
 My bowels rumble and are not silent; 27
 The days of my affliction have come to meet me.
 I go about in black, without the sun; 28
 I arise in the assembly, calling for help.
 I have been a brother to jackals, 29
 And a companion of ostriches.
 My skin has grown black upon me, 30
 And my bones burn from the heat.
 And my harp has become mourning, 31
 And my flute the voice of those who weep.
 "I imposed a rule on my eyes; 31
 How, then, could I give heed to a virgin?
 And what is the portion of God from 2
 above,
 And the heritage of the Almighty from the heights?
 Is it not calamity for the unrighteous, 3
 And disaster for wrong-doers?
 Does he not see my ways, 4
 And number all my steps?
 If I walk with falsehood, 5
 And my foot hastens toward deceit—
 Let him weigh me in just scales, 6
 And may God know my integrity!—
 If my step turn from the way, 7
 And my heart walk after my eyes,
 And a spot stick to my hands;
 May I sow, but another eat; 8
 And may my crops be uprooted!
 "If my heart be enticed after a woman. 9
 And I lie in wait at the door of my friend;

- 10 May my wife grind for another man,
And may others bend over her!
- 11 For that is a crime,
And it is a heinous sin.
- 12 For it is a fire that would devour unto Abaddon;
And it would uproot all my increase.
- 13 "If I set at nought the cause of my male or female slave
When they strove with me;
- 14 Then what shall I do when God arises?
And when he inquires, what can I answer him?
- 15 Did not he who made me in the womb make him?
And did not one prepare us in the womb?
- 16 "If I withheld ought from the desire of the poor,
And caused the eyes of the widow to grow dim;
- 17 Or ate my portion alone,
And the orphan did not eat of it—
- 18 For from my youth he reared me like a father,
And from my mother's body he led
me—
- 19 If I saw any perishing for lack of clothing,
And there was no covering for the needy;
- 20 If his loins did not bless me,
And from the fleece of my sheep he did not keep himself warm;
- 21 If I shook my fist at the orphan,
Because I saw my help in the gate;
- 22 May my shoulder-blade drop from the shoulder,
And my arm be broken from the socket.
- 23 For calamity from God was a terror
to me,
And because of his majesty I was powerless.
- 24 If I made gold my confidence,
And called fine gold my trust;
- 25 If I rejoiced because my wealth was great,
Or because my hand came upon great
riches;
- 26 If I looked upon the great light when it shone,
Or the moon moving along majestically,
- 27 And my heart was secretly seduced,
And my hand kissed my mouth;

That too were a heinous crime, 21
For I had been false to God on high.

"If I rejoiced at the calamity of him 2
who hated me,
And was elated when evil came upon
him—
I did not let my palate sin 31
By calling down curses upon him.
Verily the men of my household said, 2
'Is there anyone that has not been satisfied with his meat?' The stranger did not lodge in the 21
street;
I opened my doors to the wayfarer.

"If I covered up my transgressions 2
from men,
Hiding my guilt in my bosom;
Because I dreaded the great crowd, 3
And the contempt of the clans terrified me,
So that I was silent, not going forth from the door—

"O that one would listen to me! 3
Here is my signature! Let the Almighty answer me!
And the scroll which my opponent has written—
Surely I would carry it upon my 3
shoulder;
I would wind it around me as my dia-dem.
The number of my steps I would de- 3
clare;
Like a prince would I present it.

"If my land cried out against me, 3
And its furrows also wept;
If I ate its product without paying, 3
And snuffed out the life of its owners:
Instead of wheat, let thorns grow up; 4
And weeds instead of barley."

The words of Job are finished.

THE INTERLUDE OF ELIHU, 32:1—37:24

Then these three men ceased answer- 37 ing Job, because he was righteous in his own eyes. Then the anger of Elihu, 32 the son of Barachel, the Buzite, of the clan of Ram, blazed up; against Job his anger blazed, because he held himself in the right, rather than God. And 31 against his three friends his wrath

blazed, because they had found no answer, and so had put God in the wrong.
 4 Now Elihu had waited for Job while they were speaking, because they were 5 older than he; but when Elihu saw that there was no answer in the mouth of the three men, his anger blazed up.

THE FIRST SPEECH OF ELIHU,

32:6—33:33

6 Then Elihu, the son of Barachel, the Buzite, replied, saying:
 "I am of few days, while you are aged; Therefore I feared and was afraid To show you my knowledge.
 7 I thought days should speak, And many years should teach wisdom.
 8 However, it is a spirit in man, And the breath of the Almighty, that makes them intelligent;
 9 It is not the old that are wise, Nor the elders who understand justice.
 10 Therefore I say 'Hear me; I will declare my knowledge, even I.'
 11 "Behold, I waited for your words, I listened for your wisdom, Until you should find words;
 12 And unto you I gave heed. But lo, there was not one to confute Job, Not one of you to answer his words.
 13 Lest you say, 'We have met with wisdom; God may rout him, not man';
 14 He has not arrayed words against me; And with your arguments I will not answer him.
 15 "They are dismayed; they answer no more; Words have failed them.
 16 And am I to wait, because they do not speak, Because they stop, and answer no more?
 17 I also will answer my share, I too will declare my knowledge.
 18 For I am full of words; The spirit within me constrains me.
 19 Behold, my bosom is like wine that has no vent; Like skins of new wine it is ready to burst.
 20 Let me speak, that I may get relief; Let me open my lips, and reply.
 21 "Let me not be partial toward anybody, Nor flatter any man;

For I do not know how to flatter, 22
 Else would my Maker soon take me away.

"But hear now, O Job, my words, 33
 And listen to all my sayings.
 Lo now, I have opened my mouth; 2
 My tongue in my palate has spoken.
 My words are straight from my heart, 3
 And the knowledge of my lips they speak sincerely.
 The spirit of God made me, 4
 And the breath of the Almighty gave me life.
 If you can, answer me; 5
 Draw up before me; take your position.
 Behold, I am just like you with God; 6
 From clay I too was nipped off.
 Lo, dread of me will not overwhelm 7
 you;
 Nor will care of me be heavy upon you.

"Yet you have said in my hearing, 8
 And I heard the sound of the words: 'I am pure, without transgression; 9
 Clean am I, and without guilt. Behold, he finds pretexs against me; 10
 He holds me as his enemy. He sets my feet in the stocks, 11
 He watches all my paths.'

"But in this you are not right; I will 12
 answer you;
 For God is greater than man. Why do you make accusations against 13
 him,
 That 'he answers none of my arguments'?
 For God speaks in one way, 14
 And in two, though one heeds it not. In a dream, a vision of the night, 15
 When sound sleep falls upon men, In slumbers upon the bed;
 Then he uncovers the ear of men, 16
 And seals up their instruction, To remove man from toil, 17
 And to withhold deep grief from man; That he may hold him back from the 18
 Pit,
 And his life from passing into Sheol. And he is chastened with pain upon 19 his bed,
 And the strife of his bones is perpetual; So his life loathes bread, 20
 And his appetite the daintiest food. His flesh wastes away out of sight, 21
 And bare are his bones past seeing.

- 22 And so he himself draws near to the Pit,
And his life to the destroyers.
- 23 "If there be by him an angel,
A mediator, one of a thousand,
To declare to man what is his right;
24 And if he be gracious to him, and say:
'Deliver him from going down into the Pit;
I have found a ransom;
25 Let his flesh become fresher than a child's,
Let him return to the days of his youth';
26 Then he prays to God and he accepts
him,
And he sees his face with joy,
And he restores to a man his righteousness.
- 27 He sings to men and says:
'I sinned and I distorted that which was straight,
And he did not requite it to me.
28 He rescued me from going down into the Pit,
And my life gazes upon the light.'
- 29 "Lo, all such things does God do Twice, three times with a man;
30 To turn him back from the Pit,
That he may see the light of life.
31 Give heed Job; listen to me,
Be silent, while I speak.
32 If you have anything to say, answer
me;
Speak, for I desire to acquit you.
33 If not, then do you listen to me;
Keep silent, that I may teach you wisdom."

ELIHU'S SECOND SPEECH,

34:1-37

- 34 Then Elihu replied, saying:
2 "Hear, O wise men, my words,
And you learned ones, give ear to me—
3 For the ear should test words,
Even as the palate tastes food—4 Let us choose for ourselves what is right,
Let us know among us what is good.
5 For Job says, 'I am innocent,
And God has taken away my right.
6 Against my right shall I lie?
Incurable is my wound, though I am not at fault.'
- 7 "What man is there like Job?
He drinks up scorn like water!

And he walks in company with doers
of evil,
And goes with wicked men.
For he says, 'A man gains nothing
By being on good terms with God.'

"Therefore, O men of understanding, 11 hear me:
Far be it from God to do wickedness,
And from the Almighty to do wrong.
But a man's work he requites to him, 11
And he makes it befall each according to his way.
Of a surety then God does not falsify, 11
And the Almighty does not distort the right.

"Who gave him authority over the 11
earth?
And who gave him charge of the whole world?
If he were to withdraw his spirit to 11
himself,
And to gather in his breath to himself, 11
All flesh would expire at once,
And man would return to the dust.

"If you have insight, hear this; 11
Give ear to the sound of my words.
Can one who hates right govern? 11
Or can you declare guilty the mighty just one;
Him who says to a king, 'You villain!' 11
And to nobles, 'You wicked!'
Him who is not partial to princes, 11
Who does not favor the prosperous above the poor;
For they are all the work of his hands?

"In a moment they die, and in the 20 middle of the night
People are shaken violently and pass
away;
The mighty are removed by an unseen hand.
For his eyes are upon the ways of a 21
man,
And all his steps he sees.
There is no darkness and no dense 22
blackness
Where doers of evil can hide themselves.
For he does not set a stated time for a 23
man
To go unto God in judgment.

"He breaks down the mighty, without 24 investigation,
And he sets others in their place.

5 Therefore he knows their works,
And overturns them in the night and they are crushed.

6 He shatters the wicked;
He smites them in the sight of the public.

7 Because they turned aside from following him,
And heeded none of his ways;

8 That they might cause the cry of the poor to come unto him,
And he might hear the cry of the needy.

9 "If he keep quiet, who can condemn?
And if he hide his face, who can see
him?
He watches over a nation and over man alike,

10 Setting up a godless man as king,
Because of the stubbornness of the people.

11 "For unto God has he said,
'Forgive me, I will not act wickedly;

12 In addition to what I see, do thou teach me;
If I have done wrong, I will do so no
more?'

13 Will he requite it according to your standard,
That you reject it?
For you must choose, and not I;
And what you know, declare.

14 "Men of understanding will say to me,
And a wise man who listens to me:

15 'Job speaks without knowledge,
And his words are without discernment.'

16 Would that Job might be tried unto the end,
For his answers among wicked men.

17 For he adds rebellion unto his sin;
He clenches his fists at us,
And he multiplies his charges against God."

ELIHU'S THIRD SPEECH, 35:1-16

1 Then Elihu replied, saying:

2 "Do you consider this to be just,
Do you say, 'It is my righteousness before God?'

3 That you say, 'What does it profit me?
What do I gain more than if I had sinned?'

"I will answer you with words, 4
And your friends along with you.
Look to the heavens, and see; 5
And gaze upon the clouds—they are higher than you!
If you have sinned, how does it affect 6
him?
And if your offenses be many, what do you do to him?
If you are righteous, what do you give 7
to him?
Or what does he take from your hand?
Your wickedness concerns a man like 8 yourself,
And your righteousness, a human being.

"Because of many deeds of oppression 9 men cry out;
They call for help because of the strength of the mighty.
And nobody has said, 'Where is God 10
my Maker,
Who gives songs in the night,
Who teaches us more than the beasts 11
of the earth,
And makes us wiser than the birds of the air?'
Then they cry, but he does not an- 12
swer,
Because of the pride of the wicked.

"But God will not hear falsehood, 13
Nor will the Almighty look upon it.
How much less when you say you do 14
not behold him;
The case is before him, and you wait
for him.
And now because his anger does not 15 punish,
And he does not notice folly much,
Job opens his mouth emptily, 16
He multiplies words without knowledge."

ELIHU'S FOURTH SPEECH,

36:1-37:24

Then Elihu spoke again: 36
"Wait for me a little, that I may show 2
you
That there are still things to be said in God's behalf,
I will fetch my knowledge from afar, 3
And ascribe righteousness to my Maker.
For of a truth my words are not false; 4
One who is perfect in knowledge is
with you.

- 5 "Lo, God is mighty and does not despise,
Mighty in strength of understanding.
- 6 He will not keep the wicked alive,
And he grants the right of the poor.
- 7 He does not withdraw his eyes from the righteous,
But with kings on the throne
He makes them sit forever, and they are exalted.
- 8 "And if they be bound in chains,
And be caught in the cords of trouble,
- 9 Then he makes known to them their works,
And their transgressions, that they magnify themselves.
- 10 And he uncovers their ear to instruction,
And commands that they turn from wrong.
- 11 "If they hear and serve him,
They fulfil their days in prosperity and their years in pleasure.
- 12 But if they do not hear, they pass away into Sheol,
And they expire without knowledge.
- 13 The impious in heart lay up anger;
They do not call for help when he chastises them.
- 14 They die in youth,
And their life ends prematurely.
- 15 "He rescues the poor through his poverty,
And uncovers their ear through oppression.
- 16 Furthermore, he enticed you from the mouth of straits,
And instead, you have unlimited room,
And your table is filled with fat.
- 17 And you are full of the judgment on the wicked,
Judgment and justice lay hold of you.
- 18 "But beware, lest he allure you with riches,
And let not a heavy bribe mislead you.
- 19 Will your wealth that is without stint avail,
Or all your reinforcements of strength?
- 20 Long not for the night,
That peoples may go up in their place.
- 21 Be careful that you turn not to wrong;
Because for this you were tried by suffering.
- 22 "Lo, God is exalted in his might;
Who is a teacher like him?

Who has ever appointed unto him his
way?
Or who has said, 'Thou hast done injustice?'

Remember that you extol his work, 21
Whereof men have sung.
All men have beheld it, 21
Man looks upon it from afar.

"Lo, God is exalted, and we cannot know; 21
The number of his years is un-searchable.
For he draws up the drops of water; 21
They pour out as rain in his flood,
Which the clouds pour down; 21
They drop down upon many men.
Can anyone understand the spreading 21
out of the clouds,
The crashings of his covert?

"Lo, he spreads his mist about him, 30
And covers the tops of the mountains.
For therewith he judges peoples; 31
He gives food in abundance.
He covers his two hands with light- 30
ning,
And commands it concerning the mark.
The thunder declares regarding him, 31
The cattle also concerning what is coming up.

"At this also my heart is disturbed, 31
And leaps from its place.
Listen closely to the roar of his voice,
And the rumbling that goes forth from
his mouth.
Beneath the whole heavens he flashes, 31
And his lightning reaches the corners of the earth.
After it, a sound roars; 31
He thunders with his majestic voice;
And he delays them not when his voice is heard.

"God thunders with his wondrous voice, 31 Doing great things that we cannot understand.
For he commands the snow, 'Fall to 31
the earth,'
The downpour and the rain, 'Be strong.'
He seals up the hand of every man,
That all men may know his work.
Then the wild beast goes into its lair,
And dwells in its dens.

"From the South comes the whirlwind; 31
And from the North, the ice.

- 10 By the breath of God ice is formed,
And the broad waters are congealed.
- 11 Also with moisture he loads the cloud;
He scatters abroad his lightning-cloud.
- 12 And they encircle and turn about by his guidance,
That they may do all that he commands them,
Upon the surface of the populous earth;
- 3 Whether it be for chastisement to the
earth,
Or for kindness, that he causes it to find its mark.
- 4 "Give ear to this, O Job; Stand still and consider the wonders
of God.
- 5 Do you know when God does his work,
And causes the light of his cloud to shine?
- 6 Do you know regarding the balancings of the cloud,
The wonders of the one perfect in knowledge?
- 7 You whose clothes are hot,
When the earth is still because of the southwind,
- 8 Can you beat out with him the skies,
Hard as a molten mirror?
- 9 "Tell us what we shall say to him!
We cannot draw up a statement because of darkness!
- 10 Shall it be told him that I am speaking?
Or if a man talk will he be swallowed up?
And now men saw not the light;
It was obscure in the skies;
But the wind passed over and cleared
them.
- 11 From the north golden brightness comes;
Over God splendor appears.
- 12 But we have not found the Almighty;
Great is he in strength and justice;
And abounding in righteousness, he will not afflict.
- 13 Therefore do men fear him;
He does not consider any that are wise of heart."

JOB'S INTERVIEW WITH
THE LORD, 38:1—42:6

THE FIRST ADDRESS OF THE LORD, 38:1—39:30

Then the LORD answered Job from the whirlwind, saying,

"Who is this that obscures counsel 2
By words without knowledge?
Gird up, now, your loins like a man, 3
That I may question you, and do you instruct me.

"Where were you when I laid the foun- 4
dations of the earth?
Declare, if you have insight.
Who fixed its measurements, for you 5 should know?
Or who stretched a line over it?
Upon what were its bases sunk, 6
Or who laid its cornerstone,
When the morning stars sang together, 7
And all the heavenly beings shouted for joy?

"Who enclosed the sea with doors, 8
When it burst forth, issuing from the womb,
When I made the cloud its covering, 9
And dense darkness its swaddling-band;
When I imposed upon it my decree, 10
And established its barrier and doors;
And said, 'Thus far shall you come 11
and no farther,
And here shall your proud waves be stayed'?

"Have you ever in your life commanded 12
the morning?
Or assigned its place to the dawn,
That it should lay hold of the corners 13
of the earth,
And the wicked be shaken out of it?
It changes like clay under the seal, 14
And is dyed like a garment.
Their light is withdrawn from the 15
wicked,
And the arm of the proud is broken.

"Have you gone to the sources of the 16
sea,
Or walked in the hollows of the deep?
Have the gates of death been revealed 17
to you,
Or can you see the gates of darkness?
Have you considered the breadth of 18
the earth?
Tell, if you know all this.

"Which is the way where light dwells, 19
And which is the place of darkness,
That you may take it to its border, 20
And that you may perceive the paths to its home?

- 21 You know, for you were born then,
And the number of your days is great!
- 22 "Have you been to the storehouses of snow,
Or do you see the storehouses of hail, 23 Which I have reserved against the time of distress,
Against the day of war and battle?
24 Which is the way to where light is distributed?
Where does the east wind spread itself
over the earth?
25 Who cleaved its channel for the torrent,
And a way for the thunderbolts,
26 To send rain on a land without people,
On the steppe where there is no man; 27 To satisfy the waste ground and desolate,
And to cause the blade of grass to spring up?
- 28 "Has the rain a father?
Or who brought forth the dew drops?
29 From whose womb did the ice come forth?
And who gave birth to the hoarfrost
of the skies,
30 When the waters congeal like a stone,
And the surface of the deep is frozen solid?
- 31 "Can you bind the chains of the Pleiades,
Or loosen the girdle of Orion?
32 Can you send forth Mazzaroth in its
season,
And lead forth the Bear with its satellites?
33 Do you know the laws of the heavens?
Or do you appoint the arrangements
of the earth?
34 Can you lift your voice up to the clouds,
That a flood of waters may cover you?
- 35 "Can you send forth the lightnings that they may go
And say to you, 'Here we are!'
36 Who put wisdom in the inner parts,
Or who gave insight to the mind?
37 Who counts the clouds by wisdom?
And who tilts the waterskins of the heavens,
38 When the dust runs into a mass,
And the clods stick together?
- 39 "Do you hunt prey for the lioness,
Or satisfy the hunger of young lions,

When they crouch in dens,
Or lie in wait in the thicket?
Who provides its prey for the raven,
When its young ones cry unto God,
And wander without food?

"Do you know the time when the mountain-goats bear young?
Do you watch the travail of the does?
Do you number the months that they fulfil,
And know the time that they bear,
When they kneel down, bring forth their young,
Deliver their offspring?
Their young are robust, they grow up in the open,
They go forth, and do not return to
them.

"Who sent forth the wild ass free?
And who loosened the bonds of the mustang,
Whose range I made the steppe,
And his dwellings the salt-marshes?
He laughs at the roar of the city;
The shouts of the driver he does not hear.
He explores the mountains, his pasture,
And searches after everything green.

"Is the wild-ox willing to serve you?
Or will he pass the night at your crib?
Can you bind the wild-ox to the furrow with cords,
Or will he harrow the valleys after
you?
Do you trust in him because his strength is great?
And do you leave your hard-won gains
to him?
Do you rely on him, that he will return your grain,
And gather it to the threshing-floor?

"Is the wing of the ostrich joyful,
Or has she a kindly pinion and feathers,
That she leaves her eggs on the ground,
And warms them on the dust,
And forgets that the foot may crush
them,
Or the beast of the field trample them?
She is hard on her young as though not her own;
For nothing is her labor; she has no anxiety.
For God has made her oblivious of
wisdom,

And has not given her a share in understanding.

8 When she flaps her wings aloft,
She laughs at the horse and his rider.

9 "Can you give strength to the horse?
Can you clothe his neck with power?
10 Do you make him leap like the locust,
With majesty and terrible snorting?
11 They paw in the valley and exult in strength,

Going forth to meet the battle.

12 He laughs at terror and is not frightened;

Nor does he turn back from the sword.

13 Against him rattles the quiver,
The flashing spear and the javelin.
In quivering excitement he devours the ground,

And does not stand firm when there is the sound of the trumpet.

As often as the trumpet sounds he says 'Aha';

And smells the battle from afar,
The thunder of the captains and the war-cry.

14 "Is it by your understanding that the hawk soars,
And spreads his wings toward the south?

Or does the vulture fly high at your command,

When he sets his nest aloft?

He occupies the cliff and makes a lodging

Upon the peak of the cliff and the rocky hold.

Thence he searches for food;

His eyes look afar off.

His brood gorge themselves with blood,

And wherever the slain are, there are they."

THE SECOND ADDRESS OF THE LORD,

40:1, 2

1 Then the LORD answered Job, saying:

2 "Will the fault-finder argue with the Almighty?

3 He who chides God, let him answer for it."

JOB'S SUBMISSION, 40:3-5

4 Then Job replied to the LORD, saying:

"Behold, I am insignificant; what can I answer thee? 4

I put my hand over my mouth.

I have spoken once, and I will not 5
reply;

Yes, twice; but not again."

THE CLOSING ADDRESS OF THE

LORD, 40:6-41:34

6 Then the LORD answered Job from the tempest, saying:

7 "Gird up your loins, now, like a man; I will ask you, and do you instruct me.

8 Will you, indeed, break down my right?

9 Will you make me guilty that you may be innocent?

10 Or have you an arm like God, And can you thunder with a voice like his?

11 Deck yourself, now, with majesty and eminence,

12 And clothe yourself with glory and splendor.

13 Scatter abroad the rage of your wrath; And look upon everyone that is proud and abase him.

14 Look upon everyone who is proud and bring him low;

15 And crush the wicked where they stand.

16 Bury them in the dust likewise; Bind up their faces in the hidden place.

17 Then I indeed will praise you,

18 That your own right hand can deliver you.

19 "Behold, now, the hippopotamus which I made along with you;

He eats grass like the ox.

20 Behold, now, his strength in his loins, And his might in the muscles of his body.

21 He stiffens his tail like a cedar; The sinews of his thighs are knit together.

22 His bones are tubes of bronze; His limbs are like bars of iron.

23 He is the chief of the ways of God; Let him who made him bring near his sword!

24 For the mountains bring him their produce,

25 And all the beasts of the field play there.

26 Beneath the lotus bushes he lies down, 27

In the depths of reed and swamp.
 22 The lotus bushes screen him as his shade;
 The willows of the brook surround him.
 23 If the river press upon him, he is not disturbed;
 He is confident when the Jordan swells to his mouth.
 24 Can one seize him by his eyes?
 Can one pierce his nose with traps?
 1 "Can you draw up the crocodile with a fish-hook,
 Or can you press down his tongue with a cord?
 2 Can you put a rush-line through his nose,
 Or pierce his jaw with a hook?
 3 Will he make many entreaties to you,
 Or will he speak soft words to you?
 4 Will he make a bargain with you,
 That you may take him as a servant for life?
 5 Can you play with him as with a bird,
 And bind him for your maidens?
 6 Will traders bargain over him?
 Will they divide him among merchants?
 7 Will you stick his hide full of darts,
 Or his head full of harpoons?
 8 Lay your hand upon him;
 Think of the struggle; you will not do it again!
 9 Behold his hope is disappointed.
 At the very sight of him he is laid prostrate.
 10 Is he not too fierce for one to stir him up?
 Who then is he that can stand before me?
 11 Who has ever come before me that I should repay him?
 Whatever is under the whole heavens is mine.
 12 I will not be silent about his limbs,
 And the account of his power and the grace of his structure.
 13 Who has stripped off his outer clothing?
 Who can come within his double coat-of-mail?
 14 Who has ever opened the doors of his face?
 Round about his teeth there is terror.
 15 His back is made of rows of shields,
 Closed up like a tight seal;
 16 One is so close to another
 That no air can come between them;

Each sticks to his fellow; 11
 They cling together and cannot be separated.
 His sneezing flashes forth light, 1
 And his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.
 From his mouth flames go forth, 1
 Sparks of fire escape.
 From his nostrils smoke comes forth, 2
 Like a pot on a blown fire and rushes.
 His breath kindles live coals, 2
 And flame goes out of his mouth.
 Strength dwells in his neck, 2
 And before him despair dances.
